So each degree (of the 360 total degrees of the outermost, all-encompassing celestial sphere) includes all that it comprises of the details of minutes, seconds, tertiary divisions, and so on, as Allah – the Exalted – wills to make manifest (of that detailed Knowledge) in His Creation till the day of the Rising.

[I.295.12]

After that, in the same passage, Ibn ‘Arabî shows that Allah appointed 12 ‘rulers’ (wulât, s. wâli), one in each of the 12 zodiac signs, which correspond to the 12 months in the conventional year. Also there are 28 ‘chamberlains’ (hujjâb, s. hâjib) in the orb of the constellations (i.e. the 28 houses of the Moon) which correspond to the 28 days in the (divine) month (see section 3.2). Finally, in the same passage he also says that Allah ordered those rulers to appoint seven ‘chiefs’ (nuqabâ’, s. naqîb) in the seven Heavens, one ‘chief’ in each celestial sphere – i.e. the seven orbs which correspond to the seven Days of the cosmic Week. Ibn ‘Arabî then adds that each one of those groups of spirits that are associated with the celestial spheres has a living human ‘deputy’ or ‘agent’ among us on Earth [I.296.27].

Ibn ‘Arabî even suggests a certain divine importance for the conventional division of the day into 24 hours, in the following passage discussing the different groups of the spiritual hierarchy of the ‘Friends of God’ (awliyâ’) in chapter 73 of the Futûhât [II.2.39]:

And among them (the awliyâ’), may Allah be pleased with them, (are a group of) 24 souls at any time, no more and no less. They are called the ‘Men of (Spiritual) Opening’ (rijâl al-fateh): through them Allah opens for the people of Allah whatever He opens of (divine) knowledge and secrets. And Allah made them according to the number of hours, one of them for each hour.

[II.13.7]

Regarding the hours of the day and the two parts of it (the daytime and the night), and their observable variations across the year and from one place to another, Ibn ‘Arabî says:

Then Allah caused the (observable, earthly) daytime (nahâr) and the night-time by the existence of the Sun – not the (true divine) Days (ayyâm). And as for what happens of (the observable) increase and decrease in the (length of the) daytime and night – not in the hours, for they are (always) 24 hours – that is because of the motion of the Sun in the zodiac region which is tilted with regard to us, so the day becomes longer where it is in the high houses, and when it comes to the low houses the day becomes shorter where it (i.e. the Sun) is. We said ‘where it is’, because when the night becomes longer for us the day becomes longer for others, so the Sun is in the high houses for them and in the low houses for us. So when the day becomes shorter for us, the night becomes longer for them as we said. But the day (al-yawm) itself is 24 hours: it does not increase or decrease, nor does it become longer nor shorter in the equinox place.

[I.140.33]

5 Unicity and multiplicity

*Examine the origin of existence, and think it through:
you will see the same (divine) Generosity, both eternal and created.
And the (created) thing is like the (eternal) thing, except that He made it appear in the actual reality of the worlds as created.
So if the viewer swears that his existence is eternal (in the Unity),
he is honest and truthful, not lying;
But if the viewer swears that its existence (emerges) after its non-existence, (that is) more appropriate – and then its [existence] is threefold.*

[I.5.31]

In order to understand these novel concepts of time that we have explained in previous chapters, we need to shed more light on Ibn ‘Arabī’s controversial understanding of the oneness of being (wahdat al-wujūd), because it is the key to understanding his various views of time. Although he had never employed this famous term directly, it is quite evident that this characteristic understanding of the oneness of being strongly dominates Ibn Arabī’s many writings: he explains almost everything on the basis of the concept of ultimate unicity and oneness. More specifically, the metaphysical structure of the world, how it comes into existence, how it is maintained and its ontological relation with the Creator can be explained only on the basis of the oneness of being.

In the light of the centuries of later polemics surrounding this conception, it must be stressed that Ibn ‘Arabī’s conception of the oneness of being is completely different from such views such as pantheism or monism. Ibn ‘Arabī never denies the basic distinction between the Creator and creations, and certainly never contradicts the basic tenent of monotheism. Likewise, he strictly affirms the Muhammadan revelation (sharī‘a) and accepts all the observed multiplicity on the usual planes of manifest existence. Instead, his focus in applying the oneness of being is on understanding the cosmos and how it works. It is these particular cosmological aspects that we shall be interested in throughout this chapter, so that we can explain Ibn ‘Arabī’s view of the creation in order to understand his unique concepts of time and eventually to situate all those conceptions within the comprehensive cosmological model outlined in Chapter 6 below.

5.1 The contrasting approaches of Sufism and philosophy

We want to start this chapter by quoting Ibn ‘Arabî’s famous story of his first encounter with the great Aristotelian philosopher Ibn Rushd (Averroes, already mentioned in section 1.7) when Ibn ‘Arabî was still relatively young, but already famous for his immense knowledge and unique views. According to that account, Ibn Rushd arranged with his friend – Ibn ‘Arabî’s father – to meet the young mystic in order to hear what he had to say about (his Aristotelian) philosophy. As Ibn ‘Arabî recounts this story in the Futûhât:

And I entered one day in Cordoba into (the house of) the judge Abû al-Walîd Ibn Rushd, as he wished to meet me after he had heard about what Allah opened up for me in my spiritual retreat, for he had been expressing his admiration of (or ‘amazement at’) what he had heard. Then my father – because he was one of (Averroes’) friends – sent me to him for something on purpose in order (for him) to meet me. I was still young; my face had not yet put forth a beard, and my moustache had not yet grown.¹

When I entered to see him he stood up for me out of love and respect, embraced me and said (exclaiming): ‘Yes’! I replied: ‘Yes’. So his joy was magnified because I understood him. Then I realized what made him feel happy, and I said: ‘For Allah’s sake, No!’ Then he turned sad, his colour changed and he doubted his philosophy.

Then he asked: ‘So how did you find it in unveiling (kashf) and divine effusion (faḡd ilâhî)? Is it the same as what thought had led us (philosophers) to?’ I replied: ‘Yes ... No, and between the “yes” and the “no”, spirits fly away from their (bodily) matter and necks from their bodies.’

So his (face) colour turned pale, he began to tremble and sat down reciting the hawqala [that is to say: lâ hawla wa lâ quwwata illâ bi Allah (‘there is no power and no strength but in Allah’)], and he knew what I alluded to (in responding) to him.

[I.153.33]

This mysterious exchange of these few words and gestures between these two pillars of Islamic thought, a Sufi and a philosopher, is an attempt to express in symbolic language what is very difficult to explain in more explicit language. Ibn ‘Arabî alludes here to an essential realization that is beyond normal human comprehension, something that is apparently against our everyday experience or otherwise very difficult to believe. Yet on the other hand, it is something that can be ultimately summarized in only two words: ‘Yes’ and ‘No’, or even ‘Yes’ alone, because ‘No’ is ‘not Yes’.² In fact, Ibn ‘Arabî’s ‘digital’ answer here: ‘Yes/No’ (or ‘1/0’, ‘True/False’, which ultimately amounts to existence/non-existence) is the best and shortest expression of the creation – summarizing the essence of the paradoxical metaphysical insights alluded to in the initial poem of the Futûhât translated at the beginning of this chapter.

The difficulty of expressing this universal Reality in simple words comes from the fact that we live in a diverse world of infinite multiplicity, while at the same time the truth or reality behind this world is literally too simple to be believed [Al-Masâ'il: 163]. The ultimate Real is Allah, and Allah is uniquely One, while the world is apparently many – so the metaphysical challenge is how to link the (imaginary) multiplicity of the world to the Real One, through some unseen intermediaries.

Philosophers and scientists in general try to understand the world through observations, while the methods of Ibn 'Arabî and other Sufis rely upon modes of perception that jump directly into the unseen in order to approach the Real directly. As Ibn 'Arabî often points out, observations are subject to many mistakes, owing to the inaccuracy of the tools employed, whether human senses or technical equipment, while true visions – as opposed to our sometimes problematic interpretations of them – are always correct [I.307.12, III.7.21].³ On the other hand, philosophers and scientists use logic and experiments to deduce their theories and explain their observations, while Sufis in general often describe their visions without paying too much attention to explaining them in a logical manner, especially when some of their visions, though real and true, may be outwardly or apparently illogical.⁴ As a result, certain Sufis like Ibn 'Arabî may attain a very high state of knowledge of reality more quickly and more accurately than philosophers (as Ibn 'Arabî certainly implies in his account of his meeting with Ibn Rushd), but they find it very difficult to explain their views to others who have not 'tasted' it their way. So when they try to explain their insights, not many people will understand what they say.

The problem with the current laws and theories of physics and cosmology is that so far, although they have proved to be quite accurate and powerful in application, they have admittedly failed to unveil the ultimate reality behind the world. All scientific theories are descriptive rather than determinative. We have seen in section 1.3 that the reason why science was not able to determine the reality of the world is that all cosmological models need a boundary condition: i.e. an exact description of what was the initial state when the world started, something which seems to be impossible to achieve by the intellect alone. That is why scientists work backwards: i.e. they try to find out the initial state of the cosmos by extrapolating in various ways from the current observations. As a result, all physics theories and known cosmological models, though they have achieved higher levels of understanding, have also brought new contradictions and paradoxes. They have succeeded in providing approximate possible creation scenarios, but failed to describe the reality itself. Although Ibn 'Arabî considers the intellect unbounded or unlimited as a receptive tool, it is quite limited as a ratiocinative thinking tool because it relies on limited senses [I.288.27]. Therefore, the intellect alone – as a thinking tool – cannot describe the origin of the world because it is necessarily a part of it. Ibn 'Arabî affirmed this when he said that the limit of the observations of the philosophers (or astronomers) is up to the Isotropic Orb which is the first (outermost, and first created) material orb [II.677.1]; they can not see or detect anything beyond that. That is why the Sufis rely on the 'heart' (the locus of spiritual 'tasting' and inspiration, in the language of the Qur'an) rather than the discursive intellect.

On the other hand, Sufis have sometimes claimed to have achieved a high state of realization and even to have visualized the metaphysical structure and origin of the world (i.e. what physicists call the initial/boundary condition). Most of them, however, did not give proper attention to explaining the observable universe and relating it to that initial cosmological state. Even Ibn 'Arabî himself did not care too much about that: instead he declared that his aims were not to explain the world, but rather to acquire more knowledge of the world as a structure created according to the Image of Allah, so that he might acquire more knowledge of Allah Himself. All the same, however, throughout the Futûhât and other shorter books Ibn 'Arabî often gives a great many cosmological explanations and sometimes logical analyses of his metaphysical visions. This is why it is very important to study Ibn 'Arabî's writings, since they may provide a real link between philosophy and science, on the one hand, and mysticism and theology.

5.2 Unicity versus multiplicity

Ibn 'Arabî cited the story of his meeting with Ibn Rushd in the context of explaining the words of the central spiritual Pole Idrîs (mudâwî al-kulûm) who – as Ibn 'Arabî said – knows very well about the natural world and the effects of the higher world on it. Thus this Pole explained that 'the world exists between the circumference and the point' [I.154.22]. The 'point' here refers to the Real (the 'Necessary Being') whose existence is self-existence, while the 'circumference' is the circle of creations (the 'possible' or contingent entities) whose existence depends on the Real. Beyond this circumference is the 'sea' of non-existence (the impossible of existence). This relationship is illustrated in Figure 5.1.

With regard to this image, Ibn 'Arabî explained in chapter 47 of the Futûhât [I.260.1] that the (divine creative Source-) point in the centre of a circle meets any point in its circumference with its whole entity, without division or multiplicity. Similarly, multiplicity (i.e. all of creation) appears or emerges out of the Unicity of the Real; the manyness of the world appears out of the One Creator, without affecting His unique Oneness or Unicity. Ibn 'Arabî was well aware that this paradoxical relation between the Creator and all manifestation is in clear apparent contradiction with the widely accepted philosophical maxim – a central assumption in the prevailing contemporary philosophical cosmology of Ibn Sina and his followers – that 'from the One only one may emerge (or proceed)' (la yasdur 'an al-wâhid illâ wâhid).⁵

Given the assumption of this maxim, an obvious problem encountered by philosophers and theologians when they want to explain how Allah created the world is that Allah is One while the world is many. So logically it is not possible to imagine a relation between the One and the many without affecting the unique Oneness (ahadiyya) of the One.

Figure 5.1 The Real, the 'Possible' exists, and the 'Impossible'

Note

This figure is taken from chapter 360 of the Futūhāt [III.275].

However, Ibn 'Arabî's analogy between the pure mathematical symbol of the circle and its centre and the cosmological process of creation by the One Creator is not fully justifiable without further explanations. Among other problems, mathematics and geometry work with infinitely small (or dimensionless) points, while our contemporary science of physics and cosmology deals with corporeal worlds that have dimensions. But we shall see below that Ibn 'Arabî's unique understanding of time provides here the essential link between physics and mathematics, or between reality and imagination, in the same way as it does provide the necessary link between unicity and multiplicity.

Ibn 'Arabî quotes the above-mentioned emanationist philosophical maxim quite often [I.42.14, I.260.5, II.31.14]. Although he disagrees with this general proposition [I.260.5, I.715.12, II.434.20, and see also Al-Durratū Al-Baydā': 140], he sometimes explains further that this notion can be held true for physical beings but not for Allah Himself, because Allah, the unique One, can obviously create multiple creations as we can clearly see:

So without their dependence (for actual existence) on the existing-entity ('ayn') of the servant, there would be no rulership for those two Names ('the First' and 'the Last'). Because there (in eternity), the (divine) Essential-entity (al-'ayn) is (uniquely) One, not united (from different parts: mutta-hida). But in the servant, (the existing-entity) is united (of different parts) and not (uniquely) one, because Oneness (al-ahadiyya) is for Allah (alone), and unification (ittiḥād, the unification of the servant's parts, senses, faculties etc., and not the unification of the servant with his Lord because this is not possible in Ibn ‘Arabi’s doctrine) – and not the (divine) Oneness – is for the servant. This is because the servant can only be understood in relation to another (Who is his ‘Lord’ or his Creator), and not by himself: so he has no trace of (the absolute divine) Oneness at all. But as for the Real, Oneness may be understood (as applying) to Him (taken by Himself), or it may be understood (as applying to Him) with relation (to others), since everything belongs to Him, and indeed He is actually the Essence of everything. (This unique divine Oneness refers) not to the wholeness uniting a collection (of different entities: kullīyyat jam’), but rather to the (unique) Reality of Unicity (ḥaqīqat ahadiyya) on which (all) multiplicity depends – and this (unique Oneness) can only apply specifically to the (divine) Real.

So according to the determination of the (human) intellect, only one thing can ever emerge from the One. But the Unicity of the Real does not fall under that rule. How could He, Who created that rule, fall under it?! And the (true) Ruler – there is no god but Him, the Almighty, the All-Wise (3:6, 3:18).

[II.31.11]

So now we can see how multiplicity may come out of the Oneness of the Real. Yet we need to explain how this multiplicity of the creation appears from the One Creator. We need to explain how the pure geometrical analogy of the circle and its centre could be applied to the creation of the worlds by Allah.

Ibn ‘Arabi solves this riddle in part by inserting ‘time’, a true understanding of time. Hence he says:

and He (the Real) has a special face (wajh khâss) towards everything that exists, because He is the cause of everything. Now every (single) thing is one, it cannot be two; and He is One. So from Him there appeared only one, because He is in the oneness (ahadiyya) of every one (existing thing).

So if multiplicity exists, it would (only) be with regard to the oneness of time that is the container (of that apparent multiplicity). For the existence of the Real in this multiplicity is in the oneness of every one (existent). So there appeared from Him only one. Therefore this is the real meaning of ‘from the One only one may emerge’: even if the entirety of the world appeared from Him, there would only appear from Him one (created reality), because He is ‘with’⁶ every one (of the creatures) with respect to its oneness.

Now this is something that can be perceived only by the (truly enlightened) ‘people of Allah’,⁷ whereas the philosophers mean this [i.e. that from one (cause) only one (effect) can emerge] in an entirely different sense, and this is something about which they were mistaken.

[II.434.18]

Because of the rarity of the underlying spiritual perception of this reality restricted, as Ibn ‘Arabi stresses, to the fully enlightened ‘people of Allah’, this passage just quoted above is not readily understood. Perhaps it is because of its great importance and central role in Ibn 'Arabî's cosmology that the famous 'Abd-al-Qâdir al-Jazâ'irî,⁸ the editor of the original Bulaq edition of the Futûhât that is the basis for all modern versions, added a rare long footnote comment at this point in the Futûhât [II.434–435] to explain it in terms of the oneness of being. Because his comments here are very helpful in this regard, we shall analyse them at length in what follows.

Here he explains that this passage refers to two related issues: 'the one-ness of every being' (wahdat kull mawjûd) and 'the unicity of Being (ahadiyyat al-wujûd)'. He begins by pointing out that everyone and every thing has a unique 'face' or individual reality that makes it distinctive; thus there are no two persons or entities with the same reality, since otherwise they would be one (the same), and not two. So this means that there appears from the One Creator only one (reality) because this unique 'special face' is never repeated (see also section 2.8).

This explanation, however, is not entirely satisfactory (for our purposes, at least), because the negation of repetition does not imply the negation of multiplicity, which is clearly witnessed in the world.

'Abd al-Qâdir then goes on to explain that we can reconcile the apparent multiplicity with the actual oneness of creation by correcting our view of time and space. He says that our imagination pictures time as a container which contains the things in the existence (as Newton later imagined time, but the theory of Relativity superseded his view, as we mentioned in section 1.3) so we see things arranged in time (and space), and then we imagine multiplicity. But if we imagine ourselves 'out of time', and look at the whole existence in time and space, we shall see a single existence without a beginning and without an end, and without any relation to a self-subsistent distinct time and space as we usually imagine them. For example, every person is one despite having arms and legs and many visible and invisible parts.

But again this explanation is not entirely satisfactory, since it shows the unity of all being (wâhidiyya), but not its unique metaphysical 'unicity' (ahadiyya). It shows that the whole of existence is 'one' when we look at it as a single whole, or from outside space and time. But still, since we actually perceive (or imagine) ourselves as existing inside this space-time whole as partial entities, we also see many other entities – or in other words, manifest multiplicity. So we still need to explain how this multiplicity appears from the unique Oneness of the Real.

'Abd al-Qâdir then goes on to explain that if the philosophers meant by saying 'from the one there only emerges one' that Allah created only the First Intellect (which is the way this maxim was understood by Ibn Sina and most Islamic philosophers), then this Intellect (alone) gave rise to the world. In one sense this may be true for Ibn 'Arabî, but he adds – as we have just seen at the beginning of this section – that Allah has a unique Face specifically turned to every single entity in the world, through Which its existence is preserved [II.434.18]. But in that case the philosophers are contradicting – or at least failing to illustrate the relevance of – their own proposition (Ibn 'Arabî also discussed these views in al-Durrat Al-Baydâ: 142–143), because again the world is many and the First Intellect is one; so we still need then to explain how this multiplicity of the world appeared out of the First Intellect.

In Ibn 'Arabî's view, however, every individual entity in the world always has a direct creative relation with Allah, and that is how its existence exists and is maintained. If Allah did not maintain this creative 'special face' between Himself and each entity, it would cease to exist instantly (Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ': 133). In order to solve the problem of unicity–multiplicity relation, Ibn 'Arabî actually asserts that this interface between the One and all the many existent things does not happen all at once. Rather, at any instant, as we have just seen, there is in reality a single relation or interface – a unique divine 'with-ness', as he calls it (following the Qur'an) – between the One and each 'one' of the entities of the world. But what happens at this particular instant with the other entities in the world, since their existence is also preserved only through this unique creative relation between them and their Creator, the unique One? The answer is: they do cease to exist, and then they are (immediately) re-created again and again [II.385.4]. We shall discuss this central metaphysical principle of the 'ever-renewed creation' in section 5.6.

Therefore, in order to understand the relation between the unique Oneness of the Real and the multiplicity of the creatures, Ibn 'Arabî adds time to the previous philosophical statement, which can be then reformulated as: 'from the One there can emerge only one at a time'. This re-statement is indeed the key to understanding Ibn 'Arabî's unique views of time and the oneness of being and to solving the mystery of the relation between the Real and His creation. In this way the world is created by Allah 'in series' (Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ': 139), and not just one single time, just as the repeated images of a movie are displayed on the television or computer screen.

Ibn 'Arabî, moreover, affirms that this particular mode of creation was chosen by Allah to be like that, although in fact He might have done it in any other way, so it is not an (external) restriction over Him:

So this is not necessarily implied by the Existence of the Real: i.e. that for example only one can emerge out from Him, and that this is impossible (otherwise). But He willed that and He wished it, and if He had wished that the world should exist all at once, and that nothing were dependent on anything (else), it would not be difficult for Allah [to make it like that, and in this case – if Allah had wished that the world should exist all at once – then we would be living in a different logic, but because Allah created it in this way as it is now (ruled by the laws of causality: see also section 7.7), we observe that from the one nothing might emerge except one at a time, since otherwise this would violate the oneness of the Real according to our current logic].

(Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ': 139)

The meaning of this principle is in fact derived directly from the well-known verse in the Qur'an that we have already discussed in many earlier contexts:

each Day He is upon some (one, single) task (55:29). Ibn 'Arabî quotes this verse most frequently in his discussion on time, and it is the basis of his unique 'quantization' of time. So since Allah is One, He does only one single creative task each 'Day' – of course not this normal observable day that we encounter, in which an almost infinite number of tasks or events are happening.

5.3 The unicity of God and His names

According to Ibn 'Arabî and to Islam, and also some other religions, Allah is both One (Wâhid) and 'Unique' (al-Ahad, 'the Unit').⁹ The first attribute means that He is one God (not many) and the second attribute means that He is not divisible into other entities. Moreover, as is indicated by the more metaphysically problematic second attribute of 'Unicity' (ahadiyya), we can not describe Him as a single entity (like other entities) with specific dimensions that are placed somewhere in space or began at a point of time. Allah is simply uniquely different from whatever we may know or imagine. We can not achieve full knowledge or awareness of the Essence (Dhât) of Allah because this is beyond our perception. It is, however, possible to describe Him and speak about His Attributes and divine Names, for example as they are mentioned in the Qur'an and the Sunna. We may attain knowledge about the divine Names and descriptions of Allah, but not about His Essence (Dhât) Himself. As Chittick has pointed out, for Ibn 'Arabî: 'God is known through the relations, attributions and correlations between Him and the cosmos. But the Essence is unknown, since nothing is related to It' (SDK: 62). Whatever the human being may know about Allah is therefore in the end partial and incomplete. No one can ever achieve full knowledge or awareness of Him; the maximum knowledge one might achieve of the Essence of Allah is to know that He is different from anything [IV.301.17]. Ibn 'Arabî expressed this nicely in his prayers: 'it is enough for me that You know my ignorance. You are as I know, and beyond what I know to a degree that I do not know' (Beneito and Hirtenstein 2000: 131–132)¹⁰ This is because we may know Him only through His manifestations in us and in the world, but His manifestations are never exactly repeated.

Human Being, however, is the creature most capable of knowing Allah, the Exalted, because when He created Adam (the Perfect Human Being), He taught him all the Names (2:31)¹¹ and ordered the angels to prostrate before Adam out of respect and acknowledgement (2:34, 7:11, 17:61, 18:50, 20:116, II.46.33). But knowing Allah is an infinite process for us, because Allah Himself is not finite, in the sense that He never manifests in the same form twice [I.266.10], and also because His manifestations reveal some of his attributes and descriptions, but do not fully reveal His ultimate Essence or Identity. Ibn 'Arabî summarizes this by saying, in one of his many elaborations of the famous Divine Saying of the 'Hidden Treasure', that:

Allah, the Exalted, 'loved to be known' in order to grant the world the privilege of knowing Him, the most Exalted. But He knew that His Identity

(Essence) can not be (completely) known and nobody can ever know Him as He knows Himself. The best knowledge that can be achieved about Him, His Highness, in the world is that the knowers know that they do not know. And this (human inability to know the Essence) is (also) called knowledge, as the Righteous (Abû Bakr al-Siddîq) said: 'The incapacity to attain realization is a realization.'¹²

[III.429.7]

As Ibn 'Arabî notes elsewhere, the Prophet Muhammad has also clearly expressed this same recognition by saying: 'I can not enumerate the ways of praising Thee: Thou art as Thou has praised Thyself' [Kanz: 2131, 3652, I.126.15, I.271.5, etc.], and Allah also said: 'but they do not encompass Him with knowledge' (20:110).

Of course the Prophet Muhammad also said: 'Allah has 99 Names, one hundred less one: whoever enumerates them is going to enter the Garden' [Kanz: 1933, 1934 and 1938]. However, this does not restrict the divine Names to 99, as some Muslims misunderstand it. In fact Ibn 'Arabî says that the divine Names of Allah are countless and that everything in the cosmos is a divine Name. But the 99 enumerated Names are the principal Names [IV.288.2] that have been mentioned in Qur'an and Sunna. Moreover, although each Name of the divine Names is different from others, Ibn 'Arabî repeatedly cautions his readers that all that Names are intrinsically implicit in each one of them, which is to say that each Name can be described by all the other Names [I.101.5]. However, despite the multiplicity of these Names, they all refer to the same One Absolute Essence of Allah, while conveying different Attributes of Him due to His manifestations and relations [I.48.23]. Multiplicity is not an intrinsic property of Allah Himself, since Allah has many different Names only when considered with relation to His creations:

The Names of the Real do not become plural and multiple except in manifestation. But with respect to Him, the property of number does not rule over them, not even its (the number's) root, which is (the number) one. So His Names, in respect to Him, may not be (exclusively or restrictively) described by unity or multiplicity.

[II.122.19, see also Al-Masâ'il: 109]

So in fact even the Names 'the One', 'the Unique' and the like are not descriptions of Allah with respect to Himself, but with respect to his creation. If we suppose that there is no creation, there would be no need to describe Him by the One or any other Name. Ibn 'Arabî frequently points out that this is just like the fact that the meaning of the number one is only introduced with regard to its relation to the other numbers.

So Allah may be known only through His divine Names. And because these Names are countless, our knowledge of Allah may never be complete. It is these knowable divine Names that are actively engaged and manifested in the creation.

That is why we see multiplicity and diversity in the cosmos.¹³ In fact Ibn ‘Arabî maintains that everything in the world is in essence a divine Name, simply because everything is a cause that we need, and Allah says: ‘you are in need of Allah’ (35:15) (III.208.7; see also section 7.7). Also He said that ‘He is the First and the Last and the Manifest and the Hidden’ (57:3). He manifests in all things, so the things are not other than Him; but also the things are not (identical with) Him, as we shall explain shortly.

However, we should take all these descriptions and names as mere approximations, because they are words spoken in our own language: the names (words) that we know are actually the names of the Names, and not the Names themselves [II.56.33]. Although we may know about Allah by knowing His Attributes and Names, those outward verbal Names are words in our language so that we may, for example, look up their meanings in the dictionary, or even use them to name and describe people and things. So although those same familiar words are Names of Allah, their actual meanings are quite distinct when Allah is called by them. For this reason Allah is named as al-fard (‘the Singular’), because He is distinct (or ‘singled-out’: mutafarrid) from the creation [IV.276.33]. Also, all His Names are described by their ‘singular uniqueness’ (al-tafarrud). As Chittick has pointed out, those words that are revealed to us (through the Qur’an and Sunna) are the outward forms (sûra), while Allah’s own knowledge of Himself is the reality or inner meaning (ma’nâ) (SDK: 34). Similarly the Names that are revealed to us in everything in the cosmos are the outward forms, while the inner meaning of those forms is Allah’s own knowledge of Himself. Ibn ‘Arabî showed that:

Allah says: ‘Call upon Allah or call upon the All-Merciful: whoever you call upon, to Him belong the most beautiful Names’ (17:110). So here He made the most beautiful Names belong to Allah as they (also) belong to the All-Merciful.

But here there is a subtle point: since every Name has a meaning (ma’nâ) and a form (sûra), ‘Allah’ is called by the Name’s meaning, while the ‘All-Merciful’ is called by the Name’s form. This is because the (divine) Breath is ascribed to the All-Merciful,¹⁴ and through this (creative) Breath the divine words become manifest within the levels of the Void (khalâ) where the cosmos becomes manifest. So we call Him only by the form of the Names (and only He Himself knows the real meaning of these names).

[II.396.30]

Therefore whatever knowledge we may acquire about Allah actually belongs to His Name ‘the All-Merciful’, and the difference between the two Names is like the difference between the form and the meaning. According to Ibn ‘Arabî, this relation is a direct implication of the verse in Qur’an: ‘the All-Merciful mounted on the Throne’ (20:5). In the first chapter of Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya (p. 89), which talks about the Universal Spirit (al-Rûh al-Kullî) – which is the ‘Greatest Element/Single Monad’, as we shall see in sections 6.2–6 – Ibn ‘Arabî makes a comparison between the Names Allah and the All-Merciful. Under a section called: ‘a secret for the special (people of Allah)’, Ibn ‘Arabî says that the difference between those two Names is like the difference between this Universal Spirit on which Allah mounted (or established His authority) and the Throne on which the All-Merciful mounted (or established His authority). We shall see in section 6.6 that the same comparison can be made between the Single Monad and the Greatest Element. Just as the divine Throne encompasses all the cosmos, everything in the cosmos is related to the Name ‘the All-Merciful’ [II.467.21].

5.4 The metaphysical triplicity (‘trinity’) of the cosmos

According to Ibn ‘Arabî, as we have already mentioned in section 3.6, the divine Names can be grouped into three categories: the Names of Essence (asmâ’ al-dhât), Names of Descriptions or Attributes (asmâ’ al-sifât) and Names of Actions (asmâ’ al-af’âl) [I.423.20, I.67.28, see also Inshâ’ al-Dawâ’ir: 22]. Therefore the Universal Intellect or Adamic ‘Perfect Human Being’, who is created ‘according to the Image of the All-Merciful’ [Kanz: 1146, 1148, 1149], came out with three faces because he is based on these three unique divine dimensions [I.446.19, II.434.16], although he is in essence one indivisible entity.

That is why Ibn ‘Arabî asserts that (everything in) the cosmos is built on a kind of metaphysical triplicity [III.126.21], and he later explains this further by saying:

So the body is (composed of at least) eight points, just as the knowable (aspects) of the Real are the Essence and the seven Attributes: They are not Him, and They are not other than Him. (Likewise) the body is not other than the points, and the points are not other than the body. Now we only said that eight points are the minimum (required to compose) bodies because the name ‘line’ is for two points or more. And the origin of the plane is from two lines or more, so the plane is from (at least) four points. And the origin of the body is from two planes or more, so the body is from eight points.

Therefore the name (attribute) of ‘length’ is applicable to the body from the line (included in it); the name ‘width’ is applicable to it from the plane; and the name ‘depth’ is applicable to it from the combination of two planes. Thus the body is built on a triplicity (of dimensions: tathlith), just as the formation of proofs (in syllogistic logic) is based on a threefold structure, and just as the Source of existence – that is, the Real – only becomes manifest through the bestowing of existence through three realities: His Entity, His willing intention (tawajjuh) and His Speaking (the Command ‘Be’). Thus the world became manifest ‘according to the Form’ of the One Who gives it existence, both in sensation (i.e. the visible world) and in (its spiritual dimensions of) meaning.

[III.276.1]

For this reason – i.e. the threefold structures underlying all generative processes – Ibn ‘Arabî emphasizes that we need two elements (subject and object) in order to produce a result (act) [I.278.14], because ‘from the one alone nothing may be produced’ [III.126.1].

In fact the metaphysical triplicity of subject, object and resulting act is fundamental throughout Ibn ‘Arabî’s cosmology. Thus he summarizes the process of creation by saying that the Universal Intellect (subject or symbolic ‘father’) is writing down in the Universal Soul (the object or ‘mother’) all that Allah wants to create till the Last Day (i.e. the result or ‘son’) [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 7–8] (see section 4.3). Indeed Ibn ‘Arabî even wrote a separate treatise dedicated to explaining certain threefold structures of expression and meaning in the Qur’an.¹⁵ It is noteworthy in this regard that the metaphysical concept of triplicity is also fundamental in many other ancient religions and philosophies, including the Babylonian, Persian, Egyptian, Roman, Japanese and Indian.¹⁶

For this reason, Ibn ‘Arabî regards the number three as the first ‘single’ (or odd: fardî) number, because he consistently considers that one is not a number (since the Arabic word for ‘number’, ‘adad, implies multiplicity), while two is the first number. But since the number two is even, nothing may be formed without a third, intermediate principle to link or interface between the one and the two:

So no contingent entity (mumkin) has come to exist through one (alone), but only through a plurality (or ‘conjunction’ of elements: jam’), and the least of plurals is three.¹⁷ So since the (divine) Name ‘the Singular’ (al-fard) is threefold in its effects, He gives to the contingent entity that He brings into existence those three things (i.e. Essence, Will and the creative Command) that He must unavoidably consider, and (only then) He brings (the contingent thing) into existence.

... Therefore this (metaphysical principle of) triplicity runs inwardly through the totality of all things, because it exists in the (divine creative) Source.

[III.126.5]

Now the Universal Intellect is the intermediary reality (also called barzakh or ‘connector’) between Allah and the world, and therefore It has two interfaces: It faces Allah from the side of His unity, and It faces the world from the side of His threefold creative dimensions. When It faces Allah (in order to perceive knowledge), It turns away from us (the world), and this is our ‘night’; and when It faces the world, this is our ‘daytime’ or manifest existence. The Perfect Human Being or First Intellect is – according to the famous hadith already discussed above – the ‘Image’ or ‘Form’ of the Real, and likewise the world is the subsequent image of this Perfect Human Being. Hence the manifest world, like the Perfect Human Being, is ‘according to the Image’ of the Real Himself – although without the Perfect Human Being it could not participate in this perfection (see section 3.1). So if we consider the manifest images of the world, we can potentially discover the face of the Perfect Human Being reflected in it, and if we come to know the Perfect Human Being, then we also come to know Allah.

So this is the fundamental ontological triplicity of 'Allah-Human Being-world' or 'Allah-Intellect-world' [I.125–126].

According to Ibn 'Arabî, this fundamental triplicity of Allah-Human Being-world is manifested again within each human being as in our threefold nature as spirit-heart-body. The spirit is the single immaterial and mysterious divine reality that is the principle underlying life and creation, while the body is the place where this creation occurs in many different ways, so it is composed of many different material parts (multiplicity). And the heart is the link between the body and the spirit through which the spirit exerts its effects on the multiplicity of the body. On the other hand, the sensations collected by the body are eventually raised up to the spirit as spiritual (immaterial) meanings and realities.

Another favourite symbolic triplicity for Ibn 'Arabî, deeply rooted in the symbolism of the Qur'an and certain key hadith, is the astronomical triplicity of the Sun–Moon–Earth.¹⁸ The Earth gains its life from the Sun, and when the Sun does not face the Earth from a specific direction, the Moon takes part and reflects the light of the Sun with a degree that is small or large according to its relative place in space. In fact, if one wants to look at the Sun, one is instead obliged to look at the Moon when it is full, because the Sun can not be seen unveiled at all, since it will burn up everything that its direct light falls on. This symbolism is directly connected, for Ibn 'Arabî, with the famous 'hadith of the veils', according to which Allah has 70,000 veils of light and darkness, such that if He removed those veils His light would burn everyone who tried to see Him directly [Kanz: 29846, 39210].

Indeed the trinity of Sun–Moon–Earth particularly well illustrates Ibn 'Arabî's view of the creation and its relation to the Creator. Although the creation by Allah is done 'through' the Universal Intellect, Ibn 'Arabî also emphasizes that Allah also has a direct, 'individual face' turned toward every single entity in the world. Similarly the Sun does not only give its light indirectly through the Moon, but also much more directly to the Earth, so everything on Earth is connected with the Sun in the course of the day with different degrees and at different times.

5.5 The oneness of being

The 'oneness of being' (wahdata al-wujûd) is one of Ibn 'Arabî's most controversial doctrines which many later Muslim scholars attributed to him, usually with very different (and often more polemic than philosophical) meanings and interpretations. Although Ibn 'Arabî himself never mentioned the precise term 'wahdata al-wujûd' in his writings,¹⁹ it is quite evident that Ibn 'Arabî's books are full of statements that develop notions related to the oneness of being in one way or another, in many places quite explicitly and rigorously. This is especially the case in his most controversial book, Fusûs al-Hikam, for which he was widely criticized, but related discussions are also to be found throughout the Futûhât and his other shorter works. Indeed the possible misunderstandings of this conception clearly underpin Ibn 'Arabî's distinctive multi-layered, intentionally 'scattered' rhetoric and writing style throughout the Futûhât and other works, as he explained quite clearly in the key Introduction to the Futûhât itself.

The basic ontological issue for Ibn 'Arabî is very clear and simple: in many places throughout his writings, such as the long chapter 198 of the Futûhât [II.390–478] he follows the established Avicennan distinction, familiar to all students of Islamic theology and philosophy by his time, in dividing all conceivable things, in terms of existence, into three basic categories (see also section 2.3). There he says:

Know that the matter (of the nature of the reality) is the Real (al-haqq) and the creation (al-khalq): that is the absolute Existence that has always been and always is (existing); and absolute (contingent) possibility (imkân) that has always been and always is (possible to exist); and absolute non-existence that has always been and always is (non-existing). Now the absolute Existence does not accept non-existence, (and that applies) eternally and perpetually. The absolute non-existence does not accept existence, (and likewise that applies) eternally and perpetually. But the absolutely possible does accept existence through an (ontologically determining) cause, and it also accepts non-existence through a cause – and (that contingent ontological status also applies) eternally and perpetually.

So the absolute Existence is Allah, nothing other than Him. The absolute non-existence is the impossible-to-exist, nothing other than it. And the absolutely possible (of existence) is the world, nothing other than it: its (ontological) level is between the absolute Existence and absolute non-existence. So in so far as some of it faces non-existence, it accepts non-existence; and in so far as some of it faces Existence, it accepts existence. So some of it is darkness, and that is the Nature. And some of it is light, and that is the 'Breath of the All-Merciful' [that is the 'real-through-whom-creation-takes-place' (al-haqq al-makhlûq bihi), see sections 6.3 and 6.5] which bestows existence upon this possible (realm of created beings).²⁰

[II.426.26]

After that Ibn 'Arabî explains the different types of Creation according to this creative Spirit – or the divine Name 'Light', which he often uses as synonymous with the divine creative and existentiating power – is attached to the 'dark', contingent form of the creatures. Then he goes on to give the crucial analysis which clearly explains his profound view of the oneness of being in the most explicit and direct way, based on evident verses in the Qur'an. He says:

So the possible (contingent) existence became manifest between light and darkness, nature and spirit, the unseen and the visible, and the 'veiled' and unveiled. Therefore that which is close to (waliya) absolute Existence, from among all that (contingent realm) we have mentioned is light and spirit, and all of what we have mentioned which is close to absolute non-existence is

'shadow' and body – and from the totality (of those different kinds of contingent existent) form (sûra: of the whole of creation) comes to be. So when you consider the world from the side of the Breath of the All-Merciful, you say: 'It is nothing but Allah'. But when you consider the world with regard to its being equally balanced and well-proportioned (i.e. between existence and non-existence), then you say these are creations (makhluqât). So [in the famous Qur'anic expression of this fundamental ontological reality, addressed to the Prophet]: 'you (Muhammad) did not throw', inasmuch as you are a creation [so that it is God who was really acting], 'when you did throw', inasmuch as you are real (haqq^{am}), 'but Allah threw' (8:17), because He is the Real (al-Haqq).

For it is through the (divine creative) Breath that the whole world is 'breathing' (animated with life), and the Breath made it appear. So (this creative divine Breath) is inner dimension (bâtin) for the Real, and the manifest dimension (zâhir) for creation: thus the inner dimension of the Real is the manifest dimension for creation, and the inner dimension of creation is the manifest aspect of the Real – and through their combination the generated existence (al-kawn) is actualized, since without that combination it would (only) be said to be Real and creation. Thus the Real is for the absolute Existence, and creation is for the absolutely possible. So what becomes non-existent of the world and its form that disappears is through what is close to the side of non-existence; and what remains of it and does not allow for non-existence is through what is close to the side of Existence. Hence these two things (Existence and non-existence) are continually ruling over the world, so the creation is always new with every Breath, both in this world and in the hereafter.

Therefore the Breath of the All-Merciful is continually directed (toward the Act of creation), and Nature is continually taking on existence as the forms for this Breath, so that the divine Command does not become inactive, because inactivity is not appropriate (for It). So constantly forms are newly appearing and becoming manifest, according to their states of readiness to accept the (divine creative) Breath. And this is the clearest possible (description) of the (divine) origination (ibdâ') of the world. And Allah says the truth and He shows the way (33:4).

[II.427.17]

To summarize, therefore, this expression implies that the world can be conceived symbolically as a mixture of light and 'darkness'. For Ibn 'Arabî, this darkness is quite literally nothing: it is simply the absence of light.²¹ Light, on the other hand, is ultimately the Real (via the divine Name 'The Light', al-nûr), and the Real is One. So all existence is in essence one. Multiplicity appears through creation as a result of mixing the oneness of light with the darkness of non-existence. In other words, we can say – since darkness is nothing – that the creation is the constantly repeating relative appearance (manifestation) of the Real. The Real manifests most perfectly in the Perfect Human Being, and relatively in other creatures, and these manifestations happen through the Universal Intellect. So in real existence there is only the Real Who is Allah and this Universal Intellect who is the Messenger of Allah. So there is in fact no ontologically self-subsistent 'evil', since the creation is all good – an aspect of this cosmological conception which, taken out of context, could easily give rise to obvious religious and ethical objections. Hence what we perceive as evil is in reality the absence of good, just as darkness is the absence of light.²²

Thus this is the basic principle, but in order to understand it we need to explain how the mixing between light and darkness is done, which is again to say: 'how is the world created?' – which raises the question of time yet again. Ibn 'Arabî's understanding of this process of creation or cosmogony will be developed further below and in sections 9.7–8.

Given the possible confusions and misunderstandings surrounding this understanding of creation, it is clear why Ibn 'Arabî never declared these ideas in overly simplistic terms in his books, but rather scattered them throughout his writings – as he explains quite explicitly at the very beginning of his Futûhât [I.38.25] – so that the common people would not misunderstand them (as indeed happened in later times) and so that only those properly 'prepared' would be able to discover their profound intended meanings.

Moreover, we have to admit that Ibn 'Arabî takes it a courageous step further: although the Universal Intellect, and hence the entire manifest world, is created by Allah, Ibn 'Arabî emphasizes that it also is not 'other than Allah' (SDK: 113), because ultimately only Allah has real absolute and necessary (independent) existence [I.194.8], and the world exists by and through Him not by itself. As Chittick has summarized this perspective (SDK: 81), if Ibn 'Arabî was asked the question: 'Are the things the same as God?', his answer would be: 'Yes and No'. That is to say, they are, in his own words, 'He/not He' (Huwa lâ huwa);²³ or equally, one could say: 'they are not Him, and they are not other than Him' (Lâ hiya huwa wa lâ hiya ghayruh).²⁴ For if we say 'Yes' (alone), then this would require us confining Allah, the most Exalted, in objects, which is an obvious misconception. And if we say 'No' (alone), then this would require the assertion of other separate and self-subsistent) existents, and this – for Ibn 'Arabî – is also wrong. So the ultimate truth requires combining both ontological views and saying that the things are in essence 'not other than Allah' – although in the forms that we see, they also are not (identical with) Allah. These forms do not have real independent existence, since otherwise Allah would not be 'the One (alone)' (al-wâhid) – but He is the One (alone), and the created things exist by and through Him, not by themselves. For Ibn 'Arabî, this is in fact 'the secret of sincerity' (sirr al-ikhhlâs), which is also 'the secret of destiny' (sirr al-qadar) that makes clear the fundamental distinction between the Creator and the creation, the Eternal and the created – and this secret, he explains, has been hidden from most people [III.182.11].

Chittick goes on to show that, for Ibn 'Arabî, everything in the world is a divine name of Allah (SDK: 94); or rather, the things are the manifestations of the Names. From the general Qur'anic verse O people, you are truly in need of Allah (35:15), Ibn ‘Arabî easily concludes that everything (that is a cause, and everything is a cause) is a divine Name, because we are in need of these causes, so they may not be other than Him [I.288.16]. Again we can not say that these secondary and intermediate causes (asbâb) are Him – though in their most ultimate essence and Source they are all one, and this one is not other than Him. But of course someone simply hearing such an expression will initially think that they mean that the particular shape or body of the created objects that are the causes: that is why we can not simply stop at saying (as many later Sufi poets sometimes did) that ‘all things are Allah’. Ibn ‘Arabî explained these key ontological distinctions most clearly and extensively in his Fusûs al-Hikam, especially in chapter 3 ‘on the wisdom of transcendence (al-hikma al-subûhiyya) in the word of Noah’;²⁵ but he also took up this same subject at many places throughout the Futûhât [I.90.17, and the extensive references cited in the previous paragraph].

In a similar manner, Ibn ‘Arabî often describes the world of all creation as a kind of ‘mirror’ on which Allah’s Image is reflected [IV.430.1]. If someone looks at the world from the real side of actual existence, then he will see the Image of the Real, Allah the most Glorious; but if he considers the world only from the side of its non-existence (if we suppose this is possible), then he will see an image of the unreal:

Therefore the reason why this (ontological) ‘isthmus’ (al-barzakh) – which is the possible (realm of contingent existence) between (pure) non-existence and Existence – is the occasion (sabab) for its being attributed both permanence and non-existence, is because it corresponds to both those things by its essence. That is because the absolute non-existence stood up like a mirror for the Absolute Existence, so the (divine) Existence saw His Image in it, so that this Image is the essential reality (‘ayn’) of the possible. That is why this ‘possible’ (as the Perfect Human Being or First Intellect) had a permanent individual-essence (‘ayn thâbita’) and state of (definable) ‘thingness’ already in the state of its non-existence. And that is why it emerged (in its contingent, created existence) according to the Image of the Absolute Existence. This is also that is why it was also describable as non-finite, so it is referred to as infinite.

But the Absolute Existence is also like a mirror for the absolute non-existence. So the absolute non-existence saw itself in the mirror of the Real, but the image that it saw was itself the essential reality (‘ayn’) of non-existence by which this possible (existence) is described. Therefore it is also described as infinite, just as the absolute non-existence is infinite – hence the possible is described as (inherently) non-existing (ma’dûm). So it is like the image that appears between the mirror and the person looking in the mirror: that image is not that very person himself, but it is not other than him. Likewise the possible, with respect to as its (very limited kind of) permanence, is not the very essence of the Real Himself; yet it is not other than Him. Similarly, with respect to its (only relative) non-existence, it is not the same thing as of the (absolutely) impossible, yet it is not entirely other than it. So it is as though it is something relative (depending on how it is viewed).

[III.47.32]

He also says:

If the unreal (non-existence) had a tongue (to speak), it would tell you: 'you are according to my image', because it sees in you nothing but its own shadow, just as the Existence has speech and has said: 'you are (created) according to My Image' [Kanz: 1141–1150, and 15129], because He saw in you His own Image.

[IV.154.23]

So the world may not have a constant real (self-subsistent) existence, because only Allah may be described by that; and at the same time the world is not in constant non-existence, or it would not be there at all. Instead it is perpetually fluctuating, at every instant of creation, between existence and non-existence. And in fact, Ibn 'Arabī points out [II.303–304], this is the real meaning of the Qur'anic symbols of the 'daytime' and the 'night': when the Universal Intellect (Allah's Messenger) faces the Real, this would be a kind of 'night' for us, but when the Intellect/Messenger faces us – in each divine Act of creation – this is our manifest day (shahāda: what is 'seen' or manifest – see also the related discussions in sections 2.14 and 6.8 [Spreading the Shadows]). What makes sense of this distinction, of course, is Ibn 'Arabī's assertion of the central cosmogonic principle of perpetual re-creation, which we shall discuss next. From that perspective, the world is actually continually created 'in series', bit by bit, one entity at a time; so no two entities may gain real existence at the same time, because they gain their existence only through their constant re-creation by the Real who is One.

For Ibn 'Arabī, this rule or principle of serial creation and re-creation is in fact a direct implication of the verse 'each day He is upon some task' (55:29); at the same time, it is for him the actual underlying meaning of the familiar philosophical maxim 'from the one there might proceed only', which we discussed in section 5.2. We have seen, however, that for Ibn 'Arabī this creative procedure is not therefore imposed on the Real; rather, it remains His choice which He makes when He creates the world.

We also must remember that this divine oneness manifest in the Act of creation that we can know and observe – which grounds our own experience of reality and the cosmos – is clearly rooted in the Single Monad. Yet this Single Monad (the First Intellect, 'Muhammadan Reality', etc.) is itself but one of an unknown number of divinely 'originated' (ibdā') 'Roaming Spirits' (see section 1.4), so there is indeed some kind of (for us) further unknowable multiplicity on this higher ontological level. However, it would appear that again we can apply the same judgement to those Roaming Spirits, according to our own human logic, that they may not be ‘other than’ Allah, nor the same as Him (since He originated them): so they also are in this ontological status of ‘He/not He’, which again indicates an ultimate Oneness on the highest divine level.

We have actually already summarized the basic themes of this section right at the end of section 2.1, when we recalled Ibn ‘Arabī’s conclusion that ‘time is defined by motion, and motion is defined by the different positions of the formable monads, and those monads are different states (times or instances) or forms of the Single Monad, that alone has a real existence’. Therefore, ‘there is no god but Allah’ and this highest created entity (i.e. ‘the Single Monad’) is the (all-encompassing) Messenger of Allah. Allah sent this Messenger ‘to take us (and the whole created world) from the darkness’ of non-existence ‘into the light’ of existence (Qur’an 57:9). But although this Single Monad is not Allah, he is not other than Allah: he is some sort of fundamental manifestation of Allah, and it is through this primordial manifestation that Allah can accurately and meaningfully be described, in the famous Qur’anic expression, as ‘the First and the Last, the Manifest and the Hidden’ (57:3).

5.6 The principle of ever-renewed creation

Ibn ‘Arabī’s conception of time is profoundly rooted in one of the most famous and distinctive – and uniquely and problematically experiential – features of his world-view, the principle of the ‘ever-renewed creation’ of all the manifest worlds at every instant. Thus he affirms, in a more abstract statement of this perception:

There is no doubt that the ‘accidents’ [i.e. the particular forms taken by creation in all the different levels of existence at each moment] become non-existent in the second instant-of-time after the instant of their coming into existence. So the Real is continuously watching over the world of bodies and the higher and lower (spiritual and imaginal) substances, such that whenever a (particular) form through which they exist becomes nonexistent, He creates at that same instant another form like it or opposed to it, which (new creation) preserves it from non-existence at every instant. So He is continuously creating, and the world is continuously in need of Him.

[II.208.27]

He also makes it clear that this continuously renewed ‘return to non-existence’ is an intrinsic condition of all the created forms, and not due to any external force [II.385.4]. Typically Ibn ‘Arabī relates this fundamental insight to the Qur’anic verse: ‘but they are unaware of the new creation (khalq jadīd)’ (50:15), which he frequently quotes²⁶ – along with the famous verse concerning the ‘Day of the divine Task’ (55:29) that he cites in relation to his intimately related concept of the quantization of time.

Therefore the existence of things in the world is not continuous, as we imagine and observe, because Allah is continuously and perpetually creating every thing whatsoever – at every level and domain of existence – at every instant, or in every single ‘Day of event’ [II.454.21, II.384.30]. This means that, just as time (for Ibn ‘Arabî) may exist only at one atomic instant at a time, so also space (and whatever it may contain) also exists only one instant at a time. In fact there is no difference between space and time: they are both containers for events (see section 2.1 and 3.6).

We have already seen in previous chapters that, according to this principle of ever-renewed creation, Ibn ‘Arabî explains motion (section 2.6) in a new unique and unprecedented manner, and he also explains the ‘intertwining’ of days (section 4.4) as well as some other related philosophical and theological concepts. Indeed this hypothetical (though Ibn ‘Arabî affirmed it through unveiling) principle forms the basis of Ibn ‘Arabî’s overall view of the world, and we shall use it as one of three key hypotheses in the following chapter in which we explain his Single Monad model of the cosmos.

Of course this re-creation must be happening at extraordinarily high ‘rates of refreshment’, but Ibn ‘Arabî has no difficulty in finding scriptural allusions and theological and other arguments supporting this distinctive conception, in addition to the direct experiential evidence of the spiritual ‘knowers’ (‘urafâ). He says:

The form becomes non-existent in the next instant-of-time after the time of its coming into existence, so the Real is always Creator, and the monad (substance, jawhar) is always in need (of the Creator for its existence). For if the form would remain (for two instants of time or longer), those two principles would not hold. But this is impossible [at least theologically speaking, since otherwise the creatures would be independent of Allah, whereas only Allah maybe described as (completely) Self-sufficient (al-Ghanî), while everything created has the essential intrinsic quality of ontological ‘poverty’ (faqr) or need of the Creator for its very existence], so it is impossible for the (created) form to remain for two instants of time (or longer).

(Al-Tanazzulât Al-Layliyya: 55)

So from the theological point of view, neither the forms nor the essences of the created world may remain (constant) for more than one moment because if they do they would be independent of the Creator – whereas both the essence and the ‘accidents’ or form of the creatures are always in need of their Creator. The essence needs ever-renewed forms because it exists only when it wears a form; and the form does not stay the same, because, if it did so, the Real would not be Perpetually-Creating (Khallâq), and the individual form would be at least partly independent of the Real.

In addition, Ibn ‘Arabî argues in similar theological terms that there are never any two truly identical forms, since otherwise Allah will not be described as ‘the Infinitely Vast’ (al-Wâsi’). But because of this unique divine Vastness (al-ittisâ’ al-ilâhî) [I.266.8], the monad will never wear two identical forms: i.e. it never wears exactly the same form for more than one instant; nothing is ever truly repeated [I.721.22]. The new forms, he admits, are often ‘similar’ to the previous ones but they are not the ‘same’ [II.372.21, III.127.24]. Ibn ‘Arabî summarized this argument as follows:

The world at every instant of time (zamân fard) is re-formed (takawwun) and disintegrated. So the individual entity of the substance of the world (‘ayn jawhar al-‘âlam) has no persistence (in existence) except through its receiving of this formation (takwîn) within it. Therefore the world is in a state of needfulness perpetually: either the forms are in need (of a creator) to bring them forth from non-existence into existence; or else the substance [jawhar: i.e. the substrate for the created ‘forms’ or ‘accidents’] is in need to preserve its existence, because unavoidably a condition for its existence is the existence of the formation of those (newly re-created forms) for which it is a substrate.

[II.454.19]

Elsewhere Ibn ‘Arabî gives a very short statement of this general ontological argument which is rather difficult to follow. There he says:

The doer (al-fâ’il) may not do nothing (although we use this expression widely in our daily language, but it is logical nonsense to say ‘do nothing’), and the thing may not become non-existent (simply) by its opposite, because (the thing and its opposite) may not meet, and (also) because the opposite does not exist (at that same time) . . . So that is why we said that (the form) becomes non-existent by itself (not through an external force or action) and is impossible to remain (in existence for two moments or longer).

(Al-Tanazzulât Al-Layliyya: 55, see also I.39.8)

Ibn ‘Arabî also made the same basic arguments near the beginning of the Futûhât, through the tongue of a mysterious ‘western Imâm’ who summarizes in an extremely condensed form – usually using rhymed prose and the language and terminology of kalam theology – a series of challenging ontological premises subscribed to by those who have moved beyond the simple creed of the common believers, which forms the second of the four levels of faith that Ibn ‘Arabî explained at the beginning of the Futûhât, and the mysterious speaker’s remarks in this section are roughly based on al-Ghazâlî’s intentionally popular kalam treatise Al-Iqtisâd fî Al-‘I’tiqâd:

(4) Then he said: ‘Whatever individual entity (is said to) appear, but which does not give rise to any (distinctive) quality, then its existence is obviously impossible, since it does not give rise to any knowledge (as would be the case with anything that actually exists).’

(5) Then he said: ‘And it is impossible for it to fill different places, because its travelling (from one place to another) would be in the second instant of time of the time of its existence in itself, but it does not continue to reside (over two instants). And if it were possible for it to move by itself, then it would be self-subsistent and would have no need of place. Nor does (the advent of) its opposite make it cease to exist, because it (the opposite) does not exist (at the same time in the same place). Nor does (another) doer ('make it into nothing'), because although people do use the expression 'doing nothing', no intelligent person maintains that (is possible).

[I.39.7]

These statements are based on two issues: (1) the forms in the worlds of manifestation may not remain longer than a single instant of time, since otherwise they would be independent and self-subsistent; and (2) the created forms intrinsically return to non-existence after every instant. Otherwise they would either be brought into non-existence by the existence of their opposite (which can not exist at the same time and place, and therefore itself has to be newly created), or by another doer who 'makes them non-existent', which is also not logical, because it is nonsense to take literally the expression 'do nothing', where the result of an action is pure non-existence.

Something verbally resembling this notion of the 're-creation' or the perpetual 'recurrence of creation' had earlier been employed by the kalam scholars (MacEy 1994: 47, MacDonald 1927: 326–344) and particularly the Ash'arites who, like Ibn 'Arabī, maintained that the world is composed of substances and accidents (Corbin 1969: 203, Wolfson 1976: 466–517), or monads (substances: jawhar) and their forms or 'accidents' ('arad'). Ibn 'Arabī acknowledged their contribution – and certainly borrowed much of their theological language, giving it his own distinctive meanings – but he also took it a very important step further by saying that even those existing monads are only copies or reflections of the Single Monad or Substance that alone has a real existence [III.404.25, Al-Masā'il: 32]. Therefore, all the forms and monads in all the worlds are continuously and perpetually created and re-created by this Single Monad. Understanding the world therefore requires us to explain and understand how this Single Monad creates the monads and the forms, or in other words how to link the unique oneness of the Creator and the observable multiplicity of the world.

We shall also see in section 7.6 that with the re-creation principle one can easily resolve the standard EPR criticism of the (apparent) inconsistency between Quantum Theory and the theory of Relativity, which arises from our inadequate understanding of the nature of time.

6 The Single Monad model of the cosmos

The cosmos is only imagined, though it is – in reality – real.

And the only one who understands this fact has surely accomplished all the secrets of the path.

(Fusûs: 157)

The knowings of the Real are not hidden from anyone, except for someone who does not know the One/one.¹

[IV.181.31]

For Ibn ‘Arabî, a true understanding of time is the key to realizing and understanding the origin and structure of the world, by providing the link between its ultimate unity and apparent multiplicity. In this chapter we shall outline an integrated cosmological model based on Ibn ‘Arabî’s view of the oneness of being explained in Chapter 5, together with his understanding of the flow of time as explained in Chapter 4 and his unique view of creation in the Week as explained in Chapter 3. We shall call this model the ‘Single Monad model’. Under this model, Ibn ‘Arabî views the entire created world, both spiritual and manifest, as imaginal forms perpetually re-created by the Single Monad (al-jawhar al-fard) (Al-Mu’jam Al-Sûfi: 297), which alone has real existence. This Monad continuously and perpetually appears in different forms creating the phenomena of the visible and invisible worlds.

6.1 The three hypotheses

The Single Monad model can be summarized in the following three hypotheses – although, to be sure, Ibn ‘Arabî himself presents these concepts primarily not as the subjects of philosophical or theological arguments, but rather as the symbolic expression of the actual metaphysical realities directly perceived by himself and many other realized ‘Knowers’ (‘urafâ’, muhaqqiqûn, ahl Allâh and so on) through the processes of inspired ‘unveiling’

6.1.1 The Single Monad

There is only one Single Monad that can be said to have a real existence at any given time. This Monad creates other monads by manifesting different forms ('imaging Itself') to make a comprehensive 'still picture' of the entire cosmos. This still picture is created in one full Week of the original creative Days (of events), but this creative process is equivalent only to one single moment (the 'atom of time') for an observer inside the cosmos. Thus the observed cosmos is the eternally renewed succession of these still pictures made up by the Single Monad. The Monad – discussed in detail in the following sections – is an indivisible reality, but it is still itself a compound made up by the 'Greatest Element' that is the only real ultimate substance in existence.

6.1.2 The re-creation principle

The forms of manifestation cease to exist intrinsically right after the instant of their creation, and then they are re-created again by the Single Monad in every original creative 'Week' (i.e. at every moment). As discussed in sections 3.6 and 5.6, this perpetual re-creation happens in the 'six Days' of creation from Sunday to Friday, which accounts for the three dimensions of space. But we do not witness this creation process as such; instead we witness only the created world on the 'last Day' of Saturday. So the seven Days of the divine Week are in all one point of space-time (Days 6 to 1) which then – by repeating manifestations – manifests the space-time container (i.e. 'the Age', as discussed in section 2.19) which encompasses the world both spatially and temporally.

6.1.3 The actual flow of time

Since the world takes seven Days to be created by the Single Monad, which manifests the forms of the monads one by one in specific order, any observer would have to wait – somehow out of existence – six Days (from Sunday to Friday) in order to witness the next moment of creation (i.e. the next 'still picture') on the following Saturday. But of course we do not perceive all this, but rather experience it as a single infinitesimal moment. In each Day of these Days of creation, a corresponding dimension of the world is created. Therefore, the real flow of the actual created time does not go linearly, but rather is intertwined with the observable, normal earthly days in the special – and admittedly rather mystifying – manner that we have summarized in section 4.4, along with Ibn 'Arabi's account of the way in which the observable earthly daytimes and nights are 'taken out' of each other and separated by three daytimes and three nights in order to form the three-dimensional space that we experience.

6.2 The Single Monad

Borrowing his language from the atomist physical theories of earlier kalam theology, Ibn 'Arabi sometimes refers to the created world as being made up of monads and forms, or in his technical language, of ‘substances’ (jawâhir, s. jawhar) and various changing ‘accidents’ (ʿarâd, s. ʿarad) that inhere in and qualify those substances. In the process of manifestation, the substances appear to remain relatively constant, while the accidents do not stay for more than one moment. In this terminology, the ‘monad’ or substance (al-jawhar) is – as will be discussed shortly – a physical or metaphysical entity that exists by itself, whereas the ‘form’ or accident (al-ʿarad) exists only through or by some particular monad. The monad, however, may appear in existence only by ‘wearing’ some form or another [II.179.26], so we do not see the monads but rather only the forms. Also Ibn ʿArabî asserts that the monad exists by itself and its existence is constant and invariable, while the form exists only in the monad and its existence is temporal; it exists only at the time and then it vanishes instantly and intrinsically, and the same never comes back to existence again [II.677.30, III.452.24].

Generally jawhar signifies everything that exists in reality. Literally it originally meant ‘jewel’, but, in this technical sense borrowed from the physical theory of kalam theology, it means ‘substance’. In a very different philosophical context, the same Arabic word was used to translate the first of the ten Aristotelian categories already discussed in section 2.1. In English, the word ‘monad’ – which we will regularly use here for jawhar – is derived from the Greek monados, and it means ‘ultimate, indivisible unit’. It was used very early by the Greek philosophers of the doctrines of Pythagoras, and it was also used later, in a very different way, by the Neoplatonists to signify the One: thus God is described as the ‘Monad of monads’.²

Like the Neoplatonists, Ibn ʿArabî sometimes uses the term al-jawhar (monad) in this higher theological sense to refer to ‘the one’, ‘the essence’, ‘the real’ (not ‘the Real’ as a divine Name of God, but ‘the real-through-whom-creation-takes-place’, as discussed further below) and the origin of everything in the world. However, in such cases he does not seem to refer directly to the highest, transcendent dimension of ‘God’, but rather to the ‘Universal/First Intellect’ or the ‘Pen’ [II.675.6], who is also the ‘Perfect Human Being’.

On the other hand, although in this theological or cosmological sense the term al-jawhar ordinarily refers to the one real essence of the world (of all creation), Ibn ʿArabî also sometimes uses the same term in the plural form (jawâhir) to refer to the essences or souls/spirits (al-nufûs al-nâtiqa) – or more precisely, to the ‘partial intellects’ (al-ʿuqûl al-juzʿiyya, in contrast with the Universal Intellect, al-ʿaql al-kullî, that is their origin) – of human beings who are the perceivers of the world. Even more generally, he sometimes uses it to refer to any entity (even inanimate ones) in the creation, whether angels, jinn, humans, animals, plants or metals. In this latter more generic sense he considers that everything in creation has a substance which is its monad (jawhar) and a particular form (ʿarad) which is its appearance.

These very different dimensions and usages of the term ‘monad’/jawhar, however, are also intrinsically linked in Ibn ʿArabî’s cosmology, since he argues that all the monads of the world are created by, and are therefore the ‘images’ (reflections, shadows etc.) of the one Single Monad. Thus in that larger perspective of creation, they are nothing but different images of this one Single Monad that in reality may alone be described as having real existence [III.452.24].

6.3 The different names of the Single Monad

As we mentioned above, this Single Monad (al-jawhar al-fard) is the Universal Intellect itself and also the Pen. It also has different names or descriptions as Ibn ‘Arabî summarized in his book Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ (The White Pearl) in which he discussed many names and descriptions of the First Intellect and the title of the book itself is one interesting variant. Also Ibn ‘Arabî spent much of the first chapter in his book Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya on explaining the different names and properties of this Universal Intellect that is the true Caliph (Khalîfa). There is, however, some confusion between the Greatest Element that we shall talk about shortly and the Single Monad; sometimes it is not very clear for some of these many variant names whether they are really for the Single Monad or the Greatest Element.

One of these names is ‘the real through whom creation takes place’ and William Chittick devoted a full section in SPK to talk about it (SPK: 132). This real-through-whom-creation-takes-place is the most perfect image of the Real Allah, the Creator of the world. That is why he is also called ‘the Perfect Human Being’. We do not want to repeat here what Chittick said in SPK, but we just want to stress that we should not mix the Real and the real-through-whom-creation-takes-place because they may be confused in Ibn ‘Arabî’s writings. In this book ‘the Real’, with capital, is used for the divine Name of Allah (al-haqq), while ‘the real’, with small letter, is used for the real-through-whom-creation-takes-place. But this name actually describes the Greatest Element rather than the Single Monad, because the latter is compound while the Greatest Element is the most elementary ‘block’ in the world as we shall see shortly. Everything in the Creation at the end is rooted in the real, just as the leaves (and the fruits etc.) of a tree are rooted in the stalk. The leaves were also ‘determined’ in the seed that gave this tree even before it was planted. So the Single Monad is like the seed for the tree of the cosmos,³ while the real-through-whom-creation-takes-place (i.e. the Greatest Element) is what makes up the seed down to the cells, atoms and subatomic particles inside it.

In chapter 364 of the Futûhât Ibn ‘Arabî talks about how the entities heard the divine Command in their state of pre-existence and he affirms again what we have mentioned in section 2.3 that for Allah nothing was introduced after His creating the world; only the world moved from determination into existence and from immutable hearing (sam’ thubûti) into actual hearing (sam’ wujûdi). But most importantly, he shows in the following passage that there is in fact only one single entity that has a necessary immutable essence and that is the Perfect Human Being:

For Allah everything of His servants is still with Him in effect (bil-fî’l), nothing is with Him in reality (bil-quwwa). So the divine designation came to him (the servant) with regard to the acts and the states that Allah has with him so that he shall remember with his intelligence what he has already witnessed of his Lord when he was still non-existing – since he had the immutability which made him accept the divine disposition in him, and this state of immutability made him obey the Real's Command regarding the existence because the Command may come only on that who is described by hearing.

So the divine Saying (Command) is still (as It is) and the immutable hearing is still (as it was), but what occurred is only the actual hearing that is like a branch of the immutable hearing. So the state changed on the essence of hearing but the (essence of) hearing did not change, because the essences do not change from one state to another, but the states give them rules so they wear them. But that who has no knowledge imagines that the essence changed. But (the fact is that) the states seek the divine Names and not that the essences are described by seeking. And the essences gain names and descriptions according to the rules of (those) states that change over them. And without the states, the essences would not be distinguished because (in reality) there is only one essence that was distinguished with its entity from the Necessarily Existent (wājib al-wujūd) just as it was described like Him with necessary immutability. So He, the Exalted, has the Necessary Existence and Immutability, and to this essence (only) the necessary immutability. So the states for this essence are like the divine Names for the Real. So just as the Names of the Essence do not multiply the Named nor make Him many, so the states for this essence do not make him multiple or many, despite the rationality of the multiplicity and manyness of the Names and the states. And by this (similarity) it was true for this essence to be described as being on the (divine) Image.

[III.313.35–314.10]

Therefore, in reality, there is only this entity that is the essence of the Perfect Human Being, and the world is the different states of this single entity. As we mentioned at the beginning of this chapter (and also in section 2.1 when we introduced Ibn 'Arabī's view of time, and also at the end of section 5.5 when we discussed the oneness of being), this single entity is the Single Monad, and the essences (i.e. the monads) of the world are different reflections of this Single Monad.

Another important name of the Single Monad is the Universal Spirit (al-rūh al-kullī), and Ibn 'Arabī shows that he deserves this name because he goes (v. rāha, yarūh) in the states of the world:

And this name is to him from two aspects: the first is for his being a spirit, i.e. in ease, happiness and rest (rāha p.p. of yastarīh; to rest or to relieve) owing to his knowledge of his Lord and his witnessing Him. And the second is that he went (rāha past tense of yarūh; to go) through the capacious orbs of the knowledge of his Creator, by a special force. And he went through the states of the cosmos to give out to them what Allah entrusted him. And he went through his knowing himself by his need to his Lord and his Creator.

So he has three goings (rawahât),⁴ so he may be called ‘Universal (kullî)’ Spirit because there is no fourth state other than those to go through. So it is like the imperative (tense) of ‘râha’ (رَاحَ: went), ‘yarûhu’ (يَرُوحُ: the past participle, to go) and the imperative is ‘ruh’ (رُوح: go!); and when it was transformed from the imperative to the noun, the ‘wâw’ was returned to it as also the ‘alif’ and ‘lâm’ (the definitive article) was added, because the omitting of ‘wâw’ from it was due to the meeting of the two consonants.⁵ So it is like: he was sought from one direction then it is said that he has gone (râha), as we said.

(Al-Durraṭ Al-Bayḍâ: 135)

Yet another interesting name of this Single Monad is ‘Everything (kulla shay)’!⁶ This name is interesting because Ibn ‘Arabî says in Al-Masâ’il that ‘in everything there is everything (kulla shay’in fihi kullu shay)’, even if you do not recognize that’ [Al-Masâ’il: 58]. This is on the one hand another expression of his Single Monad theory because it renders into: ‘the Single Monad is in everything’. But also it might mean that the internal structure of the Single Monad is as complicated as the world itself because it means: ‘in everything (even the Single Monad) there is everything (even the world)!’ This last statement is plausible since both the Single Monad (i.e. the Perfect Human Being) and the world are on the divine Image as we have seen before (section 3.2). This reminds us in mathematics with fractals such as the Mandelbrot set, Julia set and Sierpinski triangle, where the structure keeps repeating itself on any larger or smaller scale (Mandelbrot and Frame 2002: 37, Stewart et al. 2004: 60). This deserves a separate study, but we just want to mention here that this might answer the question we put forward in section 2.16 about the structure of the moment and whether it is divided into sub-moments. We said there that the moment could be indeed identical to the day where the Sun rises, moves gradually in the sky and then sets to rise again on the next day; as the Single Monad might be identical with the world, the moment might be identical with the day. It just depends on the scale we are using; if we were inside the Single Monad we might see creations such as the Sun, planets and the stars, but because we are outside we see it as a point. Also if we suppose we go outside the world, we shall see it as a point; that is – as the Single Monad – indivisible but compound. This also has its example in modern cosmology as the black hole which occupies a single point in our space but itself is considered a complete world.⁷

6.4 The structure of the monad

At the beginning of the first chapter of Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya, Ibn ‘Arabî says: ‘The first existent originated by Allah is a simple spiritual Single Monad, embodied according to some doctrines and not-embodied according to others’ (Tadbîrât: 87).

As this remark indicates, Ibn ‘Arabî was well aware that there has long been a debate amongst philosophers whether the monad is a physical or metaphysical entity, or whether it is embodied or not [see also I.47.22]. Although he mostly prefers the second choice (Al-Durraṭ Al-Baydâ’: 134), Ibn ‘Arabî sometimes does not rule out either case, perhaps because the argument should be meaningless – i.e. the reality must necessarily encompass all manifestations of creation, both spiritual and manifest – if we recall that there is in reality only one Single Monad. Many times, though, he affirms that the Single Monad is embodied and indivisible, especially when the manifest world is concerned [II.438.2]. On the other hand, the essences of the spirits and souls are not likely to be embodied [II.309.25], though both (the manifest and spiritual) are only reflections of the Single Monad that itself can be described neither as (solely) physical nor as metaphysical, because it is necessarily the whole of creation. In the very long chapter 198 of the Futûḥât, in which Ibn ‘Arabî talks in detail about the various aspects of divine creation, he summarizes the various divisions or types of physical and metaphysical entities. He also states the difference between the essences (monads) and their accidents (forms). This is shown in the following long passage in which Ibn ‘Arabî also shows the basis of the Single Monad model, while pointing out the difference between the approaches of the Sufis and of the philosophers that we discussed at the beginning of Chapter 5. There he says:

Now you must know that every knowable thing that may be classified must unavoidably enter into (the category of) what exists in thought (wujûd dhihnî). But this thing that exists in thought may belong either to what can receive real existence (wujûd ‘aynî); or to what may not receive real existence, like the things that are impossible (al-muhâl). And that which can receive real existence either subsists by itself, which is called ‘not-in-a-substrate’ (lâ-fî-mawḍû’) or else it does not (subsist by itself). And that which subsists by itself is either embodied (or more strictly speaking, ‘localized in a place’, mutahayyiz), or not embodied.

As for that (self-subsistent reality) which is classified as not-in-a-substrate and not embodied, it must necessarily be either what necessarily exists by its own essence (wâjib al-wujûd li-dhâtihî), and He is Allah the Exalted; or what necessarily exists through (the determination by) something other than itself, and that is what is contingent (al-mumkin: i.e. the whole created world). And this (category of what is) contingent is either embodied (in-a-place), or not embodied. As for the division among the contingent things of what is self-subsistent, that is either not embodied – like the rational souls (al-nufûs al-nâtiqa al-mudabbira) that govern the substance of the (spiritual) world of Light, the natural world, and the elemental world, or else (the self-subsistent contingent things) that are embodied are either compound with parts, or without parts. So if it has no parts, it is the (simplest) ‘Single Monad’;⁸ and, if it has parts, it is a (natural, elemental) body (jism).

As for the category (of knowable things) that are in a substrate which are not self-subsistent and embodied – except by way of being dependent (on their substrate), members of this category are either necessary concomitants of their substrate, or they are not (necessary concomitants). Or rather, that is how it seems to ordinary vision, since in the fact of the matter nothing that does not subsist by itself (i.e. everything but the Creator) actually continues (in existence) for more than the instant of its existence; it may either be followed by (new creations that are) similar (amthâl), or by that which is not similar to it. As for what is followed by (new creations that are) similar, that is what are imagined to be the 'necessary concomitants' of a thing, like the yellowness of gold or the blackness of ebony. As for (those characteristics) which are not followed by similars, they are called 'accidents' (al-'arâd), while the necessary concomitant is called an (inherent) attribute (sifa).

So the knowable things that have actual existence are not more than those we have mentioned.

Now you must know that the world is one in substance and many in form (appearance). So since it is one in substance, it does not transmute (from one thing into another entirely different one: lâ yastahîl). And also the form itself is not transmuted, since otherwise this would lead to 'reversing the realities' (qalb al-haqâ'iq) – for heat may not (at the same time) be coldness, dryness may not be wetness, whiteness may not be blackness, and the triangle may not be square. But something that is hot can come to exist as cold, though not at the same time when it is hot; and also what is cold can come to exist as hot, but not in the same time when it is cold. Likewise what is white may become black, and the triangle may become a square.

So there is no transmutation (lâ istihâla), but the earth, water, air, the (celestial) orbs (al-aflâk) and all the generated existents (of the sublunar world: al-muwalladât) are (only) forms in the (Single) Monad. So (certain) forms are bestowed upon it and that (process of bestowing forms) is called, with respect to their specific shape (hay'a) 'generation' (kawn). Or (certain) forms are taken off of so that a (particular) name (i.e. attribute or property) is removed, and that is (called) 'corruption' (fasâd). So in fact there is no transmutation, in the sense that the actual entity of a thing changes into another (entirely different) actual entity, but it is only (by an entirely new re-creation) as we have explained.

So the world is continually being generated and corrupted (destroyed) at every single instant of time (zamân fard). And there would be no persistence for the actual entity of the substance (Monad) of the world, were it not for its receptivity to this 'creative formation' (takwîn) in itself. So the world is always continually in need (faqr: of the divine creative force). As for the forms, they are in need (of Allah's creation) in order to come out from non-existence into existence. And as for the Monad, it (is in need) of preserving its existence through that (creative Act), because its existence is unavoidably conditioned upon the existence of the creative formation of that (i.e. the infinite forms) for which it is a substrate.

Likewise (with the dependency on the Creator) of the (purely spiritual) self-subsistent contingent (existent) that is not embodied: it is (still) the substrate for the spiritual attributes and perceptions that it supports, so that its own individual reality may not continue without them. But those spiritual attributes and perceptions are continually renewed in that (spiritual existent) just like the accidents (forms) are continually renewed in the bodies.

In the same way the contingent that exists by itself and is not embodied is the substrate of what it carries of spiritual descriptions and perceptions (that is the bearer of meanings) that its essence may not remain without them. And they are renewed on it just like the renewal (i.e. re-creation) of the forms in the bodies; the image of the body is a form in the monad but the terms (hudūd: by which the object is described) are related to the images (of the body, not to the body itself). So the images are the ones which are termed (mahdūda), and one of these terms is the monad in which these images appear. That is why they (the philosophers) call the images monad(s) because they take the monad in the term of the image.

This is possibly the main barrier that prevents us from witnessing the reality of the world; we always try to assign an image to every concept, and then we discuss the terms of this image such as its shape, colour, size . . . etc. The Single Monad, however, may not be captured into image, not to mention the Real Himself. Therefore, approaching these matters in any way other than the path of (experiential) divine unveiling will not lead one to the truth of the matter as it really is. No wonder that they (those who rely on their own unaided theorizing) never cease to be in disagreement (about this). That is why the group of the blessed, who are supported by the Holy Spirit, turned to purifying themselves from their own thinking, and to liberating themselves from the bonds of their (natural, animal) forces, so that they became connected with the Greatest Light and saw for themselves (the reality of) the matter as it really is in itself! Because the Real – may He be cherished and glorified – is their vision [Kanz: 21327], so all what they see is the Real (Chittick 2002: 116–124). As the righteous one (Abū Bakr al-Siddīq) said: ‘I have seen nothing but I have seen Allah before it.’ So he sees the Real, then he sees His effect in the world; that is to witness how the world emerged as if he witnessed the possible things in their determination state when (Allah) threw what He has thrown on them from His greatest light so they became described by existence after they were described by non-existence [Kanz: 548, 1314]. So this (person), who has got this state, the veil of blindness and misleading has been removed for him: ‘now We removed thy veil, and sharp is thy sight this day!’ (50:22), ‘Lo! therein verily is a reminder for him who hath a heart’ (not only an intellect, see also section 5.1), ‘or gives an ear and he is witnessing (the truth)’ (50:37). So (Allah) made knowledge available in witnessing, because the judge judges based on his best guess while the witness witnesses with knowledge not by guessing.

[II.454.1]

According to this passage, Figure 6.1 summarizes the different types of things in existence.

Figure 6.1 Summary of the different types of knowable things.

Also in his Inshâ' al-Dawâ'ir (Constructing the Circles), Ibn 'Arabi explains the different categories or types of existence in the same way, which he represents schematically in Figure 6.2.

6.5 The greatest element

As we have seen above, although for Ibn 'Arabi the monad or atom (jawhar fard) is an indivisible physical unit, it is understood to be composed of even more elementary constituents. This means that there are smaller – but not necessarily physical – 'constituents' that somehow underlie and help manifest the atoms or monads, even though the monad itself is not physically divisible into those metaphysical constituents, but can only exist in manifestation as a substance created through those underlying constituents. So what are these ultimate constituents of the Single Monad?

In his book 'Uqlat al-Mustawfiz (The Bolt for the Restless), Ibn 'Arabi speaks about the 'Greatest Element' (al-'unsûr al-a'zam) from which Allah has created the 'Absolute Unseen' which may not be disclosed to any creature, and he indicates there that the creation or 'origination' of this Greatest Element is all at once, without any intermediate or associated causes, as we have seen in section 2.16 (see also 'Uqlat al-Mustawfiz: 38). So this original, metaphysical 'Greatest Element' that is in some mysterious way the substrate of all subsequent manifest creation – whether purely spiritual, imaginal or physical – is the only thing that in some way underlies, constitutes, or gives rise to the physical monads. The individual monad or atom, however, remains the basic indivisible structure in the physically manifest world.

Figure 6.2 The Different Divisions of Existence (source: from Inshâ' al-Dawâ'ir, page 19).

Note

The numbers 0 and 1 in the inside circle describe whether the corresponding division is localized (1) or not localized (0); and (second number) whether it is self-subsistent (1) or not self-subsistent (0). The spirit is self-subsistent but not localized, while colour is localized and not self-subsistent.

In the 'Uqlat al-Mustawfiz, Ibn 'Arabî also mentions that there are 46,656,000 subtle luminous links (raqâ'iq nûraniyya) between the First Intellect and the Greatest Element that is their origin ('Uqlat al-Mustawfiz: 40). That number is in fact the cubic power of 360 ($360^3 = 46,656,000$), which is no doubt symbolically associated with the traditional division of the circle (and the divine year, see section 3.2) into 360 degrees and the historical sexagenary system attributed to the Babylonians (see also section 4.7).

Now the resulting relation between the manifest world, the Single Monad (First Intellect) and the Greatest Element can be conceived by analogy to the relation between a building, the bricks and the clay: i.e. the building is made up of similar unit bricks, but the brick itself is made from fine clay. Ibn 'Arabî also says:

the noble Greatest Element is in relation to the sphere of the world like the (indivisible) point, and the Pen is like its circumference, while the Tablet (i.e. the world-Soul) is what is in between (the point and the circumference). So just as the point meets the circumference with its (whole) entity, so does this Greatest Element meet with its (whole) entity all the aspects of the Intellect, which are the subtle links (the 46,665,000 raqâ'iq) that we mentioned before. They are unique 'one' in the Greatest Element, but in the Intellect they become multiple and manifold, because of the manifold receptivity (of the Intellect for knowledge) from the Greatest Element. So there is (only) one 'close attention' (iltifâta) for the (Greatest) Element, but there are many faces of receptivity for the Intellect, that is why this (Greatest) Element is more realized in the unity of Its Creator.⁹

Ibn 'Arabî affirms that this Greatest Element is the most perfect thing in existence and that everything other than Allah (including, as we can see, the First Intellect) is somehow derived from it. However, he does not give much information about It, and he even says that he would explain the reality of this Element if he was not sworn not to disclose it. However, does explain, as we have just seen, that this Greatest Element has a special attention (iltifâta, like the divine 'special Face' discussed in section 5.2) to the metaphysical 'world of writing and recording' ('âlam al-tadwîn wal-tastîr), when the (manifest, including physical) world was still not yet existing in reality (but only in Allah's foreknowledge), and that Allah created the First Intellect (that is the Single Monad) through this special attention ('Uqlat al-Mustawfîz: 39).

In the summary cosmological chapter 60 of the Futûhât, Ibn 'Arabî alludes more symbolically, in a metaphysical exegesis of Qur'an 68:1 ('Nûn and the Pen, and what they are recording ...), to the 'Greatest Element' when he speaks of the mysterious figure of 'Nûn' whom Allah appointed as the divine 'chamberlain' (al-hâjib) and gave all His Knowledge of His creation, so that Allah – with regard to His Name 'the All-Knower' – never hides from the Nûn. And Allah appointed another angel, the Pen – who is the Single Monad/First Intellect/Perfect Human Being – as the 'scribe' for the Nûn, 'writing out' all of the divine Knowledge of His creation [I.294.33].

6.6 Analogies in the macrocosms

For Ibn 'Arabî, of course, the mysterious metaphysical relations between the ultimate macrocosmic constituents of creation are repeatedly mirrored in many different 'microcosmic' dimensions of our own life. In each of these different symbolic domains, the initial creation of this higher world and the relation between its elements, such as the First Intellect and the Greatest Element, is subsequently reflected on many different lower planes of existence.

6.6.1 The Black Stone and the Kaaba

The most visible example of Ibn ‘Arabî’s development of this cosmological symbolism in the Futûhât involves the Kaaba, the ‘house of Allah’ to which millions of Muslims now go on pilgrimage every year. For Ibn ‘Arabî, those circumambulating the Kaaba are mirroring the circles of higher angels surrounding the divine Throne [I.50.30]. In that symbolic context, the angels also represent the determining forces of the universal Nature (Al-Durratu Al-Baydâ’: 138; we shall come back to this later in section 7.10) and the four Archangels who carry the Throne of Allah are the four main sustaining forces of that Nature.

This centrality of the symbolism of the Kaaba is of course rooted in the fact that Ibn ‘Arabî started the first chapter of his Futûhât by mentioning his encounter with the Spirit from whom he took all that he wrote in this book, a Spirit whom he met while circumambulating the Kaaba. There Ibn ‘Arabî establishes a symbolic correlation the seven circles of tawâf that the pilgrim is obliged to perform around the Kaaba during the pilgrimage and the seven main divine Names, in the manner already mentioned in Chapter 3: i.e. each one of these seven Names is responsible for one specific Day of the divine Week of creation. Then he says that his Lord told him: ‘the Kaaba, in relation to the all-encompassing (divine) Throne, is like your heart with relation to your body’ [I.50.29]. So in fact the Kaaba on the Earth is symbolically like the Single Monad in the cosmos. This analogy also applies to many related details, because the cubic shape of the Kaaba is in fact the simplest structure which constitutes a body that occupies the three spatial dimensions. As Ibn ‘Arabî mentioned [III.276.4; see explanations in section 5.4 above], the body is composed of at least eight points, corresponding to the corners of the cube.

But more importantly for Ibn ‘Arabî, one corner of the Kaaba holds the mysterious ‘Black Stone’ (al-hajar al-aswad) which, according to tradition, the angel Gabriel brought down from Paradise and gave to Abraham to put it in that corner of the Kaaba. For Ibn ‘Arabî, this Black Stone symbolically represents the foundational role in the process of creation or manifestation of the ‘Greatest Element’. In other words, circumambulating the Kaaba starts from the south-eastern corner in which this Black Stone resides, and the pilgrim is supposed to make seven rounds (counterclockwise) around the Kaaba: this corresponds symbolically to the way the Greatest Element first gives rise to or communicates to the Single Monad or First Intellect, after which the Intellect brings forth the world of manifest creation in the seven divine Days. According to tradition, the Prophet Muhammad said that this Black Stone resembles ‘Allah’s right hand on Earth’ [Kanz: 34729]. As is well known, Ibn ‘Arabî holds that the ‘Universal Reality’ – which is also another name for the Greatest Element, because it is the origin of the Single Monad [I.119.10] – is identical to the Spirit of Muhammad himself, as that Spirit is also, according to a number of widely known hadith, ‘the first thing to be created’ [Kanz: 31917].¹⁰

Thus, at the very beginning of the opening chapter of the Futûhât, when Ibn ‘Arabî begins to speak about the underlying metaphysical reality – i.e. the

‘Greatest Element’ and first creation – symbolized by the Black Stone that resembles Allah’s right hand, he says in poetry:

People are ignorant of its Essence, so some say it is dense, while others say it is subtle.

He (the Spirit) said to me, when I asked why they do not know It:

‘Only the noble may truly know (recognize) the noble!’

[I.47.22]

Ibn ‘Arabi then proceeds in these opening pages to give many mysterious symbolic details about what Allah creates in the Human Being (i.e. the Single Monad or First Intellect) and in the world with each round of the seven circumambulations around the Kaaba, and he relates that metaphysical teaching to the seven main Attributes of Allah which are responsible for the seven Days of the divine creative Week [I.49.32].

As shown in Figure 6.4, just the Greatest Element makes the Single Monad which scans the states of the world in seven Days, the pilgrim in Hajj has to make seven rounds around the Kaaba anti-clockwise. This circumambulation starts from the eastern corner where the Black Stone resides and moves towards the Shami corner. This clearly supports the analogy between the Greatest

Figure 6.3 The Kaaba, with people on the Hajj circumambulating it. The Black Stone appears in the front corner, near the door.

Figure 6.4 How circumambulating the Kaaba is similar to the Greatest Element's creation of the Single Monad. Circumambulation starts – anticlockwise – from the eastern corner where the Black Stone is, and that corner is for the Pole.

Element and the mysterious Black Stone, especially, since we have said above that the Black Stone resembles ‘Allah’s right Hand on Earth’ [Kanz: 34729].

6.6.2 The spiritual hierarchy

Another important example of the symbolic analogy between the metaphysical process and figures of the ‘macrocosm’ and more human realities is the hierarchy of the spirits of the prophets and saints (awliya) – a central theme that runs throughout the Futūḥāt. To summarize the cosmological aspect of that theme, Ibn ‘Arabī presents the lower realms of the cosmos as being ruled by a complex spiritual hierarchy – largely ‘invisible’ to most human beings, though not to the spiritual ‘knowers’ – consisting, among others, of the spiritual ‘Pole’ (al-qutb), the two Imams, the four Pillars (awtād), the seven Substitutes (abdāl), the eight Nobles (mujabā’), the 12 Chiefs (nuqabā’), in addition to other lesser-known groups.¹¹ Each of these groups and figures has a special corresponding spiritual responsibility, some of which are have to do with maintaining the wider cosmic order. Those pure spirits have also have an ongoing series of living human ‘representatives’ or ‘agents’ (s. nā’ib) amongst us [II.6.6].

Some of these members of the celestial spiritual hierarchy, as Ibn ‘Arabī presents them in scattered passages of the Futūḥāt, are assigned cosmological functions symbolically related, for example, to the 12 zodiacal signs, the seven heavens, and the seven ‘climes’ or geographical regions, the four cardinal points, or even the four corners of the Kaaba [II.13]. In particular, the highest level of the 'Pole', in this hierarchy, is the figure who apparently corresponds to the lofty metaphysical position of the Single Monad – which Ibn 'Arabî often pointedly refers to simply as 'the Reality of Muhammad' (Al-Mu'jam Al-Sûfi: 158).

6.6.3 The world of letters

Also yet another important symbolic analogy between the metaphysical macrocosm and more familiar human realities, which again runs throughout the Futûhât, is the 'world of letters'. Ibn 'Arabî considers the letters of the Arabic alphabet – given their central place in the culminating divine revelation of the Qur'an – to constitute in themselves 'a real world like us', since they are servants of Allah just like ourselves [I.58.13]. He begins his detailed explanation of their symbolic metaphysical and cosmological functions in a long section in the opening chapter of the Futûhât. As he explains there, the Arabic letters also have symbolic hierarchy similar to the spiritual hierarchy of the prophets and the saints. Thus they also have Pole, which is the letter alif (ا), the first letter of Arabic alphabet; two imâms (Leaders), which are the two other vowel letters wâw (و) and yâ' (ي); four awtâd (Pillars), which are the letters alif (ا), wâw (و), yâ' (ي) and nûn (ن), that together provide the essential Arabic grammatical indications ('alâmat al-i'râb'); and seven abdâl (Substitutes), which are the letters alif (ا), wâw (و), yâ' (ي), nûn (ن), and the three key pronoun markers tâ' (ت), kâf (ك) and hâ' (هـ) [I.78.18]. But the important facts about the metaphysical relations between the world, the Single Monad and the Greatest Element are particularly clearly developed in Ibn 'Arabî's teaching here regarding the metaphysical dimension of this world of letters. Thus he clearly states that:

For the totality of the letters (like the world) may be deconstructed into the alif (corresponding to the Pole and the Single Monad) and put together from it (the letter or sound) alif, but it can not be deconstructed into (any of) them. However it too can be deconstructed – in our symbolic estimation – into its spiritual principle (rûhâniyya), which is the (primordial) 'Point' (of Greatest Element) – although (in fact) the one can not be (further) deconstructed.¹²

[I.78.23]

Here again the 'Greatest Element' is assumed to be the underlying principle or substrate of all creation and manifestation.

As we have mentioned on several earlier occasions, Ibn 'Arabî often attributes his source for some of the most important metaphysical knowledge about the world to the spiritual Pole Idrîs ('mudâwi al-kulûm'). In describing the relation between the originary 'Point' of the 'Greatest Element' and all the manifest cosmos, in chapter 15 of the Futûhât, this Pole tells him:

The world (physical cosmos) exists between the circumference and the point (of the Earth at its centre), arranged according to the levels (of its orbs) and the smallness and greatness of the orbs. And (he said) that the sphere that is closer to the circumference is wider than that which is inside, so its day is longer, its space is larger, its tongue is more fluent and it is closer to realizing strength and purity. And what goes down to the (material, earthly) elements is less than this (high) level, on down to the sphere of the Earth. But each part in every circumference matches what is below it and what is above it with its (whole) entity: no one is greater than the other, despite the fact that one is larger and one is smaller! . . . And all match the point with their entities – and that Point, despite its smallness, matches the parts of the circumference with its (whole) essential reality (‘ayn).

[I.154.22]

It is worth mentioning here, as a modern analogy to this earlier symbolism, that one of the most compelling consequences of Quantum Mechanics is that everything in the physical world of ‘particles’ can also be expressed as waves that have different wavelengths. Electrons for example – though they are particles – have a wavelength. Even the Earth has a distinctive wavelength. When the mass of the body or particle becomes larger its wavelength becomes smaller. So the wavelength becomes even larger for massless particles such as photons (light).

6.6.4 The hierarchy of divine names

We have already discussed the unique Unity of Allah and the diversity of His divine Names in section 5.3. In Ibn ‘Arabî’s wider metaphysical perspective, the divine Names – just like the spiritual world of the angels, prophets and saints – are also arranged in a corresponding specific metaphysical hierarchy. In section 3.1, we have already encountered the four and seven fundamental divine Names – which correspond to the four awtâd and the seven abdâl respectively. But Ibn ‘Arabî talks about this hierarchy of the divine Names in more detail early on in chapter 4 of the Futûhât. Here we want only to draw the attention to his explanation there of the difference between the two key divine Names ‘Allah’ and ‘the All-Merciful’ (al-Rahmân).

Already in his Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya, Ibn ‘Arabî compares the relation between those two Names with the cosmological or metaphysical relation between the Throne and the Single Monad, as we explained in section 4.6 above (see also Tadbîrât: 89). Because the Single Monad is itself also called ‘the Throne’, Ibn ‘Arabî says that – in cosmological language – Allah mounted on the Throne of the Single Monad, while ‘the All-Merciful mounted on the Throne’ (following the literal Qur’anic verses that we discussed earlier in section 1.4. So the relation between these two Names is like the relation between the two divine ‘Thrones’. It is to be noted here that the Name ‘the All-Merciful’ is more specifically described by all the multiplicity of the divine Names, just like the Name Allah. For as Allah said in the Qur’an: ‘Call upon Allah or call upon the All-Merciful, Whoever you call upon, to Him belong the most beautiful Names’ (17:110). So the Name Allah is also described by all the divine Names, but the Name ‘the All-Merciful’ is closer to the multiplicity of the world through those diverse divine Names. Likewise, the Throne that encompasses the heavens and Earth is a place of manifest multiplicity, whereas the Single Monad, in its mysterious intrinsic ‘hiddenness’, is more described by the transcendent divine qualities of unity and oneness.

6.7 Spreading the shadows

In discussing the divine Name ‘the Subtle’ (al-latîf),¹³ Ibn ‘Arabî says that there is great subtle knowledge in ‘the withdrawing of the shadow and its spreading’ (alluding to 25:45–46), and that is why Allah made that symbolic image a guide to Him [IV.238.2]. As we pointed out before, Ibn ‘Arabî views the world as a structure made ‘according to the image or form’ of the Real (see section 3.1). In the same way, he considers the manifest world as the ‘shadow’ of the Real, or of the Universal Intellect (and ultimately the ‘Greatest Element’). He bases these arguments on the following two verses from the Qur’an: ‘Hast thou not seen how thy Lord hath spread the shadow – and if He wished, He could have made it still? Then We have made the Sun a guide unto it. Then We withdrew it into Us, with a diminutive withdrawal’ (25:45–46), and we have already drawn attention to this basic relation between the divine Image and its ‘shadow’ in section 3.1. In many places [III.12.3, III.106.7, III.281.32] Ibn ‘Arabî emphasizes that the shadow of anything is on its own image; therefore:

Know that the Human Being (Insân),¹⁴ since he is the ‘likeness’ of the divine Form, is like the shadow of a person, which does not ever leave him, although sometimes it appears to the senses and sometimes it is hidden. So when the shadow is hidden, it is still implicit (ma’qûl: ‘present-to-the-intellect’) in that person; but when it is manifest, then it is visible to the eyesight – (at least) for whoever (actually) sees it. So (likewise) the Perfect Human Being (al-insân al-kâmil) is implicit in the Real (al-Haqq), like the shadow when it is hidden by direct sunlight so that it does not appear. For (the Perfect) Human Being always continues to be, eternally and perpetually. That is why (the Perfect Human Being) is always witnessed by the Real, since He is described (in the Qur’an) as having Sight (al-basîr: 17:1, 40:20, etc.).

Therefore when ‘He spread His shadow’, it appeared according to His Form: ‘Hast thou not seen how thy Lord hath spread the shadow – and if He wished, He could have made it still?’ (25:45) – i.e. stably remaining with Whom is His shadow. But if He does not spread His Shadow, no individual reality (‘ayn) of It will be manifest in sensible existence, except to Allah alone (in His Foreknowledge). So His ‘Shadow’ (i.e. the Perfect Human Being/Single Monad) has always been with Allah and will always be with Allah, for he continues Allah’s continuing, while everything other than the Perfect Human Being (Single Monad) only continues (in existence) through Allah’s causing them to continue.

[III.187.15; see also I.458.33 and II.607.14]

Therefore, the Single Monad or Perfect Human Being is the primordial Shadow of the Real, and the manifest world is in turn the shadow(s) of the Single Monad. The world appears in existence, after being hidden in the 'Unseen' (of the divine Foreknowledge), through Allah's 'spreading the shadow' of the Single Monad in the eternally renewed act of Creation. For if God so wished, He could have left His Shadow unmanifest, which means that the created world would have stayed as it was in Allah's eternal Knowledge, instead of coming out into real existence spread over space and time.

However, the 'shadow' of the Single Monad is one like him: that is why Allah withdrew his shadow 'with a diminutive withdrawal' – like the withdrawal of the shadow that normally occurs at sunset (see I.459.5) – so that it disappears in order to appear again in a different outward form, just as the sunlight disappears in order to eventually make another day. So at every 'Day' (instant) the Single Monad makes a new shadow in all creation. So the world is the ongoing collection of those instantaneous shadows, as explained in sections 3.6 and 4.3.

When the shadow is spread (before and after noon) it is itself a guide to the Sun, just as the Sun was an actual guide to it by its effect which caused the shadow itself [I.459.9 and also IV 238.29]. Likewise our shadow-like existence (our actual individual entity) should guide us to realize the Real manifested in ourselves – being His shadows – by looking at His shadow (i.e. the Single Monad or Perfect Human Being) who makes manifest the shadow of our creation – and by proceeding then from the Perfect Human Being to the Real Himself, the divine 'Light' or Sun Who ultimately caused this shadow (that is our existence). The seeker of the Real (murīd), therefore, keeps seeking the Real in these shadows and in the Shadow (of the Perfect Human Being) that is their Source, until he comes to realize that Source more fully and directly. So when he achieves that high state of realization, he himself – being one of these shadows – will be extinguished or 'drowned' (n. fanā) or united (n. ittihād) with the Real – because the shadow can not see itself and the Real at the same time – except perhaps for an instant of time, comparable to the case of noontime at the equator, where the shadow of the object disappears for a single moment.

But Ibn 'Arabī always clearly points out that after the 'enlightened' shadow-subject witnesses the Real, and continues to watch Him, then he will realize that he is as he was before and after his direct witnessing – except that before that witnessing he did not realize that what he was witnessing was the Real – just as the Sun is the Sun before and after the noontime disappearance of the shadow.¹⁵ However, in fact the shadow at noon hides in the object and not in the Sun, so in fact the realized knower indeed does not witness the Real Himself (the Essence), but witnesses only the 'real-through-whom-creation-takes-place' (al-haqq al-makhlūq bihi), which is the Perfect Human Being (the Single Monad, or at most the Greatest Element). So the Knower may at most realize his or her essential unity with this reality, which is only the higher 'Shadow' of the Real.

It is here, Ibn 'Arabī implies, that many of the Sufis' ecstatic expressions (or poetic metaphors) have sometimes been misunderstood. For example, Ibn al-Fārid in his famous poem, the Tā'īyya, speaks about 'unification' (ittihād) in various forms (Mahmûd 1995: 241, 248, 252 and 276). Of course Ibn ‘Arabî himself has sometimes been accused of believing in ittihâd and hulûl, but he was always very careful not to mention these words and directly denied such doctrines [III.298.30, IV.81.23].¹⁶ That is why in his prayers Ibn ‘Arabî asks to unite with the Prophet Muhammad’s spiritual essence (dhât), who is the Perfect Human Being. For example he says in his book of prayers, Al-Salawât Al-Faydiyya:

O God, pray for him (Prophet Muhammad) a prayer by which my branch may connect with my root, and my part with my whole, until my essence is unified with his essence and my attributes with his attributes, and the eye is satisfied with the eye, and disunity flees away from disunity.¹⁷

In yet another of his prayers, he very clearly expresses what we have just observed in his remarks about the divine ‘shadow’:

Oh God, no god but You, it is You Whom we worship and You Whom we witness; ever returning to You, nothing but You. I ask of You, by You, You Yourself, Yourself, Yourself, You Who (have) no ‘he’ other than ‘Hû’ (the divine Essence), (I ask of you) to withdraw from me the shadow of (my natural bodily) formation, so that I may witness my (true) self bare from any description that is a veil which prevents me from witnessing You as ‘I’,¹⁸ and purify me from any attribute or influence that makes me see any (purely personal) share (in existence): ‘for everything is perishable but its [or ‘His’] face’¹⁹ (28:88), ‘but to Allah all things are returned’ (42:53). Oh my God, pray for Your messenger, our master Muhammad, who is apportioned with this perfect abolishment (mahw), and complete integration (jam’) that is beyond perfect wisdom.²⁰

For Ibn ‘Arabî, these symbolic analogies between the shadows and creation are indeed very important existentially because Allah made them as guides for us, in all the ways we have just reviewed. But what is particularly important here, in terms of Ibn ‘Arabî’s actual cosmology and understanding of time, is that the created entities of the world that are the evanescent ‘shadows’ of the Single Monad are continuously re-created, by one instantaneous act of creation after another, in a process similar to the spreading of the shadows by the Sun in the course of the day. In the following section, we turn to some further illustrations and implications of that cosmic process of creation.

6.8 Creation scenario: the world as a movie

Later Muslim writers, especially the great masters of mystical poetry in Persian and other eastern Islamic languages, developed a great range of familiar symbolic forms intended to elaborate and communicate the basic Qur’anic imagery for the cosmological processes and their symbolic expression that we have discovered in the writings of Ibn ‘Arabî. One of the most powerful and multi-faceted of those images was Ibn 'Arabî's famous account – reminiscent of the Sun-Line-Cave section of Plato's Republic – of the universe as a vast 'shadow-theatre', a true 'divine Comedy' (Morris 1993: 50–69). Thus in contemporary terms, based on the concept of perpetual cosmic re-creation that we have explained above, we may envisage the world as like a movie being displayed on a computer monitor. It is quite fascinating to discover that this analogy is quite accurate in most of the details, even regarding what happens inside the computer, since the Universal Intellect/Perfect Human Being/Pen can be considered as a kind of 'supercomputer' which creates, organizes the world and displays it in the 'Universal Tablet' (of the world-Soul). Ibn 'Arabî has already asserted that the world appears as 'living, hearing, seeing, knowing, willing, able and speaking' with the same seven fundamental Attributes of the Real. This is because the world is His divine work, and as Allah said: 'Say: "everyone works according to his own type"' (17:84) [II.438.19]. This is also equivalent to what we have repeatedly noted: that the Perfect Human Being and the world (including its human beings) are all created 'according to the Form or Image' of the Real, and that they are also the second-level shadows of the Real (see for example [I.163.20, II.652.25, III.343.25], and also [Kanz: 1142, 1148]).

Likewise the computer today is certainly created as a certain kind of 'image' of some specific aspects of the human mind, and certainly the way the computer works resembles the human mind in many respects. However the shadow or the image in the mirror (or photocopier) resembles at best only one facet of the original. Likewise human beings, for example, do not fully resemble the Real, just as computers do not (and cannot) fully resemble humans in many other respects.

As we have seen, Ibn 'Arabî repeatedly showed that in many respects both the world and the essential (spiritual) human being work in the same way. That is why he generally considers the world as a great human being (al-insân al-kabîr) and the human being as microcosm ('âlam saghîr) [III.11.18]. Just as our own world is essentially constituted by the meanings, images and states that are reflected in our spirit, soul and intellect, so the world also reflects the divine 'meanings' brought into creation by the Universal Intellect, so that the phenomena that we perceive are the doubly reflected forms of these original meanings. However, Ibn 'Arabî also repeatedly asserts that the world would not exist if the observing 'eye' or 'I' of the viewer was not also always there.²¹ So because of the underlying reality of the created world as essentially 'imaginal' forms or multiple 'reflections' or shadows, we can only understand the cosmos if we understand how we perceive it, since for Ibn 'Arabî it is all ultimately, and quite literally 'in the mind' – albeit a different kind of 'Mind' at each level of manifestation.

It is known that the movie which is displayed on the cinema screen is composed of a large number of succeeding still pictures that pass rapidly before the eye at very short intervals, so that the human mind observes only smooth changes between those rapidly successive pictures. By running this movie at the proper speed we feel (by illusion) as if a normal motion of objects and images is happening on the screen. So if we suppose that the screen has no visible edges, and especially with the new technology of three-dimensional (laser holography) movies, it would be very hard initially to distinguish this illusion from reality.

Now if we examine how the picture is displayed on the screen of the computer monitor, we realize that it is even more closely similar to Ibn 'Arabî's view of creation. In this way the whole cosmos is a combination and rapid succession of imaginal forms (images, reflections or 'shadows') that are created by or through the Single Monad in a similar manner to the single electron beam which is creating the picture on the computer screen one pixel at a time.

As Ibn 'Arabî has pointed out, the Single Monad is continuously and perpetually 'wearing' new forms which make us see and otherwise experience motion. When we open our eyes we see a picture of many things around us, and if we keep on watching we see things moving. Each mental picture is also created in series and not all at once, as we have noted before (sections 5.5 and 5.6). In every single instance and at each single point of space there exists a monad with a specific unique form, and we have explained before (sections 3.15 and 4.1) that it takes the Monad a full divine 'Week' of creation to appear in this form, but this divine Week for us is like a single instant. This same monad, still in the same instant of time – for us, but a full divine 'Week' for the Monad itself, since we only exist for one moment in this Week: see section 3.6 – takes another form but in another point of space, and so on. So in one single instant the picture that we see is a combination of a huge number of reflected forms of the same Single Monad. He or It scans the whole of space at no time (for us) and without real motion (on the part of the Single Monad), because space itself is what we subjectively experience as a consequence of the succession of forms within this monad, and motion is meaningless when we talk about one single all-encompassing entity. It takes the monad a full 'Week' of creation (i.e. seven 'Days of event': one for each direction of space – up, down, right, left, front and back, and one for the observer – time) to scan all the states in the cosmos, but since each one of us is one single state – as observers, not as bodies – we live a single moment in each full 'Week of event', in which we observe the other states around and within us as the traces or memory of the forms left over by the Monad after it has created those states. Ibn 'Arabî succinctly referred to this cosmological fact, in a favourite image of the later mystical poets, right in his Forward (khutba) to the Futûhât, when he said:

Then He released the Breath, so the water waved because of its vibration and foamed . . . Then the water diffidently withdrew and returned back heading for the middle, and it left over its foam on the shore that it produced. So it (the world) is the churning of this water that contains most things.

[I.4.7]

The 'water' here refers to the Single Monad itself (or the Greatest Element: Al-Mu'jam Al-Sûfi: 812–817, 826–828) because (in the famous expression of the Qur'an) 'every thing was created from the Water', and the 'foam' is the created forms (or their images) left over by the Single Monad after it has 'scanned' into existence the created world (in six divine Days) and then returned back to the middle to start over a new picture [II.438.3] on Saturday. That is why Ibn 'Arabi also affirms that the cosmological 'ruler' of the last Day of time (Saturday) has the ability of holding and fixing (i.e. memory), in order to hold the cosmic picture and integrate it with what follows (see also section 3.5, Saturday as the Day of Eternity).

When this perpetual creative process is conceptually 'stopped' and taken in isolation, all this will form a kind of 'still picture' of things around us, including ourselves both as bodies (matter) and as spirits or states of realization (meanings). Within this conception, the dynamic manifest world, then, is the instantaneous, continuously renewed succession of these slightly changing still pictures. As we showed in section 2.6, motion is observed because things successively appear in different places, but indeed there is no actual motion: for the observed objects are always at rest in the different positions that they appear in. Allah is constantly re-creating the cosmos in ever-renewed forms.

Now what we have just mentioned is exactly like what happens on the screen of the computer monitor: when we look at the screen at any instant of time, we see a still picture that is composed of an array of dots (pixels) in the two dimensions of the plane of the screen (for example 800 horizontal by 600 vertical pixels). This still picture is made by a single electron beam that scans the screen over and over again, one pixel at a time. It starts from the bottom left corner of the screen and scans horizontally all the 800 pixels (one line), then it switches back to the left to make the second line, and so on till all the screen is scanned, ending up by the upper right corner; then it switches back to start a new picture from the bottom left corner again in the same way. Because this process is performed at very high speed or refresh rate (around 100 million times per second), we only see a continuous picture in the two dimensions; we never see the pixels being drawn one by one. By watching the succession of pictures, we observe motion. While the beam creates them, each pixel on the screen wears a specific form of a different colour and intensity that (slightly) changes from one still picture and instant to the other. This momentary form that the pixels wear every time they are scanned lasts only during the very short time that the beam is in its place. Once the beam leaves the pixel for the next one, the form vanishes intrinsically; we only see the traces of these forms for a short time till they are scanned again to wear a new form.

In terms of Ibn 'Arabi's understanding of the cosmogonic process, the electron beam here is like the Single Monad/Pen/Intellect; the screen is like both our imagination and, outwardly or objectively, the effective 'substrate' of creation that Ibn 'Arabi calls 'the Dust': al-'amâ); while the cosmos is like the series of pictures on the screen, which are printed on our imagination and in the Universal Tablet. Ibn 'Arabi's description of the world is identical to this example of the computer monitor, even the names that he gives to the Single Monad as the 'Higher Pen' and to the cosmic Soul as the 'Higher Tablet', indicate that the process of creation is similar to the process of a pen's writing on a tablet, which is also similar to the electron-beam writing on the screen. To take yet another of Ibn 'Arabi's most favoured cosmological images, we creatures are the 'letters' and the ‘words’ that are spoken by the Creator (through the creative, existentiating ‘Breath of the All-Merciful’), after having been written down by the Higher Pen on the Higher Tablet (see section 7.8).

With a closer examination of this example, we can now realize the meaning of the intertwined days and the taken-out days, and also the significance of the (normal) week and Saturday – as the Day of Eternity – that we explained in Chapters 3 and 4. If an observer was in one point of the computer screen (as we are individually in one specific place in the world), a week for him or her would be a combination of 800 by 600 instances of 800 by 600 ‘Weeks of events’, because each point will be present (created) only while the electron beam is on it, so it stays only one part of the 800 by 600 pixels ‘created’ during each run (original Week/Day). Similarly, each entity in the world lives only one ‘instant’ (which equals an outwardly observable day over the entirety of entities in the world) in each ‘Week’ of creation: i.e. only the time when the Single Monad creates it or appears in its form. Therefore, a week for this point would be a combination of different instants of many other Weeks of the original Weeks of events. Also, because Saturday is the divine Day of manifest creation when each entity realizes itself – and it does not realize itself (or the world) while being created in the other six Days (see section 3.6) – we, as entities living in the world, realize only the Saturdays’ instances, those that are manifest in time. Therefore, all our life (as time) is Saturday, while the world as space is the other six Days. In other words: the motion of the electron beam horizontally and vertically on the screen creates the space in which the picture is viewed. This is identical to the cosmic Week-Days of creation from Sunday to Friday, while the motion when the electron beam returns from the right-top to the lower-left corner is identical to Saturday or the manifest instant of time, because time is the motion by which we observe the succession of the pictures.

In section 7.10, we shall talk about dimensions in more detail, but it is good to remember here what we have already said in section 2.11 about the two cycles of life (see in particular Figure 2.1). The screen of the computer monitor is of course two-dimensional (2-D). So the starting of the scanning of the screen from the lower-left corner resembles the starting of the world by creating the Real (0-D) as the pixel itself, and then the angels in 1-D. This in the real world, according to Ibn ‘Arabî’s account of the astrological cycle of life, takes 11,000 years; but for the case of the computer monitor it takes a very short but also fixed time, in which a fixed number of motions or jumps happen – 800 pixels for example. Then after finishing the first line and by starting the second one, this scanning or creating process moves us into two dimensions, to start the world of jinn, while the 1-D world of angels continues. The scanning of the 2-D screen continues until it is finished after a short but fixed time. There is no third dimension in normal computer monitors, but there is in the outside world: there, according to Ibn ‘Arabî, when this manifest stage of creation starts after 54,000 years, it marks the creation of dunyâ (‘this lower world’). Then the after-world starts in yet another dimension (4-D) – according to Ibn ‘Arabî after 9,000 more years, although we have not moved yet into it (see section 7.10).

It is fascinating to notice that this analogy between the world and the computer applies to many of the details – not only with regard to the visible manifest world, but also to the spiritual world that is analogous to the processor, the memory, the hard disk and the software running inside the computer. It is enough to notice that the processor of the computer – no matter how fast it may be and how many jobs it may do very quickly – can do only one elementary job at a time. So from outside we see multiple jobs and multiple images, running and interacting, but from inside only one thing is manipulating all that, one by one, in series, one single bit at a time. For example when we say that the speed of the computer central processing unit is 3.4 GHz, this means that it can manipulate 3.4 billion bits every second, and the bit is the smallest piece of information, which is the digital state of either 1 or 0, yes or no. This is indeed a huge speed, yet surely the speed of the Single Monad creating the world is much larger, as Allah plainly said: ‘and He is the fastest of all calculators’ (6:62) – although this is normally interpreted with regard to the Judgement Day.

7 The Single Monad model and its implications for modern physics

*This existence that we know in practice,
is not like the existence that we know by unveiling.
The mind does not know it, and thinking does not recognize it, but remembrance (dhikr) will show it, while the secret will hide it from the minds that are veiled by habits:
that is why they do not recognize what the secrets¹ understand.
(Dīwān: 229)*

As with most cosmological hypotheses, past and present, testing Ibn ‘Arabī’s cosmological model and his understanding of time is not easy. Although a preliminary test is simply its ability to resolve some of the standard paradoxes surrounding time, as we shall shortly see below, more credible tests may not be very easy to perform, and incontrovertible tests may be inaccessible – since Ibn ‘Arabī frequently reiterates, beginning with the very Introduction to the Futūhāt, that his most distinctive cosmological insights are ultimately based on forms of inspiration, ‘unveiling’, and divine knowledge that are beyond the level of the ordinary human intelligence.

So in this final chapter we shall discuss some of the consequences and possible methods to test the Single Monad model that we outlined in Chapter 6. Some persisting paradoxes in current models will be discussed, such as the historical Zeno’s paradoxes and the recent EPR paradox (sections 7.4 and 7.6). We shall then go on to discuss some of the apparent consequences of Ibn ‘Arabī’s cosmological model for various principles of physics, cosmology and philosophy. We have already seen that, in this model, space and time are truly unified, and that there is a drastically different conception of motion. Most other basic properties of matter, like mass, density, softness and transparency, will be also affected, suggesting the eventual possibility of conceiving a kind of ‘science’ dealing with certain phenomena of mysticism and the supernatural. In addition to that, in this cosmological model, causality itself will have a different sense, which would enable new perspectives for reconciling cosmology and theology.

7.1 Testing possibilities

One of the main consequences – and principles – of this model of cosmogony and creation, as we have seen in the previous chapter, is that the creation is being continuously refreshed, like a kind of computer screen. A first possibility could be, therefore, to measure the ‘refresh rate’ of creation, which is also the smallest quantum of time, or the length of the moment (al-zaman al-fard). As we have noted, this could be expected to be equal to 24 hours (or $24 \times 60 \times 60$ seconds) divided by the whole number of states or entities in the world. With such an extremely small quantity of time, there is no possible device that could measure it.² If we think, for example, of using high-speed cameras and then replaying their images in slow motion in order to see the flickering,³ we shall find that this is not possible even in theory, no matter how fast the camera might be. Since the camera, no matter how fast, is itself part of the world whose re-creation it is supposed to observe, it will not be able to see its state of non-existence because then it will not be existing itself. Similarly, we ordinarily do not notice the re-creation of the world because we are part of it. However, a specially detailed study of the memory and other human internal and external senses would be necessary to judge how the actual process of perception of the world is happening with the re-creation principle in mind, both in our ‘normal’ state and in those specially enlightened perceptions of the ‘knowers’ which Ibn ‘Arabî points to as the ultimate root of his cosmological thesis of ‘perpetual re-creation’.

On the other hand, other promising domains for testing and examining this model would involve the properties of light particles (photons) and other elementary particles. The peculiar properties of photons that are normally treated as electromagnetic waves can be a starting point to test the model above. The photon, being a wave, has a probability of existence anywhere in space and at any time as long as it is still undetected; it takes fixed space-time co-ordinates only after it is detected either by the eye or by a device. We can therefore say that the photon of light, being the fastest in nature, does not undergo any re-creation, and that is why it is the fastest, because creation or re-creation is a process that takes the smallest quantum of time. Therefore one key to test the Single Monad model experimentally could be in the emission and absorption of light by different known processes, or in the process of converting light into mass (and vice versa) through electron–positron annihilation and pair production (see further below).

The best and easiest potential domain of investigation in this regard is to look at the electron orbits around the nucleus, where it is known that the electron jumps between the orbits when it absorbs or emits a photon of light. Because this process is quantized, the electron may not exist between the orbits; it is therefore re-created in the new orbit (see also the following section). We can therefore say that the re-creation time (i.e. the moment) equals the time the electron takes to move between the orbits (i.e. actually re-appears in the new orbit). This time-gap, however, is different from one atom to another, or even from one orbit to another inside the atom, because it depends on the kind of atoms and on temperature, etc. It is not possible here to discuss this subject in detail, but it is certainly a good point which may constitute a new subject of research.

We may also look in the annihilation of particles and anti-particles into light and vice versa ('pair production'). For example, when an electron meets with a positron (each has a mass of 9.1×10^{-31} kg) they are both annihilated into a massless photon (energy) according to the famous equation $E = mc^2$. One electron alone can not annihilate, and one positron alone can not annihilate. But it is possible to convert energy into particles, as when two sufficiently strong photons meet; they convert into an electron (negative charge e^-) and a positron (positive charge e^+). It is worth mentioning here that Ibn 'Arabî has apparently referred to phenomena that have only been known scientifically after the discovery of elementary particles at the beginning of last century. For example, he says:

When two monads or atoms (jawharân) [like two photons] are joined, it is as though they are two bodies. That is to say, when they are joined with each other, each one of them can be called a body (jism) so that in this respect they are two bodies, as He said: 'and of every thing, We created two pairs' (51:49). He actually created one pair – masculine and feminine, for example. But He called it 'two pairs' for this reason that we just mentioned, because each one of them alone without the other is not a pair, but when another is added to it then each one of them may be called pair (zawj), so they are two pairs.

[I.721.18]

In other places he says that the body is composed of at least eight points, like a unit cube which is similar in shape to the Kaaba [III.276.6] (see also section 6.6). We have already seen in Chapter 6 that, in Ibn 'Arabî's cosmological symbolism, the Kaaba represents the Single Monad. Therefore, we may look at the possibilities of how mass emerges out of massless photons in annihilation and pair production and see if this phenomenon can be related to the cosmogonic conceptions of the 'Week' of creation explained in Chapter 3 and the 'intertwining of days' explained in Chapter 4.

Yet another related and handier possibility of investigation involves the refraction of light in transparent materials. As is well known, light slows down when moving in transparent materials such as air, water and glass; usually the denser the material, the more slowing light suffers, which is indicated as a higher refraction index. The reason why this is the case is because light is absorbed by atoms along the path and then is emitted again by almost every atom along its path. Any absorption and emission of light can be related to the phenomenon of re-creation, so the re-creation hypothesis can be investigated via the phenomena underlying different refraction indexes. The refraction indexes of hundreds of minerals and their density and other properties are already widely available.⁴ So it may be possible, by comparing these data, to find some correlation between the refraction indexes and the underlying refresh rate of re-creation.

Testing this model could also be done by computer simulation, especially since Ibn ‘Arabî himself (in Kitâb Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 11–16) invited people who can do more accurate calculations to calculate the intertwining of Days on a smaller scale than hours (for example, minutes and seconds), as we pointed out in section 4.4. This simulation would have to take into account that, as we mentioned in section 3.6, Ibn ‘Arabî’s theory means that the world is created in six comic ‘Days’ as space and then displayed on the last Day of creation (Saturday) as time.

In general, the possibilities of testing these hypotheses in physics are diverse and worth trying, but here we are more interested in the theological and philosophical consequences developed in the following sections.

7.2 Timeless motion

To start investigating some of the consequences of the cosmological principle of continual re-creation, we can consider the case of the throne of Bilqîs, which Ibn ‘Arabî (and his later commentators) have discussed in his Fusûs Al-Hikam and elsewhere. In most accepted understandings, motion is always associated with time, because, no matter how fast objects move, they need a time greater than zero to reach any point other than their original place. For example, it is well known in physics that the photon of light is the fastest particle in the physical world and that it travels at 300,000 km per second, so it can circle around the Earth seven times in one second. However, this huge velocity is limited and not instantaneous, so apparently physical motions always need time.

In the Qur’an, however, we read the story of the Prophet Solomon and Bilqîs, the Queen of Sheba, when Solomon said to his men:

‘Which of you can bring me her throne before they come to me in submission?’ [Then] a stalwart of the jinn said: “I will bring it to you before you can rise from your place, and I verily am strong and trusty for such work”
(27:39)

But even this really quick action takes time, though very little, so said the one who has knowledge of the Book:⁵ ‘I will bring it to you before your gaze returns unto you!’ [i.e. in less than the blink of the eye, actually immediately]. Then when he (Solomon) saw it placed steadily before him, he said: ‘This is by the Grace of my Lord to test me whether I am grateful or ungrateful!’

(27:38–40)

In this mysterious story it is clear that al-Khidr brought the throne of Bilqîs from Yemen to al-Quds in no time. Because of its great importance in his view of time and the cosmos, Ibn ‘Arabî devotes much of chapter 16 in his famous book the Bezels of Wisdom to talk about this distinctive phenomenon of timeless motion often associated with the extraordinary actions and manifestations of the saints (awliyā') (Corbin 1969: 224–226). Ibn 'Arabî, however, declares that in reality this is not motion, but, rather, the throne was annihilated or extincted from its original place and instantly re-created in front of Solomon, in no time, based on the affirmation in those verses that Solomon saw the throne placed 'steadily' before him before 'he returns his gaze' (i.e. her throne was not shaking, as one would expect when an object moves quickly and then stops suddenly, owing to the deceleration). So indeed there was no motion, but rather – as al-Qâshânî and Bâlî Effendî mentioned in their commentaries on this chapter – all al-Khidr did was to switch the throne from its original location to the new place in front of Solomon.⁶

From this perspective this kind of phenomenon is easily explained, on the basis of the re-creation principle, since, as Ibn 'Arabî frequently affirms, such apparent 'miracles' do not break the divine laws underlying the phenomena of nature, but only break our 'habits' of perception and expectation [II.374.27]. In fact everything that happens in Nature must be explainable under some divine laws, and is in principle possible to be repeated [II.374.11].

In terms of modern physics, this story actually corresponds to the pervasive phenomena that happen in the atom whenever an electron moves from one orbit to another, when it emits or absorbs a photon of light. It is well known in physics that when the electron absorbs or emits a photon its distance from the nucleus in the centre of the atom changes. This change of the distance, however, is abrupt: i.e. it does not travel through between the two places, but rather it disappears from its original orbit and reappears in the new orbit. Usually such kind of instantaneous motion is scarcely explained according to the novel equations of Quantum Mechanics, and it is not explainable at all with the classical Newton's equations (see section 1.3). Indeed such inexplicable electron behaviour was the driving force behind the discovery of the successful theory of Quantum Mechanics.

If we recall Ibn 'Arabî's definition of motion discussed in section 2.6, we can easily account for this type of timeless motion. Such motion, according to Ibn 'Arabî, is not an infinitely gradual change of positions from the start to the destination, but rather a new creation in the second place. However, if we want to be very accurate, the motion of the throne of Bilqîs, like the motion of electrons between orbits and indeed any elementary motion, takes a single 'Day of event' which is equivalent to a single 'atom of time' of what we may count. Measuring the time that the electron needs to switch between two successive orbs might be the key to testing Ibn 'Arabî's cosmological model and developing it in terms of modern scientific theory. This smallest instant of time is the quantum (al-zaman al-fard) of the quantized time that we have discussed in sections 2.8, 4.1 and 6.5.

In normal cases, of course the distance travelled in this smallest moment is also very short, which causes us to see gradual changes; but in principle the distance involved could be anything; as Allah wills, since, whether the change in positions is small or large, the same process of re-creation is taking place. Therefore, what we call the laws of physics or mechanics, are – in terms of Ibn 'Arabî's cosmological conceptions – just a qualitative 'description' of the normally observed order of re-creation, not a real description of the actual process of perpetual re-creation. We shall see further below that this conception has a great impact on our understanding of causality the most fundamental principle in physics.

7.3 Simultaneity

We have seen in section 1.3 that many classical theories considered time as an absolute quantity. This coped very well with the common concept of simultaneity, where events which occur simultaneously in one frame of reference were considered to have occurred simultaneously also in all other frames. With the advent of the Special Theory of Relativity, the idea that light travels at a finite speed in all directions and in all frames of reference changed this piece of common sense. According to this new theory, simultaneous events in one frame of reference are not necessarily considered simultaneous with regard to another frame of reference moving at a relatively high speed with regard to the first.

According to Ibn ‘Arabi’s view of time and his model of the cosmos that we have described above, the concept of simultaneity will have an even more relative aspect. With regard to us – i.e. considered as partial monads present on the level of multiplicity – it is possible to have simultaneous events. The reason is simply because normally we exist only for at one single location of the whole momentary ‘Day of event’ (as we explained in section 2.16). For us, at every single moment of re-creation there is a still picture (which contains infinitely many events) displayed in the world. So from this perspective the concept of simultaneity appears like the classical definition.

But according to the re-creation principle and the oneness of being discussed in Chapters 5 and 6 – in addition to the concept of the single Day of event discussed in section 2.8 – there can be no two cosmic ‘events’ (englobing all of creation) actually happening at the same time, because ‘each Day He is upon some (one, single) task’ (55:29). Therefore, in reality there is no such thing as ‘simultaneity’ – with regard to the Single Monad who is creating the real flow of time (see also Chapter 4) – because It wears only one created form at each instant of time. Simultaneity, and therefore multiplicity, thus appear to occur only because of the re-creation. But in reality there are not any two separate (all-encompassing) ‘events’ happening at the same created instant of time. We shall see the importance of this conclusion more clearly when we discuss the EPR paradox below.

7.4 Zeno’s paradoxes

Motion, as a manifestation of causality, is the main concern behind all the theories of physics, from the pre-Socratics through Newton’s theory of gravity to the most recent theories of Quantum Mechanics and Quantum Gravity. Yet there are a number of famous philosophers who have doubted that there could be any motion at all, despite our daily experience. As is well known, those philosophers expressed perspectives similar to Ibn ‘Arabi’s. Most notably, Parmenides of Elea (b. 510BC) affirmed cosmological conceptions remarkably similar to Ibn ‘Arabi’s doctrine of the oneness of being: he held 'the One' unchanging existence to be alone true, while multitude and change were said to be an appearance without reality. This doctrine was defended by his pupil Zeno (b. c. 488BC), whose philosophy of monism claimed that the many things which appear to exist are merely a single eternal reality which he called Being (a term Ibn 'Arabi also applies to the Single Monad). The complex and rigorous adaptation of Parmenides' hypotheses in Plato's Parmenides – constantly elaborated by the later Neoplatonists – offers even closer analogies to Ibn 'Arabi's overall ontological system. Zeno wrote a book containing forty paradoxes, and, although his book was lost, four of those paradoxes were discussed by Aristotle in his Physics: the Dichotomy, the Achilles, the Arrow and the Stadium. Each of those four paradoxes challenges all claims that there is real motion (Heath 1981: 273–283; Sorensen 2003: 44–57; Darling 2004: 351; Leiber 1993: 77; Erickson 1998: 218–220).

The Dichotomy paradox concludes that there is no motion because that which is moved must arrive at the middle of its course before it arrives at the end. In order to traverse a line segment it is necessary to reach its midpoint. To do this, one must reach the one-fourth point; to do this, one must reach the one-eighth point, and so on ad infinitum. Hence motion can never begin, because the sum $1/2 + 1/4 + 1/8 + \dots$ equals one, but only after an infinite number of additions, and therefore it actually approaches one but never reaches it. Even more perplexing to the human mind is the attempt to sum $1/2 + 1/4 + 1/8 + \dots$ backwards: for we can never get started, since we are trying to build up this infinite sum from the wrong end!

The paradox of Achilles attempts to show that, even though Achilles runs faster than the tortoise, he will never catch her! Let us suppose that Achilles runs at ten metres per second and the tortoise at only one metre per second, and that when the race started the tortoise was ten metres ahead. After one second Achilles would arrive at the point where the tortoise was when the race started, but the tortoise would have moved one metre further – so that by the time Achilles covers this one metre, the tortoise would have advanced again 0.1 metre, and so on. Thus Achilles can never catch the tortoise.

Zeno bases the above two arguments on the fact that once a thing is divisible, then it is infinitely divisible. One could counter the above two paradoxes by postulating an atomic theory in which matter (or space) is composed of many small indivisible elements. However the remaining two paradoxes cause problems only if we consider that space is made up of indivisible elements that may be cut in indivisible durations of time.

Turning to the third paradox of the Arrow: if we consider the path of an arrow in flight, at each instant of its path the arrow occupies some position in space; this is what it means to say that space is discrete. But to occupy some position in space is to be at rest in this position. So throughout the entire path of the arrow through space, it is in fact at rest! Or if in an indivisible instant of time the arrow moved, then indeed this instant of time would be divisible (for example, in a smaller instant of time the arrow would have moved half that distance).

The fourth paradox of the Stadium is a little more complicated, but it leads to the same result as the above – i.e. that time and space can not be discrete – while, on the contrary, we have seen that the first two paradoxes may be resolved only if we assume that time and space are not continuous

The above four paradoxes challenge not only all scientific theories of motion but also our everyday experience. For this reason they have often been dismissed as logical nonsense. Many attempts, however, have also been made to dispose of them by means of mathematical theorems, such as the theory of convergent series or the theory of sets. Aristotle did not fully appreciate the significance of Zeno's arguments, since he called them 'fallacies', without actually being able to refute them. Many modern scientists like to believe that axiomatic mathematics has dispelled Zeno's paradoxes, where now it is possible to talk about limits and infinity without reaching any mathematical contradiction and it can be proved that the sum of an infinite number of halving intervals is finite. But some recent philosophers such as Bertrand Russell persisted with such arguments, and recently similar puzzling phenomena (called the 'quantum Zeno effect') have been observed in radioactive atoms (Misra and Sudarshan 1977: 756; Grossing and Zeilinger 1991: 321–326).

With Ibn 'Arabî's re-creation principle, we would have no difficulty at all in resolving Zeno's paradoxes and reconciling his conclusion that there is no motion with our daily perceptions. So although there is no real motion in the sense that the object gradually leaves its position to a new one, but rather it is re-created in ever new positions so that we imagine it moving between these places. For example, when we watch a 'movie' on the television, we have no doubt that nothing really moves on the screen, but it is only a succession of different frames. According to Ibn 'Arabî's cosmological perspective, the whole world is exactly like that (see section 6.8). As we noted in section 2.6, Ibn 'Arabî plainly stated that the object that we see moving actually is re-created in the distinct places between its start and destination one after another and does not really 'move' between them [II.457.31], so there is never any real motion in such a way that the object 'gradually moves' along its path. Thus Ibn 'Arabî, like Zeno and Parmenides, believes that the whole world is a manifestation of a single entity which alone can be described to have a real existence. But Ibn 'Arabî's distinctive contribution is to show how the multiplicity of the world emerges from or within the Single Monad.

7.5 Discreteness and continuousness

There is no doubt that Zeno has presented a deep problem which, despite centuries of efforts to resolve it, still seems to lack a truly satisfactory solution. As Frankel wrote:

The human mind, when trying to give itself an accurate account of motion, finds itself confronted with two aspects of the phenomenon. Both are inevitable but at the same time they are mutually exclusive. Either we look at the continuous flow of motion; then it will be impossible for us to think of the object in any particular position. Or we think of the object as occupying any of the positions through which its course is leading it; and while fixing our thought on that particular position we can not help fixing the object itself and putting it at rest for one short instant.

(Frankel 1942: 1–25, 193–206)

This basic dilemma of discreteness and continuousness has kept coming up in various guises, but most clearly in the long historical debate on the nature of light: whether it is particles or waves. With the success of the wave theory in the nineteenth century, the continuum seemed to have won. But in 1899, when Max Planck solved the ‘black body problem’⁷ by postulating that atoms could absorb or emit energy only in discrete amounts, the age of Quantum Theory began. Soon after that, Bohr used the concept of quantization to construct the first successful atomic model, and Einstein was able to analyse the photoelectric effect only by adopting the quantum nature of light. However, Quantum Theory was not able to solve the question of motion and change, where the continuous theory of Relativity was more successful.

So the human mind is accustomed to classifying quantities as either countable or uncountable, or either discrete or continuous; there is no other way. This is inevitable on the level of multiplicity. But on the level of oneness (i.e. of all-inclusive ahadiyya or ‘unicity’) there would be no meaning for such terms. A first look at Ibn ‘Arabî’s model could conclude that, on the level of multiplicity, the world should be certainly discrete, and therefore that Ibn ‘Arabî might easily adopt the atomist view. But the issue this raises is quite similar to what we have discussed earlier in Chapter 2 about the length of the moment and whether it is composed of discrete sub-moments, or whether it has a length at all. We have seen that it is not easy to decide for either case. Similarly, it is not easy to judge – even on the multiplicity level – whether the world is ultimately continuous or discrete. Although there are discrete events happening in discrete times, still the change from one event to another looks continuous, just like the flow of normal days; there is no abrupt change. Although we can easily divide events over days and classify them according to the date, actually the relation between any two consecutive events that happened during the day is not different from those which happened also consecutively but on different days – for example, right before and after morning or evening. In other words, the motion of the Earth around its axis, though generating the appearance of different distinct days, it is itself a continuous process. Likewise, the all-creative ‘motion’ of the Single Monad is also a continuous process in everlasting alteration between ‘daytimes’ and ‘night-times’, manifestation and being hidden, material and spiritual – yet there is no point of separation or abrupt transformation between any two periods or states. That is why Ibn ‘Arabî calls the terms of discreteness and continuousness ‘disconnected’ (munfasil) and ‘connected’ (muttasil), because for him the actual process of change (re-creation) is like a one-dimensional flow of divine manifestation. So if there is an apparent continuity or discontinuity, that would only be in our imagination or abstract consideration, but not in reality [III.324.35–325.18].

7.6 The EPR paradox

Physics theories, which are mainly based on explaining motion and its relation to time, have worked fine for centuries, so that people have been able to send spaceships to the Moon and other planets with great timing accuracy. Dismissing Zeno's paradoxes, therefore, had no negative consequences for applied physics. However, no single theory up to now has been able to explain all observations, especially when it comes to the microcosms of subatomic particles, where new paradoxes are still arising.

One of the most pertinent tests of Ibn 'Arabī's cosmological model is that through its principles the prominent Einstein–Podolsky–Rosen (EPR) paradox could be so easily and readily understood. The EPR paradox demonstrates the discrepancy between the two principal theories of physics: Quantum Theory and Relativity. Quantum Theory is one of the most successful theories of science. It explained the structure of atoms, the properties of materials, elementary particles and stars. Although it was generally consistent with the results of many decades of experimenting, the basic conceptual foundations of Quantum Mechanics can lead to some puzzling paradoxes and strange unacceptable features. The EPR paradox is possibly one of the most compelling of these apparently peculiarly unacceptable features.

In 1935 Einstein, Podolsky and Rosen – in their famous article titled: 'Can Quantum-Mechanical Description of Physical Reality be Considered Complete?' (Einstein et al. 1935: 777) – developed a thought experiment to demonstrate what they felt was a lack of completeness in Quantum Mechanics. This so-called 'EPR paradox' has led to much subsequent and still ongoing research. The purpose of the EPR thought experiment was to expose the profound peculiarities of the quantum description of a physical system extended over a large region of space. It seemed that, under certain conditions, a quantum system of two entangled particles could in theory exchange information instantaneously or, at least, faster than the speed of light. This clearly contradicts the principle of 'locality' in Einstein's theory of Relativity, which supposes that the speed of light is a maximum terminal velocity. The phenomena of entanglement also lead to the violation of Heisenberg's sacred 'uncertainty principle', which declares that not all the classical physical observables (e.g. position and momentum) of a system can be simultaneously known with unlimited precision, even in principle.

On the basis of these contradictions, EPR refused this deterministic nature of Quantum Mechanics and postulated that the existence of 'hidden variables', some thus far unknown properties of the system, should account for the paradoxical discrepancy. Niels Bohr, on the other hand, favoured the view put together in the 'Copenhagen interpretation' of Quantum Theory and refused the idea of hidden variables (Bohr 1935: 696).

In 1964 John Bell proposed a mechanism to test for the existence of these hidden variables, and he developed his 'inequality principle' as the basis for such a test (Bell 1966: 447). This was followed by many experiments to verify this principle. The most successful of these experiments was performed by Alain

Aspect and his colleagues in 1982 (Aspect 1982a: 1804; Aspect 1982b: 91). Their experiment consisted of light polarization measurements made on pairs of photons, moving in opposite directions, emitted simultaneously in single transitions by calcium atoms, then measured by sensitive detectors on each side. The results of the experiment clearly violate Bell's inequalities, eliminating the need for the existence of hidden variables and thus supporting the predictions of non-local Quantum Mechanics (which violate Einstein's locality principle and even common sense). The results showed that apparently the left-hand detecting apparatus was sending some kind of message to the right-hand photon informing it as to how the left-hand one was set up, so that the right-hand photon could interact in the appropriate way with the right-hand apparatus. But as a matter of fact there is no communication at all between the left and the right photons, and, if we suppose there is, then the signal would have to travel faster than the speed of light.

Many even more accurate experiments have been performed after that, and all show that it is as if time 'stops' between the pair of entangled particles and they interact instantaneously despite the large distance between them. Although this experimental outcome supports the fundamental concepts of the theory of Quantum Mechanics and contradicts Einstein's locality principle, but there is no adequate theoretical explanation for it, so far.

Now one of the striking consequences of Ibn 'Arabî's principle of re-creation by the Single Monad is that such strange instantaneous behaviour between the two entangled particles would be natural and very easily explained. According to his cosmological theories the constant creation of the manifest world proceeds like a movie composed of succeeding still pictures. Each momentary 'picture' of the world is like a closed system, where any change in one part of this picture would require another synchronizing change or changes in other part(s), so that the whole does not change because there is no external interaction, only 'internal' changes. We have also explained that all 'parts' of the world are created in series by the Single Monad that constantly creates ('puts on') ever new forms, one total individual form at each instant of time – such that each created form then ceases to exist (intrinsically, not through any other force) the next moment after its existence.

Now if we take that theory of cosmic re-creation into account, we can simply say that the two entangled particles in these experiments, like any two entities in the world, never existed together at the same. Rather, the Single Monad first wears the form of the first particle – i.e. causes this particle to exist (under special conditions); then this unique Single Monad itself wears other forms in a specific sequence (see section 5.6), until it comes to wear or create the form of the second particle – regardless of where it is in space. But by the moment of this second state of creation, the first particle is out of existence, and therefore it encountered no time. Now, because the two particles are 'entangled' (in a closed system), any change on the first form that corresponds to the first particle will be kept in the 'memory' of the Single Monad, so that when it comes to wear the form of the second particle it does so in a way that keeps the total state of the system of the two particles unchanged (according to the Quantum Mechanical laws, because it is a closed system). This process is instantaneous; no matter how far apart the two particles are, because only one particle really exists at a time, and during the interval between creating the two particles they were both out of existence, encountering no time. This hypothesis corresponds to Ibn ‘Arabî’s account of ‘the real flow of time’ that we explained in Chapter 4.

In fact what we have just said applies to any (large or small) system and not simply the system of those two entangled particles, but in normal cases the effect of the ongoing process of cosmic re-creation is not noticeable because of the many possible changes that could happen in any part of the complex system and the corresponding distraction of our limited means of attention and perception. In other words: any change in any part of the world will cause synchronization changes in all other parts, because the world as a whole is a closed system. This last statement is in fact another and more precise depiction of the whole cosmic process of existentiating causality. This conception also provides a hypothetical explanation for certain ‘para-psychological’ phenomena.

7.7 Causality and induction

As Ibn ‘Arabî often pointed out in his analyses of our unconscious reliance on our ‘habitual’ forms of perception (‘âda), the main obstacle that prevents us from discovering the reality of creation is our deep trust in causality and induction. It is true that we live by causes and results, but indeed this is only a limited and superficial perspective with regard to the underlying realities. The fact of the matter is that what we refer to as ‘cause’ and ‘result’ – i.e. what Ibn ‘Arabî normally calls the asbâb (s. sabab), or intermediate or ‘apparent’ causes – are chronologically arranged, but ontologically unrelated. This is quite evident in terms of the re-creation principle discussed above, but Ibn ‘Arabî also clearly declares that ‘Allah creates things “next to” (‘inda) the causes and not “through” (bi) them’ [II.204.13, Tadbîrât: 312]. As we’ve already seen above and in section 2.6 that motion is only a new creation in a different place, so there is no deeper, inherent ontological relation between the two created states before and after motion.

Also – as a result of the readily observed systematic causes and effects – we normally rely upon induction in drawing most of our conclusions about causality. But in chapter 56 of the Futûhât, Ibn ‘Arabî argues that ‘in reality induction (al-istiqrâ’) does not give any (true divine) knowledge’ [I.285.3]. The reason why he concludes that is simply because nothing is ever truly repeated [I.285.28], as we have also shown above in discussing the re-creation principle. Induction ultimately means that we expect something to occur in a specific definitive way, based on previous observations of similar circumstances and regularities.

For these reasons, according to Ibn ‘Arabî, the basic observational and logical principles that the scientists and philosophers of his time relied upon in seeking the truth are indeed not firm, so that their practical success deceives us with regard to their limitations and restricted spheres of application. For this reason Ibn 'Arabî's answer to Ibn Rushd (see section 5.1) was first 'yes', but then he immediately added again 'no', to highlight the limitations of the philosophers' methods, in comparison to his own reliance on divine inspiration and 'unveiling'.

Ibn 'Arabî, however, does not deny the phenomenological relevance of the apparent, intermediate 'causes' (asbâb): on the contrary he affirms that they are intentionally established by Allah, so they are unavoidable [II.653.11], and we must rely on such causes to reach our goals. So those observable secondary or apparent causes may not be removed:

And we already informed you that apparent-causes (asbâb) are divine veils, so that removing them is not possible except through them (i.e. by other secondary causes). So the very removing of causes is in fact fixing them; and the reality of abolishing them is (actually) affirming them.

[II.553.31; see also I.382.26, III.340.9, IV.275.23 and III.235.28]

So since they are veils, we have to look through them to see the Real, Who continually creates the causes and the results and arranges them in this specific 'habitual' dependency. As Ibn 'Arabî explains, Allah creates simply by the Command 'Be', and therefore He does not need the secondary causes; but He establishes these apparent causes for us to unveil them [II.413.35], though we would never be able to unveil the causes completely and permanently, especially since our own unenlightened mentality itself is the main veil [II.553.6].

In the short chapter 252 of the Futûhât Ibn 'Arabî analyses the known spiritual state of 'abolishment' (al-mahw), in which the spiritually realized person is freed from the unconscious limitations of habitual perception ('âda), so that the rule of apparent 'causality' is removed for him and he can directly perceive the universal reality of ever-renewed creation. There he says:

For the person in the state of 'abolishment' (of the 'habitual' perception of causality), relying on causes is removed, but not the causes. For Allah never deactivates the rule of (divine) wisdom with regard to the (created) things, and the apparent-causes are (like all other creations) divine 'veils' established.

The greatest of those veils may not be removed, which is your own individual self ('ayn: also, 'eye'). For your individual self is also the cause (still sabab) behind the existence of (the possibility of our) knowing and recognizing Allah – since knowing Allah may not come to exist except through your individual self!

So it is not possible for you (i.e. the veil of your ego-self) to be 'removed' with Allah's wanting to be known (by you). So He abolishes you from (witnessing) yourself, so you no longer stop with (witnessing) yourself, even though your individual self still exists, since the manifestation (of His transforming) influence is from Him. This is just as (in the famous incident at Badr alluded to in verse 8:17) He 'abolished' (the normal causal role of) the Messenger of Allah, may Allah have peace and mercy upon him, with regard to his throwing, despite the (actual) existence of throwing by Him: so He said 'and you threw not', so he abolished him; 'when you threw', so He affirmed the apparent-cause; 'but Allah threw' (8:17), and He only threw by the hand of the Messenger of Allah, may Allah have peace and mercy upon him.

[II.553.5]

The apparent-causes are indeed manifestations of the influences of His Names, which is why we see the effects following from those causes, but indeed the effect – like all of creation – is also only (ultimately) caused by Allah Himself. This means, as Ibn 'Arabî affirms, that the names of causes are in fact Names of God:

Then you have to know that the contingent things (creatures) are by essence in need (of being given existence), so that need always accompanies them because their essence (as contingent, 'needy' things) is forever. So He established for them the apparent-causes (asbâb) through the presence of which they receive what they need. So they are in need of the apparent-causes, therefore Allah made the individual-reality ('ayn') of those apparent-causes Names for Him. So the names of the causes are from (the influence of) His Names, may He be Exalted, so that (the contingent thing) should only need Him, because this is the correct knowledge (of the nature of things).

So there is no difference, for the people of unveiling, between the names that are said to be the Names of Allah according to (religious) custom and the revelation, and the names of the apparent-causes, so far as their (all) being Names of Allah, because He said: 'you all are in need of Allah' (35:15). For we see in reality the need for the apparent-causes, so the names of the apparent-causes must be Names of Allah, the Exalted. So we call out in prayer to those names (of the apparent-causes) by (the needfulness of our actual) state, not through outward words (of prayer).

Thus when we are touched by hunger we rush to seek the food that may remove the pain of hunger. So we are in need of it, and it has no need of us – although we (in fact) are only in need of Allah. So that (food) is one of His Names: I mean the form of this food descends to take the place of the spoken or written word of the (corresponding) divine Name. That is why He ordered to be thankful to the apparent-causes (31:14), because He ordered us to be thankful to Him – that is, to thank Him through them.

[III.208.7]

But seeing through the apparent causes (to the One real Cause or Creator) is not easy, and ultimately the meditations and path of ascension of the spiritual seeker are all directed toward that. At the end of this path, the seeker will see only the Image of the Real (rather than his ego-self), and that is why 'whoever knows himself knows his Lord'.

However it is very important to notice that at the highest steps of this ascension, as the seeker advances, he gradually loses the awareness of his limited physical composition, so that what remains at the end is the pure receptivity of 'hearing', just as 'hearing' (samâ, or sam') was the first condition of all things created. Thus Ibn 'Arabî says:

He said: 'and Our word unto a thing, when We intend it, is only that We say unto it "Be!", and it is' (16:40), but He deafened us from perceiving this word except by the way of faith, and He blinded us from seeing His intention (tawajjuh) on creating the things, by the apparent-causes that He established. thus He sends the rain down, and it falls; and He makes fertile the land, the seeds sprout; then He sends out the sunlight, so the plants rise, and (the seeds) harvested, ground up, kneaded, baked and chewed by the teeth; then they were swallowed, ripened in the stomach, taken by the liver and made into blood, sent into the vessels and distributed over the body until the (life-giving) vapour rises out of them, so the life of this body is for the sake of that breath (that we breathe).

So these are the primary apparent-causes (for life), along with (His) moving the celestial spheres and the motions of their planets, casting the rays on the places (illuminated by) the (celestial) lights – (all that) under the supervision of the Universal Soul, with Allah's permission, and the support of the (First) Intellect for (the Universal Soul). All these are veils, established as the fundamental (apparent-causes), in addition to the other, lesser apparent-causes. So the (human receptivity or) 'hearing' needs to break through all those veils until it hears the (creative divine) word 'Be!'. Therefore He created in the person of faith the power of faith, so that it flows into his hearing until he realizes the word 'Be', and it flows into his sight until he witnesses the One Who gives existence to the apparent-causes. And He has done all that through the 'Breath of the All-Merciful'.

[II.413.35]

So – despite their ultimately being ontologically unrelated – one cannot deny the effect of the apparent-causes. Therefore, we have to look at other prospects for redefining the principle of causality. We have seen before (section 3.5) that Ibn 'Arabî affirmed that after all the forms in the world have been created in the six Days from Sunday to Friday (which is space), nothing remained to be created on Saturday, that is the 'Day of eternity' or the instant of time that we live in at each now. What remains is only continual creative changing the states of things 'from (one) state to (another) state and from (one) station to (another) station' [I.61.14]. Therefore the system of the world, as a still picture created in the Week, is a 'closed system' in the meaning that all changes in it are necessarily internal changes.

Therefore, whatever change happens in one part of this world will require another change in other part(s), so that the total state does not change. This last statement seems to articulate a new, more adequate form of the causality principle, and indeed this is exactly one of the principles of Quantum Mechanics which has proved to be successful over the last century (see section 1.3). This is in fact a very important conclusion and it could be the key to a new understanding of the reality of motion. This also might explain the types of what science tends to view as inexplicable ‘para psychological’ phenomena, such as the telekinetic effects and telepathy which are widely known as karâmât (acts of grace). The world in all its directions of space and time, past and future, here and there, is already encoded (via the divine Foreknowledge) in the Single Monad, so whoever has any access to that Source should be able to predict what is in or affects other parts of the world. If we want to study this issue further we have to look at the divine Attributes of Power and Will, and their image in the human being and the world, and relate them to time and space, as Ibn ‘Arabî discussed at the end of his short treatise Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ.

7.8 Superstrings and the science of letters

In the standard model of elementary particle physics, particles are considered to be points (or spheres) moving through the four dimensions of space-time. Extra abstract dimensions are needed to take into account the different properties such as mass, charge and spin.⁸ This standard model eventually led to obvious discrepancies between Einstein’s theory of General Relativity and the Quantum Field Theory that is essentially based on the wave properties of matter (see section 1.3, and also section 7.6).

Around 1985, the new String Theory suggested that all elementary particles can be represented by fundamental building blocks called ‘strings’ that can be closed, like loops, or open, like a hair. The different vibrational modes (or ‘notes’) of the string represent the different particle types, since different modes are seen as different masses or spins. One mode of vibration makes the string appear as an electron, another as a photon. But one of the most remarkable predictions of String Theory is that space-time has ten dimensions rather than four. However, six of these dimensions are curled up very tightly, which is why we may never be normally aware of their existence. Other subsequent extensions of the String Theory anticipate even higher dimensions.

There are deep and exciting similarities between the principles of the String Theory and Ibn ‘Arabî’s views. We have already mentioned in section 2.1 that he says that there are four ‘fundamental principles of existence’ that are – in addition to ‘another six derived from them’ – enough to describe the state of everything in the world [III.404.22]. But what is most exciting in this regard is Ibn ‘Arabî’s concept of the mysterious ‘science of letters’ (‘ilm al-hurûf) or what he calls the ‘world of Breaths’ (‘âlam al-anfâs).

We’ve already mentioned above (section 6.6) the complex symbolic cosmological analogies that Ibn ‘Arabî elaborates, beginning in the long second chapter of the Futûhât, between the cosmos, the Single Monad and the Greatest Element on the one hand, and the world of letters on the other hand. Ibn ‘Arabî adds that ‘the world of letters is a nation like other nations . . . and those who know that are only the people of unveiling in our path, . . . and they (the nation of letters) are grouped into groups like the normal world that we know’ [I.58.12].

These 'groups' refer to the groups of the spiritual hierarchy that we have mentioned above, which Ibn 'Arabî explained in detail in chapter 73 of the Futûhât.

Ibn 'Arabî also mentioned at the end of chapter 1 of the Futûhât that 'the first line that I read (from the hidden knowledge of the Spirit from whom he took everything that he wrote in the Futûhât), and the first secret of this line that I knew, is what I am going to mention in this second chapter' [I.51.30]. Then he wrote about 40 extremely dense pages on the cosmological dimensions and significance of the science of letters in chapter 2.⁹ In this chapter and other parts of the Futûhât, Ibn 'Arabî mentioned many mysterious facts about the letters and their world and cosmological meaning. For example, Ibn 'Arabî explained there the relation between the characters of the word azal, as written in Arabic, and the meaning of time (zamân) by tracing the mysterious relation between the letters in both words, as he mentioned in his Kitâb Al-Azal.

This is in fact a very broad and complicated subject, and we cannot go into details here. What we do want to summarize is that Ibn 'Arabî considers the entire cosmos as the words of the Real spoken through the 'Breath of the All-Merciful' [I.366.1, II.403.21, 459.6; see also Al-Masâ'il 105], just like the meanings that we create through the words that we speak which are also composed of letters (or sounds) that are essentially the vibrations of our vocal strings under the influence of our breath. In chapter 2 of the Futûhât, Ibn 'Arabî gives details about the cosmological significance of each letter, how it is produced, what kind of vibrations it carries, and also the different orbs that contribute to produce it. Then in the long chapter 198 [II.390–478], which is titled 'On Knowing the Breath', Ibn 'Arabî mentioned remarkable facts about these cosmic meanings of the letters and sounds, and he explained the role of each divine Name of Allah in creating the different parts of the world and the different letters of the alphabet.

As one small illustration, we refer here to the letter (and sound) alif (ا), the first letter in the Arabic alphabet (and many other languages), which Ibn 'Arabî treats as symbolically identical to the Single Monad we have mentioned above (section 6.6) – not only because it is first but because it represents the closest thing to the pure creative, foundational divine 'Breath' itself. First Ibn 'Arabî asserts that 'alif is not from (other) letters' [I.65.23], but he stresses that 'all letters (like the world) may be broken down into and built up from it, while it does not break down into them' [I.78.22], so this letter alif is present in every letter or word, just like the Single Monad that is also present in everything in the world. Indeed any sound that we produce starts by the sound of letter alif because it is simply the beginning of the blowing of the breath through the larynx.

So since the cosmos is the words of the Real and those words are composed of letters or sounds produced through the Breath of the All-Merciful, these letters are the strings that constitute everything in the cosmos, just as the meanings that we create when we speak are also composed of the letters of the alphabet. Even the written shape and curvature of the Arabic characters, for Ibn 'Arabî, have deep hidden meanings that relate to the cosmos in many mysterious ways: in that sense, those shapes, just like the strings in the Strings Theory, are essentially either open like letter alif (ا), or closed like letters mîm (م) and wâw (و).

The science of letters and of their equivalent numbers (‘ilm al-jifr) was not Ibn ‘Arabî’s own invention, but was widely known in various ‘esoteric sciences’, for example those that deal with magic and talismans, where they replace each letter by its equivalent numbers and make certain calculations and tables that are said to have secret magical effects, or may tell hidden facts. In her famous book Mystical Dimensions of Islâm, Annemarie Schimmel devoted a separate appendix to the wider theme of letter symbolism in Sufi literature (Schimmel 1975: 411–425). In fact this kind of mythology dates back to the time of Pythagoras of Samos (582–504 BC), who visualized the world as perfect harmony, like musical notes, which depends on the system of numbers (which were written with the same letters of the alphabet in both Greek and later in Arabic).

As we said, these letters are arranged in a symbolic cosmological hierarchy parallel to the spiritual hierarchy of the saints that Ibn ‘Arabî explained in chapter 73 of the Futûhât. In fact it is noteworthy that Ibn ‘Arabî calls the members (awliyâ) of the spiritual hierarchy ‘the world of Breaths’ [II.6.21], or ‘the Men of the world of Breaths’ [II.11.9]. Also that is why sometimes Ibn ‘Arabî calls the single Days of each singular instant ‘the Days of Breaths’ [III.127.34], because in this Day the creative divine Breath is taken which is the string or the vibration that appears in existence. Hence in each single Day the string (or the Single Monad, or the ‘real-through-whom-creation-takes-place’) is vibrating to produce the letter (or sound) alif; and the world therefore is the words that are composed of these alifs that are produced in the succeeding Days. The Single Monad is the ultimate elementary String, but there are also other elementary strings: just as letter alif forms other letters (both in writing and speaking) the Single Monad also forms other monads that are the entities of everything in the world.

For Ibn ‘Arabî, this cosmological analogy applies both to speaking (sounds) and to writing (characters), because the ‘Higher Pen’ (that is the Single Monad) is creating the cosmos by literally writing the words of the Real in the ‘Higher Tablet’ of the Universal Soul. This process of writing produces the ‘Pen-sounds’ (sarîf al-aqlâm), which are the vibrations that are referred to in the hadith recounting the ascension of the Prophet Muhammad [III.61.9].

So we say that the First Intellect that is the first-created (or first-originated: awwal mubda’), and he is the Higher Pen. There was nothing else originated before (muhdath) him, but he was influenced by what Allah newly originated in him by raising up through him the ‘Protected Tablet’ (of the World-Soul), like the raising up of Eve from Adam in the world of material-bodies, so that this Tablet is going to be the substrate and place for what this divine Higher Pen writes (through the ‘words’ of creation). Now the delineation of the letters is designed to indicate what the Real made as signs pointing to Him.

So the Protected Tablet was the first existent raised up (from another: mawjûd inbi’âthî). And it is reported in the revelation (of the Prophet) that

‘the first of what Allah created was the Pen; then He created the Tablet and said unto the Pen: “write!”, so the Pen said: “what to write?” Then Allah said unto him: “you write and I shall dictate you”’ [Kanz: 15116]. So the Pen writes in the Tablet what Allah dictates to him, which is His Knowledge regarding His creation that He shall create till the resurrection Day.

[I.139.23]

Ibn ‘Arabî also divides the letters of the alphabet between four existents: the real (through whom creation takes place), the angels, the jinn and the Humans [I.53.1], which we may render into vibrations in 0-D, 1-D, 2-D and 3-D as we shall explain in the following section. This, he explains, is because hearing (sam‘) is based on four realities [II.367.24], and that is why in the science of music and notes there are four main notes: the Bum (the thick string), the Zîr (the highest string), Muthannâ (duo), and Muthallath (trio): each moves the soul in a special way, causing the emotions of happiness and sadness [II.367.26].

But as Ibn ‘Arabî explains in a chapter (182) entirely devoted to ‘hearing’ – i.e. metaphysical ‘receptivity’ in all its forms:

So ‘Hearing’, in this sense, is divided into three kinds: divine hearing, spiritual hearing and natural hearing. The divine hearing is that of the (divine) secrets (asrâr) and it is hearing from everything, in everything and through everything, because all of the world, for them (the true divine ‘knowers’), is the words of Allah, and ‘His words are never exhausted’ (18:109, 31:27). Therefore they have, corresponding to those (divine creative) words, ‘hearings’ that never end . . .

And the spiritual hearing is connected to the sounds (sarîf) of the divine pens on the Tablet of what exists, (which is) ‘Protected’ from changes and substitutions because the whole of existence is ‘a spread parchment’ (riqq manshûr, 52:3) and the world in relation to it is an ‘inscribed book’ (kitâb mastûr, 52:2): so the Pens speak out, and the ears of the minds hear, and the words are engraved (in manifest existence) so they are witnessed.

[II.367.7–9, 18–19]

So these words are the spiritual and material world that we live in, which is therefore the succession of the vibrations (letters) produced by the divine creative Breath through the Single Monad that is the Universal Intellect, and displayed in the Universal Tablet. This subject is indeed very diverse and important, and it is worth a separate study. Ibn ‘Arabî himself spent a good part of the Futûhât on this subject, as illustrated in the long chapters 2 [I.51–91] and 198 [II.390–478].

7.9 The properties of matter

In apparent disagreement with physics, and also with common sense, Ibn ‘Arabî paradoxically declares that most common properties of matter like weight, density, transparency and softness are related to the perceiver and not to the objects themselves [II.458.14]. There are only two exceptions, the colour and the shape, where Ibn 'Arabî accepts that they can be related to something in the object itself, though they may also be dependent on the perceiver like other properties.

At a first glance this might be difficult to accept, especially since it clearly contradicts our daily experience. However, we have already seen in section 2.6 that Ibn 'Arabî's unique understanding of motion may be understood only on the basis of the oneness of being and the re-creation principle that we explained in section 5.6. Similarly, if we accept that objects and the whole world are continuously created and re-created by the Single Monad, then we have to revise our view about the structure of matter: for there actually exist (in this view) only the individual substances or monads and their forms, so that other properties are consequences and not intrinsic.

Regarding the structure of the cosmos, Ibn 'Arabî also mentions that the structure of the higher world (i.e. the planets, spheres and stars) 'is different from what the cosmologists say, although what they say is based on (observational) proof(s); and it would have been possible for Allah to have it arranged that way (as they say) – but He did not' [II.670.7].

This statement – which might allude to such prevalent current astronomical theories as the model of 'epicycles', or the assertion of a unique distinctive 'element' ('quintessence') constituting the higher spheres and planets – means that he regards the models of the Cosmos devised by scientists and philosophers as logically possible, but not true, solutions to the results given by astronomical observations.

7.10 Dimensions of the unseen world

One of the most obvious differences between science and theology is that the first speaks only about physical phenomena (including energy), while the latter assumes the existence of spiritual or non-material beings, such as the jinn and angels, and of various spiritual worlds, including those dimensions associated with the Hereafter. Therefore one of the possibilities in order to bridge that gap is to extrapolate modern laws of physics and cosmology to those unseen worlds. Some recent scientific attempts have been made in this regard, and most postulate that the reason why we do not normally see those supra-natural worlds is that they have higher dimensions (e.g. nine or ten dimensions).¹⁰ However, there are indications that Ibn 'Arabî sometimes suggests that angels and jinn are 'physical' or 'natural' creatures less advanced than humans. In that case, angels and jinn have lower dimensions – one-dimensional (1-D) and two-dimensional (2-D) respectively – while we humans, are three-dimensional (3-D) creatures, who in the Hereafter (or perhaps even before) may be developed into four dimensions. Here we are speaking about spatial dimensions alone.

Since we are now ordinarily 3-D creatures, we can not in general see jinn and angels because our ordinary sensory tools are used to detect only 3-D phenomena. In contrary to that, jinn and angels can see us – not because their senses are capable of perceiving 3-D phenomena but because they rather perceive and interact with our souls and intellects which are of their own nature (of 2-D and 1-D respectively). Likewise jinn and humans can not in general see the angels. However, it is possible for humans to cross over to the jinn and angel worlds by transforming into 2-D and 1-D [I.168.20] and this is what happens to the seeker at the beginning of his or her path and in the spiritual ascension, which is why advanced human beings are able to speak and interact with spirits easily [III.332.11], until they ultimately witnesses the Real Himself. But in order to reach this final stage, the spiritual seeker must be ‘annihilated’ into 0-D, because the Real can only be witnessed by His secret (‘the real through whom creation takes place’) which He has implemented in everything [I.168.22, see also III.540.33].

Dimensions play a very important role in modern cosmology and mathematics. There are real dimensions and abstract dimensions. In principle, we can – mathematically – assign a dimension to any parameter of a specific function. For example the weather at any point on the Earth is a function of many parameters such as time, place, the nuclear reactions on the Sun, the amount of cloud in the area, the direction of winds etc. Each one of these parameters can be considered as an abstract dimension for the sake of simplifying the mathematical study of the dependency of weather on these parameters or dimensions. Real dimensions, on the other hand, are only those three dimensions of space (i.e. length, width, depth; or x , y , z), and no more. Although time is considered as a real dimension in Relativity, it is not a spatial dimension and so we shall not consider it as real in this regard (see also section 2.5).

So here we shall speak only about the three real dimensions of space. In fact those three dimensions make six (as Ibn ‘Arabî often points out), if we take into account that each dimension has two directions. Those six dimensions or directions are: (up, down), (right, left), (front, back); or $(-x, +x)$, $(-y, +y)$, $(-z, +z)$.

I have to mention, however, that Ibn ‘Arabî never arranged the creations in terms of dimensions as we are suggesting in this section; but this possibility is quite evident from his various texts, and many of his ideas can be easily understood on this basis, as we shall see shortly.

With regard to dimensions, existence can be divided into five categories, as we shall explain in the remainder of this chapter:

7.10.1 The real

He is the Being of ‘zero dimension’ (0-D): i.e. of no dimensions, which means He is independent of space and time. That is why Ibn ‘Arabî sometimes symbolically indicates God as a dot or a point [III.275], for example as the centre of the circle of creation as we have seen in the cosmogonic diagram in Figure 7.1; also, the dot that is used in many characters of the Arabic alphabet, especially the letters bâ’ (ب) and nûn (ن). However, ‘the Real’ here may refer to Allah Himself or also to the Greatest Element who is the Image of Real, or the ‘real through whom creation takes place' (al-haqq al-makhlûq bihi), and he is the true 'Image of God', as we have discussed in the two preceding chapters. So when we speak about the Real with regard to the creation and spatial dimensions, we usually mean the Greatest Element rather than Allah, since Allah Himself, His Essence, is beyond all descriptions including dimensions.

Figure 7.1 0-D, a point. It actually has no length, width or breadth. This is what is called a geometrical point.

As we have seen in an earlier diagram in Figure 5.1, Ibn 'Arabî symbolically represents the world as a 'circle' whose centre is always the Real or real. The abstract point in the centre is one unit: i.e. it can not be divided or fragmented, nor can it be even described because it has no dimensions. However, this point faces the infinite multiplicity of the points in the circumference of the circle. Moreover, each point of the circle is similar to or an image of the central point. This is identical to the meaning of the hadith that Allah created the Human Being (and the world, according to Ibn 'Arabî) 'on His own Image' (see section 3.1). Also each point in the circumference can be a centre to a new circle [III.275], just as everyone or everything has his or her own world, in his or her imagination. Also, any point of the circumference can be considered the beginning of it and also the end [I.259.24], so 'He is the First and the Last and Hidden (centre point) and Manifest (circumference)'. And each line that goes out of the central point reaches a point on the circumference. This means that everything originated from the Real (in the centre) and it returns to Him (on the circumference) [II.538.26], which can be understood as the cosmogonic meaning of the verse: 'to Him you return' (2:28) and to 'Him everything returns' (11:123). Finally, because all the points are in essence a manifestation of the Real, therefore 'the worm and the First Intellect are equal with respect to the essence, but the difference appeared in the form' [III.452.33]. Similarly, as Ibn 'Arabî points out:

Since the lines (the radii) that go out from the Point in the centre of the circle to the circumference that comes to exist through that Point are equal to all parts of the circumference, so likewise the (creative, existentiating) relation of the Real, the Exalted, to the totality of all existents is the same: there is no change in that relation at all. So all things are looking to Him and accepting from Him that (existence) which He bestows on them, just as the parts of the circumference are facing the Point (in the centre).

[I.125.23]

Moreover, any object is composed of a number of points which are similar but have different attributes; the object is the sum of those points. But we can not say that the object is (nothing but) the (particular) point, nor we can say that it is not the point. Similarly, the world is the sum of the manifestations of all the divine Names of Allah, the Real, but we can not say that the world is the Real, nor can we say that the world is not Him [III.275.32].

For Ibn ‘Arabî, the Real is creating the world by continuously and endlessly manifesting Himself in different forms and forming the cosmos point by point (in series as we explained above), including the perceived, perception and the perceiver [II.484.22]. Therefore at any single instant of time (the ‘now’, or the real existence, hâl) there exists only Him. This is not like saying that the things are Allah, ‘because He is He, and the things are the things’ [II.484.28], but they are the manifestations of the Names of Allah. In this sense, as we have just seen, ‘every name in the world is His Name, not a name of other than Him; for it is the Name of the Manifest in the locus of manifestation’ [II.122.14].

The identity or essence of each one of us (i.e. the individual soul) is a point in the circle of Creation, and so is the identity of everything in the world. So we can here clearly see the meaning of the verse: ‘We shall show them Our signs on the horizons and within themselves until it becomes clear to them that it/He is the Real’ (41:53),¹¹ which can be then considered the most obvious Qur’anic basis of Ibn ‘Arabî’s understanding of the ‘oneness of being’. Also, since each point of the circle is similar to the central point, ‘whoever knows himself knows his Lord’ [I.328.31, II.298.30].

7.10.2 Angels

The angels are beings of one dimension (1-D) and they are made of light (Inshâ’ al-Dawâ’ir: 27). Angels are the first creatures: the Pen himself is an angel, and he is the first creature and everything else is ‘written’ by him in the Soul (the Protected Tablet), which is two-dimensional as we shall see further below: so their relationship is just like a normal pen and writing-board, in that they are one- and two-dimensional respectively. Angels occur by the repeated manifestations of the Real (at least two subsequent manifestations); just as the line is composed of at least two points [III.276.3]. Ibn ‘Arabî says:

The reality of the angel does not accept deviation, because he is the origin of the straight line connecting the two nines (of the divine Source and its human receptacles).¹² For bending (from that straight connection) is deviation, and he (the angel) does not have any bending, but he goes back and forth between the straight (creative) motion and the reverse motion (returning from the creature to God). So he is precisely the subtle thread (raqîqa: connecting the Source and the creatures) itself.

[I.54.21]

On the other hand, there is strong evidence in Ibn ‘Arabî’s texts that some angels indeed function as, among other things, forces of Nature: ‘They are called angels (malâ'ika) because they are links, conductors that link the godly rules and divine effects by material worlds because "al-malak" (the angel) in (Arabic) language means the "force" and the "intensity" (Inshâ' al-Dawâ'ir: 27).

And he also says: 'There is no place in heaven or Earth but that there is an angel in it. And the Real continues to create angels from the (creative divine) Breaths of the worlds, as long as they are still breathing' [I.123.2].

It is also known in physics that there are four fundamental forces in nature, which are: the force of gravity, the electromagnetic force, the weak nuclear force, and the strong nuclear force. Nature is built upon these four forces. Those four forces can be conceived as manifestations of the four prime Archangels – Mâlik, Jibrâ'il (Gabriel), Mikhâ'il (Michael) and Isrâfîl (Seraphiel) – because Ibn 'Arabî affirms that those four angels are the ones who bear the Throne (al-'arsh). Although it is mentioned in Qur'an that 'eight shall, in that Day (of resurrection), bear above them the Throne of thy Lord' (69:17), he asserts that when this verse was recited before Muhammad, he said 'and they are today (in this world) four' [I.148.2, III.184.28, and also 'Uqlat Al-Mustawfiz: 43–44], 'and tomorrow (in the Hereafter) they are going to be eight' [I.149.29]. Ibn 'Arabî also explains that al-'arsh (usually translated as 'the throne') in the Arabic tongue refers to 'the Kingdom' in addition to 'the Throne' [I.147.33], so, if this verse refers to the divine Kingdom, then its bearers or holders are those who are in charge of its affairs, and these are like the four supports (awtâd) who hold up the house. For this reason we find that Ibn 'Arabî also affirms that the four awtâd (spiritual Pillars) by whom Allah sustains the Earth get their power from the spirituality of these four angels [I.160.25, II.7.1], though he mentions here 'Azrâ'il (the angel of death) instead of Mâlik (the master of Gehenna). In the Hereafter, he explains elsewhere, the three prophets Adam, Muhammad and Ibrahim (Abraham) in addition to angel Ridwân (the Warehouse of Paradise) shall also contribute, so those eight will be the holders or bearers of the Throne or Kingdom in the Hereafter [I.148.11]. We shall see further below that this helps explain why the Hereafter could be considered as four-dimensional (4-D).

Here Ibn 'Arabî also shows that the Throne is the Kingdom, and that it is confined in four things: body, spirit, food and state. So those eight sustainers of the Throne are assigned the various duties as follows: 'Adam and Seraphiel for forms (for bodies), Gabriel and Muhammad for spirits, Michael and Abraham for subsistence, and Mâlik and Ridwân are for threat and promise (i.e. the states in Gehenna or Paradise)' [I.148.3].

Therefore, if we want to compare those four angels who hold up the divine Kingdom and the four elementary forces which operate in Nature, we can clearly see, for example, a correspondence between gravity and Seraphiel, since both operate upon the forms, the bodies. We can also see clear relations between the electromagnetic force and Michael, because both are responsible for subsistence and food, when we remember that all the food that we eat is in the end produced by light and heat which are electromagnetic waves (forces) emitted by the Sun. It is, however, not easy to establish the relation between Gabriel and Mâlik on the one hand and the weak and strong nuclear forces on the other hand, but we can mention that Gehenna is said in the Qur'an to be 'fuelled by stones' (2:24, 66:6), and this could mean the nuclear energy that is available inside the atoms for which those two nuclear forces are responsible.

On the other hand there are so many types of angels who also have different states or levels (37:164) and different structures. Some of those various types are mentioned in the Qur'an (37:1-3, 51:1-4, 77:1-5, 79:1-5 etc.), and Ibn 'Arabî talks about them in some detail very often in his writings [III.445.35-446.6, and also Inshâ' Al-Dawâ'ir: 27]. And it is quite clear by studying these types that they are assigned specific duties, just like the different forces in Nature (including the elementary and other forces).

Therefore, our suggestion that angels are beings of 1-D appears justified because such natural forces always operate in one dimension (they are also represented as vectors ' $\rightarrow$ ' in physics and mathematics), though their effects might appear in two or three dimensions as well.

Notice also that, just as the real (the Greatest Element) is 0-D and can be represented by a dot, the Single Monad is 1-D and can be represented by a line. In letters, the letter alif is made by the flow (sayalân) of the dot. So also the Single Monad is made by the flow (the repeated creative manifestation) of the Greatest Element (see Figure 7.2).

7.10.3 The jinn

The jinn are beings of two dimensions (2-D) or four directions, and according to traditional sources they are made of fire. Ibn 'Arabî affirms that

The fire jinn got the four (of letters) because of the facts they are based on that caused them to say as the Real, the Exalted, told: 'then I will approach them from between their hands, from behind them, from their right side and from their left side' (7:17), and then their facts are over, they have no further fifth fact to seek through it further level, and you should be aware not to think that this is possible for them that to have the height (up) and its counterpart (down) by which the six directions are complete, because the (their) reality does not permit that as we affirmed in the book Al-Mabâdî wal-Ghâyât.

[I.53.8]

It is evident, therefore, that jinn can move only in four directions: the plane or the surface. They have no sense of height, so their space is a sub-space of ours, and that is why we do not see them, they are too thin and tenuous, just like the surface of a heat wave or flame. It is also noteworthy in this regard here that Allah said in the Qur'an that the angels say: 'to Him (to Allah) belongs what is between our hands and what is behind us and what is between that' (19:64); so He did not mention the sides as in the case of jinn. This therefore supports what we said above about the angels being only 1-D.

Figure 7.2 1-D, a line segment. It has a length, and it is created by moving a point.

Figure 7.3 2-D, a unit square. It has length and width, and it is created by moving the line segment in a direction perpendicular to the line on which the segment lies.

In fact, just as the structure of angels is like our spirits, the jinn's structure is similar to the structure of our souls, as Ibn 'Arabî affirms: 'the inner (bâtin) of the human being is in fact jinn' [I.85.6], and also it is possible that the inner of jinn is angels and the inner of angels is the real, which is again another form to express the oneness of being.

7.10.4 Humans

Humans of course are beings of three dimensions (3-D) and they are made of earth or clay. As we said above, humans can decompose into 2-D and 1-D so that they may interact with jinn and angels, and they may also decompose into 0-D so that they may witness the Real, but they may not of course become like the Real as God though they may become like the 'real through whom creation takes place' who is the perfect Image of God, or the Perfect Human Being. And as we've said that this is the aim of the Sufi; to decompose into 0-D, which means to purify one's self and get rid of all the earthly (3-D) attachments.

Figure 7.4 3-D, a unit cube. It has length, width and depth. It is created by moving the square in a direction perpendicular to the plane. Notice that seven motions are needed to make up the cube.

7.10.5 The hereafter

We can not talk too much about the Hereafter, because it has been mentioned that it is different from what we may imagine [Kanz: 39236, 39241], but as we have mentioned above that the holders of the Throne or Kingdom are now four and in the Hereafter they shall be eight. So it is possible that the Hereafter will be four dimensional (4-D) because doubling the number of forces requires new dimensions for the new forces to operate.

Moreover, we notice that our major senses relate to dimensions in the following manner. Hearing requires only 1-D, because the propagation of sound waves is received by the ear one bit at a time. Seeing, on the other hand, requires 2-D because at any instance we may perceive a picture that occupies a surface. To conceive 3-D, however, we need imagination because the 3-D space that we conceive is built up as a result of the integration of 2-D pictures that we perceive through the flow of time. We perceive 1-D only by hearing, and 2-D by seeing, and we conceive 3-D, by imagination. So our thoughts, or imaginations, that we have in our memory are indeed mostly 2-D pictures (but also 1-D sounds) but by integrating them over time we conceive the volume. Thus, it is possible, and plausible, that in the Hereafter we shall gain new faculty, more advanced than imagination, that allow us to conceive of 4-D. In this case our thoughts will be 3-D as confirmed by Ibn ‘Arabî and many hadith that describe the Paradise. For example Ibn ‘Arabî confirms that people in Paradise shall have the power of creating through the command ‘be’, just as Allah does in this world [Al-Masâ’il: 126, I.84.21, II.157.26, II.440.35, II.441.26, III.295.17], and he also affirms that this is also attainable (by some people) in this world [Al-Masâ’il: 126, III.295.14]. This is also called al-fi’l bil-himma (doing by intention or determination) [I.259.33].

On the other hand, and since we have seen that the Real is 0-D and that the angels are the first repeated manifestation of the Real and so on, the jinn are manifestations of the second order (in 2-D). Thus humans are more advanced and complex than jinn because they are created by the manifestations of the Real in the third order. Likewise, it is expected that the Hereafter will be the fourth-order manifestation.

The Creation is done through the Pen who is writing the words of the All-Merciful. This Pen started by writing the dot (absolute Spirits, including the real; 0-D) and then the angels by making a line (1-D), and he continued until a certain term where he started another line, thus making a plane (2-D) and that is the creation of jinn. After that and at the certain term also, he started making new planes, thus forming the volume (3-D) that we are in now. And eventually the Pen will start, at a certain term (ajal), a new dimension to open the life in the Hereafter (4-D). This ‘term’ is either the time of our death (al-ajal) or possibly the time of spiritual realization (al-fateh) which is also a kind of voluntary death [IV.354.19] (Chittick 2002: 105–107). We have already seen in section 2.11 that Ibn ‘Arabî specified the starting times between those different terms (see Figure 2.1).

It is also possible in Paradise that the Creation will continue, endlessly, into higher dimensions (n -D, where n is any integer number), more than four. Maybe that is what it means when Ibn 'Arabî says: 'seeking (al-sulûk; into Allah) is always requested in this life and also in the Hereafter. For if there was a destiny, it would have been possible to achieve (but there is no destiny)' [Al-Masâ'il: 203]. It is probably here where abstract mathematics – which can deal with any number of dimensions and different types of topological spaces – has anticipated this hypothetical structure of the world, whereas physicists up till now can not conceive of more than three dimensions.

Finally, we must add that conceiving the world in this way according to the dimensions will greatly help in any possible future computer simulations to test the Single Monad model, because in this way we should be able to see whether the current structure of stars and galaxies could have happened starting from the initial conditions and rules that we described above and in Chapter 4 when we discussed the actual flow of time.

Notes

1 Cosmology and time

- 1 The geocentric view considers the Earth to be in the centre of the universe, while the heliocentric view considers the Sun to be in the centre. Modern cosmology, however, asserts that the universe, being a closed space-time arena, does not have a centre; any point may be considered a centre, just as any point on the surface of the Earth may be considered a centre (with regard to the surface, not to the volume). So whether the Earth or the Sun is in the centre of the universe is a valid question only with regard to the solar system which was the known universe in early cosmology, but it is no longer valid after discovering the galaxies and the huge distances between stars outside the solar system. It is worth mentioning here that Ibn 'Arabî clearly asserted that the universe does not have a centre [II.677.19].
- 2 For more information about this subject see: Bieńkowski (1972).
- 3 The redshift is the displacement (towards the red side) of the spectral lines of the light emitted by stars when it is received on the Earth, and this is due to the high speed of the motion of stars away from us. The amount of the shift towards the red is directly proportional to the distance of the star away from us, and this is how distances to far away stars and galaxies are calculated with a high degree of accuracy.
- 4 For more information about the principles of Quantum Cosmology see Linde (1990), chapter 3.
- 5 For more information about Ibn 'Arabî's life and intellectual background see Addas (1993) and Hirtenstein (1999).
- 6 For a full list of books and manuscripts attributed to Ibn 'Arabî see: Yahya (1964). In this book Othman Yahya mentions over nine hundred books (with about 1,395 titles) attributed to Ibn 'Arabî. Most of them however, as Yahya shows, are not really by him, and also many of his genuine books are lost or not available. For a list of Ibn 'Arabî's printed works see appendix 1 in Hirtenstein (1999). See also the list of his Arabic and translated works in the Bibliography.
- 7 In this hadith Allah says: 'I was a hidden Treasure, so I loved to be known; so I created the creatures/creation so that I might be known.' This famous hadith qudsî ('divine saying') is not found in standard hadith collections, but is widely quoted by Sufis and especially Ibn 'Arabî [II.112.20, II.232.11, II.310.20, II.322.29, II.330.21, II.339.30, III.267.10, IV.428.7]. Some scholars of hadith therefore consider it a fabrication, but, as William Chittick pointed out, Ibn 'Arabî believes that this hadith 'is sound on the basis of unveiling, but not established by way of transmission (naql)' [II.399.28]. See also SPK: 391: 250–252, and SDG: 21, 22, 70, 211, 329.
- 8 In this hadith the Prophet Muhammad was asked: 'Where was our Lord before He created the creatures?' He answered: 'He was in a Cloud ('amâ')' [Kanz: 1185, 29851]. See also SPK: 125, and SDG: 118, 153, 360. Ibn 'Arabî discusses this hadith

- very often in the Futūhāt: [I.148.17, I.215.33, II.62.36, II.150.21, II.310.3, II.391.28, III.304.5, III.506.5].
- 9 See: 'The Language of the angels', by Pierre Lory, from 'The Breath of the All-Merciful' symposium held at Berkeley, 1998 (available as audio tape from the Muhyiddin Ibn 'Arabī Society, Oxford).
 - 10 Nature here actually means 'the level of Nature' (martabat al-tabī'a) (i.e. the four foundational elements) and not nature in the physical sense, which is the material world. Ibn 'Arabī explains that the level of Nature does not have a separate physical existence: 'So (God) the Exalted estimated the level of nature that if it has (real) existence it would be below the Soul, so even though it does not really exist, it is witnessed by the Real there. That is why He distinguished it and determined its level. It is with regard to natural beings just like in regard to the divine Names: they can be known and imagined, and their effects can appear and cannot be ignored, while in general they do not have any (separate) essence. Likewise, (the level of) Nature gives what is in its potential of sensible forms that are assigned to it and that have real existence, while it does not have real separate existence. So how strange is its state and how high its effect!' [II.430.8].
 - 11 From the Qur'anic verse 'the All-Merciful mounted (established His authority) on the Throne' (20:5) and other similar verses such as 'He created the Heavens and the Earth in six days and then He mounted on the Throne' (7:54, and the same meaning in other verses: 2:29, 10:3, 25:59, 32:4, 57:4). We shall see in Chapter 3 that, according to Ibn 'Arabī, the six directions of space were created by the process of God's 'mounting' (istiwā') on the Throne in six days from Sunday to Friday.
 - 12 Abū Hāmid Muhammad B. Muhammad al-Tūsī Al-Ghazālī (AH 450–505/AD 1058–1111) outstanding Muslim theologian, jurist, thinker, mystic and religious reformer who later pursued and systematically defended the path of Sufism. See also EP, 'Al-Ghazālī', II: 1038.
 - 13 Ibn Rushd, Tahāfut Al-falāsifa (The Incoherence of the Philosophers) (1927), ed. M. Bouyges with a summary in Latin, Beirut: n.p.. This is a controversial work of the theological refutation where al-Ghazālī enumerated twenty maxims of the philosophers that he found that they could not incontrovertibly demonstrate, as they had claimed.
 - 14 Abū al-Walīd Ibn Rushd (AH 520–595/AD 1126–1198) was the chief judge of Seville and a great philosopher known in the West as Averroes. There was no one higher than him in the matter of legal ruling (fatwa) for crucial issues. He was a top figure in the history of both Islamic and Western philosophy and theology. He defended philosophy against the Ash'arite theologians (Mutakallimūn) led by al-Ghazālī, against whom he wrote his Tahāfut Al-Tahāfut (The Incoherence of the Incoherence), translated from the Arabic with introduction and notes by Simon van den Bergh (Gibb Memorial Trust, 1978). See also EP, 'Ibn Rushd', III: 909.
 - 15 Muslim theology is the theology that is derived from the Qur'an and the Prophetic traditions. Kalam (lit.: speaking) is the Islamic tradition of seeking theological principles through dialectic. The original scholars of kalam were recruited by the House of Wisdom under the Abbasid Caliph in Baghdad in the ninth century AD, but soon many opposing kalam schools emerged such as Ash'arites and Mu'tazilites.
 - 16 Abū 'Alī al-Husayn ibn Abdullāh Ibn Sīnā (AH 369–428/AD 980–1037), known in the West as Avicenna, was an important Muslim physician, scientist, mathematician and philosopher. See also EP, 'Ibn Sīnā', III: 941.
 - 17 Ibn Sīnā (1983): 68. See also 'Alā' al-Dīn 'Abdul-Muta'al (2003): 131.
 - 18 Ibn Sīnā (1983): 72. See also Al-'Atī (1993): 110.
 - 19 Ibn Sīnā (1983): 74.
 - 20 Ibn Sīnā (1938) Al-Najāt, ed. Muhyī al-Dīn S. al-Kurdī, 2nd ed., Cairo: n.p.: 117.
 - 21 Named after its founding figure Abū al-Hasan al-Ash'arī, this Sunni theological school had its origin in the reaction against what they viewed as the excessive ration-

- alism of the Mu'tazila (a movement founded by Wâsil Ibn 'Atâ' in the second century AH/eighth century AD. The Ash'arites insisted that reason must be subordinate to the literal data of revelation. They accepted some of the cosmology of the Mu'tazilites, but put forward a nuanced rejection of their theological principles. See also EP, 'Al-Ash'arî, Abu 'L-Hasan', I: 694; 'Ash'ariyya', I: 696; 'Mu'tazila', VII: 783.
- 22 Abû Yûsuf Ya'qûb Ibn Ishâq al-Kindî (AH 185–256/AD 805–873) is considered the historical 'father' of Islamic philosophy. He was also a scientist of high calibre, a gifted mathematician, astronomer, physician and a geographer, as well as a talented musician. See also EP, 'Al-Kindî', V: 122.
- 23 Al-Kindî (1950): 117.
- 24 Mohammed Ibn Zakariyya al-Râzî (AH 251–313/AD 865–925). See also EP, 'Al-Râzî', VIII: 474.
- 25 Abû Nasr al-Fârâbî (AH 259–339/AD 870–950) was one of the foremost Islamic philosophers and logicians. See also EP, 'Al-Fârâbî', II: 778.
- 26 Euclidean geometry is based on the ideas of Euclid (c. 300 BC), who stated in his book The Elements five postulates on which he based all his theorems. According to these postulates, space is homogeneous like that which we feel on the Earth. In modern cosmology and with the high intensity gravity found near giant stars and galaxies, space can no longer be treated as homogeneous, and therefore a new branch of geometry (non-Euclidean geometry) has been introduced to take into account the curvature of space-time. For information about Euclidean geometry, see Patrick (1986).
- 27 This is because of the 'uncertainty (Heisenberg) principle' which states that not all of the physical parameters (e.g. position $[x]$ and momentum $[p]$) of a system can be fully determined at the same time. It is mathematically expressed as: $\Delta x \cdot \Delta p > h$ where h is Planck's constant, which is in the order of 6×10^{-34} erg-seconds.
- 28 Before the advent of Quantum Mechanics there was a long debate about the nature of light, whether it is particles or waves. Some experiments (and theories) confirmed that it is particles, while others confirmed that it is waves. Quantum Mechanics solved this contradiction by suggesting that particles have wave properties and waves have particle properties. See Baierlein (1992).

2 General aspects of Ibn 'Arabî's concept of time and days

- 1 See note 10 in chapter I.
- 2 In the language of kalam theology, a 'negative attribute' (sifa salbiyya) is an attribute that is not a real description, but simply a negation of a purported description. See also The Book of Eternity (Kitâb Al-Azal) for Ibn 'Arabî.
- 3 For more details about the 'line-point' and 'time-now' analogy, see Hasnaoui (1977): 50. See also Ibn 'Arabî's treatise of 'Risâla fî Asrâr al-Dhât al-Ilâhiyya' in Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî (Beirut: Mu'assasat al-Intishâr al-Arabî, 2002–04), ed. Sa'id 'Abd al-Fattah, Vol. I: 193–206 [201].
- 4 There are two closely related words in Arabic commonly used for the everyday senses of 'time': zamân and zaman. They are basically used in the same contexts, and usually Arabic dictionaries (such as Lisân al-'Arab (Beirut: Dâr Sâdir, n.d.), XIII: 200) do not distinguish between them. Ibn 'Arabî also seems to use these two words interchangeably in many places, although we can detect a unique pattern of use in the Futûhât: in many places he uses zamân for the general meaning of time that has a span or duration, while he uses zaman to mean the current time or a specific time that is usually short and defined, such as in the technical expression 'the single time' (al-zaman al-fard) [I.318.22, II.82.22, IV.267], which is explained later in this chapter.
- 5 Al-jawhar literally means 'the jewel' but technically it means 'the essence'. Ibn 'Arabî took this technical usage from kalam theology. We will translate it as 'the monad', which is the indivisible substance that is thought to constitute matter. We will devote a full section to the monad in section 6.2.

- 6 Al-‘arad – in this technical sense drawn from the usage of the kalam theologians – is the actual appearance or the form of al-jawhar, or the form each monad wears in order to appear in existence. The atomists, especially the Ash‘arite theologians, asserted that the world is composed of substances and accidents (jawāhir and ‘arād) and that substances remain while accidents always change. Ibn ‘Arabī, however, employs the term more strictly than the Ash‘arites, since he says that everything that we see always and constantly changes, though it may change into ‘similar’ or ‘likenesses’ (s. mithl), which is why we think that certain things are not changing [III.452.24]. He also asserts that this monad (al-jawhar) is not visible by itself, but only appears wearing this form or the other. See also SPK: 97.
- 7 There are two different words in Arabic habitually used for the meaning of space: al-makān and al-hayyiz. Al-hayyiz is more accurately used to refer to the abstraction of three-dimensional space, while al-makān in fact refers to ‘the place’ rather than space. Ibn ‘Arabī himself sometimes uses both of these two words to mean space, but in one passage he clearly defines them: ‘al-makān is what the objects rest on, and not in, it; for if they were in it, these would be al-ahyāz (s. hayyiz, space), not al-makān (place)’ [II.458.3].
- 8 Al-Afrād min al-rijāl: al-afrād (‘the Solitary Ones’) are a group of the highest spiritual Sages who are outside the circle of the spiritual Pole (al-Qutb); al-Khadr (lit. ‘the green man’) is one of them [II.19.9]; and ‘they are not governed by the circle of the Pole and he has no rule over them, but rather they are as complete as himself’ [III.137.12]. In Ibn ‘Arabī’s technical usage, al-rijāl (‘the True Men’) refers not at all to a gender but to the fully accomplished spiritual sages or ‘true Knowers’ (‘urafā’). See also Al-Mu‘jam Al-Sūfi: 515–521.
- 9 See chapter 371 of the Futūhāt [III.416] for a detailed account of the creation scenario of both the physical and intelligible worlds as seen by Ibn ‘Arabī. Also in chapter 7 of the Futūhāt [I.121] Ibn ‘Arabī gives many details about the different stages of creating the natural or physical world in time; however the numbers that he gives there fall far short of the modern well-established scientific results.
- 10 Ibn ‘Arabī explains this in detail at the beginning of the Futūhāt, as he was discussing the ‘special people of Allah’. He discusses this doctrine there under many issues (masā’il) in which he summarizes the relations between the Real, the world and non-existence. See his introduction in the Futūhāt [I.41–47]. Ibn ‘Arabī also wrote these issues and much more in Kitāb Al-Masā’il which is also known as ‘Aqīdat ahl al-ikhtisās, ‘the doctrine of the special people (of Allah)’, see the Bibliography.
- 11 When Ibn ‘Arabī uses this term ‘in charge of moving’ to describe the active force here, he has in mind his famous concept that the world (where bodies and objects move) is like a super-human (insān kabīr) [III.11.19], where all physical motions are due to this active force of the Universal Soul, and all noetic changes are due to its intellectual force.
- 12 On the basis of the hadith ‘the Pedestal (al-kursī) is the place of the two feet’ [Kanz: 1683], Ibn ‘Arabī asserts that the ‘foot’ in question is the divine ‘constancy’ (thubūt) and the ‘two feet’ that are ascribed to the All-Merciful, the most Glorious, refer to ‘the foot of compulsion’ (qadam al-jabr) and ‘the foot of choice’ (qadam al-ikhtiyār) [III.432.23]. Ibn ‘Arabī showed that Allah’s, the All-Merciful’s, Word (in the Throne) is One (all mercy), but by the swinging (tadallī) of these two feet of compulsion and choice on the Pedestal, the Word divided into two, [II.438.27], and this distinction between compulsion and choice caused the emergence of the world of command (‘ālam al-amr’) and the world of creation (‘ālam al-khalq’), of the (divine) ban and the order, obedience and the disobedience, and the Garden and the Fire (Gehenna), but all this is from the same single divine root of Mercy that is the attribute of the All-Merciful Who ‘mounted on the Throne’ (al-rahmān ‘alā al-‘arsh istawā, 20:5) [IV 274.25]. Then Ibn ‘Arabī also relates this same distinction to the symbolism of the daytime and night, where he says that, because the Word above the Pedestal is one, it is all daytime (light) there, but below the Pedestal it is daytime and night [III.202.31]. See also section 2.13.

- 13 For more detail about this subject, see Minkowski (1923) and Hinton and Rucker (1980).
- 14 See Muhyî ad-Dîn al-Tu'aymî (ed.) (1994) Mawsû'at Al-Isrâ' wa'l-Mi'râj, Beirut: Dâr al-Hilâl. This book contains six important treatises written by prominent early and classical Muslim scholars, such as Ibn 'Abbâs, al-Qushayrî and al-Suyûti, about the occasion of the Prophet's Isrâ' and Mi'râj.
- 15 For a full translation and study of related passages see 'Ibn 'Arabî's Spiritual Ascension' in Chittick (2002): 201–230.
- 16 This book has been published many times but the most notable critical edition is published by Su'âd al-Hakîm in 1988 (Beirut: Dandarah).
- 17 Abû Ishâq al-Nu'mânî al-Shâfi'î, Al-Sirâj Al-Wahhâj fi Haqâ'iq Al-Isrâ' wa'l-Mi'râj, in Mawsû'at Al-Isrâ' wa'l-Mi'râj (note 14 above): 53–114 (p. 58).
- 18 See the short chapters 244 and 245 of the Futûhât [II.543–544], where Ibn 'Arabî explains these notions of spiritual 'absence' (ghayba) and 'presence' (hudûr).
- 19 Nath (or al-shartayn: the two signs of Aries), Butayn (the belly of Aries) and Thurayya (Pleiades) are houses of the Moon.

3 The significance of the divine week and its seven days

- 1 Sanâbil, sunbulât (s. sunbula), the term used in the Qur'anic account of Pharaoh's dream interpreted by Joseph (12:43), and also in the promised reward of charity (zakât) (1:261).
- 2 This is one of the 12 zodiacal signs, also called al-'Azrâ (the Virgin).
- 3 He asserts later in this same chapter that 'when the orbs rotated . . . and when the (celestial) rule went back to Virgo, the human composition appeared "by the specific determination of the All-Mighty, the All-Knower (taqdîr al-'Azîz al-'Alîm 41:12 [also: 6:96, 36:38])"' [chapter 60, I.294.8]. Ibn 'Arabî then explains [chapter 60, I.294.10] that the time of the ruling of Virgo is 7,000 years, after which the ruling task is handed over to Libra ('the Balance', representing the eschatological time of divine justice at the final Rising). In this chapter, however, he first takes pains to explain that those ruling spirits are only angelic servants (of God) doing their jobs, and not separate deities as the pagans had believed; so the command is all to Allah and there is no 'sharing' with Him.
- 4 This is because Virgo, as Ibn 'Arabî goes on to explain, has the number 'seven', but also has its multiples: seven, 70, 700:

That is why Allah – since He created us in Virgo – multiplied our reward as He said: 'The likeness of those who spend their wealth in Allah's way is as the likeness of a grain which growth seven ears, in every ear a hundred grains. Allah gives increase manifold to whom He will' (2:261) – but always multiples of seven. [I.294.15]

- 5 To remove any confusion, 'Day(s)' and 'Week' (with capitals) are used to refer to the actual 'cosmic' or 'divine' Days and Week (of Creation) – not to the many relative, astronomical days and weeks defined by the different relative motions of different heavenly bodies. We have already mentioned the meaning of these divine 'Days' in section 2.15, but the different types of cosmic Days will be discussed in more detail in the following chapter.
- 6 See Herodotus: The Histories, ed. Walter Blanco, Jennifer T. Roperts, trans. Walter Blanco (New York, London: W. W. Norton & Company, 1992), 2.82 (fifth century BC).
- 7 Sunday is the first day of the week according to the Jewish method of reckoning, but for Christians it began to take the place of the Jewish Sabbath in Apostolic times.
- 8 In one hadith [Kanz: 15120] which we shall translate below, the Prophet Muhammad clearly specified that Allah started the Creation on Sunday.

- 9 See also Ibn 'Arabî's book Al-Asfâr (the Journeys) in Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî (Beirut: Dar Ihyâ' al-Turath al-'Arabî, n.d.). pp. 12–15. This book was edited and translated into French by Denis Gril (1994).
- 10 See also the long passage translated in section 2.12 where Ibn 'Arabî defines the different timing periods including the solar month and year.
- 11 The Babylonians originally used a combination solar-lunar calendar like the one Muslims use nowadays (i.e. the Hijrî Calendar with varying 29/30-day months), though they made adjustments from time to time to make it fit with motion of the Sun. Later (during the reign of the Chaldean king Nabonassar, 747–734 BC), the Babylonian astronomers switched to the 30-day, 12-month calendar, again making adjustments for the actual 365-day year (Parise 1982: 5).
- 12 For details about the concepts of sainthood (walâya) and prophethood (nubuwwa) and the hierarchy of awliyâ see Chodkiewicz (1993b).
- 13 Mudâwi Al-Kulûm is the name of the Single Pole that is the spirit of the Prophet Muhammad even before creating humankind when Adam was still 'between water and soil', and to this spirit different manifestations in the world where the 'Pole of Time' is his perfect manifestation, but he is also manifested in the 'Solitary Ones (al-Afrâd)' and in the 'Seal of Sainthood', both the Muhammadan Sainthood (who is Ibn 'Arabî himself) and General Sainthood (who is Jesus) [I.151.26]. And he was called Mudâwi Al-Kulûm because he is so kind and polite with his friends; when he wants to draw the attention of one of them to a specific issue, he kindly hides that from others in guard for him just as Jacob asked Joseph to keep his vision secret and not to tell it to his brothers [I.153.19].
- 14 The ambiguities in the translation here are quite intentional: God sees Himself reflected in (both mirrors of) creation and Adam; Adam sees himself/God in the mirror(s) of himself and creation; and finally God (as Spirit) sees what Adam sees. See chapter 1 of the Fusûs Al-Hikam for the full elaboration of the teaching summarized here in a single short Arabic phrase.
- 15 See A. Kâshânî's well-known Tafsîr Ibn 'Arabî, published by many publishers, for example Beirut: Dar Sâdir, 2002, vol. I: 245, vol. II: 571.
- 16 This English word here fits very well in this meaning for the Arabic word 'yusabbihu' (n. tasbîh: magnification) and probably conveys the meaning here more clearly than the more abstract Arabic word, because at the end the process of creation, according to Ibn 'Arabî's view, is a 'multiplication' of the Oneness of Allah, and a 'magnification' (manifestation) of His 'absolute Unseen' dimension (al-ghayb al-mutlaq). This magnification started with the creation of Angels, and then proceeded with the creation of the jinn who were given extra privilege and duties, because they are commissioned servants, while the perfection (of the theomorphic Image) was only given fully to the (perfect) Human Being (insân) who is the Khalîfa (the 'vice-gerent' of Allah).
- 17 This was mentioned in one long hadith which describes the sequence of creation according to week days (see al-Mustadrak 'ala al-Sahîhayn by Mohamed al-Nisabûri (Dar Al-Kutub Al-'Ilmiyya: Beirut, n.d.), vol. II: 593, no. 3996/7). See also section 7.10.
- 18 Ibn 'Arabî indicates in many places that both the world and the Perfect Human Being work in the same way, which is why he calls the world the 'Great Human Being' (al-insân al-kabîr) and the Human Being the 'microcosm' (al-'âlam al-saghîr) [III.11.18]. See also Al-Mu'jam Al-Sîfi: 168–170, and SPK: pp. 4, 16, 30, 107, 136, 276, 282, 297, and also SDG: 6, 8, 28, 35, 37, 175, 189, 259, 264, 274, 288, 332, 339, 348, 360–363. See also section 3.2 for more analogies between the creation of the world and embryology.

4 The actual flow of time

- 1 Mathematically we can divide the circle into 360 degrees, 400 grads, 2π radians or indeed to any number of units. Ibn 'Arabî, however, affirms that the 360-degree system has a divine origin, which is the total number of prime divine forms of knowing ('ilm) that the Universal Intellect (the 'Higher Pen') was taught by the 'Greatest Element' (Nûn) [I.295.8, alluding to the standard cosmological interpretation of the Qur'anic symbols at 68:1]. Also in Al-Tanazzulât Al-Layliyya fî Al-Ahkâm Al-Ilâhiyya, he mentioned on page 35 that the Intellect has 360 faces towards the divine Presence (Al-Hadra Al-Ilâhiyya).

- 2 For the Arabs, whom Ibn 'Arabî follows on this point, the night-time of a particular day is that which precedes the daytime of that day, and not the night that follows that daytime. See Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 4. See also section 2.14.
- 3 In appendix A in their study of Ibn 'Arabî's book: Ayyâm Al-Sha'n, The Seven Days of the Heart (p. 149), Pablo Beneito and Steven Hirtenstein translated ayyâm al-takwîr as 'the cyclical days' and translated the Qur'anic verb yukawwiru as '(He) wraps'. However, I prefer to use the term 'circulate' to emphasize the meaning that the day-times and the night-times go around each other in a circle, and that they both (together) encircle the Earth. This type of day (the circulated day) is also the normal, observable type of day that 'circulated' amongst us, to differentiate from the other two types that we shall see below.
- 4 This is mentioned in Tafsîr Ibn 'Arabî, vol. I: 245, and vol. II: 571. This book is attributed to Ibn 'Arabî by its modern publisher, but most scholars agree that it was written by the later Iranian philosopher Al-Qâshânî.
- 5 The galactic equator is the intersection of the plane of the Milky Way with the celestial sphere.
- 6 It is not very clear here what does he mean by 'the middle', and he also used the same expression in the same context right in his introduction to the Futûhât.
- 7 See also The Seven Days of the Heart: 157–159, where Pablo Beneito and Steven Hirtenstein gave in appendix A and B a good study of Kitâb Ayyâm Al-Sha'n. They found that the number of contribution for all of the seven Days from all the seven heavens should sum up to 24, which they interpreted as the 24 hours of the day. Therefore, because not all the data are found in the source, they had to deduce the missing slots on the basis of this assumption.
- 8 As of 1956, the length of a second has been freed from the vagaries of the Earth's motion, and is now defined by the Système International d'Unités as equal to 'the duration of 9,192,631,770 periods of the radiation corresponding to the transition between the two hyperfine levels of the ground state of the cesium-133 atom in zero magnetic field'. This means that the values for these conventional units of time are no longer tied to the motion of the Earth, and instead are tied to innate measurable properties of matter. Thus the minute, hour, day and even the average 'tropical' year are defined as exactly 60; 3,600; 86,400; and 31,556,925.9747 seconds respectively.
- 9 In mathematics: 10^{-x} denotes $1/10^x$. For example 10^{-3} is $1/10^3$ or $1/1000$, or one-thousandth. As we have seen in section 1.9, there are some speculations that the shortest possible time is in fact 10^{-43} seconds, which is called Planck's time. The debate is still going on, and the issue of the quantization of time is not yet finally settled.

5 Unicity and multiplicity

- 1 It is believed that Ibn 'Arabî entered the spiritual path well before the age of 20. He mentioned in the Futûhât [II.425.13] that he entered 'this path' in the year AH580 (AD1184), and he was born in AH560 (AD1165) (Austin 1971: 23). Other scholars argue that this was in AD1182 or even earlier (Hirtenstein 1999: 51–60).
- 2 It can be argued that the words 'no' or 'not yes' do not have a stand-alone significance, especially when we think about existence. 'No' only indicates the opposite of 'Yes', because 'No' in this sense means 'non-existence' which is nothing; it is only the absence or negation of existence. This also has its parallels in digital electronics where the signal has two states; either there is a signal or not, which is translated as Yes and No or 1 and 0 respectively. But because the '0' is 'nothing', we are left with only the '1'; this '1' either exists or not.

- 3 In his short book Ma la Yu'awwal 'Alayhi (What can not be relied upon) (in Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî, vol. I, treatise 16: 2) and in his famous chapter 63 of the Futûhât, Ibn 'Arabî repeatedly affirms that true visions ('visionary unveiling', kashf suwarî) are always correct, while mistakes actually may come from the individual's false interpretation, not from the vision itself. There are, however three kinds of spiritual visions: the 'good vision' is from Allah; 'psychological reflections' from the soul; and 'nightmares' from Shaytan. See also chapter 188 of the Futûhât, as well as our study of the Sura of Joseph: Yusef (1999): 227–232.
- 4 Right at the first page of the Introduction to the Futûhât, Ibn 'Arabî divides knowledge into three categories: (1) Logical (ratiocinative) knowledge ('ilm al-'aql); (2) the knowledge of inner experiential states ('ilm al-ahwâl); and (3) the ('inspired) knowledge of (spiritual) secrets' ('ilm al-'asrâr). The knowledge of states is obtained only through direct experiential 'taste' (dhawq), while the knowledge of secrets is generally beyond the grasp of the intellect, though some of it becomes logical after being explained, but the intellect alone could not attain it [I.31.9].
- 5 Ibn 'Arabî quotes this expression and comments on it very often in his books, and he ascribes it to al-hakîm ('the philosopher-sage') [II.458.20]. Though it is not very clear who he exactly means by al-hakîm, it is possible that he refers to Plotinus, who was known in several Arabic translations of his writings as 'the Greek sage' (al-hakîm al-yunânî). On the basis of Davidson (1992), William Chittick asserts that this maxim was apparently first used by Avicenna (SDG: 17). This maxim is certainly the basis of Avicenna's cosmological schema of emanationism (ḥayd) [see: EP, 'Emanationism', I: 473–474, and also The Cambridge Dictionary of Philosophy (Cambridge University Press, 1995, ed. Robert Audi): 258, 604–606, 714], and it was possibly used by early Christians as the basis of the concept of the holy Trinity. Ibn 'Arabî generally disagrees with this proposition especially when speaking about Allah as the One Who created the manifoldness of the world.
- 6 Ibn 'Arabî uses two distinct term with regards to the existence of creatures with relation to God; 'witness' (ma'aiyya) and 'at-ness' ('indiyya). The first refers to the presence of God with all things after they are created (57:4, 58:7), while the first indicates all things were ('determined') with God even before they come into real existence. See also SDG: 35, 37, 45, 88, 137, 170, 171, 179, 180, 297, SPK: 72, 76, 125, 181, 183, 216, 249, 302, 313, 327, 364–366, 380.
- 7 Ibn 'Arabî often elaborates on the lofty rank of the 'people of God' (ahl Allâh) who are the 'true knowers' (al-muhaqqiqûn), also sometimes referred to as the 'the people of Qur'an' alluding to a famous hadith [Kanz: 2277, 2278, 2279, 2342, 4038, etc.] which Ibn 'Arabî often quotes or paraphrases [II.299.18, I.352.27, I.372.14, I.510.12, III.103.34, III.121.35].
- 8 In the original printed text (followed in the standard later Cairo and Beirut reprintings used here), this rare long comment is described as 'a note by Sîdî 'Abd al-Qâdir [al-Jazâ'irî], transcribed from his own handwriting'.
- 9 For details about the differences between the divine Names al-Wâhid and al-Ahad see Al-Masâ'il: 139. And also see Ibn 'Arabî's descriptions of these Attributes and all other divine Attributes in the long chapter 558 [IV.196–326; see in particular IV.293–294]. Ibn 'Arabî also wrote a dedicated book called Kitâb Al-Ahadiyya; see the Bibliography. See also SDK: 25, 36, 58, 90, 235, 237, 244–245, 278, 349, 364.
- 10 See also Tawajjuhât Al-Hurûf (Cairo: Maktabat al-Qâhira, n.d.): 17. This small book includes also the prayer Al-Dawr Al-'Alâ or Hizb al-Wiqâyah li man Arada al-Walâya and a few other short treatises, including Al-Salawât Al-Faydiyya.
- 11 See also the Futûhât [I.109.3, I.125.28, I.216.13, I.228.13, I.263.19, I.313.29, I.643.33, III.74.2, III.398.15, etc.].

- 12 This famous saying (al-'ajz 'an dark al-idrâki idrâk) is often quoted by Sufi authors in support of what we have just explained, especially by Ibn 'Arabî [I.51.7, I.92.1, I.95.2, I.126.14, I.271.6, I.290.2, II.170.8, II.619.35, II.641.12, III.132.35, III.371.21, III.555.17, IV.43.5, IV.283.16], and it is usually attributed to Abû Bakr al-Siddîq.
- 13 In his book Al-Masâ'il (The Issues), which contains over 230 philosophical issues, Ibn 'Arabî showed that the divine Names and Attributes are the first multiplicity that occurred in the Existence. See issue (Mas'ala) no. 94 in this book.
- 14 Ibn 'Arabî's profound view of creation is essentially based on the concept of 'the Breath of the All-Merciful'; he explains the world and everything in it through this concept. He mentioned and explained it in the Futûhât and other books more often than anything else. See in the Futûhât [I.97.22, I.152.13, I.168.15, I.185.16, I.263-270, I.272-274, II.172.5, II.181.12, II.293.30, II.310.21, II.390.18] and throughout the long chapter 198 [II.390-478], as well as [III.269.22, III.279.18, III.429.34, III.443.12, III.459.21, III.465.27, III.505.9, III.524.25, IV.65.32, IV.200.11, IV.211.27, IV.256.24, IV.330.22], to mention some examples. We shall see below (section 7.8) that this concept of the Breath of the All-Merciful is indeed the theological and cosmological equivalent of the modern physics theory of Superstrings introduced in the 1980s.
- 15 This book (OY no. 515; listed in Ibn 'Arabî's own lists of his writings) is called Al-Muthallathât Al-Wârîda fî Al-Qur'ân Al-Karîm.
- 16 See for example: Lyman Abbott, A Dictionary of Religious Knowledge, 1875: 944. See also Hopkins (1930), chapter XX: The Christian Trinity, chapter XVII: The Triad, chapter XVIII: The Hindu Trinity, chapter XIX: The Buddhistic Trinity.
- 17 In Arabic grammatical language, any group of two is called muthanna (dual), while the term 'plural' is reserved for groups of at least three members.
- 18 Ibn 'Arabî often makes such symbolic analogies (mudahât) between the internal (psychological) and external (cosmological) realities. Thus he calls the cosmos the 'Great Human Being' (al-Insân al-Kabîr) and the human being the 'micro-cosmos' (al-'Âlam al-Saghîr) [II.150.26, III.11.17]. He also says that this knowledge that the world is a Great Human Being and that the human being is its 'Summary' form was given by Idrîs (Mudâwî al-Kulûm) [I.153.21]. See also Ibn 'Arabî's al-Tadbîrât al-Ilâhiyya, where he explains these symbolic analogies at length. In another highly symbolic early book, the Anqâ' Mughrib, he makes similar analogies between Human Being and the divine Names. For a full translation and critical study see Elmore (2000).
- 19 It is most likely that this term was first used by Ibn Taymiyya himself, although he criticized Ibn 'Arabî for that. See Madhkûr (1969): 365-380 [370]. See also Al-Mu'jam Al-Sûfi: 1145-1155, and SDK: 79.
- 20 Ibn 'Arabî alludes here, among other things, to the Qur'anic accounts of the inbreathing of the Spirit into Adam: 'So, when I have made him and breathed into him of My Spirit' (15:29, 38:72).
- 21 This is also evident in physics, where it is known that the difference between colours is due to the shorter or longer wavelength of the electromagnetic waves that constitute light. The red colour has a specific wavelength, and the blue colour for example has another distinctive (range of) wavelength(s). Although we call it a colour, there is no wavelength for a colour that is called 'black' or 'dark': it is simply the absence of any light-waves.
- 22 For more details about this subject see Ormsby (1984).
- 23 See Ibn 'Arabî's discussions of this conception in the Futûhât [II.168.23, II.343.28, II.379.9, II.444.16, II.501.4, III.343.23, III.471.13].
- 24 See Ibn 'Arabî's discussions in the Futûhât [I.42.21, I.204.12, I.284.32, I.680.7, III.275.32, IV.46.6, IV.129.31, IV.228.12, IV.236.15].
- 25 See The Wisdom of the Prophets (Fusûs Al-Hikam), translated from Arabic into French with notes by Titus Burckhardt; translated from French into English by Angela Culme-Seymour (TAJ Company: New Delhi, revised edition 1984): 32.

- 26 See for example in the Futûhât [I.79.5, I.461.25, I.735.17, II.356.26, II.372.23, II.451.33, II.471.32, II.554.18, III.105.27, III.199.11, III.288.16, III.362.16, IV.9.9, IV.320.5, IV.343.16, IV.367.18, IV.379.1, IV.397.22, IV.418.20].

6 The Single Monad model of the cosmos

- 1 The 'one' at the end of the sentence refers to the Single Monad (al-jawhar al-fard), and not likely to the divine Name al-Ahad ('The One/Unique'), because this Name is never manifested on the level of multiplicity where knowledge normally is actualized. Ibn 'Arabî always shows that multiplicity is ultimately related to the Name al-Wâhid (the Alone, the Only One) and not to al-Ahad, because with al-Ahad no other entity may exist in order to know Him.
- 2 See EP, 'Monad and Monadology', vol. 5: 361–363.
- 3 See Shajarat Al-Kawn (Dar al-Mahabba: Damascus, 2003), ed. 'Abd al-Rahîm Mardini: 39.
- 4 This important note can be used to give more details and extensions about the 'the Single Monad model of the Cosmos' that we discuss in this chapter. Ibn 'Arabî is describing the three main jobs or motions of the Intellect in creating the world including himself and also his acceptance of knowledge from his Lord.
- 5 In Arabic grammar when two consonant characters meet, one of them is omitted, usually the vowel-like 'incomplete letters'. In this case the imperative of رَوْحُ (yarûhu) is رُوحُ (rûh) so because both the wâw and the hâ are consonants, the wâw that is a vowel is omitted and the result is رُوحُ (ruh).
- 6 Ibn 'Arabî quotes this name after Abu al-Hakîm Bin Barrajân (d. 536/1141) in Al-Tadbirât Al-Ilâhiyya: 90.
- 7 See Hawking (1994).
- 8 Here Ibn 'Arabî is using the term al-jawhar al-fard in its original sense in the physics of kalam, to refer to the 'atom' or the simplest physical substance, whose compounds form natural bodies (jism). This is the opposite extreme from the all-encompassing creative Single Monad.
- 9 It has to be noticed, however, that, for Ibn 'Arabî, this 'al-haqq al-makhlûq bihi' is not other than the Real, Allah, but he is also not Allah; he is the most perfect manifestation of Allah. See also Chapter 5 (especially section 5.3). See 'Uqlat Al-Mustawfiz: 59. See also Al-Mu'jam Al-Sûfi: 828.
- 10 See also Chittick, SDK: 134 [The Universal Reality]. In other related hadith some other realities are said to be the 'first-created' such as the Intellect [Kanz: 7057], the Pen [Kanz: 597, 15116] or 'the Muhammadan Light', etc. There is no contradiction in these hadith because those are just different names of the same reality as we discussed in section 6.3.
- 11 See chapter 73 of the Futûhât [II.2–39] where Ibn 'Arabî explains and lists the different groups of saints, and especially the extensive summary and analysis of that long chapter and related materials found in Chodkiewicz (1993).
- 12 As we have seen in section 5.3, Ibn 'Arabî argues that number one is the primordial basis of all other numbers, just as alif is the foundation of all the letters. See also [II.122.19, and Al-Masâ'il: 109].
- 13 This divine Name is usually taken in the meaning of 'the Most-Kind', which is a possible meaning in relation to His Creation: 'He is the Most-Kind with His servants' (42:19). Ibn 'Arabî here, however, emphasizes the general meaning of latâfa which means fineness.
- 14 Insân: i.e. here and throughout this book, the immortal spiritual reality and dimension of people – which is the reflection of the cosmic First Intellect, or 'Perfect Human Being'; and not their passing material, mortal-animal 'nature' (bashar).
- 15 Ibn 'Arabî spends a good deal of the first chapter of the Futûhât trying to explain this mysterious point regarding the subjective experience and the actual reality of fanâ'.

He explains that, in making the circle, the compass returns to the starting point [I.48.33], until he concludes: 'if they (the seekers of the Real) knew (the goal of their search) they would not have moved from their place' [I.49.1], and 'so he (the seeker) would be sad on arriving at what he has (earlier) left behind – but he would be happy for the secrets that he gained on the way!' [I.49.14]

16 See also Yousef (2006): 422.

17 See Al-Salawât Al-Faydiyya, published together with some other short treatises and prayers, for example in Tawajjuhât Al-Hurûf (Maktabat al-Qâhira: Cairo, n.d.).

18 I.e. as my ultimate identity which is as the Perfect Human Being, not as You (the transcendent Real), because this is impossible as we said above. This is the state of spiritual 'abolishment' (mahw) of the ego, like the momentary disappearance of the shadow at noontime, as we have seen above.

19 The pronoun here (translated as 'its') is usually interpreted by many scholars so that it refers to Allah. Ibn 'Arabî, however, affirms that it indeed refers to the thing in 'everything' [II.110.25, II.313.16, III.255.22]. However, both cases are plausible [IV.417.18], if we take into account what we have mentioned in Chapter 5 that the things are not other than Him, and that the 'face' of a thing is its essential reality [as Ibn 'Arabî argues at I.181.19, I.306.12, I.433.36, II.182.17, II.632.34, IV.417.18]. So the things in reality are not other than Allah, but the forms that we see are all perishable, and at the end there remains only His Face in everything. So this verse is indeed another clear expression of the oneness of being.

20 See Tawajjuhât al-Hurûf: 26.

21 Like the English pun, Ibn 'Arabî frequently plays with the fact that the same Arabic word ('ayn') refers at once to the observing 'eye', the concrete individual entity (of the observer), and to their ultimate Source. See also Kitâb Al-Azal: 9.

7 The Single Monad model and its implications for modern physics

1 Al-sirr literally means 'the secret', but Sufis use it to refer to the innermost spiritual core of the heart (qalb), the 'heart of the heart'. It was said that the sirr also has a sirr, and so on down to seven levels. For Ibn 'Arabî, the Spirit (rûh) is the third level after the heart and the sirr, but also the Spirit has its 'secret' dimension, and this sirr also has a sirr which is called sirr al-sirr ('the secret of the secret') [I.117.8]. Ultimately it is this final Sirr that is directly connected with the Real (the wajh al-khâss discussed in several passages in Chapter 5 and Chapter 6).

2 In 1999 Ahmed Zewail was awarded the Nobel Prize 'for showing that it is possible with rapid laser technique to see how atoms in a molecule move during a chemical reaction' (see Press Release, The 1999 Nobel Prize in Chemistry, Kungl. Vetenskapsakademien, The Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, 12 October 1999). This discovery is known as femtochemistry, where molecules are watched over a very short time-scale with Femto-second resolution. The Femto-second resolution ($1 \text{ fs} = 10^{-15} \text{ s}$) is the ultimate achievement to date for studies of the dynamics of the chemical bond at the atomic level. On this time-scale, matter wave packets (particle-type) can be created and their coherent evolution as a single-molecule trajectory can be observed (Zewail 1990: 40–46).

3 The flickering is the variation (and discontinuity) in light intensity which is normally seen on some computer monitors. As we have all observed in watching monitor screens shown on television emissions, that flickering becomes more apparent when we video-record what appears on the screen. That effect happens because of the difference in the frequency (refresh rate) of the filmed monitor and that of the observing video camera. If the refresh rate of the camera is much higher than that of the monitor, then at some times the camera will record blank screens that we normally do not see with our naked eye. This concept can be used to measure high-frequency motions. This is the same phenomenon that causes us to see fast-moving wheel spokes or a propeller appear to be moving backward (or forward) in slower motion, or even motionless, when in fact moving at a very high speed. The illusion happens because of the human eye's limit for the tracking and retention of images, which is usually about one-fifteenth of a second.

- 4 See for example Gaines (1997).
- 5 Ibn 'Arabî asserts that this person was Asif bin Barkhya, who is known as al-Khadir. Al-Khadir literally means 'the Green One', a legendary figure endowed with immortal life. He represents freshness of spirit and eternal liveliness. The stories surrounding al-Khadir are usually associated with Sûrat al-Kahf in the Qur'an [18:60–82], where Allah described the journey of Moses and his servant to the 'meeting of the two seas' to meet al-Khadir and learn from him. Ibn 'Arabî himself mentioned that he had met him several times [I.186], and he considers him a divine Messenger and one of four 'Pillars' in the spiritual hierarchy [II.5.31].
- 6 See Fusûs Al-Hikam, with commentary by 'Abd al-Razzâq al-Qâshânî and Bâlî Effendî (Cairo: Al-Maktaba al-Azhariyya li-l-Turâth, 1997): 321–324.
- 7 The black body problem was raised by the observation that certain materials (especially black bodies) can absorb all frequencies or wavelengths of light. So when heated they should then radiate all frequencies of light equally – at least theoretically. But the distribution of energy radiated in real-life experiments never matched up with the predictions of classical physics.
- 8 The spin is the motion of the particle around its axis just like the daily motion of the Earth.
- 9 For more details about the hierarchy of letters according to Ibn 'Arabî see the related English translations by Denis Gril (2004) in The Meccan Revelations, vol. II, NY: Pir Press: 107–220.
- 10 Wim van den Dungen, 'On Being and the Majesty of the Worlds', Reg. No.51, in SofiaTopiaNet; Sophia Society for philosophy, [www.sofiatopia.org/equiaeon/being.htm#dim].
- 11 Ibn 'Arabî makes various comments on this verse in the Futûhât [I.156.15, I.238.13, I.279.16, II.16.32, II.150.34, II.209.9, II.225.6, II.296.6, II.298.33, II.556.32, III.275.33, III.315.6, III.344.30, IV.28.28, IV.93.3].
- 12 Ibn 'Arabî explained before this text that angels correspond cosmologically to eighteen characters of the alphabet, which are produced as a result of the meeting between the nine divine donating (ilqâ') orbs and the nine human accepting (talaqqî) orbs [I.54.12].

Bibliography

The bibliography is arranged into four categories:

- A Ibn 'Arabî's printed works (in Arabic)
- B Arabic works on Ibn 'Arabî and related subjects
- C English translations and studies on Ibn 'Arabî and related subjects
- D Cited books and articles on philosophy, cosmology and time

A: Ibn 'Arabî's printed works (in Arabic)

The following is a list of Ibn 'Arabî's printed books and treatises that are available in Arabic. This list is arranged alphabetically according to the title, not including initial article Al-, Kitâb or Risâla. The 'OY no.' column on the right gives the corresponding bibliographical classification of the original manuscripts by Osman Yahya. The names of editors have been cited whenever given in the printed text. The numbers given in parentheses immediately after the names of some individual treatises also refer to Yahya's classification.

Ibn 'Arabî (1994) Al-'Abâdila , Cairo: Maktabat Al-Qâhira, 2nd ed., ed. 'Abd Al-Qâdir A. 'Atâ	OY# 2
— (1999) 'Ajâ'ib Al-'Irfân fî Tafsîr I'jâz Al-Bayân fî Al-Tarjama 'an Al-Qur'an , Cairo: Al-Sharika Al-Muttahida, ed. Muhammad I. M. Sâlim	732
— (1999) Kitâb 'Anqâ' Mughrib , Cairo: n.p., ed. Muhammad I. M. Sâlim	30
— (n.d.) 'Aqida fî Al-Tawhîd , or 'Aqîdat ahl Al-Islâm , Egypt: n.p.	34
— (1919) 'Uqlat Al-Mustawfiz , including Kitâb Inshâ' Al-Dawâ'ir and Kitâb Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya fî Islâh Al-Mamlaka Al-Insâniyya , Leiden: Brill; in Kleinere Schriften des Ibn Al-'Arabî , ed. H. S. Nyberg	802 289 716
— (1954) Kitâb Al-Bâ' , Cairo: Maktabat Al-Qâhira, also includes: Kitâb Al-Yâ' (OY no. 205), Kitâb Al-Jalâla (169), Kitâb Al-Alif (25), Kitâb Al-Sha'n (26)	71
— (1968) Dhakhâ'ir al A'lâq , Cairo: n.p.	116
— (1855) Dîwân Ibn 'Arabî , Bulaq	102
— (1996) Dîwân Ibn 'Arabî , Beirut: Dâr Al-Kutub Al-'Ilmiyya, ed. Ahmad Hasan Basaj	102
— (1923) Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ' , Beirut: n.p.	178
— (1946) Fusûs Al-Hikam , Cairo: n.p.; critical edition by A. 'Affifi	150

- (1997) Fusûs Al-Hikam with commentary by ‘Abd Al-Razzâq Al-Qâshânî and Bâli Effendi, Cairo: Al-Maktabat Al-Azhariyya li-l-Turâth 150
- (n.d.) Al-Futûhât Al-Makkîyya, Vols 1–4, Beirut: n.p.; this is a photographic reprint of the old edition of Bulaq 1329/1911 which comprises four volumes each about 700 pages of 35 lines; the page size is 20 by 27 cm. This is the standard version used in citations throughout this book. 135
- (1970) Al-Futûhât Al-Makkîyya, Vols. 1–14, ed. Osman Yahya, Cairo: The General Egyptian Book Organization; this is the critical edition by Osman Yahya. This version was not completed, and the 14 volumes correspond to only volume I of the standard Bulaq/Beirut edition. 135
- (AH 1326) Hilyat Al-Abdâl, Istanbul: n.p. 237
- (1907) Kitâb Al-Hujub, Cairo: n.p. 247
- (2004) Kitâb Al-Hujub, Cairo: Maktabat Al-Thaqâfa Al-Dîniyya, ed. As‘ad ‘Abd Al-Fattâh 247
- (1988) Kitâb Al-Isrâ ilâ Al-Maqâm Al-Asrâ or Kitâb Al-Mi‘râj, Beirut: Dandarâh; critical edition, ed. Su‘ad Al-Hakîm. 313
- (n.d.) Istilâhât Al-Sûfiyya, Cairo: ‘âlam Al-Fikr 315
- (1996) Kalimat Allah or Kitâb Al-Jalâla, Damascus: Al-Hikma, ed. Riyâd M. Al-‘Abdullâh 169
- (1987) Kitâb Al-Khalwat Al-Mutlaqa, Cairo: n.p. 255
- (1967) Kitâb Kunh mâ lâ Budd li-l-Murîd Minhu, Cairo: M. A. Subaih 352
- (1970) Kitâb Al-Mabâdî wa-l-Ghâyât, Damascus: n.p. 380
- (1949) Majmû‘at Sâ‘at Al-Khabar, Cairo: Mustafa Al-Halabî 642
- (1999) Al-Masâ‘il li-Idâh Al-Masâ‘il, Amman: Azmina, ed. Qâsim M. Abbâs 433
- (1907) Mawâqî‘ Al-Nujûm, Cairo: n.p. 443
- (n.d.) Mir‘ât Al-Ma‘ânî, photocopy of a book in Al-Maktaba Al-Zâhiriyya, Damascus: n.p. 230
- (AH 1369) Mishkât Al-Anwâr, Cairo: n.p. 480
- (n.d.) Muhâdarat Al-Abrâr wa Musâmarat Al-Akhyâr, Vols 1 & 2, Beirut: Dâr Sâdir 493
- (1978) Al-Nûr Al-Asnâ bi-Munajât Allah bi Asmâ‘ihi Al-Husnâ, Cairo: M. A. Subayh 502
- (1994) Kitâb Al-Qasam Al-Ilâhi bil-Isim Al-Rabbânî, Cairo: n.p. 565
- (n.d.) Radd Al-Muhkam ila Al-Mutashâbih, Cairo: ‘Âlam Al-Fikr, ed. ‘Abd Al-Rahmân Hasan Mahmûd 588
- (n.d.) Rasâ‘il Ibn ‘Arabî, Beirut: Dâr Ihyâ‘ Al-Turâth Al-‘Arabî; this is a photographic reprint, in a single volume, of the same famous collection published by the Dâ‘irat Al-Ma‘ârif Al-‘Uthmâniyya (Hyderabad, 1948), based on a manuscript in the Ayasofia library (Istanbul), no. 376, containing 29 short works. Many of these works have been published also separately or in other groups of collected treatises. These are the books and pamphlets contained in this collection, in the same order:
- Part I
1. Kitâb Al-Fanâ‘ fî Al-Mushâhada 125
 2. Kitâb Al-Jalâl wa-l-Jamâl 168
 3. Kitâb Al-Alif wa huwa Kitâb Al-Ahadiyya 25
 4. Kitâb Al-Jalâla wa huwa Kalimat Allâh 169
 5. Kitâb Al-Sha‘n 67
 6. Kitâb (Maqâm) Al-Qurba 414

	7. Kitâb Al-I'lâm bi-Ishârât Ahl Al-Ilhâm	281
	8. Kitâb Al-Mîm wa-l-Wâw wa-l-Nun	462
	9. Risâlat Al-Qasam Al-Ilâhî	565
	10. Kitâb Al-Yâ'	205
	11. Kitâb Al-Azal	68
	12. Risâlat Al-Anwâr	33
	13. Kitâb Al-Isrâ ilâ Al-Maqâm Al-Asrâ	313
	14. Risâla fi Su'al Ismâ'il bin Sawdakîn	182
	15. Risâlat Al-Shaykh ilâ Al-Imâm Al-Râzi	612
	16. Risâlat La Yu'awwal 'Alayhi	532
	17. Kitâb Al-Shâhid	668
Part II	18. Kitâb Al-Tarâjim	737
	19. Kitâb Manzil Al-Qutb wa Maqâmuhu wa Hâluhu	585
	20. Risâlat Al-Intisâr	294
	21. Kitâb Al-Kutub	354
	22. Kitâb Al-Masâ'il	433
	23. Kitâb Al-Tajalliyât	738
	24. Kitâb Al-Isfâr 'an Natâ'ij Al-Asfâr	307
	25. Kitâb Al-Wasâyâ	817
	26. Kitâb Hilyat Al-Abdâl	237
	27. Kitâb Naqsh Al-Fusûs	528
	28. Kitâb Al-Wasiyya	820
	29. Kitâb Istilâh Al-Sûfiyya	315

— (2002–04) Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî, Beirut: Mu'assasat Al-Intishâr Al-'Arabî, ed. Sa'id 'Abd Al-Fattâh; four volumes in this series of collected treatises have been published so far. Most of their contents are available in separate books from other earlier publishers (including many of those listed separately here), but the editor has given some critical notes and comparisons between different manuscripts. A number of the treatises included in this collection are clearly apocryphal works. These are the books and pamphlets contained in these four volumes, in the same order (with page nos):

Part I	31–70	Fihras Mu'allafât Ibn 'Arabî	142
	71–118	Kitâb Al-'Azama	70
	119–130	Kitâb Marâtib 'Ulûm Al-Wahb	423
	131–146	Kitâb Al-Hurûf Al-Thalâtha	462
	147–156	Kitâb Al-Lum'a	372
	157–192	Kitâb Manzil Al-Manâzil Al-Fahwâniyya	412
	193–206	Risâla fi Asrâr Al-Dhât Al-Ilâhiyya
	207–232	Kitâb Al-Qutb wa-l-Imâmayn wa-l-Mudlijîn	585
	233–246	Kitâb Maqâm Al-Qurba	414
	247–264	Kitâb Al-Madkhal ilâ Al-Maqсад Al-Asmâ fi Al-Ishârât
	265–278	Kitâb Nuskhat Al-Haqq	551
	279–347	Kitâb Shâqq Al-Jayb bi-'Ilm Al-Ghayb	671
Part II	18–61	Kitâb Al-Qutb Wa-l-Nuqabâ'	548
	62–131	'Uqlat Al-Mustawfîz	802
	131–145	Risâlat Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ'	178
	146–231	Risâlat Al-Anwâr fi mâ Yumnahu Sâhibu Al-Khalwa min Al-Asrâr	33

	233–287	Tāj Al-Rasâ'il wa Minhāj Al-Wasâ'il	736
	288–406	Kitâb Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya fî Islâh Al-Mamlakat Al-Insâniyya	289
Part III		Al-Kawkab Al-Durrî fî Manâqib dhî-l-Nûn Al-Masrî
Part IV	19–76	Kitâb Al-Yaqîn	834
	79–162	Kitâb 'Anqâ' Mughrib	30
	165–311	Kitâb Al-Ma'rifa	433

— Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî; Kashf Al-Sitr (Amman: Azmina, 2004), ed. Qâsim M. Abbâs.
Includes the following treatises (several apparently apocryphal):

	69–90	Kashf Al-Sitr li Ahl Al-Sirr	340
	91–97	Risâlat Al-Waqt wa-l-Ân
	95–111	Kitâb Marâtib 'Ulûm Al-Wahb	423
	113–131	Kitâb Al-Huwa	205
	133–143	Risâlat Al-Ma'lûm min 'Aqâ'id Ahl Al-Rusûm	402
	145–167	Kitâb Al-Ittihâd Al-Kawnî fî Hadhrat Al-Ishhâd Al-'Aynî

— (2000) Majmû'at Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî, Beirut: Dâr Al-Mahajjat Al-Baydâ; most of the contents of these three volumes, as in no. 64 above, are brought together from previously published separate books or collections, but the reprinted versions in this volume are newly type in a clearer modern font. Three volumes containing a collection of treatises as follows:

Part I	7–74	Tahdhib Al-Akhlâq	745
	75–94	Al-Maw'iza Al-Hasana	448
	95–230	Risâlat Rûh Al-Quds	639
	231–258	Al-'Ujâla	772
	259–290	(Risâlat) Al-Anwâr	33
	291–308	'Aqida fî Al-Tawhid aw 'Aqidat Ahl Al-Islâm	34
	309–358	Shajarat Al-Kawn	666
	359–372	Al-Nûr Al-Asnâ bi-Munajât Allâh bi Asmâ'ihî Al-Husnâ	502
	373–422	Tanbihât 'Alâ 'Uluww Al-Haqîqat Al-Muhammadiyya	763
	423–454	Al-Khalwat Al-Mutlaqa	255
	455–520	Kitâb Al-Bâ'	71
	521–546	Kitâb Kunh mâ lâ Budd li-l-Murîd Minhu	352
	547–574	Istilâhât Al-Sûfiyya	315
	575–602	Al-Hikma Al-Hâtimiyya	233
	603–622	Risâlat Al-Shaykh ilâ Al-Imâm Al-Râzi	612
	623–662	Tawajjuhât Al-Hurûf [including: Al-Salawât Al-Mutalsama , Al-Salawât Al-Akbariyya (OY no. 705), Al-Salawât Faydiyya (702), Al-Dawr Al-A'la (244) and Al-Salât Al-Nâriyya]	244
Part II	5–66	Al-Tanazzulât Al-Layliyya fî Al-Ahkâm Al-Ilâhiyya	761
	67–314	Al-Tanazzulât Al-Mawsiliyya fî Asrâr Al-Taharât Wa-l-Salawât Wa-l-Ayyâm Al-Asliyya	762
	315–504	Radd Al-Mutashâbih ilâ Al-Muhkam min Al-Ayât wa-l-Ahâdîth	588
Part III	5–60	'Anqâ' Mughrib fî Khatm Al-Awliyâ wa Shams Al-Maghrib	30
	61–250	Al-'Abâdila	2
	251–374	Mawâqî' Al-Nujûm wa Matâli' Ahillat Al-Asrâr wa-l-'Ulûm	443
	375–484	Majmû'at Sâ'at Al-Khabar	642

— (1998) Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî: Sharh Muftada' Al-Tûfân wa Rasâ'il Ukhra', Abu Dhabi: Cultural Foundation, eds Qâsim M. Abbâs and Husayn M. 'Ujayl; this book contains 12 probably apocryphal treatises which are based on a manuscript in the Museum of Iraq (Baghdad no. 597), listed by its publishers as an autograph dated AH 635. The editors claim that those works were written by Ibn 'Arabî between AH 636 and 638 in apparent contradiction with the earlier date they assign to their manuscript:

1	'Ayn Al-A'yân
2	Khurûj Al-Shukhûs min Burûj Al-Khusûs	262
3	Inkhirâq Al-Junûd ilâ Al-Julûd	288
4	Bahr Al-Shukr fî Nahr Al-Nukr
5	Sharh Muftada' Al-Tûfân	685
6	Al-Miqdâr fî Nuzûl Al-Jabbâr	472
7	Nashr Al-Bayâd fî Rawdat Al-Riyâd
8	Khâtimat Nuzûl Al-Jabbâr
9	Al-Radd 'alâ Al-Yahûd	80
10	Khatimat Al-Radd 'alâ Al-Yahûd	256
11	Baqiyyat Khâtimat Al-Radd 'alâ Al-Yahûd
12	Kashf Sirr Al-Wa'd wa Bayân 'Alâmat Al-Wajd	342

- (n.d.) Al-Risâla Al-Wujûdiyya (The Treatise on Being), Cairo: n.p. 13
- (1970) Kitâb Rûh Al-Quds, Damascus: n.p. 639
- (1964) Risâlat Rûh Al-Quds fî Muhâsabat Al-Nafs, Damascus: Matba'at Al-'Ilm 639
- (1996) Al-Shajara Al-Nu'mâniyya, Cairo: n.p. 665
- (2003) Shajarat Al-Kawn, Damascus: Dâr Al-Mahabba, ed. 'Abd Al-Rahîm Mardini 666
- (2002) Sharh Asmâ' Allâh Al-Husnâ or Kashf Al-Ma'nâ 'an Asmâ' Allâh Al-Husnâ, Cairo: Al-Maktaba Al-Azhariyya li-l-Turâth, ed. M. I. M. Sâlim 338
- (1999) Shujûn Al-Masjûn wa Funûn Al-Maftûn, Damascus: Sa'd Al-Dîn, ed. Dr 'Alî I. Kurdi 692
- (2002) Tafsîr Ibn 'Arabî, Vols. 1 & 2, Beirut: Dâr Sâdir; Osman Yahya lists this work in his classification of Ibn 'Arabî's works, on the basis of one manuscript, but he and all other commentators agree that it is actually by the later figure Abd al-Razzâq al-Qâshânî, a famous commentator on Ibn 'Arabî's Fusûs al-Hikam. 732
- (1988) Al-Tajalliyât Al-Ilâhiyya, Tehran: Dânishgâh-i Tehran; critical edition by Osman Yahya, with the anonymous commentary Kashf Al-Ghâyât and Ibn Sawdakîn's notes 738
- (1987) Al-Tanazzulât Al-Layliyya fî Al-Ahkâm Al-Ilâhiyya, together with Risâla fî Nasab Al-Khirqa (OY no. 530), Cairo: 'Âlam Al-Fikr, ed. 'Abd Al-Rahmân Hasan Mahmûd 761
- (1986) Al-Tanazzulât Al-Mawsiliyya fî Asrâr Al-Taharât Wa-l-Salawât Wa-l-Ayyâm Al-Asliyya or Tanazzul Al-Amlâk fî 'Âlam Al-Aflâk, Cairo: 'Âlam Al-Fikr, ed. 'Abd Al-Rahmân Hasan Mahmûd 762
- (1966) Tarjumân Al-Ashwâq, Beirut: Dâr Sâdir; this volume is in fact the Kitâb Al-Dhakhâ'ir wa-l-A'lâq, which is Ibn 'Arabî's own commentary on his Tarjumân Al-Ashwâq (OY no. 767). 116 767
- (n.d.) Tawajjuhât Al-Hurûf, Cairo: Maktabat Al-Qâhira; includes Al-Dawr Al-A'alâ or Hizb Al-Wiqâyah li man 'Arada Al-Wilâya (244) and a few short works or prayers upon the Prophet including Al-Salawât Al-Faydiyya (702). 244

B: Arabic works on Ibn 'Arabî and related subjects

- 'Abdul-Muta'âl, A. (2003) Tasawwur Ibn Sinâ li-l-Zamân wa Usûlûh Al-Yunâniyya (Ibn Sinâ's Concept of Time and Its Greek Origins) Alexandria: Dâr Al-Wafâ'
- Abu Zayd, N. H. (1983) Falsafat Al-Ta'wil (A Study of Ibn 'Arabî's Interpretation of Qur'an), Beirut: Dâr Al-Wahda
- (2002) Hâkadha Takallama Ibn 'Arabî (That Is What Ibn 'Arabî Said), Cairo: The General Egyptian Book Organization
- Al-Ghazâlî, M. (1927) Tahâfut Al-Falâsifa (The Incoherence of the Philosophers), ed. M. Bouyges with a summary in Latin, Beirut: n.p.
- Al-Hakîm, S. (1981) Al-Mu'jam Al-Sûfî: Al-Hikma fî Hudûd Al-Kalima (The Sufi Dictionary: The Wisdom in the Word), Beirut: Dandarah
- (1991) Ibn 'Arabî wa Mawlid Lugha Jadîda (Ibn 'Arabî and the Birth of a New Language), Beirut: Al-Mu'assasa Al-Jami'yya
- Al-Jîlî, A. (1970) Al-Insân Al-Kâmil fî Ma'rîfat Al-Awâ'il wa'l-Awâkhir (The Perfect Human Being . . .), Cairo: Mustafâ Al-Bâbî Al-Halabî
- (1999) Marâtib Al-Wujûd (The Levels of Existence), Cairo: Maktabat Al-Qâhira
- Al-Kindî (1950) Rasâ'il Al-Kindî Al-Falsafîyya, Risâla fî Al-Falsafa Al-Ûlâ (Al-Kindî's Philosophical Treatises, a Treatise on the First Philosophy), ed. Muhammed A. Abû Ridâ, Cairo: n.p.
- Al-Marzûqî (2002) Al-Azmina wa'l-Amkina (The Times and the Places), ed. Muhammad N. Al-Daylami, Beirut: 'Alâma li-l-Kutub
- Al-Muttaqî Al-Hindî (1989) Kanz Al-'Ummâl (The Treasure of the Workers), Beirut: Mu'assasat Al-Risâla
- Al-Nisabûrî, M., Al Mustadrak 'ala Sahîhayn (n.d.) Beirut: Dar Al-Kutub Al-'Ilmiyya.
- Al-Shâfî'î, A. (1980) Al-Sirâj Al-Wahhâj fî Haqâ'iq Al-Isrâ' wa'l-Mi'râj, in Mawsû'at Al-Isrâ wa'l-Mi'râj, Cairo: Maktabat Al-Il-'tisâm
- Al-Sha'rânî, A. (1959) Al-Yawâqût wa-l-Jawâhir fî Bayân Aqâ'id Al-Akâbir, Cairo: Mustafâ Al-Bâbî Al-Halabî; including: Al-Kibrît Al-Ahmar fî Bayân 'Ulûm Al-Shaykh Al-Akbar
- Al-Taftazânî, A. G. (1973) Ibn Sab'in wa Falsafatuh Al-Sûfîyya (Ibn Sab'in and His Sufi Philosophy), Beirut: Dâr Al-Kitâb Al-Lubnânî
- Al-Tu'aymî, M., ed. (1994) Mawsû'at Al-Isrâ wa'l-Mi'râj, Beirut: Dâr Al-Hilâl
- 'Al-Turâth Al-'Arabî', periodical magazine published by the Arabic Authors Union in Damascus, special issue 80, July 2000; this issue was devoted to Ibn 'Arabî, with ten articles by various Arab writers.
- Badawî, A. (1965) Aristûtâlis, Al-Tabî'a. Tarjamât Ishâq ibn Hunayn ma'a shurûh Ibn Al-Samh wa Ibn 'Âdî wa Mattâ ibn Yûnus wa Abî Al-Faraj ibn ayyib, 2 vols (Aristotle's Physics . . .), Cairo: The General Egyptian Book Organization
- Ibn Sinâ (1983) Al-Shifâ' [Al-Tabî'iyyât: Al-Samâ' Al-Tabî'î], ed. Sa'id Zâyid, Cairo: L'Organisation Egyptienne Générale du Livre
- Ibn Taymiyya (1969) Jâmi' Al-Rasâ'il (The Collection of Treatises), ed. Muhammad Rashâd Sâlim, Cairo: Maktabat Al-Madani
- Madhkûr, I. B. ed. (1969) Al-Kitâb Al-Tadhkârî, Muhyî Al-Dîn Ibn 'Arabî (The Commemorative Book of Muhyî ed-Dîn Ibn 'Arabî), Cairo: The General Egyptian Book Organization
- Mahmûd, A. ed. (1995) Dîwân Ibn Al-Fârid (Ibn Al-Fârid's Poetry), Cairo: 'Ayn for Human and Social Studies
- Râdî, A. A. (1970) Al-Rûhiyya 'inda Ibn 'Arabî (Spirituality in Ibn 'Arabî), Cairo: Maktabat Al-Nahda Al-Masriyya

- Sâlim, M. I. (1993) Ta'yîd Al-Sûfiyya fî Al-Majmû'a Al-Hâtimiyya (Supporting the Sufis Through the Hâtimî Works), Cairo: Maktabat Hamada
- (1996) Miftâh Al-Futûhât Al-Makkiyya (The Key to the Meccan Openings), Cairo: Al-Sharika Al-Muttahida
- Yahya, O., trans. Ahmad Al-Tayyib (2001) Mu'allafât Ibn 'Arabî, Tarîkhuhâ wa Tasnî-fuhâ (History and Classification of Ibn 'Arabî's Books), Cairo: The General Egyptian Book Organization; translation from French
- Yousef, M. H. (1999) Sulûk Al-Qalb Min Al-Wujûd Ilâ Al-Fanâ' thumm Al-Baqâ': Sharh Ta'wil Al-Shaykh Al-Akbar Muhyi Al-Dîn Ibn 'Arabî li Sûrat Yusuf (Ibn 'Arabî's Interpretation of the Sura of Joseph), Beirut: Dâr Al-Hayât
- (2006) Shams Al-Magrib (Biography of Ibn 'Arabî) Aleppo: Dâr Fussilat

C: English translations and studies on Ibn 'Arabî and related subjects

- Addas, C. (1985) Ibn 'Arabî ou La quête du Soufre Rouge, Paris: Gallimard; translated into English by P. Kingsley (1993), Quest for Red Sulphur: The Life of Ibn 'Arabî, Cambridge: Islamic Texts Society
- Affifi, A. E. (1938) The Mystical Philosophy of Muhyid Din-Ibn'ul Arabi, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- (1998) The Twenty-nine Pages: An Introduction to Ibn 'Arabî's Metaphysics of Unity, Cambridge: Beshara Publications
- Ali, A. Y. (2001) The Meaning of the Holy Qur'an: Arabic/English with Commentary, Beltsville: Amana Publications
- Arberry, A. J. (1956) Sufism, An Account of the Mystics of Islam, London: George Allen and Unwin
- Austin, R. J. (1971) Sufis of Andalusia, London: George Allen & Unwin
- trans. (1980) The Bezels of Wisdom, New York: Paulist Press; translation and introduction by Ralph Austin and preface by Titus Burckhardt.
- Beneito, P., Hirstenstein, S. (trans.) (2000) The Seven Days of the Heart: Prayers for the Nights and Days of the Week, Oxford: Anqa Publishing
- Bewley, A., trans. (2002) Ibn 'Arabî: The Mysteries of Bearing Witness to the Oneness of God and Prophet-hood of Muhammad, Chicago: Kazi Publications
- Böwering, G. (1992) 'Ibn Al-'Arabî's Concept of Time', in God Is Beautiful and He Loves Beauty: Festschrift in Honour of Annemarie Schimmel Presented by Students, Friends and Colleagues, edited by Alma Giese and J. Christoph Bürgel, Bern: Peter Lang: 71–91
- Brockelmann, C. (1996) Geschichte der Arabischen Literatur, Leiden: Brill Academic Publishers
- Burkhardt, T. (1950), Mystical Astrology according to Ibn 'Arabî (Clef spirituelle de l'astrologie musulmane d'après Mohyi-d-din Ibn 'Arabî); translated into English by: Bulent Rauf (1977), Abingdon: Beshara Publications
- Chittick, W. C., Morris, J. W. (trans.), Chodkiewicz, M. (ed.) (2002) The Meccan Revelations, Vol. I, New York: Pir Press
- Chittick, W. C. (1989) The Sufi Path of Knowledge: Ibn Al-'Arabî's Metaphysics of Imagination, Albany, NY: SUNY Press
- (1996) 'The School of Ibn 'Arabî', in History of Islamic Philosophy, eds S. H. Nasr and O. Leaman, London: Routledge

- (1998) The Self-disclosure of God: Principles of Ibn Al-Arabi's Cosmology, Albany, NY: SUNY Press
- Chodkiewicz, M. (1993) The Seal of the Saints: Prophethood and Sainthood in the Doctrine of Ibn Arabi, Cambridge: Islamic Texts Society
- trans. D. Streight (1993) An Ocean Without Shore, Albany, NY: State University of New York Press
- Chodkiewicz, C., Gril, D. (trans.), Chodkiewicz, M. (ed.) (2004) The Meccan Revelations, Vol. II, New York: Pir Press
- Corbin, H. (1969) Alone with the Alone: Creative Imagination in the Sufism of Ibn 'Arabi, Princeton: Bollingen
- Culme-Seymour, A. (trans.) (1984) The Wisdom of the Prophets (Fusus Al-Hikam), translated from Arabic to French with notes by Titus Burckhardt; translated from French to English by Angela Culme-Seymour, New Delhi: TAJ Company
- Davidson, H. A. (1987) Proofs for Eternity, Creation, and the Existence of God in Medieval Islamic and Jewish Philosophy, Oxford: Oxford University Press
- (1992) Alfarabi, Avicenna and Averroes: Their Cosmology, Theories of the Active Intellect, and Theories of the Human Intellect, New York, Oxford University Press
- Elmore, G. T. (1999) 'Ibn Al-'Arabi's Book of "the Fabulous Gryphon" (Anqâ Al-Mughrib)', The Journal of the Muhyiddin Ibn 'Arabi Society, XXV
- (2000) Islamic Sainthood in the Fullness of Time: Ibn Al-'Arabi's 'Book of the Fabulous Gryphon', Leiden: Brill; introduction, translations and notes by Gerald T. Elmore of Ibn 'Arabi's book: Anqâ Mughrib.
- Harris, R. T. (trans.) (1989) Journey to the Lord of Power: A Sufi Manual on Retreat; with notes from commentary of 'A. K. Jili, Rochester, VT: Inner Traditions International
- Hirtenstein, S. (ed.) (1997) Foundations of the Spiritual Life According to Ibn 'Arabi: Prayer & Contemplation, San Francisco: Muhyiddin Ibn 'Arabi Society
- (1999) The Unlimited Mercifier, The Spiritual Life and Thought of Ibn 'Arabi, Oxford: Anqa
- Hasnaoui, A. (1997) 'Certain Notions of Time in Arab-Muslim Philosophy', in Time and the Philosophies, ed. Paul Ricoeur, London: UNESCO, Benham Press
- Husaini, S. A. (1979) The Pantheistic Monism of Ibn Al-'Arabi, Lahore: Sh. Muhammad Ashraf
- (1996) Ibn Al-'Arabi: The Great Muslim Mystic and Thinker, Lahore: Sh. Muhammad Ashraf
- Gril, D. (1994) Le dévoilement des effets du voyage Ibn Arabi, Combas: Éditions de l'Eclat; translation into French of Ibn 'Arabi's Kitâb Al-Isfâr 'an Natâ'ij Al-Asfâr, with introduction
- Izutsu, T. (1983) Sufism and Taoism, Los Angeles: University of California Press
- Knysh, A. D. (1999) Ibn 'Arabi in the Later Islamic Tradition: The Making of a Polemical Image in Medieval Islam, Albany, NY: SUNY Press
- MacDonald, D. B. (1927) 'Continuous Re-creation and Atomic Time in Muslim Scholastic Theology', Isis 9: 326–344
- Morris, J. W. (1993) 'Seeing Past the Shadows: Ibn 'Arabi's "Divine Comedy"', Journal of the Muhyiddin Ibn 'Arabi Society XII: 50–69
- Nasr, S. H. (1964) Three Muslim Sages: Avicenna Suhrawardi Ibn 'Arabi, New York: Caravan Books
- (1978) An Introduction to Islamic Cosmological Doctrines: Conceptions of Nature and Methods Used for Its Study by the Ikhwân Al-Safâ, Al-Bîrûnî, and Ibn Sinâ, London: Thames and Hudson

- Netton, I. R. (1989) Allah Transcendent, London: Routledge
- (1992) Al-Farabi and His School, London: Routledge
- (1998) Middle East Sources: A Melcom Guide to Middle Eastern and Islamic Books and Materials in the United Kingdom and Irish Libraries, London: Routledge
- Nicholson, R. A. (1969) A Literary History of the Arabs, London: Cambridge University Press
- (1974) The Mystics of Islam, London and Boston: Routledge and Kegan Paul
- (1980) Studies in Islamic Mysticism, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Ormsby, E. (1984) Theodicy in Islamic Thought: The Dispute over Al-Ghazâlî's 'Best of All Possible Worlds', Princeton: Princeton University Press
- Pickthall, M. M. (1996) The Meaning of the Glorious Qur'an: An Explanatory Translation, Beltsville: Amana Publications; revised and edited in modern standard English by Dr Arafat El-Ashi
- Palacios, M. A. (1979) Ibn 'Arabî: His Life and Doctrine, translated into Arabic by Abdel-Rahmân Badawî, Kuwait: Wikâlat Al-Matbû'ât
- Sambursky, S., S. (1987) The Concept of Time in Late Neoplatonism: Texts With Translation, Introduction and Notes, Leiden: Brill
- Schimmel, A. (1975) Mystical Dimensions of Islam, Chapel Hill: The University of North Carolina
- (1993) The Mystery of Numbers, Oxford: Oxford University Press
- Sorabji, R. (1983) Time, Creation and the Continuum: Theories in Antiquity and the Early Middle Ages, Ithaca: Cornell University Press
- Yahya, O. (1964) Histoire et Classification de l'oeuvre d'Ibn 'Arabî, Damascus: Institut Français

D: Cited books and articles on philosophy, cosmology and time

- Al-'Atî, I. (1993) Al-Zamân fî Al-Fikr Al-Islâmî: Ibn Sînâ, Al-Râzi and Al-Ma'ârri (Time in Islamic Thought . . .), Beirut: Dâr Al-Muntakhab Al-Arabî
- Arntzenius, F. and Maudlin, T. (2002) 'Time Travel and Modern Physics', in Time, Reality & Experience, ed. C. Callender, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Aspect, A., Grangier P. and Roger G. (12 July 1982) 'Experimental Realisation of Einstein-Podolsky-Rosen-Bohm Gedanken Experiment: A New Violation of Bell's Inequalities', Physical Review Letters 49 no. 2: 91
- and R. Dalibard (20 Dec. 1982) 'Experimental Test of Bell's Inequalities Using Time-Varying Analyzers', Physical Review Letters 49 no. 25: 1804
- Aveni, A. F. (1990) Empires of Time: Calendars, Clocks and Cultures, London: I. B. Tauris & Co.
- Baierlein, R. (1992) Newton to Einstein: The Trail of Light: An Excursion to the Wave-Particle Duality and the Special Theory of Relativity, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Bell, J. (July 1966) 'On the Problem of Hidden Variables in Quantum Mechanics', Reviews of Modern Physics 38 no. 3: 447
- Bianquis, T. and Bosworth, C. E. (1987), eds E. J. Vandonzel and W. P. Heinrichs, Encyclopaedia of Islam, 9 vols, Leiden: Brill
- Bickerman, E. J. (1968) Chronology of the Ancient World, Ithaca: Cornell University Press

- Bieńkowski, B. (1972) 'From Negation to Acceptance (The Reception of the Heliocentric Theory in Polish Schools in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries)', in The Perception of Copernicus' Heliocentric Theory: Proceedings of a Symposium Organised by the Nicolas Copernicus Committee of the International Union of the History and Philosophy of Science, ed. Jerzy Dobrzycki, Boston: D. Reidel.
- Blanco, W. (trans.) and Jennifer, T. R. (ed.) (1992) Herodotus: The Histories, New York, London: W. W. Norton & Company
- Bohr, N. (15 Oct. 1935) 'Can Quantum-Mechanical Description of Physical Reality Be Considered Complete?', Physical Review 48: 696; Niels Bohr's response to EPR.
- Callender, C. (ed.) (2002) Time, Reality & Experience, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Cornford, F. M. (2004) Plato's Cosmology: The Timaeus of Plato Translated with a Running Commentary, Whitefish, MT: Kessinger Publishing
- Coveny, P. and Highfield, R. (1990) The Arrow of Time: A Voyage through Science to Solve Time's Greatest Mystery, New York: Ballantine Books
- Darling, D. (2004) The Universal Book of Mathematics: From Abracadabra to Zeno's Paradoxes, London: Wiley
- Deutsch, D. and Lockwood, M. (March 1994) 'The Quantum Physics of Time Travel', Scientific American
- D'Inverno, R. (1992) Introducing Einstein's Relativity, Oxford: Clarendon
- Dobrzycki, J. (ed.) (1972) The Perception of Copernicus' Heliocentric Theory: Proceedings of a Symposium Organized by the Nicolas Copernicus Committee of the International Union of the History and Philosophy of Science, Boston: D. Reidel.
- Dolgov, A. D., Sazhin, M. V. and Zeldovich, Y. B. (1990) Basics of Modern Cosmology, Cedex: Editions Frontières
- Drake, S. (1990) Galileo: Pioneer Scientist, Toronto: University of Toronto Press
- Dungen, W., 'On Being and the Majesty of the Worlds', Reg. no. 51, in SofiaTopiaNet; Sophia Society for philosophy [www.sofiatopia.org/equiaeon/being.htm#dim] (accessed May 2005)
- Dyke, H. (2002) 'The Truth about Time', in Time, Reality & Experience, ed. Craig Callender, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press: 137–152
- Edwards, P. (ed.) (1967) The Encyclopedia of Philosophy, 8 vols, New York: Macmillan Publishing
- Einstein, A. (1920) Relativity: The Special and General Theory, trans. Robert W. Lawson, New York: Henry Holt
- (1955) The Meaning of Relativity, 5th ed., Princeton: Princeton University Press
- Einstein, A., Podolsky, B. and Rosen, N. (May 1935) 'Can Quantum-Mechanical Description of Physical Reality Be Considered Complete?' Physical Review 41: 777; the original EPR paper
- Ferguson, K. (1999) Measuring the Universe: Our Historic Quest to Chart the horizons of Space and Time, USA: Walker & Company
- Frankel, F. (1942) 'Zeno of Elea's Attacks on Plurality' American Journal of Philology, 63
- Fraser, J. T. (1978) Time as Conflict: a Scientific and Humanistic Study, Basel and Boston: Birkhäuser
- (1982) The Genesis and Evolution of Time: A Critique of Interpretations in Physics, Amherst: University of Massachusetts Press
- (1987a) How to Live with the Knowledge of Time, Amherst: University of Massachusetts Press

- (1987b) Time the Familiar Stranger, Amherst: University of Massachusetts Press
- (1990) Of Time, Passion, and Knowledge: Reflections on the Strategy of Existence, Princeton: Princeton University Press
- (1999) Time, Conflict, and Human Values, Urbana and Chicago: University of Illinois Press
- Fraser, J. T., Haber, F. C. and Müller, G. H. (eds) (1972) The Study of Time, New York, Heidelberg, Berlin: Springer-Verlag
- Freeman, E. and Sellars, W. (eds) (1971) Basic Issues in the Philosophy of Time, Illinois: Open Court Publishing
- Gaines, R. V., Skinner, H. C., Foord, E., Mason, B. and Rosenzweig, A. with sections by King, V. T., and illustrations by Dowty, E. (1997) Dana's New Mineralogy, London: John Wiley & Sons
- Gale, R. (ed.) (1968) The Philosophy of Time, London: Macmillan
- Giannakis, E. (1992) Philoponus in the Arabic Tradition of Aristotle's Physics, PhD thesis, University of Oxford
- Gott, J. R. (2001) Time Travel in Einstein's Universe: The Physical Possibilities of Travel Through Time, New York: Houghton Mifflin Co.
- Goudsmit, S. A., and Claiborne, R. (1974) Time, New York: Time-Life Books
- Grossing, G. and Zeilinger, A. (July 1991) 'Zeno Paradox in Quantum Cellular Automata' Physica D 50, no. 3: 321–326
- Grünbaum, A. (1971) 'The Meaning of Time', in Basic Issues in the Philosophy of Time, ed. Eugene Freeman and Wilfrid Sellars, Ill.: Open Court Publishing: 195–230
- Hall, A. R. (1992) Isaac Newton, Adventurer in Thought, Oxford: Blackwell
- Harrison, P. (1999) The Elements of Pantheism: Understanding the Divinity in Nature and the Universe, Massachusetts: Elements Books
- Hartmann, W. K. (1990) The Cosmic Voyage: Through Time and Space, Cal.: Wadsworth Publishing Company
- Hawking, S. (1998) A Brief History Of Time: The Updated and Expanded Tenth Anniversary Edition, UK, USA, Canada: Bantam Publishing.
- (1994) Black Holes and Baby Universes and Other Essays, UK, USA, Canada: Bantam
- Heath, T. L. (1981) A History of Greek Mathematics From Thales to Euclid, New York: Dover Publications
- Hinton, Charles H. and Rucker, R. (eds) (1980) Speculations on the Fourth Dimension: Selected Writings of C. H. Hinton, New York: Dover Publications
- Hopkins, E. W. (1930) Origin and Evolution of Religions, New Haven: Yale University Press
- Itano, W. M., Heinzen, D. J., Bollinger, J. J. and Wineland, D. J. (1990) 'Quantum Zeno Effect', Physical Review A 41: 2295–2300
- Kant, I. (1998) Critique of Pure Reason, trans. and ed. Paul Guyer and Allen W. Wood, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Langdon, S. H. (1964) The Mythology of All Races: Semitic, New York: Cooper Square Publishers
- Le Poidevin, R. and MacBeath, R. M. (eds) (1993) The Unreality of Time in The Philosophy of Time, Oxford: Oxford University Press
- Leiber, J. (1993) Paradoxes Interpretations, London: Duckworth Publishing
- Lettinginck, P. (ed. and trans.) (1994) Aristotle's Physics and Its Reception in the Arabic World with an Edition of the Unpublished Parts of Ibn Bâjja's Commentary of the Physics, Leiden: Brill

- Linde, A. D. (1990) Inflation and Quantum Cosmology, San Diego: Academic Press
- MacEy, L. S. (1994) Encyclopedia of Time, London and New York: Garland Publishing
- Mandelbrot, B. and Frame, M. (2002) Fractals, Graphics, and Mathematics Education, USA: The Mathematical Association of America Incorporated
- Mehlinger, H. (1971) 'Philosophical Aspects of Physical Time', in Basic Issues in the Philosophy of Time, ed. Eugene Freeman and Wilfrid Sellars, Ill.: Open Court Publishing: 16–71
- Minkowski, H. (1923) 'Space and Time', in The Theory of Relativity, ed. H. A. Lorentz, A. Einstein, H. Minkowski and H. Weyl, London: Methuen
- Misra, B. and Sudarshan, E. (1977) 'The Zeno's Paradox in Quantum Theory', Journal of Mathematical Physics 18: 756
- Narlikar, J. V. (1993) Introduction to Cosmology, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Oaklander, L. N. and Smith, Q. (eds) (1994) The New Theory of Time, New Haven: Yale University Press
- Pais, A. (1982) Subtle Is the Lord: The Science and the Life of Albert Einstein, New York: Oxford University
- Parise, F. (ed.) (1982) The Book of Calendars, New York: Facts On File
- Patrick, J. R. (1986) Euclidean and Non-Euclidean Geometry, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.
- Price, H. and Callender, C. (ed.) (2002) 'The Mysteries of the Entropic Arrow', in Time, Reality & Experience, Cambridge: Cambridge University.
- Robert, L. W. (1966) Basic Quantum Mechanics, New York: McGraw-Hill
- Roger, J. T. (1993) Galaxies: Structure and Evolution, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Ross, G. M. (1984) Leibniz, Oxford: Oxford University Press
- Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, Press Release (12 October 1999) 'The 1999 Nobel Prize in Chemistry'
- Rupert, A. H. (1992) Isaac Newton: Adventurer in Thought, Oxford: Blackwell
- Sainsbury, R. M. (2002) Paradoxes, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Samuel, L. (1994) Encyclopedia of Time, New York: Garland Publishing
- Schewe, P. F., Stein, B. (24 April 1992) 'COBE Picks Out Primordial Seeds at Last', The American Institute of Physics Bulletin of Physics News 77
- (28 December 1992) 'New Measurements of the Cosmic Microwave Background (CMB)', The American Institute of Physics Bulletin of Physics News, 108
- (31 March 1999) 'Creating Antimatter with Laser Light', The American Institute of Physics Bulletin of Physics News 421
- Seeds, M. A. (1990) Foundations of Astronomy, Cal.: Wadsworth
- Sitchin, Z. (1976) The 12th Planet, New York: Avon Books
- Smart, W. M. (1977) Textbook on Spherical Astronomy, Cambridge: Cambridge University
- Sorensen, R. (2003) A Brief History of the Paradox: Philosophy and the Labyrinths of the Mind, Oxford: Oxford University Press
- Spinoza, B. (1951) Chief Works of Benedict De Spinoza, ed. and trans. R. H. M. Elwes, 2 vols, New York: Dover Publications
- (1994) The Ethics and Other Works: A Spinoza Reader, ed. and trans. Edwin Curley, Princeton: Princeton University Press
- Stern, M. (1999) Semimodular Lattices: Theory and Applications, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press

- Stewart, Ian, Clark, Sir Arthur C., Mandelbrot, Benoit, Barnsley, Michael, Barnsley, Louisa, Rood, Will, Flake, Gary, Pennock, David, Prechter, Robert R. Jr. and Lesmoir-Gordon, Nigel (2004) The Colours of Infinity: The Beauty, and Power of Fractals, Singapore: Clear Books
- Stillman, D. (1990) Galileo: Pioneer Scientist, Toronto: University of Toronto Press
- Tayler, R. J. (1993) Galaxies: Structure and Evolution, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Taylor, A. E. (1928) A Commentary on Plato's Timaeus, Oxford: Clarendon Press
- Trefil, J. (1938) From Atoms to Quarks: An Introduction to the Strange World of Particle Physics, New York, London, Toronto: Doubleday, Anchor Books
- Wehr, M. R., Richards, J. A. and Adair, T. W. (1984) Physics of the Atom, Mass.: Addison-Wesley
- White, R. L. (1966) Basic Quantum Mechanics, New York: McGraw-Hill
- William, K. H. (1990) The Cosmic Voyage: Through Time and Space, Belmont, Cal.: Wadsworth Publishing Company
- Wolfram, S. (2002) A New Kind of Science, Champaign, Ill.: Wolfram Media
- Yampolsky, P. (1984) 'The Origin of the Twenty-eight Lunar Mansions', Osiris IX: 62–83, Lisse: Swets & Zeitlinger
- Zee, A. (2003) Quantum Field Theory in a Nutshell, Princeton: Princeton University Press
- Zewail, A. H. (December 1990) 'The Birth of Molecules', Scientific American: 40–46

Index

- Achilles paradox 171
active force 9, 25, 37, 62; see also intellective force
Adam 9, 44, 53, 70, 76, 83, 85, 89, 90, 92,
96, 97, 98, 125, 128, 182, 188, 198n13,
198n14, 201n20
after-world, the 163; see also hereafter age 7, 17, 30, 31, 33, 44, 59, 69, 71, 98,
173, 199n1
all-creative 173
all-encompassing 33, 70, 106, 115, 161,
170, 202n8
All-Hearing 52, 109
All-Knower 90, 151, 197n3
All-Merciful 9, 11, 39, 61, 82, 97, 127,
128, 131, 132, 156, 157, 163, 179, 181,
194n11, 196n12, 201n14
All-Mighty 102, 197n3
All-Prevailing 89
All-Sufficient 35, 110
All-Wise 122
alphabet 65, 74, 84, 85, 89, 155, 181, 182,
183, 185, 204n12
analogy 93, 121–2, 150, 152–6, 159–60,
164, 171, 180, 182, 195n3, 198n18,
201n18
Andromeda 4
angel 8, 63, 76, 83, 89, 91, 94, 97, 125,
142, 151–2, 156, 163, 183–5, 187–91,
194n9, 197n16, 204n12
animal 19, 94, 142, 148, 202n14
animated 132
anisotropy 5
annihilation 40, 48, 166, 167, 169, 185
anti-clockwise 153
anti-particle 40, 167
Archangels 152, 188
Aristotle 1, 2, 14, 17–20, 28, 30–1, 118, 171–2
arrow, of time 16, 23; paradox 171
A-series 21; see also B-series
astrology 52, 74, 76, 82, 84, 94, 163
astronomy 1–3, 7, 14, 22, 40, 55, 57, 59,
60, 74–5, 78, 80–2, 99, 112, 119, 130,
184, 195n22, 197n5, 198n11
atmosphere 56
atom 16, 18–19, 40, 43, 47–8, 66, 115,
137, 141, 143, 149, 166–7, 169, 171–5,
189, 196n6, 199n8, 202n8, 203n2
attribute 5, 27, 39, 52, 68–9, 76–7, 81–2, 87, 109, 125, 128, 147–8, 155, 159, 187,
195n2, 196n12, 200n9, 201n12
automata 25

Babylonians 75, 79, 83, 114, 129, 150,
198n11
Bible 99
Bilqīs 168–9
biology 16, 24, 74
B-series 21; see also A-series
bubbles 71

calendar 59, 79, 110, 198n11
cardinal 154
causality 32, 36, 43, 124, 165, 170, 176–9
celestial 13, 14, 40–1, 45, 48, 55, 58, 60, 69, 75, 88, 113, 115, 147, 154, 179,
197n3, 199n5
Chaos 1, 9
charge 37, 167, 180, 188, 196n11
chest 50–1
Christian 20, 91, 197n7, 200n5, 201n16
chronological 16, 25, 29, 32, 81, 176
Chronos 17
cinema 49, 160
circle 20, 33, 51, 53, 55, 67, 95, 101–2,
108, 120–2, 150, 152, 168, 185–7,
196n8, 198n1, 199n3, 203n15; circular,

- 1, 16, 17–18, 20, 41, 51–2, 55, 70, 74–5, 86, 93, 100–2, 104, 106–8, 110–11; circulate, 1, 55, 70, 74–5, 86, 93, 100–2, 104, 106–8, 111, 199n3; see also cycle
- circumambulation 47, 95, 152–4
- circumference 3, 51, 56, 101, 120, 151, 155–6, 186
- circumstance 16, 37, 39–40, 176
- clime 84, 88, 154
- clock 16, 22, 24, 46
- cloud 11, 185
- cluster 3, 4, 66
- COBE 5
- coherence 16
- coincide 33, 99, 110
- cold 23, 94, 147
- coldness 98
- collapse 15, 23
- colour 118, 148, 150, 162, 184, 201n21
- Command, the Divine 34, 42, 64, 78, 87, 95, 96, 109, 113, 128, 129, 132, 143, 144, 177
- computer 25, 106, 124, 160–4, 166–7, 192, 203n3
- cone-shaped 63
- constellation 4, 12–14, 40, 55, 57, 74, 76, 79, 84, 89–90, 93, 110, 115
- Copenhagen 174
- Copernicus 1–3, 8
- cosmogony 133, 135, 162, 166–7, 185–6
- cosmology 27, 31, 37, 41, 44, 53, 58, 60, 67, 71, 73–8, 82, 84, 94, 99, 102, 117, 119, 120–1, 123, 129, 133, 140, 142, 145, 151–2, 159, 161–2, 165–70, 172, 174, 175, 181–2, 184–5, 193n1, 195n21, 195n26, 199n1, 200n5, 201n14, 201n18, 202n4, 204n12; Ibn ‘Arabi’s 14–16; introduction to 1–9; and time 23, 25
- creation 1, 5, 8, 9, 11, 18, 20, 26, 37, 38, 43, 48–9, 53, 57–8, 65–9, 73–6, 78–84, 106, 109–11, 126, 127, 129–37, 139–43, 145–47, 149, 151–53, 155, 158–63, 166–70, 172–3, 175–8, 182–3, 185–6, 190, 196n9, 196n12, 197n5, 197n8, 198n14, 198n16, 198n17, 198n18, 201n14, 202n13; Creator 32, 53, 58, 68–9, 76, 89, 93–4, 97, 117, 120–4, 130, 133, 137, 139, 143–5, 147, 151, 163, 178; creatures 8, 11, 15, 61, 64, 89, 91, 94–6, 98, 111, 122, 124–5, 131, 133, 137, 149, 162, 178, 184, 187, 193n7, 200n6; and Divine Names 117–24; the days of 86–102; the origin of 31–35, 193n8
- cycle 52–3, 55–7, 59–60, 65, 74, 78, 80, 87, 96, 109, 110, 163; cyclic 25, 33, 51, 52, 62, 199n3; see also circle
- day 9, 25, 38, 39, 44, 47–9, 53, 59, 60–71, 73–6, 78–103, 105–16, 125, 129, 136–7, 141, 152–3, 158, 161–4, 168–70, 179, 182–3, 188, 194n11, 197n5, 198n11, 199n2, 199n3, 199n7; daytime 25, 29, 47, 52, 54, 56–63, 67, 70–1, 81, 84, 92, 95–6, 99–107, 109, 116, 129, 135, 141, 173, 196n12, 197n12, 199n2, 199n3
- dialectical 41
- diameter 3
- Dichotomy paradox 171
- doctrine 20, 75, 76, 122, 130, 142, 145, 159, 170–71, 196n10
- earth 14–15, 40–2, 44–5, 48, 57–8, 64, 65, 73, 77–9, 81, 85–6, 88, 99, 103–4, 111–2, 116, 141, 147, 156, 190
- Einstein 2–5, 17, 21–2, 24, 173–5, 180
- electromagnetic 40, 166, 188, 201n21
- electron 16, 43, 161–3, 166, 167–9, 180
- entropy 16, 23
- epicycles 184
- epiphany 9
- EPR 3, 139, 165, 170, 174
- equator 110, 158, 199n5
- equinox 116
- essence 18, 27, 33–6, 50, 56, 62, 68, 89–90, 114, 118, 127–8, 132–4, 137, 142–4, 146, 148, 159, 178, 186–7, 194n10, 195n5
- eternal 6, 17, 19, 20, 31, 33–5, 44, 62, 67–8, 87, 94, 96, 97–8, 117, 131, 141, 157–8, 171, 204n5
- eternity 46, 68, 94–6, 162–3, 195n3
- ethical 133
- etymological 80
- Euclidean 20, 195n26; see also non-Euclidean
- foreknowledge 33–4, 82, 87, 97, 106
- form 8, 30, 35, 45, 52, 64, 72, 81, 92–3, 95, 96, 103, 113, 127–9, 132, 133, 136, 137–42, 146–8, 159–62, 165, 175–6, 179, 182–4, 187–8, 194n10, 196n6, 199n1, 201n18, 202n8, 203n19
- formable 29, 30
- formation 8, 19, 138, 147, 159
- Friday 38, 49, 74, 75, 82, 85–6, 90–2, 94–8, 104, 106–7, 141, 163, 179, 194n11

- galaxy 2–5, 10–12, 38, 40, 79, 110, 192, 193n1, 193n3, 195n26
- Gehenna 14, 40, 96, 98–9, 188–9, 196n12
- Gemini 38, 87, 110, 112
- Generosity 117
- genesis 83
- geocentric 1, 14, 193n1
- geographical 83, 88, 154
- geology 53
- geometry 6, 20–1, 97, 121–2, 186, 195n26
- God 8, 15, 20, 31, 33–6, 46–8, 53, 63, 66, 73, 75–6, 78, 91–2, 111–12, 115, 125, 132–3, 142, 158–9, 178, 185–8, 190, 194n10, 194n11, 197n3, 198n14, 200n6, 200n7
- gold 147
- Greatest Element, the 67, 97, 115, 128, 141, 143, 149–55, 157–8, 161, 180, 185–6, 189, 199n1
- Greek 1, 17–18, 20, 74, 142, 182, 200n5
- grindstone 2
- heaven 7, 14–15, 17, 25, 39–42, 45, 53, 55, 57, 63, 70, 73–5, 77–9, 83–91, 93, 97–9, 112–13, 154, 157, 188, 194n11, 199n7
- heliocentric 1, 8, 14, 193n1
- hereafter 184, 188, 191–2
- hexadecimal 114
- hidden 39, 58, 63, 70, 102, 105, 106, 133, 140, 157–8, 173–5, 181–2, 193n7
- Holy 32, 106, 148
- homogeneous 5, 12, 20, 195n26; see also inhomogeneous
- imagination 4, 8, 15–17, 25–9, 33, 35, 40, 43–5, 49, 50–1, 53, 56, 64, 69–71, 81, 95, 98, 104–5, 108, 119–20, 123, 125, 136, 140–1, 144, 147, 172, 191, 194n10
- infinite 11, 16, 17, 21–2, 33–4, 47, 48, 51, 59, 61, 64, 66, 111, 114, 119, 121, 125, 134, 147, 169–72, 186
- infinitesimal 64, 141
- infinitum 19, 34, 171
- infinity 21, 24, 172
- inflation 5
- inhomogeneous 25; see also homogeneous
- instant 6, 18, 22, 24, 26, 29, 30, 43, 48–50, 64–6, 97, 106, 124, 135, 136–9, 141–2, 147, 158–9, 161–3, 168–71, 173–6, 179, 182, 187, 191
- integer 79–80, 192
- intellect 9–11, 25, 37, 61–2, 64, 67, 71, 77, 83, 90, 115, 123–4, 128–30, 133–5, 139, 142–4, 150–3, 157, 160, 162, 165, 179, 182–3, 185–6, 199n1, 200n4, 202n4, 202n10, 202n14
- intellective force 9, 25, 37, see also: active force
- intertwined days, the 48–9, 57, 73, 81–2, 93, 100–1, 103, 106–9, 111, 114, 137, 163, 167–8
- intrinsic 26, 35–6, 49, 60, 97, 126, 136–7, 141–2, 157, 175, 184
- isthmus 134
- Jupiter 85, 90
- Kaaba 46–7, 95, 152–5, 167
- Khidr 168–9
- Leibniz 20–1, 49
- Libra 53, 197n3
- light 2–4, 14, 22–4, 38, 40, 41, 55–6, 63, 88, 96, 102, 105, 117, 130–3, 136, 148, 156, 166–70, 173–5, 179, 187–8, 193n3, 195n28, 197n12, 201n21, 203n3, 204n7; Muhammadan light, 202n10
- lunar 41, 52, 59, 61, 74, 76, 78–80, 83, 85, 88–90, 93, 110, 198n11
- macrocosm 82, 86, 151, 154
- Man 30, 83, 115, 182, 196n8
- mansion 13, 74, 76, 87–90, 93, 110
- Mars 85, 89
- Mecca 7, 95; Meccan Revelations (Illuminations) 7, 204n9
- mechanic 2, 5, 16, 22, 49, 169
- Mercury 53, 85, 89
- Messenger 13, 32, 47, 133, 135–6, 177–8, 204n5
- metaphysics 1, 16, 18, 22–3, 48, 52, 100, 117–20, 123–4, 128–9, 140, 142, 146, 149, 151–6, 183
- microcosm 82, 86, 99, 151, 160, 174, 198n18
- micro-organisms 74
- microwave 5
- millstone 41
- minerals 167
- minute 3, 26, 31, 44, 48, 57, 59, 65, 78, 87, 100, 106, 111, 114–15, 168, 199n8
- miracle 169
- model, the Single Monad see monad
- moment 4, 6, 15, 17–18, 21, 26, 28–9, 35, 38–9, 43–6, 48–9, 51, 53, 58, 62, 64–7, 71, 73, 96–8, 101–2, 114, 136–8, 141–2, 145, 158, 161–2, 166, 169–70, 173, 175, 203n17

- momentum 174, 195n27
- monad 10, 30, 67, 89, 97, 115, 127–8, 135–7, 139, 195n5, 196n6, 203; the Single Monad model 4, 65, 140–92, 202n1, 202n4, 202n8
- Monday 38, 50, 52, 82, 84–6, 88, 89, 100, 103–4, 107, 109, 111
- monism 117, 171
- monitor 160–3, 203n3
- monotheism 76, 117
- month 45, 48, 74, 78–81, 83, 91, 110, 114–15, 198n10, 198n11
- moon 59, 78
- morning 49, 95, 101, 173
- mosque 90
- mother 9, 29–30, 73, 76–7, 99, 103, 129
- motion 2, 4, 7–9, 14–20, 25, 28–31, 37–8, 40–3, 46, 48–9, 51–2, 55–7, 59–62, 67, 73, 78–84, 87–90, 93, 98, 100, 103, 110–13, 116, 136, 137, 160–3, 165–6, 168–74, 176, 179–80, 184, 187, 190, 193n3, 196n11, 197n5, 198n11, 199n8, 202n4, 203n3, 204n8
- movie 23–4, 124, 159–61, 172, 175
- Muhammad 7, 13, 45–7, 52–3, 55, 68–70, 75, 90–1, 95–6, 98–9, 117, 126, 132, 135, 152, 155, 159, 182, 188, 193n8, 194n12, 197n8, 198n13, 202n10
- multiplicity 34, 36, 50, 117–40, 144, 156, 157, 170, 173, 186, 201n13, 202n1
- n-D 192
- nebulae 3
- Newton 2, 5, 20, 22, 42–3, 49, 123, 169–70
- night 19, 25, 29, 39, 45, 47, 49, 52, 54, 56–64, 67, 70–1, 81, 84, 91–2, 94–6, 98, 99, 100–9, 116, 129, 135, 141, 173, 196n12, 199; night-journey 45; nightmares 200n3; night-time 47, 49, 54, 57, 58, 61, 62, 92, 95, 96, 99, 100, 102–3, 105, 173, 199n2, 199n3
- non-Euclidean 21, 195n26, see also: Euclidean
- nonexistence 27, 33–6, 58, 66–9, 87, 94, 105–6, 117, 131–2, 134–9, 144, 148, 166, 199n10
- non-finite 134
- non-integer 79
- non-material 184
- non-physical 27
- non-zero 67
- noon 49, 101, 158, 203n17
- odd 129
- offspring 66
- one-dimensional 21, 184
- oneness 122, 135–6, 157, 173; of Allah or of the Real 120–3, 198n16; of being 4, 20, 25–6, 28, 30, 37, 42, 50, 96–7, 99, 117, 122–4, 130–2, 135, 139, 140, 144, 170–1, 184, 187, 190, 203n19; of light 132; of time 122
- ontology 8, 18, 22, 33–4, 39, 66, 90, 98, 117, 130–8, 171, 176, 179
- orb 1, 3, 7, 12–14, 19, 25, 28, 29, 30, 31, 37, 38, 40–4, 53, 55–63, 65, 69–71, 73, 76, 79, 81, 83–4, 86–9, 94, 103, 110–11, 113, 115, 119, 144, 147, 155–6, 166, 169, 181, 197n3, 204n11
- orient 55–6
- pantheism 117
- Paradise 90, 98, 152, 188, 191–2
- paradox 118, 120, 183
- paranatural 31, 37
- para-psychological 176
- parsec 3
- particle 5, 10, 40, 143, 156, 166, 167, 168, 173, 174, 175, 176, 180, 195n28, 203n2, 204n8
- past 15, 16, 17, 21, 22, 23, 24, 28, 29, 33, 39, 46, 51, 66, 67, 68, 70, 72, 144, 145, 165, 180
- Pedestal 11–15, 38, 40, 58, 65, 87, 110–11, 196n12
- Pen, the Higher, the Universal 9, 11, 115, 142–3, 151, 160, 162–3, 182–3, 187, 191, 199n1, 202n10; Pen-sounds 182
- Perfect Human Being, the 15, 61, 67, 76, 89, 99, 125, 128–9, 132, 134, 142–5, 151, 157, 158–60, 190, 198n18, 202n14, 203n18
- period 5, 18, 45, 52, 59–60, 65, 74, 79, 80–1, 98, 111, 114, 173, 198n10, 199n8
- phenomena 62, 101, 140, 165, 167–9, 172, 174, 176, 177, 180, 184, 185, 203n3
- philosopher 18–19, 21, 23, 26, 29, 31, 35, 42–3, 49, 67–8, 78, 115, 118–19, 122–3, 142, 146, 148, 170, 172, 176–7, 184, 194n13, 194n14, 194n16, 195n25, 199n4, 200n5
- philosophy 1, 7, 15–20, 22, 24, 27, 41, 47, 49, 118, 120, 129, 131, 171, 194n14, 195n22, 200n5, 204n10
- photoelectric 173
- photon 5, 43, 156, 166–9, 175, 180

physical 5, 10–11, 15–16, 18–19, 21, 23–25, 27–8, 30–1, 33, 37–8, 41–2, 45, 47–8, 62, 64, 87, 93, 121, 141–2, 146, 149, 155–6, 168, 174, 179, 184, 194n10, 195n27, 196n9, 196n11, 202n8 physician 19, 194n16, 195n22
 physicist 1, 19, 22–4, 42–4, 120, 192
 physics 3–6, 15, 16, 21–2, 25, 27, 31, 41, 43, 49, 52, 119, 121, 165, 168–70, 174, 180, 183–4, 188–9, 201n14, 201n21, 202n8, 204n7 pilgrimage 7, 152–3 pillar 15, 154–5, 188, 204n5
 pixel 161–3
 Plato 17–19, 31, 160, 171
 Plotinus 18–19, 200n5
 plural 71, 126, 129, 142, 201n17
 Pole 46, 87–8, 94, 120, 154, 155, 196n8, 198n13
 Power 77, 90, 180
 pre-existence 33–5, 69, 87, 143
 preordained 79, 83
 presence 8, 28–9, 51, 64, 70, 94, 106, 178, 197n18, 199n1, 200n6
 pre-Socratics 170
 primordial 69, 71, 77, 136, 155, 158, 202n12
 Proxima Centauri 3
 psychology 16, 23, 31, 46, 180, 200n3, 201n18
 Ptolemy 1
 pulsars 16
 Pythagoras 142, 182

 quadratic 77
 quantisation 5–6, 18, 20–1, 25, 30, 43–4, 47–9, 80, 111, 166, 169–70, 172–4

 Ramadan 91
 rational 16–17, 146
 Real 15, 32–3, 36–7, 47, 50–1, 64, 66, 69–70, 76, 87, 90, 92–4, 97, 99, 111, 119–24, 126, 128, 129, 131–7, 140, 142–4, 148, 157–8, 160, 163, 177–8, 181–2, 185–91, 194n10, 196n10, 202n9, 203n15, 203n17
 reality 1, 8, 12–13, 15–16, 20, 22, 26, 28, 30, 32–3, 37, 43, 46, 48, 50–2, 54–5, 57, 60–2, 65–6, 68, 70, 83, 89, 96, 99, 112, 117, 119, 121–4, 127–35, 140–4, 146–8, 151–2, 154–8, 160–1, 169–73, 176–8, 180, 183, 187, 189, 201n18, 202n10, 202n14, 202n15, 203n19

real-through-whom-creation-takes-place, the 143, 158, 182
 re-creation 18, 26, 35, 38, 42–3, 48–9, 51–2, 64, 96–8, 124, 135, 137–41, 147–8, 159–60, 162, 166–70, 172, 175–6, 184
 redshift 2, 22, 193n3
 region 15, 55, 63, 83–5, 88, 116, 154, 174
 retrograde motion 8
 revolution 2, 16, 38, 48, 57, 59–61, 78–80, 112, 114

 Sages 71, 196n8
 Saturday 25, 38, 39, 49, 58, 71, 73–5, 81–6, 91, 93–5, 96–8, 100, 104, 106, 141, 162–3, 168–9
 Saturn 75, 83, 85, 93–4
 self-consciousness 9
 self-disclosure 87, 89–90, 93
 self-existence 120
 Self-Existent 32, 34, 36
 self-subsistent 123, 133, 135, 139, 146–7, 150
 Self-sufficient 36, 137
 sexagenary 75, 150
 sidereal 55–7, 59, 79
 Sierpinski triangle 145
 simulation 25, 47, 108, 167–8, 192
 simultaneity 170
 solar 2, 4, 8, 40, 58–9, 75, 79–81, 84, 193n1, 198n10, 198n11
 Solitary 30, 37, 71, 196n8, 198n13
 Solomon 44, 168–9
 space 2–6, 8, 12, 15–16, 20–5, 28–9, 34, 38–40, 42–4, 46–7, 49–51, 58, 63, 69–71, 74, 89, 96–101, 104–6, 123, 125, 130, 137, 141, 145, 156, 158, 161, 163, 165–6, 168, 171–2, 174–5, 179–80, 185, 189, 191, 194n12, 195n26, 196n7; space-time 3, 6, 21–2, 24–5, 38–9, 58, 71, 74, 97–8, 100, 105, 123, 141, 180, 193n1, 195n26 sphere 8, 11–15, 17, 25, 41, 45, 48, 51, 54–5, 57–9, 63, 88–91, 93, 111–13, 115, 151, 156, 177, 179–80, 184, 199n5
 spin 57, 79, 180, 204n8
 spirit 8–9, 38, 44, 46–7, 53, 61, 63, 71, 87, 95, 97, 99, 130–1, 135, 144, 150, 160, 177, 188, 191, 197n3, 198n13, 198n14, 201n20, 203n1, 204n5; spirit-heart-body 130
 spiritual 8–12, 15, 27, 30–1, 33, 35, 37, 40, 44–8, 53, 58, 62, 69–70, 73, 83, 88–9, 94, 99, 112–13, 115, 118, 120, 122, 128,

- 130, 136–7, 140, 145–9, 154–6, 159–60, 164, 173, 177–8, 181–5, 188, 191, 196n8, 197n15, 197n18, 199n1, 200n3, 200n4, 202n14, 203n18, 204n5
- Stadium paradox 171
- star 1–5, 7, 10–17, 23, 29, 33, 38, 40, 44–5, 53–5, 57, 59–61, 70, 79, 87, 104, 107–8, 110, 112, 145, 163, 166, 174, 184, 191–2, 193n1, 193n3, 195n26
- strings theory 9, 180–3; see also superstrings
- subatomic 143, 174
- sub-entities 67, 68
- sub-events 67
- sub-intellecets 67
- sub-moments 67, 145, 173
- sufism 6–8, 20, 34, 40–1, 44–6, 66, 69–70, 118–20, 134, 146, 158, 182, 190, 193n7, 194n12, 201n12, 203n1
- Sumerians 110
- sun 1–4, 12–14, 19, 29, 32, 46–7, 52–63, 67, 69, 72, 74–5, 78–81, 85, 87–8, 90–1, 99, 101–3, 106, 111, 116, 130, 145, 157–60, 185, 188; sunlight 157–8, 179; Sun-Line-Cave 160
- Sunday 38, 49, 52, 73, 74–5, 81–2, 84–5, 86–7, 91, 95–8, 100–1, 103–4, 106–11, 141, 163, 179, 194n11, 197n7
- supernatural 165
- superstrings 3, 49, 93, 180, 201n14
- supra-natural 184
- taken-out days 57, 81, 84, 100, 102–7, 114, 163
- task, the day of 48–9, 59, 64, 66, 73, 98, 100–1, 106, 114, 125, 135, 170, 197n3
- technology 3, 16, 161
- telepathy 180
- theology 1, 7, 18–20, 23, 29, 33, 35, 37, 43, 47–8, 58, 68–9, 71–2, 74–5, 78, 99, 115, 120, 131, 137–40, 142, 165, 168, 184, 194n12, 194n13, 194n14, 194n15, 194n21, 195n2, 195n5, 196n6, 201n14
- theomorphic 86, 90, 92, 96, 198n16
- theory 1, 2, 4–6, 16–17, 20–4, 26, 28, 30, 38–9, 41–2, 44–5, 47–8, 50, 93, 96, 99, 123, 139, 142, 145, 148, 166, 168–75, 180, 195n26, 195n27, 201n14, 204n7
- thermodynamics 16
- threefold 117, 128–9, 130
- Throne 9–11, 13–15, 39–40, 58, 82, 86, 91, 97–8, 102, 127–8, 152, 156–7, 188, 191, 194n11, 196n12
- Thursday 75, 82, 85–6, 90–1, 104, 107–8
- Timaeus 19
- time 15–16, 17–18, 20–1, 23, 27–9, 39, 41–2, 53, 65–6, 78, 99, 114, 195n4, 196n9, 198n13, 199n9; time-gap 166; timekeeping 16; timeless 168–9; time-scale 14, 108, 203n2; time-space 49; timing 16, 54–6, 58, 174, 198n10
- trinity 128, 130, 200n5, 201n16
- Tuesday 38, 82, 85–6, 89, 104
- twin paradox, the 45
- Unicity 36, 117–39
- union 22
- unique 4, 8, 14, 20, 25–6, 28, 30, 48, 51–2, 59, 64, 73–4, 78, 92–3, 96, 98–100, 117–25, 127, 128, 136–7, 139–40, 151, 156, 161, 175, 184, 195n4, 202n1
- unit 7, 29, 40, 58, 62, 67, 71, 74, 78, 97, 100, 105, 142, 149, 150, 164, 167, 186, 190; unity 50, 117, 156
- unitary 103
- universe 1–6, 8–9, 20, 22–4, 31, 33, 38, 41, 46, 71, 160, 193n1
- unseen 58, 62–4, 119, 131, 184
- velocity 7, 18, 42, 44, 168, 174
- Venus 85, 90
- Virgo 73, 197n3, 197n4
- wave 25, 40, 156, 161, 166, 173, 180, 188, 190–1, 195n27, 201n21, 203n2; wavelength 156, 201n21, 204n7; wave-particle duality 25
- Wednesday 82, 85, 86, 89, 104, 112
- week 25, 38, 48, 52, 58, 71, 73–109, 163, 197n5, 197n7, 198n17
- year 1–4, 7, 19, 22–4, 31, 40, 44, 45, 48, 52–4, 56, 59, 61, 69, 71, 75, 77–81, 91, 110, 114–16, 150, 152, 163, 197n3, 198n10, 198n11, 199n8
- Zeno 28, 42–3, 165, 170–2, 174
- zero-dimension 87
- zero-length 66
- zodiac 10, 12, 14, 55–7, 74, 76, 78–9, 99–100, 103, 110–12, 115–16, 154, 197n2
- zone 24

Ibn 'Arabî – Time and Cosmology

Mohamed Haj Yousef

Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group

Ibn ‘Arabî – Time and Cosmology

Time is one of the most important issues in physics, cosmology, philosophy and theology. Many books and articles have been published in this interdisciplinary field before, but none of those studies have fully described Ibn ‘Arabî’s unique view which is central to understanding, for example, his controversial theory of the ‘oneness of being’.

This book is the first comprehensive attempt to explain Ibn ‘Arabî’s distinctive view of time and its role in the process of creating the cosmos and its relation with the Creator. By comparing this original view with modern theories of physics and cosmology, Mohamed Haj Yousef constructs a new cosmological model that may deepen and extend our understanding of the world, while potentially solving some of the drawbacks in the current models such as the historical Zeno’s paradoxes of motion and the recent Einstein–Podolsky–Rosen paradox (EPR) that underlines the discrepancies between Quantum Mechanics and Relativity.

Ibn ‘Arabî – Time and Cosmology is an important contribution to the fields of philosophy, cosmology, physics and theology.

Mohamed Haj Yousef is lecturer in the Department of Physics, United Arab Emirates University.

Culture and civilization in the Middle East

General Editor: Ian Richard Netton

Professor of Islamic Studies, University of Exeter

This series studies the Middle East through the twin foci of its diverse cultures and civilizations. Comprising original monographs as well as scholarly surveys, it covers topics in the fields of Middle Eastern literature, archaeology, law, history, philosophy, science, folklore, art, architecture and language. While there is a plurality of views, the series presents serious scholarship in a lucid and stimulating fashion.

1 The Epistemology of Ibn Khaldun

Zaid Ahmad

2 The Hanbali School of Law and Ibn Taymiyyah

Conflict or conciliation

Abdul Hakim I Al-Matroudi

3 Arabic Rhetoric

A pragmatic analysis

Hussein Abdul-Raof

4 Arab Representations of the Occident

East-West encounters in Arabic fiction

Rasheed El-Enany

5 God and Humans in Islamic Thought

Abd al-Jabbār, Ibn Sīnā and al-Ghazālī

Maha Elkaisy-Friemuth

6 Original Islam

Malik and the madhhab of Madina

Yasin Dutton

7 Al-Ghazali and the Qur'an

One book, many meanings

Martin Whittingham

8 Birth of The Prophet Muhammad

Devotional piety in Sunni Islam

Marion Holmes Katz

9 Space and Muslim Urban Life

At the limits of the labyrinth of Fez

Simon O'Meara

10 Islam Science

The intellectual career of Nizam al-Din al-Nizaburi

Robert G. Morrison

11 Ibn 'Arabî – Time and Cosmology

Mohamed Haj Yousef

Ibn ‘Arabî – Time and Cosmology

Mohamed Haj Yousef

First published 2008
by Routledge
2 Park Square, Milton Park, Abingdon, Oxon OX14 4RN

Simultaneously published in the USA and Canada
by Routledge
270 Madison Ave, New York, NY 10016

Routledge is an imprint of the Taylor & Francis Group, an informa business

This edition published in the Taylor & Francis e-Library, 2007.

“To purchase your own copy of this or any of Taylor & Francis or Routledge’s collection of thousands of eBooks please go to www.eBookstore.tandf.co.uk.”

© 2008 Mohamed Haj Yousef

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reprinted or reproduced or utilized in any form or by any electronic, mechanical, or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, without permission in writing from the publishers.

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library

Library of Congress Cataloging in Publication Data

A catalog record for this book has been requested

ISBN 0-203-93824-0 Master e-book ISBN

ISBN 10: 0-415-44499-3 (hbk)

ISBN 10: 0-203-93824-0 (ebk)

ISBN 13: 978-0-415-44499-6 (hbk)

ISBN 13: 978-0-203-93824-9 (ebk)

To the Spirit of al-Shaykh al-Akbar Muhyi ed-Din Ibn al-‘Arabî, may Allah’s Mercy be upon him,

To the Spirits of my parents, may Allah’s Mercy be upon them,

To my dearest wife who supported me all the times,

To my two sons Abdullah and Yousef, and my daughter Fatima,

To my brothers and sisters, in Islam, and in humankind,

To all I dedicate this humble work.

Contents

List of figures	x
List of tables	xi
Foreword by Professor James W. Morris (Boston College)	xii
Preface	xv
Acknowledgements	xix
Abbreviations	xx
1 Cosmology and time	1
2 General aspects of Ibn ‘Arabî’s concept of time and days	27
3 The significance of the divine week and its seven days	73
4 The actual flow of time	100
5 Unicity and multiplicity	117
6 The Single Monad model of the cosmos	140
7 The Single Monad model and its implications for modern physics	165
Notes	193
Bibliography	205
Index	218

Figures

1.1	'The Cloud' and what it contains, down to the 'establishing Throne'	10
1.2	The establishing Throne and what it contains down to the Pedestal	11
1.3	The (divine) Pedestal and what it contains down to the constellations	12
1.4	The orb of the constellations and what it contains down to the Earth	13
2.1	The Cycle of Life	54
2.2	The daytime and night in the sky	63
3.1	The Divine Quadratic Rule	77
4.1	The taken-out days	105
4.2	The intertwined days, and their relation with the circulated days	108
4.3	The Zodiac and the motion of the days through it	112
5.1	The Real, the 'Possible' existents, and the 'Impossible'	121
6.1	Summary of the different types of knowable things	149
6.2	The Different Divisions of Existence	150
6.3	The Kaaba, with people on the Hajj circumambulating it	153
6.4	How circumambulating the Kaaba is similar to the Greatest Element's creation of the Single Monad	154
7.1	0-D, a point	186
7.2	1-D, a line segment	189
7.3	2-D, a unit square	190
7.4	3-D, a unit cube	190

Tables

2.1	Days of some orbs and divine names	53
3.1	The correspondences between the seven days of the divine week and the seven heavens, seven earthly regions, divine names, lunar mansins and letters of the Arabic alphabet	85
4.1	The taken-out days	104
4.2	The intertwined days (Sunday)	107
4.3	The intertwined days (all days)	109
4.4	The action of the Soul (on the world) in each day of the seven days of events and the ratio of contribution by the seven heavens	113

Foreword

Students of the world's religious traditions, together with specialists in the history of premodern science and philosophy, are well aware of the centrality within the scriptures and theologies of the major world religions, over many centuries, of detailed symbolic accounts of cosmology and metaphysics (including the intricate problematics of creation) – and of the crucial role played within each of those religious traditions by corresponding philosophical and scientific schemas of astronomy and cosmology that often provided a common language and framework of understanding shared by their educated elites. In premodern times, this key interpretative function was particularly important in the case of that complex of Hellenistic philosophic and cosmological disciplines largely shared by educated proponents of each of the three Abrahamic faiths. Given today's widespread journalistic stereotypes about the supposed 'opposition' of science and religion, this book is a salutary reminder – and an extraordinarily rich and detailed illustration – of the complex interpenetration of philosophical and scriptural elements throughout the central traditions of later Islamic thought, prior to the recent scientific revolutions. At the same time, Dr Haj Yousef's training and expertise as a modern physicist allow him to suggest, in his provocative final chapter, intriguing ways in which the earlier cosmological and theological speculations of Ibn 'Arabî carefully outlined in this study may also parallel very recent developments and insights in the cosmological theories (especially String Theory) of modern physics. In that sense, this study provides a more demanding, Islamic parallel to such recent popular works such as F. Capra's Tao of Physics.

While the prolific Andalusian Sufi writer Ibn 'Arabî (1165–1240) is most widely known today as a mystic and spiritual teacher, his voluminous writings – and particularly his immense magnum opus, the Meccan Illuminations, which is the primary source for this study – constantly refer to the insights, theories, and cosmological schemas of earlier Muslim philosophers and scientists, such as Avicenna and the popular spiritual treatises of the 'Brethren of Purity' (Ikhwân al-Safâ). For that reason, this book begins with a helpful survey of the standard theories of cosmology and time found in earlier Hellenistic thinkers, which were largely taken over into the succeeding traditions of Islamic philosophy and science. However, the most creative and unfamiliar aspects of Ibn ‘Arabî’s cosmological ideas – especially his distinctive conception of the ever-renewed, ongoing and instantaneous nature of the cosmic process of creation (tajdid al-khalq) – are carefully woven together from what have always been profoundly mysterious, problematic, and complexly interwoven symbolic formulations in the Qur’an. Thus the main focus and novel scholarly contribution of the central chapters of this volume lie in the author’s careful unfolding and clarification of the intended meanings and references of this dense Qur’anic cosmological symbolism of time and creation, as that multi-dimensional world-view is systematically expounded in elaborate accounts scattered throughout several of Ibn ‘Arabî’s major works. Every reader who engages with this demanding discussion will come away, at the very least, with a heightened appreciation of the symbolic richness and challenging intellectual dilemmas posed by this unduly neglected – yet arguably quite central and unavoidable – dimension of the Qur’an and its metaphysical teachings.

In the penultimate chapter of this study, before taking up possible analogies to Ibn ‘Arabî’s ideas in modern physics, the author turns to the language of ontology and to a subject – the paradoxical relations of the divine One and the many – far more familiar to students of Ibn ‘Arabî, or of comparable forms of thought in earlier Neoplatonism and the metaphysics of other world religions. Despite the initial unfamiliarity (for non-specialists) of some of Ibn ‘Arabî’s Qur’anic symbolism and technical terminology here, his approach to conceiving and intellectually explaining the mysterious relationship between the divine Source and its infinite manifestations clearly mirrors Plato’s classical dialectical enumeration of the alternative ontological hypothesis outlined in his Parmenides. Today, of course, no one is used to thinking of those recurrent metaphysical problems in terms of the theological language of creation. But by this point Dr Haj Yousef has outlined just how Ibn ‘Arabî, by carefully elaborating the complex literal indications of the Qur’an itself, is able to illuminate both the temporal and the ontological dimensions of the divine cosmogonic Origination of all things.

The fascinating ‘phenomenology’ of the human psychological and experiential dimensions of this cosmic creative process, we might add, is also the subject of even more fascinating discussions in Ibn ‘Arabî and later Islamic philosophers (as well as earlier Sufis and mystical thinkers). But the elaboration of that closely related topic would require another, equally wide-ranging and original study. So the author has prudently set that related issue aside while focusing on those dimensions of ontology and time most directly connected with the analogous approaches of modern theoretical physics that he outlines in his concluding, more speculative chapter.

This constantly challenging and thought-provoking study is clearly the fruit of years of research on one of the most difficult subjects to be found in the writings of one of Islam’s most seminal, creative, inspired, and notoriously difficult thinkers. So even those who may find Ibn ‘Arabî’s language and speculations difficult to follow will surely come away from their reading with a heightened appreciation of the relative poverty, thoughtlessness and lack of sophistication in today's dominant public discourse about religion and science, and in our prevailing ways of conceiving and approaching these fundamental human issues of cosmology, ontology and theology.

James W. Morris, Boston College

Preface

Ibn ‘Arabî is one of the most prominent figures in Islamic history, especially in relation to Sufism and Islamic philosophy and theology. In this book, we want to explore his cosmology and in particular his view of time in that cosmological context, comparing his approaches to the relevant conclusions and principles of modern physics whenever possible. We shall see that Ibn ‘Arabî had a unique and comprehensive view of time which has never been discussed by any other philosopher or scientist, before or even after Ibn ‘Arabî. In the final two chapters, in which we shall discuss some of the ways his novel view of time and cosmology may be used to build a complete model of the cosmos that may deepen and extend our understanding of the world, while potentially solving some of the drawbacks and paradoxes in the current cosmological models of modern physics.

As we discuss in the opening chapter, there is no doubt that time is one of the most important issues in physics, cosmology, philosophy and theology, and hundreds of books and articles have been published in these fields. However, none of these studies had fully developed Ibn ‘Arabî’s unique view of time in its cosmological dimensions, although his conception of time is indeed central to understanding, for example, his controversial theory of the ‘oneness of being’. One possible reason for this relative neglect is the difficult symbolic language he usually used. Also, he did not discuss this subject at length in any single place in his extant works – not even in chapters 59, 291 and 390 of the Futûhât whose titles relate directly to time – so we must piece together his overall cosmological understanding of time from his scattered treatments in many works and different contexts within his magnum opus, the Futûhât, and other books. Therefore this book may be considered the first comprehensive attempt to set forth all the relevant dimensions of time in Ibn ‘Arabî’s wider cosmology and cosmogony.

In Chapter 2, after briefly discussing the different physical theories and models of the cosmos, we start by describing Ibn ‘Arabî’s cosmos in some detail. Then we also give an extensive review of the different philosophical views of time and its properties from the philosophical and scientific point of view to show the importance of the subject and relate it to Ibn ‘Arabî’s model. Then, in Chapter 2, we begin to introduce Ibn ‘Arabî’s general concepts of time and ‘days’, which are then developed in greater detail in each of the succeeding chapters.

To start with, Ibn ‘Arabî considers time to be a product of our human ‘imagination’, without any real, separately existing entity. Nevertheless, he still considers it to be one of the four main constituents of existence. We need this imagined conception of ‘time’ to chronologically arrange events and what for us are the practically defining motions of the celestial orbs and other physical objects, but for Ibn ‘Arabî real existence is attributable only to the actually existing thing that moves, not to motion nor to time (or space) in which this motion is observed. Thus Ibn ‘Arabî distinguishes between two kinds of time – natural and para-natural – and he explains that they both originate from the two forces of the soul: the active force and the intellectual force, respectively. Then he explains that this imaginary time is cyclical, circular, relative, discrete and inhomogeneous. Ibn ‘Arabî also gives a precise definition – drawing on the specific usage of the Qur’an and earlier Arab conceptions of time – of the day, daytime and night, showing how these definitions are related to the relative motions of the celestial orbs (including the Earth), where every orb has its own ‘day’, and those days are normally measured by our normal observable day that we count on the Earth.

In Chapter 3 (and also in Chapter 6), we explain the central significance, in Ibn ‘Arabî’s notion of time and cosmology, of the divine ‘Week’ of creation, and we begin to develop some of its interesting consequences. To begin with, Ibn ‘Arabî considers the cosmic, divine Week, rather than the day or any other time unit, as the main primitive time cycle. Thus he explains how the world is created in seven (cosmic, divine) ‘Days’, what happens on each Day, and the underlying ontological relation between the Week’s Days of creation and the seven fundamental divine Names of Allah. Ibn ‘Arabî also shows that all the Days of this cosmic Week, including the last Day (Saturday), all actually occur in Saturday, the ‘Day of eternity’. This complex understanding of the ever-renewed divine creation in fact underlies his conception of the genuine unification of space and time, where the world is created ‘in six Days’ (from Sunday to Friday) as space, and then is displayed or manifested on Saturday in the process that we perceive as time. However, we perceive this complicated process of creation in Six Days and the subsequent appearance of the world on the seventh Day, we perceive all this only as one single moment of our normal time. In fact, on the basis of Qur’anic indications and the corresponding experiential confirmations of the mystical ‘knowers’ (‘urafâ) (later explained in Chapter 5), Ibn ‘Arabî insists that the entire created world ceases to exist immediately and intrinsically right after its creation, and that then it is re-created again and again. For him, this process of divine re-creation happens gradually (in series), not at once: i.e. it always takes six divine ‘Days’ to be prepared and the last Day to manifest. However, we – the creatures – do not witness this re-creation in six Days, since we witness the created world only in the seventh Day (Saturday, which he calls ‘the Day of eternity’). So the creation of the world in six Days actually happens every moment, perpetually and recurrently. Therefore, those first six divine Days are actually the creative origin of space and not time, which is only the seventh Day. In this novel conception, for the first time in history, the ‘Week’, as the basic unit of space-time, will have a specific and quite essential meaning in physics and cosmology.

Even more important in Ibn 'Arabî's conception of time, however, is his understanding of the 'Day' of creation as a minimum indivisible Day, a kind of 'instant of time' (al-zaman al-fard) that also includes (since it includes all of creation) the instants of that normal day itself which we live in and divide into hours, minutes, seconds and so on. In order to explain this initially paradoxical notion, Ibn 'Arabî introduces – again initially mysterious Qur'anic on the basis of indications – the different nature and roles of three very different kinds of compounded days (the 'circulated' days, the 'taken-out' days and the 'inter-twined' days), which highlight the fact that the actual flow of time is not as uniform and smooth as we feel and imagine. The key concept underlying these complex developments is that Ibn 'Arabî emphasizes, following the Qur'an, that only one creative 'event' should be happening on every Day (of the actual cosmic, divine Days of creation), and not the many different (temporal and spatial) events that we observe. To reconcile this apparent contradiction between the unitary Act (and 'instant') of Creation and the apparent phenomena of spatial and temporal multiplicity, he reconstructs the normal, observable days that we actually perceive in a special manner that is complexly grounded in the different divine 'Days' of the actual flow of time. We shall explain his complex conception of these very different types of days in detail in Chapter 4.

The principle of perpetual re-creation, one of the more famous elements of Ibn 'Arabî's cosmology and cosmogony, is fully explained in Chapter 5, where we also take up the related question of Ibn 'Arabî's controversial theory of the 'oneness of being'. This theory can be easily understood once we have grasped his underlying conception of the eternally renewed creation in time. This comprehensive cosmological vision, when added to his understanding of the actual flow of time based on the three kinds of days described in Chapter 4, can be used to build a new unique model of the cosmos. This cosmological model, which we shall call 'the Single Monad model', is explained in Chapter 6. We shall see in this chapter that, according to this distinctive perspective on creation, the manifest world works exactly like a super-computer which – despite its tremendous speed – can do only one job at a time, where the display on the computer monitor is analogous to the manifest world: though we appear to see a complex, continually changing picture on the screen, that complex image is actually built one pixel at a time by one single electron-beam. This particular illustration helps us to grasp the actual functioning of Ibn 'Arabî's central conception of the ultimate oneness of being, despite the undeniable visible multiplicity of the world.

Finally, Chapter 7 is devoted to discussing some of the implications of the Single Monad model for various related principles of modern physics and cosmology, including the possibilities of testing such a cosmological model. We shall discuss in particular some of the known time-related paradoxes in current models of physics and cosmology, and how they may be resolved according to this novel view. It can be fairly said that Ibn 'Arabî's view of time and the cosmos is a fruitful concept that potentially bridges the gap between traditional theological metaphysical views of the world and the contemporary scientific views that are based on experimental procedures and logic. In addition to explaining the ‘oneness of being’ and ‘creation in six Days’, other important results of Ibn ‘Arabî’s unique concept of time include the ways it helps to resolve the famous EPR paradox, thus potentially reconciling the two great theories of Quantum Mechanics and Relativity in modern physics, how it offers a new understanding of the historical Zeno’s paradoxes, and how it potentially explains the reason behind quantization, how quantities are either discrete or continuous.

Acknowledgement

I owe the full appreciation and acknowledgement to Prof. James W. Morris, without whom this work would not have been completed. His precious comments and discussions were the rivers that produced this lake. I also would like to thank Prof. Ian R. Netton, in whose series this book appears, for his encouragement and continuous support. I would also like to thank all my friends and colleagues with whom I had great and important discussions and those who sent me various feedback and criticism. I just would like to mention here some of them: Prof. Radi al-Jishi, Prof. Ahmed Barbour, Dr Ahmed S. Achter, Mr Ahmad T. Summakiyya, and Mr Jum'a al-Ahmed.

Abbreviations

This book is mainly based on Ibn ‘Arabî’s major comprehensive work Al-Futûhât Al-Makkiyya. Because we refer to this book often, we shall use a short reference style: each quotation from the Futûhât is followed by a reference in brackets: [X.000.00] which means: [volume.page.line]. When the line number is omitted – in rare cases – this means that the reference is in the entire page; in a few cases a range of a few pages is indicated as [II.229–231]. We have mainly used the standard edition of the Futûhât issued by many publishers based on a reproduction of the old edition of Bulaq 1329/1911 which comprises four volumes each about 600–700 pages of 35 lines; the page size is 20 by 27 cm (see the Bibliography). You should notice, however, that newer reset editions may be different although some of them are also in four volumes.

In addition to the Futûhât, we use short form of references to many other books by Ibn ‘Arabî (for example Ayyâm Al-Sha’n and Al-Masâ’il) and other related famous works (such as William Chittick’s two important works: The Sufi Path of Knowledge [SPK] and The Self-disclosure of God [SDG]) as explained in the Bibliography. In most of these cases we put the short form of the reference followed by the page number, with only two exceptions: for Osman Yahya’s classification of Ibn ‘Arabî’s books and for Ibn ‘Arabî’s Al-Masâ’il, where we refer to the listed item number instead of the page number.

All references to the Holy Qur’an are given also in the text and not in notes; after each verse quoted or meaning indicated in the text we add a reference (xx: y) where xx refers to the number of the Sura (chapter) and yy is the number of the Aya (verse). For the prophetic narrations we have mainly used Kanz al-‘Ummâl (The Treasure of the Workers) which includes most of the known hadith books, indexed and numbered according to the subject. We give the number of the hadith as [Kanz: 0000]. The table below shows the abbreviated references in the book.

Abbreviation*KanzFutûhâtFusûsDîwânAyyâm Al-Sha'n'Uqlat Al-MustawfizInshâ' Al-Dawâ'irAl-Tadbîrât Al-IlâhiyyaAl-Durraṭ Al-Baydâ'Al-Tanazzulât Al-LayliyyaAl-Tanazzulât Al-MawsiliyyaKitâb Al-AzalAl-Mu'jam Al-SûfiOriginal bookAl-Muttaqî Al-Hindî* (1989) Kanz Al-'Ummâl (The Treasure of the Workers), Beirut:

Mu'assasat Al-Risâla

Ibn 'Arabî (n.d.) Al-Futûhât Al-Makkîyya, Vols 1–4, Beirut: n.p. (see above)Ibn 'Arabî (1946) Fusûs Al-Hikam, Cairo: n.p.; critical edition by Abu 'Alâ 'Affîfî*Ibn 'Arabî* (1996) Dîwân Ibn 'Arabî, Beirut: Dâr Al-Kutub Al-'Ilmiyya, ed. Ahmad Hasan BasajTreatise number 5 in Ibn 'Arabî (n.d.) Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî, Beirut: Dâr Ihyâ' Al-Turath Al-'Arabî; reprint of Hyderabad ed.Ibn 'Arabî (1919) 'Uqlat Al-Mustawfiz, including Kitâb Inshâ' Al-Dawâ'ir and Kitâb Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya fî Islâh Al-Mamlaka Al-Insâniyya, Leiden: Brill, in Kleinere Schriften des Ibn Al-'Arabî, ed. H. S. Nyberg*Ibn 'Arabî*, Kitâb Inshâ' Al-Dawâ'ir, in Kleinere Schriften des Ibn Al-'Arabî, ed. H. S. Nyberg*Ibn 'Arabî*, Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya fî Islâh Al-Mamlaka Al-Insâniyya, in Kleinere Schriften des Ibn Al-'Arabî, ed. H. S. Nyberg*Ibn 'Arabî* (2002–04) Risâlat Al-Durraṭ Al-Baydâ' in Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî, Beirut: Mu'assasat Al-Intishâr Al-'Arabî, ed. Sa'id 'Abd Al-Fattâh, vol. II: 131–145*Ibn 'Arabî* (2000) Al-Tanazzulât Al-Layliyya fî Al-Ahkâm Al-Ilâhiyya in Majmû'at Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî, Beirut: Dâr Al-Mahajjat Al-Baydâ', vol. II: 5–66*Ibn 'Arabî* (2000) Al-Tanazzulât Al-Mawsiliyya fî Asrâr Al-Taharât Wa-l-Salawât Wa-l-Ayyâm Al-Asliyya in Majmû'at Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî, Beirut: Dâr Al-Mahajjat Al-Baydâ', vol. II: 67–314Book 11 in volume I of Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî, Beirut: Dâr Ihyâ' Al-Turâth Al-'Arabî, n.d.), which is a photographic reprint of the same famous collection published by the Dâ'irat Al-Ma'ârif Al-'Uthmâniyya (Hyderabad, 1948)Al-Hakîm, S. (1981) Al-Mu'jam Al-Sûfi: Al-Hikma fî Hudûd Al-Kalima (The Sufi Dictionary: The Wisdom in the Word), Beirut: Dandarah

SPK	Chittick, W. C. (1989) The Sufi Path of Knowledge: Ibn Al-'Arabi's Metaphysics of Imagination , Albany, NY: SUNY Press
SDG	Chittick, W. C. (1998) The Self-disclosure of God: Principles of Ibn Al-Arabi's Cosmology , Albany, NY: SUNY Press
OY	Yahya, O. (1964), Histoire et classification de l'œuvre d'Ibn Arabi , 2 vols, Damascus: Institut Français
EP	The Encyclopedia of Philosophy , ed. by Paul Edwards (1967), 8 vols, New York: Macmillan Publishing
EP²	Bianquis, Th., Bosworth, C. E., Vandonzel E. J. and Heinrichs, W. P. (eds) (1987) Encyclopaedia of Islam , 9 vols, Leiden: Brill

1 Cosmology and time

Cosmology is the science that studies the universe, the cosmos. Cosmos is a word used in earlier Greek metaphysical thought that means ‘harmony’ or ‘order’, as opposed to chaos. In one Greek theory of creation, chaos is the formless matter from which the cosmos, or harmonious order, was created (EP: ‘Cosmology’, II: 237–244; ‘Chaos and Cosmos’, II: 80–81). And time is one of the most fundamental issues in philosophy and cosmology, since the whole of existence is nothing but consecutive series of events in time. Everybody feels time, but most people do not question it because it is commonly experienced every day in many things and is so familiar. However, it is far more difficult to understand the philosophical nature of time and its characteristics.

Throughout the history of philosophy, many opposing views have emerged to discuss and describe the different aspects of time, and some novel hypotheses have eventually emerged in modern cosmology. However, it is still the dream of every physicist to unveil the reality of time, especially since all modern theories have come to the conclusion that time is the key.

1.1 A brief overview of early cosmological models

Beginning in the twelfth century, Arab scholars, scribes and various translators gradually introduced Europe to the science of astronomy as it had developed in Islamic civilization, based on earlier Hellenistic models (primarily Ptolemy and Aristotle). But once the Catholic Church had decided to adopt the Ptolemaic or Aristotelian geocentric¹ cosmological model as a theological principle, it considered scientists who criticized this model as heretics. Therefore, the Polish scientist Nicolai Copernicus (AD 1473–1544) circulated his heliocentric model anonymously, and his book De Revolutionibus Orbium Caelestium (‘On the Revolutions of the Heavenly Orbs’), was not published until 1543, just one year before his death. In this model, Copernicus postulated that the Sun and the stars are stationary and the Earth and the planets circulated around the Sun in circular orbits.²

It was not until 1609, when Galileo invented the telescope, that Aristotle’s and Ptolemy’s geocentric model of the universe was completely discarded by knowledgeable researchers, and replaced by the heliocentric model (Drake 1990:

145–163). At around the same date (1609–19), the scientist Johannes Kepler formulated three mathematical statements that accurately described the revolution of the planets around the Sun. In 1687, in his major book Philosophiae Naturalis Principia Mathematica, Isaac Newton provided his famous theory of gravity, which supported the Copernican model and explained how bodies more generally move in space and time (Hall 1992: 202).

Newton's mechanics were good enough to be applied to the solar system, but as a cosmological theory it was completely false in so far as he still considered, like Aristotle, the stars to be fixed and the universe outside the solar system to be static. Although a dynamic universe could easily be predicted according to Newton's theory of gravity, the belief in the Aristotelian static universe was so deep and strong that it persisted for some three centuries after Newton (Seeds 1990: 86–107).

In 1718, Edmund Halley compared the positions of stars recorded by the Babylonians and other ancient astronomers with the latest observations and realized that the positions of some of the stars were not the same as they had been thousands of years earlier. Some of the stars were in fact slightly displaced from the rest by a small but noticeable amount. This is called 'proper motion', which is the apparent motion of the star (perpendicular to the line of sight) in relation to the background stars that are very far away. In 1783, William Herschel discovered the solar motion, the Sun's motion relative to the stars in its galactic neighbourhood. Herschel also showed that the Sun and other stars are arranged like the 'grains of abrasive in a grindstone' (Ferguson 1999: 162–165), which is now called the Milky Way galaxy. More than a century later, in 1924, Hubble was able to measure distances to some stars (based on the 'redshift'),³ and he showed that some bright dots that we see in the sky are actually other galaxies like ours, although they look so small because they are very far away (Hartmann 1990: 373–375).

The Aristotelian theory of a static universe (i.e. of all the stars) had to be reviewed after Hubble's discovery of the redshift of light coming from all distant stars, which indicated that everything in the universe is actually moving; just as Ibn 'Arabi had said many centuries before. In his bestselling book of the 1980s, Stephen Hawking says:

Even Einstein, when he formulated the general theory of Relativity in 1915, was so sure that the universe had to be static that he modified his theory to make this possible, introducing a so-called cosmological constant into his equations.

(Hawking 1998: 42)

This of course was soon proved to be wrong, and everybody now knows that the cosmos is in continuous motion. Einstein himself later considered this to be one of his greatest mistakes. Ibn 'Arabi, however, declared plainly that the stars cannot be fixed at all, and he even gave numbers and units to the speed of their proper motion [III.548.28, II.441.33], which are consistent with the latest accurate measurements.

After these developments, and with the advent of new technologies employed in making even more accurate observations, in addition to accelerated research in physics and astronomy, a whole new view of the cosmos finally replaced the ancient short-sighted ones. However, we cannot ever claim that all the questions have been answered and that we have drawn a fully correct picture of the cosmos. On the contrary, new sets of even more profound questions are still a riddle, such as dark matter and the Einstein-Podolsky-Rosen (EPR) paradox (see section 6.6).

Along with the vast amount of data collected by telescopes and space shuttles in recent decades, many new theories have arisen to try to explain those observations. The mere concepts of ‘time’ and ‘space’ were in focus especially after the strange and courageous ideas of Einstein about relative and curved space-time were proved by Eddington through the observation of the total eclipse of the Sun in 1918 in South Africa. Since then, other theories including Quantum Mechanics, the Field Theory, the Superstrings Theory, and Quantum Gravity Theory, have tried to discover and describe the actual relation between material objects and energy on one hand, and between space and time on the other hand. Yet no fully convincing view has ever been achieved.

1.2 Modern cosmology

Since Copernicus’ time, our view of the cosmos has grown both larger and more accurate. It is not our purpose here to explain the modern complicated theories of cosmology, but simply to summarize the present picture of the cosmos as seen by scientists. Our modern picture of the cosmos dates back only to 1924, when Edwin Hubble showed that our galaxy is not the only one in space; many of the faint spots of light that we see in the sky are in fact other galaxies as large as our own, but we see them so small only because they are extremely far deep in space.

Owing to the force of gravity, everything in the sky is moving or orbiting around some point in space. The Moon orbits around the Earth, and the Earth and other planets orbit around the Sun, which also orbits – along with other hundreds of thousands of millions of stars – around the centre of the Milky Way galaxy, which is in turn one of thousands of millions of galaxies all flying through the vast distances of space.

In order to give a clear spatial view of this immense universe, it is better to use big units of distance instead of using big numbers. The best accepted units of distance in cosmology are the ‘light year’ (9,500,000,000,000 metres), which is the distance travelled by light in one year, and the ‘parsec’, which equals 3.26 light years. Light travelling at 300,000 km/sec can go seven times around the Earth (which has a circumference of approximately 44,000 km) in one second, but it takes 8.33 minutes to reach us from the Sun (150,000,000 km). Proxima Centauri, the nearest star to us apart from the Sun, is about 4.24 light years away. Our galaxy, like most other galaxies, is a collection of about 200 billion stars plus thousands of clusters and nebulae that form together a disk of more than 100,000 light years in diameter, and that is about 15,000 light years thick. The nearest galaxy to us lies in the Andromeda constellation, and it is about 2.9 million light years away. Then galaxies are grouped in somewhat irregular clusters that greatly differ in size from millions to hundreds of millions of light years. The most distant objects discovered so far are about 13 billion light years away. These numbers are simply approximate, just to give an idea of where we are (Hartmann 1990: 413).

It is now also well established that everything in the world is moving: nearby stars have proper motion, because they are pulled towards the centre of the galaxy, and galaxies are moving away from us, because the universe is expanding. On the other hand, and despite these various motions, the universe does not have a centre or edges. It is hard to imagine, but the universe is contained or curved around itself so that if you fly straight in one direction and keep moving in a straight line you will one day, if you live long enough, come back from the opposite direction to the same point (supposing no gravitational fluctuations), just as it would happen to a person travelling around the Earth.

The stars that we see in the sky are, just like our Sun, huge nuclear fusion reactors that are constantly converting hydrogen into heavier elements and hence producing heat and light. But not all stars are the same: some are big and some are small; some are young and some are old; some are bright and some are faint. Also, many stars are dying and many others are born all the time in a process of very complicated evolution (Seeds 1990: 134–281).

So how is all this explained according to the new cosmological theories? We can not discuss here all the different theories in physics and cosmology, but we want to make a quick summary of the basic principles of the different models of the cosmos so that we can understand the potential importance of the ‘Single Monad model’ which we are going to propose in the last chapter of this book, based on Ibn ‘Arabi’s unique understanding of time and his famous theory of the oneness of being.

1.3 Summary of modern theories of cosmology

After the amazing discoveries and the enormous amount of data obtained by telescopes and space shuttles, and with the success of the theories of Relativity and Quantum Mechanics, scientists tried to build new cosmological models to explain the structure and origin of the universe on the basis of the new information. We shall give here a very short summary of the major theories of cosmology that have developed recently.

Scientists up to the beginning of the twentieth century believed in a stationary universe outside the solar system, but this was soon proved to be wrong. Actually the same theory that Einstein first tried to make fit a steady universe and fixed stars later proved that the universe is expanding. This implied that the universe had started at one moment, about 15 billion years ago, from a very small point, but with very high density, and then it expanded to its present state. This was called the ‘Big Bang’, and many cosmological models were developed on the basis of this view (Narlikar 1993: ch. 2, ch. 5).

The 'Steady State' theory tried to explain the expansion of the universe by supposing a continuous creation of matter that filled the space produced by the expansion, but the discovery of cosmic microwave background radiation in 1965 by Penzias and Wilson caused the Steady State model to be completely discarded. The background radiation was interpreted as the faint afterglow of the intense radiation of a 'Hot Big Bang', which had been predicted by Alpher and Hermann back in 1949, although some people also attribute it to Gamov back in 1946 (Dolgov et al. 1990: 11).

The problem with the background radiation was that all measurements showed it to be very uniform in all directions. This isotropy of the background radiation was a riddle because with homogeneity no stars or galaxies could be produced (Tayler 1993: 194). It was only in 1992 that NASA's Cosmic Background Explorer satellite (COBE) detected the first anisotropies in this background radiation: one part in a hundred thousand, which may indicate the seeds from which galaxies formed (Schewe and Stein 1992).

The Big Bang model was very good in explaining many of the observations, yet on the other hand there were many contradictions (Linde 1990: 4). Many of these theoretical contradictions were resolved by the 'inflationary scenario' devised by Alan Guth in 1979. Guth looked at a very early stage in the development of the universe from about 10^{-32} to 10^{-43} of a second after the initial creation. During this period matter was in very highly excited states, causing the most extreme conditions of high density and pressure which made the cosmos expand exponentially, filling the universe with an intense dense fire of particles and photons (Linde 1990: 42).

In classical (Newtonian) mechanics, one could predict the behaviour of a system if one exactly knew its initial state. But in Quantum Mechanics, we can only calculate the probability of how the system will evolve (White 1966: 29). In either case, however, the main problem in cosmology is to determine the initial state that the laws should be applied to. One successful approach to get round this problem is to work backwards by using the observed properties of the universe to deduce what it was like in an earlier state.

The problem with the inflationary theory is that, in order for inflation to have occurred, the universe must have been formed containing some matter in a highly excited state, but the next question is why this matter was in such an excited state. To overcome this, some scientists tried to apply Quantum Mechanics to the whole universe, and the result was the theory of Quantum Cosmology.⁴ This may sound absurd, because typically large systems (such as the universe) obey classical, not quantum, laws. Einstein's theory of General Relativity is a classical theory that accurately describes the evolution of the universe from the first fraction of a second of its existence up to now. However it is known that General Relativity is inconsistent with the principles of Quantum Theory, and is therefore not an appropriate description of the physical processes that occur at very small length scales or over very short times. To describe such processes we require the theory of Quantum Gravity.

In non-gravitational physics, the approach to Quantum Theory that has proved most successful involves mathematical objects known as ‘Path Integrals’ that were introduced by the Nobel Prize winner Richard Feynman. In the Path Integral approach, the probability that a system in an initial state A will evolve to a final state B is given by adding up a contribution from every possible history of the system that starts in A and ends in B. For large systems, contributions from similar histories cancel each other in the sum and only one history is important. This history is the history that classical physics would predict. At any moment, the universe is described by the geometry of the three spatial dimensions as well as by any matter fields that may be present. Given this data, one can in principle use the Path Integral to calculate the probability of evolving to any other prescribed state at a later time. However, this still requires knowledge of the initial state.

Quantum Cosmology is a possible solution to this problem. In 1983, Stephen Hawking and James Hartle developed a theory of Quantum Cosmology which has become known as the ‘No Boundary Proposal’. In practice, calculating probabilities in Quantum Cosmology using the full Path Integral is formidably difficult and an approximation has to be used. This is known as the ‘semi-classical approximation’, because its validity lies somewhere between that of classical and quantum physics. In the semi-classical approximation, one argues that most of the four-dimensional (space-time) geometries occurring in the Path Integral will give very small contributions to the Path Integral and hence these can be neglected, so we can deal only with three dimensions (space). The Path Integral can be calculated by considering just a few geometries that give a particularly large contribution. These are known as ‘Instantons’ (from ‘the instant’, because it aims at omitting time, so it is like a snapshot that takes into account only the three co-ordinates of space), which describe the spontaneous appearance of a universe from literally nothing. In this way we do not have to think about the cosmos as something that takes place inside some bigger space-time arena. Once the universe exists, Quantum Cosmology can be approximated by General Relativity, so time appears.

Research in these areas is still ongoing, but one of the many outstanding problems in trying to construct a Quantum Field theory of gravitation concerns the appropriate interpretation of quantum states for configurations that make no overt reference to ‘time’. We shall see by the end of this book that Ibn ‘Arabî’s understanding of time could be a key to eliminating these peculiarities, because he simply views the world as an eternal existence that is perpetually being re-created. He also unified space and time in a manner that has apparently never been thought of before or since.

1.4 Preliminary outline of Ibn ‘Arabî’s cosmology

Ibn ‘Arabî (AH 560–638/AD 1165–1240) was a great Sufi thinker of the Middle Ages and one of the most influential authors in Islamic history, whose writings have deeply influenced Islamic civilization for centuries, and have more recently attracted wide interest in the West. The full name of Ibn al-‘Arabî (more commonly referred to in English without the definite article) is Abū ‘Abd Allāh Muhammad Ibn al-‘Arabī al-Hâtimī al-Tâ’î. He was born in Murcia (in eastern Andalusia), into a very pious and cultured family. When he was seven they moved to Seville, and at the age of 16 he ‘entered on the path’ (of Sufism). Then he travelled throughout and between Andalusia and Morocco for some years before a vision compelled him to go to the East. In 1201 he travelled to Cairo, al-Quds (Jerusalem), and finally to Mecca for pilgrimage. His many works eventually brought him fame, and sometimes notoriety, so that he was eventually sought out by Seljuq and Ayyubid princes and accompanied by a group of disciples. Later on he came to be popularly called Muhyī al-Dīn (‘Reviver of Religion’) and al-Shaykh al-Akbar (‘the Greatest Master’). He continued travelling throughout the Middle East until he settled in 1224 in Damascus, where he remained until his death in 1240.⁵

Ibn ‘Arabī’s two most famous and influential works are Al-Futūhāt Al-Makkiyya (The Meccan Illuminations), an encyclopaedic discussion of Islamic wisdom (Nasr 1964: 92–98), and the shorter Fusūs al-Hikam (The Bezels of Wisdom), which comprises chapters named after prophets who characterize different spiritual types. But Ibn ‘Arabī also wrote many other lesser known works, many of them now available in print, such as the Kitāb Al-Tajalliyyāt, Tarjumān Al-Ashwāq, Mashāhid Al-Asrār Al-Qudsiyya, Mawāqī‘ Al-Nujūm, ‘Uqlat Al-Mustawfiz, Inshā’ Al-Dawā’ir and Al-Tadbīrāt Al-Ilāhiyya, in addition to 29 shorter treatises published in the Hyderabad collection commonly known as the Rasā’il Ibn ‘Arabī, and many other shorter books and treatises. In one of his treatises, Ibn ‘Arabī himself listed 289 titles, which increase to 317 confirmed works when added to other titles he mentioned throughout his various books. More than 850 books have been attributed to him.⁶

Ibn ‘Arabī was not an astronomer, and was never interested in astronomy as a science. But as a Sufi and mystical theologian constantly inspired by the cosmological teachings and symbolism developed throughout the Qur’an and in a number of related Hadith (Prophetic sayings), he talks about planets and orbs and their motion as a structure Allah created on His Image (see section 3.2) and relates them to the divine Names. He uses cosmology to refer to the ways we acquire more knowledge of Allah. Apart from a few short treatises where he talks about some astronomical subjects mixed with philosophy and theology, Ibn ‘Arabī did not devote any special book to describing the heavens. Nevertheless, in his major book al-Futūhāt al-Makkiyya (henceforth referred to as ‘the Futūhāt’), for example, we find many paragraphs that can be used to illustrate his profound view of the cosmos.

It can surely be said that Ibn ‘Arabī’s view of the cosmos is truly challenging, even as compared to the latest modern theories. For example, he clearly declared that the stars are not fixed at all, more than seven centuries before this was scientifically known, and he explained why we do not see their motion. Moreover, he gave numbers to the average velocities of the proper motion of stars as 100 years per arc degree, which is quite consistent with the measurements taken only few decades ago [III.548.28, II.441.33]; indeed he even used exactly the same unit of measurement now being used (Smart 1977: 249) at a time when no such measurements were possible at all. He also explained the observed 'retrograde motion' of some planets and the formation of the planets in the solar system in a similar manner to what is widely accepted today [II.443.24, III.203.21]. But most important in this regard is that his view of the world is heliocentric, similar to what Copernicus suggested many centuries afterwards. He also clearly affirmed that the Earth is spherical, moving and rotating, and he also explained why people do not realize the motion of the Earth around its centre [I.123.17, II.441.33, III.548.21].

Ibn 'Arabî's unique understanding of the process and reality of ongoing creation has been discussed by many scholars in some details. Ibn 'Arabî himself mentioned in particular a number of key cosmological developments in chapter 371 and in the very detailed chapter 198 of the Futûhât, as well as in other cosmological books such as Inshâ' Al-Dawâ'ir, Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya and 'Uqlat Al-Mustawfiz. William Chittick has devoted an immense volume called The Self-disclosure of God: Principles of Ibn al-'Arabî's Cosmology (this will be abbreviated as SDG) specifically to Ibn 'Arabî's cosmology and ontology, in addition to some chapters of other books like The Sufi Path of Knowledge: Ibn al-'Arabî's Metaphysics of Imagination (this will be abbreviated as SPK), and also Henry Corbin discussed some aspects in his pioneering study, now entitled in English Alone with the Alone. Creative Imagination in the Sufism of Ibn 'Arabî (Corbin 1969: 184). Here we want to give a very short summary of Ibn 'Arabî's cosmology, in a way somewhat different from the approach followed by Chittick and Corbin. We only want to give a general description of his cosmological views, without too much further analysis and explanation, so that we can concentrate on the central subject of time in the rest of the book. Also we will leave the discussion of the ontological aspects of his cosmology to the following chapters (see in particular section 3.3). Here in the following we shall use the same figures Ibn 'Arabî drew in chapter 371 of the Futûhât, and the following broad cosmological account is mainly drawn from that chapter [III.416–448], along with a few paragraphs taken from the long chapter 198 [II.390–478] of the same work.

Ibn 'Arabî's universe comprises both the material and the abstract, spiritual or noetic ('aqlî') worlds. He says that the main reason for creating the cosmos is 'Love'. In explaining this underlying principle he often refers to a famous divine saying (the 'Hadith of the Hidden Treasure')⁷ which states that Allah 'loved' to be known in order to grant the creatures the privilege of coming to know Him. Thus Allah's love to be known is a Mercy (rahma) from Him that He wanted to grant to all His creatures. This Mercy is the first state of the presence of Allah with regard to the world to be created, and hence it formed the abstract place (or 'space') in which creations would appear. Following indications in another Prophetic Hadith, Ibn 'Arabî calls this abstract place al-'amâ ('the Cloud').⁸ According to his account, the reality of al-'amâ accepted the forms of the 'Roaming Spirits' (al-arwâh al-muhayyama) that Allah created directly, without any intermediaries. This direct creation caused these angelic Spirits to roam in the presence of Allah, knowing nothing but Him. They did not even know about themselves (i.e. they had no self-consciousness). Allah appointed one of these spirits and granted him a special epiphany of divine Knowledge (tajallī 'ilmī) that engraved in him all that Allah wants to create in this entire cosmos until the Last Day. The other primal Spirits could not know about that. This initial epiphany caused this Spirit – which is then called the ‘Universal Intellect’ (al-'aql al-kullī) or the ‘First Intellect’ (al-'aql al-awwal) or also, using a central Qur'anic symbol, the ‘Higher Pen’ (al-qalam al-a'ālā) – to become aware both of himself and of the other Spirits, while they did not know about him.

Through this epiphany, the First Intellect saw himself composed of himself and of his further ability to realize or ‘intelligize’. He also saw that he has an ontic ‘shadow’ caused by the Light of that special epiphany, which was realized through the divine Name ‘the Light’ (al-nūr). This shadow is his ‘soul’, which is called the ‘Universal Soul’ (al-naḥs al-kullīyya) or the ‘First Soul’ (al-naḥs al-ūlā), or also the ‘Highest/Protected Tablet’ (al-lawḥ al-a'ālā/al-mahfūz), in which he is going to write what he knows is going to happen until the Last Day. The entire universe, then, is – to use a central Qur'anic symbolism – the ‘letters’ and ‘words’ of Allah that are produced through ‘the Breath of the All-Merciful’. We shall see in section 5.8 that the fundamental ‘blocks’ in the universe are ‘strings’ or vibrations (‘sounds’ or ‘notes’), which is similar to Ibn ‘Arabī’s notion of the hierarchy of the ‘men of breaths’ (rijāl al-anfās). Therefore it is not only a symbolism to say that the entire universe is the ‘letters’ and ‘words’ of Allah,⁹ and those words are continuously being written by the Highest Pen (the First Intellect) in the Highest Tablet (the Universal Soul). Figure 1.1 shows this Cloud and its contents down to the ‘establishing Throne’ ('Arsh al-Istiwā), which is different from the usual cosmological meaning of the divine (normal or usual) ‘Throne’. The ‘establishing throne’ is the throne on which ‘Allah established His authority’, alluding to the verse ‘ar-Rahmān 'ala al-'arsh istawā’ (20:5).

According to this account in chapter 371, the universe appeared in the Universal Soul through the Universal Intellect as the result of what Ibn ‘Arabī calls an ‘abstract (or ‘spiritual’) marriage’ (nikāḥ ma'nawī). This is because everything that happens as a result of to a particular cause is like a ‘son’ of this cause who is considered its ‘father’, and its ‘mother’ is the object where this ‘son’ appears or happens. Just as we are all (in our outer bodily dimension) the ‘children’ of Adam and Eve, all other things in the universe can be considered the ‘children’ of the Universal Intellect and the Universal Soul.

The Universal Soul has two forces mentioned in Figure 1.1: the ‘intellective force’ (quwwa 'ilmiyya) by which it perceives knowledge, and the ‘active force’ (quwwa 'amaliyya) by which it preserves its existence through motion. The first thing the Universal Soul gives rise to, as indicated in the same figure, is twofold: ‘the level of Nature’¹⁰ and the ‘Chaos’ (al-habā': literally ‘the Dust’) or ‘the Prime Matter’ (al-hayūlā al-ūlā) [I.140.14]. From here on, Ibn ‘Arabī uses the symbolic conjugal imagery of the ‘wedding’ of generative elements and of ‘birth’ at each successive level of creation or manifestation. Thus the Universal Soul first begets Nature and then Prime Matter or Dust. Then Nature and Dust in turn beget their first ‘son’, which is called the ‘Universal Body’ (al-jism al-kull). This symbolic process of cosmic ‘births’ continues in a long and defined series of causes and results until it reaches the ‘soil’ (turâb) [I.140.17] which refers to physical matter in general. So the physical world appeared ‘after’ this Universal Body, while before that all was only spiritual.

Figure 1.1 ‘The Cloud’ and what it contains, down to the ‘establishing Throne’.

Note

This diagram is translated from Ibn ‘Arabi’s drawing in chapter 371 [III.421].

As in Figure 1.3, the Universal Body seems to contain everything beneath it including the zodiac (with all the stars and galaxies). Alternatively, we can consider that the physical world is formed by (not ‘in’) the Universal Body because, like the Universal Intellect and Soul, this Body can be called the First Body because it was the first body to be created. In addition to that, the world both as material and spiritual is formed by the Single Monad through the continuous manifestations of this Monad. If we then consider that the First Body was the first ‘elementary particle’ to be formed by the Single Monad then the physical world is formed ‘by’ this First Body. The other possibility is that the Universal Body is some sort of a huge cloud of matter in primary form, which then developed into stars and galaxies, in which case we could say that the physical world is formed 'in' the Universal Body. The first thing which was formed in (or by) the Universal Body was the 'Throne' (al-'Arsh) on which Allah established his authority (istiwâ)¹¹ from His Name 'the All-Merciful' (al-Rahmân), which means that all creatures beneath the Throne are to be granted the creative Mercy of their existence from Him. Therefore the first thing that the Highest Pen or First Intellect wrote in the Higher Tablet (the Universal Soul) was this 'Throne' in which the entire creation (the cosmos) is to appear. All this is shown in Figure 1.2.

Inside (or 'beneath') the divine Throne there appeared the 'Pedestal' (al-Kursî), whose relative dimensions and plenitude, in comparison to the infinitely vast noetic or spiritual dimension of the 'Throne', Ibn 'Arabî compares here to 'a tiny ring in a vast desert'. And within this 'Pedestal' is the 'Isotropic Orb' (al-falak al-atlas), which is shown to contain the sphere of the divisions of the zodiac (falak al-burûj) and the sphere of the stars (al-falak al-mukawkab), including beneath them the separate orbs of the five planets, Sun, Moon, and the Earth. All this is shown in Figure 1.3 and Figure 1.4.

Figure 1.2 The establishing Throne and what it contains down to the Pedestal.

Note

This diagram is translated from Ibn 'Arabî's drawing in chapter 371 [III.422]. We give the title as it is in the original text, though the diagram shows the Prime Matter and the Universal Body, in addition to the Throne down to the Pedestal.

The Isotropic Orb or sphere is so called because it contains no stars nor yet any distinguishing feature; it is homogeneous in all directions. The sphere of the zodiac was the first orb to be created inside the Isotropic Orb, and its surface was divided by human convention into the 12 equal parts that are traditionally assigned to the various zodiacal signs. According to the diagram in Figure 1.3 and Ibn ‘Arabî’s comments on it in chapter 371 of the Futûhât, it is evident that he was ware of the large distances between the galaxies because the fixed stars are in our galaxy while the zodiac signs are other galaxies placed very far away. In this fast space Allah created the seven paradisiacal ‘Gardens’ (al-jinân, s. janna) named in the Qur’an, with their different states and levels marking the symbolic ‘meeting-place’ between the purely spiritual realities of the divine

Figure 1.3 The (divine) Pedestal and what it contains down to the constellations.

Note

This diagram is translated from Ibn ‘Arabî’s drawing in chapter 371 [III.423].

Figure 1.4 The orb of the constellations and what it contains down to the Earth.

Note

This diagram is translated from Ibn 'Arabi's drawing in chapter 371 [III.424].

Throne and the 'sensible' realities in the realm of the Pedestal. The specific names of each of the seven Gardens are taken from related verses in the Qur'an and Hadith, and they are different from the Seven Heavens or Skies (samawât) which are, for Ibn 'Arabi, the same seven celestial spheres where the five known planets plus the Moon and the Sun are, as shown in Figure 1.4 and Figure 1.3. The word 'al-Wasila' that twice crosses all the seven Gardens (in Figure 1.3) corresponds to 'the highest level in (the highest Garden of) Eden, and it belongs (specifically) to the Messenger (Muhammad) of Allah' [I.319.14, also see I.658.30]. It is also known as 'al-maqâm al-mahmûd' ('the commendable station'), and it was called 'al-Wasila' ('the Intermediary', or 'the Way (of Approach to Allah)') because 'through It Allah may be approached' [II.87.9].

Then beneath the seven Gardens comes the orb of the (apparently) fixed stars, the constellations, and the 'houses' or 'mansions' (manâzil) of the Moon.

However, Ibn 'Arabî maintained that those stars are not fixed at all, but that our human time-scale is too short to notice their motion [II.441.33].

The orb of the fixed stars is (also conventionally) divided into 28 constellations or 'houses' through which the Moon appears to pass. Then inside this sphere of the stars, Allah created the 'seven (visible) heavens' (al-samawât) and the Earth. And here Ibn 'Arabî again points out that in relation to the divine 'Pedestal' (Kursî), the dimensions of our Earth together with the seven visible heavens are like a ring in a vast desert – just as the Pedestal stands in that same relation to the immensity of the divine Throne.

Then Ibn 'Arabî speaks at length (chapter 371 of the Futûhât) on the states and levels of the Gardens and Gehenna and other descriptions of the other world (al-âkhira). Here, however, we shall restrict ourselves to this very short summary of a few general relevant cosmological points, because of our focus on the concept of time.

First, we should note that Ibn 'Arabî, following normal Arabic usage, also calls the Sun and the Moon 'planets'. But at the same time he clearly distinguishes between the nature of the planets (including the Moon) and the Sun itself, observing that the Sun alone 'is responsible for illuminating all other planets above and below' [II.170.22]. As is normal in Arabic writings (including astronomical ones), he also calls the stars by the same term as 'planets' (s. kawkab), yet he also knows that those stars are like the Sun in that they emit their own light [I.217.18].

A first quick reading of Ibn 'Arabî's texts about the world might reveal the same traditional Aristotelian (geocentric) cosmological world-view because, like most other ancient cosmologies (and apparently the Qur'an and Hadith), he talks about 'seven (celestial) heavens' around or above the Earth, each inhabited by a planet (including the Sun and the Moon, as shown in Figure 1.4). But Ibn 'Arabî stresses in many places [III.548.21, I.123.17, II.441.33] that this is only the apparent view for a person who is sitting on the Earth, thus distinguishing between this apparent earthly view and the actual motion of the planets and stars themselves. So, for Ibn 'Arabî, Aristotle's view is a view of the world 'as we see it . . . while in itself it cannot be described like that' [III.548.31]. He stresses the central position of the Sun which he considers to be in the 'heart' (centre) of the seven heavens, and he emphasizes the superiority of the Sun over other planets that are even above it with relation to the Earth: 'So the elevation of this place (the Sun's orb) comes from its being the heart of orbs, so it is a high place for its status and the orbs that are above it in distance with relation to our heads, are still below it in status' [III.441.33]. His actual view of the (local) world is therefore in some sense 'heliocentric', at least in relation to the unique central status or 'rank' (makâna) of the Sun.

As for those areas of the sphere of the fixed stars and the visible constellations normally specified by the 12 signs of the zodiac or the 28 houses of the Moon, Ibn 'Arabî considers them as a mere convention, which do not necessarily relate to the actual positions of those particular stars. He says: 'The zodiac (constellations) are approximate positions, and they are houses for the moving planets' [III.37.27]. And for the Moon he says that 'those stars are called "houses" because planets move through them, but otherwise there is no difference between them and other stars that are not houses. . . . They are only assumptions and proportions in this body (of the sky)' [III.436.30].

On the other hand, we cannot strictly separate the material world from the abstract or spiritual world, as they are really overlapped – or rather, all of the material worlds (of the 'Pedestal' and the visible heavens and Earth below) are effectively contained within the immaterial divine 'Throne'. This is why Ibn 'Arabî sometimes mixes the two views: for example he drew a pillar to refer to the Perfect Human Being, whom he considers to be the 'image of the Real' (i.e. of God) in the cosmos, so that without him the cosmos would collapse. He also speaks, following scriptural symbolism, about the seven heavens as being 'supported' on the seven (levels or regions of the) earths. But Ibn 'Arabî does not consider that to be the actual physical picture of things, because he clearly states that the Earth is spherical and that it rotates around its centre: 'but the motion of the Earth is not apparent for us, and its motion is around the middle (centre) because it is a sphere' [I.123.17]. He even nicely explains why we do not feel the motion of the Earth and the cosmos in general (stars). For example he says that people and most other creatures do not feel the motion of the cosmos because it is all moving so the witnessed dimensions don't change, and that is why they imagine that the Earth is stationary around the centre [II.677.21].

1.5 Time in philosophy and science, introduction

Everybody feels time, and most people do not question it because they experience every day and it is so familiar (Fraser 1987: 17–22). But if we want to understand the nature of time we have to answer many basic questions such as:

- What really is time?
- Can we stop it?
- Can we reverse it?
- Is the flow of time universal or is it related to the observer?
- When was the beginning of time, and does it have an end?
- Does time exist objectively, or is it only a construct of our imagination?
- What is the relationship between time and space?
- What is the structure of time?
- Is time continuous or discrete?
- What does the word 'now' or 'moment' mean?
- Why does time move into the past?
- What is the reality of the future?

These and many other similar questions have been the subject of philosophy, physics and cosmology for many centuries, with little progress in finding convincing answers. The question: 'What is time?' is more like the question: 'What is love?', because it is something that everybody can feel it, but no one can give an exact definition of it. If you ask this question to many people, you will certainly get as many answers. St Augustine, in his Confessions, asks, 'What is time?' When no one asks him, he knows; when someone asks him, however, he doesn't know (EP, 'Time', VIII, 126).

The understanding of time was very important for early people both from the practical view, where they needed to anticipate major events such as floods and harvest time, and from the philosophical view, which is based on sheer curiosity and love of knowledge. Many religions and ancient philosophies, therefore, have tried to answer some questions about time. Some of these religions and philosophies consider time as circular with no beginning or end, some consider it as linear with infinite extension in the past and in the future, and others consider it as imaginary, while real existence is for motion or moving bodies only.

The concept of time is necessary when we ask about the chronological order of things and the duration of events. And because our life is full of events of all types, so time has its signature in all aspects of life. Some examples are: the ageing process in biology, timekeeping in mechanics, the arrow of time and entropy in thermodynamics, and the radically varying psychical time that one feels when waiting for something or in other circumstances. Therefore, in order to understand the reality of time, one needs to explore many closely related fields like physics, biology, psychology and cosmology.

In recent centuries, with the revolutionary new concepts in physics and cosmology in addition to modern technology, increasing accuracy of timekeeping became very important because it is the reference for the extremely complicated motions – of the different parts of a machine for example – that have to work together in coherence. The critical importance of timing events both on Earth and in space was enhanced by precise timekeeping machines like electronic clocks, atomic clocks, and pulsars which are fast-rotating stars that emit short radio pulses at regular intervals with extremely high precision. But despite the new abstract concepts about time like 'time travel' and the 'curvature of time' brought about by the theory of Relativity, our modern concept of time has usually remained quite practical because everything has to be done according to the clock. In fact, the modern theories of physics and cosmology have added more questions and paradoxes about time than they answered (Grünbaum 1971: 195–230).

In general we can detect two major opposing views in the philosophy of time:

- 1 the rational (realistic) view based on the physical understanding of the world
- 2 the idealistic (perhaps apparently 'irrational') view based on metaphysics.

Rationalists believe that the mind is the most powerful force of humankind and is able to understand everything in the world, while the irrationalists consider the world, including time, as something beyond the capabilities of our minds. For the idealist, nothing, including time, exists independently of the mind. Therefore the idealist believes that time is a construct of our mind and does not have a separate existence.

1.6 Time in Greek philosophy

Since the age of Homer, the Greek word chronos has been used to refer to time. Chronos was a Greek god who feared that his sons would take over his kingdom, so he ate them one after the other – just like time, which brings things into existence and then overtakes them.

We can already detect two clearly opposing views about time in the contrast between Plato's and Aristotle's schools of thought. Plato considers time to be created with the world, while Aristotle believes that the world was created in time, which is an infinite and continuous extension. Plato says: 'Be that as it may, Time came into being together with the Heaven, in order that, as they were brought into being together, so they may be dissolved together, if ever their dissolution should come to pass' (Cornford 1997: 99).

Aristotle, however, believes that Plato's proposition requires a point in time that is the beginning of time and has no time before it. This notion is inconceivable for Aristotle, who adopts Democritus' notion of uncreated time and says: 'If time is eternal motion must also be eternal, because time is a number of motion. Everyone except Plato has asserted the eternity of time. Time cannot have a limit (beginning or end) for such a limit is a moment, and any moment is the beginning of a future time and the end of past time' (Lettinck 1994: 562).

Thus time for Aristotle is a continuum, and it is always associated with motion; as such, it can not have a beginning (Lettinck 1994: 241–259, 361). Plato, on the other hand, considers time as the circular motion of the heavens (Cornford 2004: 103), while Aristotle said that it is not motion, but rather the measure of motion (Lettinck 1994: 351, 382, 390). Aristotle clearly relates rational time and motion, but the problem that arises here is that time is uniform, while some motions are fast and some slow. So we measure motion by time because it is uniform – otherwise it cannot be used as a measure. To overcome this objection, Aristotle takes the motion of the heavenly spheres as a reference, and all other motions, as well as time, are measured according to this motion (Badawî 1965: 90). On the other hand, Aristotle considers time as imaginary because it is either past or future, and both do not exist, while the present is not part of time because it has no extension (Lettinck 1994: 348).

We shall see in Chapter 2 that Ibn 'Arabî shares with Aristotle the idea of a circular endless time and that it is a measure of motion, but he does not consider it as continuum. On the other hand, Ibn 'Arabî agrees with Plato that time is created with the world. In fact Plato was right when he considered time to be created, but Aristotle refused this because he could not conceive of a starting point to the world nor to time. Only after the theory of General Relativity in 1915, which introduced the idea of 'curved time', could we envisage a finite but curved time that has a beginning. By this we could combine Plato's and Aristotle's opposing views. However, Ibn 'Arabî did that seven centuries before, and he also explicitly spoke about curved time a long time before Einstein.

1.7 Time in earlier Islamic philosophy

Muslim philosophers were in general greatly influenced by their Hellenistic predecessors, and therefore tried to apply their theories of time in relation to the related issues raised by the Qur'an and Prophetic Hadith. Many Muslim philosophers prior to Ibn 'Arabî, such as al-Kindî, al-Fârâbî, al-Râzî, al-Ghazâlî, Ibn Rushd (Averroes) and Ibn Sînâ (Avicenna), analysed and criticized or adapted the differing conceptions of time in the schools of Greek philosophy represented by Aristotle, Plato and Plotinus (Badawî 1965).

For example, al-Ghazâlî,¹² in his famous Refutation of the Philosophers (Tahâfut al-Falâsifa),¹³ dealt with most of the standard philosophical and logical arguments regarding time and creation, and his criticism was also thoroughly discussed in Ibn Rushd's famous philosophical rebuttal, the Tahâfut al-Tahâfut.¹⁴ However, one of the most influential Muslim philosophers who had many original views about time is Ibn Sînâ, who devoted long chapters in several works to discussing time and related issues according to the views of kalam theology and of previous philosophical schools.¹⁵

Ibn Sînâ¹⁶ started by summarizing the metaphysical positions of all previous (Islamic and other) philosophers¹⁷ and then criticizing their different ontological views. Although Ibn Sînâ, like Aristotle, closely relates time and motion, he stressed that motion is not the amount of time. He based his argument on the fact that different distances can be cut in the same time, or that the same distance can be done in different times, either owing to the difference in velocity or owing to stops on the way.¹⁸ But ultimately he does define time by motion, though he adds distance to overcome Aristotle's difficulty regarding periodicity (see previous section). He says that time 'is the number of motion when it separates into before and after, not in time but in distance, otherwise it would have to be periodical' (Nasr 1978: 224–226).

On the other hand, although Avicenna doubted the existence of physical time, arguing that time 'exists' in the mind only as a result of memory and expectation, he also showed that time is also real in the sense that it exists through motion which relates to physical matter; time is real, but it does not have a stand-alone essence, since it exists only through the motion of matter.¹⁹ On the issue of the structure of time, Ibn Sînâ affirms that it is a continuous quantity, since he (like Aristotle) considers time to be the amount of circular motion which is continuous, and thus time is divided only by our mind's illusion into 'moments' or 'instants' (ânât).²⁰

On the other hand, the proponents of kalam theology, particularly the Ash'arites,²¹ on the basis of their atomist view, consider time to be discrete, and they also talked about the re-creation of the world in time. Ibn 'Arabî acknowledges the positive insights in their position, but he also criticized their view as being incomplete (SPK: 97). We shall discuss Ibn 'Arabî's own view in detail in sections 2.8 and 5.6 below.

At the earliest stage of Islamic philosophy, the philosopher and mathematician al-Kindî²² was generally affected by Aristotle and adopted his view that time is the number of motion.²³ However, arguing from the general Qur'anic principle that Allah is the One Who created the world, he asserted that the material world cannot exist ad infinitum because of the impossibility of an actual infinite. Therefore, he argued, the world requires an initial 'generator' (muhdith) who could generate it ex nihilo.

The famous Muslim physician and Neoplatonist al-Râzî,²⁴ on the other hand, seems to have adopted Plato's notion (in the Timaeus) that time is 'the moving form of eternity', as well as Plotinus' notion that time is eternal; therefore he refused Aristotle's view of the unreality of time.

The influential philosopher al-Fârâbî,²⁵ on his part, focused on the metaphysical aspects of time. He also adopted Aristotle's view when he said: 'only the circular motion is continuous and time is related to this motion' ('Abdul-Muta'âl 2003: 113). But similarly to Ibn 'Arabî, al-Fârâbî apparently also believed that the world is contingent or 'possible to exist' before its actual existence. Otherwise, if it were 'impossible' it would not exist, or if it were 'necessary', it would have always been. Then he stresses that the world as a whole is in continuous formation (takwîn) and corruption (fāsād) 'in no time', while the parts of the world are forming and deforming in time ('Abdul-Muta'âl 2003: 115). This outlook is also similar to Ibn 'Arabî's view (see section 2.3). To explain this important point we give the following illustration. If a young physicist was asked to describe the general state of a mountain, he or she might end up with some equations without any reference to time, because the mountain is rigid. But if we ask him or her to include in his study the fact that the mountain is part of the Earth which is rotating around its axis and orbiting around the Sun, and also the fact that the atoms in the rocks never rest, or even the motion of the insects and other animals that might be living there, as well as the motions of the wind, waters ... etc. – then in that case the physicist might need to invent some new mathematics in order to be able to include the time parameter properly in his or her equations, even after making many approximations. So because we live 'inside' the world we feel time, but the entire world itself is out of time.

Many other schools of Islamic thought have speculated on the issue of time. It is good to notice, however, that in the Qur'an itself Allah never makes any direct reference to the usual Arabic word for 'time' (zamân or zaman), although many other time-related terms later explored by Ibn 'Arabî – such as the year (sana and 'âm), month (shahr), day (yawm/nahâr) and night (layl) – were mentioned very often in the Qur'an, in addition to some divine Names that are related to time such as the First (al-awwal), the Last (al-âkhir) and the Age (al-dahr).

As already noted in our Introduction, with all the hundreds of books and recent studies that have been written about time in Islamic philosophy, both in Arabic and in other languages, it is very strange almost none has ever focused on Ibn 'Arabî. Many scholars have studied and compared the different theological, philosophical and physical views of time and existence, so briefly summarized above. However, none of these studies has ever, to the best of our knowledge, treated Ibn ‘Arabî’s unique concept of time, although – as we shall discover – it is actually the key to understanding his controversial theory of the oneness of being. The reason for this strange neglect could be not only his difficult and symbolic Sufi language but also the fact that his concepts are intentionally dispersed throughout his many writings and not plainly stated in one place, as most other authors do. In fact, Ibn ‘Arabî mentions in the Futûhât [I.141.13] that he wrote a treatise with the title of ‘al-zamân’ (‘time’) where we would expect to read at least an extensive summary of his view of time. However, apparently this precious work has been lost, although al-Futûhât al-Makkiyya seems to include most of his doctrine regarding time and other related cosmological issues.

1.8 Time in Western philosophy

Aristotle’s notion of circular time, based on an eternal (uncreated) universe, could not generally be accepted by most theologians of the three Abrahamic religions – Islam, Christianity and Judaism – in so far as they considered time to be linear, with a definite created beginning and end. St Augustine, and later Thomas Aquinas, objected to Aristotle’s belief that time is circular, insisting instead that human experience is a one-way journey from Genesis to Judgement, regardless of any recurring patterns or cycles in nature. This latter view was later adopted by Newton in 1687, when he represented time mathematically by using a line rather than a circle.

As we noted above, there was already an earlier debate in Greek philosophy as to whether time exists objectively, or is just constructed by our minds. Puzzled about time, St Augustine concludes that time is nothing in reality, but it exists only in the mind’s apprehension of that reality (EP, ‘Time’, VIII: 126). On the other hand, Henry of Ghent and Giles of Rome both said that time exists in reality as a mind-independent continuum, but is distinguished into earlier and later parts only by the mind. Isaac Newton considered time (and space) as an independent quantity that exists and flows regardless of matter or mind, a view which Leibniz strongly criticized. Leibniz argued that if space is distinct from everything in it, it would have to be completely uniform and homogeneous; thus he reached the conclusion that it is unreal and relative, in anticipation of Einstein’s Relativity, though he never put that insight into the form of mathematical equations (Ross 1984: 47).

Newton also rejected Aristotle’s linkage between time and motion, when he said that time is something which exists independently of motion and which existed even before God’s creation. He argued that time, and space are an infinitely large ‘container’ for all events, and that the container exists with or without the events: this is called the ‘absolute’ theory of time. Leibniz, who adopted the relational view, objected to that and argued that time is not an entity existing independently of events.

In the eighteenth century, Kant said that our mind structures our perceptions so that space always has a Euclidean geometry, and that time has the structure of the infinite mathematical line (Kant 1998: 158–176). This view, however, lost its mathematical support with the discovery of non-Euclidean geometries in the 1820s.²⁶ In his Critique of Pure Reason, Kant presented, in the first antinomy, two equally plausible arguments that at the end lead to opposing conclusions: the first shows that the world had a beginning in time, while the other shows that the world had no beginning in time. For the second proposition, if we suppose that the world had no beginning in time, then this means that, at any particular moment of time, an infinite number of events have passed – but infinity may never be completed. On the other hand, if the world had a beginning in time, then all previous times before that beginning have been blank, and there is no any specific reason why the world should have begun at this time in particular. (The same argument was earlier used by Leibniz in support of his relational theory of time.) We shall see in section 2.3 how Ibn Arabî gets out of these riddles by criticizing the questions themselves and asserting instead that Allah created (and is continuously and recurrently creating, see section 5.6) the world and time together (Kant 1998: 462–463, 470–476, 490–495, 525–528, 536–538).

In a famous article in Mind, McTaggart also argued about the unreality of time. Events, for McTaggart, are capable of being ordered in two ways: either as past-present-future, which he calls A-series, or as ‘earlier than’-‘later than’, which he calls B-series. He then argues that A-series is contradictory, and that B-series does not give all that is essential to time, because time also involves change. The A-series view of time is contradictory because, as McTaggart argues, it will lead to the fact that each event can be described (at different times) by future, present and past, because events are always flowing from the future to the past through the present, so at some times an event may be future then it becomes present and then past; while in the B-series it is always before other events or after other events, no matter whether those events are future, present or past (Dyke 2002: 137–152).

On the other hand, there has also been a great debate as to whether time is continuous or a discrete quantity. Most Western philosophers think of time as a continuous quantity, but after the advent of Quantum Mechanics the idea of quantum time was revived, although Quantum Theory itself does not consider time to be ‘quantized’ (Mehlberg 1971: 16–71).

1.9 Time in modern science

Quantum Field Theory and General Relativity are the most well-established modern fundamental theories of physics. According to these theories, space-time is a collection of points called ‘space-time locations’ where physical events occur. Space-time is a four-dimensional continuum, with physical time being a distinguished, one-dimensional sub-space of this continuum, but no longer a separate entity nor space: space and time are always taken together as one entity.

In 1908, the mathematician Hermann Minkowski, Einstein’s teacher, was the first person to realize that space-time is more fundamental than time or than space alone. As he put it:

The views of space and time which I wish to lay before you have sprung from the soil of experimental physics, and therein lies their strength. They are radical. Henceforth space by itself and time by itself are doomed to fade away into mere shadows, and only a kind of union of the two will preserve an independent reality.

(Pais 1982: 152)

The metaphysical assumption behind Minkowski's remark is that what is independently real is what does not vary from one reference frame to another. It follows that the division of events into the past ones, the present ones and the future ones is also not independently real.

In contrary to the classical Newtonian view, time intervals depend greatly on the observer's frame of reference. In classical mechanics, and on the basis of common sense, if the time interval between two lightning flashes is 100 seconds on someone's clock, then the interval also is 100 seconds on your clock, even if you are flying by at an incredible speed. Einstein rejected this piece of common sense in his 1905 special theory of Relativity when he declared that the time interval (and the distance) between two events depends on the observer's reference frame. He says that every reference-body has its own particular time; unless we are told the reference-body to which the statement of time refers, there is no meaning in a statement of the time of an event (Einstein 1920: ch. 9). Thus each reference frame (or reference-body) divides space-time differently into its time part and its space part.

1.9.1 Curved time and the Big Bang

In 1922, the Russian physicist Alexander Friedmann predicted from General Relativity that the universe should be expanding. In 1929, Hubble's measurements of the redshift confirmed this prediction. Eventually astronomers concluded that about 12 to 15 billion years ago the universe was in a state of infinite density and zero size; this is the Big Bang theory referred to earlier in this chapter. So we might ask the simple question 'What was there before the Big Bang?' Astronomers, however, showed that the entire universe, including time and space, was created in the Big Bang, and because of the extremely high density of matter at that instant, the gravitational force was immense and the space-time was curved, or encapsulated around the point from which the Big Bang was ignited.

In physics and modern philosophy, descriptions of the Big Bang often assume that a first event is also a first instant of time and that space-time did not exist outside the Big Bang. But it is not clear if it is correct to call the Big Bang an 'event', because events must have space and time co-ordinates, but space-time started with the Big Bang itself. However, for the first time in science there is a mathematical description of the ontological relation between time and the universe. We shall see that this description is in good agreement with Ibn 'Arabî's own views on time (section 2.3).

However, there are serious difficulties in defending the Big Bang's implications about the universe's beginning. Current theories do not have any claims as to what might have happened before the Planck era (10^{-43} seconds after the Big Bang). It is expected that the theory of Quantum Gravity might provide information about that, and it may even allow physicists to speculate on what caused the Big Bang. But until now this area remains solely in the domain of theological and metaphysical speculation.

1.9.2 The arrow of time

Unlike physical space, physical time is inherently directional: it flows in one direction, from the future to the past; this is a necessary truth. In thermodynamics the arrow of time for the world is expressed through what is called the 'entropy', which is a description of the degree of order of a system; a highly ordered system is said to have smaller entropy, and vice versa. The world's entropy is always increasing (i.e. its order is decreasing): this is a free 'one-way ticket', and one has to pay dearly for the return. For example, the process of mixing hot water into cold water to get warm water is never reversed, though in principle we may think of some complicated machine that can do the reverse. The arrow of an irreversible physical process is the way it normally goes, the way it normally unfolds through time.

The problem with the arrow of time is that the variable time is symmetric in most equations of physical laws. This means that, if the variable t is replaced by its negative $-t$ in those laws, the result is still a law; the basic equations are unchanged. Some scientists theorize that the cosmological arrow of time will one day reverse direction when the force of gravity will halt the further expansion of the universe and start a collapse to its initial state, just like a movie played backwards (Price 2002: 19–56).

1.9.3 Time travel

One of the most fascinating consequences of the theory of Relativity is that it allows travel through time, just as one travels through distance. This has been employed by science fiction to produce many interesting films and science fiction stories.

Although reversing the direction of the 'arrow of time' still seems to be experimentally impossible, this happens quite often in dreams and in remembering past events. However, philosophers have been more interested in travel in physical time than in psychological time. On the other hand, we can also 'really' look at the past any time: by looking at the stars, where we actually see how they have been thousands and millions of years ago when the light that we see now was actually emitted by them. But this is still not like travel in physical time, which is conceivable now only in theoretical cosmology.

Although travel in time is possible and allowed according to the equations of Relativity, in many cases it violates logic and causes obvious paradoxes. There are, however, different types of time travel, some of which are trivial. If you get on a plane on the Earth's surface and travel west, you will cross a time zone and instantly go back an hour, but all you have done is to change your reference frame. Also, if your body were quick-frozen in the year 2000 and thawed in 2050, then you would travel forward 50 years in clock time but only a few seconds of your biological time. This is, however, just a case of biological time travel, not a case of physical time travel.

One possible, and more genuine, way to travel through time is to fly at enormous speeds close to the speed of light. Einstein showed that travel forward in physical time is possible relative to the time of those who move more slowly than you. With this kind of relativistic time travel, you cannot return to the old present, but you can conceivably be present at the birth of your great-grandchildren. Travel backward in physical time is also possible only if nothing that has happened gets changed. For example, you cannot go back in time and prevent your parents from having any children (Arntzenius and Maudlin 2002: 169–200).

Another kind of time travel is caused by the curvature of time due to extreme gravity. If you fell into a black hole, then you would travel to a time after the end of the universe, as measured in a reference frame tied to Earth. Unlike the time travel in science fiction movies, this kind of relativistic time travel to the future is continuous, not abrupt. That is, as you travel to the future, you exist at all intervening times according to the stationary Earth clock. You do not suddenly 'poof' into existence in the year 4500; you existed during their year 4499, but your spaceship had not yet landed.

Going back to the past is probably possible, but there are significant difficulties yet to be overcome before we can be sure. In recent decades, mathematicians and theoretical physicists have described time machines, or at least universes containing backward time travel, that are consistent with Einstein's equations of general relativity. However, Stephen Hawking believes that all these time machines are ruled out by the laws of General Relativity.

For Ibn 'Arabî, time travel is possible and easily attainable without any paradoxical consequences. Such time travel, however, has no physical or biological effects on the traveller – see the discussion in section 2.7 below.

1.9.4 Quantum time

Regarding the question of 'instants' of time, time being a linear continuum implies that there is a non-denumerable infinity of them. This means that between any two instants there is a third; time is continuous. However, for times shorter than about 10^{-43} seconds, the so-called Planck time, science has no experimental support that time holds its continuousness. But physicists agree that General Relativity must fail for durations shorter than the Planck time,²⁷ though they do not know exactly how and what is the substitute.

The idea that space or time (space-time) could be discrete has been recurring in scientific literature recently, but its origins go back to ancient philosophies.

The new concepts brought about by Quantum Mechanics (e.g. the concept of indeterminacy or the uncertainty principle) suggested that space-time could be also quantized like energy. This was reinforced by the discovery of ultraviolet divergences in Quantum Field Theory (Zee 2003: 145–151), though many of the strange quantum concepts soon became acceptable aspects of continuum physics. In the 1980s, powerful computers inspired some new discrete thinking in physics. Complicated mathematical simulations performed on these super-computers paved the way for lattice theories to be applied to Quantum Mechanics, and included Quantum Gravity. In Quantum Gravity, Planck's length is a minimum size beyond which no accurate measurements can be performed.

Hawking, however, sees no reason to abandon the continuum theories that have been so successful. But it may be possible to invent a discrete structure of space-time without abandoning the continuum theories if the discrete-continuum duality can be resolved, just as the wave-particle duality has been resolved by Quantum Mechanics.²⁸

The practical methods of the quantization of time in modern scientific theories are based on some complicated mathematics such as lattice theories and cellular automata that are beyond the scope of this introduction (Wolfram 2002: 771). But it is good to note here that Ibn 'Arabî's quantization of time, as we shall see in section 2.8, is unique and is based on a broader cosmological view (of the oneness of being) such that discreteness and continuousness are special cases of it (see also section 7.5).

1.10 Introducing Ibn 'Arabî's view of time

As we shall see in Chapter 2, Ibn 'Arabî considers time to be imaginary and without real existence; it is only a tool used by the mind to chronologically arrange events and the motion of the heavenly spheres and physical objects. Ibn 'Arabî then distinguishes between two kinds of time: 'natural time' and 'paranatural time'. He also explains that the origin of this ultimately imaginary time is from the two forces of the soul: the active force and the intellective force.

Despite time being imaginary, Ibn 'Arabî considers it as one of the four main constituents of nature: time, space, the monad (al-jawhar), and the form (al-'arad). Like some modern theories, Ibn 'Arabî also considers time to be cyclic, relative and inhomogeneous.

Ibn 'Arabî then gives a precise definition of the 'day', the 'daytime' and the 'night' and generalizes that, in relation to all (real and imaginary) orbs or spheres, every orb has its own 'day' and those days are measured by our normal day that we count on the Earth.

On the other hand, Ibn 'Arabî gives special importance to the cosmic 'Week', and says that the seven cosmic week-Days are unique and not alike. Saturday (al-sabt) in particular has a special importance, because he considers it to be the 'Day of eternity', so that the observable week days, including Saturday itself, are therefore happening in Saturday! This initially may look rather confusing, but it should become easier to understand, especially after we explain Ibn 'Arabî's view of the re-creation principle and his theory of the oneness of being which we discuss in detail in Chapter 5.

Finally, what is very important and unique about his view of time is that Ibn ‘Arabî considers time to be discrete: there is a minimum indivisible ‘day’ or ‘time’ – and thus, surprisingly, this ‘day’ is equal to the normal day itself which we live and divide into hours, minutes, seconds and much less than that! This conception at first looks very strange and ambiguous, but, in order to explain this, Ibn ‘Arabî introduces three kinds of days, depending on the actual flow of time that is not so uniform and smooth as we ordinarily imagine. The key point here is that Ibn ‘Arabî stresses that, according to the Qur’an, only one ‘event’ should be happening every ‘day’ (of the actual days), and not many different events as we observe. To achieve his deeper understanding of this key Qur’anic expression, he reconstructs the underlying reality of the normal days in a special way from the different days of the actual flow of time, as we shall discuss further in Chapter 4.

Also on the basis of a number of key verses in the Qur’an, Ibn ‘Arabî says that the world ceases to exist instantly and intrinsically the next moment right after its creation, and then it is re-created again and again. We shall see that Ibn ‘Arabî’s view of time and how it flows is precise and unique; it has never been suggested or discussed by any other philosopher or scientist. This distinctive cosmic vision of ‘ever-renewed creation’, when added to the understanding of the actual flow of time based on the three kinds of days alluded to above, can be used to build a new unique model of the cosmos which we shall discuss in Chapter 6 and we shall discuss some of the consequences of this model in Chapter 7.

2 General aspects of Ibn ‘Arabî’s concept of time and days

*Time, if you investigate what it comes down to, is something verifiable;
Yet it is known (only) through (human) imaginations (awhâm),
Its power is like Nature in its effects,
Though the essence of both is non-existing.¹
Through it all things are determined,
While it itself has no existing essence by which it could be judged.*
[I.291.1–7]

We have seen in the previous chapter that time is one of the most important perennial problems in physics and cosmological philosophy. For the same reason, we find that Ibn ‘Arabî considers that a good understanding of time is the prime key to human spiritual realization. In this chapter we shall look at the various relevant aspects of Ibn ‘Arabî’s view of time. We want to give here some general descriptions of his ideas on time, and we shall focus on the important issues in the following chapters. For this reason there are many cross-references to following chapters where these ideas are explained in more detail.

2.1 What is time?

To start with, Ibn ‘Arabî declares that time is an imagined attribute that does not exist on its own; it has no separate physical or non-physical entity. He argues that ‘time in relation to us is like eternity in relation to Allah, and since eternity is a negative attribute² that does not exist on its own, so time in relation to the contingent world or the entire cosmos is (also) an imagined attribute that does not exist’ [I.291.28].

In his major book Al-Futûhât Al-Makkiyya, he says: ‘we showed in this book and in our book The Time (al-zamân) (OY, no. 838) that time is something that has no (real) existence’ [I.490.17]. Although this last book is not found today, Ibn ‘Arabî’s concept of time is developed in quite detailed fashion in the Futûhât, though it is scattered all around the book and not placed in specific parts, including even those chapters 59, 291 and 390 whose titles relate directly to time.

The concept of time is needed to compare the sequence of events or motion, but real existence is attributed only to the thing that actually moves, not to the abstractions of motion, time or space in which motion is observed:

And time and space are also a consequence of natural bodies, but time is something imagined that does not exist (in itself), but is introduced by the motion of orbs and localized things when we ask about them 'when'. So time and space do not exist in reality, but existence is to the things that move and still.

[II.458.1]

This is not only to say that 'motion', 'space' and 'time' do not have real physical existence, but they do not even exist separately in an abstract way: their existence is a mere illusion; it is only a projection of the human imagination (wahm).

It is not very easy to deny the existence of time, space and motion, since they are widely encountered in our experience of everyday life. However, Ibn 'Arabi is not the first one to propose this. We shall see below that Aristotle gives a very simple proof that time is not real. The real existence of motion and space, however, are far more unusual and intricate to disprove. Perhaps only Zeno (b. c. 488 BC) was brave enough to postulate the illusion of motion, and he composed many related riddles that are still logically unsolvable. The main idea behind Ibn 'Arabi's mysterious conceptions here is his controversial theory of the oneness of being, which we shall discuss throughout this book, especially in Chapter 5. But, clearly, if we suppose that the 'real' existence in the world is uniquely one, there would be no meaning to motion, and hence to time and space; or at least they would have to be redefined. We shall discuss in Chapter 7 that Zeno's paradoxes can be easily resolved according to Ibn 'Arabi's profound view of time under his theory of the oneness of being.

Coming back to time, we can say that it can be very easily shown that it is in fact imaginary. Aristotle says in his Physics that 'time consists of two parts, one of which has existed (and gone, i.e. the past), the other does not yet exist (i.e. the future), so how can something exists which is composed of what does not exist?' (Letting 1994: 348)

So if there is a real existence to time it will be in the present (the 'now'), not the past or the future. Aristotle then gives another argument that also the 'now' is not time. The present is not time, but it is rather a point in imaginary time, like a point on the line; although the line is composed of points, still each point is not a line.³ Likewise time is the sum of all present moments that exist only one by one, and each one present moment (alone) is not time. Time therefore is the mind's projection on the continuous presence from the future to the past through the present.

Similarly, Ibn 'Arabi gives a straightforwardly profound meaning of time. In the title of chapter 390 of the Futûhât, he says: 'the time of a thing is its presence' [III.546.16]. Then he explains that the time of the Lord is the 'servant' and the time of the servant is the Lord (al-rabb) [III.547.31], because the Lord deserves to be given this name by the servant, since He would not be called 'Lord' if there are no servants to worship Him; likewise the servant deserves his name by (his relation to) the Lord. In the same way, when we say for example: 'Amr is the son of Zaid', this means, according to Ibn 'Arabî, that the time of the fatherhood of 'Amr is the sonhood of Zaid, and vice versa. Or in Ibn 'Arabî's own words: 'the time of the father is the son, and the time of the son is the father' [III.547.36]. That is why Ibn 'Arabî gave this chapter (390) the title 'The time of a thing is its presence, but I am out of time and You are out of time, so I am Your time and You are my time'. This means: 'I am Your presence and You are my presence.'

'Time' in the usual common sense is actually a tool used by our perception to classify the events or motion of objects chronologically; it would not have any meaning without motion or change. This is why we do not feel time while we are asleep; we have to look for some kind of a standard reference motion (the Sun, the Moon, the stars or a watch) in order to realize how much of time has elapsed since we went into deep sleep. Time, therefore, has no real absolute meaning; it is only used relative to something in order to describe its state of existence. This is why Ibn 'Arabî sometimes uses the words 'time' and 'state' as synonyms, as when he says: 'as you like (you can) say from the time of its existence, or the state (hâl) of its existence' [II.281.11].

So the real meaning of time is reduced to the existence of the world in the 'present moment', which has no duration or extension, because the future and the past are mere imagination. If we know that, Ibn 'Arabî declares, there is no problem to go along with people and say that 'time' is the daytime and night, or that it is a duration taken by the motion of objects, or it is comparing an event to another when someone asks about it by 'when?', because these definitions have been widely used and they are correct in relation to time, in the common sense [III.548.7]. As Ibn 'Arabî says in chapter 59 of the Futûhât, which is titled 'On knowing existing and assumed time', people have used the word 'time' (zamân)⁴ in many different ways: most philosophers, for example, use it as the duration taken by the motion of orbs. Muslim theological scholars, on the other hand, use it to order events sequentially. But generally zamân in Arabic means the night-time (layl), and the daytime (nahâr). Also Ibn 'Arabî himself sometimes uses the word zamân to mean the daytime and night [I.141.5]. But this is more than just a convention, because, as we shall see below and in the following chapter, the (divine) 'day' (yawm) is for him the main indivisible unit of time. So if time has any real existence it exists as the divine 'days' (of each real instant), not as the hours or seconds we conventionally use. It is also worth mentioning here that, unlike the day (yawm) or daytime (nahâr) and the night (layl), the word 'time' (zamân or zaman) was never used in the Qur'an.

Despite the fact that he considers time to be imagined and having no real existence, Ibn 'Arabî stresses that it is one of the four 'mothers (fundamental principles) of existence': the formable monad (al-jawhar al-suwarî),⁵ the accidental form (al-'arad),⁶ time (al-zamân) and space (al-makân).⁷ Everything else in the manifest world is combined of these four parameters [III.404.22]. He also argues that those four parameters – together with another six categories that are derived from them: fā'il, munfa'il, idāfa, wad', 'adad, kayf – are enough to describe the state of everything in the world. Together these make up the familiar ten Aristotelian categories: i.e. substance (jawhar), quantity (kamm), quality (kayf), relation (idāfa), time (matā), place (ayna), situation or position (wad'), possession (lahu), or state (jidda), passion (yanfa'il) and action (yaf'al) – although the meaning of jawhar here is of course radically different from its usual Aristotelian usage, reflecting in this case the kalam inspiration of Ibn 'Arabi's terminology (EP, VI: 203, 'Al-Makûlât', and: EP, II: 46, 'Categories'). Yet those four 'mothers of existence', including the formable monad, in Ibn 'Arabi's distinctive conception of the oneness of being, are nothing but imaginary forms or reflections of the unique 'Single Monad' (al-jawhar al-fard) which is the only thing that can be described as having a real existence: all other things in the world are different forms of this Single Monad, including 'vision and the visible, hearing and the heard, imagination and the imaginable, thinking and the thinkable, . . . etc.' [III.404.12]. This latter concept reflects Ibn 'Arabi's controversial theory of the oneness of being.

The importance of understanding the reality of time is, therefore, to provide the link between the actual unity of this Single Monad and the apparent multiplicity of the witnessed world. That is why Ibn 'Arabi says that:

the knowing of time is a noble knowing through which eternity (al-azal) is truly known. . . . But only the Solitary Sages⁸ among 'the True Men' know it (eternity). This (reality) is known as 'the First Age' (al-dahr al-awwal) or 'the Age of ages' (dahr al-duhûr). From this eternity (al-azal), time comes into existence.

[I.156.34–157.1]

Therefore, we may summarize that time as we ordinarily experience it is defined by motion, and motion is defined by the different positions of the formable monads, and those monads are different states (times or instances) or forms of the Single Monad, which alone has a real existence.

2.2 Physical time and spiritual time

Ibn 'Arabi distinguishes between two kinds of time: physical or 'natural time' (zaman tabi'i) and spiritual or 'para-natural time' (zaman fawq-tabî'i). The first is used to compare the motion of bodies and orbs, while the latter is used to compare the changes in spiritual states, such as realizing and knowing. He explains that the existence of time does not necessarily require the existence of matter [IV.337.5], because there is time that is associated with material motion that is under the effect of Nature, and time that is associated with immaterial motion that is above the effect of Nature: i.e. in the spiritual world. Thus he says that 'you should know that some of time is above Nature and some of it is below Nature' [I.377.12], and he explains further by saying that the time that is under Nature 'is defined by the motion of orbs . . . and the time that is beyond Nature is defined by (spiritual) states' [I.477.12]. So when Ibn 'Arabî says: 'and the origin of the existence of time is Nature, whose state is below the Universal Soul and above the Universal Dust' [III.548.19], this actually refers to natural time which is used to compare the motion of bodies and orbs – while spiritual time is used to compare the change of spiritual states, and its origin preceded the existence of the physical world.

We can fairly say that Ibn 'Arabî's conception of natural time is the time known in physics and cosmology, and that his spiritual time resembles what is called by many modern philosophers 'psychological time'. The psychological time is our feeling of time's passage even when everything around us is standing still, including ourselves: we feel this time because our inner state is continuously being updated through changes in our consciousness, unless we fall into deep sleep, as happened for example with the 'people of the cave' (ahl al-kahf) who stayed over three hundred years in deep sleep, yet when they awoke they thought it was like a day or part of a day (Qur'an 18:9–25, see also [II.9.21]).

Physical time seems to flow uniformly and continuously (at least locally), while psychological time depends greatly on the mood, as Ibn al-Fârid suggested nicely in one of his poems:

With her for me a year is like a glimpse, and an hour of parting for me is like a year.
(Mahmûd 1995: 344)

Also Ibn 'Arabî says that 'minutes are years while sleeping' [IV.337.1], and we shall discuss this relative aspect of 'para-natural', psychic time in section 2.7.

2.3 The origin of the world

Many people ask questions like 'what is the age of the universe?' or 'when did the world begin?' And many cosmologists go along with these questions and give estimates for the age of the physical universe (today, usually about 15 billion years). Any answers to such questions will quickly lead to a modern version of the still-ongoing debate between Plato's and Aristotle's schools already mentioned in Chapter 1: i.e. whether time was created in or before the world, or vice versa; or whether they are both eternal. Many riddles and paradoxes quickly emerge out of this debate. For example, one may ask: if the world started at a certain point of time, why God chose that time in particular? Could the world have been created ten minutes before or after that designated time? And what was God doing or what was happening before the beginning of the world?

Ibn 'Arabî, however, shows that such questions are meaningless, because the world is created out of time, and time itself is part of that created world. Allah did not create the world in time, because nothing existed 'before' the world apart from Him Who is also out of time, and therefore the creation of the world can not be compared to other events in time. The existence of the Creator precedes the existence of the world logically, and not chronologically, so it is like when we say 'the day starts when the Sun rises': there is no duration of time that separates sunrise from the start of the day [I.100.26, Al-Masâ'il, no. 25], but logically the day would not start if the Sun did not rise. The existence of Allah, Who is Pre-Existent (Qadîm or Azâlî) and Self-Existent (Qayyûm), is a precondition – not a cause – for the existence of the world. Therefore, because the world was created out of time (not 'in' time), the above questions are invalid. All such questions use time phrases that have no meaning outside of that time which appeared in or with the world and not before it.

Ibn 'Arabi showed this clearly by explaining that:

The fact of the matter is that the existence of the Real is not determined (temporally or causally) by the existence of the world: not temporally before, with, or after, because temporal or spatial precedence with relation to Allah is confronted by the realities confronting whoever speaks about it factually – unless they say something by the way of illumination, as had been said by the Messenger, peace be upon him, or it was expressed in the (divine) Book. For not everyone is able to experience the unveiling of these realities. We can only say that the Exalted Real exists by Himself and for Himself; His existence is absolute, is not confined by any other than Him, and is not caused by something nor is He the cause of anything – But He is the Creator of causes and results, the King, the Most-Holy One (59:23), Who always is and has been.

The world exists through Allah, not by itself or for itself. Therefore the existence of the Real Who exists by Himself is a determining condition for the existence of the world, which would not exist at all without the existence of the Real. And since time can not exist without the existence of the Real and the (divine) Source (mabda') of the world, therefore the world comes to exist 'in other-than-time'. So actually we can not say, in the true reality of things, that Allah existed before the world – because it has been established that 'before' is a time phrase, and there was no 'time' (before the existence of the world). Nor can we say that the world existed after the existence of the Real, since there is nothing (other than the Real) 'after' or 'with' the existence of the Real, because He caused (everything else) to exist and is making it and originating it (in the words of a famous hadîth) 'while there was no thing (with Him)'.

So as we said, the Real exists by Himself and the world exists through the Real. But if someone governed by his imagination (wahm) should ask 'When was the world (created) after the Real?' we would say that 'when' is a time-question. But time belongs to the realm of relations (nisab, see: SDK: 35) and (as such) is created by Allah, but not like the creation of existence, because the realm of relations is created by (our human) 'estimation' (or consideration: taqdîr), not by the creation of what exists . . . Therefore this question is not valid. So you should be careful how you ask, and do not be veiled by the tools of (conventional human) expression from actually realizing and fully comprehending these realities in yourself.

So the only thing left is: (1) a pure and absolute Existence – not (one coming into existence) after non-existence – and that is the existence of the Real, may He be exalted! And (2) an existence (that only comes to be) after the non-existence of the essence of that existent thing itself – and that is the existence of the world. So there is not any comparability or (co-extensive) extension between those two existences, apart from that imagined, presumed one that is removed by (true) knowledge. So nothing is left of that (falsely supposed comparability of God and the world) but absolute Existence (of God) and determined existence (of the world), Active Existence (of God) and passive existence (of the world). This is what is given by the realities, and peace (i.e. that's all!).

[I.90.9, see also Al-Masâ'il, no. 90]

'The world' for Ibn 'Arabî is both spiritual and material, and as we have seen above there are two corresponding kinds of time, spiritual and physical. The spiritual world preceded the creation of the material universe (nature) as we know it (stars and planets), so there was spiritual time before the creation of the physical world. He indicates that spiritual time is necessary to describe the relation between spirits and the divine Names before the creating of the physical world. So in this respect Ibn 'Arabî does respond to the above-mentioned questioning about what was 'before' the creation of the physical world,⁹ but he still considers such questioning invalid beyond these two created realms of the world. In fact Ibn 'Arabî explains that the world has three distinctive ontological 'levels': 'alam al-mulk or 'alam al-shahâda, which is the visible world; 'alam al-malakût, which is the realm of meanings; and 'alam al-jabarût, which is the all-encompassing realm of the divine 'Imagination' (barzakh) [I.54.15, II.129.16]. But here and elsewhere he sometimes adapts the simplified reference (drawn from the Qur'an) to the two domains as the 'visible' and 'invisible' (see SPK: 14, 93, 129, 218, 223, 342, 360–361, 376, and also Al-Masâ'il, no. 150).

Actually, Ibn 'Arabî considers the age of the world (as spiritual and material together) to be infinite from both directions: i.e. it has always been and it will always be; it is eternal without beginning and eternal without end. However, this is not saying that the material (and even the spiritual) world is eternal, but the world has some sort of pre-existence in the foreknowledge of Allah, and Allah's knowledge is eternal in both directions. In addition, Ibn 'Arabî also considers those two ends to coincide with each other, so time as a whole is like a circle that can not be described to have a beginning or an end, but when we set a point (the present) and a direction (to the past or future) on this circle we define a beginning and an end [I.387.32, III.546.30]. We shall discuss the concept of circular and cyclical time in section 2.10.

Ibn 'Arabî – following Ibn Sînâ's familiar theological categories (Nasr 1964: 173–274) – divides all things, in terms of their type of existence, into three inclusive categories: necessary, possible (or 'contingent': mumkin), and impossible [II.293.1, II.575–576]. Only Allah's existence is described as 'Necessary' or Self-Existent, while absolute non-existence is impossible. The world, on the other hand, is called 'possible' because it is possible to exist, but in order to actually come into existence it needs a determining cause (murajjih) who has to be pre-existent and self-existent, or none other than Allah.¹⁰ Therefore, the world (the possible) is originally non-existence (but not absolute non-existence, only a non-existence that is possible to exist) and it is always in need of Allah in order to bring it into existence. Thus it can be said – as in the long quotation above – that it exists by or through Allah, and not through itself. The difference between absolute non-existence and possible non-existence is that the latter exists (even before it comes into real existence) in Allah's Knowledge, and this foreknowledge is eternal because His knowledge is not other than Himself [I.300.32, II.114.15] (see also section 2.7).

So the world, spatial and temporal, eternally existed or was determined in Allah's knowledge, but it is continuously brought into real existence ad infinitum:

So when Allah brought the entities (into existence), He brought them for them not for Him. But (for Him) they are still as they were on their spatial and temporal states, with their different time and space (co-ordinates). So He reveals to them their entities and states little by little infinitely and successively. So the issue for Allah is one, as He said: and Our Command is but one, as the twinkling of an eye (54:50), and multiplicity is (only) for the countables themselves.

[I.162.22]

However, despite this pre-existence, we can not say that the world is eternal and only developed from one state to another. It is not exactly clear how Henry Corbin concluded that 'there is no place in Ibn 'Arabi's thinking for creation ex nihilo, an absolute beginning preceded by nothing' (Corbin 1969: 200), when Ibn 'Arabi started the Futûhât by saying: 'Praise be to Allah Who created things after (its being) non-existence' [I.2.3]. In Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ' he also declares that 'the dependent existence (the possible) may only be after non-existence, otherwise it would not be a "possible" whereas it is possible, and it would not be an existence by the Self-Existent, while it is in fact an existence by the Self-Existent Who caused it to exist' (Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ': 133).

If Corbin means what we explained in the previous paragraph – i.e. that everything existed in the foreknowledge of Allah even before it really existed in the world – then we have to stress the difference between the essence or entity ('ayn) of a thing in God's Knowledge and its actual existence. William Chittick devoted a full chapter in his book The Sufi Path of Knowledge to explaining this important concept in Ibn 'Arabi's ontology (SPK: 77–143). The entities of the world are in Allah's foreknowledge eternally, but they are brought into existence – after they were not existing – one after the other. This is a very important distinction. Ibn 'Arabi continues by explaining that:

Everything is in need of Allah, the Exalted, for the existence of its essence (or entity: 'ayn), not for its essence, because its immutable essence ('aynuhu al-thâbita, most widely translated as 'permanent archetype', see SPK: 83) is not determined in its immutability; it is not determined by a determiner, for there is no determination in eternity . . . so the existence of the possible may only be after non-existence, which means it was not, and then it is.

(Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ': 133, see also Al-Masâ'il, no. 143)

Actually we shall see later in section 5.6 that this intrinsic need by the 'possible' – i.e. of all the realms of creation – for Allah to bring it into existence continues to be necessary at every single moment, because the world is continuously brought into existence in ever-renewed forms (i.e. it is constantly 're-created').

However, it is still not easy for the human mind to imagine the existence of the created world (al-muhdath) and the eternal existence of Allah, the Eternal or Pre-existent (al-qadîm) without a reflection of some time separation. And even for Ibn 'Arabî the issue is not yet closed. As he suggested in the long passage quoted above, somehow understanding this mysterious point seems to be beyond normal human perception and requires a divinely inspired knowledge accessible only to rare individuals with the very highest spiritual attainments. This same difficulty caused many Muslim philosophers and other theologians to continue to speculate on many theories that Ibn 'Arabî disagrees with (Kitâb Al-Azâl: 8).

Ibn 'Arabî explains further the relation between the existence of God and the existence of the world in chapter 59 of the Futûhât, which is the same chapter in which he talks specifically about the topic of time. Ibn 'Arabî's argument presented at the beginning of this chapter is extremely complicated and very difficult to understand, even in its original language. However, because of its importance, we are obliged to translate it here, with some necessary explanations in parentheses.

At the beginning of chapter 59, after the opening poem quoted at the very beginning of this chapter, Ibn 'Arabî says:

You should know first that Allah, the Exalted, is the First (al-awwal), and there is no firstness (awwaliyya) to anything before Him nor to anything else – whether that exists through Him or independent of Him – with Him: but He is the One (i.e. the Unique; al-wâhid), Glory be to Him, in His Firstness. So there is nothing that is self-existent apart from Him, because He is the All-Sufficient (al-ghanî) in Himself, absolutely, and Independent of all other beings. He said: and Allah is Self-Sufficient with respect to all the worlds (3:97), and this is true according to both the intellect and revelation.

Therefore, the existence of the world came about by Allah either for Himself or for 'other' than Himself. Because if this 'other' was Himself it would not be 'other', and also if this 'other' was Himself He would be necessarily composed in Himself and the firstness would be to this 'other'; therefore this would violate our previous statement that there is no firstness to anything with or before Allah.

So if this 'other' is not Himself, then it would be either existence or non-existence. But it is impossible to be non-existence, because non-existence can not bring the world (from its non-existence) into existence because there is no any priority to any one of them (i.e. the world and this 'other' that is non-existence) to come into existence, since both of them are non-existence, and non-existence has no effect because it is null.

On the other hand, this 'other' can not be existence, because then it either exists by itself or not (i.e. through something else). And it is impossible that this 'other' exists by itself, since it has already been proved that there can not be two self-existent beings.

So it remains that this 'other' exists by something else, and the meaning of the possibility of the world is nothing but that it exists by something else. Therefore this 'other' is the world or (some part) of the world.

Also, if the existence of the world by Allah is due to 'something' without which the world would not exist – whether this 'something' is called 'will' (irāda), 'wish' (mashī'a), 'knowledge' (ilm) or anything you want which is required by the 'possible' in order to exist – then the Real would not (be able to) do anything without this 'something'. But that implies nothing but needfulness, which is impossible for Allah, because Allah is absolutely Self-Sufficient, since He is, as He said: Self-sufficient (Independent) with respect to all the worlds (3:97). And if it is claimed that this 'something' is the Essence Himself, then we say that it is impossible for anything to be 'in need of' itself, and since He is Self-sufficient in Himself, then this (false supposition) would lead to the same contradiction – i.e. being Self-sufficient and yet needful in Himself at the same time – and all this is impossible.

Therefore, since we have already disproved the existence of any 'other' (determining cause of the existence of the world), we conclude that the existence of the world, inasmuch as it exists through something else, is (causally) related to the Necessarily Self-Existent (wājib al-wujūd li-nafsihi: i.e. Allah or the Real), and that the essence ('ayn') of the 'possible' itself is the locus for the effect of the Necessarily Self-Existent's bringing the possible into existence. It can only be properly comprehended like this.

Hence (such intrinsic distinctions as God's) 'Wish' (mashī'a), 'Will' (irāda), 'Knowledge' (ilm) and 'Ability' (qudra) are (all) Himself – may He be exalted far above any multiplicity within Himself! Indeed His is absolute Unicity, and [in the words of the famous Sura 112, al-Ikhlās] He 'is the One (al-Wāhid), the Unique (al-Ahad), Allah the one on Whom all depend (al-Samad); He did not give birth – for then He would be a preceding (cause); nor is He born – since He would then be a result; nor is there any "other" equivalent (kuf) to Him' – for in that case the existence of the world would be the result of two preceding causes, the Real and Its 'equivalent' – may Allah be exalted (above that)! So this is how He described Himself in His Book when the Prophet, peace be upon him, was asked to describe his Lord: then He sent down the Sura al-Ikhlās (just quoted here)

(according to the circumstances described in a hadith: Kanz, 4734) to get rid of all (supposed) sharing (shirk) with other than Allah, by those high qualities and descriptions. So there is nothing Allah negates in this Sura or approves, but those negations or approbations are some people's opinions about Allah.

[I.291.8]

The importance of this long paragraph comes from the fact that it shows the basis of Ibn 'Arabî's distinctive view of creation, the distinctive – and extremely controversial – view that many scholars have traditionally called 'the oneness of being (wahdat al-wujûd)', but which has been widely misunderstood. Ibn 'Arabî himself could not describe it plainly, simply because it is a reality whose direct perception depends not on logic, but – as Ibn 'Arabî stressed in the passage quoted at the end of section 2.1 – on a rare inspired experiential 'tasting' restricted to the spiritual elite of the 'Solitary Ones'. As soon as it is spoken, it is likely to be misunderstood. What Ibn 'Arabî tries to prove in the passages just quoted, as in many chapters of the Futûhât and other books, is that the existence of the world is solely dependent on the existence of the Real, Who is One and Unique – and that this ultimate dependence of the world on the Real is an essential property that accompanies everything in the world at all times. On the other hand, nothing was added to Allah through His creating the world, as for Him (in His Knowledge) the world is as if it is always there. We shall come back to this important issue of the oneness of being (especially in Chapter 5) as we continue our exploration of Ibn 'Arabî's view of time, because it is truly the key to understanding his cosmology and theology.

2.4 The origin of time?

If we can not speak about the origin of the world in time, we can still ask about the origin of time in the world. As Ibn 'Arabî pointed out, we can not ask when time began, because the word 'when' requires time to be defined beforehand. But we can ask how did time begin?

In response to this cosmological question, Ibn 'Arabî argues that both the natural and para-natural types of time have originated in the Universal Soul which has two forces: the active and intellective (quwwa 'amaliyya and quwwa 'ilmiyya). The active force is in charge of moving bodies and objects,¹¹ while the intellective force is capable of perceiving knowledge, or updating the soul's spiritual state. So physical time (i.e. that associated with physical objects) is that in which bodies keep moving to preserve their existence, and spiritual time is that in which human beings' Heart perceive knowledge from their Lord [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 6]. Physical time, therefore, is originated from the active force of the Universal Soul, while spiritual time originates from its intellective force [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 7].

On the other hand, since natural (or physical) time is a consequence of material motion in Nature, it is originated with the isotropic orb which is the first orb in Nature in which the first body was created (see section 1.4). When this isotropic orb (al-falak al-atlas), was created and started to move, its motion defined natural time. But because this orb is isotropic – the same in all directions – it is not possible to measure time in this orb alone, because there was nothing to compare its motion to it. And when Allah created the second orb that includes the farthest stars (galaxies) that are appropriately called fixed stars, the (apparent) motion of those stars in this orb defined the day as the complete revolution of this orb: ‘When Allah caused the higher orbs to move and He created days in the first orb (the isotropic orb) and defined it (the day) in the second orb which is the orb of the apparently fixed stars’ [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 6].

However, as Ibn 'Arabî says, the motion of the isotropic orb was actually determined from above; it started when the first degree of Gemini was matching the divine ‘Foot’ on the ‘Pedestal’ (kursî)¹² above the isotropic orb, and after one complete revolution, the first cosmic ‘Day’ of creation was done, and that was Sunday. Then the process of divine creation continued through Monday, Tuesday, and so on until its initial completion on Saturday – and then it started over again [II.437.34]. Because this creative ‘Day’ was determined from above, it was not possible to know its duration [II.437.27]. It is true that we divide this day into 24 hours, but this is a mere convention. It is actually not possible to determine the length of this day because there is nothing else (in Nature) to compare its motion to, so we use this day to measure other relative ‘days’ of other orbs that are below the orb of fixed stars, and also the ‘days’ of the spiritual (and divine) orbs that are above this physical isotropic orb too. We shall devote Chapter 3 to explaining in more detail the seven Days of the cosmic ‘Week’ and how they are caused.

2.5 Space-time and the speed of light

Although time does not appear to be like space, in the theory of Relativity it is treated as a real dimension just like any one of the other three dimensions of space (length, width, depth: x, y, z). In Relativity, as we explained in the preceding chapter, any point in the universe can be expressed in terms of its four-dimensional space-time co-ordinates (x, y, z, t); we do not have time alone or space alone, but a single field called space-time.¹³

Likewise, Ibn 'Arabî describes the physical universe as something that ‘is confined in time and space’ [I.121.22]. Furthermore, one of the most important results of Ibn 'Arabî's view of time is that he considers that we are living in ‘Saturday’, while the other six cosmic ‘Days’ from Sunday to Friday account for the creation of the world – which is now continuously being re-created by Allah (see also section 5.6) – in space. Allah creates the three-dimensional world (actually six-dimensional/directional if we consider the two directions of each dimension) in six ‘Days’ from Sunday to Friday, but we human beings witness only Saturday because in the other six days of the week we (along with the rest of creation) are still being created. Ibn 'Arabî insists that this divine creative process is repeated every single moment, as we shall explain in the following chapters.

However, the result of what we have just said is that time ('Saturday'), though it is special, is still just like any one of the other six Days that correspond to the six (or three) spatial dimensions. So indeed the world, for Ibn 'Arabî, is confined in those seven 'dimensions' of space-time (6 plus 1) that are similar – since all are 'days'. This is the ultimate meaning of the many verses in the Qur'an specifying that Allah created the heavens and the Earth 'in six Days' (corresponding to space) and that 'then He mounted [i.e. on Saturday, in time] on the Throne' (Qur'an 7:45, 10:3, 11:7, 25:59, 32:4, 50:38 and 57:4). This could also be easily comprehended if we recall that the actual meaning of time is reduced to the existence of the world in the present moment, not the past or the future. Thus manifest existence is confined in space and time, so both space and time refer to existence, and they have no meaning when taken by themselves, without the things or events that happen in them. This new concept will add another aspect to the theory of Relativity that considers time as one dimension of the four dimensions of space-time, especially since Ibn 'Arabî gives exciting details about how those seven Days of the cosmic Week are interconnected, as we shall see in the following two chapters.

However, there are still many obvious and hidden differences between space and time. At the beginning of chapter 59 and in the long chapter 559 (which summarizes the key contributions of each of the preceding chapters of the Futûhât), Ibn 'Arabî points out the similarities and differences between space and time. 'Time', he says, 'is just like space, an extension that has no (outer) limit' [I.291.6]. Then he adds:

Space is an attribute of something that exists, but time is an attribute of something that is confined but does not necessarily exist. Space is defined by who sits in it, and time is counted by breaths. The (ontological status of) 'contingent possibility' (imkân) affects both time and space. Time has an (ontological) foundation that it refers back to and is based upon, which is the divine Name 'the Age' (al-dahr). Space emerged by the 'establishment' (istiwâ) (of the All-Merciful on the Throne, 20:5), and time emerged by the 'descending down (of the Lord) to the (lowest) heaven' (referring to the hadith: 'Our Lord, may He be Praised, descends every night, in the last third of the night, to the lowest sky . . .' [Kanz: 3351, 3355, 3388], see also section 2.14). But there was time in the Dust ('amâ') even before the 'establishment'. . . . Time is a circumstance for an event just like meanings for letters, and space is not like a circumstance, so it is not like the letter. Time is confined through division by 'now' and does not necessarily require the existence of objects, but space can not be comprehended without objects (that occupy it), so it is a kind of (ontological) 'home' (for what is created in it).

[IV.337.5]

On the other hand, the concept of using time to measure distance was already used by the ancient Arabs who used to measure distance by how it took them to travel through it, usually by camel. But Ibn 'Arabî uses this concept in a more abstract way that can be compared with the form of measurement that is now widely used in astronomy: the light year. In many places he repeatedly says that the distance between this particular celestial orb and that orb is a particular number of 'years', without specifying what speed or form of motion might be involved. For example, he says that the distance between the top and bottom of Gehenna is 'seventy-five hundred years' [I.297.15]. And in other places he says that Gehenna is (or 'will be' [I.297.17]) in the entire space situated from the Earth to just below the orb of fixed stars (the constellations of the Moon mansions) [I.303.9, III.440–441].

Now according to modern astronomy, the distance from the Earth and our solar system to either extreme of the width of our Milky Way galaxy roughly equals the distance travelled by light in 7,500 years. So in effect one could argue that Ibn 'Arabî actually used the unit of a kind of 'light year' to measure distance, more than seven centuries before modern astronomers, and that he gave a very accurate value of the width of what is now known as the Milky Way galaxy.

Regarding the speed of light, Ibn 'Arabî declares that 'nothing is faster than sight (basar) among the (human) senses; the time of opening the sight is the time of its seeing the fixed planets (stars) or what is above them or between them despite the large distance that could not be reached for thousands of years by foot' [IV.431.34; see also I.702.20, II.402.30].

Furthermore, in chapter 8 of the Futûhât Ibn 'Arabî mentions many extraordinary and mysterious facts about another 'earth of Reality' (ard al-haqîqa) – another world existing in the barzakh or 'divine Imagination', and accessible to spiritual travellers – which is an earth so spacious that the Throne and what it includes, the Pedestal, the heavens, the earths, what is beneath the soil, all the Gardens and Gehenna, would all be just like a ring in (comparison to the vast extent of) the desert of this 'earth'.

[I.126.30].

He then talks about his and other Sufis' (spiritual) visits to this Earth and that the life there is so extraordinary that many of the logically impossible things for us would normally exist there. One of the things that he mentioned about this Earth is that 'the speed of their (people's) travel on ground or by sea is faster than the perception of sight when it sees things' [I.128.26].

It is perhaps relevant to mention here that one of the consequences of modern theories of high-energy elementary particles is that each particle (such as electrons, protons and neutrons) has an anti-particle which, upon meeting with its counterpart, would annihilate and convert together into light or electromagnetic waves (Trefil 1938: 53–67). Likewise matter (atoms) has anti-matter that may exist somewhere under extreme circumstances, such as in the core of hot stars and galaxies, though it has also been made in laboratories (Schewe and Stein 1999). Some scientists say that, like matter and anti-matter, there should be an anti-universe. In this anti-universe all the laws of physics would behave strangely. For example the speed of light in our universe is a maximum terminal as we have seen above (the theory of Relativity), but in the anti-universe it would be a minimum terminal. Such a case, therefore, is predictable in Ibn 'Arabī's cosmology, as he mentions in regard to this mysterious 'earth of Reality'.

2.6 Motion

Time, therefore, is necessary to describe motion. But the answer to the question 'what is motion?' may not be as obvious as it might at first appear. Matter is in continuous motion, and objects require a cause to move; this is undisputable philosophical fact. But the basic issue in the philosophy of motion is whether the matter-in-motion can be itself the cause of its motion. The dialectical explanation considers that matter is the most primary source of the development of completion, and therefore it can be itself the cause and subject of motion. Metaphysical philosophy, on the other hand, insists on differentiating between that which moves and the mover. This is because motion is a gradual development and completion of a deficient thing, which can not by itself develop and complete gradually – and therefore can not be the cause of completion.

Osman Yahya listed a book with the name 'kitāb al-haraka' ('the book of motion') (OY: no. 223), but as in the case of 'kitāb al-zamān' this book is not found. However, Ibn 'Arabī talks about motion in some detail in the long chapter 198. There [II.456–458] he affirms that: 'everything in the world that moves and rests does not move and rest by itself, but by a mover and a rester', but he adds that: 'this mover either moves the object by itself or by its will to move it; so those who believe the mover moves the object by itself say that motion is "created" in the object, so motion by itself – when it is in the object – causes it to move'. And the same can be said regarding rest. 'But if the mover moves the object by its will, it will do that either by an (intermediate) means or without a means.' Then he adds that, if the mover is the object itself, then it has to have a will 'like the motion of the human being who moves under his will in the (six physical) directions'.

Ibn 'Arabī then differentiates between the regular circular motion of the orb (al-falak, the celestial sphere of each planetary heaven) and the motion of objects, where 'the motions of the orb are tidy and in a sequential manner like the motion of the millstone; so each part does not depart from its neighbouring (part), while the motion of (the four sub-lunar) elements is different'. Then he explains that 'the motion of the elements is entwined, where the part departs from the neighbouring part and occupies new places different from the ones it was in'. He also adds that the motion of the orb – for us (the Sufis) – is like the motion of the human being in the directions ... the orb moves by (its) 'will' in order to give out what is (inspired) in its heaven by the divine Command which causes the things (to occur) in the (earthly) elements ('anâsir) and the generators (of earthly changes, the muwallidât); so as a result of this (orbs') motion, time emerges. So time has no effect in its (the orbs') appearance, but rather it affects (only) what is below it. Time does not affect the appearance of the orb, because it is itself the appearance (the result in the lower elemental realms) – whereas the things that happen and appear in the orbs, the heavens, and the higher world have causes other than time.

[II.456–458]

We have to admit that physicists habitually accept a very naive concept of motion, usually expressed by the formula 'velocity is distance per time' ($v = s/t$), which is usually used for a simple uniform motion on a straight line though other complicated motions have more complicated equations that are all based on this simple concept of distance per time. Such a simplified concept of motion has been working nicely for many centuries and, although modern theories slightly corrected these classical (Newtonian) equations, they did not address the more philosophical question about the nature of motion itself. To answer this question, one has to verify whether space and time are discrete or continuous, an issue that (as we saw in Chapter 1) still persists and is unsettled even in the latest theories. However, we find some philosophers, like Zeno, who argued that – whether we consider this way or the other – we shall inevitably end up with some irresolvable paradoxes (see section 7.4).

Ibn 'Arabi, on the basis of his theory of the oneness of being and the principle of continual re-creation (see section 5.6), gives a clear and far more extensive definition of 'motion' (Haraka: Ibn 'Arabi's wider definition here reflects the fact that this Arabic philosophical term refers not just to physical motion but far more extensively to all kinds of 'change' in general) which is utterly different from the simple notion of just a distance in time. In the same chapter (198) that we just quoted above, he says:

Then you have to know that the truth about motion and rest is that they are two states of the natural embodied (mutahayyiz) things ... And that is because the embodied thing will necessarily need a volume (hayyiz) to occupy by itself in the time of its existence. So it may either be in the same place (hayyiz) in the next time, or times, which is called 'rest', or it is in the next place in the next time and in the following place in the third time. So its appearing in and occupying these places one after another can happen only by 'changing' from one place to another, and this may only be due to a cause. So it would be fine to call this change 'motion', although we know there is nothing but the embodied thing itself, the place, and the fact that it occupied a place next to that which it occupied before. But those who claim that there is some (real) thing called 'motion', which got into the embodied thing and caused it to change from one place to another, they have to prove it!

[II.457.27]

With the above definition of motion, Ibn 'Arabî has in mind his basic principle of the 'ever-renewed creation', which suggests that the entire world is continuously being re-created every single moment of time, which we shall discuss in detail in Chapter 5. Therefore there is no real motion like that which we habitually perceive in the human 'common sense' or 'estimative' faculty (wahm); in reality there is only a 'change of place': i.e. the thing that is the subject of motion is being re-created in different places (not moved between them), so we imagine motion. At the end of his short book Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ' (The White Pearl) (Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ': 142), Ibn 'Arabî wonders how (the general) people (not to mention physicists and philosophers) do not so easily realize the delusion of motion and space. He says that 'everything that moves does not move in occupied space (malâ'), but it moves in a void (khalâ')'. Then he explains that the thing may not move into a new place until this new place is emptied. So by simple logic, this (false) assumption would lead to the conclusion that the result of an action would occur before the action itself. For example when you fill a cup with water, the air already in the cup will have to be gradually evacuated as water pours in. At any instance (the smallest duration of time), before the water (the cause) can replace the air, the air has to be displaced (the result). So the result happens before the cause. One may argue that in this case both the cause and the result could happen at the same time. This, however, is also prohibited according to Ibn 'Arabî who asserts that the entities of the world can be created only in series one after the other (see sections 5.6 and 7.3). Thus this radically different conception meticulously challenges Newton's law of action/reaction – which practically speaking always holds true, but which seems to be philosophically deceiving. So the mere concept of motion apparently violates causality, the most fundamental principle of physics, and common sense. Actually, Ibn 'Arabî (following earlier radical theories in kalam theology) even questions causality itself – as we shall see again in Chapter 7 – where he affirms that Allah says: 'I create the things next to the causes and not by them' [II.204.13]. Though this does not deny causality itself (i.e. the appearances of regular 'natural' causes), it does suggest a radically new type of strictly divine causality.

Ibn 'Arabî concludes, therefore, that motion is only a new creation in different neighbouring places; there is no actual 'path' of the object between its start and the destination points when taken on the smallest scale of time (i.e. when time itself is quantized). On the basis of this novel definition of motion, we shall be able to resolve Zeno's famous paradoxes that are discussed in Chapter 7. But this is also what happens, according to modern physics, in the atom where the electrons 'jump' between the energy levels (which have different distance from the nucleus) without any possible existence in between. The reason for this is that the energy of the atom is quantized, and when this energy changes, either by absorbing or emitting photons, the distance of some of its electrons from the nucleus will change correspondingly. So because the energy is quantized, this distance has to be quantized too; the electron therefore may not stay in between the orbits at all, or even smoothly jump between them; it may exist only in this orb or in the other orbit that is at a discrete distance from the first (Wehr et al.

1984: 72). In the Qur'an, it is also said that this is what happened to the throne of the Queen of Sheba when it refers to the unnamed man 'who has knowledge from the (divine) Book' moving her throne from Sheba to Solomon's court 'in a blink of the eye' (see section 7.2).

2.7 Relative and curved time

In the literature of Sufism and Islamic spirituality, we read a lot of fantastic stories that apparently look 'imaginary' even to physicists who are familiar with the theory of Relativity and the concepts such as time travel that we have seen in section 1.9. Ibn 'Arabî refers to the relativity of time in many direct and indirect ways. He explicitly says: 'minutes are years while sleeping' [IV.337.1]. But 'sleeping' here does not necessarily mean usual sleep, it could be any state of imagination or realization that momentarily isolates Sufis from witnessing the visible world while their spirit are occupied with other dimensions of being. For example, he speaks in chapter 73 of the Futûhât about the 300 spiritual knowers (s. 'ârif') 'whose hearts are like the heart of Adam'. There he says that:

If a knower (of those three hundred) is taken (to witness) one scene of the Lord's scenes (al-mashâhid al-rubûbiyya), they receive in one of its 'days' (i.e. 'the Lord's Day', which equals a thousand earthly years, 22:47) at that moment (when they are taken to the Lord's scene) divine knowledge (equivalent to) what others get in the world of (normal) senses in one thousand normal years with hard work and preparation. So this is how the divine knowledge that anyone from among those three hundred achieves when they are taken out of their own (carnal) soul and is confined in one Lord's Day. The person who can appreciate what we have said is only whoever has tasted that, when (normal) time was folded up (tayy) for them in that moment, just as distance and other quantities are folded up for the eyesight whenever someone opens their eye and looks at the orb of fixed stars: at the same time when he opens their eye, the rays (of his eyesight) are connected with the bodies of these stars. So look how big is this distance and this velocity (of our normal eyesight, in that case)!

[II.9.23]

On the other hand, one of the main consequences of the modern general theory of Relativity is the curvature of space and time, and this conception is explicitly referred to by Ibn 'Arabî when he says in poetry: 'the age has curved on us and bent (hadaba al-dahr 'alaynâ wa inhana)' [I.202.7]. It is important to notice here that he used the word 'the age' (or eternal, 'divine time'), instead of time, because in modern cosmology the curvature of time is apparent only at very large scales, and we shall see below (section 2.19) that for Ibn 'Arabî 'the age' includes not only time but also space.

Also regarding time travel, which is widely known in science fiction and theoretically allowable in the theory of Relativity (see section 1.9), many Sufis and similar figures across many other religious traditions have of course frequently referred to their experiences of various forms of 'travel' across normal boundaries of time. Ibn 'Arabî, for example, mentions the story of al-Jawhari who went to take a bath in the Nile and when he was in the water he saw, like a vision, that he was in Baghdad and he got married and lived with his wife for six years and had children. 'And then he was returned to himself (from this momentary vision). . . . And after few months this woman, whom he saw in the vision that he had married, came looking for his house (in Egypt), and when he met her he knew her and knew the children' [II.82.22].

So according to this story, al-Jawhari travelled to another far-away place and lived there six years, all in a moment of his actual time at his first location in Egypt. Ibn 'Arabî's original readers would of course immediately connect this experience of the 'folding of time' (as the Sufis called it) with the narratives of the Mi'râj or ascension of the Prophet through and beyond all the heavens in a single night-journey (isrâ).

In addition to this famous Mi'râj in which the Prophet Muhammad travelled vast distances in a very short time,¹⁴ Ibn 'Arabî himself spoke in detail in chapter 367 of the Futûhât about his own numerous ascensions, although he affirms that his experiences were only spiritual, while the Prophet's ascension was both physical and spiritual [III.342.32].¹⁵

According to his accounts of this type of spiritual ascent in chapter 367, the physical elements of the Sufi's body dissociate and return to their corresponding natural place – earth to earth, water to water, air to air and fire to fire – and after that their spiritual self enters the celestial spheres to meet the spirits of the prophets inhabiting each sphere and to learn from them. Then one may even ascend further to the highest spiritual dimensions, as Ibn 'Arabî also describes in greater detail in his highly autobiographical Kitâb Al-Isrâ' ilâ Al-Maqâm Al-Asrâ.¹⁶

Just as is specified in the theory of Relativity, a person who undergoes time travel will encounter many more events than those who stay in their place. The big difference, however, is that Relativity anticipates that time travellers will encounter much longer (real) times, and that they will realize after they come back to their starting point that many generations have passed away. This has led to many strange paradoxes like the 'twin paradox' (D'Inverno 1992: 38). For Ibn 'Arabî, however, the issue is far more simple and realistic: the only difference between the spiritual 'time traveller' and others is that travellers will acquire much more knowledge or spiritual realization, because they encounter more events in a (outwardly) short period of time. For Ibn 'Arabî, time, after all, is imaginary, so more time means more events and more events means more knowledge. The Prophet Muhammad (and others like Ibn 'Arabî in their purely spiritual 'ascensions') encountered in the night of the ascension a multitude of events that normally need many years.¹⁷ Likewise, in the illustrative cases of al-Jawhari and the three hundred spiritual knowers mentioned above, other people around them did not feel any noticeable change. This subject is very close to the case of sleep and dreams except that the Sufi in the ascension is the one who is awake because Ibn 'Arabî affirmed that the Prophet Muhammad said: 'people are asleep, and when they die they wake up' (this hadith is not found in standard hadith collections, but is widely quoted by Sufis and especially Ibn 'Arabî [I.313.11, II.379.33, IV.404.16]), which means that our perception of this world is like a dream and those who are 'awake' (the spiritually realized people) will experience time in a different way. So a person in deep sleep will not feel the time as those who are awake next to him or her experience it. Similarly, the student who pays attention to the teacher will acquire more knowledge than those who are absentminded.¹⁸

In the same way, the 'Unique (spiritual) Pole' (al-qutb al-fard) is called sâhib al-waqt ('the master of time', see chapter 336 of the Futûhât [III.135], and also Al-Mu'jam Al-Sûfi: 678–683), because he is always in full attention to what Allah wants of him every single moment. The true master of time witnesses everything in the world (since all that is a kind of reflection of his own spirit, or even part of it) all the time: that is to say, he witnesses the created world throughout space and time. This high state of attention, however, is only attainable by Al-Qutb ('the Pole' or 'Axis' of the spiritual universe) who is at the top of the hierarchy of the saints [II.6.28]. This Qutb, like Ibn 'Arabî himself, is a man whose heart is like the heart of the Prophet Muhammad [I.151.6], 'and the one who is on the heart of Muhammad, peace and prayers be upon him, has the corner of the Black Stone (in the Kaaba), and that is for us thanks to Allah' [I.160.24, see also section 6.2].

The spiritual 'Pole' therefore is witnessing 'out of time' – which again means that he is witnessing everything in the world, spatially and temporally. Other Friends of God (the awliyâ') may attain this high state of awareness to a relative extent, 'though this is very rare amongst the (special) people of Allah, and it is (only) for a few of them, the people of attention, those who never overlook Allah's rule in things' [II.539.27]. This also explains how some divinely illuminated people, like the prophets, encountered with Allah things that would not normally occur to normal people. For example, Allah's direct speech to Moses can be explained only, according to Ibn 'Arabî, when we consider that Moses was out of time when Allah spoke to him – since otherwise Allah would be confined to time, and this is not possible. Ibn 'Arabî explained this in some details in his short Book of Eternity, that is one of 29 short treatises published together in the famous book known as Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî.

We actually always live in a relative time, but, although we encounter a relative number of events, time itself has no reality. Because we measure time by other standard events, like the clock's ticks or the Sun's motion, we do not feel the relativity of time. But if we measure it by our own internal activities (or what is known as psychological time), we shall always be travelling through time.

However, real travelling to the past is not possible at all, since time itself does not go back: once a form is created and goes into the past it never comes back again, although it is possible to remember past events: 'The past that has gone never comes back, but the similar (form) may come back; so when it comes back it causes (someone) through itself to remember that which was like it and has gone and is past' [II.186.27].

However, Ibn 'Arabî is well aware that it is quite possible to interact with the spirits of the dead (who are 'dead' only to this world, not in their vast spiritual realm of the barzakh) because they may become visibly embodied in a spiritual form in this world [I.755.10], as frequently happens in various spiritual experiences. For example, Ibn 'Arabî mentions his personal encounter with Ahmad al-Sabtî, the son of the Abbasid caliph Harûn al-Rashîd, whom he met while circumambulating the Kaaba. When Ibn 'Arabî first saw him he doubted his case, because he saw him not pushing nor being pushed, and going through between the two men without separating any space between them. So he realized he must be a visibly embodied spirit, and he went to him and spoke with him and asked him why he was called al-Sabtî (see his answer in section 3.6) [I.638.32].

Travelling to the future and meeting people who are not born yet is also possible, though it may also be a kind of simulation or personification of their spirits, and Ibn 'Arabî also mentioned similar things:

And I have seen all the messengers and the prophets, witnessing them all by direct vision. And I talked to Hûd, brother of 'Âd', in particular from their group (Hirtenstein 1999: 84–86). And I have seen all the people of faith, also by direct eye-witnessing, all those who have been among them and those who will come to be, until the Day of the Rising: the Real showed them to me on a single plane on two different occasions. And I accompanied (for spiritual learning) a group from among the Messengers, in addition to Muhammad – may God bless him. (For example), I recited the Qur'an to Abraham al-Khalîl; and I returned (to God) by the hands of Jesus; and Moses bestowed on me the (inspired) knowing of (spiritual) unveiling and clarification, and the knowing of (the spiritual meaning of) the alternation of 'the daytime and the night' (2:164, 3:190, etc.). So when I had assimilated that knowing, the night-time disappeared and the daytime (nahâr) remained all the day long, so the Sun never (again) set for me nor did it rise – and this unveiling was a notification from Allah that I would have no part of suffering in the hereafter.

[IV.77.27]

2.8 The discrete nature of time

The most important and distinctive of Ibn 'Arabî's ideas about time is that he considers it to be quantized. Thus Ibn 'Arabî declared in the Futûhât and other books that 'the smallest time is the single time that does not accept division' [II.384.31].

There has been a great deal of debate in the history of philosophy and science as to whether time (and space) is discrete or continuous, though most philosophers and scientists deal with time as an infinitely divisible quantity. However, the Ash'arite theologians' distinctive physical theory (of the jawhar, or 'indivisible atom') is entirely built on the discreteness of space and time, and Ibn 'Arabî himself acknowledges his debt to them for this understanding. For example, al-Bâqillânî, one of the famous Ash'arite theologians, suggested an atomic nature of time, according to which in each 'atom' of time the entire world annihilates and is re-created in a slightly different form (MacDonald 1927: 326–344). This perspective is at least verbally and conceptually very much in accord with Ibn 'Arabî's fundamental principle of the ongoing re-creation of all things (see section 5.6) – although the Ash'arite theologians did not make any reference to the key experiential basis of this spiritual insight which is so central to Ibn 'Arabî's discussion of the 'ever-renewed creation'. What is also new and distinctive here about Ibn 'Arabî's understanding of this conception of time is that he argues that the actual 'quantum' of time equals our normal earthly day itself [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 6]. It is not easy to bridge the gap between this metaphysical hypothesis and our everyday familiar experience of indefinitely divisible time: of the year into months, the month into weeks, the week into days, the day into hours, hour into minutes, minutes into seconds, and so on apparently infinitely. Ibn 'Arabî, however, explains plainly why time has to be discrete according to his understanding (or 'according to his Day'), and we shall devote Chapter 4 to discussing this difficult issue in more detail. Here we can give only a general preview.

For Ibn 'Arabî, time itself does not have a separate existence, but is reduced to motion or, more precisely, to the ongoing creative acts of God, or cosmic 'events' (each discrete divine 'Task' or sha'n) of each 'Day'. And according to the Qur'anic description of God, each Day He is upon some (one single) task (sha'n) (55:29). And since, as Ibn 'Arabî explains [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 10], Allah specified in this verse that He is every Day in 'one' task, and not many as we perceive in our illusion, which witnesses a multitude of events every day because of the intertwining between these Divine Days and our normal days. This means that this 'Day' has to be indivisible, because only one divine action or event should be happening in it [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 6]. As we have seen, Ibn 'Arabî uses the same Qur'anic term and therefore calls this fundamental quantum of time 'the Day of Task' or divine event (yawm al-sha'n), or – using an expression taken from the physical theory of Ash'arite theology – 'the singular (unique) time' (al-zaman al-fard) [I.292.16, II.82.6]. Therefore the single 'Day of task' in reality equals our normal day; or more precisely, a full revolution of the celestial sphere as viewed from the Earth. Ibn 'Arabî helps to clarify this counter-intuitive understanding of the foundational divine 'Event' by introducing some related new concepts that are also based on certain Qur'anic verses.

The first related concept is that the world is surely re-created every singular day over and over again [II.208.26, II.385.4]. So we (our souls), as part of this world, live or ordinarily experience only our very limited portion from this singular day; a single instantaneous 'moment' of time that equals the global '24 hours' taking place within the entire world at that particular instant, but as divided up (in actual perception) by the total number of perceiving entities and their perceptions in the world. During this divine creative 'glance' (lamha), we perceive a still picture of our limited perception of the world, after which we intrinsically cease to exist. Then in the second 'Day' (actually in the second 'Week'!), we live another moment to perceive a different still picture, owing to the ever-new creation created by Allah in this singular day. Thus, through a succession of these instantaneously re-created new 'pictures' of the whole, we observe what appears to be motion, just as with the illusion of cinematic projection. We said 'in the second Week' because Ibn 'Arabî showed that we are indeed only living in 'Saturday', since the other 'Days' (of Creation) of the Divine Week, from Sunday to Friday of the Days of tasks, are for space not for time, because at every moment in our life the world is re-created in six Days (for space), and it is then displayed on Saturday, but we do not witness the process of creating the world: we only witness it as created. So our life as a time is a collection of Saturdays, and each moment that we live is indeed a Week; six Days for creating the world in space, and Saturday for displaying it in time. We shall come to this important and novel concept in section 3.5.

The other related concept is that the moments that we feel flowing as day-times and night-times are actually a collection (of discrete time-space quanta), and not a straightforward combination of the actual flow of the single divine 'Days'. The normal days that we encounter are 'intertwined' (mutawâlija, v. yûlîju) – another key Qur'anic expression – with the actually existing cosmic 'Days of tasks' in a special way that we shall explore in Chapter 4. As a result of this intertwining, we see the appearance of a multitude number of events in our normal days.

In addition to that, Ibn 'Arabî also reminds us that at every moment there is a full day around the globe: evening somewhere, morning somewhere else, and noon in other places [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 6]. Therefore, at every moment for us, which is a full day when viewed globally, Allah creates a single event in the world; and then He re-creates the world in ever-new events at each succeeding moment. The day that we perceive and experience is therefore a collection of successive 'snapshots' of the actual 'Days of events' which are the actual existing basis for our experience of the flow of time.

As we said above, the idea of discrete time (and space) is not new in the history of philosophy and physics, though it had been completely discarded after the advent of classical Newtonian mechanics. However, many philosophers (such as Kant, Russell and Leibniz) have opposed Newton's hypothesis that space and time have a separate linear and continuous entity, as we showed in section 1.8. With the advent of Quantum Mechanics, Field Theory, the Theory of Quantum Gravity and the Superstrings Theory, the idea of a quantized time (and space) was revived again, and much work has recently been done in this respect as we mentioned in section 1.9.

The human mind naturally thinks of quantities as either discrete or continuous; there is no other way. A closer examination of Ibn 'Arabî's view of time, however, shows that it is indeed neither discrete nor continuous. We must remember that he considers time as imaginary after all, as well as most other quantities such as space and even mass (see section 7.9). As we indicated previously, such seemingly strange conclusions result directly from Ibn 'Arabî's fundamental theory of the oneness of being: i.e. that the apparent 'parts' of existence are merely manifestations of a single real existence that is One and Unique, neither multiple nor divisible. The notion of either discreteness or continuousness is indispensable when we imagine multitudes, but with absolute Unity there would be no meaning to such conceptions. Therefore, Ibn 'Arabî's concept of time is that it would be discrete if we approach it on the (ultimately imaginary) plane of apparent multiplicity, but in reality there is no such reality as 'time' at all. The same perspective can be applied to space.

2.9 The 'chest' of time

Ibn 'Arabî asserts that

You should know that everything has a 'chest' (sadr), and knowing it in this path (of mysticism) is one of the noble sciences and knowledge. This is because the world and every kind (in it) is created according to the image of the Human Being (insân), who is the last existent, and the Human Being alone is created according to the divine Image, both its inner and outer dimensions, and Allah created them with a chest. So between the Real, to Whom is the firstness, and the Human Being, to whom is the lastness, there are 'chests' whose number no one knows other than Allah.

[II.652.23]

The 'chest' of a thing is its front, the first thing to appear, which is why it is so important to know it. Ibn 'Arabî here applies and generalizes the verse in the Qur'an that says: 'And whomsoever Allah wants to guide, He expands his chest for "surrender" (islâm), and whomsoever He wants to leave astray, He makes his chest narrow and constricted as if he were engaged climbing up into the sky' (6:125).

But Ibn 'Arabî adds that 'the chest is in the second state of each form' [II.652.27], since the first state is the essence (the 'heart') of the form itself and the chest is its first appearance or effect. Then he lists many things and their corresponding 'chests', and he says that 'the chest of time is the time (instant) of the Dust's acceptance of the form' and 'the chest of days is Monday' [II.652.27].

Thus Ibn 'Arabî adds that:

For every 'chest' there is a 'heart' (qalb), so as far as the heart remains in the chest, the person will be blind because the chest is a veil over him. So when Allah wants to make him or her truly seeing, he goes out of his chest and sees. So the causes are the 'chests' of the existing things, and the existing things are like the hearts; as far as the existing (thing or person) is looking at the cause that it originated from, they will be blinded from witnessing Allah Who (actually, ultimately) created them. Thus when Allah wants to make (the person) truly seeing, they stop (or He causes them to stop) looking at the cause that Allah created them 'with' ('indahu: i.e. as opposed to 'through', bihi) and looks (instead) at the 'special Face' that is (uniquely) between their Lord and them.

[II.652.35]

We are, therefore, normally 'imprisoned' in the chest of time, just as the heart of the person lacking faith is imprisoned in or 'veiled by' his or her chest. To overcome time (and space), we therefore have to break out and perceive the reality of existence through the 'heart', and in particular the special inner relation or aspect between the 'heart' and the Real.

2.10 Circular time and cyclical time

Ibn 'Arabi repeatedly describes time as a 'circle' (dâ'ira), [I.387.33], which does not have a beginning or an end, but when we specify a point on this circle (the present; the point in time in which we exist now) and look in one direction, whether to the past or future, we do set a relative beginning and an end. So the present (now) joins together the two ends of time in a circle [I.387.32, III.546.30].

It is very difficult to imagine this, as it was very difficult to convince people that the Earth is spherical when this idea was first introduced, precisely because most everyday activities show us only a small portion of the Earth's surface which appears flat to us. Yet time is not like space. In the case of the Earth it was relatively easy to prove that it is round because we can view its curvature – from space, or from a great height – all at once. But the problem with time is that we can normally witness only the present moment of it, not the future nor the past; we can only imagine them. Therefore, in order to understand the meaning of 'circular' time, we have to imagine that the whole of all existence (what we perceive as future, present and past) exists all at once. This whole existence is then like a circle: i.e. a curve that does not have a visible beginning or an end when we look at it from outside. When we sit on the circumference of this circle and look in one direction, we set a beginning and an end. In the same way: the present moment in which we exist is a point on the circle of the whole existence, this point defines the future and the past and it also defines an imaginary beginning and an imaginary end of time: imaginary because the whole circle of existence (of 'the Age', al-dahr) is infinite. The imaginary beginning is the eternity a parte ante (al-azal) and the imaginary end is the eternity a parte post (al-abad) [IV.266.3].

Circular time has yet another important meaning which is not possible to explain fully at this point, because it needs additional premises that we shall discuss in the following chapters, so we can refer to it only briefly here. As described above, Ibn 'Arabi views the world as being continuously re-created, and time is reduced to the present moment because the past and the future are only imaginary. Therefore time, or the present moment, goes in ever repeated circular motion with the re-creation of the world. In other words, the presence, which is time, goes round the world continuously and repeatedly to create it and re-create it again; so it is circular (and cyclic) in this distinctly metaphysical respect.

Moreover, this cosmic notion of 'circular time' is quite different from 'cyclical time', and the two ideas should not be confused in Ibn 'Arabî's writings. 'Cyclical' or periodic (dawrî) time, such as the day, the week, the month and the year, is a duration of time in which the same kind of events should be happening in the different repeating cycles of time. For example, the Sun sets every evening to start a new day (because the 'day' for the Arabs was considered to start from sunset, not from sunrise), and the Moon is born approximately every four weeks to start a new lunar month. We should again note, however, that in reality, according to Ibn 'Arabî, there is never any repetition at all [II.432.12, III.282.21]. Those cycles of time are 'similar' to each other but never identical, as the terms 'period' or 'cycle' mean in modern physics. For Ibn 'Arabî, the cycles of time are similar because they are ruled by the same divine Names, which is why we expect to see similar events. But the reason why we do not see identical events or true repetition is because of the interaction between different cycles of different divine Names [III.201.14]. For example he says that 'the motion of Sunday appeared from the (divine) attribute "the All-Hearing" (al-sam') . . . , and the motion of Monday appeared from the (divine) attribute "the Living" (al-hayât)' [II.438.9].

Therefore the cycle of Sunday is different from the cycle of Monday, although they are both days in which the Sun rises and sets in the same way. On the other hand, and on the basis of the same statement above, Sunday from this week should be identical with Sunday from the previous week, because they both appeared from the same divine Attribute. But they are not, because they do not have the same position in the month or the year, or in other cycles that are ruled by other divine Names and Attributes, so there is never any repetition. Ibn 'Arabî nicely refers to this fact in his prayers Al-Salawât Al-Faydiyya, a short text found at the end of Tawajjuhât Al-Hurûf (Cairo: Maktabat al-Qâhira, n.d.), when he says: '(He, i.e. the Prophet Muhammad, is) the Dust (hayûlâ) of forms which does not manifest in one form to any two (persons), nor in any one form to anyone twice' [also in I.679.7, II.77.27, II.616.3].

We shall devote Chapter 3 to the significance of the 'Week' in Ibn 'Arabî's view, where we shall see that the week is the primary cycle of time, not the day. We shall also see that Ibn 'Arabî's fundamental notion of 'no repetition' forms the basis of a unique view of time and the cosmos, which will be discussed in the following chapters. However, if we accept the approximation that different cycles of time are defined by similar events, we then find that Ibn 'Arabî defines many important cycles other than the usual day, week, month, the seasons and the year. In general, every divine Name of Allah has Its own 'day' (cycle), which is a cycle of time that has a corresponding daytime and a night in the world below it (see Table 2.1 below).

A correlation can also be made here between Ibn 'Arabî's view of cyclic time and astrology. Knowing these cycles and their lengths and the specific Names that rule them may give us some insight into what kind of events may happen in

Table 2.1 Days of some orbs and divine names

The day of . . .	Its length in terms of normal Earth days
The Moon	28 days
The Sun	360 days = 1 year
Mercury	~30 years
al-rabb (the Lord)	1,000 years
al-mithl (the Like)	7,000 years
al-ma’ârij (the ascending ways)	50,000 years
Zodiac	12,000 years
Longest planet (star) day	36,000 years

Note

The numbers have been collected from different books of Ibn ‘Arabî. We should add that – as noted in our table here – Ibn ‘Arabî actually considers the year to be 360 days rather than 365.25 days; see also section 3.2 for more details the future, but it is not easy to tell exactly what is going to happen. The issue is more like weather forecasting; by studying all the parameters we can tell with a good probability how the weather may be in the near future.

2.11 The two cycles of life

According to the well-known hadith ‘Time has returned the same as it was when Allah created the heavens and the Earth’ [Kanz: 12357], Ibn ‘Arabî argues that the cosmos has completed one cycle from the beginning of creation until the point where the spirit of the Prophet Muhammad is attached to his body, and he notes that this cycle is 78,000 years. As he explains:

Time started in Libra for spiritual justice by the name the Hidden (al-bâtin) of Muhammad – may God bless him – as he said: ‘I was prophet when Adam was still between water and clay’ [Kanz: 2017]. Then it (time) circled around after one (full) time cycle, which is 78,000 years, to start another cycle of time by the name ‘the Manifest’ (al-zâhir) when the body of Muhammad – may God bless him – appeared.

[I.146.18]

In the beginning of the Futûhât [I.121–124], Ibn ‘Arabî also states clearly the order of creation in time during this cosmic time cycle, for major events of the kinds created by Allah. The numbers that he gives clearly do not agree with modern cosmology and geology, and can not be explained or understood in those terms (as we showed in section 2.3 above).

2.12 ‘Days’

So we have seen in this chapter that time is in fact imaginary and exists only as the Creator’s ‘Days’ and indeed indivisible moments, while all other divisions of time are conventional. For this reason we find that in the Qur'an the word 'time' is never used, while a great deal of attention is given there to mentioning different sorts of 'daytimes' and 'nights' and the relations between them. Likewise, we find that Ibn 'Arabî pays considerable attention to describing the actual meaning of the days and the relation between their different types.

Figure 2.1 The Cycle of Life.

Note

The number of years are extracted from chapter 7 of the Futûhât [I.121–126].

As usual, the terms 'daytime' (nahâr) and 'night' (layl) are used by Ibn 'Arabî to measure time, where the daytime extends from sunrise to sunset, while the night (layl) is from sunset to sunrise: both of those together – always beginning with the night-time – are called a 'day' (yawm), which is conventionally divided into 24 hours. We must notice, however, that the above conventional definitions are only approximate for our practical use here on Earth, since considerable differences appear as soon as we begin to measure the length of the day, for example, with relation to the Sun or to distant stars.

In the following passage Ibn 'Arabî gives a precise definition of various units of time such as the day, the daytime, the night, the month and the year. Some of these definitions are, however, simply for practical use for the purpose of determining prayer times. More accurate variations will be discussed below and in section 3.2. At the very beginning of the extremely long chapter 69, in which Ibn 'Arabî talks about 'the secret meanings of prayer (salât)', he devoted a full section to detailed explanations about timing. For the purpose of demonstration and simplification, Ibn 'Arabî employs a hypothetical observer who is considered as a frame of reference. He says there:

'Timing' (al-waqt) is an expression for (our approximate) estimation concerning a thing that does not accept the actual reality ('ayn) of what is estimated. So it is an (approximate) supposition, just like we suppose and estimate a beginning, middle and an end in a spherical shape which in itself and in its actual reality does not accept a beginning, middle or end. So we construe all of this in it (only) by what we construe through the effect of our supposition and estimation concerning it.

Likewise, timing (waqt) is an estimated supposition with regard to time (al-zamân), since time is circular, as Allah created it in its beginning, so it is like a circle. The Prophet Muhammad, may Allah have peace and mercy upon him, said: 'time has circulated [i.e. has come back to the same point] like its form was on the day when Allah created it' [Kanz: 12357]. So he mentioned that Allah created it circular (see section 2.10), and timings are (only) estimated with regard to it.

So when Allah created the Isotropic Orb and it moved, the 'day' was not specifically determined and no (temporally defining) reality had (yet) appeared in (that Orb). It was like the water of the pitcher when it is (still) in the river, before it comes into the pitcher. Then when the 12 (equal zodiacal regions) were supposed in it (i.e. in the Isotropic Orb, and subsequently appeared in the second orb of the fixed stars, which has in it the zodiacal constellations), it was given specific timings, and He called them the '(zodiacal) constellations' in that (isotropic) orb – which is Allah's saying: 'by the heaven' – (swearing by it) because of its loftiness above us – 'that has the constellations (burūj)' (85:1). So they are these suppositions for timing.

So (when) a person stands (on the Earth) and this orb rotates around him, and this person has been given sight to look at these (spatial) suppositions, through the distinguishing signs (of the zodiacal constellations) that were determined in (the outermost sphere), then (that person) can distinguish some of its parts from others, by these distinguishing signs that are made to be references pointing to it. So (this person) fixes their eye on one supposed (area) of it, I mean on the distinguishing sign (of this or that constellation), and then the (zodiacal) orb rotates with this supposed distinguishing sign that this observer has fixed their eye on, until it disappears (from his sight). This continues, as long as they continue standing in their place, until (eventually) this sign comes back to them (in the same position). Then at that point they know that this (zodiacal) orb had completed one cycle with respect to this observer – not with respect to the orb itself (because the orbs' real motion takes much longer time than a day, see section 1.4). Then we called this cycle a 'day' (yawm, defined here according to the far-away sphere of the zodiacal stars and not according to the Sun, which is the day known in astronomy as the 'sidereal day').

Then after that, Allah created in the fourth Heaven (celestial sphere) of the seven Heavens a lighted planet that has a huge body, and it was called in the Arabic tongue 'Shams' [i.e. the Sun; but the Arabs used to call both the planets (kawâkib) and the stars (nujûm) kawâkib, 'planets' (s. kawkab), but Ibn 'Arabī clearly distinguishes between them]. Then it rose in the sight (of this observer) from behind the veil (or horizon) of the Earth where this observer stands, so they called this place of rising 'the shining-place' (or 'east/orient': mashriq), and they called the rising a 'shining-forth' (shurûq), because this bright planet rose up from it and lighted up the atmosphere where this observer is.

So the sight of this observer kept following the motion of that planet (the Sun) until it was opposite them (in the middle of the sky), so he called this (state of) opposition 'the meridian' (al-istiwâ). Then the planet began to descend from its meridian with respect to this observer, seeking the right side of them – not with respect to the planet itself. So they called the beginning of this descending from its meridian a 'decline' (zawâl) and disposition (dulûk). Then the sight of this observer kept following it until the body of this planet went down, so they called its going down 'setting' (ghurûb), and they called the place where their sight saw that it went down its 'setting-place' (or 'west': maghrib).

Then the atmosphere became dark for him, so he called the duration of the lightning of the atmosphere, from the rising of this planet till its setting, a 'daytime' (nahâr). (This name is) derived from 'al-nahr' (the river), because the spreading out of the light in (that daytime) is like the spreading out of water in the bed of the river.

So this observer remained in the dark until that planet that is called the Sun (again) rose from the place that they called the orient, in the sight of this observer – (but) from another (different) place, close to this place that it rose from yesterday, (by a distance) which is called a 'degree' (daraja). So they called the duration of the darkness in which they were from the time of the setting of the Sun till its rising a night (layl). So the day (yawm, the conventional rotational day and not the sidereal day) is the sum of the daytime (nahâr) and the night (layl). And he called the positions where this planet rises everyday 'degrees' (darajât).

Then they saw that this bright planet, which is called the Sun, moves between those estimated suppositions (marked by the different zodiacal signs) in the (Isotropic) circumferential orb, one degree after another, until it cuts through that (first supposed position) through these risings called days, such that when it completes cutting through one supposed (position), it starts cutting through another supposition, until it completes (going through all) the 12 suppositions by cutting (them). Then it starts another cycle by cutting through these supposed positions (again). So they called (the time) from the beginning of cutting each supposed position till the end of cutting that (particular zodiacal) supposed position a 'month' (shahr); and they called (the Sun's) cutting through all those (12 zodiacal) suppositions a 'year' (sana).

Thus it has become clear to you that the night, daytime, day, month and year, are called 'timings' (awqât), and (also) it gets shorter till what is called hours and less – that all that does not have (real) existence in its essence, but that they are only relations and relative connections (nisab/idâfat). But what is (actually) existing is (only) the essence of the orb and the planet, not the essence of the timing and time, since they, I mean the times, are only suppositions within it. So thus you see now that 'time' is (only) an expression for something (humanly) imagined, in which these 'timings' are only supposed.

So the day (yawm) for Ibn 'Arabî is like our usual day: i.e. the full revolution of the heavens as we see it from the Earth, which is conventionally measured according to the motion of the Sun. This definition of the day works perfectly for practical issues, such as determining prayer times. But if we want to be more accurate, the day indeed is the full revolution of the orb of the fixed stars [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 6] – which is in reality (i.e. as we know today), a single full cycle of the motion of the Earth around itself with relation to far-away stars, not with relation to the Sun. That is why Ibn 'Arabî affirms that the 'day' (yawm) actually existed even before the creation of the seven planets including the Sun and the Earth, while the earthly daytime and night-time (nahâr and layl) were defined only after the creation of the Earth and the Sun. He says that When Allah caused these higher orbs to rotate, He created 'days' in the first orb (that is the isotropic orb, because it is the first orb to be created in Nature) and defined it in relation to the second orb (that is the orb of fixed-stars or the zodiacal constellations) which has the apparently fixed planets (stars). . . . Then He created also the Sun, so the daytime and night are caused by the creation of the Sun (that appears) in the day. But the 'day' [i.e. the sidereal day; defined by the rotation of the highest sphere(s)] existed before (the Sun's creation) . . . so when the orb of the zodiac rotates one cycle, it is called the 'day' in which 'Allah created the heavens and the Earth (in six days)'.

[I.140.30]

As we also showed in the previous chapter, Ibn 'Arabî showed on many occasions that all the stars are moving at very high speeds. He also showed that the stars that form the zodiac signs are, like other stars, very far away, which is why we do not realize their motion. So practically we consider these stars as fixed and therefore as a reference, but in fact the reference should be the Isotropic Orb, because it is the one that encompasses all other (material) orbs. However, because this orb has no any distinguishing sign, it can not be used as a reference. Therefore, to be more accurate, we have to measure the day not relative to the Sun but relative to stars, the constellations 'from Nath to Nath, from Butayn to Butayn or from Thurayya to Thurayya'¹⁹ [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 6] – since it is not possible to measure it relative to the Isotropic Orb which does not have any distinguishing feature. In astronomy, this is called the 'sidereal day', which is about four minutes longer than the normal (rotational) day. The difference is due to the Earth's rotation around the Sun at the same time it spins around its axis, which causes the sidereal day to become slightly longer. Although Ibn 'Arabî accepts the usual concept of the day that is our normal day (from sunrise to sunrise) for daily needs, such as knowing the time of prayers [I.388.14], he clearly distinguishes between the sidereal day and the normal day when it comes to critical issues such as the 'intertwined days' and the 'taken-out days' that we shall explain in Chapter 4.

The real meaning of 'day' comes from the fact that in this day Allah creates the whole manifest world – i.e. the whole 360 degrees of the orb or the outermost celestial sphere, the ‘Pedestal’ – in it. This does not at all contradict the many verses in the Qur’an and other holy Books stating that Allah created the Heavens and the Earth ‘in six days’ (‘and then’ – on the seventh day – ‘He mounted on the Throne’) (see the Qur’an: 7:54, 10:3, 11:7, 25:59, 32:4, 50:38 and 57:4) because we only witness the last day (‘Saturday’, al-sabt) out of these seven days, while the other six days of creation are actually included in it as space (see section 3.6). Therefore, unlike some other Muslim theologians, Ibn ‘Arabî does not find any difficulty in explaining those verses in the Qur’an that talk about Allah’s creating the Heavens and the Earth in six days. Most religious scholars suggested that Allah meant ‘assumed days’, such that if days had actually existed then, then the time of this creation would have been six days, because they could not conceive of days before the creation of the Sun and the Earth. But Ibn ‘Arabî affirms that the creation of the Sun only divided the day (yawm) into daytime and night-time. So he gives a dramatically different cosmological meaning to the process of creation in a ‘Week’ (six days plus Saturday) – as the creation of space-time at every moment – and not the commonly understood meaning that it took Allah a current earthly week to finish the creation.

However, as already noted, Ibn ‘Arabî did observe that there was a difference between the Arabs and some non-Arab (‘ajam’) groups in their conventional definitions of the ‘day’, in that the Arabs considered the day to extend from sunset to sunset, while others considered it to extend from sunrise to sunrise. So for the Arabs, the night precedes daytime, while for non-Arabs it is the reverse. This matter has no effect on the length of the whole day itself, but its implications do have an effect on the actual unit of day and especially on its spiritual and symbolic meanings, because

For the Arabs and the Arabic timing, it has been traditionally agreed that the night precedes daytime, since originally the Creator of time, Allah the Exalted, says: ‘and a token unto them is night; We strip the day out of it . . .’ (36:37). So He made the night as the origin and took the day out of it, just as the skin is stripped off the sheep. So the (initial) appearance is to the night, and the day was hidden in it, just as the skin of the sheep appears and covers the sheep until it is stripped off. So the witnessed world (‘âlam al-shahâda’) was stripped off the unseen realm (al-ghayb), and our existence was stripped off the non-existence. So the knowledge of the Arabs advanced that of the non-Arabs, because the (i.e. the non-Arab) calculations are solar-based: they consider that the daytime precedes the night, and they have some right (to maintain that) in this (same Qur’anic) verse, which continues . . . ‘then they are in darkness’, for ‘then’ here refers to the present time or the future time, and the thing will not be in darkness until the coming of the night, in this verse. So (from their perspective), the daytime was like a cover on the night and then it was taken out or removed, so ‘they are in darkness’; so the night appeared which causes darkness, so the people are in darkness.

[I.716.9, also in Ayyâm Al-Sha’n, 7]

2.13 Days of other orbs and divine names

Ibn 'Arabî then extends the meaning of the normal 'day' as described above to the spheres of all planets (and stars) and even to symbolic 'spheres' (i.e. the orbs of spirits and divine Names), where he calls the period – i.e. full revolution of each particular orb – the 'day' that corresponds to this specific orb. In this way there are shorter days and longer days, depending on the relevant orb:

and when Allah caused the isotropic orb to rotate . . . and made its full cycle a complete day (i.e. the normal day) without daytime and night . . . So 'Days' are different: some Days are a half-cycle, some Days a full cycle, some Days 28 cycles (days); and some are more than that, (all the way up) until the 'Day of ascending ways' (yawm dhû-al-ma'ârij, of 50,000 years, described in the Qur'an, 70:4), or less than that (all the way down) until the 'Day of event'; so the degrees of Days change between these two (extremes of the) Days.

[III.433.35]

There is no maximum limit to the 'Day' that one can count [I.292.17], but there is a minimum limit. The maximum limit is the Age (al-dahr), which is one unique day that does not repeat and has no daytime and night [III.202.5]. But this Age is infinite, whereas the smallest Day is the 'singular day' (al-yawm al-fard) or the 'Day of event' (yawm al-sha'n) [I.292.16], which is that Day in which Allah is upon one task (55:29). From the meaning of the 'singular day' as the time in which Allah creates by one single act every entity in the world, we can generalize to all other days: the 'Day' of every orb is the time in which that orb affects every entity in the world (i.e. by making a full revolution).

But again we should not confuse – as we have seen above – the revolution of a planet (such as the Earth) around its axis in respect to its Sun, and in respect to distant stars (which are appropriately considered fixed). In astronomy, the first revolution is called a 'rotational' day, while the other is called the 'sidereal' day. The sidereal day is the time the Earth takes to rotate 360 degrees, in relation to distant stars. This equals, in modern calculations, 23 hours, 56 minutes, 4.09 seconds, while the mean solar day is 24 hours. The Earth actually rotates 360.98 degrees in 24 hours; the difference is caused by the Earth's orbital motion (around the Sun). Similarly all other planets or orbs have their own respective sidereal and orbital 'days'. Also, the Moon completes a cycle around the Earth once every 27.3 days, with reference to distant stars, so this is the sidereal lunar month. The normal lunar month used in Islamic calendar calculations, though, is the time interval between new moons as observed from Earth, which equals 29.5 days; this is called the 'synodic' lunar month. Therefore, the Moon's 'Day', if calculated by Ibn 'Arabî's approach to the Earth's sidereal day, should be the sidereal lunar month. But we shall see in section 3.2 that Ibn 'Arabî insists that the lunar month equals 28 days exactly.

Ibn 'Arabî made it clear in several places in his Futûhât [I.141.17, III.549.3] and other books that the fixed stars are not actually fixed at all, but that we can not notice their motion from Earth owing to the large distance, because our age is too short to notice their motion despite their very high speed (an observation well confirmed by modern cosmology). Therefore when we say 'the day is the period of motion of fixed stars', we now know today that this apparent motion is caused by the motion of the Earth and not the stars, but since we move with the Earth, we think that the stars are moving. Indeed the actual motions of the orbs of stars have much longer periods, as is well known in modern astronomy. Actually, Ibn 'Arabi, following the accepted cosmological theories of his day, differentiates between two kinds of motion of the celestial orbs: natural or intrinsic motion, and forced or extrinsic motion:

The smallest Day is that which we count as the motion of the circumferential orb in whose day (yawm) the night (layl) and daytime (nahâr) appear. So that is the shortest day for the Arabs (i.e. in their language), and it corresponds to the largest orb, because it rules everything inside it. The motion of everything inside this orb in the daytime and night is a forced motion by this orb, through which it forces (a movement of) all the orbs that it surrounds. And each one of these orbs also has a natural (inherent) motion. So every orb below the surrounding orb has two motions at the same time: a natural motion and a forced motion. And each natural motion in every orb has a specific day which is measured in terms of the days of the surrounding orb.

[I.121.25]

So, for example – according to modern astronomy – the Moon naturally rotates around the Earth in about 28 days while at the same time it is forced to move with the Earth around the Sun. Likewise with most other orbs of the planets, in terms of the astronomy of Ibn 'Arabi's time: the intrinsic motion of those orbs defines a specific 'day' for every one, which equals the time needed to make full revolution around the Earth. In general, however, the day is the revolution of the specific orb, so it may have many possible lengths or measurements depending on the reference point (i.e. whether it is observed from the Earth or from other orbs or planets), but here we only consider the days of the orbs with relation to the Earth.

The relation between Days and orbs is that – in general – the longer Day corresponds to the larger orb. But this is not true for the isotropic orb, which is the first and largest (material) orb. The Day of this orb is the smallest Day, which is the day that we count, i.e. 24 hours. This is because the motion of this orb is a natural motion, whereas the motions of other orbs are a combination of this first natural motion (which is a forced motion on those other orbs) and another natural motion which is intrinsic to every orb. But if we consider the motion of the isotropic orb as expressing in reality the motion of the Earth around itself, as in modern astronomy, we can then generalize and say that the larger the orb, the bigger its Day. However, still another factor that affects the length of the Day is the speed of motion of the relevant orb. Therefore, the day that we count – i.e. the 24 hours – is actually the shortest Day, though Ibn 'Arabi sometimes mentions that a day could be a half cycle of the prime cycle of the Isotropic Orb, which is the 24-hour day [III.434.2], which is equal to the daytime (nahâr), but otherwise the day itself as the revolution of the Isotropic Orb is the smallest day. Then comes the Day of the Moon, which is 28 Earth days (which is a little less than the actual day of the Moon that we call the lunar month; we shall give a more detailed discussion of this point in section 3.2), and so on [II.441.29].

As in the case of the material orbs of stars and planets, Ibn 'Arabî adds that every spirit and every divine Name of Allah has its own 'Day'. That is because every spirit and divine Name has effects on the world beneath it. So when they complete a full revolution around the world (i.e. without material motion but with regard to their effects on every entity), this is their 'Day'.

On the basis of particular references in the Qur'an and Hadith, Ibn 'Arabî assigns Days with specific length to some divine Names. In addition to 'the Lord's day' which equals 'one thousand years of what you count' (32:5), and 'the day of the ascending ways' (dhû al-ma'ârij), which equals fifty thousand years according to the Qur'an (70:4), Ibn 'Arabî also mentions 'the day of Mithl' ('the Like', i.e. the cosmic 'Likeness' of the divine, referring to the famous Qur'anic verse 42:11 – the 'Perfect Human Being' (al-insân al-kâmil), who is created, according to a famous hadith, 'on the Image of the All-Merciful', see SPK: 27–30: 276) which equals seven thousand years [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 18], and another day which equals 6,454.54545 years, though he does not mention the relevant Name [I.121.23]. He also mentions yet another day which equals three thousand years, but says that he does not know the corresponding Name [III.238.13]. All this is summarized in Table 2.1 which shows the length of some other days, in addition to those just mentioned above.

2.14 The daytime and night-time

Ibn 'Arabî not only extends the concept of the known day to the orbs and divine Names, as we have seen above, but also he gives a very broad meaning of daytime and night (nahâr and layl), suggesting that every orb and divine Name has a corresponding daytime and night like our normal daytime and night. Just as our daytime and night are caused by the apparent motion of the Sun, these other infinitely varied daytimes and nights are all caused through the manifestation of the primary divine Name 'the Light' [III.201.35], which brings into manifest existence in the world all the transient images or 'likenesses' of the infinite divine Names:

so when the divine Name 'the Light' is considered (from the perspective of) the existence of the exalted shadow imaged forth (in the cosmos: i.e. the First Intellect or 'Perfect Human Being') and (from the perspective of) its rising upon those who are in the world, then the world (i.e. the creatures) which are in this image will call this rising, until the time it sets for them, a 'daytime', and from the time it sets for them, they call it a 'night'. But that (divine) Light is still present for this shadow, just as the Sun is still present in respect to the Earth both in its rising and in its setting (though it is visible to us only in its rising) . . . so in reality (that appearance of night) it is (only) a shadow, although they call it 'darkness'. . . . So know this!

Then Allah made these days which we know, that are caused by the motion of the isotropic orb, and the daytime and night that are caused by the heart (of the cosmos) – I mean the Sun – in order to determine through them the effects of the divine Days that belong to the Names.

[III.202.6]

Thus, as we have just seen, every divine Name has a specific Day (with its corresponding daytime and night), and, when the Day of one divine Name appears to be over, a Day of another Name starts, and so on; and all these are included in the eternal Day of the divine Name 'the Age':

And every divine Name, known or unknown, has a (specific) Day in the Age, and these are the 'Days of Allah' – and all, in reality, are the Days of Allah, but most people do not know that. So if we descend from the divine Names to the Day of the First Intellect, we find that its effect in the Universal Soul divided it into daytime and night: its 'night' in respect to the Soul is when the Intellect turns away from her when he approaches his Lord to benefit (by receiving knowledge from Him), and its daytime in respect to this Soul is when he approaches her to benefit her, so this is her daytime. And through this effect Allah made in the Soul two forces: the intellectual force, which is her 'night' in the world below her; and the active force, which is her daytime in the world below her – and that (contrast of these two universal powers) is called unseen and seen, letter and meaning, abstract and sensed. So this causes in the Soul a Day that has no daytime and night, while in the world it has (what we perceive as) daytime and night. The same applies to the Day of the 'Universal Matter' (al-hayûlâ al-kull): its daytime is its essence, and its night is its form, while it is in itself a Day with no daytime and night.

[III.202.20]

This (i.e. the relation between the two forces of the Soul and the two phases of the day, the daytime and the night-time) leads to a very important conclusion that we (physically) move in the world in the 'daytime' (nahâr) of the Soul, and that we (psychically or spiritually) perceive the world in the 'night-time' of the Soul – a key symbolism of the Qur'an and Hadith that Ibn 'Arabî develops at length throughout the Futûhât and other works. This motion-perception that happens in the 'day' (yawm) of the Soul is a cyclic unit action that repeats every day (in fact, every moment for us). In other words: we either move or perceive, but not at the same time.

Likewise, the Day in every orb is a Day with no daytime and night for that orb, but with the appearance of a daytime and night for (some of) the world below it. Ibn 'Arabî even gives an excellent example, using a detailed scientific explanation about something that we are familiar with nowadays, the phenomena of daytime and night on the Earth:

And Allah caused the (normal) daytime and night by creating the Sun and its (apparent) rising and setting on the Earth – whereas in the sky it is all light, with no daytime and night. The outlet of the night from the sphere of the Earth where the Sun sets is cone-shaped.

[III.203.22]

This is exactly what everybody admits now as a fact of science, shown in Figure 2.2 for more clarification.

So with regard to us, we are necessarily either under the effect of the day-times of particular divine Names of Allah or under the effect of their nights, depending on Allah's manifestation for each one of us and in everything else. But these Names in themselves have no daytime and night, but rather are all light. Ibn 'Arabi explains this differing influence of the different divine Names further by saying:

So its night is the 'unseen' (ghayb), which is what is hidden away from us but at the same time affects the high Spirits which are above Nature and also the roaming Spirits; and its daytime is the 'seen', which is its effect in natural bodies down to the last elementary body.

[III.201.15]

Ibn 'Arabi also gives more details about the different manifestations of God to different kinds of bodies and spirits, by dividing the daytime and night each into three thirds:

and when Allah divided His Days like that, He made its night three parts and its daytime three parts; so He, the Exalted, descends down to His servants in the last third of the night of His Days [Kanz: 3355, 3388], and that is when He is manifested to the natural spirits (al-arwâh al-tabi'iyya) that manage the material bodies; and in the middle third He manifests to the subjected spirits (al-arwâh al-musakhkhara, or the angels of each heavenly sphere), and in the first third He manifests to the 'dominating spirits' (al-arwâh al-muḥaymina).

And He divided the day of these days into three parts, and in every part He is manifested to the world of bodies – for they are always praising Allah. So in the first third He is manifested to the subtle bodies (al-ajsâm al-latîfa)

Figure 2.2 The daytime and night in the sky.

Note

Night is only in some regions below the corresponding orb, whereas in the orb itself it is all day. And in the case of the normal day on the Earth, the outlet of the night is extended in space as a cone.

which are unseen by sight, in the middle third He is manifested to the transparent materials (al-aqsâm al-shaffâfa), and in the last third He is manifested to the dense materials (al-aqsâm al-kathîfa). Without this manifestation, they would not be able to know Whom they are praising.

[III.201.24]

2.15 The 'single day'

As we have seen above, Ibn 'Arabî declares that there is an indivisible duration of time [IV.425.8] that is the smallest possible time or Day. Ibn 'Arabî calls this Day 'the single Day or time' (al-zaman al-fard) or 'the Day of task or event' (yawm al-sha'n). Another translation of sha'n is possibly 'concern', which could also convey the general meaning of the underlying Qur'anic verse, repeatedly cited by Ibn 'Arabî and it forms the basis of his unique view of the discrete nature of time: kulla yawm Huwa fî sha'n (55:29). But we prefer to use the words 'event' or 'task' in order to stress the meaning that in each such momentary 'Day', Allah acts in the world by creating the totality of all events. Ibn 'Arabî himself stressed this meaning: '(The sha'n) is nothing but the (single universal creative divine) Act, which is what He creates in each day of the smallest Days, which is the single time that is indivisible' [IV.425.11].

In every 'Day of event', Allah re-creates the world in a new image that is similar to the previous one, but with slight changes. Or in other words, in every 'Day of event' Allah causes one unique, singular Act in the world, because Allah is One and His Command (amr) is one (Al-Masâ'il, no. 26). However, this same single Act will have different results on the different entities in the world, depending on the capabilities and characteristics of each individual creature. For example, when Allah inspires the Universal Soul (al-nafs al-kullîyya) to move the element of fire (unsûr al-nâr) in order to heat the world, the effects of this single Act depend greatly on the individual creatures, so those who are ready to burn will burn, and those who accept heat will be heated, and so on [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 11]: Also he says in the Futûhât that 'the task in relation to the Real is one from Him – but in relation to the recipients (qawâbil) of the whole world, it is many tasks (events) that – were it not (all) confined by existence – we could call infinite (because everything that physically exists is necessarily finite)' [II.82.6].

The 'Day of event' is a single and indivisible duration of time that equals the entire earthly global day at each instant, but because the Universal Intellect scans in this 'Day' N number of states (that is $N/2$ for bodies in its 'day' and $N/2$ for spirits in its 'night'), it appears to the observer, who is one of these states, as infinitely divisible, because it is extremely small: $24 \times 60 \times 60/N$ seconds, and N is surely unimaginably huge. This is simply because the observer exists only for this infinitesimal amount of time during every 'Day of event'. This infinitesimal amount of time is what we call 'now' (al-ân), the 'moment' (see the following section) or the 'presence' – and this is the only real part of the imaginary time (see also section 6.8).

We must note that the isotropic orb, which is the first orb beneath the divine 'Pedestal', is not material. Therefore we can not differentiate between its 'parts', since there are no distinguishing features in this orb – which indeed is why it is called 'isotropic' (atlas), or the same in all directions. Therefore we can not measure the length of our normal day which is actually the 'day' of this isotropic orb (as we explained above in the previous section), and which also equals the Day of event. But rather we use this perceptible earthly day as a measure of other days, even though in itself it is an unknown duration of time. Although we divide it into 24 hours, each of which has 60 minutes of 60 seconds, all this is mere convention. We can not measure anything by its parts, so in order to measure this day, which is the period of the first orb, we need to compare it to other days 'before' it. But since it is the first day, we can not actually measure it: 'and when Allah created this first orb, it rotated a cycle which is unknown to other than Allah, the most Exalted, because there are no finite bodies above it, since it is the first transparent body' [I.122.29].

Moreover, Ibn 'Arabî also observes that since the isotropic orb has only one cycle, it can not be described as having an end, although we assume in it a beginning and an end [III.548.29].

In many cases Ibn 'Arabî calls this smallest, singular day 'the day of Breath' [II.520.33, III.127.335], and he even gives a measure of this day through the Breath: 'and the day is the magnitude of the breath of the Breather in the single time' [II.171.23]. This is because in this instantaneous 'Day' the divine creative 'Breath' emerges and returns to its Source, with its manifestation being the realm of all the divine 'letters', 'Words', or 'sounds' repeatedly produced by this Breath. As we shall see in section 7.8, Ibn 'Arabî visualizes the divine 'Word' as essentially composed of vibrations or sounds that are the 'letters' that form all the manifest objects and entities of the cosmos, just as letters form the words in human language. All words are composed of letters, and all letters are composed of the letter or initial out-breathing vowel sound alif, the first letter of the Arabic alphabet [I.78.22]. So in each single Day, this creative divine sound is produced by the divine Breath, and the manifest world is in reality the succession of these sounds or breaths. We shall explore this important issue in section 7.8 below. Also in section 6.8 we shall explain the creation scenario according to the Single Monad model of the cosmos.

2.16 Moments

In addition to the common Arabic words used for 'time' – zaman and zamân – al-waqt is also widely used, which means the state 'you are always described by, so you are always under the rule of the moment' [II.538.32]. We have already mentioned above the difference between zaman and zamân, and shown that Ibn 'Arabî uses them basically in the same context, although he tends to use zaman for fixed and short times, such as the Single Time. Al-waqt, however, sometimes has a different meaning and technical usage for Ibn 'Arabî. He notes that:

(this technical meaning of al-waqt) is in fact – by the convention of the Folk (the Sufis) – the state in which you are in the time being. So it is a thing that exists (now) between two non-existents (the past and the present; not as time but as things that have passed or are yet to come). And also it has been said that al-waqt is what comes upon them from the Real by (the Real's) managing (tasrîf) them, not by what they choose for themselves.

[II.538.35]

Ibn 'Arabi elsewhere gives many equivalent meanings of al-waqt. For example he defines al-waqt in his short dictionary of Sufi terms (Isstîlâhât Al-Sûfiyya: 8) by saying that: 'al-waqt is your state in the time being, without any relation to the past or to the future'. But at the end he says that the divine (ontological) basis of al-waqt is His, the most Exalted, describing Himself as being each day upon one task (50:29): so al-waqt is what He is in – in the root – but it appears in the offspring that is the cosmos. So the 'tasks' (shu'ûn) of the Real appear in the entities of the world (the contingent things). So al-waqt in fact is what you are in, and what you are in is your aptitude itself. So what appears in you of the tasks of the Real that He is in, is only what your aptitude demands: so the task is already designated, because the aptitude of the possible with its possibility led the task of the Real to bring it into existence. Do not you see that the non-existent does not accept the existence (or the task of the Real), because it has no aptitude for that. So the (outward, manifest) origin of al-waqt is from the cosmos, not from the Real, and it is a kind of supposition (taqdîr) and supposition has no effect (hukm) on other than the creation (i.e. it has no rule on the Real).

[II.539.2]

In this way al-waqt is the current moment of time; it is our portion of the single Day; so the single Day with regard to the whole world is the global reality encompassing all of manifest existence – including all on Earth – at any instant. But with regard to each entity in the world, it is a moment, since the time of each entity in the world is its waqt. This is why the Sufi was said to be 'the son of his moment (ibn waqtihi)', as indicated by Gerhard Böwering in his study of 'Ibn al-'Arabi's Concept of Time'. In this paper, Böwering also showed that 'In Ibn al-'Arabi's view there is an infinite cluster of moments, conceived as time atoms without duration, but they are mere instances of preparedness in which are actualized those possibilities that God has ordained to be affected in a human being' (Böwering 1992: 81).

However, the issue of whether the moment has a duration or not is extremely delicate. If we choose to say it has not, then how can the extent of the entire perceived day be composed of zero-length moments? We must keep in mind that the number of entities in the world (N), though very big, is finite. Therefore the single Day equals N multiplied by the duration of the moment. But if we choose to assert the actual duration of the 'moment', it would lead to questions already encountered in earlier philosophers' paradoxes about time, such as 'What exactly happens during the moment?' and 'Does the event that takes a moment pop up at once or gradually?' For if at once, then 'Why does it take a duration?' and if gradually, then 'What are the sub-events, and how many are they?'

Ibn 'Arabî did not give any direct insight about this subtle and highly important cosmological issue. However, in his cosmological treatise 'Uqlat Al-Mustawfiz, he spoke briefly about the Greatest Element (al-'unsûr al-a'zam) whom Allah created at once, and we shall show in section 6.4 that the Single Monad, though it is an indivisible unit, is composed of or made by (or from different manifestations of) this Greatest Element. Therefore, the moment (that corresponds in fact to the creation of the Single Monad) should also be composed of 'sub-moments' (that correspond to the creation of the Greatest Element). We can now affirm, according to Ibn 'Arabî, that those sub-moments are utterly indivisible because he said that Allah creates the Greatest Element 'at once'. The questions of 'Do those sub-moments have non-zero durations?' and 'How many sub-moments are in the moment?' remain open, though a first speculation is that the process is similar to the normal day where the Sun rises and sets to define the daytime and the night. There is some support for this in the comparison Ibn 'Arabî usually makes between the creation of the Perfect Human Being (that is the Single Monad) and the creation of the world, and more specifically the motion of the Sun during the day. We shall talk about this comparison in section 6.7. Therefore, the Day of the Single Monad (that is the moment) may look smooth and composed of a continuous flow of time. But it is quite possible that the same sets of questions may be repeated and similar quantization takes place at smaller scales.

When the Single Monad (that is the Universal Intellect) faces his Lord, this is the 'night' for the Universal Soul; and when the Intellect ('aql, masculine in Arabic) faces the Universal Soul (nafs, a feminine noun) this is her daytime [III.202.22], so this is the single Day of the Single Monad that is the Universal Intellect, and therefore the moments that are the days of the sub-entities of the world (which are the sub-intellects) should be also in the same way. But we have not seen any reference in Ibn 'Arabî's writings with any detail about the exact relation between the Single Monad and the Greatest Element, and hence about the moment and its possible constituents. On the contrary, Ibn 'Arabî affirms that this is a divine secret and that he was sworn not to disclose it ('Uqlat Al-Mustawfiz: 38).

2.17 The future, the present and the past

We have already said that the future and the past do not exist; the real time is only the present, the now (al-'ân) or the current state (al-hâl). Also, we explained that the Age is an endless circle that does not have a beginning or an end for itself; it is all an 'eternally ongoing present' which is called al-ân al-dâ'im or – as Ibn 'Arabî calls it elsewhere – 'the continuous existence' (al-wujûd al-mustamirr) [II.69.13, IV.362.32]. However, we live in time at the present now, and we feel the past and the future, so how can they be non-existence?

As we noted earlier, Ibn 'Arabî often explains that the essential realities [a'yân: the essences or entities] of the manifest world have always been existing in the Knowledge of Allah, though not actual real existence [II.309.25, I.538.32]. When Allah creates the world, it appears in real existence in the same reality as it is determined in Allah's knowledge. Allah does not create all the successive states of the world at once, but in a series process; so the creations are brought into existence one by one. Of course this is true in relation to us, but with relation to Allah, Who is out of time, the word 'series' would be meaningless because it is confined to time. For Allah nothing was changed because the creation existed in His knowledge eternally. So because we are sub-entities in this whole creation, we encounter time as past, present and future, but in fact only the present exists. The past is 'a relegation of an actualized non-existence', and the future is 'a pure non-existence' [II.69.13], whereas the present now (al-ân) or state (hâl) is 'what makes the distinction between them' [II.56.11], 'so without the (current) state (hâl) there would be no distinction between the past non-existence and the future non-existence, so the now (al-ân) is like a partition (barzakh)' [III.108.16]. 'Therefore the present state (al-hâl) is described by the continuous existence and it is the constant and immutable rule, and anything other than the present state is non-existence and could not be a firm (absolute) existence' [IV.362.33].

2.18 Eternity

As we have already noted, the English word 'eternity' has two different Arabic synonyms: 'azal' and 'abad'. Azal is eternity without beginning (a parte ante), and abad is eternity without end (a parte post). Ibn 'Arabî showed in his short treatise The Book of Eternity (Kitâb Al-Azal) that 'there is nothing called eternity at all' (Kitâb Al-Azal: 8–9). Eternity is in fact the negation of a beginning (or end), not endless extension: that is why Ibn 'Arabî says that eternity is a negative attribute. In this way there is no meaning to asking whether there has been any extension of time between the existence of Allah and the existence of the world, because Allah creates the world out of time, as discussed in section 2.3 above.

There has been a long debate amongst Islamic philosophers and theologians about the meaning of eternity and time with relation to Allah. Some philosophers say, for example, that Allah was talking in eternity in His eternal Speech, and that therefore He said in eternity 'take off thy shoes' (20:12) to Moses, and 'worship thy Lord until certainty comes unto thee' (15:99) to Muhammad, peace be upon them, and so on. They say that because clearly we can not say that Allah uttered these words at the time of Moses or Muhammad, therefore it must be an eternal speech. Ibn 'Arabî, however, showed in his Kitâb Al-Azal that all these interpretations are not proper, and that they end up confining Allah to time, which is a serious error: 'It is more proper to say that Moses heard out of time, because the Speaker spoke out of time. To let Moses become holy is better than letting al-Bâri' (the Creator) be compared to us' (Kitâb Al-Azal: 5, see also al-Masâ'il, no. 131).

So if we take the correct meaning of the word 'eternity', which is the negation of any beginning (azal), we may ask: was there anyone in eternity with the Creator or not? There has also been a long philosophical and theological debate about that, which Ibn 'Arabî summarizes by saying:

One group said: 'the primordials (qudamâ) are four: the Creator, the Intellect, the Soul and the Dust (al-haba')'.

Another group said: 'the primordials are eight (pre-existents): the Essence and the seven descriptions' (i.e. the seven primordial descriptions or attributes of Allah, drawn from earlier kalam theology: 'Life, Knowledge, Ability, Will, Hearing, Seeing and Speaking' [I.525.32]).

Another group said: 'nothing is primordial but One, and He is the exalted Real, and He is One in all aspects, but to His Essence (there is) an aspect by which He is called Able, and so on for whatever they have made a description'.

Another group took this (last) opinion, but they added to it a (new) concept. And this concept is called 'the Reality of Realities', which is neither existing nor non-existing, but it is primordial with the primordial and created with the created; it can be imagined, but it does not exist by itself, like universality ('âlamîyya) and so on.

(Kitâb Al-Azal: 8–9)

Clearly, the Sufis are among the last group, and Ibn 'Arabî in particular relates the beginning of creation to 'the Reality of Realities' (haqîqat al-haqâ'iq), and sometimes he calls it 'the Universal Reality' (al-haqîqa al-kullîyya) or 'the Muhammadan Reality' (al-haqîqa al-muhammadiyya). He stated in chapter 6 of the Futûhât that the beginning of the spiritual creation is the 'Dust', and that the first existent within it was the 'Muhammadan Reality of (divine) Mercy' (al-haqîqa al-muhammadiyya al-rahmâniyya) that is not confined to space, and that it is created from the 'Known Reality' (al-haqîqat al-ma'lûma) that can not be described by either existence or non-existence [I.118.5]. Ibn 'Arabî claims that only the Sufis have introduced the concept of 'the Reality of Realities' (haqîqat al-haqâ'iq), although he admits that the Mu'tazilites drew attention to something similar to this notion when they tried to escape the accusation that their understanding of the divine Attributes postulated the real existence of additional realities other than the Essence of the Real [II.433.14, SPK: 134–139].

2.19 The age

So the days are repeated cycles of different 'orbs', whether celestial or divine: every orb has its own day. These days overlap with each other, so the day of the Sun, for example, takes 360 days of our days that we count on the Earth; the day of the Moon takes 28 normal Earth days, and so on. In one Sun day, many Moon days pass; and in one Moon day, many normal Earth days pass – just as in one 'Lord-day', one thousand Sun days (Earth years) pass. Likewise, all the possible days of all orbs and divine Names happen and repeat themselves in the 'Day of the Age' that 'is one Day that never repeats, and it has no daytime (nahâr) or night' [III.202.5]. The Day of the Age is all a 'daytime': it does not have a night, because there is no orb above it; it is the truly all-encompassing orb that includes all material and spiritual orbs.

Ibn 'Arabî, like other Sufis, consider that 'the Age' (al-dahr) is one of the divine Names of Allah, according to a hadith in which the Prophet Muhammad says: 'Do not damn the Age, for Allah is the Age' [Kanz: 8137]. In another divine saying (Hadith qudsî), Allah says: 'the son of Adam hurts Me: he damns the Age, and I am the Age, the command in My Hand, I circulate the daytime and the night' [Kanz: 8139].

Also in the Qur'an, Allah says: 'and they say: What is there but our life in this world? We shall die and we live, and nothing but the Age can destroy us. But of that they have no knowledge: they merely conjecture' (45:24).

In his comments on this last verse, Ibn 'Arabî affirms that they (the disbelievers) are quite right in their claim that nothing but the Age can destroy them, because Allah is the Age – though they did not mean that, but rather meant simply time, and not 'the Age' as a name of Allah [IV.265.29].

We have seen above that 'the time of a thing is its presence': this is why Allah is named as 'the Age', because the realities of everything exist in Him. So He is 'the Age' because the whole world (hidden and manifest), including all space and time, from eternity without beginning (al-azal) to eternity without end (al-abad): all this is a manifestation of Allah's divine Names – so the Age is the all-encompassing orb of all Names [IV.266.11]. Ibn 'Arabî explains this by saying:

Do not you see in Allah's words (the Qur'an) when He told us about things in the past, He then used the past tense, and He used the future tense for things to come, and He used the present tense for the now-happening things, . . . and if we seek for all that something that has a real existence and these things are occurring in it – which is for them like a container – we shall find nothing, neither by mind nor by sense, except that we find it as an imaginary container, which is itself contained by another imaginary container, and so on, nothing but endless illusion. So if you think rationally, you will find that there is nothing (i.e. no 'containing' reality of space or time) that can be comprehended by imagination or by the mind, nor by the senses, nothing but the Real Existence on which our existence is based.

For this reason He named Himself to us as 'the Age', so that the reference can be only to Him, not to 'time' as imagined, because there is no Ruler (hâkim) other than Allah, and in Him appeared the realities of things and their properties. So He is the everlasting existence, and the realities of things with their properties appeared from behind the veil of His existence, but because of His subtleness (latâfa), we see the realities of things, which are ourselves, from behind the veil of His existence without seeing Him, just like we see the stars from behind the veil of the heavens (the orbs) and yet we do not see the heavens.

Moreover, given the above definition of the Age, it is not possible to imagine a plural form of this word in this meaning. Yet Ibn 'Arabî himself sometimes uses it as plural, when he speaks about the 'first age' or the 'age of ages' from which time appeared: 'from that (eternity) is the Prophet's saying: "Allah is/was, and none with Him" (Kanz: 29850), and this is a rare knowing known only by the "Solitary Sages" (al-afrâd) among men. That is what is called "the first age" and "the age of ages": and from this eternity (azal), time emerged' [I.156.35].

This could be slightly confusing, but there are some references in Ibn 'Arabî's writing that seem to parallel what is known in modern cosmology as the 'bubbles' model of the universe, where the universe is full of black holes that cause a large curvature in space-time in such a way that each can be considered as a separate space-time similar to – and as large as – our own; except that each is only a single point in our space-time. Thus Ibn 'Arabî affirms that 'each part of the world can be a cause for another world similar to it' [I.259.25]. Also Ibn 'Arabî considers that the origin of the world that we live in is the Universal Intellect, who is originally only one of an unknown number of roaming Spirits whom Allah created directly without any intermediaries [III.430.5]. Any one of these primordial Spirits is, therefore, capable of making another universe, just like the Universal Intellect that made our universe. Also we may recall that Allah in the Qur'an is repeatedly called the 'the Lord of the worlds', in the indefinite plural, and not only of this world. However, the Arabic word for 'the age' has also been conventionally used sometimes for other related meanings such as eternity without beginning (azal) and eternity without end (abad); so Ibn 'Arabî showed that the plural form 'ages' (duhûr) could also be used to include or refer to all these terms, since they all are essentially the Age [IV.266.5].

On the other hand, the Age is not only time, but it is also space. Because the Age is the totally 'encompassing orb', it must include everything inside it, spatial as well as temporal. As we shall show in section 3.6, the world as both space and time is created in the seven days of the divine Week (six Days for space, plus Saturday for time). And the Age is not more than those divine seven Days [II.438.5]. Thus in Ibn 'Arabî's conception, space and time have the same meaning as days, and both are unified as space-time, where the divine Week is its basic unit, and the Age is in fact this Single Week.

2.20 Other expressions of time

In addition to the common words such as time (zaman, zamân), moment (waqt), day (yawm), daytime (nahâr) night (layl), eternity (azal/abad) and the age (dahr), which we have discussed above, along with the related terms for week (usbû'), month (shahr) and year (sana), which we shall discuss in Chapter 3, there are other time expressions occasionally used by Ibn 'Arabî with slightly different and more specific technical meanings than in their usage by other Muslim scholars and theologians. We want to end this chapter by looking at some of these other temporal terms for the purpose of completeness, although we may not need to refer to these technical terms in the rest of this book. In particular, some of these expressions became important in later forms of Islamic thought which tried to elaborate and integrate Ibn 'Arabî's ideas, in various ways, with the conceptual schemas of both kalam theology and Avicennan philosophy.

- Al-sarmad: this is another word for eternity, other than al-azal, al-abad and al-dahr. Unlike kalam theologians, Ibn 'Arabî does not use this word often. Sarmad means 'absolute eternity', i.e. it includes both eternity without beginning (azal) and without end (abad). It is most widely used as an adjective, sarmadî, meaning 'everlasting', and this is how it is used in a very pertinent discussion of time in the Qur'an (28:71–72). Ibn 'Arabî normally used it [I.164.2, I.169.26, II.675.14, IV.29.27] in a similar manner.
- Matâ: literally this word means 'when?', and refers to the relation of a thing or event to time, or to other events. It is used to inquire about the time or occurrence of an event in relation to others. Ibn 'Arabî affirms that the thought of time comes about due to this kind of inquiry: 'So for example if one asks: when (matâ) did Zayd come? Then the answer may be "(he came) when (hîna) the Sun rose"' [III.546.28].
- Al-hîn: this is a (relatively short) duration of time [II.201.36, II.263.25]; it is also commonly used to refer to a specific future or past time [II.201.36], usually in answer to 'when', as in the previous example: '(he came) when (hîna) the Sun rose' [III.546.28].

3 The significance of the divine week and its seven days

*The elements are four mothers, and they are the daughters of the world of (the heavenly) orbs.
We are born out of them, so our (ultimate, spiritual) being is in the world of (spiritual) principles (arkân) and (spiritual) rulers.
The God has made our sustenance from the ears of grain (sanâbil),¹ from the influence of Sunbula (Virgo),² without sharing.³
And He also multiplied our reward by 'the seven ears of grain', as it was said in a saying (2:261) by One Who does not lie.⁴
So our time (zamân) is seven thousands (of years), that come through the recurrence of (moments) of radiance and intense darkness.
So see, with your intellect, seven in seven, from seven that are not kings.*

[I.292.31–293.3]

As Ibn ‘Arabî suggests in this cryptic opening poem of his key cosmological chapter 60 of the Futûhât (explained at the end of section 3.1), although we encounter many visible, apparent ‘days’ due to the rotation of the Earth around its axis, which all appear to be similar to each other, ultimately we can reduce them to only seven distinctive Days⁵ depending on the kinds of events that happen in them. Ibn ‘Arabî argues that in each Day of the seven Days of the (actual, cosmic) ‘Week’, Allah orders the heavenly orbs to act in a special unique manner that causes unique events and motions to appear in the entire cosmos. However, the seven Days of these divine, creative ‘events’ or ‘tasks’ (shu’ûn) are intertwined with our normal days of the apparent earthly week in a special manner that we shall explain in the coming chapter – and that is why we see multiple events appearing every day.

In various sections of the Futûhât, Ibn ‘Arabî goes on to explain the importance of the divine ‘Week’ (usbû’) and the different meanings of the seven Days of that Week, which are rooted in the meanings of the Arabic terms for each of those Days, running from ‘the First’ (al-ahad, corresponding to Sunday) to ‘the Day of rest’ (al-sabt, corresponding to Saturday). He also shows that Saturday is therefore the ‘Day of eternity’ (yawm al-abad) and that all the Days of the Week of creation, including Saturday itself, are actually occurring on this ‘last’ Day of eternity (al-sabt). These distinctive conceptions can only be fully understood after investigating Ibn 'Arabî's view of the actual flow of time, which we shall explain in the following chapter; but in this chapter we shall first explain the origin and the meaning of these seven Days of the divine creative Week, why they have to be seven and not more or fewer, and what is the significance of each Day.

Also in this chapter we shall explain Ibn 'Arabî's unique understanding of the process of creation of the world by Allah 'in six Days', from Sunday to Friday. He explains that the creation of the world in this Week corresponds to the creation of the 'six directions' of space (in six Days, from Sunday to Friday) and then the appearance of this creation in time on Saturday (the Day of eternity). In this way the Week is indeed the unit of the space-time container of the world – or also 'the Age' as we explained in section 2.19. This distinctive conception of the unification of space and time, symbolically expressed in Ibn 'Arabî's understanding of the seven Days of creation, adds an essential dimension to Relativity's concept of space and time; as a result, for the first time in astronomy, the 'Week' will itself have a clear and essential cosmological significance.

3.1 The significance of the week in theology and astronomy

In most Islamic books that talk about cosmology, we find many diagrams and tables that associate each day of the seven days of the week with specific letters of the alphabet and specific divine Names of Allah, in addition to certain planets and constellations or zodiacal signs. For example, Ibn 'Arabî explained in the long chapter 198 of the Futûhât [II.390–478] the creation of the world by Allah and the role of His divine Names on the different parts of Heavens and Earth, and then he relates each divine Name and the thing He creates to a letter from the Arabic alphabet, a mansion from the 28 lunar mansions (constellations), a day of the seven days of the week, and one of the seven circulating heavenly bodies (five planets, Sun and Moon). This type of symbolic association based on the days of the astronomical week is also found in many other cosmological books of other religions and cultures dealing with astrology and related mythology.

The Egyptians once divided their 30-day months into three ten-day weeks, in the same manner as Greeks of the same period (Goudsmit 1966: 24), but later they changed it back to seven days.⁶ More recently, the French (during the Revolution, in 1792) tried to make their week ten days instead of seven; and the Russians also tried (in 1929) five-day and (in 1932) six-day weekly systems, although they all later restored the seven-day week (Goudsmit and Claiborne 1974: 24).

So what is the importance of the week, and why does it apparently have to be seven days in particular, while most other attempted systems making the week three, five, six or ten days did not persist, with few exceptions such as the Maya who used weeks/months of 20 days (Aveni 1990: 101, 185–252)? Even some micro-organisms clearly adopt a seven-day biological cycle (Aveni 1990: 100, and Coveny and Highfield 1990: 220–259). And yet, unlike the day, the year and the month, there is no any apparent astronomical significance to the week; nothing cosmic happens in the heavens in seven days.

The Babylonians and the ancient Egyptians believed that each hour of the day was ruled by one of the five then-known planets plus the Sun and the Moon, and they named the days of the week after the names of these seven circulating planets, as they are now used in both the Latin and Anglo-Saxon languages and cultures (Aveni 1990: 102–106). They considered that the planet that ruled the first hour of the day governed the entire day, so they gave the name of this planet to the corresponding day. The same doctrine was also part of earlier Persian cosmology and theology (Bickerman 1968: 59). Ibn ‘Arabî also refers to the same hypothesis [III.203.31].

It is interesting to note that these celestial bodies, in the same sequence, were also used to name the days of the week in ancient India, Tibet and Burma (Parise 1982: 172). This is also true for the names of Japanese (who used the Chinese sexagenary cycles) (Parise 1982: 215–218) days of the week, but the custom there has been traced back only 1,000 years. Adherents of the cult of Sin at Harran, who were known as Harranians or ‘Sabeans’ by Arabic and Syrian authors, also named their days after the same solar system members (Langdon 1964: 154). Like Ibn ‘Arabî, the Babylonians, the Chinese, ancient Egyptians and most ancient civilizations considered the day named after Saturn to be the seventh day, so they began their week with a day named after the Sun (Sunday), a practice which was affirmed in the Bible⁷ and later by the Prophet Muhammad.⁸

In the Arabic linguistic usages followed in Islam, however, the names of the days of the week do not relate to the names of any pagan gods or celestial bodies. Before Islam, different names were used in Arabic, which were mostly derived from certain actions people usually performed on those particular days of the week, though some of those Arabic names might also have been derived from the names of the planets (Al-Marzûqî 2002: 238–244). But in the later standardized Islamic usage, apart from the day-names Jum’a (Friday) which means ‘gathering’ and Sabt (Saturday) which means ‘rest’, the names of the days are merely numbered from one (al-ahad which means ‘the first’ or ‘the one’, for Sunday) to five (al-khamis which means ‘the fifth’ for Thursday). These names, however, clearly suggest that Sunday (al-ahad) is the first day of the week, as was the case with the earlier Babylonians and Egyptians – a fact which Ibn ‘Arabî and some other Muslim authors normally take for granted, based on many related prophetic narrations, as we shall see further below (section 3.5).

Given their centrality in Qur’anic accounts of the creation, the seven days of the week (and their standard Arabic names) play an essential role in Ibn ‘Arabî’s cosmology. His cosmological understanding of the week clearly has its basis in the scriptural accounts of divine creation, but also assumes throughout that there must be some kind of corresponding deeper effects of that (i.e. the divine creation of the seven Days of the Week) in the wider cosmos.

Finally, although there are many similarities between Ibn ‘Arabî’s doctrine about the origin of the divine creative Week and its Days, and the cosmological perspectives and understandings of earlier ancient (mostly pagan) cultures, he also takes great pains to stress that this cosmological schema should not be understood as a deviation from the fundamental monotheistic teachings of Islam, and to indicate the ways that conception is rooted in indications in both the Qur'an and many hadith. Although Ibn 'Arabî's cosmology, for example, relates the seven days of the week and the orbs of the seven moving planets, as in many ancient cosmologies, he carefully emphasizes that he does not consider these planets as 'gods' at all. Thus he goes on to explain, in his explanation of the poem (quoted at the beginning of this chapter) opening chapter 60 of the Futûhât, that the planets and/or the angelic spirits associated with them 'are servants, and the servant does not deserve the name "ruler" (or "king": malik). And the "seven" mentioned (there) are the seven planets in the seven orbs that appeared by the seven Days of the Week' [I.293.4].

Following repeated indications in the Qur'an and Hadith, Ibn 'Arabî understands that those planets, along with other constellations associated with signs of the zodiac and lunar mansions, are associated with or inhabited by certain spirits (rûhâniyyât) or angels whom Allah appointed and organized in a specific hierarchy to look after the whole cosmos beneath them, including the Earth [III.433–434]. This is different from earlier cosmological doctrines, because the pagan astrologers believed that these spirits were deities and gods, while Ibn 'Arabî stresses that they are nothing but servants created and appointed by Allah.⁹

3.2 The four main time cycles

Ibn 'Arabî stresses that 'everything in the world has to be based on (specific) divine Attributes' [I.293.5]. Although some Muslim scholars, following a famous hadith [Kanz: 1933, 1937], believe that the basic divine Names or Attributes of Allah can be limited to 99, Ibn 'Arabî considers them to be countless [III.146.35], while the 99 Names that are referred to in some prophetic narrations are simply the main most Beautiful Names (al-asmâ' al-husnâ) of Allah. Of these many divine Names, there are four fundamental Attributes – Life (hayât), Knowledge ('ilm), Ability (qudra) and Will (irâda) – that are necessary and sufficient for Allah to be described as God. Therefore those are considered to be the ultimate sources or 'mothers' (ummahât) of all other divine Attributes [I.469.25]. In relation to creation, however, three more Attributes are also necessary for Allah to be Creator: Hearing (sam'), Seeing (basar) and Speaking (kalâm). Together, that makes the principal divine Attributes of Allah to be 'seven mother attributes. . . : Life, Knowledge, Ability, Will, Hearing, Seeing and Speaking' [I.525.32].

Because Allah created (the perfect) Human Being 'according to His Image' [I.163.20], these same divine Attributes are potentially manifest in every fully human person (such as Adam and the prophets). Also, as Ibn 'Arabî says, Allah created the world and everything in it in the image of (the Perfect) Human Being [II.652.25], and so the world with the Human Being is 'on the Image of the Real'

– but without the Human Being it would not have this perfection [III.343.25]. So these same attributes should be available and essential in the world as well. That is why, he explains, the numbers four and seven play a central role in the world: the four elements in nature (earth, water, air and fire, already mentioned in his poem opening this chapter), the four time cycles, the seven heavens, the seven days, and so on. The two cosmologically fundamental four fold groups that emerged out of the four ‘mother’ Attributes (Life, Ability, Will and Power) that are the four aspects of the divine Presence of the Essence (al-Dhât) are the four earthly elements (earth, water, air and fire) and the primordial cosmological principles of the Intellect, Soul, Dust and Nature, as in Figure 3.1.

This quadratic cosmological rule was also reflected in relation to time. Therefore, Ibn ‘Arabî points out, there are four main time cycles within the domain of manifest nature: the day, the week, the month and the year. These four natural time cycles have their origin in the effects of those four elements of Nature (fire, air, water, earth) that are originally derived from the above-mentioned four principal divine Names (‘the mothers’). As Ibn ‘Arabî says: time is restricted to the year, month, week and day. Time is divided into four divisions because the natural seasons are four, because the origin of the existence of time is Nature, whose level is below the (universal) Soul and above the ‘Dust’ (habā) that philosophers call the Universal Matter (hayūlā). The influence of this (principal) quaternity (tarbī) in Nature is from the influence of the (same principle of) quaternity in the divine influences from (the fundamental Names) Life, Knowledge, Ability and Will. For by these four (Names), godship is confirmed for the God.

Figure 3.1 The Divine Quadratic Rule.

Note

This figure is translated from the Futûhât [1.260].

So the quaternity (first) became manifest in Nature. Then the (divine) Command descended until the (principle of quaternity) appeared in the ‘biggest time’ (cycle), which is the year, so that it was divided into the four seasons: spring, summer, autumn and winter. This was brought about by the motion of the Sun through the stations (of the zodiac), which have been divided by Nature into their (seasonal) divisions according to the (natural) elements that are the ‘basic principles’ (of fire, air, water and earth).

[chapter 390, III.548.17]

3.2.1 The day

We have already discussed Ibn ‘Arabī’s concept of the ‘day’ in Chapter 2, where we showed that he defines the ‘day’ as all that is included within the revolution of the Isotropic Orb, which encompasses all of material existence. This day is astronomically defined by the rotation of the Earth and it is conventionally divided into smaller units such as hours, minutes and seconds (see also section 4.6). The divine Day, however, is the corresponding effects (manifestations) of each of the seven fundamental divine Names on the entire cosmos, as we shall see further below (section 3.4). This unique divine Day is in fact the smallest indivisible unit of time, though it equals in length the normal day as we discussed in section 2.15.

3.2.2 The week

The second time cycle is the week, which Ibn ‘Arabī – following the detailed Qur’anic indications – considers to be the main cycle of Creation. The week (which is seven days) has its origin in the seven main Attributes of Allah, but until now it does not seem to have any particular astronomical significance. However, Ibn ‘Arabī’s unique view, as explained below, gives a profound and essential significance to the Week in terms of astronomy/cosmology as well as the theology of creation. This will be the main focus throughout this chapter (see in particular section 3.3 below).

3.2.3 The month

Ibn ‘Arabī distinguishes between the witnessed lunar month, which is from new moon to another new moon, and the ‘divine Month’ which is the time needed for the Moon to perform one full revolution in the orb of the zodiac: that is, as Ibn 'Arabî says, 28 days [III.548.28]. He also recognizes the solar 'month' as the Sun's observed motion throughout the zodiac, where the zodiac is conventionally divided into 12 parts, each corresponding to one month [I.388.20], though he does not give any details about the length of solar months in terms of their days.¹⁰

3.2.4 The year

The year, for Ibn 'Arabî, is the time needed for the Sun to perform one full revolution in the orb of the zodiac [III.548.28], as witnessed from the Earth. Like the Babylonians,¹¹ Ibn 'Arabî considers the year to be 360 days [III.434.9], and not like our calendar year of 365.25 days.

Ibn 'Arabî regards our solar year and the solar (and lunar) month as conventions set up by human observers, while the 360-day year, the 28-day month, the (seven-day) week/Week, and the (sidereal) day/Day are divine periods of time set up by Allah when He created the heavenly orbs and made them move [III.548.27]. It is noteworthy in this regard that the 360-day year does not equal 12 of the 28-day months. These four time cycles that Ibn 'Arabî talks about are not meant for calendar purposes; they are said to be the actual measures of time set up by Allah when He created the world. Moreover, Ibn 'Arabî shows that this non-integer ratio is preordained and essential for the vastness of creation, because the creation is built upon the act of generation (takwîn), and with complete ratios no generation could happen; so there have to be integers and fractions [II.440.7].

The differences between the witnessed lunar month (synodic lunar month = 29.53 days) and the divine lunar month (of 28 days), and between the witnessed year (365.25 days) and the 360-day year, might be because of the interference of the different motions of the Sun, the Earth and the Moon. As the Earth spins around its axis it also rotates around the Sun, and as the Moon rotates around the Earth it also moves with the Earth around the Sun. These interfering motions may account for the difference. For example, if we measure the period of the Moon relative to those stars that are apparently fixed (this is called the sidereal lunar month), we get only 27.32 days (and not the usual 29.53 days, the observed lunar month). The divine lunar month for Ibn 'Arabî is 28 days because he measures that period in relation to the zodiac (far-away galaxies) or actually the Isotropic Orb, and not the orb of the Sun or the constellations [I.656.13], because those constellations are not actually fixed [III.549.3]. Also we have to know that the length of the observed earthly day varies from one place to another on the Earth and from summer to winter throughout the year, and that the normal solar year and the normal lunar month slightly vary from time to time owing to the influence of gravitation of other planets and stars that change their positions inside and relative to the solar system, respectively. Thus the mean solar day in the year 2000 is about 1.7 milliseconds longer than it was in 1900, and is slowly getting longer. There is a possible allusion in the Qur'an to such long-term changes in the length of the year and the month, where Allah says: 'The quantity of months with Allah is 12 months (in a year) by Allah's ordinance in the day that (when) He created the Heavens and the Earth' (9:36): in other words, it could be that the year started as 12 months each of 28 days, but that this then changed with time as the motion of the Earth slowed down and as the solar year became longer, and also as the lunar month became longer than 28 days.

In this regard, we should also notice that in Arabic there are two names for the year which do not appear to have identical meanings: sana and 'âm. Although both terms are currently used to refer to the year, it seems from the etymological meaning of those two names and from Ibn 'Arabî's and Qur'anic usage that the word sana means the original 360-day year, while 'am – which literally means 'entire' or 'full' – is the time needed for the Earth to make a full revolution around the Sun, which is the slowly lengthening conventional year now observed on Earth. In the Qur'an, Allah distinguishes between these two Arabic words in one verse that declares the time that Prophet Noah stayed with his folk: 'And verily We sent Noah unto his folk, and he continued with them for a thousand years (sana) save fifty years ('âm); and the flood engulfed them, for they were wrong doers' (29:14).

3.3 The week as the primary time cycle

While Ibn 'Arabî considers the Week (of Creation) to be the primary time cycle, only the week among these four cycles does not seem to have any apparent astronomical significance. We can say only that the week is one-quarter of the divine lunar month ($28 = 4 \times 7$). From the observed astronomical point of view, the day should be the primary time cycle, because it is the smallest standard period of time as far as the solar system and the Earth are concerned, and all other three cycles (as defined by Ibn 'Arabî) are integer multiples of the day, while the year is not an integer multiple of the week. However, we shall see that Ibn 'Arabî does not consider the day to be the primary cycle because the Days of the divine Week are not similar to each other, as they might appear to us. Since each Day of the Week is based on one of the seven fundamental divine Attributes of Allah, so these Days are not identical because those seven divine Attributes are not identical. Therefore the Week, rather than the day, is the primary cycle of divine time, and each day of the seven Days of that Week is ruled by one of the seven fundamental divine Attributes.

However, in keeping with Ibn 'Arabî's essential understanding of the 'ever-new creation', this does not mean that any particular day of this week is identical to that of another week. They are only 'similar' to each other because they are originated from the same divine Attribute. Ibn 'Arabî says:

Nothing is actually repeated, because of divine vastness (ittisâ'); so (everything) is in ever-new, not renewed, existence. Thus if we call the new (thing) 'renewed', that is because it is extremely similar (but not identical) to its counterpart, so that they can not be distinguished from each other ... and the daytime and night are called ‘the two-new’ (al-jadīdān), and not ‘the two-renewed’ (al-mutajaddidān), because Saturday is not Sunday and it is not Saturday from the other week, or from another month or from another year.

[III.127.23]

This is clearly evident in modern astronomy, because whatever periodical motions we see locally in our solar system are actually part of a more global motion that, in the end, never repeats itself in the same way, because everything is moving (see sections 1.1 and 1.4). In fact, Ibn ‘Arabī always stresses that there can not be any two identical forms in the world, and that this is because ‘Allah never manifests in the same form twice, nor in the same form to any two persons’ [III.127.33].

Therefore Ibn ‘Arabī maintains that ‘although there are many days, the real order of events reduces them into seven days’ [Ayyām Al-Sha’n: 6], which are the seven days of the week; and then these days iterate in months and years. And as we showed, this is due to the fact that ‘(the main) divine Attributes are seven, not more, which made the Age not more than seven (distinctive) Days’ [II.437.30].

However, the observed, earthly week and its days that we witness and live through do not seem to be distinctive in any natural way; as noted earlier, they appear to be purely conventional. The reason for that is the ‘intertwining’ between the underlying divine seven ‘Days’ of creation and the days that we live. This intertwining of the two kinds of days is a complicated concept that Ibn ‘Arabī explained partially in his short book Ayyām Al-Sha’n, and in a few passages in the Futūḥāt. We shall devote Chapter 4 to explaining the real flow of time as viewed by Ibn ‘Arabī, by defining three different types of days: the normal days, and the ‘taken-out’ days and the ‘intertwined’ days.

3.4 The divine origin of the seven days of the week

Therefore, Ibn ‘Arabī concludes, each Day of the seven Days of the divine Week has to be based on one of these seven basic divine Attributes:

So because Allah (Who is described by the seven fundamental Attributes) created the world according to His own Image [II.395.25], ... the Days had to be seven due to these (seven) Attributes and their rules, so the world appeared living, knowing, able, willing, hearing, seeing and speaking.

[II.438.19]

We have already shown in section 2.1 that ‘time’ for Ibn ‘Arabī is an imaginary attribute that is used to compare the chronological order of moving things. The day is actually a measure of the motion of the orb of the Sun, or more precisely the Isotropic Orb. And since motion is created by Allah, by creating events in the world, there are seven fundamental creative motions, or ‘Days of events’, each of which is originated from or ruled by one of these seven divine Attributes, and further associated with specific astronomical or astrological positions and figures apparently involved in the cosmological manifestations of those divine influences (see also the detailed outline of these associated symbols in Table 3.1 below):

(the motion of) the Day of Sunday was from the (divine) Attribute of Hearing,
 ... and the motion of the Day of Monday was from the Attribute of Living,
 ... and the motion of the Day of Tuesday was from the Attribute of Seeing,
 ... and the motion of the Day of Wednesday was from the Attribute of Willing,
 ... and the motion of the Day of Thursday was from the Attribute of Ability,
 ... and the motion of the Day of Friday was from the Attribute of Knowledge,
 ... and the motion of the Day of Saturday was from the Attribute of Speaking.

[II.438.7]

This relation between the seven Days and the seven main divine Attributes is not arbitrary. We notice that Sunday, which is the first day of the week (and in the creation, as we shall see in section 3.5), was from the Attribute of Hearing. This is because Allah started the creation on this day, and the first thing that is needed for the thing to be created is hearing, in order to hear Allah's creative command 'Be' [II.401.28]. Ibn 'Arabî states that everything can hear before it actually appears in the world, because everything has some sort of existence or determination in the foreknowledge of Allah before He actually creates it [II.400.7, see also section 2.3 above and section 3.6 below]. By hearing the command of Allah, the manifest world or cosmos starts to gain real existence after it had been existing in the foreknowledge of Allah. Therefore the world appears in existence as hearing, living, seeing, willing, able, knowing, and speaking; but it gains these attributes one by one in a special sequence that starts by hearing and ends by speaking – but not necessarily in the same order, owing to the 'intertwining' of those divine influences that will be explained in the next chapter.

As Ibn 'Arabî points out, we can also notice a similar sequence in the first stages of the development of the foetus and child's life: s/he acquires the first six attributes before birth, while speaking is acquired afterwards (see also section 3.6 below for more comparisons between the macrocosm of the world and microcosm of the true human being). This can be compared to the creation of the world by Allah 'Who created the Heavens and the Earth and all that is between them in six Days' [from Sunday to Friday, per IV.11.30], 'then He mounted on the Throne' [on Saturday, per IV.11.31] (25:59), with Saturday being associated with the divine Speaking. As Ibn 'Arabî indicates in this regard [III.108–109], Allah also says: 'The All-Merciful, (He) taught the Qur'an, (then He) created the Human Being, (then He) taught him speaking out (59:1–4), which indicates again that speaking came last. On the other hand, Ibn ‘Arabî affirms that the baby who is born after six lunar months may live to be quite healthy, and those six months are six lunar ‘days’.

So for Ibn ‘Arabî, the creation of the world, like that of the foetus, is completed in six Days: these correspond to the six directions: (up, down, right, left, front, back), and then on the Seventh Day (Saturday) it – both the world and the human being – continues living, changing from one state to another. That is why Ibn ‘Arabî calls Saturday the ‘Day of eternity’ as we shall see further below (end of section 3.5). So like the genesis of each human being, although we do not clearly recognize it, the world – with all what it includes – ‘appeared living, knowing, able, willing, hearing, seeing and speaking’ [II.438.19] in seven divine Days.

Like the ancient Babylonians and Egyptians, Ibn ‘Arabî also assigns a specific divine Day to each planet of the seven moving planets in the seven heavens [I.154–156]. In addition to that, he also assigns to each of these planets – following the detailed indications in certain hadith – the spiritual reality (rûhâniyya) of one particular prophet (Chittick 2002: 201–230). Furthermore, each one of these seven prophets always has a representative on Earth as one of the seven ‘Substitutes’ (abdâl) of the spiritual hierarchy, each one located in one region (iqîlîm) of the seven basic geographical regions of the Earth.¹² Ibn ‘Arabî always affirms that whatever happens on the Earth is preordained in the heavens day by day and hour by hour – through these spirits of the prophets and other angels who reside in the heavens – and received by their agents (nuwwab, s. nâ’ib) on the Earth, though he also affirms that there are always other unpredictable actions or events due to the direct relation between Allah and every entity in the world, which is distinct from those relations mediated through the First Intellect or the Soul [II.434.8].

Thus he explains that

He (the prophet Idrîs)¹³ told his friends that there are seven (spiritually perfect) Men called (the ‘Substitutes’ (al-abdâl, s. badal) by whom Allah keeps the seven geographical regions (aqâlîm); to each Substitute (is assigned) a region. They are looked after by the spirits of the seven Heavens, and each person of those (Substitutes) has power from the spirits of prophets residing in these Heavens. They (i.e. the prophets in the seven heavens) are Abraham (al-Khalîl, in the highest, seventh heaven of Saturn) then (in descending order) Moses, then Aaron, then Idrîs, then Joseph, then Jesus, then Adam, may Allah’s peace be upon them all. As for John (the Baptist), he alternates between (the heavens of) Jesus and Aaron. So (the divine knowledge) descends upon the hearts of those seven Substitutes from the realities of those prophets – peace be upon them!; and they are looked after by the seven planets by what Allah, the Exalted, entrusted (in those planets) through their rolling in their orbs and by what Allah entrusted in the motions of these seven heavens of secrets, knowings, and higher and lower effects. Allah said: ‘and He inspired in each heaven its mandate’ (41:12). So they have in their hearts in each hour and in each day what the possessor of this hour and the ruler of this day give away (to them).

[I.154.34]

Ibn ‘Arabî also shows elsewhere that the seven Days are ‘created’ by the corresponding seven divine Names, and those are not the same as the fundamental Names or Attributes that initiated their motion [II.442.5]. Each one of those seven creating Names also created the corresponding heaven, the prophet who is in it, as well as the planet within that orb, a specific letter from the Arabic alphabet, and one specific constellation where ‘the specific planet of this orb is first created by Allah and started moving in this constellation’ [II.445.5]. The relation between each heaven and the corresponding letter of the alphabet is that ‘this heaven has some (special) effect in the existence of these letters’ [II.445.3]. All this is summarized in Table 3.1, which is arranged from the First Day (Sunday) to the Seventh Day (Saturday).

The information brought together in this Table 3.1 provides essential keys to Ibn ‘Arabî’s cosmology, astrological symbolism, and understanding of the spiritual hierarchy. However here we are mainly concerned with the seven Days of the Week. It is particularly important to notice the ‘irregular’ relationship between the order of the days as we witness them (Sunday, Monday and so on) and the corresponding order of the seven heavens and the seven related regions on the Earth. The week starts with Sunday, from the middle (fourth, solar) orb, which is the heart of all orbs [II.275.31], then Monday in the orb of the Moon (the first, lowest heaven), then the fifth heaven, and so on. However, the corresponding order of Earth regions (‘climes’) goes from the fourth, seventh, third, and so on as in Table 3.1. Thus we can see that there is always a difference (separation) of three days between one heaven and the other that is directly above it. As we shall see in the coming chapter, Ibn ‘Arabî therefore distinguishes between the witnessed order of the days of the week and their actual flow in the heavens, and he calls this separation Salkh or ‘taking-out’ [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 7], a rare expression taken from the Qur’an (36:37). In interpreting that Qur’anic verse, Ibn ‘Arabî explains that there are three nights’ and three daytimes’ difference between the actual daytime and its own night that it was taken out of. This process of taking the daytimes out of the nights and vice versa is, in Ibn ‘Arabî’s view, the ultimate reason underlying the creation itself: for without it the world would not appear in existence in six dimensions [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 8–9]. This will be explained further in the following chapter with diagrams and illustrations.

3.5 The significance of each day of the divine week

Because of the importance of the Days of the Week of divine creation in Ibn ‘Arabî’s cosmology, he writes about them at length in the Futûhât and other books. In his mysterious book Al-Tanazzulât Al-Mawsiliyya (The Spiritual

Table 3.1 The correspondences between the seven days of the divine week and the seven heavens, seven earthly regions, divine names, lunar mansions and letters of the Arabic alphabet

Day number	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Arabic Day Names	al-ahad	al-ithnayn	al-thulāthā'	al-arba'a	al-khamīs	al-jum'a	al-sabt
English Day Names	Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
Divine Attributes	Hearing	Living	Seeing	Willing	Ability	Knowing	Speaking
Prophets' Names	Idrīs	Adam	Aaron	Jesus	Moses	Joseph	Abraham
Arabic 'Planet' Names	al-shams	al-qamar	al-marrikh	al-kātib	al-mushtarī	al-zuhara	kaywān
English Planet Names	Sun	Moon	Mars	Mercury	Jupiter	Venus	Saturn
Creating divine Name	al-Nūr	al-Mubīn	al-Qāhir	al-Muḥsi	al-'Alīm	al-Musawwir	al-Rabb
Prayer	Imām	Ma'mūm	'Ishā	'Asr	Zuhr	Maghrib	Subh
Constellation–Arabic	Simāk	Ikklīl	'Awwa	Zabana	Sirfa	Ghafr	Khirtan
Constellation–English	Arcturus	Corona	Bootes	Librae	Virginis	Cover	Mane
The Heaven	fourth	first	fifth	second	sixth	third	seventh
Earthly Region/Level	fourth	seventh	third	sixth	second	fifth	first
Arabic Letter	Nūn (ن)	Dāl (د)	Lām (ل)	Tā' (ط)	Dād (ض)	Rā' (ر)	Yā' (ي)

Note

The information in this table is extracted from chapter 198 of the Futūḥār [II.456–458] and Al-Tanazzulāt Al-Mawsiliyya

Inspirations at Mosul, Concerning the Secrets of Prayers and the Original Days), he devoted the last ten chapters to these divine Days and their relations with the heavenly orbs and the seven planets. However, it is not easy at all to extract a lot of information from this book because he intentionally used a very difficult language full of signs and secrets. However, some of his sayings there provide very useful information when we compare them to his statements in other books. For example, right in the full title of that book, we are led to understand that there are ‘original’ Days, as opposed to the normal witnessed days on Earth. We shall discuss in more detail the different types of days that Ibn ‘Arabî introduces and talks about there in the following Chapter 4, but what we shall now outline in the remainder of this chapter relates mostly to the ‘original’ Days of divine creation, which are ‘the Days of (divine) Events’, and not our normal witnessed days of the week.

To begin with, because each Day of the divine Week is ruled by a specific divine Name, it has to have a special significance related to this Name. This distinctive significance is not so apparent in the normal, ‘circulated’ days as it is for the original Days of Events as they were created by Allah. We shall first outline here the divine significance of each Day of the Week in the process of creating the macrocosm of the heavens and the Earth – and also the microcosm of the theomorphic human being (insân).

In addition to those general verses in Qur’an in which Allah states that He ‘created the Heavens and Earth in six days and then He mounted on the Throne’ (7:54, 10:3, 11:7, 25:59, 32:4, 50:38, 57:4) there are some details about what He created each Day in the verses at the beginning of the Sura Fussilat (41:9–12). These verses were explained further in one hadith where the Prophet Muhammad said:

Allah, the cherished and the glorified, created the first Day (event) in Sunday; and the earth was created on Sunday and Monday; and on Tuesday and Wednesday the mountains were created, the rivers were cleft, fruits were planted and in each earth its food was determined, then turned He to the heaven when it was smoke, and said unto it and unto the Earth: Come both of you, willingly or unwillingly. They said: We come, obedient. So He completed them seven heavens in two Days and inspired in each heaven its mandate (41:11–12), on Thursday and Friday; and the last of creation was in the last hours of Friday, and when it was Saturday there was no creation in it.

[Kanz: 15120]

So here we will briefly outline what Ibn ‘Arabî has to say about the significance – in the creation of both the world and the human being – of each Day of the original Days of the divine Week of creation:

3.5.1 'The first day' of creation (al-ahad, Sunday)

The Arabic name for Sunday, al-ahad, is also a Qur'anic name of Allah (112:1, etc.) which means 'the One', 'the Unique', the indivisible Unit. It is the first Day in which Allah started the Creation, so it is the first Day in the world [IV.11.31]. As we explained in section 2.3, the entities of the world were already eternally determined in Allah's foreknowledge, and by this state of pre-existence they gained the first fundamental divine attribute of 'hearing'. So the motion of 'Sunday was created from the Attribute of Hearing; that is why everything in the world hears the divine Command (Be! Kun) (even) in its state of non-existence' [II.438.8]. Allah said in the Qur'an: 'But His Command, when He intendeth a thing, is only that He saith unto it: Be, and (then) it is' (36:82). Therefore Allah creates by saying the command 'Be' unto the things even before their actual existence. Ibn 'Arabî, however, carefully distinguishes between the divine 'Saying' (qawl) and 'Speaking' (kalâm): 'By "Saying" the non-existent hears. (This is) like His saying "and our Command when We intend a thing is to say unto it 'Be'" (16:40). And by "Speaking" the existent hears, as in His saying "and Allah spoke to Moses, speaking" (4:164)' [II.400.7].

As we have already explained in earlier chapters, Ibn 'Arabî affirms that the motion of the Isotropic Orb determines only one Day, which is one cycle starting from when the first degree of Gemini is matching the Foot in the Pedestal (see section 2.4). So because the divine Pedestal is above the Isotropic Orb, which has no distinguishing signs, the length of the day cannot be known [II.437.34]. Although we on Earth normally measure the day by hours and minutes or by the time of the Earth's motion around itself, this is a mere convention – while the actual length of the day/Day is known only to Allah [I.122.28].

Ibn 'Arabî elsewhere explains that the Sun and its heavenly orb were created on Sunday [I.155.6, I.466.6, II.445.15]. This is because the Sun resembles the spirit [I.55.8, I.275.26], and the absolute Spirit (i.e. 'the real through whom creation takes place': SDK: 132–134) is the first appearance of the divine Real (in the Creation), so with the initial creative motion of this First Day, the 'point' (nukta) or zero-dimension (0-D, as we shall discuss the dimensions in detail in section 7.10) was defined. The Sun is in the central, fourth heaven from the Earth, and this heaven was created by the self-disclosure (SDK: 91, 103, also SDG: 47–57) of the divine Name 'the Light' (al-Nûr). Hence:

(the Sun) is the heart of the world and the heart of the (seven) heavens. Allah created it on Sunday, and He made it a place for the Pole of human spirits, Idrîs, peace be upon him. And Allah called this heaven 'a high place' (19:57) because it is a heart, although the heaven that is above it is higher (in physical place). But Allah meant the highness of status (makâna), so the place (makân) (of the fourth, central heaven) is high because of its status, and Allah created it in al-simâk (which is the central, fourteenth station of the 28 stations or 'mansions' of the Moon), and created its planet (the Sun) and its orb, and created the letter nûn (ن) out of it.

[II.445.15]

Ibn ‘Arabî then explains the relation and correspondence between the fourth heaven (celestial sphere) of this Day and the particular geographical clime on the Earth that was appointed to the corresponding figure from among the seven Substitutes (abdâl), and what are the particular ‘affairs’ that happen on – i.e. through the higher influences associated with – this Day:

Every affair of knowledge in the First Day is from the matter of Idrîs, peace be upon him! And every higher (celestial) effect on that Day in the elements of air and fire is from the orbiting of the Sun and its supervision which is entrusted to it by Allah, the Exalted. As for what comes from the effect on the elements of water and earth on that Day, (it) is from the motion of the fourth orb (containing the Sun). The (earthly) place of the (spiritual) person (badal) who upholds that influence among the climes is the fourth clime. So what is acquired, among the (divinely inspired) knowings, by this particular person among the abdâl (residing) in this region is the knowing of the secrets of the spiritual entities (rûhâniyyât: i.e. directing the heavenly spheres), the knowing of light and radiance, the knowing of the lightning and the rays (of light), and the knowing of every luminous material body – why it becomes illuminated, what is the (distinctive) constitution that gave it this receptivity (to luminosity).

[I.155.6]

Also in chapter 46 of Al-Tanazzulât Al-Mawsiliyya, Ibn ‘Arabî mentioned many mysterious details about this Day and his visit to the Pole of all spirits, the prophet Idrîs, in the orb of the Sun. This chapter (46) of the Tanazzulât – together with its following few chapters, and taken in conjunction with related passages from chapters 15 and 198 of the Futûhât – deserves a separate specialized study which is beyond the scope of this book. I have just mentioned some related passages for the ‘First Day’ above as an illustration of those mysterious allusions in the Tanazzulât, but in the shorter summaries from the Futûhât below will have to pass over Ibn ‘Arabî’s corresponding remarks for the other Days.

3.5.2 ‘The second day’ of creation (al-ithnayn, Monday)

Ibn ‘Arabî says that ‘the motion of Monday was created from the (divine) Attribute of “The Living One” (al-Hayy), and through it life was in the world, so everything in the world is living (i.e. starts to become living, on Monday)’ [II.438.9]. Then he explains that the Moon, which corresponds to the ‘Second Day’ of Creation, is in the first celestial sphere above the Earth:

And the divine Name ‘The Clarifying One’ (al-Mubîn) was intent on bringing into existence this lowest heaven and its planet (the Moon) on the Second Day, in the (lunar mansion) of Iklîl (‘the Crown’, which is the seventeenth station of the 28 lunar stations), and the letter dâl (د) is from the motion of this orb.

[II.445.30]

The Moon is the fastest moving planet in the heavens, moving through one lunar mansion every day, so it goes through all 28 lunar mansions in its day, which equals 28 Earth days (according to Ibn ‘Arabî, as explained in section 3.2). Ibn ‘Arabî explains that from this motion the 28 letters of the alphabet are created, regardless of how they are written or spoken in different languages [II.448.4] (i.e. the sounds). Allah made this first (lowest) heaven the place for the first prophet Adam, since he is the (first manifestation or exemplar of) the Perfect Human Being.

The Moon – in keeping with its association with Adam (the emblematic human being) – resembles the soul [I.499.5], and it is the second state of the appearance of the Single Monad, after the creation of the spirits (angels), which are purely spiritual creatures. That is why Adam himself lectured Ibn ‘Arabî about the directions when he visited him in the orb of the Moon (Al-Tanazzulât Al-Mawsiliyya: 261) – because through the creation of his Day (Monday) the space and the six directions started to form.

3.5.3 ‘The third day’ of creation (al-thulâthâ, Tuesday)

And for the motion of Tuesday Ibn ‘Arabî says that it was created from the divine Attribute ‘Seeing’ (basar): so there is no part of the world but that it is witnessing its Creator – i.e. in relation to its own individual essence, not the Essence of its Creator [II.438.10], because the Essence of Allah, the Creator, may not be seen, He may be seen only through the manifestation of His Attributes (Names) throughout the Creation as we shall discuss in more detail in section 5.5. Ibn ‘Arabî then adds that

The divine Name ‘the All-Prevailing’ (al-Qâhir) was intent on bringing into being the third heaven (the fifth from Earth); so He caused its (distinctive spiritual) reality to appear, along with its planet (Mars, al-marrikkh) and its sphere, and He made it the dwelling for Aaron. . . . The existence of this planet and the motion of its sphere were in the lunar mansion ‘Awwa’ (which is the thirteenth station of the 28 Moon stations) on Tuesday. . . . And from the motion of this sphere appeared the letter ‘lâm’ (ل).

[II.445.8]

3.5.4 ‘The fourth day’ of creation (al-arba‘â, Wednesday)

For Wednesday he says that ‘the motion of the Fourth Day came into existence from the (divine) Attribute of Willing (al-irâda), so there is no part of the world but that it is seeking to glorify the One Who gives it existence [II.438.11].

Mercury is in the sixth sphere from the Earth, and this heaven was created through the (self-disclosure of the) divine Name ‘the Enumerator’ (al-Muhsi). Allah created this heaven, its planet (Mercury), the Fourth Day (Wednesday), and letter tâ’ (ط) in the lunar mansion of the constellation Zabana (which is the sixteenth station of the 28 Moon stations), and He caused Jesus to dwell there [paraphrasing II.445.26].

3.5.5 'The fifth day' of creation (al-khamīs, Thursday)

And the motion of the Fifth Day (Thursday) came into existence from the (divine) Attribute of Ability (or 'Power', al-quḍra), so there is no part of existence but that it has been enabled to praise the One Who gives it existence [II.438.16].

Jupiter (al-mushtarī) is in the sixth heaven from the Earth, and it and its sphere were brought into existence through the self-disclosure of divine Name 'the All-Knowing' (al-ʿAlīm). Allah created this heaven, its planet, the Fifth Day and the letter dād (ض) in the lunar mansion of the constellation Sirfa (which is the twelfth station of the 28 Moon stations), and He made it a dwelling place for the prophet Moses [paraphrasing II.444.25].

3.5.6 The sixth 'day of gathering' (al-jumʿa, Friday) and its special hour

Friday holds a special importance for Muslims and especially for Ibn ʿArabī, who says that in this Day our Tablet (i.e. the souls) received its secrets from its Lord, through the pens (i.e. the intellects). Ibn ʿArabī then says that 'the motion of the Day of Gathering (Friday) came into being through the (divine) Attribute of Knowledge: so there is no part of the world but that it knows the One Who gives it existence, with regard to its own essence, not the Essence of the One Who gives it existence' [II.438.13].

Venus is in the second sphere of the heavens from the Earth and this heaven was brought into existence by the self-disclosure of the divine Name 'the Shaper' (al-Musawwir, the One Who gives form). Allah created this heaven, its planet (Venus), the Day of Gathering (Friday), and the letter rāʾ (ر) in the lunar mansion of the constellation Gafr (which is the fifteenth station of the 28 stations of the Moon), and He made it a dwelling place for the prophet Joseph [II.445.23].

Before the advent of Islam, the Arabs called Friday ʿUrūba ('the day of beauty and adornment') [I.645.25], because it was a distinguished day in which people meet. But in Islam Friday is called al-jumʿa ('the Day of Gathering') because that is the day people gather in prayer in one mosque. Ibn ʿArabī, however, gives another explanation of the deeper ontological meaning for Jumʿa. On this Day Allah created the Human Being (Adam) in His Image, so on this Day Allah 'gathered together' (Arabic verb jamaʿa) the form of the Truly Real (al-Haqq) and the form of all creation in the theomorphic human being (insān), so that is why this Day is called Jumʿa [I.643.27]. And this special divine 'gathering' of the theomorphic human being has occurred on a specific hour of this Day, which made this whole Day holy, noble and the best of all Days.

Ibn ʿArabī affirms that Allah created humanity (Adam) on Friday [I.466.15], following a well-known hadith in which the Prophet Muhammad said: 'The best Day the Sun rises on is Friday: Adam was created in it, he entered into Paradise in it, he was taken out of Paradise in it, and the Hour (of the Resurrection) will only come on Friday' [Kanz: 21050].

Ibn 'Arabi goes on to explain, on the basis of another hadith [Kanz: 21063], that some people argued about the best day of the week to celebrate or commemorate God in, and that the people of the three major religions each followed a different way, especially since Allah did not specify which day is best, but left it for them to discover:

So the Christians said the best of days – and Allah knows best – is the First Day (Sunday), because it is the day of the Sun and it is the First Day in which Allah created the heavens and the Earth and what is between them. He started the Creation in it due to its pride over the rest of the days. So they took it as a festival. . . . And the Jews said: 'But it is Saturday, because Allah completed the Creation on Friday and He rested on Saturday.' . . .

Then for this community (of Islam) Gabriel came to Muhammad, may Allah have peace and mercy on him, with the Day of Jum'a in the form of a polished mirror in which there is a spot (nukta), and he said unto him: 'this is the Day of Jum'a and this spot is an hour in which no Muslim servant happens to be praying (when it comes to pass), but Allah shall forgive him' [Kanz: 21063]. So the Prophet Muhammad, may Allah's peace and mercy be upon him, said: 'So Allah guided us to what the people of the Book disagree about, which is the divine explanation with the mirror' – and he assigned the guidance to Allah. And the reason behind its superiority is that it is the Day in which Allah created this human kind, for whom He created the creatures from Sunday to Thursday, so it has to be the best of times. And the creation (of human kind) was in this Hour which appeared as a spot in the mirror. . . . And this Hour in the Day of Jum'a is like the night of destiny [laylat al-qadr, which according to Qur'an, is better than a thousand months (97:3)] in the year.

[I.466.6]

So, he concludes, that is why Allah chose this Day over the other Days:

As He, the Exalted, did with all the existents, He has chosen as the best one thing from each kind. He has chosen as the best from the Beautiful Names the Name 'Allāh'; He has chosen as the best from the people the prophets; He has chosen as the best from His servants the angels; He has chosen as the best from the heavenly spheres the (divine) Throne; He has chosen as the best from the elements water; He has chosen as the best from the months Ramadan; He has chosen as the best from worshipping fasting; He has chosen as the best from the centuries the century of the Prophet Muhammad, may Allah have peace and mercy upon him; He has chosen as best from the Days the Day of Gathering (al-jum'a); He has chosen as best from the nights the Night of Destiny; He has chosen as best from (good) deeds the prescribed deeds (al-farā'id); He has chosen as best from the numbers the number 99 (in the hadith on the 99 'Most Beautiful Names' as mentioned above).

[II.169.5]

Then Ibn ‘Arabî goes on to explain why Allah has chosen as best these particular things in each kind. With regard to the Day of Gathering, he says:

As for (the reason) for His choosing Friday as best from the Days (of the divine creative Week), that is because in it the Two Forms appeared [i.e. of the cosmos and of the theomorphic human being, in their final perfected state]. Allah made that Day (of the Gathering) for the form . . . , and it is (uniquely) a feminine Day, for which is the beautiful adornment and the completion of the creation (through Adam).

And [alluding to the hadith just cited above] Allah has chosen an Hour of its hours that is like a spot in the mirror. That is the place (of manifestation for) the form of the one [i.e. Adam, as the emblematic fully human being and divine vice-gerent] who is disclosed in the mirror of this Day. Thus He/ he sees in it/him H/himself.¹⁴ And through that Form [of all human being] that appears between the mirror (of creation) and the One Who looks in it, there takes place the (divine) Addressing (of each human soul) and the imposition of responsibility (taklîf: on each human being).

[II.173.15]

So this Hour is the most precious hour, because in it the divine Form of the Real (al-Haqq) and the form of the theomorphic human being meet together (yajtami’ân from the same Arabic root as al-jum’a), and by this ‘gathering’ the Real is manifested – and at last perceived – in the Creation in the most perfect form, which is the form of the perfect human being. In another passage, Ibn ‘Arabî explains this further:

And there is no Day among the Days (of Creation) more perfect than the Day of Jum’a, because in it there is made manifest the Wisdom of (God’s) Capability, through His creating on that Day the human being whom Allah created on His Image. So there remained no (more) perfection for the divine Capability to create, since nothing is more perfect than the Image of the Real (sûrat al-Haqq). . . .

Now since God specially distinguished (this Day) by that ‘Hour’ which does not belong to any other Day – and time (zamân) is nothing but those Days – therefore this Hour does not pertain to any other times but to the Day of Jum’a. It is one part of the 24 parts of the Day, and it is in the half of the Day which is called daytime (nahâr). So it is in the manifest dimension (zâhir) of that Day, and in the inner dimension (bâtin) of human being, because the outer dimension of human being corresponds to the inner dimension (night-time) of the Day, while the inner dimension of human being corresponds to the outer dimension (daytime) of the Day.

[I.645.26]

Ibn ‘Arabî also comments on the imperative question of whether this Hour is fixed, or is floating all over the Day, so that each Week it comes at a different time, since the original hadith above [Kanz: 21063] did not give any explicit indication of its exact location 'in' the Day of Gathering. Ibn 'Arabî, in any case, does not rule either possibility. He suggests that, if we have to take the strict sensational meaning of the analogy between the Day and the mirror and the forms that appear in them, then that specially chosen Hour would be fixed. But, if we want to take it as an abstract meaning in the imagination, without moving it into the world of senses – which is quite plausible in this context – then we could say that it may be floating all over the Day of Gathering. So he affirms that both possibilities are plausible and that the issue may not be resolved without a further divine specification [I.466.17]. However, because it denotes the creation of the Human Being as the Image of the Real, this Hour must be fixed (on the Day of Gathering) among the original (divine) Days that are the 'Days of events', although it might be floating in the normal 'circulated days' that we actually experience, because they are 'intertwined' with the 'Days of events'.

3.5.7 The seventh 'day of rest' (al-sabt, Saturday) as the 'day of eternity'

As for the last day, Ibn 'Arabî says that 'the motion of Saturday was created from the (divine) Attribute of Speaking (kalâm), so everything in the existence glorifies in thanks of its Creator, but we do not understand their glorification' [II.438.16]. Obviously Ibn 'Arabî is referring here to the verse 'the seven heavens and the Earth, and all beings therein, declare His glory: there is not a thing but celebrates His praise; and yet ye understand not how they declare His glory! Verily He is Oft-Forbearing, Most Forgiving!' (17:44). We shall also see in section 7.8 that the world essentially is the 'words' (i.e. the vibrations) generated by its entities on the smallest scale. This is true for whatever we hear, see, smell, taste and everything physical – all are the 'words' spoken by the entities of the world. This seems to cope very well in accordance with the recent theory of Superstrings.

Elsewhere Ibn 'Arabî says:

Saturn (Kaywân) is in the seventh sphere from the Earth, and this heaven was created by the (self-disclosure of the) divine Name 'the Lord' (al-Rabb). Allah created this heaven, its planet and the 'Day of Rest' (al-sabt, Saturday) in the lunar mansion of the constellation Khirtân (also called al-Zabra, and it is the eleventh mansion of the 28 Moon mansions), and He made it a dwelling place for the prophet Abraham.

[paraphrasing II.442.21]

Saturday bears a very important and unique meaning for Ibn 'Arabî, since he considers it to be the Day of eternity. This concept is initially mysterious, but extremely important, since Ibn 'Arabî mentions it many times in the Futûhât and other books and considers it as an undisputable fact.

In his Al-Tanazzulât Al-Mawsiliyya, he asserts that: 'Saturday passes through the existent things like number does in the countable things, permanence in the permanent things, and standing in the standing things; it is not non-existing nor existing, and not present nor absent' (Al-Tanazzulât Al-Mawsiliyya: 339).

This description is also like the strange properties of the 'Universal Reality' (haqîqat al-haqâ'iq, 'the Reality of Realities') that he introduces to connect the divine properties of the Real with the properties of the Creation. By way of clarification, he then goes on to explain that

The whole world (as kinds and species, including metals, elements, plants, animals, angels, jinn and humans) from its beginning to its end was formed in six Days, from the beginning of (the night) of the First Day until the end of the Day of Gathering (Friday), and there only remains Saturday for changing from one state to another and from one rank to another, and for transmutation from one being to another, constantly. . . . That is why the 'rulers' (in terms of higher astrological or cosmological influences) on this Day are cold and dryness (so that they will be able to hold the picture in imagination in order to feel the continuous presence, as will be discussed in section 5.6), and among the planets: Saturn. So this Day alone was a circumferential orb whoever moves in it will know the Identity, the Attributes, the Actions and the Effects.

[I.61.13]

This alludes to the three types of divine Names: the Names of Essence (asmâ' al-dhât), the Names of Descriptions or the Attributes (asmâ' al-sifât) and the Names of Actions (asmâ' al-af'âl) [I.423.20, I.67.28; K. al-Masâ'il: 97] and the 'Effects' here are the entire Creation. So Ibn 'Arabî says that the one who moves with the orb of Saturday will know the Real and the Creation. This is in fact the description of the spiritual 'Pole' – like Ibn 'Arabî himself – who is therefore 'out of time' (see also section 2.7), because he already knows that he witnesses the real Day of Saturday.

Ibn 'Arabî even explicitly calls Saturday the 'Day of Eternity' (yawm al-abad: al-abad being eternity considered as extending eternally 'into the future', as opposed to al-azal or 'beginningless eternity') quite often in his writing. For example, in the Futûhât he says:

And so the Day of Eternity starts which is Saturday (al-sabt), and al-sabt means 'rest'; it is the seventh Day, and it has no end. No sense of weariness touched the Creator in creating what He did. So Saturday was the Day of being finished with the creation of the levels of the world, but there still remains for Allah the creation of what this world requires of the states (for every individual creature), which are eternally endless and without limit.

[III.192.20]

He also named chapter 53 of Al-Tanazzulât Al-Mawsiliyya 'On the Inner (Spiritual) Knowing that Saturday is the Day of Eternity, and it is the Day of Transmutations'. Saturday, therefore is the 'Day of Rest' (as its name in Arabic, al-sabt, also indicates), because Allah has finished the creation (of all the cosmos and human being) on Friday, so that there remained nothing new to be created – except for the endlessly changing states of all the creatures in time.

Thus Ibn ‘Arabî affirms that

Allah created the world in six Days; He started on Sunday and finished by Friday, and no sense of any exhaustion touched Him; nor did He get weary from creating the creatures. So when it was the seventh Day of the week and He had finished creating the world, He looked like someone who is taking a rest from weariness. So He reclined and put one leg over the other and said: ‘I am the King’, as narrated in the prophetic sayings, so this Day is called al-sabt, which means ‘the Day of Rest’. It is the Day of Eternity, because in this Day the individuals of every species are formed in the world and in the hereafter.

There are only seven Days, and each Day has a ruler (wâli) designated by Allah. So when the matter/Command ended up on Saturday, Allah assigned it to a ruler with the ability to stabilize and fix, so he can stabilize the forms (of all the creatures) in the ‘Dust’ (al-habâ’, of the barzakh or divine Imagination). So the daytime (nahâr) of this Day – i.e. the Day of Eternity – is for the people of the Gardens, and its night-time is for the people of the Fire: so there is no evening (end) for its daytime, and its night-time has no morning.

[IV.11.30]

Then Ibn ‘Arabî mentions the story of his encounter with the (spirit of) al-Sabtî (lit.: ‘the Saturday man’) who is Muhammad, son of the famous Abbasid caliph Harûn al-Rashîd, whom he met in Mecca one Friday while circumambulating the Kaaba, and asked him: ‘I knew that you were called al-Sabtî because you worked every Saturday for what you ate during the rest of the week . . . so why did you choose Saturday from the rest of the days of the week?’ Al-Sabtî replied:

This is a very good question. I knew that Allah started creating the world on Sunday and finished on Friday, and on Saturday He reclined and put one leg over the other and said: ‘I am the King’; that is what I heard in narrations when I was in this world. So I swore to work like that.

[IV.11.35, see also Al-Tanazzulât Al-Mawsiliyya: 340]

So he worked on Saturday and rested (to devote himself to worship Allah) in the other six days. So Allah’s work of the creation was done in the six Days from Sunday to Friday, and the ‘Day of Eternity’ is for us to work and develop through the path leading to our ultimate destination.

On the other hand, the fact that the seventh Day was created through the divine Attribute of Speaking reminds us that the very First Day was created through the divine Attribute of Hearing. Ibn ‘Arabî typically points out that this all together is like a circle: since the world is created through divine Speaking

(the Command 'Be'), so the creatures first needed hearing in order to hear that existentiating Command. Because human beings are – at least potentially – uniquely created in the fully theomorphic Image of Allah, He granted them something of the Attribute by which He creates things, so they in turn can create through 'speaking': these are, for example, the meanings one creates in the soul of the hearer when one speaks. And because creation is in the end a divine act, the Prophet Muhammad says that 'Allah is by the tongue of every speaker' [Kanz: 7842; see also IV.187.19, IV.292.32]. So this brings us back to the initial receptive state of 'Hearing', because everything in the world is at the end perceived through vibrations, even the visible and other things. Therefore, the creation takes place always, at every moment in time and in every point of space. In terms of the same divine creative cycle of the seven Days explained above, the world is re-created every moment in six Days (from Sunday to Friday) and displayed on the seventh Day (Saturday). Indeed in terms of Ibn 'Arabî's famous theory of the oneness of being, the speaker is in fact Allah, and the hearer is also nothing other than Allah [II.367.16]. Ibn 'Arabî frequently expresses this paradoxical reality in language referring to the forms of the ritual prayer, as when he says: 'Thus Allah says by the tongue of his servant (as he says during the prayer) 'Allah hears who praised Him'; and then the servant says 'Our Lord, to Thee is the Praise!', not to me' [II.367.14]. Also he concludes: 'You praise Yourself (on the tongue of every speaker), and You hear Your words. Because the Praise is only for Allah and by Allah [I.112.32, alluding to Qur'an 1:1].

One final aspect of Saturday is that Ibn 'Arabî also describes it as 'the fruitless Day' (al-yawm al-'aqîm; 22:55), which is a result of its being the Day of Eternity:

Now the fruitless is that from which nothing is born, so it does not have a birth of its kind. So (Saturday) is called 'fruitless' because at the end there is no Day after it, and this refers to Saturday from the (divine creative) Week, which is the Day of eternity. Its daytime is all light for the people of the Gardens eternally, and its night-time is all darkness for the people of Gehenna, also eternally.

[III.564.22]

3.6 Space-time and creation in six days

So this means that we – along with all of manifest creation, at all times – are now living in this 'Seventh Day', but the riddle is how we can at the same time still be viewing the other Days of the week, including Saturday itself. Ibn 'Arabî himself remarks that 'it is rather amazing that the Days, among which is Saturday, are (all) happening in Saturday; because it is one of these Days and they are appearing in it' [II.444.7]. But he says that this is ultimately plausible, and he gives the striking example from the famous divine saying describing Adam when Allah showed him his progeny, including himself, in His Hand – while at the same time he was outside looking on at that [II.444.14; Kanz: 15123].

The fact that Saturday is the 'Day of eternity' suggests that the time that we live is only Saturday, so that the other six Days (of events) of the (original) Week could account for space, and not time; this is also supported by the observation that the usual word for 'day' in Arabic (yawm) also bears the meaning of 'direction'.¹⁵ If we add this to what we have just said above about the oneness of being, and that the act of creation 'in one Week' actually takes place at every moment of time, then we can easily come to a very important conclusion that the actual Week and its seven distinctive Days make up a unit of space-time, and not time alone. In the first six Days, space is created with its six directions (three dimensions) and then it is displayed ('in time') on Saturday. We do not feel the creation in the six Days because we are being created but not yet, and we only feel ourselves created on Saturday, which is why it is the Day of eternity. As Allah said in the Qur'an: 'I called them not to witness the creation of Heavens and the Earth' (18:51), which He created in six Days, from Sunday to Friday. But when this initial stage of creation is over and Allah the All-Merciful 'mounted on the Throne', changing the creation from one state into another, then and only then, on Saturday, do we realize ourselves and also realize the world (of space) that was created in those preceding six Days.

Ibn 'Arabi declares in many passages that the world is constantly being re-created on every single 'Day of event' (see section 5.6). And the Days of events are seven, based on the central divine Attributes of Allah. So the creation of the world by Allah is a seven-step process: in each Day of those seven Days of events the world gains the qualities and manifestations of the corresponding divine Attribute. Thus on the First Day, the world (which had already been determined eternally in the foreknowledge of Allah) hears Allah's command: 'Be', so it moves from the 'absolute Unseen' into the first step of existence which has no dimension yet (0-D), like the geometrical point (nuqta); it is the first real Image of the Real (al-Haqq), Allah, the Exalted, and thus it is called 'the real through whom creation takes place' (SDK: 132), and this is the 'Greatest Element' (see sections V6.2 and 6.5). So 'the Real' is a name of Allah and this Greatest Element. Then, on the Second Day, the world becomes living, and by that the creation of angels from the divine Light takes place (1-D), as will be discussed in more detail in section 7.10. Then on the Third Day it can witness its Creator (with respect to its being His creation), while on the Fourth Day it becomes willing to magnify¹⁶ its Creator (and by that the creation of the jinn takes place), and on the Fifth Day it is able to do so. Finally, on Friday – or by the 'last three hours' of Friday, when the Human Being is created¹⁷ – the world will actually know its Creator (again with respect to His act of creation, not in Himself): and this happens only by creating the Human Being (Adam), who is in respect to the world the Spirit is for the true Human Being [I.118.8, III.363.3].

By these six Days the world is completely created as a Single Monad who is also the 'Complete Human Being', including heavens and Earth, mind and soul, spirit and body. Then on the seventh Day this picture of the complete world will be held in the imagination of the human being, because it is an imaginal form that will intrinsically cease to exist right in the second moment ('Day') after its creation, to be instantly re-created in a new form. That is why, Ibn 'Arabi explains, Allah appointed as the 'rulers' on Saturday the essential qualities of coldness and dryness, so that this cosmic image may appear to be continuous [I.61.15]. So our imagination holds a new picture of the world, every 'Day' (moment), and by comparing between those succeeding pictures, the imagination perceives the motion or change in space and time, since Allah never manifests in the same form twice or to two perceivers [I.679.7, II.77.27, II.616.3]. This is also the meaning of the verse: 'each Day He is in a (different) task' (55:29), which Ibn 'Arabî uses more frequently than any others from the Qur'an to corroborate this particular ontological view.

It has to be noticed however, that, in every Week of Creation, only one 'point' of space-time is created, and that is the point where the observer is – or rather, the observer himself is also created at that point in space-time. The observer perceives other points of space and time because they have been held somehow within the 'Dust' (habâ') of the divine cosmic Imagination (barzakh, khayâl, etc.).

Therefore, Ibn 'Arabî explains the verse in Qur'an: 'Your Lord is Allah Who created the heavens and the Earth in six Days, then He mounted on the Throne; He draweth the night as a veil over the Day, (7:54, see also other similar verses in Qur'an: 10:3, 11:7, 25:59, 32:4, 50:38 and 57:4) as indicating that the creation has been completed in six Days, from Sunday to Friday, by creating Adam (the cosmic Human Being) on Friday; and then 'He established Himself on the Throne' on Saturday when nothing new is to be created, but only changing the states of the creatures – until the Day of Judgement, and after that either in the Gardens or in Gehenna – so this is the Day of eternity. Yet the heavens and the Earth are constantly being re-created every moment: therefore the same Week and Days of creation, including Saturday, are continually reiterating throughout Saturday, at every moment.

So if we think of the whole of manifest creation (the cosmos or 'world') throughout all places and times, throughout 'the Age' (al-Dahr), it is only seven Days: six Days for the creation, and the seventh Day (Saturday) for the realization. But if we think of ourselves as points in this space-time of the Age, because of the eternally renewed re-creation we observe succeeding Days and Weeks (as moments); yet all those Days (including Saturday) are happening in the Saturday of the single, unique Week of 'the Age'.

Ibn 'Arabî draws interesting symbolic parallels and extrapolations from this concept of creation just explained. Just like this momentary creation in the Week, our own human age (life) is also seven days (or periods): six in this world and Saturday for the hereafter, which we have either as all-day in Paradise or as all-night in Gehenna. Similarly also, the age of human civilization on Earth is seven days and we are now living in Friday, indeed in the last few hours of it. This is because, as Ibn 'Arabî observes:

We (the true followers of the Prophet) are, thanks to Allah, the Day of Jum'a, and Muhammad – may Allah have peace and mercy upon him – is this very 'Hour' itself, by which the Day of Jum'a takes precedence over all other Days.

[I.646.15]

This is because Muhammad is the Perfect Human Being who is the most perfect Image of the Real. Ibn ‘Arabî explains this well-known central conception in his thought in more detail in chapter 346 of the Futûhât, where he observes that Muhammad, in relation to the whole world (cosmos), like the spirit (al-nafs al-nâtîqa) for each human being, while other prophets are like other spiritual faculties [III.186.31] (see also Table 3.1). Then he indicates that the world before the appearance of the Prophet Muhammad was like a foetus in the womb of the mother [III.187.6], and that after the passing away of Muhammad the world is like a sleeping – not dead – person [III.187.1], until, in the next world, all the world shall ‘live’ (have real life and awakening) through the full appearance of Muhammad in his complete composition [III.187.8]. Thus he goes on to note that people in the Gardens and Gehenna are like the different (spiritual and material) parts of the earthly human being, where the people of Gehenna are like the relatively lifeless (yet not completely dead) hair and nails [III.187.10]. So in this way the world is a like an ‘immense human being’ (insân kabîr), while the fully human being is like a microcosm (âlam saghîr).¹⁸

Many earlier Muslim theologians have tried to explain that Allah did not mean by the Qur’anic references to the ‘Days’ of creation those same earthly days that we live in, because they claimed that the sort of days that we know could not be existing yet, prior to the completion of creation. In contrast, Ibn ‘Arabî stresses that those ‘Days’ of creation in reality coincide with these same observed and experienced days. At the same time, he also acknowledged that this (cosmic) ‘Day’ existed before the creation of the heavens and the Earth, while the (earthly, observed alternation of) daytime and night-time were only determined afterwards by the creation of the Sun.

On another level, Ibn ‘Arabî’s complex, unique interpretation of those many verses in the Qur’an (and the Bible) that talk about the creation in six Days is promising in terms of modern astronomy and cosmology, because it suggests the first real unification between space and time, as well as a sense in which the ‘Week’ may have a very important, and not simply conventional, real significance.

However, there are still some further issues that need to be settled in order to understand the meaning of the Week, its movement through the signs of the zodiac and its detailed role in the process or stages of creation. We shall devote Chapter 4 to explaining Ibn ‘Arabî’s complicated theory of the ‘Actual Flow of Time’ and Chapter 6 to outlining a complete model of the cosmos based on Ibn ‘Arabî’s unique view of time and his theory of the oneness of being, which will be discussed in Chapter 5.

4 The actual flow of time

As we already explained, Ibn 'Arabî showed that the creation of the world by Allah is a 'series' process. That is, He creates only one event at a time (or indeed in each Day), as Allah says: each Day He is upon some (one) task (55:29). Yet we observe multitudes of different events happening apparently at once. According to Ibn 'Arabî, the way to understand this apparent paradox is to correct our view of the flow of time.

Ibn 'Arabî shows that the actual flow of time (the divine creative 'Week' as the basic unit of space-time) is not the witnessed flow from Sunday to Monday and so on to Saturday. These normal days of the week that we witness are the 'circulated' days, and not the actual divine Days (the 'Days of Event') in which only one single event should be happening each and every single Day. In order to define or construct the actual cosmic 'Days of events', we need first to attach each night-time to its own daytime, for again the underlying metaphysical connection is not as we observe: i.e. the ('real') night-time of each daytime is not the observed night-time that precedes or follows this daytime, but rather it is 'taken out' and separated from its own daytime by three daytimes and three night-times. This extraordinary connection, Ibn 'Arabî explains, is symbolically related to our three-dimensional structure as human beings. Finally, he also affirms (according to Qur'anic indications), that the actual Days of events are 'intertwined' with the observable, 'circulated' days in a specific manner that he details in his book Kitâb Ayyâm Al-Sha'n (The Book of the Days of Task).

So we shall first explain in this chapter the meanings and the relations between those three metaphysically distinct types of days: the 'circulated' days (ayyâm al-takwîr), the taken-out days (ayyâm al-salkh) and the intertwined days (ayyâm al-ilâj). There we shall see that, on the basis of the hypothesis of 'intertwining', Ibn 'Arabî introduces a unique new concept of time (and space) that has apparently not been discussed before. Finally, we turn to explaining the distinctive motion of each Day in the zodiac and the kinds of effects that are caused in the world in these Days. And at the end of this chapter we shall see the divine origin of dividing the normal days into hours, minutes and seconds.

4.1 The original days of event

We have explained in sections 2.15–16 that there is a minimum ‘Day’ which is that indivisible duration of time called ‘the Single Day’ (al-yawm al-fard). And we showed that this Day – when taken globally, or indeed universally (since it encompasses all of manifest creation) – actually includes our normal day, though we encounter it in fact just as a moment. In each one of these moments/Days there is only one global cosmic ‘event’ happening in each part of the entire cosmos. These Single Days are the original cosmic Days which are called the divine ‘Days of event’ (ayyâm-ul-sha’n), as discussed in the preceding chapter and Chapter 2. For in each Day of event (or divine ‘task’) Allah creates a single event actually encompassing every entity and phenomenon of the whole manifest world. As He said in the Qur’an: ‘each Day He is upon a (single) task’ (55:29).

Ibn ‘Arabî points out that ‘in each day of our normal days, that is from sunset to sunset or from sunrise to sunrise, there is the end of 360 days’ [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 6] (assuming the circle is 360 degrees).¹ That is because in every moment of the normal day that there is the end (or the beginning) of a day in one place, there is a corresponding beginning (or end) of another day in another place.

To explain this further, let us divide the circumference of the Earth into 360 longitudinal lines and the day into 360 degrees of longitude. Therefore, any whole day that we encounter in any specific place is a combination or the sum of the ends (last degrees) of 360 days from other places on the Earth; or in the same way, it is the sum of the first degrees of 360 days around the Earth. For example let us suppose that we are on the first longitudinal line at the first degree of the day, then the second degree of this day on this first longitudinal line is the first degree of the day beginning on the second line, and so on. In another way we can also say that the 360 degrees of the ‘day’ on the first line are the collection of the last degrees of the lines 360, 359, 358 and so on up to line number 1. Therefore in every moment there is one full day around the Earth: now, for example, it is morning somewhere, noon somewhere else and evening and midnight in other places; but all in total is a single full day (see also section 2.15 above).

So the flow of these original Days marks the actual sequence of events that spans space and time. But, because we live in and can only observe a tiny point of the whole space of the globe, we encounter linear time as our normal observed days of the week (i.e. the ‘circulated days’ described in the next section). Therefore, these original ‘Days of event’ are intertwined with our normal observed days.

4.2 The ‘circulated’ days (ayyâm al-takwîr)

Then if we stick to one place and watch the flow of time, we see that the Sun sets, for example, at the beginning of ‘Sunday night’ (i.e. the night that begins before Sunday daytime);² and then it rises on Sunday morning, and so on until it completes a full week on the following Sunday night. This is the witnessed week, and its days are the normal days, or the witnessed days. Ibn ‘Arabî calls them the ‘circulated days’ (ayyâm-ul-takwîr),³ because they (daytimes and nights), seem to run after each other in a circle, as Allah says in the Qur’an:

He created the Heavens and the Earth through the real. He causes the night-time to encircle (v. yukawwiru) the daytime, and the daytime to encircle the night-time. He has subjected the Sun and the Moon: each one follows a (designated) course for a time appointed. Is He not the All-Mighty, the All-Forgiving?

(39:5)

So we can also say that the daytimes are circulated around the nights, and the nights are circulated around the daytimes, because the daytime and the night are like hemispheres surrounding the Earth all the time, but running after each other as if they were seeking each other, as Allah said in THE Qur’an: ‘Lo! Your Lord is Allah Who created the Heavens and the Earth in six Days then mounted He on the Throne. He covers (yugshî) the night-time with the daytime, which is in haste to seek it’ (7:54).

The Arabic word yugshî in this verse not only means ‘to cover’ but also ‘to embrace’ [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 7], and it is particularly used for marriage. Thus Ibn ‘Arabî suggests that it is as if the daytime and the night are seeking each other because they want to ‘marry’ each other, to produce children – since we and everything else in the world are all the ‘progeny’ of the daytimes and nights [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 7]. This ‘abstract marriage’, is a basic concept in Ibn ‘Arabî’s cosmological teachings, and we shall come back to it shortly.

We conclude that in every normal day (i.e. circulated day) as we observe it in one specific place on the Earth, a vast number of ‘Days of events’ happen, as many as there are indivisible moments in this day. In other words, in every moment that we encounter on the Earth, there is a Day of event happening that encompasses the whole world or cosmos (all of creation). Yet each Day of event is also composed of the seven distinctive Days of creation, the divine creative ‘Week’ described in detail in the previous chapter.

4.3 The ‘taken-out’ days

Allah said in the Qur’an: ‘A token unto them is the night-time: We take the daytime out of it, and lo, they are in darkness’ (36:37). Ibn ‘Arabî points out that this seems to indicate that night is the origin, and that daytime was somehow ‘hidden’ in it and then was taken out of it [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 9, II.647.20]. In other words, as Ibn ‘Arabî explains [I.716.15], the night is like a dress or a skin over the daytime, and then Allah takes the daytime out of the night so that the world – which was in the absolute darkness of the divine ‘Unseen’ (al-ghayb) – is created (i.e. so that it appears in the light of actual existence).

Ibn ‘Arabî, however, argues that Allah did not specify in this verse which daytime was taken out of which night, and so this has to be clarified. For it is not, as we might think, that each daytime (that we witness) was taken out of its own night. We have to seek the true relation between each daytime and its night, and this relation, Ibn ‘Arabî says [II.445.32, III.203.30], is based on the first hour of the daytime and the night-time, because each hour of the daytime and the night-time has a ruler; one of the five planets, the Sun, or the Moon (corresponding to one of the seven principal divine Attributes: see section 3.4); so each day is named after the planet that rules the first hour of it. For example: the first hour of Sunday is ruled by the Sun, and that is why it is so named (in English and many other languages); likewise Monday is the day of the Moon, and so on. In Arabic, however, the names of the days of the week do not have direct relations with the names of the planets that rule these days, but this connection still forms a basic principle in Ibn ‘Arabî’s view of time.

But before we discuss this further and assign each night to its actual daytime, we should understand the exact meaning of ‘taking out’ the daytime from the night, or the night from the daytime. Ibn ‘Arabî regards the different daytimes and night-times as ‘parents’ to what Allah creates in them: so everything that happens in the daytime is like a ‘son’ whose father is the night and whose mother is the daytime; and everything that happens in the night is like a son whose father is the daytime and whose mother is the night [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 7; II.445.18]. As Allah said in the Qur’an: ‘He merges (yûlîju) the night into the daytime, and He merges the daytime into the night’ (57:6). So there is a kind of abstract, generative ‘marriage’ between daytimes and nights, but where nights and daytimes exchange their parental roles from being fathers to being mothers, and vice versa. That is why they are ‘intertwined’, as we shall see further below. Now Ibn ‘Arabî explains that when the daytime turns from being father into being mother or vice versa, this is what is meant by the Qur’anic reference to its respective ‘stripping-out’ or ‘taking-out’ (salkh). So when we say that this daytime (nahâr) is taken out of that night-time (layl), it means that this daytime and night exchange their generative ‘parental’ roles, although together they are always like a couple, i.e. a single ‘day’ (yawm).

Ibn ‘Arabî adds that Allah did not explicitly mention that night is also taken out of the daytime, since it is readily understood from the same Qur’anic verse [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 8; I.141.6, I.716.11]. On the other hand, Ibn ‘Arabî indicates that the first hour of the daytime and that of its own night (which was taken out of it) should be ruled by the same planet [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 10]. For in order to consider the daytime and the night-time as one unitary day, they have to be ruled by the same (cosmological, planetary) ‘ruler’. This applies only to the first hour of the daytime and the night, because each of the other hours (of the observable, earthly days) is coming from other cosmic ‘Days’ as a result of their overall ‘intertwining’:

Now when these planets moved in their orbs, Allah made for each planet a (specific) Day among the Days of the zodiac-orb motion. . . . So He defined for each Day (yawm) a daytime (nahâr) and a night-time (layl), and He distinguished between each night and its daytime by the rule of the (particular) planet for that Day in which the daytime and night appeared.

So when you look to which planet the first hour of the daytime belongs, then this planet is the ruler of that daytime. And when you look in the nights for the night whose first hour belongs to this same planet which ruled the first hour of the daytime, then this night belongs to this daytime.

[III.203.26]

Now that we have understood the meaning of the ‘taken-out’ days, let us see which daytime was taken out of which night. As we pointed out above, Ibn ‘Arabî argues that there are three other daytimes and three other nights between the daytime and the night from which it was taken out. That is because – as he explains – the structure of the world is six-directional: three nights corresponding to the directions down, left and back; and three daytimes corresponding to up, right and front [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 7]. Table 4.1 shows the resulting daytimes of the week and the nights from which those respective daytimes were taken out.

Therefore, as we can see, there are three days between each daytime and its partner night. Of course normally the observable earthly week will run starting from the beginning of Sunday night, then Sunday daytime, then Monday night, then Monday daytime, and so on. These are the normal ‘circulated’ days. The ‘taken-out’ days, however, as we see from this table above and in Figure 4.1, run also starting from the beginning of Sunday night but leaving out three daytimes and three nights jumping to Wednesday daytime (of the circulated days) and so on.

Therefore the flow of time for the taken-out days is different from the normal circulated days. In order to understand the flow of the taken-out days let us show the above relation graphically as in Figure 4.1. It is better to imagine this graph in three dimensions because, as Ibn ‘Arabî indicated, the reason behind this interference between the taken-out days and the circulated days is the three-dimensional structure of the world that we live in [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 7].

But what is the significance of conceiving the ‘taking-out’ daytimes and nights in this way? In his book Ayyâm Al-Sha’n Ibn ‘Arabî explains that the reason why there are three daytimes and three nights in the taken-out days is the three-dimensional (or six-directional) structure of the space in which we exist. In other books he (or rather, his later interpreter al-Qâshânî)⁴ points out that the

Table 4.1 The taken-out days

	The daytime of . . .	was taken out of the night of . . .
4	Wednesday	Sunday	1
5	Thursday	Monday	2
6	Friday	Tuesday	3
7	Saturday	Wednesday	4
1	Sunday	Thursday	5
2	Monday	Friday	6
3	Tuesday	Saturday	7

Note
There are three daytimes and three nights between the daytime and the night that is taken out of it. This table is summarized from Ayyâm Al-Sha’n, pages 6–7

Figure 4.1 The taken-out days.

Note

It helps to imagine the resulting loop in three dimensions (x, y, z) as indicated graphically below.

word ‘day’ also means direction. So it appears to us as if our three-dimensional world is built up as a unit in seven Days (a Week). Therefore the Week with its seven Days is the unit of space-time, and not only time.

In chapter 302 of the Futûhât, Ibn ‘Arabî explains how the process of taking the daytime out of the night is identical to taking the world out of non-existence into the ‘light’ of existence:

Now we have mentioned that the world was hidden in the (absolute) Unseen (ghayb) of Allah, and that this Unseen was like the shadow of a person. So if something were taken out from the entirety of that shadow, it would come out in the image of that shade – just as that shadow is itself in the image of that of which it is a shadow. So the result of what is taken out of that shadow is in the image of the person. Do not you see that light is what appears when the daytime is taken out of the night-time?

So those things which were hidden in the night (of the divine ‘Unseen’) appear by the light of the daytime. Therefore the daytime does not resemble the night, but rather resembles the light, by the appearance of those things through it. So the night was the shadow of the (divine existentiating) Light, and the daytime, when it is taken out of the night, comes out on the image of the Light. Likewise, the world, in its coming out of the Unseen, comes out in the image of the world (already present in) the Unseen, as we said.

[III.12.1]

So the process of creating the world out of non-existence is exactly like the Qur'anic image of 'taking the daytime out of the night', because time in the end is reduced to the instantaneous presence (or the events that happen in it). As summarized in the passage just quoted, Ibn 'Arabî says that the world already exists in the all-encompassing foreknowledge of Allah, in the absolute Unseen (al-ghayb al-mutlaq). Thus its emergence into manifest existence is like the daytime: both of its states are 'Light', first hidden in the 'shadow' of the absolute Unseen, and then when Allah takes the world out of that non-existence, just as He 'takes the daytime out of the night'. And because Allah had determined that the manifest world would be three-dimensional, He created it 'in six Days' (or directions). He could have created it in many ways, but Ibn 'Arabî affirms that the divine Ability does not overrule His Determination or destiny (qadar); it only accomplishes what He has already determined (the maqdûr) [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 6]. Therefore, in order for the daytime (of the manifest world) to appear in existence, there have to be three daytimes and three nights between this daytime and the night that it was 'taken out' of [I.716; Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 7]. Thus in each Day Allah creates a direction, and in the six Days of creation (from Sunday to Friday) Allah creates the world in (three-dimensional) space, while Saturday accounts for the 'Day of event' or time wherein this world is displayed.

4.4 The 'intertwined' days

As we have mentioned before (section 2.15), Allah said in the Holy Qur'an: 'each Day He is upon some (one) task' (55:29). Since Allah did not say 'tasks' but rather a single task or event, Ibn 'Arabî argues that the whole Day should be under the effect of one single divine task. This, however, is not the case for our normal, 'circulated' days and is clearly not the case for the 'taken-out' days we have just described above, because we know that many different events are happening in each observable 'circulated' day.

Ibn 'Arabî argues that the original Days of events in which Allah described Himself as being 'each Day upon some task' are intertwined (or 'entered into each other': mutawâlîja, from the verb yûlîju: 'to enter into') with the circulated days in a specific manner, which he explains by dividing the day into 24 hours. However, Ibn 'Arabî emphasizes that this example is only for approximation, since one could also explain this 'intertwining' on a smaller scale than hours (e.g. minutes and seconds, or even smaller). The matter as he describes it is already very complicated for 24 hours, although this may be possible to calculate now using sophisticated computer programs.

Starting with the night of Sunday – because its name al-ahad ('the First', 'the Unique') is a Name of Allah, it is the first day, and also it is the day of the Sun that is the heart or centre of the manifest world [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 11] – Ibn ‘Arabî reconstructs the Days of events from the hours of the circulated days, starting with the first hour of the night of Thursday, then the eighth hour, and so on with seven-hour intervals until the full 12 hours of the night of Sunday are completed. Then he moves on to ‘deconstruct’ the daytime of Sunday in the same way, as illustrated in the Table 4.2 and Figure 4.2.

Then he moves on to analyse the night of (the circulated day of) Monday in the same way, but starting from the daytime of Friday, and so on for the full seven Days, as indicated in the following Table 4.3 and Figure 4.2.

4.4.1 Demonstrating the intertwined days

As can be readily seen from Tables 4.2 and 4.3, the flow of time for the ‘intertwined’ days is even more complicated than that of the taken-out days. This

Table 4.2 The intertwined days (example of Sunday alone).

Normal week days
	SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT
Hours of night
1	—	—	—	—	SUN	—	—
2	—	—	—	—	—	—	SUN
3	—	SUN	—	—	—	—	—
4	—	—	—	SUN	—	—	—
5	—	—	—	—	—	SUN	—
6	SUN	—	—	—	—	—	—
7	—	—	SUN	—	—	—	—
8	—	—	—	—	SUN	—	—
9	—	—	—	—	—	—	SUN
10	—	SUN	—	—	—	—	—
11	—	—	—	SUN	—	—	—
12	—	—	—	—	—	SUN	—
Hours of daytime
1	SUN	—	—	—	—	—	—
2	—	—	SUN	—	—	—	—
3	—	—	—	—	SUN	—	—
4	—	—	—	—	—	—	SUN
5	—	SUN	—	—	—	—	—
6	—	—	—	SUN	—	—	—
7	—	—	—	—	—	SUN	—
8	SUN	—	—	—	—	—	—
9	—	—	SUN	—	—	—	—
10	—	—	—	—	SUN	—	—
11	—	—	—	—	—	—	SUN
12	—	SUN	—	—	—	—	—

Note

The shaded background indicates the nights of the normal days, and bold font indicates the night-time hours of the intertwined days. The data in this table are extracted from Kitâb Ayyâm Al-Sha’n, pp. 11–12.

Figure 4.2 The intertwined days, and their relation with the circulated days.

Note

The information in this figure is extracted from Kitâb Ayyâm Al-Sha'n, pp. 11–16.

complex relationship is shown graphically in Figure 4.2. Again, it would be more accurate to imagine this graph in three dimensions, but the graphic depiction is already very complicated in two dimensions. (A more accurate approach to what Ibn 'Arabî is actually describing would be to simulate this on the computer, taking into account smaller time-scales than hours.)

Figure 4.2 demonstrates how the 24 hours of each day of the normal circulated days are distributed over the seven Days of events. The 24 hours of the Day of Sunday for example (the 24-fold zigzag circle in the front) are distributed over the normal week days, starting from the first hour of Thursday night and moving with the seven-hour intervals already described.

Table 4.3 The intertwined days (all days)

Normal week days
	SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT
Hours of nights
1	WED	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE
2	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN
3	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI
4	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE	WED
5	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN	MON
6	SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT
7	FRI	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU
8	WED	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE
9	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN
10	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI
11	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE	WED
12	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN	MON
Hours of daytimes
1	SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT
2	FRI	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU
3	WED	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE
4	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN
5	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI
6	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE	WED
7	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN	MON
8	SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT
9	FRI	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU
10	WED	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE
11	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN
12	SAT	SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI

Note

The shaded background indicates the nights of the normal days, and bold font indicates night hours of the intertwined days. The data in this table are extracted from Kitāb Ayyām Al-Sha'n, pp. 11–16

4.4.2 The significance of the intertwined days

The flow of time according to the intertwined days is the real flow, because it indicates the manifest, outward order of events. The reason why there is a constant seven-hour step, as in the Tables 4.2 and 4.3 and Figure 4.3, is that the order of creation proceeds according to the seven main divine Names (and divine ‘Days’ of creation). For example, on Sunday (of the original Days of creation) the world starts ‘hearing’ the divine Command, which initiates the first dimension in creation. Then once the Sunday cycle (i.e. of the divine Attribute ‘the All-Hearing’) is over, the Monday cycle starts granting the world the attribute of ‘the Living’, and so on (see Table 3.1). Thus the manifest world gains the qualities of these fundamental divine Attributes one after the other.

4.5 The motion of the seven days in the zodiac

The orb of the ‘fixed stars’, including the constellations of the zodiac and the lunar mansions, is the second orb after the outermost Isotropic Orb, but it is the first material orb, because the Isotropic Orb does not have any distinguishing features (no stars or planets). We have already noted that Ibn ‘Arabî shows that ‘Allah created the Day in the first orb, and then defined it in the second orb, which is the orb of the fixed stars (the zodiac)’ [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 6]. That is because the motion of the Isotropic Orb can not be defined for the world beneath it, because there is no reference point to assign a beginning or an end to this motion. However, in the zodiac orb there is such a reference point: the 12 Signs or constellations. So we can say that the days were first defined in the zodiac orb, and each day represents a full cycle of this orb as observed from the Earth [III.548.31; see also section 2.12 above]. Ibn ‘Arabî clearly showed that this orb does not actually move as we observe it [II.441.33, I.141.17, III.549.3], but that we see it as moving because of the motion of the Earth around its centre [I.123.17, II.677.21, III.548.31] (see also section 1.4).

Ibn ‘Arabî takes the first degree in Gemini as the reference point to start counting the cosmic ‘Days’ of creation, and he claims that this initial motion of time in creation started when this point was matching the divine ‘Foot’ in the ‘Pedestal’ above the Isotropic Orb. It is very interesting to note that the first degree of Gemini coincides with the galactic equator.⁵ Moreover, recent studies and some historical or archaeological records (Sitchin 1976: 197) show that this point was used by ancient Sumerians as early as 11000 BC as a starting point for the zodiacal calendar. He says:

And let it be known to you that this Name (‘the All-Sufficient’, al-ghanî) made this orb isotropic with no planets in it: all its parts are the same, and it has a circular shape where you can not distinguish a beginning or an end to its motion, and it has no edge. By the existence of this orb the seven days came into being, and so months and years; but these (particular durations of) times were not determined in it until Allah created, inside this orb, other signs (galaxies, stars and planets) which determined these times.

This orb determined only one Day, which is a single cycle (of this orb) beginning at the place of the (divine) ‘Foot’ in the Pedestal. So it was determined from above. The duration of this cycle is called a Day. But nobody except Allah knows (the actual length of) this Day, because of the fact that all the parts of this orb are the same, so (nobody knows) the beginning of its motion. And the beginning of its motion was when the first degree of Gemini, which is an orb (whose influence is associated with the lower material element) of air, was matching this Foot.

Hence the first Day that appeared in the world was by the first degree of Gemini, and this Day is called al-ahad (Sunday). So when this specific point of this orb, which is known only to Allah, returned to match this Foot of the Pedestal, a full cycle – that is, of the total orb (and its contents) – was completed and all the parts of this (isotropic) orb matched with the (initial) place of the Foot from the Pedestal. So this motion came over every degree, minute, second, and less than that of this orb. So the places came into being and the existence of the single indivisible localized monad (of all manifest creation) was determined from the motion of this orb.

[II.437.29]

That was the motion of the initial Day of the Sun (Sunday).

Then, at the end (of this initial Day), there began another motion, also from the middle,⁶ until that (second motion) reached its end/aim (ghâya), like the first motion – together with the entirety of what (that sphere) contains of the (smallest) parts (ajzâ') and the individual entities that are composed of those parts, because (that sphere) is quantitative. This second motion is called Monday. And so on till it completed seven periodical motions everyone is determined by a divine Attribute. And the (main) divine Attributes are seven, not more, which made the Age not more than seven (distinctive) Days.

[II.438.3]

This is shown better in Figure 4.3.

Thus the orb of the zodiac (fixed starts) executes only seven distinctive cycles, which are then repeated that over and over again. Each Day of these seven Days of the divine creative Week is called a 'Day of event', in which only one single event happens, because it is ruled by one primary divine Name of Allah. So there are seven Days of events, each related to one particular divine Name from the seven fundamental Names mentioned in section 3.4.

4.6 The kinds of events

Now in each 'Day of event' that is intertwined with the outwardly observable (normal earthly) 'circulated days' as described above, Ibn 'Arabî explains that Allah constantly inspires the Universal Soul to act upon the orbs below it – encompassing and giving rise to all the manifest, material cosmos – so that they move in a specific manner that will cause one particular kind of event in the cosmos. But the effects of this complex composite motion of the orbs will be different, depending on the capabilities and characteristics of individual creatures [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 11–12]. For example, when Allah inspires the Soul to move the element of fire in order to heat the world, the effects of this single event depends greatly on the individual creatures: those which are ready to burn will burn, and those which accept heat will be heated, and so on [Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 6], and he explains further in the Futûhât that:

the (divine creative) "Event", in relation to the Real (i.e., God/al-haqq), is one from Him; but with relation to the acceptors of the world it is many events that we would call infinite, were they not confined by (their shared quality of) existence.

[II.82.6]

Figure 4.3 The Zodiac and the motion of the days in it.

Note

Notice that this refers to the apparent rotation of the sphere of the fixed stars, while the actual astronomical motion is due to the revolution of the Earth. The 12 zodiacal signs are divided into four groups whose influences are related to the four material elements (earth, water, air and fire), as described in the preceding chapter; each group contains three signs of the same nature. The motion of each cosmic Day starts at the first degree of Gemini.

Ibn ‘Arabî describes in his Kitâb Ayyâm Al-Sha’n the different kinds of events that are particularly associated with each Day of the seven Days of the original divine ‘Week’ of event. There he also gives a ratio of ‘contribution’ by each one of the seven heavens. These mysterious symbolic data and concepts are not very easy to understand. However, we will summarize his remarks in Table 4.4 for reference, although any attempt to interpret them would require a separate extensive study.

The data in Table 4.4 are extracted from Kitâb Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 11–16. The contributions are stated to be increments of one-fourth, probably alluding to the equal role of the four basic elements of material Nature (fire, air, water and earth). The —/— sign means that the corresponding data are not given in the text. For Wednesday, Ibn ‘Arabî does not give detailed numbers, but simply says (p. 14) that ‘God ordered the spiritual realities to help the Soul according to their corresponding strength’. The ‘↓’ indicates that the contribution is done only by way of descent. Some of the data in this table are incomplete or not certain, as the meaning of the original text is often unclear.⁷

Table 4.4 The action of the soul (on the world) in each day of the seven days of events and the ratio of contribution by the seven heavens

SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT
The actions of the Universal Soul in each Day of event
moving the fire element to heat the world	giving the element of liquids to the generators	showing the absurd passions	mixing wet vapour with dry vapour	liquefying and decomposing	distilling the wet vapour	holding the forms of the world and forming them
The ratio of contribution by the seven celestial spheres (orbs)/s
7	2/4	2/4	—/—	0/4	2/4	4/4
6	2/4	2/4	—/—	4/4	2/4	0/4
5	4/4	0/4	—/—	2/4	0/4	2/4
4	4/4	4/4	—/—	2/4	0/4	2/4
3	0/4	0/4	—/—	2/4	4/4	2/4
2	1/4	1/4+1/4	—/—	2/4	2/4	2/4
1	0/4	0/4	—/—	2/4	4/4	2/4
The Results
the spirits flow in spiritual beings, and motion in the things that move	bodies grow; rainy winds blow; motions are weak	anger and conflicts amongst people	—/—	good for lovers	the events result through the divine Command, not as the result of trying and direct action	—/—

4.7 Hours, minutes and seconds

According to what we have now discussed in this and preceding chapters, the day as we normally experience or observe it is the minimum period of time defined by the apparent full revolution of the Heavens around the Earth (see sections 2.12 and 3.2). The original divine creative Days are single indivisible divine 'Acts', but in the observed time that we experience, we live only one moment out of each original Day (see section 2.15). Therefore, the normal day as we know it is a collection of the moments from the different divine Days of the creative Week, after the processes of 'intertwining' and 'taking-out' detailed above. For this reason, the normal day can be conventionally subdivided apparently infinitely, and smaller units of time can be conceived and measured.

Thus, the day is conventionally divided into 24 hours, and the hour is conventionally divided into 60 minutes, which are also conventionally divided into 60 seconds each. This conventional hexadecimal system can be traced back to the time of the Babylonians; it was used by many ancient civilizations and then transferred by the Arabs to the West. In recent centuries, some more scientifically measurable definitions of these conventional units of time have been introduced, specifically for the second.⁸ So this hexadecimal system is now internationally used, but after the second, smaller units of time are decimally subdivided into 0.1, 0.01 etc., or 10^{-x} seconds, where x could be in principle any number no matter how large (for infinitely shorter times).⁹

Ibn 'Arabî referred to these further conventional subdivisions of observed time in chapter 59 of the Futûhât, which is entitled 'On the Inner Knowing of the (actually) Existent and Conventional Time'. Here the original divine cosmic 'Days of event' are the actually Existent Time (al-zamân al-mawjûd) while the other time-distinctions days, years, months, hours, minutes and seconds are only conventional or 'estimated' (muqaddar). There he explains:

The (observable) 'days' are many: some are long, and some are short. The shortest day is the 'monad of time' (al-zaman al-fard) in which 'He is in a task' (55:29), so that (indivisible shortest) monad of time is called a 'day' because the (divine) 'task' happens in it: it is the shortest and tiniest time, and there is no maximum term to the longest. Between them there are intermediate 'days', the first of which is the conventional 'day' familiar in customary usage, which is divided into hours, the hours into degrees, the degrees into minutes, and so on. That goes on indefinitely, for those people who also divide the minutes into seconds. Since it is ruled by (the principle of) countability, (for them time) is like numbers; and numbers are infinite, so this division is also infinite.

But some people say that (time) is finite, and they take this matter from the perspective of what can (actually) be counted or 'numbered': those are (the people) who advocate that time is an existing essence (because it is countable), and all that exists must undoubtedly be finite. But the opposing (group) say that the countable, simply by the fact that it can be counted, does not (therefore necessarily) enter into existence, so it is not described as finite, because number is not describable as being finite. This is how those who argue against the ‘single monad’ (or ‘indivisible atom’: al-jawhar al-fard proposed by the kalam theologians) contend, (maintaining instead) that according to the intellect body is divisible indefinitely. This topic of controversy among the people of intellectual inquiry (i.e. kalam theologians and the philosophers) happened as a result of their lack of good judgement and their inquiring (only) about the meanings of words (instead of what is actually real).

[I.292.3]

However, for Ibn ‘Arabî this conventional division of time also has its divine origin. He first affirms that the celestial orbs were divided into 360 degrees due to the fact that the Universal Intellect (or the ‘Higher Pen’) was taught by the ‘Greatest Element’ (see sections 6.2 and 6.5) exactly 360 kinds of comprehensive divisions of knowledge (‘ulûm al-ijmâl), under each of which there are 360 further divisions of detailed knowledge (‘ulûm al-tafsîl), that is 360 times 360:

So each degree (of the 360 total degrees of the outermost, all-encompassing celestial sphere) includes all that it comprises of the details of minutes, seconds, tertiary divisions, and so on, as Allah – the Exalted – wills to make manifest (of that detailed Knowledge) in His Creation till the day of the Rising.

[I.295.12]

After that, in the same passage, Ibn ‘Arabî shows that Allah appointed 12 ‘rulers’ (wulât, s. wâli), one in each of the 12 zodiac signs, which correspond to the 12 months in the conventional year. Also there are 28 ‘chamberlains’ (hujjâb, s. hâjib) in the orb of the constellations (i.e. the 28 houses of the Moon) which correspond to the 28 days in the (divine) month (see section 3.2). Finally, in the same passage he also says that Allah ordered those rulers to appoint seven ‘chiefs’ (nuqabâ’, s. naqîb) in the seven Heavens, one ‘chief’ in each celestial sphere – i.e. the seven orbs which correspond to the seven Days of the cosmic Week. Ibn ‘Arabî then adds that each one of those groups of spirits that are associated with the celestial spheres has a living human ‘deputy’ or ‘agent’ among us on Earth [I.296.27].

Ibn ‘Arabî even suggests a certain divine importance for the conventional division of the day into 24 hours, in the following passage discussing the different groups of the spiritual hierarchy of the ‘Friends of God’ (awliyâ’) in chapter 73 of the Futûhât [II.2.39]:

And among them (the awliyâ’), may Allah be pleased with them, (are a group of) 24 souls at any time, no more and no less. They are called the ‘Men of (Spiritual) Opening’ (rijâl al-fateh): through them Allah opens for the people of Allah whatever He opens of (divine) knowledge and secrets. And Allah made them according to the number of hours, one of them for each hour.

[II.13.7]

Regarding the hours of the day and the two parts of it (the daytime and the night), and their observable variations across the year and from one place to another, Ibn ‘Arabî says:

Then Allah caused the (observable, earthly) daytime (nahâr) and the nighttime by the existence of the Sun – not the (true divine) Days (ayyâm). And as for what happens of (the observable) increase and decrease in the (length of the) daytime and night – not in the hours, for they are (always) 24 hours – that is because of the motion of the Sun in the zodiac region which is tilted with regard to us, so the day becomes longer where it is in the high houses, and when it comes to the low houses the day becomes shorter where it (i.e. the Sun) is. We said ‘where it is’, because when the night becomes longer for us the day becomes longer for others, so the Sun is in the high houses for them and in the low houses for us. So when the day becomes shorter for us, the night becomes longer for them as we said. But the day (al-yawm) itself is 24 hours: it does not increase or decrease, nor does it become longer nor shorter in the equinox place.

[I.140.33]

5 Unicity and multiplicity

*Examine the origin of existence, and think it through:
you will see the same (divine) Generosity, both eternal and created.
And the (created) thing is like the (eternal) thing,
except that He made it appear in the actual reality of the worlds as created.
So if the viewer swears that his existence is eternal (in the Unity),
he is honest and truthful, not lying;
But if the viewer swears that its existence (emerges) after its non-existence, (that is) more appropriate – and then its [existence] is threefold.*

[I.5.31]

In order to understand these novel concepts of time that we have explained in previous chapters, we need to shed more light on Ibn ‘Arabī’s controversial understanding of the oneness of being (wahdat al-wujūd), because it is the key to understanding his various views of time. Although he had never employed this famous term directly, it is quite evident that this characteristic understanding of the oneness of being strongly dominates Ibn Arabī’s many writings: he explains almost everything on the basis of the concept of ultimate unicity and oneness. More specifically, the metaphysical structure of the world, how it comes into existence, how it is maintained and its ontological relation with the Creator can be explained only on the basis of the oneness of being.

In the light of the centuries of later polemics surrounding this conception, it must be stressed that Ibn ‘Arabī’s conception of the oneness of being is completely different from such views such as pantheism or monism. Ibn ‘Arabī never denies the basic distinction between the Creator and creations, and certainly never contradicts the basic tenet of monotheism. Likewise, he strictly affirms the Muhammadan revelation (sharī‘a) and accepts all the observed multiplicity on the usual planes of manifest existence. Instead, his focus in applying the oneness of being is on understanding the cosmos and how it works. It is these particular cosmological aspects that we shall be interested in throughout this chapter, so that we can explain Ibn ‘Arabī’s view of the creation in order to understand his unique concepts of time and eventually to situate all those conceptions within the comprehensive cosmological model outlined in Chapter 6 below.

5.1 The contrasting approaches of Sufism and philosophy

We want to start this chapter by quoting Ibn ‘Arabî’s famous story of his first encounter with the great Aristotelian philosopher Ibn Rushd (Averroes, already mentioned in section 1.7) when Ibn ‘Arabî was still relatively young, but already famous for his immense knowledge and unique views. According to that account, Ibn Rushd arranged with his friend – Ibn ‘Arabî’s father – to meet the young mystic in order to hear what he had to say about (his Aristotelian) philosophy. As Ibn ‘Arabî recounts this story in the Futûhât:

And I entered one day in Cordoba into (the house of) the judge Abû al-Walîd Ibn Rushd, as he wished to meet me after he had heard about what Allah opened up for me in my spiritual retreat, for he had been expressing his admiration of (or ‘amazement at’) what he had heard. Then my father – because he was one of (Averroes’) friends – sent me to him for something on purpose in order (for him) to meet me. I was still young; my face had not yet put forth a beard, and my moustache had not yet grown.¹

When I entered to see him he stood up for me out of love and respect, embraced me and said (exclaiming): ‘Yes’! I replied: ‘Yes’. So his joy was magnified because I understood him. Then I realized what made him feel happy, and I said: ‘For Allah’s sake, No!’ Then he turned sad, his colour changed and he doubted his philosophy.

Then he asked: ‘So how did you find it in unveiling (kashf) and divine effusion (faḡd ilâhî)? Is it the same as what thought had led us (philosophers) to?’ I replied: ‘Yes ... No, and between the “yes” and the “no”, spirits fly away from their (bodily) matter and necks from their bodies.’

So his (face) colour turned pale, he began to tremble and sat down reciting the hawqala [that is to say: lâ hawla wa lâ quwwata illâ bi Allah (‘there is no power and no strength but in Allah’)], and he knew what I alluded to (in responding) to him.

[I.153.33]

This mysterious exchange of these few words and gestures between these two pillars of Islamic thought, a Sufi and a philosopher, is an attempt to express in symbolic language what is very difficult to explain in more explicit language. Ibn ‘Arabî alludes here to an essential realization that is beyond normal human comprehension, something that is apparently against our everyday experience or otherwise very difficult to believe. Yet on the other hand, it is something that can be ultimately summarized in only two words: ‘Yes’ and ‘No’, or even ‘Yes’ alone, because ‘No’ is ‘not Yes’.² In fact, Ibn ‘Arabî’s ‘digital’ answer here: ‘Yes/No’ (or ‘1/0’, ‘True/False’, which ultimately amounts to existence/non-existence) is the best and shortest expression of the creation – summarizing the essence of the paradoxical metaphysical insights alluded to in the initial poem of the Futûhât translated at the beginning of this chapter.

The difficulty of expressing this universal Reality in simple words comes from the fact that we live in a diverse world of infinite multiplicity, while at the same time the truth or reality behind this world is literally too simple to be believed [Al-Masâ'il: 163]. The ultimate Real is Allah, and Allah is uniquely One, while the world is apparently many – so the metaphysical challenge is how to link the (imaginary) multiplicity of the world to the Real One, through some unseen intermediaries.

Philosophers and scientists in general try to understand the world through observations, while the methods of Ibn 'Arabî and other Sufis rely upon modes of perception that jump directly into the unseen in order to approach the Real directly. As Ibn 'Arabî often points out, observations are subject to many mistakes, owing to the inaccuracy of the tools employed, whether human senses or technical equipment, while true visions – as opposed to our sometimes problematic interpretations of them – are always correct [I.307.12, III.7.21].³ On the other hand, philosophers and scientists use logic and experiments to deduce their theories and explain their observations, while Sufis in general often describe their visions without paying too much attention to explaining them in a logical manner, especially when some of their visions, though real and true, may be outwardly or apparently illogical.⁴ As a result, certain Sufis like Ibn 'Arabî may attain a very high state of knowledge of reality more quickly and more accurately than philosophers (as Ibn 'Arabî certainly implies in his account of his meeting with Ibn Rushd), but they find it very difficult to explain their views to others who have not 'tasted' it their way. So when they try to explain their insights, not many people will understand what they say.

The problem with the current laws and theories of physics and cosmology is that so far, although they have proved to be quite accurate and powerful in application, they have admittedly failed to unveil the ultimate reality behind the world. All scientific theories are descriptive rather than determinative. We have seen in section 1.3 that the reason why science was not able to determine the reality of the world is that all cosmological models need a boundary condition: i.e. an exact description of what was the initial state when the world started, something which seems to be impossible to achieve by the intellect alone. That is why scientists work backwards: i.e. they try to find out the initial state of the cosmos by extrapolating in various ways from the current observations. As a result, all physics theories and known cosmological models, though they have achieved higher levels of understanding, have also brought new contradictions and paradoxes. They have succeeded in providing approximate possible creation scenarios, but failed to describe the reality itself. Although Ibn 'Arabî considers the intellect unbounded or unlimited as a receptive tool, it is quite limited as a ratiocinative thinking tool because it relies on limited senses [I.288.27]. Therefore, the intellect alone – as a thinking tool – cannot describe the origin of the world because it is necessarily a part of it. Ibn 'Arabî affirmed this when he said that the limit of the observations of the philosophers (or astronomers) is up to the Isotropic Orb which is the first (outermost, and first created) material orb [II.677.1]; they can not see or detect anything beyond that. That is why the Sufis rely on the 'heart' (the locus of spiritual 'tasting' and inspiration, in the language of the Qur'an) rather than the discursive intellect.

On the other hand, Sufis have sometimes claimed to have achieved a high state of realization and even to have visualized the metaphysical structure and origin of the world (i.e. what physicists call the initial/boundary condition). Most of them, however, did not give proper attention to explaining the observable universe and relating it to that initial cosmological state. Even Ibn 'Arabî himself did not care too much about that: instead he declared that his aims were not to explain the world, but rather to acquire more knowledge of the world as a structure created according to the Image of Allah, so that he might acquire more knowledge of Allah Himself. All the same, however, throughout the Futûhât and other shorter books Ibn 'Arabî often gives a great many cosmological explanations and sometimes logical analyses of his metaphysical visions. This is why it is very important to study Ibn 'Arabî's writings, since they may provide a real link between philosophy and science, on the one hand, and mysticism and theology.

5.2 Unicity versus multiplicity

Ibn 'Arabî cited the story of his meeting with Ibn Rushd in the context of explaining the words of the central spiritual Pole Idrîs (mudâwî al-kulûm) who – as Ibn 'Arabî said – knows very well about the natural world and the effects of the higher world on it. Thus this Pole explained that 'the world exists between the circumference and the point' [I.154.22]. The 'point' here refers to the Real (the 'Necessary Being') whose existence is self-existence, while the 'circumference' is the circle of creations (the 'possible' or contingent entities) whose existence depends on the Real. Beyond this circumference is the 'sea' of non-existence (the impossible of existence). This relationship is illustrated in Figure 5.1.

With regard to this image, Ibn 'Arabî explained in chapter 47 of the Futûhât [I.260.1] that the (divine creative Source-) point in the centre of a circle meets any point in its circumference with its whole entity, without division or multiplicity. Similarly, multiplicity (i.e. all of creation) appears or emerges out of the Unicity of the Real; the manyness of the world appears out of the One Creator, without affecting His unique Oneness or Unicity. Ibn 'Arabî was well aware that this paradoxical relation between the Creator and all manifestation is in clear apparent contradiction with the widely accepted philosophical maxim – a central assumption in the prevailing contemporary philosophical cosmology of Ibn Sina and his followers – that 'from the One only one may emerge (or proceed)' (la yasdur 'an al-wâhid illâ wâhid).⁵

Given the assumption of this maxim, an obvious problem encountered by philosophers and theologians when they want to explain how Allah created the world is that Allah is One while the world is many. So logically it is not possible to imagine a relation between the One and the many without affecting the unique Oneness (ahadiyya) of the One.

Figure 5.1 The Real, the 'Possible' exists, and the 'Impossible'

Note

This figure is taken from chapter 360 of the Futūhāt [III.275].

However, Ibn 'Arabî's analogy between the pure mathematical symbol of the circle and its centre and the cosmological process of creation by the One Creator is not fully justifiable without further explanations. Among other problems, mathematics and geometry work with infinitely small (or dimensionless) points, while our contemporary science of physics and cosmology deals with corporeal worlds that have dimensions. But we shall see below that Ibn 'Arabî's unique understanding of time provides here the essential link between physics and mathematics, or between reality and imagination, in the same way as it does provide the necessary link between unicity and multiplicity.

Ibn 'Arabî quotes the above-mentioned emanationist philosophical maxim quite often [I.42.14, I.260.5, II.31.14]. Although he disagrees with this general proposition [I.260.5, I.715.12, II.434.20, and see also Al-Durratū Al-Baydā': 140], he sometimes explains further that this notion can be held true for physical beings but not for Allah Himself, because Allah, the unique One, can obviously create multiple creations as we can clearly see:

So without their dependence (for actual existence) on the existing-entity ('ayn') of the servant, there would be no rulership for those two Names ('the First' and 'the Last'). Because there (in eternity), the (divine) Essential-entity (al-'ayn) is (uniquely) One, not united (from different parts: mutta-hida). But in the servant, (the existing-entity) is united (of different parts) and not (uniquely) one, because Oneness (al-ahadiyya) is for Allah (alone), and unification (ittiḥād, the unification of the servant's parts, senses, faculties etc., and not the unification of the servant with his Lord because this is not possible in Ibn ‘Arabi’s doctrine) – and not the (divine) Oneness – is for the servant. This is because the servant can only be understood in relation to another (Who is his ‘Lord’ or his Creator), and not by himself: so he has no trace of (the absolute divine) Oneness at all. But as for the Real, Oneness may be understood (as applying) to Him (taken by Himself), or it may be understood (as applying to Him) with relation (to others), since everything belongs to Him, and indeed He is actually the Essence of everything. (This unique divine Oneness refers) not to the wholeness uniting a collection (of different entities: kullīyyat jam’), but rather to the (unique) Reality of Unicity (ḥaqīqat ahadiyya) on which (all) multiplicity depends – and this (unique Oneness) can only apply specifically to the (divine) Real.

So according to the determination of the (human) intellect, only one thing can ever emerge from the One. But the Unicity of the Real does not fall under that rule. How could He, Who created that rule, fall under it?! And the (true) Ruler – there is no god but Him, the Almighty, the All-Wise (3:6, 3:18).

[II.31.11]

So now we can see how multiplicity may come out of the Oneness of the Real. Yet we need to explain how this multiplicity of the creation appears from the One Creator. We need to explain how the pure geometrical analogy of the circle and its centre could be applied to the creation of the worlds by Allah.

Ibn ‘Arabi solves this riddle in part by inserting ‘time’, a true understanding of time. Hence he says:

and He (the Real) has a special face (wajh khâss) towards everything that exists, because He is the cause of everything. Now every (single) thing is one, it cannot be two; and He is One. So from Him there appeared only one, because He is in the oneness (ahadiyya) of every one (existing thing).

So if multiplicity exists, it would (only) be with regard to the oneness of time that is the container (of that apparent multiplicity). For the existence of the Real in this multiplicity is in the oneness of every one (existent). So there appeared from Him only one. Therefore this is the real meaning of ‘from the One only one may emerge’: even if the entirety of the world appeared from Him, there would only appear from Him one (created reality), because He is ‘with’⁶ every one (of the creatures) with respect to its oneness.

Now this is something that can be perceived only by the (truly enlightened) ‘people of Allah’,⁷ whereas the philosophers mean this [i.e. that from one (cause) only one (effect) can emerge] in an entirely different sense, and this is something about which they were mistaken.

[II.434.18]

Because of the rarity of the underlying spiritual perception of this reality restricted, as Ibn ‘Arabi stresses, to the fully enlightened ‘people of Allah’, this passage just quoted above is not readily understood. Perhaps it is because of its great importance and central role in Ibn 'Arabî's cosmology that the famous 'Abd-al-Qâdir al-Jazâ'irî,⁸ the editor of the original Bulaq edition of the Futûhât that is the basis for all modern versions, added a rare long footnote comment at this point in the Futûhât [II.434–435] to explain it in terms of the oneness of being. Because his comments here are very helpful in this regard, we shall analyse them at length in what follows.

Here he explains that this passage refers to two related issues: 'the one-ness of every being' (wahdat kull mawjûd) and 'the unicity of Being (ahadiyyat al-wujûd)'. He begins by pointing out that everyone and every thing has a unique 'face' or individual reality that makes it distinctive; thus there are no two persons or entities with the same reality, since otherwise they would be one (the same), and not two. So this means that there appears from the One Creator only one (reality) because this unique 'special face' is never repeated (see also section 2.8).

This explanation, however, is not entirely satisfactory (for our purposes, at least), because the negation of repetition does not imply the negation of multiplicity, which is clearly witnessed in the world.

'Abd al-Qâdir then goes on to explain that we can reconcile the apparent multiplicity with the actual oneness of creation by correcting our view of time and space. He says that our imagination pictures time as a container which contains the things in the existence (as Newton later imagined time, but the theory of Relativity superseded his view, as we mentioned in section 1.3) so we see things arranged in time (and space), and then we imagine multiplicity. But if we imagine ourselves 'out of time', and look at the whole existence in time and space, we shall see a single existence without a beginning and without an end, and without any relation to a self-subsistent distinct time and space as we usually imagine them. For example, every person is one despite having arms and legs and many visible and invisible parts.

But again this explanation is not entirely satisfactory, since it shows the unity of all being (wâhidiyya), but not its unique metaphysical 'unicity' (ahadiyya). It shows that the whole of existence is 'one' when we look at it as a single whole, or from outside space and time. But still, since we actually perceive (or imagine) ourselves as existing inside this space-time whole as partial entities, we also see many other entities – or in other words, manifest multiplicity. So we still need to explain how this multiplicity appears from the unique Oneness of the Real.

'Abd al-Qâdir then goes on to explain that if the philosophers meant by saying 'from the one there only emerges one' that Allah created only the First Intellect (which is the way this maxim was understood by Ibn Sina and most Islamic philosophers), then this Intellect (alone) gave rise to the world. In one sense this may be true for Ibn 'Arabî, but he adds – as we have just seen at the beginning of this section – that Allah has a unique Face specifically turned to every single entity in the world, through Which its existence is preserved [II.434.18]. But in that case the philosophers are contradicting – or at least failing to illustrate the relevance of – their own proposition (Ibn 'Arabî also discussed these views in al-Durrat Al-Baydâ: 142–143), because again the world is many and the First Intellect is one; so we still need then to explain how this multiplicity of the world appeared out of the First Intellect.

In Ibn 'Arabî's view, however, every individual entity in the world always has a direct creative relation with Allah, and that is how its existence exists and is maintained. If Allah did not maintain this creative 'special face' between Himself and each entity, it would cease to exist instantly (Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ': 133). In order to solve the problem of unicity–multiplicity relation, Ibn 'Arabî actually asserts that this interface between the One and all the many existent things does not happen all at once. Rather, at any instant, as we have just seen, there is in reality a single relation or interface – a unique divine 'with-ness', as he calls it (following the Qur'an) – between the One and each 'one' of the entities of the world. But what happens at this particular instant with the other entities in the world, since their existence is also preserved only through this unique creative relation between them and their Creator, the unique One? The answer is: they do cease to exist, and then they are (immediately) re-created again and again [II.385.4]. We shall discuss this central metaphysical principle of the 'ever-renewed creation' in section 5.6.

Therefore, in order to understand the relation between the unique Oneness of the Real and the multiplicity of the creatures, Ibn 'Arabî adds time to the previous philosophical statement, which can be then reformulated as: 'from the One there can emerge only one at a time'. This re-statement is indeed the key to understanding Ibn 'Arabî's unique views of time and the oneness of being and to solving the mystery of the relation between the Real and His creation. In this way the world is created by Allah 'in series' (Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ': 139), and not just one single time, just as the repeated images of a movie are displayed on the television or computer screen.

Ibn 'Arabî, moreover, affirms that this particular mode of creation was chosen by Allah to be like that, although in fact He might have done it in any other way, so it is not an (external) restriction over Him:

So this is not necessarily implied by the Existence of the Real: i.e. that for example only one can emerge out from Him, and that this is impossible (otherwise). But He willed that and He wished it, and if He had wished that the world should exist all at once, and that nothing were dependent on anything (else), it would not be difficult for Allah [to make it like that, and in this case – if Allah had wished that the world should exist all at once – then we would be living in a different logic, but because Allah created it in this way as it is now (ruled by the laws of causality: see also section 7.7), we observe that from the one nothing might emerge except one at a time, since otherwise this would violate the oneness of the Real according to our current logic].

(Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ': 139)

The meaning of this principle is in fact derived directly from the well-known verse in the Qur'an that we have already discussed in many earlier contexts:

each Day He is upon some (one, single) task (55:29). Ibn 'Arabî quotes this verse most frequently in his discussion on time, and it is the basis of his unique 'quantization' of time. So since Allah is One, He does only one single creative task each 'Day' – of course not this normal observable day that we encounter, in which an almost infinite number of tasks or events are happening.

5.3 The unicity of God and His names

According to Ibn 'Arabî and to Islam, and also some other religions, Allah is both One (Wâhid) and 'Unique' (al-Ahad, 'the Unit').⁹ The first attribute means that He is one God (not many) and the second attribute means that He is not divisible into other entities. Moreover, as is indicated by the more metaphysically problematic second attribute of 'Unicity' (ahadiyya), we can not describe Him as a single entity (like other entities) with specific dimensions that are placed somewhere in space or began at a point of time. Allah is simply uniquely different from whatever we may know or imagine. We can not achieve full knowledge or awareness of the Essence (Dhât) of Allah because this is beyond our perception. It is, however, possible to describe Him and speak about His Attributes and divine Names, for example as they are mentioned in the Qur'an and the Sunna. We may attain knowledge about the divine Names and descriptions of Allah, but not about His Essence (Dhât) Himself. As Chittick has pointed out, for Ibn 'Arabî: 'God is known through the relations, attributions and correlations between Him and the cosmos. But the Essence is unknown, since nothing is related to It' (SDK: 62). Whatever the human being may know about Allah is therefore in the end partial and incomplete. No one can ever achieve full knowledge or awareness of Him; the maximum knowledge one might achieve of the Essence of Allah is to know that He is different from anything [IV.301.17]. Ibn 'Arabî expressed this nicely in his prayers: 'it is enough for me that You know my ignorance. You are as I know, and beyond what I know to a degree that I do not know' (Beneito and Hirtenstein 2000: 131–132)¹⁰ This is because we may know Him only through His manifestations in us and in the world, but His manifestations are never exactly repeated.

Human Being, however, is the creature most capable of knowing Allah, the Exalted, because when He created Adam (the Perfect Human Being), He taught him all the Names (2:31)¹¹ and ordered the angels to prostrate before Adam out of respect and acknowledgement (2:34, 7:11, 17:61, 18:50, 20:116, II.46.33). But knowing Allah is an infinite process for us, because Allah Himself is not finite, in the sense that He never manifests in the same form twice [I.266.10], and also because His manifestations reveal some of his attributes and descriptions, but do not fully reveal His ultimate Essence or Identity. Ibn 'Arabî summarizes this by saying, in one of his many elaborations of the famous Divine Saying of the 'Hidden Treasure', that:

Allah, the Exalted, 'loved to be known' in order to grant the world the privilege of knowing Him, the most Exalted. But He knew that His Identity

(Essence) can not be (completely) known and nobody can ever know Him as He knows Himself. The best knowledge that can be achieved about Him, His Highness, in the world is that the knowers know that they do not know. And this (human inability to know the Essence) is (also) called knowledge, as the Righteous (Abû Bakr al-Siddîq) said: 'The incapacity to attain realization is a realization.'¹²

[III.429.7]

As Ibn 'Arabî notes elsewhere, the Prophet Muhammad has also clearly expressed this same recognition by saying: 'I can not enumerate the ways of praising Thee: Thou art as Thou has praised Thyself' [Kanz: 2131, 3652, I.126.15, I.271.5, etc.], and Allah also said: 'but they do not encompass Him with knowledge' (20:110).

Of course the Prophet Muhammad also said: 'Allah has 99 Names, one hundred less one: whoever enumerates them is going to enter the Garden' [Kanz: 1933, 1934 and 1938]. However, this does not restrict the divine Names to 99, as some Muslims misunderstand it. In fact Ibn 'Arabî says that the divine Names of Allah are countless and that everything in the cosmos is a divine Name. But the 99 enumerated Names are the principal Names [IV.288.2] that have been mentioned in Qur'an and Sunna. Moreover, although each Name of the divine Names is different from others, Ibn 'Arabî repeatedly cautions his readers that all that Names are intrinsically implicit in each one of them, which is to say that each Name can be described by all the other Names [I.101.5]. However, despite the multiplicity of these Names, they all refer to the same One Absolute Essence of Allah, while conveying different Attributes of Him due to His manifestations and relations [I.48.23]. Multiplicity is not an intrinsic property of Allah Himself, since Allah has many different Names only when considered with relation to His creations:

The Names of the Real do not become plural and multiple except in manifestation. But with respect to Him, the property of number does not rule over them, not even its (the number's) root, which is (the number) one. So His Names, in respect to Him, may not be (exclusively or restrictively) described by unity or multiplicity.

[II.122.19, see also Al-Masâ'il: 109]

So in fact even the Names 'the One', 'the Unique' and the like are not descriptions of Allah with respect to Himself, but with respect to his creation. If we suppose that there is no creation, there would be no need to describe Him by the One or any other Name. Ibn 'Arabî frequently points out that this is just like the fact that the meaning of the number one is only introduced with regard to its relation to the other numbers.

So Allah may be known only through His divine Names. And because these Names are countless, our knowledge of Allah may never be complete. It is these knowable divine Names that are actively engaged and manifested in the creation.

That is why we see multiplicity and diversity in the cosmos.¹³ In fact Ibn ‘Arabî maintains that everything in the world is in essence a divine Name, simply because everything is a cause that we need, and Allah says: ‘you are in need of Allah’ (35:15) (III.208.7; see also section 7.7). Also He said that ‘He is the First and the Last and the Manifest and the Hidden’ (57:3). He manifests in all things, so the things are not other than Him; but also the things are not (identical with) Him, as we shall explain shortly.

However, we should take all these descriptions and names as mere approximations, because they are words spoken in our own language: the names (words) that we know are actually the names of the Names, and not the Names themselves [II.56.33]. Although we may know about Allah by knowing His Attributes and Names, those outward verbal Names are words in our language so that we may, for example, look up their meanings in the dictionary, or even use them to name and describe people and things. So although those same familiar words are Names of Allah, their actual meanings are quite distinct when Allah is called by them. For this reason Allah is named as al-fard (‘the Singular’), because He is distinct (or ‘singled-out’: mutafarrid) from the creation [IV.276.33]. Also, all His Names are described by their ‘singular uniqueness’ (al-tafarrud). As Chittick has pointed out, those words that are revealed to us (through the Qur’an and Sunna) are the outward forms (sûra), while Allah’s own knowledge of Himself is the reality or inner meaning (ma’nâ) (SDK: 34). Similarly the Names that are revealed to us in everything in the cosmos are the outward forms, while the inner meaning of those forms is Allah’s own knowledge of Himself. Ibn ‘Arabî showed that:

Allah says: ‘Call upon Allah or call upon the All-Merciful: whoever you call upon, to Him belong the most beautiful Names’ (17:110). So here He made the most beautiful Names belong to Allah as they (also) belong to the All-Merciful.

But here there is a subtle point: since every Name has a meaning (ma’nâ) and a form (sûra), ‘Allah’ is called by the Name’s meaning, while the ‘All-Merciful’ is called by the Name’s form. This is because the (divine) Breath is ascribed to the All-Merciful,¹⁴ and through this (creative) Breath the divine words become manifest within the levels of the Void (khalâ) where the cosmos becomes manifest. So we call Him only by the form of the Names (and only He Himself knows the real meaning of these names).

[II.396.30]

Therefore whatever knowledge we may acquire about Allah actually belongs to His Name ‘the All-Merciful’, and the difference between the two Names is like the difference between the form and the meaning. According to Ibn ‘Arabî, this relation is a direct implication of the verse in Qur’an: ‘the All-Merciful mounted on the Throne’ (20:5). In the first chapter of Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya (p. 89), which talks about the Universal Spirit (al-Rûh al-Kullî) – which is the ‘Greatest Element/Single Monad’, as we shall see in sections 6.2–6 – Ibn ‘Arabî makes a comparison between the Names Allah and the All-Merciful. Under a section called: ‘a secret for the special (people of Allah)’, Ibn ‘Arabî says that the difference between those two Names is like the difference between this Universal Spirit on which Allah mounted (or established His authority) and the Throne on which the All-Merciful mounted (or established His authority). We shall see in section 6.6 that the same comparison can be made between the Single Monad and the Greatest Element. Just as the divine Throne encompasses all the cosmos, everything in the cosmos is related to the Name ‘the All-Merciful’ [II.467.21].

5.4 The metaphysical triplicity (‘trinity’) of the cosmos

According to Ibn ‘Arabî, as we have already mentioned in section 3.6, the divine Names can be grouped into three categories: the Names of Essence (asmâ’ al-dhât), Names of Descriptions or Attributes (asmâ’ al-sifât) and Names of Actions (asmâ’ al-af’âl) [I.423.20, I.67.28, see also Inshâ’ al-Dawâ’ir: 22]. Therefore the Universal Intellect or Adamic ‘Perfect Human Being’, who is created ‘according to the Image of the All-Merciful’ [Kanz: 1146, 1148, 1149], came out with three faces because he is based on these three unique divine dimensions [I.446.19, II.434.16], although he is in essence one indivisible entity.

That is why Ibn ‘Arabî asserts that (everything in) the cosmos is built on a kind of metaphysical triplicity [III.126.21], and he later explains this further by saying:

So the body is (composed of at least) eight points, just as the knowable (aspects) of the Real are the Essence and the seven Attributes: They are not Him, and They are not other than Him. (Likewise) the body is not other than the points, and the points are not other than the body. Now we only said that eight points are the minimum (required to compose) bodies because the name ‘line’ is for two points or more. And the origin of the plane is from two lines or more, so the plane is from (at least) four points. And the origin of the body is from two planes or more, so the body is from eight points.

Therefore the name (attribute) of ‘length’ is applicable to the body from the line (included in it); the name ‘width’ is applicable to it from the plane; and the name ‘depth’ is applicable to it from the combination of two planes. Thus the body is built on a triplicity (of dimensions: tathlith), just as the formation of proofs (in syllogistic logic) is based on a threefold structure, and just as the Source of existence – that is, the Real – only becomes manifest through the bestowing of existence through three realities: His Entity, His willing intention (tawajjuh) and His Speaking (the Command ‘Be’). Thus the world became manifest ‘according to the Form’ of the One Who gives it existence, both in sensation (i.e. the visible world) and in (its spiritual dimensions of) meaning.

[III.276.1]

For this reason – i.e. the threefold structures underlying all generative processes – Ibn ‘Arabî emphasizes that we need two elements (subject and object) in order to produce a result (act) [I.278.14], because ‘from the one alone nothing may be produced’ [III.126.1].

In fact the metaphysical triplicity of subject, object and resulting act is fundamental throughout Ibn ‘Arabî’s cosmology. Thus he summarizes the process of creation by saying that the Universal Intellect (subject or symbolic ‘father’) is writing down in the Universal Soul (the object or ‘mother’) all that Allah wants to create till the Last Day (i.e. the result or ‘son’) [Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 7–8] (see section 4.3). Indeed Ibn ‘Arabî even wrote a separate treatise dedicated to explaining certain threefold structures of expression and meaning in the Qur’an.¹⁵ It is noteworthy in this regard that the metaphysical concept of triplicity is also fundamental in many other ancient religions and philosophies, including the Babylonian, Persian, Egyptian, Roman, Japanese and Indian.¹⁶

For this reason, Ibn ‘Arabî regards the number three as the first ‘single’ (or odd: fardî) number, because he consistently considers that one is not a number (since the Arabic word for ‘number’, ‘adad, implies multiplicity), while two is the first number. But since the number two is even, nothing may be formed without a third, intermediate principle to link or interface between the one and the two:

So no contingent entity (mumkin) has come to exist through one (alone), but only through a plurality (or ‘conjunction’ of elements: jam’), and the least of plurals is three.¹⁷ So since the (divine) Name ‘the Singular’ (al-fard) is threefold in its effects, He gives to the contingent entity that He brings into existence those three things (i.e. Essence, Will and the creative Command) that He must unavoidably consider, and (only then) He brings (the contingent thing) into existence.

... Therefore this (metaphysical principle of) triplicity runs inwardly through the totality of all things, because it exists in the (divine creative) Source.

[III.126.5]

Now the Universal Intellect is the intermediary reality (also called barzakh or ‘connector’) between Allah and the world, and therefore It has two interfaces: It faces Allah from the side of His unity, and It faces the world from the side of His threefold creative dimensions. When It faces Allah (in order to perceive knowledge), It turns away from us (the world), and this is our ‘night’; and when It faces the world, this is our ‘daytime’ or manifest existence. The Perfect Human Being or First Intellect is – according to the famous hadith already discussed above – the ‘Image’ or ‘Form’ of the Real, and likewise the world is the subsequent image of this Perfect Human Being. Hence the manifest world, like the Perfect Human Being, is ‘according to the Image’ of the Real Himself – although without the Perfect Human Being it could not participate in this perfection (see section 3.1). So if we consider the manifest images of the world, we can potentially discover the face of the Perfect Human Being reflected in it, and if we come to know the Perfect Human Being, then we also come to know Allah.

So this is the fundamental ontological triplicity of 'Allah-Human Being-world' or 'Allah-Intellect-world' [I.125–126].

According to Ibn 'Arabî, this fundamental triplicity of Allah-Human Being-world is manifested again within each human being as in our threefold nature as spirit-heart-body. The spirit is the single immaterial and mysterious divine reality that is the principle underlying life and creation, while the body is the place where this creation occurs in many different ways, so it is composed of many different material parts (multiplicity). And the heart is the link between the body and the spirit through which the spirit exerts its effects on the multiplicity of the body. On the other hand, the sensations collected by the body are eventually raised up to the spirit as spiritual (immaterial) meanings and realities.

Another favourite symbolic triplicity for Ibn 'Arabî, deeply rooted in the symbolism of the Qur'an and certain key hadith, is the astronomical triplicity of the Sun–Moon–Earth.¹⁸ The Earth gains its life from the Sun, and when the Sun does not face the Earth from a specific direction, the Moon takes part and reflects the light of the Sun with a degree that is small or large according to its relative place in space. In fact, if one wants to look at the Sun, one is instead obliged to look at the Moon when it is full, because the Sun can not be seen unveiled at all, since it will burn up everything that its direct light falls on. This symbolism is directly connected, for Ibn 'Arabî, with the famous 'hadith of the veils', according to which Allah has 70,000 veils of light and darkness, such that if He removed those veils His light would burn everyone who tried to see Him directly [Kanz: 29846, 39210].

Indeed the trinity of Sun–Moon–Earth particularly well illustrates Ibn 'Arabî's view of the creation and its relation to the Creator. Although the creation by Allah is done 'through' the Universal Intellect, Ibn 'Arabî also emphasizes that Allah also has a direct, 'individual face' turned toward every single entity in the world. Similarly the Sun does not only give its light indirectly through the Moon, but also much more directly to the Earth, so everything on Earth is connected with the Sun in the course of the day with different degrees and at different times.

5.5 The oneness of being

The 'oneness of being' (wahdata al-wujûd) is one of Ibn 'Arabî's most controversial doctrines which many later Muslim scholars attributed to him, usually with very different (and often more polemic than philosophical) meanings and interpretations. Although Ibn 'Arabî himself never mentioned the precise term 'wahdata al-wujûd' in his writings,¹⁹ it is quite evident that Ibn 'Arabî's books are full of statements that develop notions related to the oneness of being in one way or another, in many places quite explicitly and rigorously. This is especially the case in his most controversial book, Fusûs al-Hikam, for which he was widely criticized, but related discussions are also to be found throughout the Futûhât and his other shorter works. Indeed the possible misunderstandings of this conception clearly underpin Ibn 'Arabî's distinctive multi-layered, intentionally 'scattered' rhetoric and writing style throughout the Futûhât and other works, as he explained quite clearly in the key Introduction to the Futûhât itself.

The basic ontological issue for Ibn 'Arabî is very clear and simple: in many places throughout his writings, such as the long chapter 198 of the Futûhât [II.390–478] he follows the established Avicennan distinction, familiar to all students of Islamic theology and philosophy by his time, in dividing all conceivable things, in terms of existence, into three basic categories (see also section 2.3). There he says:

Know that the matter (of the nature of the reality) is the Real (al-haqq) and the creation (al-khalq): that is the absolute Existence that has always been and always is (existing); and absolute (contingent) possibility (imkân) that has always been and always is (possible to exist); and absolute non-existence that has always been and always is (non-existing). Now the absolute Existence does not accept non-existence, (and that applies) eternally and perpetually. The absolute non-existence does not accept existence, (and likewise that applies) eternally and perpetually. But the absolutely possible does accept existence through an (ontologically determining) cause, and it also accepts non-existence through a cause – and (that contingent ontological status also applies) eternally and perpetually.

So the absolute Existence is Allah, nothing other than Him. The absolute non-existence is the impossible-to-exist, nothing other than it. And the absolutely possible (of existence) is the world, nothing other than it: its (ontological) level is between the absolute Existence and absolute non-existence. So in so far as some of it faces non-existence, it accepts non-existence; and in so far as some of it faces Existence, it accepts existence. So some of it is darkness, and that is the Nature. And some of it is light, and that is the 'Breath of the All-Merciful' [that is the 'real-through-whom-creation-takes-place' (al-haqq al-makhlûq bihi), see sections 6.3 and 6.5] which bestows existence upon this possible (realm of created beings).²⁰

[II.426.26]

After that Ibn 'Arabî explains the different types of Creation according to this creative Spirit – or the divine Name 'Light', which he often uses as synonymous with the divine creative and existentiating power – is attached to the 'dark', contingent form of the creatures. Then he goes on to give the crucial analysis which clearly explains his profound view of the oneness of being in the most explicit and direct way, based on evident verses in the Qur'an. He says:

So the possible (contingent) existence became manifest between light and darkness, nature and spirit, the unseen and the visible, and the 'veiled' and unveiled. Therefore that which is close to (waliya) absolute Existence, from among all that (contingent realm) we have mentioned is light and spirit, and all of what we have mentioned which is close to absolute non-existence is

'shadow' and body – and from the totality (of those different kinds of contingent existent) form (sûra: of the whole of creation) comes to be. So when you consider the world from the side of the Breath of the All-Merciful, you say: 'It is nothing but Allah'. But when you consider the world with regard to its being equally balanced and well-proportioned (i.e. between existence and non-existence), then you say these are creations (makhluqât). So [in the famous Qur'anic expression of this fundamental ontological reality, addressed to the Prophet]: 'you (Muhammad) did not throw', inasmuch as you are a creation [so that it is God who was really acting], 'when you did throw', inasmuch as you are real (haqq^{am}), 'but Allah threw' (8:17), because He is the Real (al-Haqq).

For it is through the (divine creative) Breath that the whole world is 'breathing' (animated with life), and the Breath made it appear. So (this creative divine Breath) is inner dimension (bâtin) for the Real, and the manifest dimension (zâhir) for creation: thus the inner dimension of the Real is the manifest dimension for creation, and the inner dimension of creation is the manifest aspect of the Real – and through their combination the generated existence (al-kawn) is actualized, since without that combination it would (only) be said to be Real and creation. Thus the Real is for the absolute Existence, and creation is for the absolutely possible. So what becomes non-existent of the world and its form that disappears is through what is close to the side of non-existence; and what remains of it and does not allow for non-existence is through what is close to the side of Existence. Hence these two things (Existence and non-existence) are continually ruling over the world, so the creation is always new with every Breath, both in this world and in the hereafter.

Therefore the Breath of the All-Merciful is continually directed (toward the Act of creation), and Nature is continually taking on existence as the forms for this Breath, so that the divine Command does not become inactive, because inactivity is not appropriate (for It). So constantly forms are newly appearing and becoming manifest, according to their states of readiness to accept the (divine creative) Breath. And this is the clearest possible (description) of the (divine) origination (ibdâ') of the world. And Allah says the truth and He shows the way (33:4).

[II.427.17]

To summarize, therefore, this expression implies that the world can be conceived symbolically as a mixture of light and 'darkness'. For Ibn 'Arabî, this darkness is quite literally nothing: it is simply the absence of light.²¹ Light, on the other hand, is ultimately the Real (via the divine Name 'The Light', al-nûr), and the Real is One. So all existence is in essence one. Multiplicity appears through creation as a result of mixing the oneness of light with the darkness of non-existence. In other words, we can say – since darkness is nothing – that the creation is the constantly repeating relative appearance (manifestation) of the Real. The Real manifests most perfectly in the Perfect Human Being, and relatively in other creatures, and these manifestations happen through the Universal Intellect. So in real existence there is only the Real Who is Allah and this Universal Intellect who is the Messenger of Allah. So there is in fact no ontologically self-subsistent 'evil', since the creation is all good – an aspect of this cosmological conception which, taken out of context, could easily give rise to obvious religious and ethical objections. Hence what we perceive as evil is in reality the absence of good, just as darkness is the absence of light.²²

Thus this is the basic principle, but in order to understand it we need to explain how the mixing between light and darkness is done, which is again to say: 'how is the world created?' – which raises the question of time yet again. Ibn 'Arabî's understanding of this process of creation or cosmogony will be developed further below and in sections 9.7–8.

Given the possible confusions and misunderstandings surrounding this understanding of creation, it is clear why Ibn 'Arabî never declared these ideas in overly simplistic terms in his books, but rather scattered them throughout his writings – as he explains quite explicitly at the very beginning of his Futûhât [I.38.25] – so that the common people would not misunderstand them (as indeed happened in later times) and so that only those properly 'prepared' would be able to discover their profound intended meanings.

Moreover, we have to admit that Ibn 'Arabî takes it a courageous step further: although the Universal Intellect, and hence the entire manifest world, is created by Allah, Ibn 'Arabî emphasizes that it also is not 'other than Allah' (SDK: 113), because ultimately only Allah has real absolute and necessary (independent) existence [I.194.8], and the world exists by and through Him not by itself. As Chittick has summarized this perspective (SDK: 81), if Ibn 'Arabî was asked the question: 'Are the things the same as God?', his answer would be: 'Yes and No'. That is to say, they are, in his own words, 'He/not He' (Huwa lâ huwa);²³ or equally, one could say: 'they are not Him, and they are not other than Him' (Lâ hiya huwa wa lâ hiya ghayruh).²⁴ For if we say 'Yes' (alone), then this would require us confining Allah, the most Exalted, in objects, which is an obvious misconception. And if we say 'No' (alone), then this would require the assertion of other separate and self-subsistent existents, and this – for Ibn 'Arabî – is also wrong. So the ultimate truth requires combining both ontological views and saying that the things are in essence 'not other than Allah' – although in the forms that we see, they also are not (identical with) Allah. These forms do not have real independent existence, since otherwise Allah would not be 'the One (alone)' (al-wâhid) – but He is the One (alone), and the created things exist by and through Him, not by themselves. For Ibn 'Arabî, this is in fact 'the secret of sincerity' (sirr al-ikhhlâs), which is also 'the secret of destiny' (sirr al-qadar) that makes clear the fundamental distinction between the Creator and the creation, the Eternal and the created – and this secret, he explains, has been hidden from most people [III.182.11].

Chittick goes on to show that, for Ibn 'Arabî, everything in the world is a divine name of Allah (SDK: 94); or rather, the things are the manifestations of the Names. From the general Qur'anic verse O people, you are truly in need of Allah (35:15), Ibn ‘Arabî easily concludes that everything (that is a cause, and everything is a cause) is a divine Name, because we are in need of these causes, so they may not be other than Him [I.288.16]. Again we can not say that these secondary and intermediate causes (asbâb) are Him – though in their most ultimate essence and Source they are all one, and this one is not other than Him. But of course someone simply hearing such an expression will initially think that they mean that the particular shape or body of the created objects that are the causes: that is why we can not simply stop at saying (as many later Sufi poets sometimes did) that ‘all things are Allah’. Ibn ‘Arabî explained these key ontological distinctions most clearly and extensively in his Fusûs al-Hikam, especially in chapter 3 ‘on the wisdom of transcendence (al-hikma al-subûhiyya) in the word of Noah’;²⁵ but he also took up this same subject at many places throughout the Futûhât [I.90.17, and the extensive references cited in the previous paragraph].

In a similar manner, Ibn ‘Arabî often describes the world of all creation as a kind of ‘mirror’ on which Allah’s Image is reflected [IV.430.1]. If someone looks at the world from the real side of actual existence, then he will see the Image of the Real, Allah the most Glorious; but if he considers the world only from the side of its non-existence (if we suppose this is possible), then he will see an image of the unreal:

Therefore the reason why this (ontological) ‘isthmus’ (al-barzakh) – which is the possible (realm of contingent existence) between (pure) non-existence and Existence – is the occasion (sabab) for its being attributed both permanence and non-existence, is because it corresponds to both those things by its essence. That is because the absolute non-existence stood up like a mirror for the Absolute Existence, so the (divine) Existence saw His Image in it, so that this Image is the essential reality (‘ayn’) of the possible. That is why this ‘possible’ (as the Perfect Human Being or First Intellect) had a permanent individual-essence (‘ayn thâbita’) and state of (definable) ‘thingness’ already in the state of its non-existence. And that is why it emerged (in its contingent, created existence) according to the Image of the Absolute Existence. This is also that is why it was also describable as non-finite, so it is referred to as infinite.

But the Absolute Existence is also like a mirror for the absolute non-existence. So the absolute non-existence saw itself in the mirror of the Real, but the image that it saw was itself the essential reality (‘ayn’) of non-existence by which this possible (existence) is described. Therefore it is also described as infinite, just as the absolute non-existence is infinite – hence the possible is described as (inherently) non-existing (ma’dûm). So it is like the image that appears between the mirror and the person looking in the mirror: that image is not that very person himself, but it is not other than him. Likewise the possible, with respect to as its (very limited kind of) permanence, is not the very essence of the Real Himself; yet it is not other than Him. Similarly, with respect to its (only relative) non-existence, it is not the same thing as of the (absolutely) impossible, yet it is not entirely other than it. So it is as though it is something relative (depending on how it is viewed).

[III.47.32]

He also says:

If the unreal (non-existence) had a tongue (to speak), it would tell you: 'you are according to my image', because it sees in you nothing but its own shadow, just as the Existence has speech and has said: 'you are (created) according to My Image' [Kanz: 1141–1150, and 15129], because He saw in you His own Image.

[IV.154.23]

So the world may not have a constant real (self-subsistent) existence, because only Allah may be described by that; and at the same time the world is not in constant non-existence, or it would not be there at all. Instead it is perpetually fluctuating, at every instant of creation, between existence and non-existence. And in fact, Ibn 'Arabī points out [II.303–304], this is the real meaning of the Qur'anic symbols of the 'daytime' and the 'night': when the Universal Intellect (Allah's Messenger) faces the Real, this would be a kind of 'night' for us, but when the Intellect/Messenger faces us – in each divine Act of creation – this is our manifest day (shahāda: what is 'seen' or manifest – see also the related discussions in sections 2.14 and 6.8 [Spreading the Shadows]). What makes sense of this distinction, of course, is Ibn 'Arabī's assertion of the central cosmogonic principle of perpetual re-creation, which we shall discuss next. From that perspective, the world is actually continually created 'in series', bit by bit, one entity at a time; so no two entities may gain real existence at the same time, because they gain their existence only through their constant re-creation by the Real who is One.

For Ibn 'Arabī, this rule or principle of serial creation and re-creation is in fact a direct implication of the verse 'each day He is upon some task' (55:29); at the same time, it is for him the actual underlying meaning of the familiar philosophical maxim 'from the one there might proceed only', which we discussed in section 5.2. We have seen, however, that for Ibn 'Arabī this creative procedure is not therefore imposed on the Real; rather, it remains His choice which He makes when He creates the world.

We also must remember that this divine oneness manifest in the Act of creation that we can know and observe – which grounds our own experience of reality and the cosmos – is clearly rooted in the Single Monad. Yet this Single Monad (the First Intellect, 'Muhammadan Reality', etc.) is itself but one of an unknown number of divinely 'originated' (ibdā') 'Roaming Spirits' (see section 1.4), so there is indeed some kind of (for us) further unknowable multiplicity on this higher ontological level. However, it would appear that again we can apply the same judgement to those Roaming Spirits, according to our own human logic, that they may not be ‘other than’ Allah, nor the same as Him (since He originated them): so they also are in this ontological status of ‘He/not He’, which again indicates an ultimate Oneness on the highest divine level.

We have actually already summarized the basic themes of this section right at the end of section 2.1, when we recalled Ibn ‘Arabī’s conclusion that ‘time is defined by motion, and motion is defined by the different positions of the formable monads, and those monads are different states (times or instances) or forms of the Single Monad, that alone has a real existence’. Therefore, ‘there is no god but Allah’ and this highest created entity (i.e. ‘the Single Monad’) is the (all-encompassing) Messenger of Allah. Allah sent this Messenger ‘to take us (and the whole created world) from the darkness’ of non-existence ‘into the light’ of existence (Qur’an 57:9). But although this Single Monad is not Allah, he is not other than Allah: he is some sort of fundamental manifestation of Allah, and it is through this primordial manifestation that Allah can accurately and meaningfully be described, in the famous Qur’anic expression, as ‘the First and the Last, the Manifest and the Hidden’ (57:3).

5.6 The principle of ever-renewed creation

Ibn ‘Arabī’s conception of time is profoundly rooted in one of the most famous and distinctive – and uniquely and problematically experiential – features of his world-view, the principle of the ‘ever-renewed creation’ of all the manifest worlds at every instant. Thus he affirms, in a more abstract statement of this perception:

There is no doubt that the ‘accidents’ [i.e. the particular forms taken by creation in all the different levels of existence at each moment] become non-existent in the second instant-of-time after the instant of their coming into existence. So the Real is continuously watching over the world of bodies and the higher and lower (spiritual and imaginal) substances, such that whenever a (particular) form through which they exist becomes nonexistent, He creates at that same instant another form like it or opposed to it, which (new creation) preserves it from non-existence at every instant. So He is continuously creating, and the world is continuously in need of Him.

[II.208.27]

He also makes it clear that this continuously renewed ‘return to non-existence’ is an intrinsic condition of all the created forms, and not due to any external force [II.385.4]. Typically Ibn ‘Arabī relates this fundamental insight to the Qur’anic verse: ‘but they are unaware of the new creation (khalq jadīd)’ (50:15), which he frequently quotes²⁶ – along with the famous verse concerning the ‘Day of the divine Task’ (55:29) that he cites in relation to his intimately related concept of the quantization of time.

Therefore the existence of things in the world is not continuous, as we imagine and observe, because Allah is continuously and perpetually creating every thing whatsoever – at every level and domain of existence – at every instant, or in every single ‘Day of event’ [II.454.21, II.384.30]. This means that, just as time (for Ibn ‘Arabî) may exist only at one atomic instant at a time, so also space (and whatever it may contain) also exists only one instant at a time. In fact there is no difference between space and time: they are both containers for events (see section 2.1 and 3.6).

We have already seen in previous chapters that, according to this principle of ever-renewed creation, Ibn ‘Arabî explains motion (section 2.6) in a new unique and unprecedented manner, and he also explains the ‘intertwining’ of days (section 4.4) as well as some other related philosophical and theological concepts. Indeed this hypothetical (though Ibn ‘Arabî affirmed it through unveiling) principle forms the basis of Ibn ‘Arabî’s overall view of the world, and we shall use it as one of three key hypotheses in the following chapter in which we explain his Single Monad model of the cosmos.

Of course this re-creation must be happening at extraordinarily high ‘rates of refreshment’, but Ibn ‘Arabî has no difficulty in finding scriptural allusions and theological and other arguments supporting this distinctive conception, in addition to the direct experiential evidence of the spiritual ‘knowers’ (‘urafâ). He says:

The form becomes non-existent in the next instant-of-time after the time of its coming into existence, so the Real is always Creator, and the monad (substance, jawhar) is always in need (of the Creator for its existence). For if the form would remain (for two instants of time or longer), those two principles would not hold. But this is impossible [at least theologically speaking, since otherwise the creatures would be independent of Allah, whereas only Allah maybe described as (completely) Self-sufficient (al-Ghanî), while everything created has the essential intrinsic quality of ontological ‘poverty’ (faqr) or need of the Creator for its very existence], so it is impossible for the (created) form to remain for two instants of time (or longer).

(Al-Tanazzulât Al-Layliyya: 55)

So from the theological point of view, neither the forms nor the essences of the created world may remain (constant) for more than one moment because if they do they would be independent of the Creator – whereas both the essence and the ‘accidents’ or form of the creatures are always in need of their Creator. The essence needs ever-renewed forms because it exists only when it wears a form; and the form does not stay the same, because, if it did so, the Real would not be Perpetually-Creating (Khallâq), and the individual form would be at least partly independent of the Real.

In addition, Ibn ‘Arabî argues in similar theological terms that there are never any two truly identical forms, since otherwise Allah will not be described as ‘the Infinitely Vast’ (al-Wâsi’). But because of this unique divine Vastness (al-ittisâ’ al-ilâhî) [I.266.8], the monad will never wear two identical forms: i.e. it never wears exactly the same form for more than one instant; nothing is ever truly repeated [I.721.22]. The new forms, he admits, are often ‘similar’ to the previous ones but they are not the ‘same’ [II.372.21, III.127.24]. Ibn ‘Arabî summarized this argument as follows:

The world at every instant of time (zamân fard) is re-formed (takawwun) and disintegrated. So the individual entity of the substance of the world (‘ayn jawhar al-‘alam) has no persistence (in existence) except through its receiving of this formation (takwîn) within it. Therefore the world is in a state of needfulness perpetually: either the forms are in need (of a creator) to bring them forth from non-existence into existence; or else the substance [jawhar: i.e. the substrate for the created ‘forms’ or ‘accidents’] is in need to preserve its existence, because unavoidably a condition for its existence is the existence of the formation of those (newly re-created forms) for which it is a substrate.

[II.454.19]

Elsewhere Ibn ‘Arabî gives a very short statement of this general ontological argument which is rather difficult to follow. There he says:

The doer (al-fâ’il) may not do nothing (although we use this expression widely in our daily language, but it is logical nonsense to say ‘do nothing’), and the thing may not become non-existent (simply) by its opposite, because (the thing and its opposite) may not meet, and (also) because the opposite does not exist (at that same time) . . . So that is why we said that (the form) becomes non-existent by itself (not through an external force or action) and is impossible to remain (in existence for two moments or longer).

(Al-Tanazzulât Al-Layliyya: 55, see also I.39.8)

Ibn ‘Arabî also made the same basic arguments near the beginning of the Futûhât, through the tongue of a mysterious ‘western Imâm’ who summarizes in an extremely condensed form – usually using rhymed prose and the language and terminology of kalam theology – a series of challenging ontological premises subscribed to by those who have moved beyond the simple creed of the common believers, which forms the second of the four levels of faith that Ibn ‘Arabî explained at the beginning of the Futûhât, and the mysterious speaker’s remarks in this section are roughly based on al-Ghazâlî’s intentionally popular kalam treatise Al-Iqtisâd fî Al-‘Itiqâd:

(4) Then he said: ‘Whatever individual entity (is said to) appear, but which does not give rise to any (distinctive) quality, then its existence is obviously impossible, since it does not give rise to any knowledge (as would be the case with anything that actually exists).’

(5) Then he said: ‘And it is impossible for it to fill different places, because its travelling (from one place to another) would be in the second instant of time of the time of its existence in itself, but it does not continue to reside (over two instants). And if it were possible for it to move by itself, then it would be self-subsistent and would have no need of place. Nor does (the advent of) its opposite make it cease to exist, because it (the opposite) does not exist (at the same time in the same place). Nor does (another) doer ('make it into nothing'), because although people do use the expression 'doing nothing', no intelligent person maintains that (is possible).

[I.39.7]

These statements are based on two issues: (1) the forms in the worlds of manifestation may not remain longer than a single instant of time, since otherwise they would be independent and self-subsistent; and (2) the created forms intrinsically return to non-existence after every instant. Otherwise they would either be brought into non-existence by the existence of their opposite (which can not exist at the same time and place, and therefore itself has to be newly created), or by another doer who 'makes them non-existent', which is also not logical, because it is nonsense to take literally the expression 'do nothing', where the result of an action is pure non-existence.

Something verbally resembling this notion of the 're-creation' or the perpetual 'recurrence of creation' had earlier been employed by the kalam scholars (MacEy 1994: 47, MacDonald 1927: 326–344) and particularly the Ash'arites who, like Ibn 'Arabī, maintained that the world is composed of substances and accidents (Corbin 1969: 203, Wolfson 1976: 466–517), or monads (substances: jawhar) and their forms or 'accidents' ('arad'). Ibn 'Arabī acknowledged their contribution – and certainly borrowed much of their theological language, giving it his own distinctive meanings – but he also took it a very important step further by saying that even those existing monads are only copies or reflections of the Single Monad or Substance that alone has a real existence [III.404.25, Al-Masā'il: 32]. Therefore, all the forms and monads in all the worlds are continuously and perpetually created and re-created by this Single Monad. Understanding the world therefore requires us to explain and understand how this Single Monad creates the monads and the forms, or in other words how to link the unique oneness of the Creator and the observable multiplicity of the world.

We shall also see in section 7.6 that with the re-creation principle one can easily resolve the standard EPR criticism of the (apparent) inconsistency between Quantum Theory and the theory of Relativity, which arises from our inadequate understanding of the nature of time.

6 The Single Monad model of the cosmos

The cosmos is only imagined, though it is – in reality – real.

And the only one who understands this fact has surely accomplished all the secrets of the path.

(Fusûs: 157)

The knowings of the Real are not hidden from anyone, except for someone who does not know the One/one.¹

[IV.181.31]

For Ibn ‘Arabî, a true understanding of time is the key to realizing and understanding the origin and structure of the world, by providing the link between its ultimate unity and apparent multiplicity. In this chapter we shall outline an integrated cosmological model based on Ibn ‘Arabî’s view of the oneness of being explained in Chapter 5, together with his understanding of the flow of time as explained in Chapter 4 and his unique view of creation in the Week as explained in Chapter 3. We shall call this model the ‘Single Monad model’. Under this model, Ibn ‘Arabî views the entire created world, both spiritual and manifest, as imaginal forms perpetually re-created by the Single Monad (al-jawhar al-fard) (Al-Mu’jam Al-Sûfi: 297), which alone has real existence. This Monad continuously and perpetually appears in different forms creating the phenomena of the visible and invisible worlds.

6.1 The three hypotheses

The Single Monad model can be summarized in the following three hypotheses – although, to be sure, Ibn ‘Arabî himself presents these concepts primarily not as the subjects of philosophical or theological arguments, but rather as the symbolic expression of the actual metaphysical realities directly perceived by himself and many other realized ‘Knowers’ (‘urafâ’, muhaqqiqûn, ahl Allâh and so on) through the processes of inspired ‘unveiling’

6.1.1 The Single Monad

There is only one Single Monad that can be said to have a real existence at any given time. This Monad creates other monads by manifesting different forms ('imaging Itself') to make a comprehensive 'still picture' of the entire cosmos. This still picture is created in one full Week of the original creative Days (of events), but this creative process is equivalent only to one single moment (the 'atom of time') for an observer inside the cosmos. Thus the observed cosmos is the eternally renewed succession of these still pictures made up by the Single Monad. The Monad – discussed in detail in the following sections – is an indivisible reality, but it is still itself a compound made up by the 'Greatest Element' that is the only real ultimate substance in existence.

6.1.2 The re-creation principle

The forms of manifestation cease to exist intrinsically right after the instant of their creation, and then they are re-created again by the Single Monad in every original creative 'Week' (i.e. at every moment). As discussed in sections 3.6 and 5.6, this perpetual re-creation happens in the 'six Days' of creation from Sunday to Friday, which accounts for the three dimensions of space. But we do not witness this creation process as such; instead we witness only the created world on the 'last Day' of Saturday. So the seven Days of the divine Week are in all one point of space-time (Days 6 to 1) which then – by repeating manifestations – manifests the space-time container (i.e. 'the Age', as discussed in section 2.19) which encompasses the world both spatially and temporally.

6.1.3 The actual flow of time

Since the world takes seven Days to be created by the Single Monad, which manifests the forms of the monads one by one in specific order, any observer would have to wait – somehow out of existence – six Days (from Sunday to Friday) in order to witness the next moment of creation (i.e. the next 'still picture') on the following Saturday. But of course we do not perceive all this, but rather experience it as a single infinitesimal moment. In each Day of these Days of creation, a corresponding dimension of the world is created. Therefore, the real flow of the actual created time does not go linearly, but rather is intertwined with the observable, normal earthly days in the special – and admittedly rather mystifying – manner that we have summarized in section 4.4, along with Ibn 'Arabi's account of the way in which the observable earthly daytimes and nights are 'taken out' of each other and separated by three daytimes and three nights in order to form the three-dimensional space that we experience.

6.2 The Single Monad

Borrowing his language from the atomist physical theories of earlier kalam theology, Ibn 'Arabi sometimes refers to the created world as being made up of monads and forms, or in his technical language, of ‘substances’ (jawâhir, s. jawhar) and various changing ‘accidents’ (ʿarâd, s. ʿarad) that inhere in and qualify those substances. In the process of manifestation, the substances appear to remain relatively constant, while the accidents do not stay for more than one moment. In this terminology, the ‘monad’ or substance (al-jawhar) is – as will be discussed shortly – a physical or metaphysical entity that exists by itself, whereas the ‘form’ or accident (al-ʿarad) exists only through or by some particular monad. The monad, however, may appear in existence only by ‘wearing’ some form or another [II.179.26], so we do not see the monads but rather only the forms. Also Ibn ʿArabî asserts that the monad exists by itself and its existence is constant and invariable, while the form exists only in the monad and its existence is temporal; it exists only at the time and then it vanishes instantly and intrinsically, and the same never comes back to existence again [II.677.30, III.452.24].

Generally jawhar signifies everything that exists in reality. Literally it originally meant ‘jewel’, but, in this technical sense borrowed from the physical theory of kalam theology, it means ‘substance’. In a very different philosophical context, the same Arabic word was used to translate the first of the ten Aristotelian categories already discussed in section 2.1. In English, the word ‘monad’ – which we will regularly use here for jawhar – is derived from the Greek monados, and it means ‘ultimate, indivisible unit’. It was used very early by the Greek philosophers of the doctrines of Pythagoras, and it was also used later, in a very different way, by the Neoplatonists to signify the One: thus God is described as the ‘Monad of monads’.²

Like the Neoplatonists, Ibn ʿArabî sometimes uses the term al-jawhar (monad) in this higher theological sense to refer to ‘the one’, ‘the essence’, ‘the real’ (not ‘the Real’ as a divine Name of God, but ‘the real-through-whom-creation-takes-place’, as discussed further below) and the origin of everything in the world. However, in such cases he does not seem to refer directly to the highest, transcendent dimension of ‘God’, but rather to the ‘Universal/First Intellect’ or the ‘Pen’ [II.675.6], who is also the ‘Perfect Human Being’.

On the other hand, although in this theological or cosmological sense the term al-jawhar ordinarily refers to the one real essence of the world (of all creation), Ibn ʿArabî also sometimes uses the same term in the plural form (jawâhir) to refer to the essences or souls/spirits (al-nufûs al-nâtiqa) – or more precisely, to the ‘partial intellects’ (al-ʿuqûl al-juzʿiyya, in contrast with the Universal Intellect, al-ʿaql al-kullî, that is their origin) – of human beings who are the perceivers of the world. Even more generally, he sometimes uses it to refer to any entity (even inanimate ones) in the creation, whether angels, jinn, humans, animals, plants or metals. In this latter more generic sense he considers that everything in creation has a substance which is its monad (jawhar) and a particular form (ʿarad) which is its appearance.

These very different dimensions and usages of the term ‘monad’/jawhar, however, are also intrinsically linked in Ibn ʿArabî’s cosmology, since he argues that all the monads of the world are created by, and are therefore the ‘images’ (reflections, shadows etc.) of the one Single Monad. Thus in that larger perspective of creation, they are nothing but different images of this one Single Monad that in reality may alone be described as having real existence [III.452.24].

6.3 The different names of the Single Monad

As we mentioned above, this Single Monad (al-jawhar al-fard) is the Universal Intellect itself and also the Pen. It also has different names or descriptions as Ibn ‘Arabî summarized in his book Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ (The White Pearl) in which he discussed many names and descriptions of the First Intellect and the title of the book itself is one interesting variant. Also Ibn ‘Arabî spent much of the first chapter in his book Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya on explaining the different names and properties of this Universal Intellect that is the true Caliph (Khalîfa). There is, however, some confusion between the Greatest Element that we shall talk about shortly and the Single Monad; sometimes it is not very clear for some of these many variant names whether they are really for the Single Monad or the Greatest Element.

One of these names is ‘the real through whom creation takes place’ and William Chittick devoted a full section in SPK to talk about it (SPK: 132). This real-through-whom-creation-takes-place is the most perfect image of the Real Allah, the Creator of the world. That is why he is also called ‘the Perfect Human Being’. We do not want to repeat here what Chittick said in SPK, but we just want to stress that we should not mix the Real and the real-through-whom-creation-takes-place because they may be confused in Ibn ‘Arabî’s writings. In this book ‘the Real’, with capital, is used for the divine Name of Allah (al-haqq), while ‘the real’, with small letter, is used for the real-through-whom-creation-takes-place. But this name actually describes the Greatest Element rather than the Single Monad, because the latter is compound while the Greatest Element is the most elementary ‘block’ in the world as we shall see shortly. Everything in the Creation at the end is rooted in the real, just as the leaves (and the fruits etc.) of a tree are rooted in the stalk. The leaves were also ‘determined’ in the seed that gave this tree even before it was planted. So the Single Monad is like the seed for the tree of the cosmos,³ while the real-through-whom-creation-takes-place (i.e. the Greatest Element) is what makes up the seed down to the cells, atoms and subatomic particles inside it.

In chapter 364 of the Futûhât Ibn ‘Arabî talks about how the entities heard the divine Command in their state of pre-existence and he affirms again what we have mentioned in section 2.3 that for Allah nothing was introduced after His creating the world; only the world moved from determination into existence and from immutable hearing (sam’ thubûti) into actual hearing (sam’ wujûdi). But most importantly, he shows in the following passage that there is in fact only one single entity that has a necessary immutable essence and that is the Perfect Human Being:

For Allah everything of His servants is still with Him in effect (bil-fî’l), nothing is with Him in reality (bil-quwwa). So the divine designation came to him (the servant) with regard to the acts and the states that Allah has with him so that he shall remember with his intelligence what he has already witnessed of his Lord when he was still non-existing – since he had the immutability which made him accept the divine disposition in him, and this state of immutability made him obey the Real's Command regarding the existence because the Command may come only on that who is described by hearing.

So the divine Saying (Command) is still (as It is) and the immutable hearing is still (as it was), but what occurred is only the actual hearing that is like a branch of the immutable hearing. So the state changed on the essence of hearing but the (essence of) hearing did not change, because the essences do not change from one state to another, but the states give them rules so they wear them. But that who has no knowledge imagines that the essence changed. But (the fact is that) the states seek the divine Names and not that the essences are described by seeking. And the essences gain names and descriptions according to the rules of (those) states that change over them. And without the states, the essences would not be distinguished because (in reality) there is only one essence that was distinguished with its entity from the Necessarily Existent (wājib al-wujūd) just as it was described like Him with necessary immutability. So He, the Exalted, has the Necessary Existence and Immutability, and to this essence (only) the necessary immutability. So the states for this essence are like the divine Names for the Real. So just as the Names of the Essence do not multiply the Named nor make Him many, so the states for this essence do not make him multiple or many, despite the rationality of the multiplicity and manyness of the Names and the states. And by this (similarity) it was true for this essence to be described as being on the (divine) Image.

[III.313.35–314.10]

Therefore, in reality, there is only this entity that is the essence of the Perfect Human Being, and the world is the different states of this single entity. As we mentioned at the beginning of this chapter (and also in section 2.1 when we introduced Ibn 'Arabī's view of time, and also at the end of section 5.5 when we discussed the oneness of being), this single entity is the Single Monad, and the essences (i.e. the monads) of the world are different reflections of this Single Monad.

Another important name of the Single Monad is the Universal Spirit (al-rūh al-kullī), and Ibn 'Arabī shows that he deserves this name because he goes (v. rāha, yarūh) in the states of the world:

And this name is to him from two aspects: the first is for his being a spirit, i.e. in ease, happiness and rest (rāha p.p. of yastarīh; to rest or to relieve) owing to his knowledge of his Lord and his witnessing Him. And the second is that he went (rāha past tense of yarūh; to go) through the capacious orbs of the knowledge of his Creator, by a special force. And he went through the states of the cosmos to give out to them what Allah entrusted him. And he went through his knowing himself by his need to his Lord and his Creator.

So he has three goings (rawahât),⁴ so he may be called ‘Universal (kullî)’ Spirit because there is no fourth state other than those to go through. So it is like the imperative (tense) of ‘râha’ (رَاحَ: went), ‘yarûhu’ (يَرُوحُ: the past participle, to go) and the imperative is ‘ruh’ (رُوح: go!); and when it was transformed from the imperative to the noun, the ‘wâw’ was returned to it as also the ‘alif’ and ‘lâm’ (the definitive article) was added, because the omitting of ‘wâw’ from it was due to the meeting of the two consonants.⁵ So it is like: he was sought from one direction then it is said that he has gone (râha), as we said.

(Al-Durraṭ Al-Bayḍâ: 135)

Yet another interesting name of this Single Monad is ‘Everything (kulla shay)’!⁶ This name is interesting because Ibn ‘Arabî says in Al-Masâ’il that ‘in everything there is everything (kulla shay’in fihi kullu shay)’, even if you do not recognize that’ [Al-Masâ’il: 58]. This is on the one hand another expression of his Single Monad theory because it renders into: ‘the Single Monad is in everything’. But also it might mean that the internal structure of the Single Monad is as complicated as the world itself because it means: ‘in everything (even the Single Monad) there is everything (even the world)!’ This last statement is plausible since both the Single Monad (i.e. the Perfect Human Being) and the world are on the divine Image as we have seen before (section 3.2). This reminds us in mathematics with fractals such as the Mandelbrot set, Julia set and Sierpinski triangle, where the structure keeps repeating itself on any larger or smaller scale (Mandelbrot and Frame 2002: 37, Stewart et al. 2004: 60). This deserves a separate study, but we just want to mention here that this might answer the question we put forward in section 2.16 about the structure of the moment and whether it is divided into sub-moments. We said there that the moment could be indeed identical to the day where the Sun rises, moves gradually in the sky and then sets to rise again on the next day; as the Single Monad might be identical with the world, the moment might be identical with the day. It just depends on the scale we are using; if we were inside the Single Monad we might see creations such as the Sun, planets and the stars, but because we are outside we see it as a point. Also if we suppose we go outside the world, we shall see it as a point; that is – as the Single Monad – indivisible but compound. This also has its example in modern cosmology as the black hole which occupies a single point in our space but itself is considered a complete world.⁷

6.4 The structure of the monad

At the beginning of the first chapter of Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya, Ibn ‘Arabî says: ‘The first existent originated by Allah is a simple spiritual Single Monad, embodied according to some doctrines and not-embodied according to others’ (Tadbîrât: 87).

As this remark indicates, Ibn ‘Arabî was well aware that there has long been a debate amongst philosophers whether the monad is a physical or metaphysical entity, or whether it is embodied or not [see also I.47.22]. Although he mostly prefers the second choice (Al-Durraṭ Al-Baydâ’: 134), Ibn ‘Arabî sometimes does not rule out either case, perhaps because the argument should be meaningless – i.e. the reality must necessarily encompass all manifestations of creation, both spiritual and manifest – if we recall that there is in reality only one Single Monad. Many times, though, he affirms that the Single Monad is embodied and indivisible, especially when the manifest world is concerned [II.438.2]. On the other hand, the essences of the spirits and souls are not likely to be embodied [II.309.25], though both (the manifest and spiritual) are only reflections of the Single Monad that itself can be described neither as (solely) physical nor as metaphysical, because it is necessarily the whole of creation. In the very long chapter 198 of the Futûḥât, in which Ibn ‘Arabî talks in detail about the various aspects of divine creation, he summarizes the various divisions or types of physical and metaphysical entities. He also states the difference between the essences (monads) and their accidents (forms). This is shown in the following long passage in which Ibn ‘Arabî also shows the basis of the Single Monad model, while pointing out the difference between the approaches of the Sufis and of the philosophers that we discussed at the beginning of Chapter 5. There he says:

Now you must know that every knowable thing that may be classified must unavoidably enter into (the category of) what exists in thought (wujûd dhiḥnî). But this thing that exists in thought may belong either to what can receive real existence (wujûd ‘aynî); or to what may not receive real existence, like the things that are impossible (al-muhâl). And that which can receive real existence either subsists by itself, which is called ‘not-in-a-substrate’ (lâ-fî-mawḏû’) or else it does not (subsist by itself). And that which subsists by itself is either embodied (or more strictly speaking, ‘localized in a place’, mutahayyiz), or not embodied.

As for that (self-subsistent reality) which is classified as not-in-a-substrate and not embodied, it must necessarily be either what necessarily exists by its own essence (wâjib al-wujûd li-dhâtihî), and He is Allah the Exalted; or what necessarily exists through (the determination by) something other than itself, and that is what is contingent (al-mumkin: i.e. the whole created world). And this (category of what is) contingent is either embodied (in-a-place), or not embodied. As for the division among the contingent things of what is self-subsistent, that is either not embodied – like the rational souls (al-nufûs al-nâtiqa al-mudabbira) that govern the substance of the (spiritual) world of Light, the natural world, and the elemental world, or else (the self-subsistent contingent things) that are embodied are either compound with parts, or without parts. So if it has no parts, it is the (simplest) ‘Single Monad’;⁸ and, if it has parts, it is a (natural, elemental) body (jism).

As for the category (of knowable things) that are in a substrate which are not self-subsistent and embodied – except by way of being dependent (on their substrate), members of this category are either necessary concomitants of their substrate, or they are not (necessary concomitants). Or rather, that is how it seems to ordinary vision, since in the fact of the matter nothing that does not subsist by itself (i.e. everything but the Creator) actually continues (in existence) for more than the instant of its existence; it may either be followed by (new creations that are) similar (amthâl), or by that which is not similar to it. As for what is followed by (new creations that are) similar, that is what are imagined to be the 'necessary concomitants' of a thing, like the yellowness of gold or the blackness of ebony. As for (those characteristics) which are not followed by similars, they are called 'accidents' (al-'arâd), while the necessary concomitant is called an (inherent) attribute (sifa).

So the knowable things that have actual existence are not more than those we have mentioned.

Now you must know that the world is one in substance and many in form (appearance). So since it is one in substance, it does not transmute (from one thing into another entirely different one: lâ yastahîl). And also the form itself is not transmuted, since otherwise this would lead to 'reversing the realities' (qalb al-haqâ'iq) – for heat may not (at the same time) be coldness, dryness may not be wetness, whiteness may not be blackness, and the triangle may not be square. But something that is hot can come to exist as cold, though not at the same time when it is hot; and also what is cold can come to exist as hot, but not in the same time when it is cold. Likewise what is white may become black, and the triangle may become a square.

So there is no transmutation (lâ istihâla), but the earth, water, air, the (celestial) orbs (al-aflâk) and all the generated existents (of the sublunar world: al-muwalladât) are (only) forms in the (Single) Monad. So (certain) forms are bestowed upon it and that (process of bestowing forms) is called, with respect to their specific shape (hay'a) 'generation' (kawn). Or (certain) forms are taken off of so that a (particular) name (i.e. attribute or property) is removed, and that is (called) 'corruption' (fasâd). So in fact there is no transmutation, in the sense that the actual entity of a thing changes into another (entirely different) actual entity, but it is only (by an entirely new re-creation) as we have explained.

So the world is continually being generated and corrupted (destroyed) at every single instant of time (zamân fard). And there would be no persistence for the actual entity of the substance (Monad) of the world, were it not for its receptivity to this 'creative formation' (takwîn) in itself. So the world is always continually in need (faqr: of the divine creative force). As for the forms, they are in need (of Allah's creation) in order to come out from non-existence into existence. And as for the Monad, it (is in need) of preserving its existence through that (creative Act), because its existence is unavoidably conditioned upon the existence of the creative formation of that (i.e. the infinite forms) for which it is a substrate.

Likewise (with the dependency on the Creator) of the (purely spiritual) self-subsistent contingent (existent) that is not embodied: it is (still) the substrate for the spiritual attributes and perceptions that it supports, so that its own individual reality may not continue without them. But those spiritual attributes and perceptions are continually renewed in that (spiritual existent) just like the accidents (forms) are continually renewed in the bodies.

In the same way the contingent that exists by itself and is not embodied is the substrate of what it carries of spiritual descriptions and perceptions (that is the bearer of meanings) that its essence may not remain without them. And they are renewed on it just like the renewal (i.e. re-creation) of the forms in the bodies; the image of the body is a form in the monad but the terms (hudūd: by which the object is described) are related to the images (of the body, not to the body itself). So the images are the ones which are termed (mahdūda), and one of these terms is the monad in which these images appear. That is why they (the philosophers) call the images monad(s) because they take the monad in the term of the image.

This is possibly the main barrier that prevents us from witnessing the reality of the world; we always try to assign an image to every concept, and then we discuss the terms of this image such as its shape, colour, size . . . etc. The Single Monad, however, may not be captured into image, not to mention the Real Himself. Therefore, approaching these matters in any way other than the path of (experiential) divine unveiling will not lead one to the truth of the matter as it really is. No wonder that they (those who rely on their own unaided theorizing) never cease to be in disagreement (about this). That is why the group of the blessed, who are supported by the Holy Spirit, turned to purifying themselves from their own thinking, and to liberating themselves from the bonds of their (natural, animal) forces, so that they became connected with the Greatest Light and saw for themselves (the reality of) the matter as it really is in itself! Because the Real – may He be cherished and glorified – is their vision [Kanz: 21327], so all what they see is the Real (Chittick 2002: 116–124). As the righteous one (Abū Bakr al-Siddīq) said: ‘I have seen nothing but I have seen Allah before it.’ So he sees the Real, then he sees His effect in the world; that is to witness how the world emerged as if he witnessed the possible things in their determination state when (Allah) threw what He has thrown on them from His greatest light so they became described by existence after they were described by non-existence [Kanz: 548, 1314]. So this (person), who has got this state, the veil of blindness and misleading has been removed for him: ‘now We removed thy veil, and sharp is thy sight this day!’ (50:22), ‘Lo! therein verily is a reminder for him who hath a heart’ (not only an intellect, see also section 5.1), ‘or gives an ear and he is witnessing (the truth)’ (50:37). So (Allah) made knowledge available in witnessing, because the judge judges based on his best guess while the witness witnesses with knowledge not by guessing.

[II.454.1]

According to this passage, Figure 6.1 summarizes the different types of things in existence.

Figure 6.1 Summary of the different types of knowable things.

Also in his Inshâ' al-Dawâ'ir (Constructing the Circles), Ibn 'Arabi explains the different categories or types of existence in the same way, which he represents schematically in Figure 6.2.

6.5 The greatest element

As we have seen above, although for Ibn 'Arabi the monad or atom (jawhar fard) is an indivisible physical unit, it is understood to be composed of even more elementary constituents. This means that there are smaller – but not necessarily physical – 'constituents' that somehow underlie and help manifest the atoms or monads, even though the monad itself is not physically divisible into those metaphysical constituents, but can only exist in manifestation as a substance created through those underlying constituents. So what are these ultimate constituents of the Single Monad?

In his book 'Uqlat al-Mustawfiz (The Bolt for the Restless), Ibn 'Arabi speaks about the 'Greatest Element' (al-'unsûr al-a'zam) from which Allah has created the 'Absolute Unseen' which may not be disclosed to any creature, and he indicates there that the creation or 'origination' of this Greatest Element is all at once, without any intermediate or associated causes, as we have seen in section 2.16 (see also 'Uqlat al-Mustawfiz: 38). So this original, metaphysical 'Greatest Element' that is in some mysterious way the substrate of all subsequent manifest creation – whether purely spiritual, imaginal or physical – is the only thing that in some way underlies, constitutes, or gives rise to the physical monads. The individual monad or atom, however, remains the basic indivisible structure in the physically manifest world.

Figure 6.2 The Different Divisions of Existence (source: from Inshâ' al-Dawâ'ir, page 19).

Note

The numbers 0 and 1 in the inside circle describe whether the corresponding division is localized (1) or not localized (0); and (second number) whether it is self-subsistent (1) or not self-subsistent (0). The spirit is self-subsistent but not localized, while colour is localized and not self-subsistent.

In the 'Uqlat al-Mustawfiz, Ibn 'Arabî also mentions that there are 46,656,000 subtle luminous links (raqâ'iq nûraniyya) between the First Intellect and the Greatest Element that is their origin ('Uqlat al-Mustawfiz: 40). That number is in fact the cubic power of 360 ($360^3 = 46,656,000$), which is no doubt symbolically associated with the traditional division of the circle (and the divine year, see section 3.2) into 360 degrees and the historical sexagenary system attributed to the Babylonians (see also section 4.7).

Now the resulting relation between the manifest world, the Single Monad (First Intellect) and the Greatest Element can be conceived by analogy to the relation between a building, the bricks and the clay: i.e. the building is made up of similar unit bricks, but the brick itself is made from fine clay. Ibn 'Arabî also says:

the noble Greatest Element is in relation to the sphere of the world like the (indivisible) point, and the Pen is like its circumference, while the Tablet (i.e. the world-Soul) is what is in between (the point and the circumference). So just as the point meets the circumference with its (whole) entity, so does this Greatest Element meet with its (whole) entity all the aspects of the Intellect, which are the subtle links (the 46,665,000 raqâ'iq) that we mentioned before. They are unique 'one' in the Greatest Element, but in the Intellect they become multiple and manifold, because of the manifold receptivity (of the Intellect for knowledge) from the Greatest Element. So there is (only) one 'close attention' (iltifâta) for the (Greatest) Element, but there are many faces of receptivity for the Intellect, that is why this (Greatest) Element is more realized in the unity of Its Creator.⁹

Ibn 'Arabî affirms that this Greatest Element is the most perfect thing in existence and that everything other than Allah (including, as we can see, the First Intellect) is somehow derived from it. However, he does not give much information about It, and he even says that he would explain the reality of this Element if he was not sworn not to disclose it. However, does explain, as we have just seen, that this Greatest Element has a special attention (iltifâta, like the divine 'special Face' discussed in section 5.2) to the metaphysical 'world of writing and recording' ('âlam al-tadwîn wal-tastîr), when the (manifest, including physical) world was still not yet existing in reality (but only in Allah's foreknowledge), and that Allah created the First Intellect (that is the Single Monad) through this special attention ('Uqlat al-Mustawfîz: 39).

In the summary cosmological chapter 60 of the Futûhât, Ibn 'Arabî alludes more symbolically, in a metaphysical exegesis of Qur'an 68:1 ('Nûn and the Pen, and what they are recording ...), to the 'Greatest Element' when he speaks of the mysterious figure of 'Nûn' whom Allah appointed as the divine 'chamberlain' (al-hâjib) and gave all His Knowledge of His creation, so that Allah – with regard to His Name 'the All-Knower' – never hides from the Nûn. And Allah appointed another angel, the Pen – who is the Single Monad/First Intellect/Perfect Human Being – as the 'scribe' for the Nûn, 'writing out' all of the divine Knowledge of His creation [I.294.33].

6.6 Analogies in the macrocosms

For Ibn 'Arabî, of course, the mysterious metaphysical relations between the ultimate macrocosmic constituents of creation are repeatedly mirrored in many different 'microcosmic' dimensions of our own life. In each of these different symbolic domains, the initial creation of this higher world and the relation between its elements, such as the First Intellect and the Greatest Element, is subsequently reflected on many different lower planes of existence.

6.6.1 The Black Stone and the Kaaba

The most visible example of Ibn ‘Arabî’s development of this cosmological symbolism in the Futûhât involves the Kaaba, the ‘house of Allah’ to which millions of Muslims now go on pilgrimage every year. For Ibn ‘Arabî, those circumambulating the Kaaba are mirroring the circles of higher angels surrounding the divine Throne [I.50.30]. In that symbolic context, the angels also represent the determining forces of the universal Nature (Al-Durratu Al-Baydâ’: 138; we shall come back to this later in section 7.10) and the four Archangels who carry the Throne of Allah are the four main sustaining forces of that Nature.

This centrality of the symbolism of the Kaaba is of course rooted in the fact that Ibn ‘Arabî started the first chapter of his Futûhât by mentioning his encounter with the Spirit from whom he took all that he wrote in this book, a Spirit whom he met while circumambulating the Kaaba. There Ibn ‘Arabî establishes a symbolic correlation the seven circles of tawâf that the pilgrim is obliged to perform around the Kaaba during the pilgrimage and the seven main divine Names, in the manner already mentioned in Chapter 3: i.e. each one of these seven Names is responsible for one specific Day of the divine Week of creation. Then he says that his Lord told him: ‘the Kaaba, in relation to the all-encompassing (divine) Throne, is like your heart with relation to your body’ [I.50.29]. So in fact the Kaaba on the Earth is symbolically like the Single Monad in the cosmos. This analogy also applies to many related details, because the cubic shape of the Kaaba is in fact the simplest structure which constitutes a body that occupies the three spatial dimensions. As Ibn ‘Arabî mentioned [III.276.4; see explanations in section 5.4 above], the body is composed of at least eight points, corresponding to the corners of the cube.

But more importantly for Ibn ‘Arabî, one corner of the Kaaba holds the mysterious ‘Black Stone’ (al-hajar al-aswad) which, according to tradition, the angel Gabriel brought down from Paradise and gave to Abraham to put it in that corner of the Kaaba. For Ibn ‘Arabî, this Black Stone symbolically represents the foundational role in the process of creation or manifestation of the ‘Greatest Element’. In other words, circumambulating the Kaaba starts from the south-eastern corner in which this Black Stone resides, and the pilgrim is supposed to make seven rounds (counterclockwise) around the Kaaba: this corresponds symbolically to the way the Greatest Element first gives rise to or communicates to the Single Monad or First Intellect, after which the Intellect brings forth the world of manifest creation in the seven divine Days. According to tradition, the Prophet Muhammad said that this Black Stone resembles ‘Allah’s right hand on Earth’ [Kanz: 34729]. As is well known, Ibn ‘Arabî holds that the ‘Universal Reality’ – which is also another name for the Greatest Element, because it is the origin of the Single Monad [I.119.10] – is identical to the Spirit of Muhammad himself, as that Spirit is also, according to a number of widely known hadith, ‘the first thing to be created’ [Kanz: 31917].¹⁰

Thus, at the very beginning of the opening chapter of the Futûhât, when Ibn ‘Arabî begins to speak about the underlying metaphysical reality – i.e. the

‘Greatest Element’ and first creation – symbolized by the Black Stone that resembles Allah’s right hand, he says in poetry:

People are ignorant of its Essence, so some say it is dense, while others say it is subtle.

He (the Spirit) said to me, when I asked why they do not know It:

‘Only the noble may truly know (recognize) the noble!’

[I.47.22]

Ibn ‘Arabi then proceeds in these opening pages to give many mysterious symbolic details about what Allah creates in the Human Being (i.e. the Single Monad or First Intellect) and in the world with each round of the seven circumambulations around the Kaaba, and he relates that metaphysical teaching to the seven main Attributes of Allah which are responsible for the seven Days of the divine creative Week [I.49.32].

As shown in Figure 6.4, just the Greatest Element makes the Single Monad which scans the states of the world in seven Days, the pilgrim in Hajj has to make seven rounds around the Kaaba anti-clockwise. This circumambulation starts from the eastern corner where the Black Stone resides and moves towards the Shami corner. This clearly supports the analogy between the Greatest

Figure 6.3 The Kaaba, with people on the Hajj circumambulating it. The Black Stone appears in the front corner, near the door.

Figure 6.4 How circumambulating the Kaaba is similar to the Greatest Element's creation of the Single Monad. Circumambulation starts – anticlockwise – from the eastern corner where the Black Stone is, and that corner is for the Pole.

Element and the mysterious Black Stone, especially, since we have said above that the Black Stone resembles ‘Allah’s right Hand on Earth’ [Kanz: 34729].

6.6.2 The spiritual hierarchy

Another important example of the symbolic analogy between the metaphysical process and figures of the ‘macrocosm’ and more human realities is the hierarchy of the spirits of the prophets and saints (awliya) – a central theme that runs throughout the Futūḥāt. To summarize the cosmological aspect of that theme, Ibn ‘Arabī presents the lower realms of the cosmos as being ruled by a complex spiritual hierarchy – largely ‘invisible’ to most human beings, though not to the spiritual ‘knowers’ – consisting, among others, of the spiritual ‘Pole’ (al-qutb), the two Imams, the four Pillars (awtād), the seven Substitutes (abdāl), the eight Nobles (mujabā’), the 12 Chiefs (nuqabā’), in addition to other lesser-known groups.¹¹ Each of these groups and figures has a special corresponding spiritual responsibility, some of which are have to do with maintaining the wider cosmic order. Those pure spirits have also have an ongoing series of living human ‘representatives’ or ‘agents’ (s. nā’ib) amongst us [II.6.6].

Some of these members of the celestial spiritual hierarchy, as Ibn ‘Arabī presents them in scattered passages of the Futūḥāt, are assigned cosmological functions symbolically related, for example, to the 12 zodiacal signs, the seven heavens, and the seven ‘climes’ or geographical regions, the four cardinal points, or even the four corners of the Kaaba [II.13]. In particular, the highest level of the 'Pole', in this hierarchy, is the figure who apparently corresponds to the lofty metaphysical position of the Single Monad – which Ibn 'Arabî often pointedly refers to simply as 'the Reality of Muhammad' (Al-Mu'jam Al-Sûfi: 158).

6.6.3 The world of letters

Also yet another important symbolic analogy between the metaphysical macrocosm and more familiar human realities, which again runs throughout the Futûhât, is the 'world of letters'. Ibn 'Arabî considers the letters of the Arabic alphabet – given their central place in the culminating divine revelation of the Qur'an – to constitute in themselves 'a real world like us', since they are servants of Allah just like ourselves [I.58.13]. He begins his detailed explanation of their symbolic metaphysical and cosmological functions in a long section in the opening chapter of the Futûhât. As he explains there, the Arabic letters also have symbolic hierarchy similar to the spiritual hierarchy of the prophets and the saints. Thus they also have Pole, which is the letter alif (ا), the first letter of Arabic alphabet; two imâms (Leaders), which are the two other vowel letters wâw (و) and yâ' (ي); four awtâd (Pillars), which are the letters alif (ا), wâw (و), yâ' (ي) and nûn (ن), that together provide the essential Arabic grammatical indications ('alâmat al-i'râb'); and seven abdâl (Substitutes), which are the letters alif (ا), wâw (و), yâ' (ي), nûn (ن), and the three key pronoun markers tâ' (ت), kâf (ك) and hâ' (هـ) [I.78.18]. But the important facts about the metaphysical relations between the world, the Single Monad and the Greatest Element are particularly clearly developed in Ibn 'Arabî's teaching here regarding the metaphysical dimension of this world of letters. Thus he clearly states that:

For the totality of the letters (like the world) may be deconstructed into the alif (corresponding to the Pole and the Single Monad) and put together from it (the letter or sound) alif, but it can not be deconstructed into (any of) them. However it too can be deconstructed – in our symbolic estimation – into its spiritual principle (rûhâniyya), which is the (primordial) 'Point' (of Greatest Element) – although (in fact) the one can not be (further) deconstructed.¹²

[I.78.23]

Here again the 'Greatest Element' is assumed to be the underlying principle or substrate of all creation and manifestation.

As we have mentioned on several earlier occasions, Ibn 'Arabî often attributes his source for some of the most important metaphysical knowledge about the world to the spiritual Pole Idrîs ('mudâwi al-kulûm'). In describing the relation between the originary 'Point' of the 'Greatest Element' and all the manifest cosmos, in chapter 15 of the Futûhât, this Pole tells him:

The world (physical cosmos) exists between the circumference and the point (of the Earth at its centre), arranged according to the levels (of its orbs) and the smallness and greatness of the orbs. And (he said) that the sphere that is closer to the circumference is wider than that which is inside, so its day is longer, its space is larger, its tongue is more fluent and it is closer to realizing strength and purity. And what goes down to the (material, earthly) elements is less than this (high) level, on down to the sphere of the Earth. But each part in every circumference matches what is below it and what is above it with its (whole) entity: no one is greater than the other, despite the fact that one is larger and one is smaller! . . . And all match the point with their entities – and that Point, despite its smallness, matches the parts of the circumference with its (whole) essential reality (‘ayn).

[I.154.22]

It is worth mentioning here, as a modern analogy to this earlier symbolism, that one of the most compelling consequences of Quantum Mechanics is that everything in the physical world of ‘particles’ can also be expressed as waves that have different wavelengths. Electrons for example – though they are particles – have a wavelength. Even the Earth has a distinctive wavelength. When the mass of the body or particle becomes larger its wavelength becomes smaller. So the wavelength becomes even larger for massless particles such as photons (light).

6.6.4 The hierarchy of divine names

We have already discussed the unique Unity of Allah and the diversity of His divine Names in section 5.3. In Ibn ‘Arabî’s wider metaphysical perspective, the divine Names – just like the spiritual world of the angels, prophets and saints – are also arranged in a corresponding specific metaphysical hierarchy. In section 3.1, we have already encountered the four and seven fundamental divine Names – which correspond to the four awtâd and the seven abdâl respectively. But Ibn ‘Arabî talks about this hierarchy of the divine Names in more detail early on in chapter 4 of the Futûhât. Here we want only to draw the attention to his explanation there of the difference between the two key divine Names ‘Allah’ and ‘the All-Merciful’ (al-Rahmân).

Already in his Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya, Ibn ‘Arabî compares the relation between those two Names with the cosmological or metaphysical relation between the Throne and the Single Monad, as we explained in section 4.6 above (see also Tadbîrât: 89). Because the Single Monad is itself also called ‘the Throne’, Ibn ‘Arabî says that – in cosmological language – Allah mounted on the Throne of the Single Monad, while ‘the All-Merciful mounted on the Throne’ (following the literal Qur’anic verses that we discussed earlier in section 1.4. So the relation between these two Names is like the relation between the two divine ‘Thrones’. It is to be noted here that the Name ‘the All-Merciful’ is more specifically described by all the multiplicity of the divine Names, just like the Name Allah. For as Allah said in the Qur’an: ‘Call upon Allah or call upon the All-Merciful, Whoever you call upon, to Him belong the most beautiful Names’ (17:110). So the Name Allah is also described by all the divine Names, but the Name ‘the All-Merciful’ is closer to the multiplicity of the world through those diverse divine Names. Likewise, the Throne that encompasses the heavens and Earth is a place of manifest multiplicity, whereas the Single Monad, in its mysterious intrinsic ‘hiddenness’, is more described by the transcendent divine qualities of unity and oneness.

6.7 Spreading the shadows

In discussing the divine Name ‘the Subtle’ (al-latîf),¹³ Ibn ‘Arabî says that there is great subtle knowledge in ‘the withdrawing of the shadow and its spreading’ (alluding to 25:45–46), and that is why Allah made that symbolic image a guide to Him [IV.238.2]. As we pointed out before, Ibn ‘Arabî views the world as a structure made ‘according to the image or form’ of the Real (see section 3.1). In the same way, he considers the manifest world as the ‘shadow’ of the Real, or of the Universal Intellect (and ultimately the ‘Greatest Element’). He bases these arguments on the following two verses from the Qur’an: ‘Hast thou not seen how thy Lord hath spread the shadow – and if He wished, He could have made it still? Then We have made the Sun a guide unto it. Then We withdrew it into Us, with a diminutive withdrawal’ (25:45–46), and we have already drawn attention to this basic relation between the divine Image and its ‘shadow’ in section 3.1. In many places [III.12.3, III.106.7, III.281.32] Ibn ‘Arabî emphasizes that the shadow of anything is on its own image; therefore:

Know that the Human Being (Insân),¹⁴ since he is the ‘likeness’ of the divine Form, is like the shadow of a person, which does not ever leave him, although sometimes it appears to the senses and sometimes it is hidden. So when the shadow is hidden, it is still implicit (ma’qûl: ‘present-to-the-intellect’) in that person; but when it is manifest, then it is visible to the eyesight – (at least) for whoever (actually) sees it. So (likewise) the Perfect Human Being (al-insân al-kâmil) is implicit in the Real (al-Haqq), like the shadow when it is hidden by direct sunlight so that it does not appear. For (the Perfect) Human Being always continues to be, eternally and perpetually. That is why (the Perfect Human Being) is always witnessed by the Real, since He is described (in the Qur’an) as having Sight (al-basîr: 17:1, 40:20, etc.).

Therefore when ‘He spread His shadow’, it appeared according to His Form: ‘Hast thou not seen how thy Lord hath spread the shadow – and if He wished, He could have made it still?’ (25:45) – i.e. stably remaining with Whom is His shadow. But if He does not spread His Shadow, no individual reality (‘ayn) of It will be manifest in sensible existence, except to Allah alone (in His Foreknowledge). So His ‘Shadow’ (i.e. the Perfect Human Being/Single Monad) has always been with Allah and will always be with Allah, for he continues Allah’s continuing, while everything other than the Perfect Human Being (Single Monad) only continues (in existence) through Allah’s causing them to continue.

[III.187.15; see also I.458.33 and II.607.14]

Therefore, the Single Monad or Perfect Human Being is the primordial Shadow of the Real, and the manifest world is in turn the shadow(s) of the Single Monad. The world appears in existence, after being hidden in the 'Unseen' (of the divine Foreknowledge), through Allah's 'spreading the shadow' of the Single Monad in the eternally renewed act of Creation. For if God so wished, He could have left His Shadow unmanifest, which means that the created world would have stayed as it was in Allah's eternal Knowledge, instead of coming out into real existence spread over space and time.

However, the 'shadow' of the Single Monad is one like him: that is why Allah withdrew his shadow 'with a diminutive withdrawal' – like the withdrawal of the shadow that normally occurs at sunset (see I.459.5) – so that it disappears in order to appear again in a different outward form, just as the sunlight disappears in order to eventually make another day. So at every 'Day' (instant) the Single Monad makes a new shadow in all creation. So the world is the ongoing collection of those instantaneous shadows, as explained in sections 3.6 and 4.3.

When the shadow is spread (before and after noon) it is itself a guide to the Sun, just as the Sun was an actual guide to it by its effect which caused the shadow itself [I.459.9 and also IV 238.29]. Likewise our shadow-like existence (our actual individual entity) should guide us to realize the Real manifested in ourselves – being His shadows – by looking at His shadow (i.e. the Single Monad or Perfect Human Being) who makes manifest the shadow of our creation – and by proceeding then from the Perfect Human Being to the Real Himself, the divine 'Light' or Sun Who ultimately caused this shadow (that is our existence). The seeker of the Real (murīd), therefore, keeps seeking the Real in these shadows and in the Shadow (of the Perfect Human Being) that is their Source, until he comes to realize that Source more fully and directly. So when he achieves that high state of realization, he himself – being one of these shadows – will be extinguished or 'drowned' (n. fanā) or united (n. ittihād) with the Real – because the shadow can not see itself and the Real at the same time – except perhaps for an instant of time, comparable to the case of noontime at the equator, where the shadow of the object disappears for a single moment.

But Ibn 'Arabī always clearly points out that after the 'enlightened' shadow-subject witnesses the Real, and continues to watch Him, then he will realize that he is as he was before and after his direct witnessing – except that before that witnessing he did not realize that what he was witnessing was the Real – just as the Sun is the Sun before and after the noontime disappearance of the shadow.¹⁵ However, in fact the shadow at noon hides in the object and not in the Sun, so in fact the realized knower indeed does not witness the Real Himself (the Essence), but witnesses only the 'real-through-whom-creation-takes-place' (al-haqq al-makhlūq bihi), which is the Perfect Human Being (the Single Monad, or at most the Greatest Element). So the Knower may at most realize his or her essential unity with this reality, which is only the higher 'Shadow' of the Real.

It is here, Ibn 'Arabī implies, that many of the Sufis' ecstatic expressions (or poetic metaphors) have sometimes been misunderstood. For example, Ibn al-Fārid in his famous poem, the Tā'īyya, speaks about 'unification' (ittihād) in various forms (Mahmûd 1995: 241, 248, 252 and 276). Of course Ibn ‘Arabî himself has sometimes been accused of believing in ittihâd and hulûl, but he was always very careful not to mention these words and directly denied such doctrines [III.298.30, IV.81.23].¹⁶ That is why in his prayers Ibn ‘Arabî asks to unite with the Prophet Muhammad’s spiritual essence (dhât), who is the Perfect Human Being. For example he says in his book of prayers, Al-Salawât Al-Faydiyya:

O God, pray for him (Prophet Muhammad) a prayer by which my branch may connect with my root, and my part with my whole, until my essence is unified with his essence and my attributes with his attributes, and the eye is satisfied with the eye, and disunity flees away from disunity.¹⁷

In yet another of his prayers, he very clearly expresses what we have just observed in his remarks about the divine ‘shadow’:

Oh God, no god but You, it is You Whom we worship and You Whom we witness; ever returning to You, nothing but You. I ask of You, by You, You Yourself, Yourself, Yourself, You Who (have) no ‘he’ other than ‘Hû’ (the divine Essence), (I ask of you) to withdraw from me the shadow of (my natural bodily) formation, so that I may witness my (true) self bare from any description that is a veil which prevents me from witnessing You as ‘I’,¹⁸ and purify me from any attribute or influence that makes me see any (purely personal) share (in existence): ‘for everything is perishable but its [or ‘His’] face’¹⁹ (28:88), ‘but to Allah all things are returned’ (42:53). Oh my God, pray for Your messenger, our master Muhammad, who is apportioned with this perfect abolishment (mahw), and complete integration (jam’) that is beyond perfect wisdom.²⁰

For Ibn ‘Arabî, these symbolic analogies between the shadows and creation are indeed very important existentially because Allah made them as guides for us, in all the ways we have just reviewed. But what is particularly important here, in terms of Ibn ‘Arabî’s actual cosmology and understanding of time, is that the created entities of the world that are the evanescent ‘shadows’ of the Single Monad are continuously re-created, by one instantaneous act of creation after another, in a process similar to the spreading of the shadows by the Sun in the course of the day. In the following section, we turn to some further illustrations and implications of that cosmic process of creation.

6.8 Creation scenario: the world as a movie

Later Muslim writers, especially the great masters of mystical poetry in Persian and other eastern Islamic languages, developed a great range of familiar symbolic forms intended to elaborate and communicate the basic Qur’anic imagery for the cosmological processes and their symbolic expression that we have discovered in the writings of Ibn ‘Arabî. One of the most powerful and multi-faceted of those images was Ibn 'Arabî's famous account – reminiscent of the Sun-Line-Cave section of Plato's Republic – of the universe as a vast 'shadow-theatre', a true 'divine Comedy' (Morris 1993: 50–69). Thus in contemporary terms, based on the concept of perpetual cosmic re-creation that we have explained above, we may envisage the world as like a movie being displayed on a computer monitor. It is quite fascinating to discover that this analogy is quite accurate in most of the details, even regarding what happens inside the computer, since the Universal Intellect/Perfect Human Being/Pen can be considered as a kind of 'supercomputer' which creates, organizes the world and displays it in the 'Universal Tablet' (of the world-Soul). Ibn 'Arabî has already asserted that the world appears as 'living, hearing, seeing, knowing, willing, able and speaking' with the same seven fundamental Attributes of the Real. This is because the world is His divine work, and as Allah said: 'Say: "everyone works according to his own type"' (17:84) [II.438.19]. This is also equivalent to what we have repeatedly noted: that the Perfect Human Being and the world (including its human beings) are all created 'according to the Form or Image' of the Real, and that they are also the second-level shadows of the Real (see for example [I.163.20, II.652.25, III.343.25], and also [Kanz: 1142, 1148]).

Likewise the computer today is certainly created as a certain kind of 'image' of some specific aspects of the human mind, and certainly the way the computer works resembles the human mind in many respects. However the shadow or the image in the mirror (or photocopier) resembles at best only one facet of the original. Likewise human beings, for example, do not fully resemble the Real, just as computers do not (and cannot) fully resemble humans in many other respects.

As we have seen, Ibn 'Arabî repeatedly showed that in many respects both the world and the essential (spiritual) human being work in the same way. That is why he generally considers the world as a great human being (al-insân al-kabîr) and the human being as microcosm ('âlam saghîr) [III.11.18]. Just as our own world is essentially constituted by the meanings, images and states that are reflected in our spirit, soul and intellect, so the world also reflects the divine 'meanings' brought into creation by the Universal Intellect, so that the phenomena that we perceive are the doubly reflected forms of these original meanings. However, Ibn 'Arabî also repeatedly asserts that the world would not exist if the observing 'eye' or 'I' of the viewer was not also always there.²¹ So because of the underlying reality of the created world as essentially 'imaginal' forms or multiple 'reflections' or shadows, we can only understand the cosmos if we understand how we perceive it, since for Ibn 'Arabî it is all ultimately, and quite literally 'in the mind' – albeit a different kind of 'Mind' at each level of manifestation.

It is known that the movie which is displayed on the cinema screen is composed of a large number of succeeding still pictures that pass rapidly before the eye at very short intervals, so that the human mind observes only smooth changes between those rapidly successive pictures. By running this movie at the proper speed we feel (by illusion) as if a normal motion of objects and images is happening on the screen. So if we suppose that the screen has no visible edges, and especially with the new technology of three-dimensional (laser holography) movies, it would be very hard initially to distinguish this illusion from reality.

Now if we examine how the picture is displayed on the screen of the computer monitor, we realize that it is even more closely similar to Ibn 'Arabî's view of creation. In this way the whole cosmos is a combination and rapid succession of imaginal forms (images, reflections or 'shadows') that are created by or through the Single Monad in a similar manner to the single electron beam which is creating the picture on the computer screen one pixel at a time.

As Ibn 'Arabî has pointed out, the Single Monad is continuously and perpetually 'wearing' new forms which make us see and otherwise experience motion. When we open our eyes we see a picture of many things around us, and if we keep on watching we see things moving. Each mental picture is also created in series and not all at once, as we have noted before (sections 5.5 and 5.6). In every single instance and at each single point of space there exists a monad with a specific unique form, and we have explained before (sections 3.15 and 4.1) that it takes the Monad a full divine 'Week' of creation to appear in this form, but this divine Week for us is like a single instant. This same monad, still in the same instant of time – for us, but a full divine 'Week' for the Monad itself, since we only exist for one moment in this Week: see section 3.6 – takes another form but in another point of space, and so on. So in one single instant the picture that we see is a combination of a huge number of reflected forms of the same Single Monad. He or It scans the whole of space at no time (for us) and without real motion (on the part of the Single Monad), because space itself is what we subjectively experience as a consequence of the succession of forms within this monad, and motion is meaningless when we talk about one single all-encompassing entity. It takes the monad a full 'Week' of creation (i.e. seven 'Days of event': one for each direction of space – up, down, right, left, front and back, and one for the observer – time) to scan all the states in the cosmos, but since each one of us is one single state – as observers, not as bodies – we live a single moment in each full 'Week of event', in which we observe the other states around and within us as the traces or memory of the forms left over by the Monad after it has created those states. Ibn 'Arabî succinctly referred to this cosmological fact, in a favourite image of the later mystical poets, right in his Forward (khutba) to the Futûhât, when he said:

Then He released the Breath, so the water waved because of its vibration and foamed . . . Then the water diffidently withdrew and returned back heading for the middle, and it left over its foam on the shore that it produced. So it (the world) is the churning of this water that contains most things.

[I.4.7]

The 'water' here refers to the Single Monad itself (or the Greatest Element: Al-Mu'jam Al-Sûfi: 812–817, 826–828) because (in the famous expression of the Qur'an) 'every thing was created from the Water', and the 'foam' is the created forms (or their images) left over by the Single Monad after it has 'scanned' into existence the created world (in six divine Days) and then returned back to the middle to start over a new picture [II.438.3] on Saturday. That is why Ibn 'Arabi also affirms that the cosmological 'ruler' of the last Day of time (Saturday) has the ability of holding and fixing (i.e. memory), in order to hold the cosmic picture and integrate it with what follows (see also section 3.5, Saturday as the Day of Eternity).

When this perpetual creative process is conceptually 'stopped' and taken in isolation, all this will form a kind of 'still picture' of things around us, including ourselves both as bodies (matter) and as spirits or states of realization (meanings). Within this conception, the dynamic manifest world, then, is the instantaneous, continuously renewed succession of these slightly changing still pictures. As we showed in section 2.6, motion is observed because things successively appear in different places, but indeed there is no actual motion: for the observed objects are always at rest in the different positions that they appear in. Allah is constantly re-creating the cosmos in ever-renewed forms.

Now what we have just mentioned is exactly like what happens on the screen of the computer monitor: when we look at the screen at any instant of time, we see a still picture that is composed of an array of dots (pixels) in the two dimensions of the plane of the screen (for example 800 horizontal by 600 vertical pixels). This still picture is made by a single electron beam that scans the screen over and over again, one pixel at a time. It starts from the bottom left corner of the screen and scans horizontally all the 800 pixels (one line), then it switches back to the left to make the second line, and so on till all the screen is scanned, ending up by the upper right corner; then it switches back to start a new picture from the bottom left corner again in the same way. Because this process is performed at very high speed or refresh rate (around 100 million times per second), we only see a continuous picture in the two dimensions; we never see the pixels being drawn one by one. By watching the succession of pictures, we observe motion. While the beam creates them, each pixel on the screen wears a specific form of a different colour and intensity that (slightly) changes from one still picture and instant to the other. This momentary form that the pixels wear every time they are scanned lasts only during the very short time that the beam is in its place. Once the beam leaves the pixel for the next one, the form vanishes intrinsically; we only see the traces of these forms for a short time till they are scanned again to wear a new form.

In terms of Ibn 'Arabi's understanding of the cosmogonic process, the electron beam here is like the Single Monad/Pen/Intellect; the screen is like both our imagination and, outwardly or objectively, the effective 'substrate' of creation that Ibn 'Arabi calls 'the Dust': al-'amâ); while the cosmos is like the series of pictures on the screen, which are printed on our imagination and in the Universal Tablet. Ibn 'Arabi's description of the world is identical to this example of the computer monitor, even the names that he gives to the Single Monad as the 'Higher Pen' and to the cosmic Soul as the 'Higher Tablet', indicate that the process of creation is similar to the process of a pen's writing on a tablet, which is also similar to the electron-beam writing on the screen. To take yet another of Ibn 'Arabi's most favoured cosmological images, we creatures are the 'letters' and the 'words' that are spoken by the Creator (through the creative, existentiating 'Breath of the All-Merciful'), after having been written down by the Higher Pen on the Higher Tablet (see section 7.8).

With a closer examination of this example, we can now realize the meaning of the intertwined days and the taken-out days, and also the significance of the (normal) week and Saturday – as the Day of Eternity – that we explained in Chapters 3 and 4. If an observer was in one point of the computer screen (as we are individually in one specific place in the world), a week for him or her would be a combination of 800 by 600 instances of 800 by 600 'Weeks of events', because each point will be present (created) only while the electron beam is on it, so it stays only one part of the 800 by 600 pixels 'created' during each run (original Week/Day). Similarly, each entity in the world lives only one 'instant' (which equals an outwardly observable day over the entirety of entities in the world) in each 'Week' of creation: i.e. only the time when the Single Monad creates it or appears in its form. Therefore, a week for this point would be a combination of different instants of many other Weeks of the original Weeks of events. Also, because Saturday is the divine Day of manifest creation when each entity realizes itself – and it does not realize itself (or the world) while being created in the other six Days (see section 3.6) – we, as entities living in the world, realize only the Saturdays' instances, those that are manifest in time. Therefore, all our life (as time) is Saturday, while the world as space is the other six Days. In other words: the motion of the electron beam horizontally and vertically on the screen creates the space in which the picture is viewed. This is identical to the cosmic Week-Days of creation from Sunday to Friday, while the motion when the electron beam returns from the right-top to the lower-left corner is identical to Saturday or the manifest instant of time, because time is the motion by which we observe the succession of the pictures.

In section 7.10, we shall talk about dimensions in more detail, but it is good to remember here what we have already said in section 2.11 about the two cycles of life (see in particular Figure 2.1). The screen of the computer monitor is of course two-dimensional (2-D). So the starting of the scanning of the screen from the lower-left corner resembles the starting of the world by creating the Real (0-D) as the pixel itself, and then the angels in 1-D. This in the real world, according to Ibn 'Arabî's account of the astrological cycle of life, takes 11,000 years; but for the case of the computer monitor it takes a very short but also fixed time, in which a fixed number of motions or jumps happen – 800 pixels for example. Then after finishing the first line and by starting the second one, this scanning or creating process moves us into two dimensions, to start the world of jinn, while the 1-D world of angels continues. The scanning of the 2-D screen continues until it is finished after a short but fixed time. There is no third dimension in normal computer monitors, but there is in the outside world: there, according to Ibn 'Arabî, when this manifest stage of creation starts after 54,000 years, it marks the creation of dunyâ ('this lower world'). Then the after-world starts in yet another dimension (4-D) – according to Ibn 'Arabî after 9,000 more years, although we have not moved yet into it (see section 7.10).

It is fascinating to notice that this analogy between the world and the computer applies to many of the details – not only with regard to the visible manifest world, but also to the spiritual world that is analogous to the processor, the memory, the hard disk and the software running inside the computer. It is enough to notice that the processor of the computer – no matter how fast it may be and how many jobs it may do very quickly – can do only one elementary job at a time. So from outside we see multiple jobs and multiple images, running and interacting, but from inside only one thing is manipulating all that, one by one, in series, one single bit at a time. For example when we say that the speed of the computer central processing unit is 3.4 GHz, this means that it can manipulate 3.4 billion bits every second, and the bit is the smallest piece of information, which is the digital state of either 1 or 0, yes or no. This is indeed a huge speed, yet surely the speed of the Single Monad creating the world is much larger, as Allah plainly said: ‘and He is the fastest of all calculators’ (6:62) – although this is normally interpreted with regard to the Judgement Day.

7 The Single Monad model and its implications for modern physics

*This existence that we know in practice,
is not like the existence that we know by unveiling.
The mind does not know it, and thinking does not recognize it,
but remembrance (dhikr) will show it, while the secret will hide it from the minds that are veiled by habits:
that is why they do not recognize what the secrets¹ understand.
(Dīwān: 229)*

As with most cosmological hypotheses, past and present, testing Ibn ‘Arabī’s cosmological model and his understanding of time is not easy. Although a preliminary test is simply its ability to resolve some of the standard paradoxes surrounding time, as we shall shortly see below, more credible tests may not be very easy to perform, and incontrovertible tests may be inaccessible – since Ibn ‘Arabī frequently reiterates, beginning with the very Introduction to the Futūhāt, that his most distinctive cosmological insights are ultimately based on forms of inspiration, ‘unveiling’, and divine knowledge that are beyond the level of the ordinary human intelligence.

So in this final chapter we shall discuss some of the consequences and possible methods to test the Single Monad model that we outlined in Chapter 6. Some persisting paradoxes in current models will be discussed, such as the historical Zeno’s paradoxes and the recent EPR paradox (sections 7.4 and 7.6). We shall then go on to discuss some of the apparent consequences of Ibn ‘Arabī’s cosmological model for various principles of physics, cosmology and philosophy. We have already seen that, in this model, space and time are truly unified, and that there is a drastically different conception of motion. Most other basic properties of matter, like mass, density, softness and transparency, will be also affected, suggesting the eventual possibility of conceiving a kind of ‘science’ dealing with certain phenomena of mysticism and the supernatural. In addition to that, in this cosmological model, causality itself will have a different sense, which would enable new perspectives for reconciling cosmology and theology.

7.1 Testing possibilities

One of the main consequences – and principles – of this model of cosmogony and creation, as we have seen in the previous chapter, is that the creation is being continuously refreshed, like a kind of computer screen. A first possibility could be, therefore, to measure the ‘refresh rate’ of creation, which is also the smallest quantum of time, or the length of the moment (al-zaman al-fard). As we have noted, this could be expected to be equal to 24 hours (or $24 \times 60 \times 60$ seconds) divided by the whole number of states or entities in the world. With such an extremely small quantity of time, there is no possible device that could measure it.² If we think, for example, of using high-speed cameras and then replaying their images in slow motion in order to see the flickering,³ we shall find that this is not possible even in theory, no matter how fast the camera might be. Since the camera, no matter how fast, is itself part of the world whose re-creation it is supposed to observe, it will not be able to see its state of non-existence because then it will not be existing itself. Similarly, we ordinarily do not notice the re-creation of the world because we are part of it. However, a specially detailed study of the memory and other human internal and external senses would be necessary to judge how the actual process of perception of the world is happening with the re-creation principle in mind, both in our ‘normal’ state and in those specially enlightened perceptions of the ‘knowers’ which Ibn ‘Arabî points to as the ultimate root of his cosmological thesis of ‘perpetual re-creation’.

On the other hand, other promising domains for testing and examining this model would involve the properties of light particles (photons) and other elementary particles. The peculiar properties of photons that are normally treated as electromagnetic waves can be a starting point to test the model above. The photon, being a wave, has a probability of existence anywhere in space and at any time as long as it is still undetected; it takes fixed space-time co-ordinates only after it is detected either by the eye or by a device. We can therefore say that the photon of light, being the fastest in nature, does not undergo any re-creation, and that is why it is the fastest, because creation or re-creation is a process that takes the smallest quantum of time. Therefore one key to test the Single Monad model experimentally could be in the emission and absorption of light by different known processes, or in the process of converting light into mass (and vice versa) through electron–positron annihilation and pair production (see further below).

The best and easiest potential domain of investigation in this regard is to look at the electron orbits around the nucleus, where it is known that the electron jumps between the orbits when it absorbs or emits a photon of light. Because this process is quantized, the electron may not exist between the orbits; it is therefore re-created in the new orbit (see also the following section). We can therefore say that the re-creation time (i.e. the moment) equals the time the electron takes to move between the orbits (i.e. actually re-appears in the new orbit). This time-gap, however, is different from one atom to another, or even from one orbit to another inside the atom, because it depends on the kind of atoms and on temperature, etc. It is not possible here to discuss this subject in detail, but it is certainly a good point which may constitute a new subject of research.

We may also look in the annihilation of particles and anti-particles into light and vice versa ('pair production'). For example, when an electron meets with a positron (each has a mass of 9.1×10^{-31} kg) they are both annihilated into a massless photon (energy) according to the famous equation $E = mc^2$. One electron alone can not annihilate, and one positron alone can not annihilate. But it is possible to convert energy into particles, as when two sufficiently strong photons meet; they convert into an electron (negative charge e^-) and a positron (positive charge e^+). It is worth mentioning here that Ibn 'Arabî has apparently referred to phenomena that have only been known scientifically after the discovery of elementary particles at the beginning of last century. For example, he says:

When two monads or atoms (jawharân) [like two photons] are joined, it is as though they are two bodies. That is to say, when they are joined with each other, each one of them can be called a body (jism) so that in this respect they are two bodies, as He said: 'and of every thing, We created two pairs' (51:49). He actually created one pair – masculine and feminine, for example. But He called it 'two pairs' for this reason that we just mentioned, because each one of them alone without the other is not a pair, but when another is added to it then each one of them may be called pair (zawj), so they are two pairs.

[I.721.18]

In other places he says that the body is composed of at least eight points, like a unit cube which is similar in shape to the Kaaba [III.276.6] (see also section 6.6). We have already seen in Chapter 6 that, in Ibn 'Arabî's cosmological symbolism, the Kaaba represents the Single Monad. Therefore, we may look at the possibilities of how mass emerges out of massless photons in annihilation and pair production and see if this phenomenon can be related to the cosmogonic conceptions of the 'Week' of creation explained in Chapter 3 and the 'intertwining of days' explained in Chapter 4.

Yet another related and handier possibility of investigation involves the refraction of light in transparent materials. As is well known, light slows down when moving in transparent materials such as air, water and glass; usually the denser the material, the more slowing light suffers, which is indicated as a higher refraction index. The reason why this is the case is because light is absorbed by atoms along the path and then is emitted again by almost every atom along its path. Any absorption and emission of light can be related to the phenomenon of re-creation, so the re-creation hypothesis can be investigated via the phenomena underlying different refraction indexes. The refraction indexes of hundreds of minerals and their density and other properties are already widely available.⁴ So it may be possible, by comparing these data, to find some correlation between the refraction indexes and the underlying refresh rate of re-creation.

Testing this model could also be done by computer simulation, especially since Ibn ‘Arabî himself (in Kitâb Ayyâm Al-Sha’n: 11–16) invited people who can do more accurate calculations to calculate the intertwining of Days on a smaller scale than hours (for example, minutes and seconds), as we pointed out in section 4.4. This simulation would have to take into account that, as we mentioned in section 3.6, Ibn ‘Arabî’s theory means that the world is created in six comic ‘Days’ as space and then displayed on the last Day of creation (Saturday) as time.

In general, the possibilities of testing these hypotheses in physics are diverse and worth trying, but here we are more interested in the theological and philosophical consequences developed in the following sections.

7.2 Timeless motion

To start investigating some of the consequences of the cosmological principle of continual re-creation, we can consider the case of the throne of Bilqîs, which Ibn ‘Arabî (and his later commentators) have discussed in his Fusûs Al-Hikam and elsewhere. In most accepted understandings, motion is always associated with time, because, no matter how fast objects move, they need a time greater than zero to reach any point other than their original place. For example, it is well known in physics that the photon of light is the fastest particle in the physical world and that it travels at 300,000 km per second, so it can circle around the Earth seven times in one second. However, this huge velocity is limited and not instantaneous, so apparently physical motions always need time.

In the Qur’an, however, we read the story of the Prophet Solomon and Bilqîs, the Queen of Sheba, when Solomon said to his men:

‘Which of you can bring me her throne before they come to me in submission?’ [Then] a stalwart of the jinn said: “I will bring it to you before you can rise from your place, and I verily am strong and trusty for such work”
(27:39)

But even this really quick action takes time, though very little, so said the one who has knowledge of the Book:⁵ ‘I will bring it to you before your gaze returns unto you!’ [i.e. in less than the blink of the eye, actually immediately]. Then when he (Solomon) saw it placed steadily before him, he said: ‘This is by the Grace of my Lord to test me whether I am grateful or ungrateful!’

(27:38–40)

In this mysterious story it is clear that al-Khidr brought the throne of Bilqîs from Yemen to al-Quds in no time. Because of its great importance in his view of time and the cosmos, Ibn ‘Arabî devotes much of chapter 16 in his famous book the Bezels of Wisdom to talk about this distinctive phenomenon of timeless motion often associated with the extraordinary actions and manifestations of the saints (awliyā') (Corbin 1969: 224–226). Ibn 'Arabî, however, declares that in reality this is not motion, but, rather, the throne was annihilated or extincted from its original place and instantly re-created in front of Solomon, in no time, based on the affirmation in those verses that Solomon saw the throne placed 'steadily' before him before 'he returns his gaze' (i.e. her throne was not shaking, as one would expect when an object moves quickly and then stops suddenly, owing to the deceleration). So indeed there was no motion, but rather – as al-Qâshânî and Bâlî Effendî mentioned in their commentaries on this chapter – all al-Khidr did was to switch the throne from its original location to the new place in front of Solomon.⁶

From this perspective this kind of phenomenon is easily explained, on the basis of the re-creation principle, since, as Ibn 'Arabî frequently affirms, such apparent 'miracles' do not break the divine laws underlying the phenomena of nature, but only break our 'habits' of perception and expectation [II.374.27]. In fact everything that happens in Nature must be explainable under some divine laws, and is in principle possible to be repeated [II.374.11].

In terms of modern physics, this story actually corresponds to the pervasive phenomena that happen in the atom whenever an electron moves from one orbit to another, when it emits or absorbs a photon of light. It is well known in physics that when the electron absorbs or emits a photon its distance from the nucleus in the centre of the atom changes. This change of the distance, however, is abrupt: i.e. it does not travel through between the two places, but rather it disappears from its original orbit and reappears in the new orbit. Usually such kind of instantaneous motion is scarcely explained according to the novel equations of Quantum Mechanics, and it is not explainable at all with the classical Newton's equations (see section 1.3). Indeed such inexplicable electron behaviour was the driving force behind the discovery of the successful theory of Quantum Mechanics.

If we recall Ibn 'Arabî's definition of motion discussed in section 2.6, we can easily account for this type of timeless motion. Such motion, according to Ibn 'Arabî, is not an infinitely gradual change of positions from the start to the destination, but rather a new creation in the second place. However, if we want to be very accurate, the motion of the throne of Bilqîs, like the motion of electrons between orbits and indeed any elementary motion, takes a single 'Day of event' which is equivalent to a single 'atom of time' of what we may count. Measuring the time that the electron needs to switch between two successive orbs might be the key to testing Ibn 'Arabî's cosmological model and developing it in terms of modern scientific theory. This smallest instant of time is the quantum (al-zaman al-fard) of the quantized time that we have discussed in sections 2.8, 4.1 and 6.5.

In normal cases, of course the distance travelled in this smallest moment is also very short, which causes us to see gradual changes; but in principle the distance involved could be anything; as Allah wills, since, whether the change in positions is small or large, the same process of re-creation is taking place. Therefore, what we call the laws of physics or mechanics, are – in terms of Ibn 'Arabî's cosmological conceptions – just a qualitative 'description' of the normally observed order of re-creation, not a real description of the actual process of perpetual re-creation. We shall see further below that this conception has a great impact on our understanding of causality the most fundamental principle in physics.

7.3 Simultaneity

We have seen in section 1.3 that many classical theories considered time as an absolute quantity. This coped very well with the common concept of simultaneity, where events which occur simultaneously in one frame of reference were considered to have occurred simultaneously also in all other frames. With the advent of the Special Theory of Relativity, the idea that light travels at a finite speed in all directions and in all frames of reference changed this piece of common sense. According to this new theory, simultaneous events in one frame of reference are not necessarily considered simultaneous with regard to another frame of reference moving at a relatively high speed with regard to the first.

According to Ibn ‘Arabi’s view of time and his model of the cosmos that we have described above, the concept of simultaneity will have an even more relative aspect. With regard to us – i.e. considered as partial monads present on the level of multiplicity – it is possible to have simultaneous events. The reason is simply because normally we exist only for at one single location of the whole momentary ‘Day of event’ (as we explained in section 2.16). For us, at every single moment of re-creation there is a still picture (which contains infinitely many events) displayed in the world. So from this perspective the concept of simultaneity appears like the classical definition.

But according to the re-creation principle and the oneness of being discussed in Chapters 5 and 6 – in addition to the concept of the single Day of event discussed in section 2.8 – there can be no two cosmic ‘events’ (englobing all of creation) actually happening at the same time, because ‘each Day He is upon some (one, single) task’ (55:29). Therefore, in reality there is no such thing as ‘simultaneity’ – with regard to the Single Monad who is creating the real flow of time (see also Chapter 4) – because It wears only one created form at each instant of time. Simultaneity, and therefore multiplicity, thus appear to occur only because of the re-creation. But in reality there are not any two separate (all-encompassing) ‘events’ happening at the same created instant of time. We shall see the importance of this conclusion more clearly when we discuss the EPR paradox below.

7.4 Zeno’s paradoxes

Motion, as a manifestation of causality, is the main concern behind all the theories of physics, from the pre-Socratics through Newton’s theory of gravity to the most recent theories of Quantum Mechanics and Quantum Gravity. Yet there are a number of famous philosophers who have doubted that there could be any motion at all, despite our daily experience. As is well known, those philosophers expressed perspectives similar to Ibn ‘Arabi’s. Most notably, Parmenides of Elea (b. 510BC) affirmed cosmological conceptions remarkably similar to Ibn ‘Arabi’s doctrine of the oneness of being: he held 'the One' unchanging existence to be alone true, while multitude and change were said to be an appearance without reality. This doctrine was defended by his pupil Zeno (b. c. 488BC), whose philosophy of monism claimed that the many things which appear to exist are merely a single eternal reality which he called Being (a term Ibn 'Arabi also applies to the Single Monad). The complex and rigorous adaptation of Parmenides' hypotheses in Plato's Parmenides – constantly elaborated by the later Neoplatonists – offers even closer analogies to Ibn 'Arabi's overall ontological system. Zeno wrote a book containing forty paradoxes, and, although his book was lost, four of those paradoxes were discussed by Aristotle in his Physics: the Dichotomy, the Achilles, the Arrow and the Stadium. Each of those four paradoxes challenges all claims that there is real motion (Heath 1981: 273–283; Sorensen 2003: 44–57; Darling 2004: 351; Leiber 1993: 77; Erickson 1998: 218–220).

The Dichotomy paradox concludes that there is no motion because that which is moved must arrive at the middle of its course before it arrives at the end. In order to traverse a line segment it is necessary to reach its midpoint. To do this, one must reach the one-fourth point; to do this, one must reach the one-eighth point, and so on ad infinitum. Hence motion can never begin, because the sum $1/2 + 1/4 + 1/8 + \dots$ equals one, but only after an infinite number of additions, and therefore it actually approaches one but never reaches it. Even more perplexing to the human mind is the attempt to sum $1/2 + 1/4 + 1/8 + \dots$ backwards: for we can never get started, since we are trying to build up this infinite sum from the wrong end!

The paradox of Achilles attempts to show that, even though Achilles runs faster than the tortoise, he will never catch her! Let us suppose that Achilles runs at ten metres per second and the tortoise at only one metre per second, and that when the race started the tortoise was ten metres ahead. After one second Achilles would arrive at the point where the tortoise was when the race started, but the tortoise would have moved one metre further – so that by the time Achilles covers this one metre, the tortoise would have advanced again 0.1 metre, and so on. Thus Achilles can never catch the tortoise.

Zeno bases the above two arguments on the fact that once a thing is divisible, then it is infinitely divisible. One could counter the above two paradoxes by postulating an atomic theory in which matter (or space) is composed of many small indivisible elements. However the remaining two paradoxes cause problems only if we consider that space is made up of indivisible elements that may be cut in indivisible durations of time.

Turning to the third paradox of the Arrow: if we consider the path of an arrow in flight, at each instant of its path the arrow occupies some position in space; this is what it means to say that space is discrete. But to occupy some position in space is to be at rest in this position. So throughout the entire path of the arrow through space, it is in fact at rest! Or if in an indivisible instant of time the arrow moved, then indeed this instant of time would be divisible (for example, in a smaller instant of time the arrow would have moved half that distance).

The fourth paradox of the Stadium is a little more complicated, but it leads to the same result as the above – i.e. that time and space can not be discrete – while, on the contrary, we have seen that the first two paradoxes may be resolved only if we assume that time and space are not continuous

The above four paradoxes challenge not only all scientific theories of motion but also our everyday experience. For this reason they have often been dismissed as logical nonsense. Many attempts, however, have also been made to dispose of them by means of mathematical theorems, such as the theory of convergent series or the theory of sets. Aristotle did not fully appreciate the significance of Zeno's arguments, since he called them 'fallacies', without actually being able to refute them. Many modern scientists like to believe that axiomatic mathematics has dispelled Zeno's paradoxes, where now it is possible to talk about limits and infinity without reaching any mathematical contradiction and it can be proved that the sum of an infinite number of halving intervals is finite. But some recent philosophers such as Bertrand Russell persisted with such arguments, and recently similar puzzling phenomena (called the 'quantum Zeno effect') have been observed in radioactive atoms (Misra and Sudarshan 1977: 756; Grossing and Zeilinger 1991: 321–326).

With Ibn 'Arabî's re-creation principle, we would have no difficulty at all in resolving Zeno's paradoxes and reconciling his conclusion that there is no motion with our daily perceptions. So although there is no real motion in the sense that the object gradually leaves its position to a new one, but rather it is re-created in ever new positions so that we imagine it moving between these places. For example, when we watch a 'movie' on the television, we have no doubt that nothing really moves on the screen, but it is only a succession of different frames. According to Ibn 'Arabî's cosmological perspective, the whole world is exactly like that (see section 6.8). As we noted in section 2.6, Ibn 'Arabî plainly stated that the object that we see moving actually is re-created in the distinct places between its start and destination one after another and does not really 'move' between them [II.457.31], so there is never any real motion in such a way that the object 'gradually moves' along its path. Thus Ibn 'Arabî, like Zeno and Parmenides, believes that the whole world is a manifestation of a single entity which alone can be described to have a real existence. But Ibn 'Arabî's distinctive contribution is to show how the multiplicity of the world emerges from or within the Single Monad.

7.5 Discreteness and continuousness

There is no doubt that Zeno has presented a deep problem which, despite centuries of efforts to resolve it, still seems to lack a truly satisfactory solution. As Frankel wrote:

The human mind, when trying to give itself an accurate account of motion, finds itself confronted with two aspects of the phenomenon. Both are inevitable but at the same time they are mutually exclusive. Either we look at the continuous flow of motion; then it will be impossible for us to think of the object in any particular position. Or we think of the object as occupying any of the positions through which its course is leading it; and while fixing our thought on that particular position we can not help fixing the object itself and putting it at rest for one short instant.

(Frankel 1942: 1–25, 193–206)

This basic dilemma of discreteness and continuousness has kept coming up in various guises, but most clearly in the long historical debate on the nature of light: whether it is particles or waves. With the success of the wave theory in the nineteenth century, the continuum seemed to have won. But in 1899, when Max Planck solved the ‘black body problem’⁷ by postulating that atoms could absorb or emit energy only in discrete amounts, the age of Quantum Theory began. Soon after that, Bohr used the concept of quantization to construct the first successful atomic model, and Einstein was able to analyse the photoelectric effect only by adopting the quantum nature of light. However, Quantum Theory was not able to solve the question of motion and change, where the continuous theory of Relativity was more successful.

So the human mind is accustomed to classifying quantities as either countable or uncountable, or either discrete or continuous; there is no other way. This is inevitable on the level of multiplicity. But on the level of oneness (i.e. of all-inclusive ahadiyya or ‘unicity’) there would be no meaning for such terms. A first look at Ibn ‘Arabî’s model could conclude that, on the level of multiplicity, the world should be certainly discrete, and therefore that Ibn ‘Arabî might easily adopt the atomist view. But the issue this raises is quite similar to what we have discussed earlier in Chapter 2 about the length of the moment and whether it is composed of discrete sub-moments, or whether it has a length at all. We have seen that it is not easy to decide for either case. Similarly, it is not easy to judge – even on the multiplicity level – whether the world is ultimately continuous or discrete. Although there are discrete events happening in discrete times, still the change from one event to another looks continuous, just like the flow of normal days; there is no abrupt change. Although we can easily divide events over days and classify them according to the date, actually the relation between any two consecutive events that happened during the day is not different from those which happened also consecutively but on different days – for example, right before and after morning or evening. In other words, the motion of the Earth around its axis, though generating the appearance of different distinct days, it is itself a continuous process. Likewise, the all-creative ‘motion’ of the Single Monad is also a continuous process in everlasting alteration between ‘daytimes’ and ‘night-times’, manifestation and being hidden, material and spiritual – yet there is no point of separation or abrupt transformation between any two periods or states. That is why Ibn ‘Arabî calls the terms of discreteness and continuousness ‘disconnected’ (munfasil) and ‘connected’ (muttasil), because for him the actual process of change (re-creation) is like a one-dimensional flow of divine manifestation. So if there is an apparent continuity or discontinuity, that would only be in our imagination or abstract consideration, but not in reality [III.324.35–325.18].

7.6 The EPR paradox

Physics theories, which are mainly based on explaining motion and its relation to time, have worked fine for centuries, so that people have been able to send spaceships to the Moon and other planets with great timing accuracy. Dismissing Zeno's paradoxes, therefore, had no negative consequences for applied physics. However, no single theory up to now has been able to explain all observations, especially when it comes to the microcosms of subatomic particles, where new paradoxes are still arising.

One of the most pertinent tests of Ibn 'Arabī's cosmological model is that through its principles the prominent Einstein–Podolsky–Rosen (EPR) paradox could be so easily and readily understood. The EPR paradox demonstrates the discrepancy between the two principal theories of physics: Quantum Theory and Relativity. Quantum Theory is one of the most successful theories of science. It explained the structure of atoms, the properties of materials, elementary particles and stars. Although it was generally consistent with the results of many decades of experimenting, the basic conceptual foundations of Quantum Mechanics can lead to some puzzling paradoxes and strange unacceptable features. The EPR paradox is possibly one of the most compelling of these apparently peculiarly unacceptable features.

In 1935 Einstein, Podolsky and Rosen – in their famous article titled: 'Can Quantum-Mechanical Description of Physical Reality be Considered Complete?' (Einstein et al. 1935: 777) – developed a thought experiment to demonstrate what they felt was a lack of completeness in Quantum Mechanics. This so-called 'EPR paradox' has led to much subsequent and still ongoing research. The purpose of the EPR thought experiment was to expose the profound peculiarities of the quantum description of a physical system extended over a large region of space. It seemed that, under certain conditions, a quantum system of two entangled particles could in theory exchange information instantaneously or, at least, faster than the speed of light. This clearly contradicts the principle of 'locality' in Einstein's theory of Relativity, which supposes that the speed of light is a maximum terminal velocity. The phenomena of entanglement also lead to the violation of Heisenberg's sacred 'uncertainty principle', which declares that not all the classical physical observables (e.g. position and momentum) of a system can be simultaneously known with unlimited precision, even in principle.

On the basis of these contradictions, EPR refused this deterministic nature of Quantum Mechanics and postulated that the existence of 'hidden variables', some thus far unknown properties of the system, should account for the paradoxical discrepancy. Niels Bohr, on the other hand, favoured the view put together in the 'Copenhagen interpretation' of Quantum Theory and refused the idea of hidden variables (Bohr 1935: 696).

In 1964 John Bell proposed a mechanism to test for the existence of these hidden variables, and he developed his 'inequality principle' as the basis for such a test (Bell 1966: 447). This was followed by many experiments to verify this principle. The most successful of these experiments was performed by Alain

Aspect and his colleagues in 1982 (Aspect 1982a: 1804; Aspect 1982b: 91). Their experiment consisted of light polarization measurements made on pairs of photons, moving in opposite directions, emitted simultaneously in single transitions by calcium atoms, then measured by sensitive detectors on each side. The results of the experiment clearly violate Bell's inequalities, eliminating the need for the existence of hidden variables and thus supporting the predictions of non-local Quantum Mechanics (which violate Einstein's locality principle and even common sense). The results showed that apparently the left-hand detecting apparatus was sending some kind of message to the right-hand photon informing it as to how the left-hand one was set up, so that the right-hand photon could interact in the appropriate way with the right-hand apparatus. But as a matter of fact there is no communication at all between the left and the right photons, and, if we suppose there is, then the signal would have to travel faster than the speed of light.

Many even more accurate experiments have been performed after that, and all show that it is as if time 'stops' between the pair of entangled particles and they interact instantaneously despite the large distance between them. Although this experimental outcome supports the fundamental concepts of the theory of Quantum Mechanics and contradicts Einstein's locality principle, but there is no adequate theoretical explanation for it, so far.

Now one of the striking consequences of Ibn 'Arabî's principle of re-creation by the Single Monad is that such strange instantaneous behaviour between the two entangled particles would be natural and very easily explained. According to his cosmological theories the constant creation of the manifest world proceeds like a movie composed of succeeding still pictures. Each momentary 'picture' of the world is like a closed system, where any change in one part of this picture would require another synchronizing change or changes in other part(s), so that the whole does not change because there is no external interaction, only 'internal' changes. We have also explained that all 'parts' of the world are created in series by the Single Monad that constantly creates ('puts on') ever new forms, one total individual form at each instant of time – such that each created form then ceases to exist (intrinsically, not through any other force) the next moment after its existence.

Now if we take that theory of cosmic re-creation into account, we can simply say that the two entangled particles in these experiments, like any two entities in the world, never existed together at the same. Rather, the Single Monad first wears the form of the first particle – i.e. causes this particle to exist (under special conditions); then this unique Single Monad itself wears other forms in a specific sequence (see section 5.6), until it comes to wear or create the form of the second particle – regardless of where it is in space. But by the moment of this second state of creation, the first particle is out of existence, and therefore it encountered no time. Now, because the two particles are 'entangled' (in a closed system), any change on the first form that corresponds to the first particle will be kept in the 'memory' of the Single Monad, so that when it comes to wear the form of the second particle it does so in a way that keeps the total state of the system of the two particles unchanged (according to the Quantum Mechanical laws, because it is a closed system). This process is instantaneous; no matter how far apart the two particles are, because only one particle really exists at a time, and during the interval between creating the two particles they were both out of existence, encountering no time. This hypothesis corresponds to Ibn ‘Arabî’s account of ‘the real flow of time’ that we explained in Chapter 4.

In fact what we have just said applies to any (large or small) system and not simply the system of those two entangled particles, but in normal cases the effect of the ongoing process of cosmic re-creation is not noticeable because of the many possible changes that could happen in any part of the complex system and the corresponding distraction of our limited means of attention and perception. In other words: any change in any part of the world will cause synchronization changes in all other parts, because the world as a whole is a closed system. This last statement is in fact another and more precise depiction of the whole cosmic process of existentiating causality. This conception also provides a hypothetical explanation for certain ‘para-psychological’ phenomena.

7.7 Causality and induction

As Ibn ‘Arabî often pointed out in his analyses of our unconscious reliance on our ‘habitual’ forms of perception (‘âda), the main obstacle that prevents us from discovering the reality of creation is our deep trust in causality and induction. It is true that we live by causes and results, but indeed this is only a limited and superficial perspective with regard to the underlying realities. The fact of the matter is that what we refer to as ‘cause’ and ‘result’ – i.e. what Ibn ‘Arabî normally calls the asbâb (s. sabab), or intermediate or ‘apparent’ causes – are chronologically arranged, but ontologically unrelated. This is quite evident in terms of the re-creation principle discussed above, but Ibn ‘Arabî also clearly declares that ‘Allah creates things “next to” (‘inda) the causes and not “through” (bi) them’ [II.204.13, Tadbîrât: 312]. As we’ve already seen above and in section 2.6 that motion is only a new creation in a different place, so there is no deeper, inherent ontological relation between the two created states before and after motion.

Also – as a result of the readily observed systematic causes and effects – we normally rely upon induction in drawing most of our conclusions about causality. But in chapter 56 of the Futûhât, Ibn ‘Arabî argues that ‘in reality induction (al-istiqrâ’) does not give any (true divine) knowledge’ [I.285.3]. The reason why he concludes that is simply because nothing is ever truly repeated [I.285.28], as we have also shown above in discussing the re-creation principle. Induction ultimately means that we expect something to occur in a specific definitive way, based on previous observations of similar circumstances and regularities.

For these reasons, according to Ibn ‘Arabî, the basic observational and logical principles that the scientists and philosophers of his time relied upon in seeking the truth are indeed not firm, so that their practical success deceives us with regard to their limitations and restricted spheres of application. For this reason Ibn 'Arabî's answer to Ibn Rushd (see section 5.1) was first 'yes', but then he immediately added again 'no', to highlight the limitations of the philosophers' methods, in comparison to his own reliance on divine inspiration and 'unveiling'.

Ibn 'Arabî, however, does not deny the phenomenological relevance of the apparent, intermediate 'causes' (asbâb): on the contrary he affirms that they are intentionally established by Allah, so they are unavoidable [II.653.11], and we must rely on such causes to reach our goals. So those observable secondary or apparent causes may not be removed:

And we already informed you that apparent-causes (asbâb) are divine veils, so that removing them is not possible except through them (i.e. by other secondary causes). So the very removing of causes is in fact fixing them; and the reality of abolishing them is (actually) affirming them.

[II.553.31; see also I.382.26, III.340.9, IV.275.23 and III.235.28]

So since they are veils, we have to look through them to see the Real, Who continually creates the causes and the results and arranges them in this specific 'habitual' dependency. As Ibn 'Arabî explains, Allah creates simply by the Command 'Be', and therefore He does not need the secondary causes; but He establishes these apparent causes for us to unveil them [II.413.35], though we would never be able to unveil the causes completely and permanently, especially since our own unenlightened mentality itself is the main veil [II.553.6].

In the short chapter 252 of the Futûhât Ibn 'Arabî analyses the known spiritual state of 'abolishment' (al-mahw), in which the spiritually realized person is freed from the unconscious limitations of habitual perception ('âda), so that the rule of apparent 'causality' is removed for him and he can directly perceive the universal reality of ever-renewed creation. There he says:

For the person in the state of 'abolishment' (of the 'habitual' perception of causality), relying on causes is removed, but not the causes. For Allah never deactivates the rule of (divine) wisdom with regard to the (created) things, and the apparent-causes are (like all other creations) divine 'veils' established.

The greatest of those veils may not be removed, which is your own individual self ('ayn: also, 'eye'). For your individual self is also the cause (still sabab) behind the existence of (the possibility of our) knowing and recognizing Allah – since knowing Allah may not come to exist except through your individual self!

So it is not possible for you (i.e. the veil of your ego-self) to be 'removed' with Allah's wanting to be known (by you). So He abolishes you from (witnessing) yourself, so you no longer stop with (witnessing) yourself, even though your individual self still exists, since the manifestation (of His transforming) influence is from Him. This is just as (in the famous incident at Badr alluded to in verse 8:17) He 'abolished' (the normal causal role of) the Messenger of Allah, may Allah have peace and mercy upon him, with regard to his throwing, despite the (actual) existence of throwing by Him: so He said 'and you threw not', so he abolished him; 'when you threw', so He affirmed the apparent-cause; 'but Allah threw' (8:17), and He only threw by the hand of the Messenger of Allah, may Allah have peace and mercy upon him.

[II.553.5]

The apparent-causes are indeed manifestations of the influences of His Names, which is why we see the effects following from those causes, but indeed the effect – like all of creation – is also only (ultimately) caused by Allah Himself. This means, as Ibn 'Arabî affirms, that the names of causes are in fact Names of God:

Then you have to know that the contingent things (creatures) are by essence in need (of being given existence), so that need always accompanies them because their essence (as contingent, 'needy' things) is forever. So He established for them the apparent-causes (asbâb) through the presence of which they receive what they need. So they are in need of the apparent-causes, therefore Allah made the individual-reality ('ayn) of those apparent-causes Names for Him. So the names of the causes are from (the influence of) His Names, may He be Exalted, so that (the contingent thing) should only need Him, because this is the correct knowledge (of the nature of things).

So there is no difference, for the people of unveiling, between the names that are said to be the Names of Allah according to (religious) custom and the revelation, and the names of the apparent-causes, so far as their (all) being Names of Allah, because He said: 'you all are in need of Allah' (35:15). For we see in reality the need for the apparent-causes, so the names of the apparent-causes must be Names of Allah, the Exalted. So we call out in prayer to those names (of the apparent-causes) by (the needfulness of our actual) state, not through outward words (of prayer).

Thus when we are touched by hunger we rush to seek the food that may remove the pain of hunger. So we are in need of it, and it has no need of us – although we (in fact) are only in need of Allah. So that (food) is one of His Names: I mean the form of this food descends to take the place of the spoken or written word of the (corresponding) divine Name. That is why He ordered to be thankful to the apparent-causes (31:14), because He ordered us to be thankful to Him – that is, to thank Him through them.

[III.208.7]

But seeing through the apparent causes (to the One real Cause or Creator) is not easy, and ultimately the meditations and path of ascension of the spiritual seeker are all directed toward that. At the end of this path, the seeker will see only the Image of the Real (rather than his ego-self), and that is why 'whoever knows himself knows his Lord'.

However it is very important to notice that at the highest steps of this ascension, as the seeker advances, he gradually loses the awareness of his limited physical composition, so that what remains at the end is the pure receptivity of 'hearing', just as 'hearing' (samâ, or sam') was the first condition of all things created. Thus Ibn 'Arabî says:

He said: 'and Our word unto a thing, when We intend it, is only that We say unto it "Be!", and it is' (16:40), but He deafened us from perceiving this word except by the way of faith, and He blinded us from seeing His intention (tawajjuh) on creating the things, by the apparent-causes that He established. thus He sends the rain down, and it falls; and He makes fertile the land, the seeds sprout; then He sends out the sunlight, so the plants rise, and (the seeds) harvested, ground up, kneaded, baked and chewed by the teeth; then they were swallowed, ripened in the stomach, taken by the liver and made into blood, sent into the vessels and distributed over the body until the (life-giving) vapour rises out of them, so the life of this body is for the sake of that breath (that we breathe).

So these are the primary apparent-causes (for life), along with (His) moving the celestial spheres and the motions of their planets, casting the rays on the places (illuminated by) the (celestial) lights – (all that) under the supervision of the Universal Soul, with Allah's permission, and the support of the (First) Intellect for (the Universal Soul). All these are veils, established as the fundamental (apparent-causes), in addition to the other, lesser apparent-causes. So the (human receptivity or) 'hearing' needs to break through all those veils until it hears the (creative divine) word 'Be!'. Therefore He created in the person of faith the power of faith, so that it flows into his hearing until he realizes the word 'Be', and it flows into his sight until he witnesses the One Who gives existence to the apparent-causes. And He has done all that through the 'Breath of the All-Merciful'.

[II.413.35]

So – despite their ultimately being ontologically unrelated – one cannot deny the effect of the apparent-causes. Therefore, we have to look at other prospects for redefining the principle of causality. We have seen before (section 3.5) that Ibn 'Arabî affirmed that after all the forms in the world have been created in the six Days from Sunday to Friday (which is space), nothing remained to be created on Saturday, that is the 'Day of eternity' or the instant of time that we live in at each now. What remains is only continual creative changing the states of things 'from (one) state to (another) state and from (one) station to (another) station' [I.61.14]. Therefore the system of the world, as a still picture created in the Week, is a 'closed system' in the meaning that all changes in it are necessarily internal changes.

Therefore, whatever change happens in one part of this world will require another change in other part(s), so that the total state does not change. This last statement seems to articulate a new, more adequate form of the causality principle, and indeed this is exactly one of the principles of Quantum Mechanics which has proved to be successful over the last century (see section 1.3). This is in fact a very important conclusion and it could be the key to a new understanding of the reality of motion. This also might explain the types of what science tends to view as inexplicable ‘para psychological’ phenomena, such as the telekinetic effects and telepathy which are widely known as karâmât (acts of grace). The world in all its directions of space and time, past and future, here and there, is already encoded (via the divine Foreknowledge) in the Single Monad, so whoever has any access to that Source should be able to predict what is in or affects other parts of the world. If we want to study this issue further we have to look at the divine Attributes of Power and Will, and their image in the human being and the world, and relate them to time and space, as Ibn ‘Arabî discussed at the end of his short treatise Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ.

7.8 Superstrings and the science of letters

In the standard model of elementary particle physics, particles are considered to be points (or spheres) moving through the four dimensions of space-time. Extra abstract dimensions are needed to take into account the different properties such as mass, charge and spin.⁸ This standard model eventually led to obvious discrepancies between Einstein’s theory of General Relativity and the Quantum Field Theory that is essentially based on the wave properties of matter (see section 1.3, and also section 7.6).

Around 1985, the new String Theory suggested that all elementary particles can be represented by fundamental building blocks called ‘strings’ that can be closed, like loops, or open, like a hair. The different vibrational modes (or ‘notes’) of the string represent the different particle types, since different modes are seen as different masses or spins. One mode of vibration makes the string appear as an electron, another as a photon. But one of the most remarkable predictions of String Theory is that space-time has ten dimensions rather than four. However, six of these dimensions are curled up very tightly, which is why we may never be normally aware of their existence. Other subsequent extensions of the String Theory anticipate even higher dimensions.

There are deep and exciting similarities between the principles of the String Theory and Ibn ‘Arabî’s views. We have already mentioned in section 2.1 that he says that there are four ‘fundamental principles of existence’ that are – in addition to ‘another six derived from them’ – enough to describe the state of everything in the world [III.404.22]. But what is most exciting in this regard is Ibn ‘Arabî’s concept of the mysterious ‘science of letters’ (‘ilm al-hurûf) or what he calls the ‘world of Breaths’ (‘âlam al-anfâs).

We’ve already mentioned above (section 6.6) the complex symbolic cosmological analogies that Ibn ‘Arabî elaborates, beginning in the long second chapter of the Futûhât, between the cosmos, the Single Monad and the Greatest Element on the one hand, and the world of letters on the other hand. Ibn ‘Arabî adds that ‘the world of letters is a nation like other nations . . . and those who know that are only the people of unveiling in our path, . . . and they (the nation of letters) are grouped into groups like the normal world that we know’ [I.58.12].

These 'groups' refer to the groups of the spiritual hierarchy that we have mentioned above, which Ibn 'Arabî explained in detail in chapter 73 of the Futûhât.

Ibn 'Arabî also mentioned at the end of chapter 1 of the Futûhât that 'the first line that I read (from the hidden knowledge of the Spirit from whom he took everything that he wrote in the Futûhât), and the first secret of this line that I knew, is what I am going to mention in this second chapter' [I.51.30]. Then he wrote about 40 extremely dense pages on the cosmological dimensions and significance of the science of letters in chapter 2.⁹ In this chapter and other parts of the Futûhât, Ibn 'Arabî mentioned many mysterious facts about the letters and their world and cosmological meaning. For example, Ibn 'Arabî explained there the relation between the characters of the word azal, as written in Arabic, and the meaning of time (zamân) by tracing the mysterious relation between the letters in both words, as he mentioned in his Kitâb Al-Azal.

This is in fact a very broad and complicated subject, and we cannot go into details here. What we do want to summarize is that Ibn 'Arabî considers the entire cosmos as the words of the Real spoken through the 'Breath of the All-Merciful' [I.366.1, II.403.21, 459.6; see also Al-Masâ'il 105], just like the meanings that we create through the words that we speak which are also composed of letters (or sounds) that are essentially the vibrations of our vocal strings under the influence of our breath. In chapter 2 of the Futûhât, Ibn 'Arabî gives details about the cosmological significance of each letter, how it is produced, what kind of vibrations it carries, and also the different orbs that contribute to produce it. Then in the long chapter 198 [II.390–478], which is titled 'On Knowing the Breath', Ibn 'Arabî mentioned remarkable facts about these cosmic meanings of the letters and sounds, and he explained the role of each divine Name of Allah in creating the different parts of the world and the different letters of the alphabet.

As one small illustration, we refer here to the letter (and sound) alif (ا), the first letter in the Arabic alphabet (and many other languages), which Ibn 'Arabî treats as symbolically identical to the Single Monad we have mentioned above (section 6.6) – not only because it is first but because it represents the closest thing to the pure creative, foundational divine 'Breath' itself. First Ibn 'Arabî asserts that 'alif is not from (other) letters' [I.65.23], but he stresses that 'all letters (like the world) may be broken down into and built up from it, while it does not break down into them' [I.78.22], so this letter alif is present in every letter or word, just like the Single Monad that is also present in everything in the world. Indeed any sound that we produce starts by the sound of letter alif because it is simply the beginning of the blowing of the breath through the larynx.

So since the cosmos is the words of the Real and those words are composed of letters or sounds produced through the Breath of the All-Merciful, these letters are the strings that constitute everything in the cosmos, just as the meanings that we create when we speak are also composed of the letters of the alphabet. Even the written shape and curvature of the Arabic characters, for Ibn 'Arabî, have deep hidden meanings that relate to the cosmos in many mysterious ways: in that sense, those shapes, just like the strings in the Strings Theory, are essentially either open like letter alif (ا), or closed like letters mîm (م) and wâw (و).

The science of letters and of their equivalent numbers (‘ilm al-jifr) was not Ibn ‘Arabî’s own invention, but was widely known in various ‘esoteric sciences’, for example those that deal with magic and talismans, where they replace each letter by its equivalent numbers and make certain calculations and tables that are said to have secret magical effects, or may tell hidden facts. In her famous book Mystical Dimensions of Islâm, Annemarie Schimmel devoted a separate appendix to the wider theme of letter symbolism in Sufi literature (Schimmel 1975: 411–425). In fact this kind of mythology dates back to the time of Pythagoras of Samos (582–504 BC), who visualized the world as perfect harmony, like musical notes, which depends on the system of numbers (which were written with the same letters of the alphabet in both Greek and later in Arabic).

As we said, these letters are arranged in a symbolic cosmological hierarchy parallel to the spiritual hierarchy of the saints that Ibn ‘Arabî explained in chapter 73 of the Futûhât. In fact it is noteworthy that Ibn ‘Arabî calls the members (awliyâ) of the spiritual hierarchy ‘the world of Breaths’ [II.6.21], or ‘the Men of the world of Breaths’ [II.11.9]. Also that is why sometimes Ibn ‘Arabî calls the single Days of each singular instant ‘the Days of Breaths’ [III.127.34], because in this Day the creative divine Breath is taken which is the string or the vibration that appears in existence. Hence in each single Day the string (or the Single Monad, or the ‘real-through-whom-creation-takes-place’) is vibrating to produce the letter (or sound) alif; and the world therefore is the words that are composed of these alifs that are produced in the succeeding Days. The Single Monad is the ultimate elementary String, but there are also other elementary strings: just as letter alif forms other letters (both in writing and speaking) the Single Monad also forms other monads that are the entities of everything in the world.

For Ibn ‘Arabî, this cosmological analogy applies both to speaking (sounds) and to writing (characters), because the ‘Higher Pen’ (that is the Single Monad) is creating the cosmos by literally writing the words of the Real in the ‘Higher Tablet’ of the Universal Soul. This process of writing produces the ‘Pen-sounds’ (sarîf al-aqlâm), which are the vibrations that are referred to in the hadith recounting the ascension of the Prophet Muhammad [III.61.9].

So we say that the First Intellect that is the first-created (or first-originated: awwal mubda’), and he is the Higher Pen. There was nothing else originated before (muhdath) him, but he was influenced by what Allah newly originated in him by raising up through him the ‘Protected Tablet’ (of the World-Soul), like the raising up of Eve from Adam in the world of material-bodies, so that this Tablet is going to be the substrate and place for what this divine Higher Pen writes (through the ‘words’ of creation). Now the delineation of the letters is designed to indicate what the Real made as signs pointing to Him.

So the Protected Tablet was the first existent raised up (from another: mawjûd inbi’âthî). And it is reported in the revelation (of the Prophet) that

‘the first of what Allah created was the Pen; then He created the Tablet and said unto the Pen: “write!”, so the Pen said: “what to write?” Then Allah said unto him: “you write and I shall dictate you”’ [Kanz: 15116]. So the Pen writes in the Tablet what Allah dictates to him, which is His Knowledge regarding His creation that He shall create till the resurrection Day.

[I.139.23]

Ibn ‘Arabî also divides the letters of the alphabet between four existents: the real (through whom creation takes place), the angels, the jinn and the Humans [I.53.1], which we may render into vibrations in 0-D, 1-D, 2-D and 3-D as we shall explain in the following section. This, he explains, is because hearing (sam‘) is based on four realities [II.367.24], and that is why in the science of music and notes there are four main notes: the Bum (the thick string), the Zîr (the highest string), Muthannâ (duo), and Muthallath (trio): each moves the soul in a special way, causing the emotions of happiness and sadness [II.367.26].

But as Ibn ‘Arabî explains in a chapter (182) entirely devoted to ‘hearing’ – i.e. metaphysical ‘receptivity’ in all its forms:

So ‘Hearing’, in this sense, is divided into three kinds: divine hearing, spiritual hearing and natural hearing. The divine hearing is that of the (divine) secrets (asrâr) and it is hearing from everything, in everything and through everything, because all of the world, for them (the true divine ‘knowers’), is the words of Allah, and ‘His words are never exhausted’ (18:109, 31:27). Therefore they have, corresponding to those (divine creative) words, ‘hearings’ that never end . . .

And the spiritual hearing is connected to the sounds (sarîf) of the divine pens on the Tablet of what exists, (which is) ‘Protected’ from changes and substitutions because the whole of existence is ‘a spread parchment’ (riqq manshûr, 52:3) and the world in relation to it is an ‘inscribed book’ (kitâb mastûr, 52:2): so the Pens speak out, and the ears of the minds hear, and the words are engraved (in manifest existence) so they are witnessed.

[II.367.7–9, 18–19]

So these words are the spiritual and material world that we live in, which is therefore the succession of the vibrations (letters) produced by the divine creative Breath through the Single Monad that is the Universal Intellect, and displayed in the Universal Tablet. This subject is indeed very diverse and important, and it is worth a separate study. Ibn ‘Arabî himself spent a good part of the Futûhât on this subject, as illustrated in the long chapters 2 [I.51–91] and 198 [II.390–478].

7.9 The properties of matter

In apparent disagreement with physics, and also with common sense, Ibn ‘Arabî paradoxically declares that most common properties of matter like weight, density, transparency and softness are related to the perceiver and not to the objects themselves [II.458.14]. There are only two exceptions, the colour and the shape, where Ibn 'Arabî accepts that they can be related to something in the object itself, though they may also be dependent on the perceiver like other properties.

At a first glance this might be difficult to accept, especially since it clearly contradicts our daily experience. However, we have already seen in section 2.6 that Ibn 'Arabî's unique understanding of motion may be understood only on the basis of the oneness of being and the re-creation principle that we explained in section 5.6. Similarly, if we accept that objects and the whole world are continuously created and re-created by the Single Monad, then we have to revise our view about the structure of matter: for there actually exist (in this view) only the individual substances or monads and their forms, so that other properties are consequences and not intrinsic.

Regarding the structure of the cosmos, Ibn 'Arabî also mentions that the structure of the higher world (i.e. the planets, spheres and stars) 'is different from what the cosmologists say, although what they say is based on (observational) proof(s); and it would have been possible for Allah to have it arranged that way (as they say) – but He did not' [II.670.7].

This statement – which might allude to such prevalent current astronomical theories as the model of 'epicycles', or the assertion of a unique distinctive 'element' ('quintessence') constituting the higher spheres and planets – means that he regards the models of the Cosmos devised by scientists and philosophers as logically possible, but not true, solutions to the results given by astronomical observations.

7.10 Dimensions of the unseen world

One of the most obvious differences between science and theology is that the first speaks only about physical phenomena (including energy), while the latter assumes the existence of spiritual or non-material beings, such as the jinn and angels, and of various spiritual worlds, including those dimensions associated with the Hereafter. Therefore one of the possibilities in order to bridge that gap is to extrapolate modern laws of physics and cosmology to those unseen worlds. Some recent scientific attempts have been made in this regard, and most postulate that the reason why we do not normally see those supra-natural worlds is that they have higher dimensions (e.g. nine or ten dimensions).¹⁰ However, there are indications that Ibn 'Arabî sometimes suggests that angels and jinn are 'physical' or 'natural' creatures less advanced than humans. In that case, angels and jinn have lower dimensions – one-dimensional (1-D) and two-dimensional (2-D) respectively – while we humans, are three-dimensional (3-D) creatures, who in the Hereafter (or perhaps even before) may be developed into four dimensions. Here we are speaking about spatial dimensions alone.

Since we are now ordinarily 3-D creatures, we can not in general see jinn and angels because our ordinary sensory tools are used to detect only 3-D phenomena. In contrary to that, jinn and angels can see us – not because their senses are capable of perceiving 3-D phenomena but because they rather perceive and interact with our souls and intellects which are of their own nature (of 2-D and 1-D respectively). Likewise jinn and humans can not in general see the angels. However, it is possible for humans to cross over to the jinn and angel worlds by transforming into 2-D and 1-D [I.168.20] and this is what happens to the seeker at the beginning of his or her path and in the spiritual ascension, which is why advanced human beings are able to speak and interact with spirits easily [III.332.11], until they ultimately witnesses the Real Himself. But in order to reach this final stage, the spiritual seeker must be ‘annihilated’ into 0-D, because the Real can only be witnessed by His secret (‘the real through whom creation takes place’) which He has implemented in everything [I.168.22, see also III.540.33].

Dimensions play a very important role in modern cosmology and mathematics. There are real dimensions and abstract dimensions. In principle, we can – mathematically – assign a dimension to any parameter of a specific function. For example the weather at any point on the Earth is a function of many parameters such as time, place, the nuclear reactions on the Sun, the amount of cloud in the area, the direction of winds etc. Each one of these parameters can be considered as an abstract dimension for the sake of simplifying the mathematical study of the dependency of weather on these parameters or dimensions. Real dimensions, on the other hand, are only those three dimensions of space (i.e. length, width, depth; or x, y, z), and no more. Although time is considered as a real dimension in Relativity, it is not a spatial dimension and so we shall not consider it as real in this regard (see also section 2.5).

So here we shall speak only about the three real dimensions of space. In fact those three dimensions make six (as Ibn ‘Arabî often points out), if we take into account that each dimension has two directions. Those six dimensions or directions are: (up, down), (right, left), (front, back); or $(-x, +x)$, $(-y, +y)$, $(-z, +z)$.

I have to mention, however, that Ibn ‘Arabî never arranged the creations in terms of dimensions as we are suggesting in this section; but this possibility is quite evident from his various texts, and many of his ideas can be easily understood on this basis, as we shall see shortly.

With regard to dimensions, existence can be divided into five categories, as we shall explain in the remainder of this chapter:

7.10.1 The real

He is the Being of ‘zero dimension’ (0-D): i.e. of no dimensions, which means He is independent of space and time. That is why Ibn ‘Arabî sometimes symbolically indicates God as a dot or a point [III.275], for example as the centre of the circle of creation as we have seen in the cosmogonic diagram in Figure 7.1; also, the dot that is used in many characters of the Arabic alphabet, especially the letters bâ’ (ب) and nûn (ن). However, ‘the Real’ here may refer to Allah Himself or also to the Greatest Element who is the Image of Real, or the ‘real through whom creation takes place' (al-haqq al-makhlûq bihi), and he is the true 'Image of God', as we have discussed in the two preceding chapters. So when we speak about the Real with regard to the creation and spatial dimensions, we usually mean the Greatest Element rather than Allah, since Allah Himself, His Essence, is beyond all descriptions including dimensions.

Figure 7.1 0-D, a point. It actually has no length, width or breadth. This is what is called a geometrical point.

As we have seen in an earlier diagram in Figure 5.1, Ibn 'Arabî symbolically represents the world as a 'circle' whose centre is always the Real or real. The abstract point in the centre is one unit: i.e. it can not be divided or fragmented, nor can it be even described because it has no dimensions. However, this point faces the infinite multiplicity of the points in the circumference of the circle. Moreover, each point of the circle is similar to or an image of the central point. This is identical to the meaning of the hadith that Allah created the Human Being (and the world, according to Ibn 'Arabî) 'on His own Image' (see section 3.1). Also each point in the circumference can be a centre to a new circle [III.275], just as everyone or everything has his or her own world, in his or her imagination. Also, any point of the circumference can be considered the beginning of it and also the end [I.259.24], so 'He is the First and the Last and Hidden (centre point) and Manifest (circumference)'. And each line that goes out of the central point reaches a point on the circumference. This means that everything originated from the Real (in the centre) and it returns to Him (on the circumference) [II.538.26], which can be understood as the cosmogonic meaning of the verse: 'to Him you return' (2:28) and to 'Him everything returns' (11:123). Finally, because all the points are in essence a manifestation of the Real, therefore 'the worm and the First Intellect are equal with respect to the essence, but the difference appeared in the form' [III.452.33]. Similarly, as Ibn 'Arabî points out:

Since the lines (the radii) that go out from the Point in the centre of the circle to the circumference that comes to exist through that Point are equal to all parts of the circumference, so likewise the (creative, existentiating) relation of the Real, the Exalted, to the totality of all existents is the same: there is no change in that relation at all. So all things are looking to Him and accepting from Him that (existence) which He bestows on them, just as the parts of the circumference are facing the Point (in the centre).

[I.125.23]

Moreover, any object is composed of a number of points which are similar but have different attributes; the object is the sum of those points. But we can not say that the object is (nothing but) the (particular) point, nor we can say that it is not the point. Similarly, the world is the sum of the manifestations of all the divine Names of Allah, the Real, but we can not say that the world is the Real, nor can we say that the world is not Him [III.275.32].

For Ibn ‘Arabî, the Real is creating the world by continuously and endlessly manifesting Himself in different forms and forming the cosmos point by point (in series as we explained above), including the perceived, perception and the perceiver [II.484.22]. Therefore at any single instant of time (the ‘now’, or the real existence, hâl) there exists only Him. This is not like saying that the things are Allah, ‘because He is He, and the things are the things’ [II.484.28], but they are the manifestations of the Names of Allah. In this sense, as we have just seen, ‘every name in the world is His Name, not a name of other than Him; for it is the Name of the Manifest in the locus of manifestation’ [II.122.14].

The identity or essence of each one of us (i.e. the individual soul) is a point in the circle of Creation, and so is the identity of everything in the world. So we can here clearly see the meaning of the verse: ‘We shall show them Our signs on the horizons and within themselves until it becomes clear to them that it/He is the Real’ (41:53),¹¹ which can be then considered the most obvious Qur’anic basis of Ibn ‘Arabî’s understanding of the ‘oneness of being’. Also, since each point of the circle is similar to the central point, ‘whoever knows himself knows his Lord’ [I.328.31, II.298.30].

7.10.2 Angels

The angels are beings of one dimension (1-D) and they are made of light (Inshâ’ al-Dawâ’ir: 27). Angels are the first creatures: the Pen himself is an angel, and he is the first creature and everything else is ‘written’ by him in the Soul (the Protected Tablet), which is two-dimensional as we shall see further below: so their relationship is just like a normal pen and writing-board, in that they are one- and two-dimensional respectively. Angels occur by the repeated manifestations of the Real (at least two subsequent manifestations); just as the line is composed of at least two points [III.276.3]. Ibn ‘Arabî says:

The reality of the angel does not accept deviation, because he is the origin of the straight line connecting the two nines (of the divine Source and its human receptacles).¹² For bending (from that straight connection) is deviation, and he (the angel) does not have any bending, but he goes back and forth between the straight (creative) motion and the reverse motion (returning from the creature to God). So he is precisely the subtle thread (raqîqa: connecting the Source and the creatures) itself.

[I.54.21]

On the other hand, there is strong evidence in Ibn ‘Arabî’s texts that some angels indeed function as, among other things, forces of Nature: ‘They are called angels (malâ'ika) because they are links, conductors that link the godly rules and divine effects by material worlds because "al-malak" (the angel) in (Arabic) language means the "force" and the "intensity" (Inshâ' al-Dawâ'ir: 27).

And he also says: 'There is no place in heaven or Earth but that there is an angel in it. And the Real continues to create angels from the (creative divine) Breaths of the worlds, as long as they are still breathing' [I.123.2].

It is also known in physics that there are four fundamental forces in nature, which are: the force of gravity, the electromagnetic force, the weak nuclear force, and the strong nuclear force. Nature is built upon these four forces. Those four forces can be conceived as manifestations of the four prime Archangels – Mâlik, Jibrâ'il (Gabriel), Mikhâ'il (Michael) and Isrâ'îl (Seraphiel) – because Ibn 'Arabî affirms that those four angels are the ones who bear the Throne (al-'arsh). Although it is mentioned in Qur'an that 'eight shall, in that Day (of resurrection), bear above them the Throne of thy Lord' (69:17), he asserts that when this verse was recited before Muhammad, he said 'and they are today (in this world) four' [I.148.2, III.184.28, and also 'Uqlat Al-Mustawfiz: 43–44], 'and tomorrow (in the Hereafter) they are going to be eight' [I.149.29]. Ibn 'Arabî also explains that al-'arsh (usually translated as 'the throne') in the Arabic tongue refers to 'the Kingdom' in addition to 'the Throne' [I.147.33], so, if this verse refers to the divine Kingdom, then its bearers or holders are those who are in charge of its affairs, and these are like the four supports (awtâd) who hold up the house. For this reason we find that Ibn 'Arabî also affirms that the four awtâd (spiritual Pillars) by whom Allah sustains the Earth get their power from the spirituality of these four angels [I.160.25, II.7.1], though he mentions here 'Azrâ'il (the angel of death) instead of Mâlik (the master of Gehenna). In the Hereafter, he explains elsewhere, the three prophets Adam, Muhammad and Ibrahim (Abraham) in addition to angel Ridwân (the Warehouse of Paradise) shall also contribute, so those eight will be the holders or bearers of the Throne or Kingdom in the Hereafter [I.148.11]. We shall see further below that this helps explain why the Hereafter could be considered as four-dimensional (4-D).

Here Ibn 'Arabî also shows that the Throne is the Kingdom, and that it is confined in four things: body, spirit, food and state. So those eight sustainers of the Throne are assigned the various duties as follows: 'Adam and Seraphiel for forms (for bodies), Gabriel and Muhammad for spirits, Michael and Abraham for subsistence, and Mâlik and Ridwân are for threat and promise (i.e. the states in Gehenna or Paradise)' [I.148.3].

Therefore, if we want to compare those four angels who hold up the divine Kingdom and the four elementary forces which operate in Nature, we can clearly see, for example, a correspondence between gravity and Seraphiel, since both operate upon the forms, the bodies. We can also see clear relations between the electromagnetic force and Michael, because both are responsible for subsistence and food, when we remember that all the food that we eat is in the end produced by light and heat which are electromagnetic waves (forces) emitted by the Sun. It is, however, not easy to establish the relation between Gabriel and Mâlik on the one hand and the weak and strong nuclear forces on the other hand, but we can mention that Gehenna is said in the Qur'an to be 'fuelled by stones' (2:24, 66:6), and this could mean the nuclear energy that is available inside the atoms for which those two nuclear forces are responsible.

On the other hand there are so many types of angels who also have different states or levels (37:164) and different structures. Some of those various types are mentioned in the Qur'an (37:1-3, 51:1-4, 77:1-5, 79:1-5 etc.), and Ibn 'Arabî talks about them in some detail very often in his writings [III.445.35-446.6, and also Inshâ' Al-Dawâ'ir: 27]. And it is quite clear by studying these types that they are assigned specific duties, just like the different forces in Nature (including the elementary and other forces).

Therefore, our suggestion that angels are beings of 1-D appears justified because such natural forces always operate in one dimension (they are also represented as vectors ' $\rightarrow$ ' in physics and mathematics), though their effects might appear in two or three dimensions as well.

Notice also that, just as the real (the Greatest Element) is 0-D and can be represented by a dot, the Single Monad is 1-D and can be represented by a line. In letters, the letter alif is made by the flow (sayalân) of the dot. So also the Single Monad is made by the flow (the repeated creative manifestation) of the Greatest Element (see Figure 7.2).

7.10.3 The jinn

The jinn are beings of two dimensions (2-D) or four directions, and according to traditional sources they are made of fire. Ibn 'Arabî affirms that

The fire jinn got the four (of letters) because of the facts they are based on that caused them to say as the Real, the Exalted, told: 'then I will approach them from between their hands, from behind them, from their right side and from their left side' (7:17), and then their facts are over, they have no further fifth fact to seek through it further level, and you should be aware not to think that this is possible for them that to have the height (up) and its counterpart (down) by which the six directions are complete, because the (their) reality does not permit that as we affirmed in the book Al-Mabâdî wal-Ghâyât.

[I.53.8]

It is evident, therefore, that jinn can move only in four directions: the plane or the surface. They have no sense of height, so their space is a sub-space of ours, and that is why we do not see them, they are too thin and tenuous, just like the surface of a heat wave or flame. It is also noteworthy in this regard here that Allah said in the Qur'an that the angels say: 'to Him (to Allah) belongs what is between our hands and what is behind us and what is between that' (19:64); so He did not mention the sides as in the case of jinn. This therefore supports what we said above about the angels being only 1-D.

Figure 7.2 1-D, a line segment. It has a length, and it is created by moving a point.

Figure 7.3 2-D, a unit square. It has length and width, and it is created by moving the line segment in a direction perpendicular to the line on which the segment lies.

In fact, just as the structure of angels is like our spirits, the jinn's structure is similar to the structure of our souls, as Ibn 'Arabî affirms: 'the inner (bâtin) of the human being is in fact jinn' [I.85.6], and also it is possible that the inner of jinn is angels and the inner of angels is the real, which is again another form to express the oneness of being.

7.10.4 Humans

Humans of course are beings of three dimensions (3-D) and they are made of earth or clay. As we said above, humans can decompose into 2-D and 1-D so that they may interact with jinn and angels, and they may also decompose into 0-D so that they may witness the Real, but they may not of course become like the Real as God though they may become like the 'real through whom creation takes place' who is the perfect Image of God, or the Perfect Human Being. And as we've said that this is the aim of the Sufi; to decompose into 0-D, which means to purify one's self and get rid of all the earthly (3-D) attachments.

Figure 7.4 3-D, a unit cube. It has length, width and depth. It is created by moving the square in a direction perpendicular to the plane. Notice that seven motions are needed to make up the cube.

7.10.5 The hereafter

We can not talk too much about the Hereafter, because it has been mentioned that it is different from what we may imagine [Kanz: 39236, 39241], but as we have mentioned above that the holders of the Throne or Kingdom are now four and in the Hereafter they shall be eight. So it is possible that the Hereafter will be four dimensional (4-D) because doubling the number of forces requires new dimensions for the new forces to operate.

Moreover, we notice that our major senses relate to dimensions in the following manner. Hearing requires only 1-D, because the propagation of sound waves is received by the ear one bit at a time. Seeing, on the other hand, requires 2-D because at any instance we may perceive a picture that occupies a surface. To conceive 3-D, however, we need imagination because the 3-D space that we conceive is built up as a result of the integration of 2-D pictures that we perceive through the flow of time. We perceive 1-D only by hearing, and 2-D by seeing, and we conceive 3-D, by imagination. So our thoughts, or imaginations, that we have in our memory are indeed mostly 2-D pictures (but also 1-D sounds) but by integrating them over time we conceive the volume. Thus, it is possible, and plausible, that in the Hereafter we shall gain new faculty, more advanced than imagination, that allow us to conceive of 4-D. In this case our thoughts will be 3-D as confirmed by Ibn ‘Arabî and many hadith that describe the Paradise. For example Ibn ‘Arabî confirms that people in Paradise shall have the power of creating through the command ‘be’, just as Allah does in this world [Al-Masâ’il: 126, I.84.21, II.157.26, II.440.35, II.441.26, III.295.17], and he also affirms that this is also attainable (by some people) in this world [Al-Masâ’il: 126, III.295.14]. This is also called al-fi’l bil-himma (doing by intention or determination) [I.259.33].

On the other hand, and since we have seen that the Real is 0-D and that the angels are the first repeated manifestation of the Real and so on, the jinn are manifestations of the second order (in 2-D). Thus humans are more advanced and complex than jinn because they are created by the manifestations of the Real in the third order. Likewise, it is expected that the Hereafter will be the fourth-order manifestation.

The Creation is done through the Pen who is writing the words of the All-Merciful. This Pen started by writing the dot (absolute Spirits, including the real; 0-D) and then the angels by making a line (1-D), and he continued until a certain term where he started another line, thus making a plane (2-D) and that is the creation of jinn. After that and at the certain term also, he started making new planes, thus forming the volume (3-D) that we are in now. And eventually the Pen will start, at a certain term (ajal), a new dimension to open the life in the Hereafter (4-D). This ‘term’ is either the time of our death (al-ajal) or possibly the time of spiritual realization (al-fateh) which is also a kind of voluntary death [IV.354.19] (Chittick 2002: 105–107). We have already seen in section 2.11 that Ibn ‘Arabî specified the starting times between those different terms (see Figure 2.1).

It is also possible in Paradise that the Creation will continue, endlessly, into higher dimensions (n -D, where n is any integer number), more than four. Maybe that is what it means when Ibn 'Arabî says: 'seeking (al-sulûk; into Allah) is always requested in this life and also in the Hereafter. For if there was a destiny, it would have been possible to achieve (but there is no destiny)' [Al-Masâ'il: 203]. It is probably here where abstract mathematics – which can deal with any number of dimensions and different types of topological spaces – has anticipated this hypothetical structure of the world, whereas physicists up till now can not conceive of more than three dimensions.

Finally, we must add that conceiving the world in this way according to the dimensions will greatly help in any possible future computer simulations to test the Single Monad model, because in this way we should be able to see whether the current structure of stars and galaxies could have happened starting from the initial conditions and rules that we described above and in Chapter 4 when we discussed the actual flow of time.

Notes

1 Cosmology and time

- 1 The geocentric view considers the Earth to be in the centre of the universe, while the heliocentric view considers the Sun to be in the centre. Modern cosmology, however, asserts that the universe, being a closed space-time arena, does not have a centre; any point may be considered a centre, just as any point on the surface of the Earth may be considered a centre (with regard to the surface, not to the volume). So whether the Earth or the Sun is in the centre of the universe is a valid question only with regard to the solar system which was the known universe in early cosmology, but it is no longer valid after discovering the galaxies and the huge distances between stars outside the solar system. It is worth mentioning here that Ibn 'Arabî clearly asserted that the universe does not have a centre [II.677.19].
- 2 For more information about this subject see: Bieńkowski (1972).
- 3 The redshift is the displacement (towards the red side) of the spectral lines of the light emitted by stars when it is received on the Earth, and this is due to the high speed of the motion of stars away from us. The amount of the shift towards the red is directly proportional to the distance of the star away from us, and this is how distances to far away stars and galaxies are calculated with a high degree of accuracy.
- 4 For more information about the principles of Quantum Cosmology see Linde (1990), chapter 3.
- 5 For more information about Ibn 'Arabî's life and intellectual background see Addas (1993) and Hirtenstein (1999).
- 6 For a full list of books and manuscripts attributed to Ibn 'Arabî see: Yahya (1964). In this book Othman Yahya mentions over nine hundred books (with about 1,395 titles) attributed to Ibn 'Arabî. Most of them however, as Yahya shows, are not really by him, and also many of his genuine books are lost or not available. For a list of Ibn 'Arabî's printed works see appendix 1 in Hirtenstein (1999). See also the list of his Arabic and translated works in the Bibliography.
- 7 In this hadith Allah says: 'I was a hidden Treasure, so I loved to be known; so I created the creatures/creation so that I might be known.' This famous hadith qudsî ('divine saying') is not found in standard hadith collections, but is widely quoted by Sufis and especially Ibn 'Arabî [II.112.20, II.232.11, II.310.20, II.322.29, II.330.21, II.339.30, III.267.10, IV.428.7]. Some scholars of hadith therefore consider it a fabrication, but, as William Chittick pointed out, Ibn 'Arabî believes that this hadith 'is sound on the basis of unveiling, but not established by way of transmission (naql)' [II.399.28]. See also SPK: 391: 250–252, and SDG: 21, 22, 70, 211, 329.
- 8 In this hadith the Prophet Muhammad was asked: 'Where was our Lord before He created the creatures?' He answered: 'He was in a Cloud ('amâ')' [Kanz: 1185, 29851]. See also SPK: 125, and SDG: 118, 153, 360. Ibn 'Arabî discusses this hadith

- very often in the Futūhāt: [I.148.17, I.215.33, II.62.36, II.150.21, II.310.3, II.391.28, III.304.5, III.506.5].
- 9 See: 'The Language of the angels', by Pierre Lory, from 'The Breath of the All-Merciful' symposium held at Berkeley, 1998 (available as audio tape from the Muhyiddin Ibn 'Arabī Society, Oxford).
 - 10 Nature here actually means 'the level of Nature' (martabat al-tabī'a) (i.e. the four foundational elements) and not nature in the physical sense, which is the material world. Ibn 'Arabī explains that the level of Nature does not have a separate physical existence: 'So (God) the Exalted estimated the level of nature that if it has (real) existence it would be below the Soul, so even though it does not really exist, it is witnessed by the Real there. That is why He distinguished it and determined its level. It is with regard to natural beings just like in regard to the divine Names: they can be known and imagined, and their effects can appear and cannot be ignored, while in general they do not have any (separate) essence. Likewise, (the level of) Nature gives what is in its potential of sensible forms that are assigned to it and that have real existence, while it does not have real separate existence. So how strange is its state and how high its effect!' [II.430.8].
 - 11 From the Qur'anic verse 'the All-Merciful mounted (established His authority) on the Throne' (20:5) and other similar verses such as 'He created the Heavens and the Earth in six days and then He mounted on the Throne' (7:54, and the same meaning in other verses: 2:29, 10:3, 25:59, 32:4, 57:4). We shall see in Chapter 3 that, according to Ibn 'Arabī, the six directions of space were created by the process of God's 'mounting' (istiwā') on the Throne in six days from Sunday to Friday.
 - 12 Abū Hāmid Muhammad B. Muhammad al-Tūsī Al-Ghazālī (AH 450–505/AD 1058–1111) outstanding Muslim theologian, jurist, thinker, mystic and religious reformer who later pursued and systematically defended the path of Sufism. See also EP, 'Al-Ghazālī', II: 1038.
 - 13 Ibn Rushd, Tahāfut Al-falāsifa (The Incoherence of the Philosophers) (1927), ed. M. Bouyges with a summary in Latin, Beirut: n.p.. This is a controversial work of the theological refutation where al-Ghazālī enumerated twenty maxims of the philosophers that he found that they could not incontrovertibly demonstrate, as they had claimed.
 - 14 Abū al-Walīd Ibn Rushd (AH 520–595/AD 1126–1198) was the chief judge of Seville and a great philosopher known in the West as Averroes. There was no one higher than him in the matter of legal ruling (fatwa) for crucial issues. He was a top figure in the history of both Islamic and Western philosophy and theology. He defended philosophy against the Ash'arite theologians (Mutakallimūn) led by al-Ghazālī, against whom he wrote his Tahāfut Al-Tahāfut (The Incoherence of the Incoherence), translated from the Arabic with introduction and notes by Simon van den Bergh (Gibb Memorial Trust, 1978). See also EP, 'Ibn Rushd', III: 909.
 - 15 Muslim theology is the theology that is derived from the Qur'an and the Prophetic traditions. Kalam (lit.: speaking) is the Islamic tradition of seeking theological principles through dialectic. The original scholars of kalam were recruited by the House of Wisdom under the Abbasid Caliph in Baghdad in the ninth century AD, but soon many opposing kalam schools emerged such as Ash'arites and Mu'tazilites.
 - 16 Abū 'Alī al-Husayn ibn Abdullāh Ibn Sīnā (AH 369–428/AD 980–1037), known in the West as Avicenna, was an important Muslim physician, scientist, mathematician and philosopher. See also EP, 'Ibn Sīnā', III: 941.
 - 17 Ibn Sīnā (1983): 68. See also 'Alā' al-Dīn 'Abdul-Muta'al (2003): 131.
 - 18 Ibn Sīnā (1983): 72. See also Al-'Atī (1993): 110.
 - 19 Ibn Sīnā (1983): 74.
 - 20 Ibn Sīnā (1938) Al-Najāt, ed. Muhyī al-Dīn S. al-Kurdī, 2nd ed., Cairo: n.p.: 117.
 - 21 Named after its founding figure Abū al-Hasan al-Ash'arī, this Sunni theological school had its origin in the reaction against what they viewed as the excessive ration-

- alism of the Mu'tazila (a movement founded by Wâsil Ibn 'Atâ' in the second century AH/eighth century AD. The Ash'arites insisted that reason must be subordinate to the literal data of revelation. They accepted some of the cosmology of the Mu'tazilites, but put forward a nuanced rejection of their theological principles. See also EP, 'Al-Ash'arî, Abu 'L-Hasan', I: 694; 'Ash'ariyya', I: 696; 'Mu'tazila', VII: 783.
- 22 Abû Yûsuf Ya'qûb Ibn Ishâq al-Kindî (AH 185–256/AD 805–873) is considered the historical 'father' of Islamic philosophy. He was also a scientist of high calibre, a gifted mathematician, astronomer, physician and a geographer, as well as a talented musician. See also EP, 'Al-Kindî', V: 122.
- 23 Al-Kindî (1950): 117.
- 24 Mohammed Ibn Zakariyya al-Râzî (AH 251–313/AD 865–925). See also EP, 'Al-Râzî', VIII: 474.
- 25 Abû Nasr al-Fârâbî (AH 259–339/AD 870–950) was one of the foremost Islamic philosophers and logicians. See also EP, 'Al-Fârâbî', II: 778.
- 26 Euclidean geometry is based on the ideas of Euclid (c. 300 BC), who stated in his book The Elements five postulates on which he based all his theorems. According to these postulates, space is homogeneous like that which we feel on the Earth. In modern cosmology and with the high intensity gravity found near giant stars and galaxies, space can no longer be treated as homogeneous, and therefore a new branch of geometry (non-Euclidean geometry) has been introduced to take into account the curvature of space-time. For information about Euclidean geometry, see Patrick (1986).
- 27 This is because of the 'uncertainty (Heisenberg) principle' which states that not all of the physical parameters (e.g. position $[x]$ and momentum $[p]$) of a system can be fully determined at the same time. It is mathematically expressed as: $\Delta x \cdot \Delta p > h$ where h is Planck's constant, which is in the order of 6×10^{-34} erg-seconds.
- 28 Before the advent of Quantum Mechanics there was a long debate about the nature of light, whether it is particles or waves. Some experiments (and theories) confirmed that it is particles, while others confirmed that it is waves. Quantum Mechanics solved this contradiction by suggesting that particles have wave properties and waves have particle properties. See Baierlein (1992).

2 General aspects of Ibn 'Arabî's concept of time and days

- 1 See note 10 in chapter I.
- 2 In the language of kalam theology, a 'negative attribute' (sifa salbiyya) is an attribute that is not a real description, but simply a negation of a purported description. See also The Book of Eternity (Kitâb Al-Azâl) for Ibn 'Arabî.
- 3 For more details about the 'line-point' and 'time-now' analogy, see Hasnaoui (1977): 50. See also Ibn 'Arabî's treatise of 'Risâla fî Asrâr al-Dhât al-Ilâhiyya' in Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî (Beirut: Mu'assasat al-Intishâr al-Arabî, 2002–04), ed. Sa'id 'Abd al-Fattah, Vol. I: 193–206 [201].
- 4 There are two closely related words in Arabic commonly used for the everyday senses of 'time': zamân and zaman. They are basically used in the same contexts, and usually Arabic dictionaries (such as Lisân al-'Arab (Beirut: Dâr Sâdir, n.d.), XIII: 200) do not distinguish between them. Ibn 'Arabî also seems to use these two words interchangeably in many places, although we can detect a unique pattern of use in the Futûhât: in many places he uses zamân for the general meaning of time that has a span or duration, while he uses zaman to mean the current time or a specific time that is usually short and defined, such as in the technical expression 'the single time' (al-zaman al-fard) [I.318.22, II.82.22, IV.267], which is explained later in this chapter.
- 5 Al-jawhar literally means 'the jewel' but technically it means 'the essence'. Ibn 'Arabî took this technical usage from kalam theology. We will translate it as 'the monad', which is the indivisible substance that is thought to constitute matter. We will devote a full section to the monad in section 6.2.

- 6 Al-‘arad – in this technical sense drawn from the usage of the kalam theologians – is the actual appearance or the form of al-jawhar, or the form each monad wears in order to appear in existence. The atomists, especially the Ash‘arite theologians, asserted that the world is composed of substances and accidents (jawāhir and ‘arād) and that substances remain while accidents always change. Ibn ‘Arabī, however, employs the term more strictly than the Ash‘arites, since he says that everything that we see always and constantly changes, though it may change into ‘similar’ or ‘likenesses’ (s. mithl), which is why we think that certain things are not changing [III.452.24]. He also asserts that this monad (al-jawhar) is not visible by itself, but only appears wearing this form or the other. See also SPK: 97.
- 7 There are two different words in Arabic habitually used for the meaning of space: al-makān and al-hayyiz. Al-hayyiz is more accurately used to refer to the abstraction of three-dimensional space, while al-makān in fact refers to ‘the place’ rather than space. Ibn ‘Arabī himself sometimes uses both of these two words to mean space, but in one passage he clearly defines them: ‘al-makān is what the objects rest on, and not in, it; for if they were in it, these would be al-ahyāz (s. hayyiz, space), not al-makān (place)’ [II.458.3].
- 8 Al-Afrād min al-rijāl: al-afrād (‘the Solitary Ones’) are a group of the highest spiritual Sages who are outside the circle of the spiritual Pole (al-Qutb); al-Khadir (lit. ‘the green man’) is one of them [II.19.9]; and ‘they are not governed by the circle of the Pole and he has no rule over them, but rather they are as complete as himself’ [III.137.12]. In Ibn ‘Arabī’s technical usage, al-rijāl (‘the True Men’) refers not at all to a gender but to the fully accomplished spiritual sages or ‘true Knowers’ (‘urafā’). See also Al-Mu‘jam Al-Sūfi: 515–521.
- 9 See chapter 371 of the Futūhāt [III.416] for a detailed account of the creation scenario of both the physical and intelligible worlds as seen by Ibn ‘Arabī. Also in chapter 7 of the Futūhāt [I.121] Ibn ‘Arabī gives many details about the different stages of creating the natural or physical world in time; however the numbers that he gives there fall far short of the modern well-established scientific results.
- 10 Ibn ‘Arabī explains this in detail at the beginning of the Futūhāt, as he was discussing the ‘special people of Allah’. He discusses this doctrine there under many issues (masā’il) in which he summarizes the relations between the Real, the world and non-existence. See his introduction in the Futūhāt [I.41–47]. Ibn ‘Arabī also wrote these issues and much more in Kitāb Al-Masā’il which is also known as ‘Aqīdat ahl al-ikhtisās, ‘the doctrine of the special people (of Allah)’, see the Bibliography.
- 11 When Ibn ‘Arabī uses this term ‘in charge of moving’ to describe the active force here, he has in mind his famous concept that the world (where bodies and objects move) is like a super-human (insān kabīr) [III.11.19], where all physical motions are due to this active force of the Universal Soul, and all noetic changes are due to its intellectual force.
- 12 On the basis of the hadith ‘the Pedestal (al-kursī) is the place of the two feet’ [Kanz: 1683], Ibn ‘Arabī asserts that the ‘foot’ in question is the divine ‘constancy’ (thubūt) and the ‘two feet’ that are ascribed to the All-Merciful, the most Glorious, refer to ‘the foot of compulsion’ (qadam al-jabr) and ‘the foot of choice’ (qadam al-ikhtiyār) [III.432.23]. Ibn ‘Arabī showed that Allah’s, the All-Merciful’s, Word (in the Throne) is One (all mercy), but by the swinging (tadallī) of these two feet of compulsion and choice on the Pedestal, the Word divided into two, [II.438.27], and this distinction between compulsion and choice caused the emergence of the world of command (‘‘ālam al-amr’) and the world of creation (‘‘ālam al-khalq’), of the (divine) ban and the order, obedience and the disobedience, and the Garden and the Fire (Gehenna), but all this is from the same single divine root of Mercy that is the attribute of the All-Merciful Who ‘mounted on the Throne’ (al-rahmān ‘alā al-‘arsh istawā, 20:5) [IV 274.25]. Then Ibn ‘Arabī also relates this same distinction to the symbolism of the daytime and night, where he says that, because the Word above the Pedestal is one, it is all daytime (light) there, but below the Pedestal it is daytime and night [III.202.31]. See also section 2.13.

- 13 For more detail about this subject, see Minkowski (1923) and Hinton and Rucker (1980).
- 14 See Muhyî ad-Dîn al-Tu'aymî (ed.) (1994) Mawsû'at Al-Isrâ' wa'l-Mi'râj, Beirut: Dâr al-Hilâl. This book contains six important treatises written by prominent early and classical Muslim scholars, such as Ibn 'Abbâs, al-Qushayrî and al-Suyûti, about the occasion of the Prophet's Isrâ' and Mi'râj.
- 15 For a full translation and study of related passages see 'Ibn 'Arabî's Spiritual Ascension' in Chittick (2002): 201–230.
- 16 This book has been published many times but the most notable critical edition is published by Su'âd al-Hakîm in 1988 (Beirut: Dandarah).
- 17 Abû Ishâq al-Nu'mânî al-Shâfi'î, Al-Sirâj Al-Wahhâj fi Haqâ'iq Al-Isrâ' wa'l-Mi'râj, in Mawsû'at Al-Isrâ' wa'l-Mi'râj (note 14 above): 53–114 (p. 58).
- 18 See the short chapters 244 and 245 of the Futûhât [II.543–544], where Ibn 'Arabî explains these notions of spiritual 'absence' (ghayba) and 'presence' (hudûr).
- 19 Nath (or al-shartayn: the two signs of Aries), Butayn (the belly of Aries) and Thurayya (Pleiades) are houses of the Moon.

3 The significance of the divine week and its seven days

- 1 Sanâbil, sunbulât (s. sunbula), the term used in the Qur'anic account of Pharaoh's dream interpreted by Joseph (12:43), and also in the promised reward of charity (zakât) (1:261).
- 2 This is one of the 12 zodiacal signs, also called al-'Azrâ (the Virgin).
- 3 He asserts later in this same chapter that 'when the orbs rotated . . . and when the (celestial) rule went back to Virgo, the human composition appeared "by the specific determination of the All-Mighty, the All-Knower (taqdîr al-'Azîz al-'Alîm 41:12 [also: 6:96, 36:38])"' [chapter 60, I.294.8]. Ibn 'Arabî then explains [chapter 60, I.294.10] that the time of the ruling of Virgo is 7,000 years, after which the ruling task is handed over to Libra ('the Balance', representing the eschatological time of divine justice at the final Rising). In this chapter, however, he first takes pains to explain that those ruling spirits are only angelic servants (of God) doing their jobs, and not separate deities as the pagans had believed; so the command is all to Allah and there is no 'sharing' with Him.
- 4 This is because Virgo, as Ibn 'Arabî goes on to explain, has the number 'seven', but also has its multiples: seven, 70, 700:

That is why Allah – since He created us in Virgo – multiplied our reward as He said: 'The likeness of those who spend their wealth in Allah's way is as the likeness of a grain which growth seven ears, in every ear a hundred grains. Allah gives increase manifold to whom He will' (2:261) – but always multiples of seven. [I.294.15]

- 5 To remove any confusion, 'Day(s)' and 'Week' (with capitals) are used to refer to the actual 'cosmic' or 'divine' Days and Week (of Creation) – not to the many relative, astronomical days and weeks defined by the different relative motions of different heavenly bodies. We have already mentioned the meaning of these divine 'Days' in section 2.15, but the different types of cosmic Days will be discussed in more detail in the following chapter.
- 6 See Herodotus: The Histories, ed. Walter Blanco, Jennifer T. Roperts, trans. Walter Blanco (New York, London: W. W. Norton & Company, 1992), 2.82 (fifth century BC).
- 7 Sunday is the first day of the week according to the Jewish method of reckoning, but for Christians it began to take the place of the Jewish Sabbath in Apostolic times.
- 8 In one hadith [Kanz: 15120] which we shall translate below, the Prophet Muhammad clearly specified that Allah started the Creation on Sunday.

- 9 See also Ibn 'Arabî's book Al-Asfâr (the Journeys) in Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî (Beirut: Dar Ihyâ' al-Turath al-'Arabî, n.d.). pp. 12–15. This book was edited and translated into French by Denis Gril (1994).
- 10 See also the long passage translated in section 2.12 where Ibn 'Arabî defines the different timing periods including the solar month and year.
- 11 The Babylonians originally used a combination solar-lunar calendar like the one Muslims use nowadays (i.e. the Hijrî Calendar with varying 29/30-day months), though they made adjustments from time to time to make it fit with motion of the Sun. Later (during the reign of the Chaldean king Nabonassar, 747–734 BC), the Babylonian astronomers switched to the 30-day, 12-month calendar, again making adjustments for the actual 365-day year (Parise 1982: 5).
- 12 For details about the concepts of sainthood (walâya) and prophethood (nubuwwa) and the hierarchy of awliyâ see Chodkiewicz (1993b).
- 13 Mudâwî Al-Kulûm is the name of the Single Pole that is the spirit of the Prophet Muhammad even before creating humankind when Adam was still 'between water and soil', and to this spirit different manifestations in the world where the 'Pole of Time' is his perfect manifestation, but he is also manifested in the 'Solitary Ones (al-Afrâd)' and in the 'Seal of Sainthood', both the Muhammadan Sainthood (who is Ibn 'Arabî himself) and General Sainthood (who is Jesus) [I.151.26]. And he was called Mudâwî Al-Kulûm because he is so kind and polite with his friends; when he wants to draw the attention of one of them to a specific issue, he kindly hides that from others in guard for him just as Jacob asked Joseph to keep his vision secret and not to tell it to his brothers [I.153.19].
- 14 The ambiguities in the translation here are quite intentional: God sees Himself reflected in (both mirrors of) creation and Adam; Adam sees himself/God in the mirror(s) of himself and creation; and finally God (as Spirit) sees what Adam sees. See chapter 1 of the Fusûs Al-Hikam for the full elaboration of the teaching summarized here in a single short Arabic phrase.
- 15 See A. Kâshânî's well-known Tafsîr Ibn 'Arabî, published by many publishers, for example Beirut: Dar Sâdir, 2002, vol. I: 245, vol. II: 571.
- 16 This English word here fits very well in this meaning for the Arabic word 'yusabbihu' (n. tasbîh: magnification) and probably conveys the meaning here more clearly than the more abstract Arabic word, because at the end the process of creation, according to Ibn 'Arabî's view, is a 'multiplication' of the Oneness of Allah, and a 'magnification' (manifestation) of His 'absolute Unseen' dimension (al-ghayb al-mutlaq). This magnification started with the creation of Angels, and then proceeded with the creation of the jinn who were given extra privilege and duties, because they are commissioned servants, while the perfection (of the theomorphic Image) was only given fully to the (perfect) Human Being (insân) who is the Khalîfa (the 'vice-gerent' of Allah).
- 17 This was mentioned in one long hadith which describes the sequence of creation according to week days (see al-Mustadrak 'ala al-Sahîhayn by Mohamed al-Nisabûrî (Dar Al-Kutub Al-'Ilmiyya: Beirut, n.d.), vol. II: 593, no. 3996/7). See also section 7.10.
- 18 Ibn 'Arabî indicates in many places that both the world and the Perfect Human Being work in the same way, which is why he calls the world the 'Great Human Being' (al-insân al-kabîr) and the Human Being the 'microcosm' (al-'âlam al-saghîr) [III.11.18]. See also Al-Mu'jam Al-Sîfi: 168–170, and SPK: pp. 4, 16, 30, 107, 136, 276, 282, 297, and also SDG: 6, 8, 28, 35, 37, 175, 189, 259, 264, 274, 288, 332, 339, 348, 360–363. See also section 3.2 for more analogies between the creation of the world and embryology.

4 The actual flow of time

- 1 Mathematically we can divide the circle into 360 degrees, 400 grads, 2π radians or indeed to any number of units. Ibn 'Arabî, however, affirms that the 360-degree system has a divine origin, which is the total number of prime divine forms of knowing ('ilm) that the Universal Intellect (the 'Higher Pen') was taught by the 'Greatest Element' (Nûn) [I.295.8, alluding to the standard cosmological interpretation of the Qur'anic symbols at 68:1]. Also in Al-Tanazzulât Al-Layliyya fî Al-Ahkâm Al-Ilâhiyya, he mentioned on page 35 that the Intellect has 360 faces towards the divine Presence (Al-Hadra Al-Ilâhiyya).

- 2 For the Arabs, whom Ibn 'Arabî follows on this point, the night-time of a particular day is that which precedes the daytime of that day, and not the night that follows that daytime. See Ayyâm Al-Sha'n: 4. See also section 2.14.
- 3 In appendix A in their study of Ibn 'Arabî's book: Ayyâm Al-Sha'n, The Seven Days of the Heart (p. 149), Pablo Beneito and Steven Hirtenstein translated ayyâm al-takwîr as 'the cyclical days' and translated the Qur'anic verb yukawwiru as '(He) wraps'. However, I prefer to use the term 'circulate' to emphasize the meaning that the day-times and the night-times go around each other in a circle, and that they both (together) encircle the Earth. This type of day (the circulated day) is also the normal, observable type of day that 'circulated' amongst us, to differentiate from the other two types that we shall see below.
- 4 This is mentioned in Tafsîr Ibn 'Arabî, vol. I: 245, and vol. II: 571. This book is attributed to Ibn 'Arabî by its modern publisher, but most scholars agree that it was written by the later Iranian philosopher Al-Qâshânî.
- 5 The galactic equator is the intersection of the plane of the Milky Way with the celestial sphere.
- 6 It is not very clear here what does he mean by 'the middle', and he also used the same expression in the same context right in his introduction to the Futûhât.
- 7 See also The Seven Days of the Heart: 157–159, where Pablo Beneito and Steven Hirtenstein gave in appendix A and B a good study of Kitâb Ayyâm Al-Sha'n. They found that the number of contribution for all of the seven Days from all the seven heavens should sum up to 24, which they interpreted as the 24 hours of the day. Therefore, because not all the data are found in the source, they had to deduce the missing slots on the basis of this assumption.
- 8 As of 1956, the length of a second has been freed from the vagaries of the Earth's motion, and is now defined by the Système International d'Unités as equal to 'the duration of 9,192,631,770 periods of the radiation corresponding to the transition between the two hyperfine levels of the ground state of the cesium-133 atom in zero magnetic field'. This means that the values for these conventional units of time are no longer tied to the motion of the Earth, and instead are tied to innate measurable properties of matter. Thus the minute, hour, day and even the average 'tropical' year are defined as exactly 60; 3,600; 86,400; and 31,556,925.9747 seconds respectively.
- 9 In mathematics: 10^{-x} denotes $1/10^x$. For example 10^{-3} is $1/10^3$ or $1/1000$, or one-thousandth. As we have seen in section 1.9, there are some speculations that the shortest possible time is in fact 10^{-43} seconds, which is called Planck's time. The debate is still going on, and the issue of the quantization of time is not yet finally settled.

5 Unicity and multiplicity

- 1 It is believed that Ibn 'Arabî entered the spiritual path well before the age of 20. He mentioned in the Futûhât [II.425.13] that he entered 'this path' in the year AH580 (AD1184), and he was born in AH560 (AD1165) (Austin 1971: 23). Other scholars argue that this was in AD1182 or even earlier (Hirtenstein 1999: 51–60).
- 2 It can be argued that the words 'no' or 'not yes' do not have a stand-alone significance, especially when we think about existence. 'No' only indicates the opposite of 'Yes', because 'No' in this sense means 'non-existence' which is nothing; it is only the absence or negation of existence. This also has its parallels in digital electronics where the signal has two states; either there is a signal or not, which is translated as Yes and No or 1 and 0 respectively. But because the '0' is 'nothing', we are left with only the '1'; this '1' either exists or not.

- 3 In his short book Ma la Yu'awwal 'Alayhi (What can not be relied upon) (in Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî, vol. I, treatise 16: 2) and in his famous chapter 63 of the Futûhât, Ibn 'Arabî repeatedly affirms that true visions ('visionary unveiling', kashf suwarî) are always correct, while mistakes actually may come from the individual's false interpretation, not from the vision itself. There are, however three kinds of spiritual visions: the 'good vision' is from Allah; 'psychological reflections' from the soul; and 'nightmares' from Shaytan. See also chapter 188 of the Futûhât, as well as our study of the Sura of Joseph: Yusef (1999): 227–232.
- 4 Right at the first page of the Introduction to the Futûhât, Ibn 'Arabî divides knowledge into three categories: (1) Logical (ratiocinative) knowledge ('ilm al-'aql); (2) the knowledge of inner experiential states ('ilm al-ahwâl); and (3) the ('inspired) knowledge of (spiritual) secrets' ('ilm al-'asrâr). The knowledge of states is obtained only through direct experiential 'taste' (dhawq), while the knowledge of secrets is generally beyond the grasp of the intellect, though some of it becomes logical after being explained, but the intellect alone could not attain it [I.31.9].
- 5 Ibn 'Arabî quotes this expression and comments on it very often in his books, and he ascribes it to al-hakîm ('the philosopher-sage') [II.458.20]. Though it is not very clear who he exactly means by al-hakîm, it is possible that he refers to Plotinus, who was known in several Arabic translations of his writings as 'the Greek sage' (al-hakîm al-yunânî). On the basis of Davidson (1992), William Chittick asserts that this maxim was apparently first used by Avicenna (SDG: 17). This maxim is certainly the basis of Avicenna's cosmological schema of emanationism (ḥayd) [see: EP, 'Emanationism', I: 473–474, and also The Cambridge Dictionary of Philosophy (Cambridge University Press, 1995, ed. Robert Audi): 258, 604–606, 714], and it was possibly used by early Christians as the basis of the concept of the holy Trinity. Ibn 'Arabî generally disagrees with this proposition especially when speaking about Allah as the One Who created the manifoldness of the world.
- 6 Ibn 'Arabî uses two distinct term with regards to the existence of creatures with relation to God; 'witness' (ma'aiyya) and 'at-ness' ('indiyya). The first refers to the presence of God with all things after they are created (57:4, 58:7), while the first indicates all things were ('determined') with God even before they come into real existence. See also SDG: 35, 37, 45, 88, 137, 170, 171, 179, 180, 297, SPK: 72, 76, 125, 181, 183, 216, 249, 302, 313, 327, 364–366, 380.
- 7 Ibn 'Arabî often elaborates on the lofty rank of the 'people of God' (ahl Allâh) who are the 'true knowers' (al-muhaqqiqûn), also sometimes referred to as the 'the people of Qur'an' alluding to a famous hadith [Kanz: 2277, 2278, 2279, 2342, 4038, etc.] which Ibn 'Arabî often quotes or paraphrases [II.299.18, I.352.27, I.372.14, I.510.12, III.103.34, III.121.35].
- 8 In the original printed text (followed in the standard later Cairo and Beirut reprintings used here), this rare long comment is described as 'a note by Sîdî 'Abd al-Qâdir [al-Jazâ'irî], transcribed from his own handwriting'.
- 9 For details about the differences between the divine Names al-Wâhid and al-Ahad see Al-Masâ'il: 139. And also see Ibn 'Arabî's descriptions of these Attributes and all other divine Attributes in the long chapter 558 [IV.196–326; see in particular IV.293–294]. Ibn 'Arabî also wrote a dedicated book called Kitâb Al-Ahadiyya; see the Bibliography. See also SDK: 25, 36, 58, 90, 235, 237, 244–245, 278, 349, 364.
- 10 See also Tawajjuhât Al-Hurûf (Cairo: Maktabat al-Qâhira, n.d.): 17. This small book includes also the prayer Al-Dawr Al-'Alâ or Hizb al-Wiqâyah li man Arada al-Walâya and a few other short treatises, including Al-Salawât Al-Faydiyya.
- 11 See also the Futûhât [I.109.3, I.125.28, I.216.13, I.228.13, I.263.19, I.313.29, I.643.33, III.74.2, III.398.15, etc.].

- 12 This famous saying (al-'ajz 'an dark al-idrâki idrâk) is often quoted by Sufi authors in support of what we have just explained, especially by Ibn 'Arabî [I.51.7, I.92.1, I.95.2, I.126.14, I.271.6, I.290.2, II.170.8, II.619.35, II.641.12, III.132.35, III.371.21, III.555.17, IV.43.5, IV.283.16], and it is usually attributed to Abû Bakr al-Siddîq.
- 13 In his book Al-Masâ'il (The Issues), which contains over 230 philosophical issues, Ibn 'Arabî showed that the divine Names and Attributes are the first multiplicity that occurred in the Existence. See issue (Mas'ala) no. 94 in this book.
- 14 Ibn 'Arabî's profound view of creation is essentially based on the concept of 'the Breath of the All-Merciful'; he explains the world and everything in it through this concept. He mentioned and explained it in the Futûhât and other books more often than anything else. See in the Futûhât [I.97.22, I.152.13, I.168.15, I.185.16, I.263-270, I.272-274, II.172.5, II.181.12, II.293.30, II.310.21, II.390.18] and throughout the long chapter 198 [II.390-478], as well as [III.269.22, III.279.18, III.429.34, III.443.12, III.459.21, III.465.27, III.505.9, III.524.25, IV.65.32, IV.200.11, IV.211.27, IV.256.24, IV.330.22], to mention some examples. We shall see below (section 7.8) that this concept of the Breath of the All-Merciful is indeed the theological and cosmological equivalent of the modern physics theory of Superstrings introduced in the 1980s.
- 15 This book (OY no. 515; listed in Ibn 'Arabî's own lists of his writings) is called Al-Muthallathât Al-Wârîda fî Al-Qur'ân Al-Karîm.
- 16 See for example: Lyman Abbott, A Dictionary of Religious Knowledge, 1875: 944. See also Hopkins (1930), chapter XX: The Christian Trinity, chapter XVII: The Triad, chapter XVIII: The Hindu Trinity, chapter XIX: The Buddhistic Trinity.
- 17 In Arabic grammatical language, any group of two is called muthanna (dual), while the term 'plural' is reserved for groups of at least three members.
- 18 Ibn 'Arabî often makes such symbolic analogies (mudahât) between the internal (psychological) and external (cosmological) realities. Thus he calls the cosmos the 'Great Human Being' (al-Insân al-Kabîr) and the human being the 'micro-cosmos' (al-'Âlam al-Saghîr) [II.150.26, III.11.17]. He also says that this knowledge that the world is a Great Human Being and that the human being is its 'Summary' form was given by Idrîs (Mudâwî al-Kulûm) [I.153.21]. See also Ibn 'Arabî's al-Tadbîrât al-Ilâhiyya, where he explains these symbolic analogies at length. In another highly symbolic early book, the Anqâ' Mughrib, he makes similar analogies between Human Being and the divine Names. For a full translation and critical study see Elmore (2000).
- 19 It is most likely that this term was first used by Ibn Taymiyya himself, although he criticized Ibn 'Arabî for that. See Madhkûr (1969): 365-380 [370]. See also Al-Mu'jam Al-Sûfi: 1145-1155, and SDK: 79.
- 20 Ibn 'Arabî alludes here, among other things, to the Qur'anic accounts of the inbreathing of the Spirit into Adam: 'So, when I have made him and breathed into him of My Spirit' (15:29, 38:72).
- 21 This is also evident in physics, where it is known that the difference between colours is due to the shorter or longer wavelength of the electromagnetic waves that constitute light. The red colour has a specific wavelength, and the blue colour for example has another distinctive (range of) wavelength(s). Although we call it a colour, there is no wavelength for a colour that is called 'black' or 'dark': it is simply the absence of any light-waves.
- 22 For more details about this subject see Ormsby (1984).
- 23 See Ibn 'Arabî's discussions of this conception in the Futûhât [II.168.23, II.343.28, II.379.9, II.444.16, II.501.4, III.343.23, III.471.13].
- 24 See Ibn 'Arabî's discussions in the Futûhât [I.42.21, I.204.12, I.284.32, I.680.7, III.275.32, IV.46.6, IV.129.31, IV.228.12, IV.236.15].
- 25 See The Wisdom of the Prophets (Fusûs Al-Hikam), translated from Arabic into French with notes by Titus Burckhardt; translated from French into English by Angela Culme-Seymour (TAJ Company: New Delhi, revised edition 1984): 32.

- 26 See for example in the Futûhât [I.79.5, I.461.25, I.735.17, II.356.26, II.372.23, II.451.33, II.471.32, II.554.18, III.105.27, III.199.11, III.288.16, III.362.16, IV.9.9, IV.320.5, IV.343.16, IV.367.18, IV.379.1, IV.397.22, IV.418.20].

6 The Single Monad model of the cosmos

- 1 The 'one' at the end of the sentence refers to the Single Monad (al-jawhar al-fard), and not likely to the divine Name al-Ahad ('The One/Unique'), because this Name is never manifested on the level of multiplicity where knowledge normally is actualized. Ibn 'Arabî always shows that multiplicity is ultimately related to the Name al-Wâhid (the Alone, the Only One) and not to al-Ahad, because with al-Ahad no other entity may exist in order to know Him.
- 2 See EP, 'Monad and Monadology', vol. 5: 361–363.
- 3 See Shajarat Al-Kawn (Dar al-Mahabba: Damascus, 2003), ed. 'Abd al-Rahîm Mardini: 39.
- 4 This important note can be used to give more details and extensions about the 'the Single Monad model of the Cosmos' that we discuss in this chapter. Ibn 'Arabî is describing the three main jobs or motions of the Intellect in creating the world including himself and also his acceptance of knowledge from his Lord.
- 5 In Arabic grammar when two consonant characters meet, one of them is omitted, usually the vowel-like 'incomplete letters'. In this case the imperative of رَوْحُ (yarûhu) is رُوحُ (rûh) so because both the wâw and the hâ are consonants, the wâw that is a vowel is omitted and the result is رُوحُ (ruh).
- 6 Ibn 'Arabî quotes this name after Abu al-Hakîm Bin Barrajân (d. 536/1141) in Al-Tadbirât Al-Ilâhiyya: 90.
- 7 See Hawking (1994).
- 8 Here Ibn 'Arabî is using the term al-jawhar al-fard in its original sense in the physics of kalam, to refer to the 'atom' or the simplest physical substance, whose compounds form natural bodies (jism). This is the opposite extreme from the all-encompassing creative Single Monad.
- 9 It has to be noticed, however, that, for Ibn 'Arabî, this 'al-haqq al-makhlûq bihi' is not other than the Real, Allah, but he is also not Allah; he is the most perfect manifestation of Allah. See also Chapter 5 (especially section 5.3). See 'Uqlat Al-Mustawfiz: 59. See also Al-Mu'jam Al-Sûfi: 828.
- 10 See also Chittick, SDK: 134 [The Universal Reality]. In other related hadith some other realities are said to be the 'first-created' such as the Intellect [Kanz: 7057], the Pen [Kanz: 597, 15116] or 'the Muhammadan Light', etc. There is no contradiction in these hadith because those are just different names of the same reality as we discussed in section 6.3.
- 11 See chapter 73 of the Futûhât [II.2–39] where Ibn 'Arabî explains and lists the different groups of saints, and especially the extensive summary and analysis of that long chapter and related materials found in Chodkiewicz (1993).
- 12 As we have seen in section 5.3, Ibn 'Arabî argues that number one is the primordial basis of all other numbers, just as alif is the foundation of all the letters. See also [II.122.19, and Al-Masâ'il: 109].
- 13 This divine Name is usually taken in the meaning of 'the Most-Kind', which is a possible meaning in relation to His Creation: 'He is the Most-Kind with His servants' (42:19). Ibn 'Arabî here, however, emphasizes the general meaning of latâfa which means fineness.
- 14 Insân: i.e. here and throughout this book, the immortal spiritual reality and dimension of people – which is the reflection of the cosmic First Intellect, or 'Perfect Human Being'; and not their passing material, mortal-animal 'nature' (bashar).
- 15 Ibn 'Arabî spends a good deal of the first chapter of the Futûhât trying to explain this mysterious point regarding the subjective experience and the actual reality of fanâ'.

He explains that, in making the circle, the compass returns to the starting point [I.48.33], until he concludes: 'if they (the seekers of the Real) knew (the goal of their search) they would not have moved from their place' [I.49.1], and 'so he (the seeker) would be sad on arriving at what he has (earlier) left behind – but he would be happy for the secrets that he gained on the way!' [I.49.14]

16 See also Yousef (2006): 422.

17 See Al-Salawât Al-Faydiyya, published together with some other short treatises and prayers, for example in Tawajjuhât Al-Hurûf (Maktabat al-Qâhira: Cairo, n.d.).

18 I.e. as my ultimate identity which is as the Perfect Human Being, not as You (the transcendent Real), because this is impossible as we said above. This is the state of spiritual 'abolishment' (mahw) of the ego, like the momentary disappearance of the shadow at noontime, as we have seen above.

19 The pronoun here (translated as 'its') is usually interpreted by many scholars so that it refers to Allah. Ibn 'Arabî, however, affirms that it indeed refers to the thing in 'everything' [II.110.25, II.313.16, III.255.22]. However, both cases are plausible [IV.417.18], if we take into account what we have mentioned in Chapter 5 that the things are not other than Him, and that the 'face' of a thing is its essential reality [as Ibn 'Arabî argues at I.181.19, I.306.12, I.433.36, II.182.17, II.632.34, IV.417.18]. So the things in reality are not other than Allah, but the forms that we see are all perishable, and at the end there remains only His Face in everything. So this verse is indeed another clear expression of the oneness of being.

20 See Tawajjuhât al-Hurûf: 26.

21 Like the English pun, Ibn 'Arabî frequently plays with the fact that the same Arabic word ('ayn') refers at once to the observing 'eye', the concrete individual entity (of the observer), and to their ultimate Source. See also Kitâb Al-Azal: 9.

7 The Single Monad model and its implications for modern physics

1 Al-sirr literally means 'the secret', but Sufis use it to refer to the innermost spiritual core of the heart (qalb), the 'heart of the heart'. It was said that the sirr also has a sirr, and so on down to seven levels. For Ibn 'Arabî, the Spirit (rûh) is the third level after the heart and the sirr, but also the Spirit has its 'secret' dimension, and this sirr also has a sirr which is called sirr al-sirr ('the secret of the secret') [I.117.8]. Ultimately it is this final Sirr that is directly connected with the Real (the wajh al-khâss discussed in several passages in Chapter 5 and Chapter 6).

2 In 1999 Ahmed Zewail was awarded the Nobel Prize 'for showing that it is possible with rapid laser technique to see how atoms in a molecule move during a chemical reaction' (see Press Release, The 1999 Nobel Prize in Chemistry, Kungl. Vetenskapsakademien, The Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, 12 October 1999). This discovery is known as femtochemistry, where molecules are watched over a very short time-scale with Femto-second resolution. The Femto-second resolution ($1 \text{ fs} = 10^{-15} \text{ s}$) is the ultimate achievement to date for studies of the dynamics of the chemical bond at the atomic level. On this time-scale, matter wave packets (particle-type) can be created and their coherent evolution as a single-molecule trajectory can be observed (Zewail 1990: 40–46).

3 The flickering is the variation (and discontinuity) in light intensity which is normally seen on some computer monitors. As we have all observed in watching monitor screens shown on television emissions, that flickering becomes more apparent when we video-record what appears on the screen. That effect happens because of the difference in the frequency (refresh rate) of the filmed monitor and that of the observing video camera. If the refresh rate of the camera is much higher than that of the monitor, then at some times the camera will record blank screens that we normally do not see with our naked eye. This concept can be used to measure high-frequency motions. This is the same phenomenon that causes us to see fast-moving wheel spokes or a propeller appear to be moving backward (or forward) in slower motion, or even motionless, when in fact moving at a very high speed. The illusion happens because of the human eye's limit for the tracking and retention of images, which is usually about one-fifteenth of a second.

- 4 See for example Gaines (1997).
- 5 Ibn 'Arabî asserts that this person was Asif bin Barkhya, who is known as al-Khadir. Al-Khadir literally means 'the Green One', a legendary figure endowed with immortal life. He represents freshness of spirit and eternal liveliness. The stories surrounding al-Khadir are usually associated with Sûrat al-Kahf in the Qur'an [18:60–82], where Allah described the journey of Moses and his servant to the 'meeting of the two seas' to meet al-Khadir and learn from him. Ibn 'Arabî himself mentioned that he had met him several times [I.186], and he considers him a divine Messenger and one of four 'Pillars' in the spiritual hierarchy [II.5.31].
- 6 See Fusûs Al-Hikam, with commentary by 'Abd al-Razzâq al-Qâshânî and Bâlî Effendî (Cairo: Al-Maktaba al-Azhariyya li-l-Turâth, 1997): 321–324.
- 7 The black body problem was raised by the observation that certain materials (especially black bodies) can absorb all frequencies or wavelengths of light. So when heated they should then radiate all frequencies of light equally – at least theoretically. But the distribution of energy radiated in real-life experiments never matched up with the predictions of classical physics.
- 8 The spin is the motion of the particle around its axis just like the daily motion of the Earth.
- 9 For more details about the hierarchy of letters according to Ibn 'Arabî see the related English translations by Denis Gril (2004) in The Meccan Revelations, vol. II, NY: Pir Press: 107–220.
- 10 Wim van den Dungen, 'On Being and the Majesty of the Worlds', Reg. No.51, in SofiaTopiaNet; Sophia Society for philosophy, [www.sofiatopia.org/equiaeon/being.htm#dim].
- 11 Ibn 'Arabî makes various comments on this verse in the Futûhât [I.156.15, I.238.13, I.279.16, II.16.32, II.150.34, II.209.9, II.225.6, II.296.6, II.298.33, II.556.32, III.275.33, III.315.6, III.344.30, IV.28.28, IV.93.3].
- 12 Ibn 'Arabî explained before this text that angels correspond cosmologically to eighteen characters of the alphabet, which are produced as a result of the meeting between the nine divine donating (ilqâ') orbs and the nine human accepting (talaqqî) orbs [I.54.12].

Bibliography

The bibliography is arranged into four categories:

- A Ibn ‘Arabî’s printed works (in Arabic)
- B Arabic works on Ibn ‘Arabî and related subjects
- C English translations and studies on Ibn ‘Arabî and related subjects
- D Cited books and articles on philosophy, cosmology and time

A: Ibn ‘Arabî’s printed works (in Arabic)

The following is a list of Ibn ‘Arabî’s printed books and treatises that are available in Arabic. This list is arranged alphabetically according to the title, not including initial article Al-, Kitâb or Risâla. The ‘OY no.’ column on the right gives the corresponding bibliographical classification of the original manuscripts by Osman Yahya. The names of editors have been cited whenever given in the printed text. The numbers given in parentheses immediately after the names of some individual treatises also refer to Yahya’s classification.

Ibn ‘Arabî (1994) Al-‘Abâdila , Cairo: Maktabat Al-Qâhira, 2nd ed., ed. ‘Abd Al-Qâdir A. ‘Atâ	OY# 2
— (1999) ‘Ajâ’ib Al-‘Irfân fî Tafsîr I’jâz Al-Bayân fî Al-Tarjama ‘an Al-Qur’an , Cairo: Al-Sharika Al-Muttahida, ed. Muhammad I. M. Sâlim	732
— (1999) Kitâb ‘Anqâ’ Mughrib , Cairo: n.p., ed. Muhammad I. M. Sâlim	30
— (n.d.) ‘Aqida fî Al-Tawhîd , or ‘Aqîdat ahl Al-Islâm , Egypt: n.p.	34
— (1919) ‘Uqlat Al-Mustawfiz , including Kitâb Inshâ’ Al-Dawâ’ir and Kitâb Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya fî Islâh Al-Mamlaka Al-Insâniyya , Leiden: Brill; in Kleinere Schriften des Ibn Al-‘Arabî , ed. H. S. Nyberg	802 289 716
— (1954) Kitâb Al-Bâ’ , Cairo: Maktabat Al-Qâhira, also includes: Kitâb Al-Yâ’ (OY no. 205), Kitâb Al-Jalâla (169), Kitâb Al-Alif (25), Kitâb Al-Sha’n (26)	71
— (1968) Dhakhâ’ir al A’lâq , Cairo: n.p.	116
— (1855) Dîwân Ibn ‘Arabî , Bulaq	102
— (1996) Dîwân Ibn ‘Arabî , Beirut: Dâr Al-Kutub Al-‘Ilmiyya, ed. Ahmad Hasan Basaj	102
— (1923) Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ’ , Beirut: n.p.	178
— (1946) Fusûs Al-Hikam , Cairo: n.p.; critical edition by A. ‘Affifi	150

- (1997) Fusûs Al-Hikam with commentary by ‘Abd Al-Razzâq Al-Qâshânî and Bâli Effendi, Cairo: Al-Maktabat Al-Azhariyya li-l-Turâth 150
- (n.d.) Al-Futûhât Al-Makkîyya, Vols 1–4, Beirut: n.p.; this is a photographic reprint of the old edition of Bulaq 1329/1911 which comprises four volumes each about 700 pages of 35 lines; the page size is 20 by 27 cm. This is the standard version used in citations throughout this book. 135
- (1970) Al-Futûhât Al-Makkîyya, Vols. 1–14, ed. Osman Yahya, Cairo: The General Egyptian Book Organization; this is the critical edition by Osman Yahya. This version was not completed, and the 14 volumes correspond to only volume I of the standard Bulaq/Beirut edition. 135
- (AH 1326) Hilyat Al-Abdâl, Istanbul: n.p. 237
- (1907) Kitâb Al-Hujub, Cairo: n.p. 247
- (2004) Kitâb Al-Hujub, Cairo: Maktabat Al-Thaqâfa Al-Dîniyya, ed. As‘ad ‘Abd Al-Fattâh 247
- (1988) Kitâb Al-Isrâ ilâ Al-Maqâm Al-Asrâ or Kitâb Al-Mi‘râj, Beirut: Dandarâh; critical edition, ed. Su‘ad Al-Hakîm. 313
- (n.d.) Istîlâhât Al-Sûfiyya, Cairo: ‘âlam Al-Fikr 315
- (1996) Kalimat Allah or Kitâb Al-Jalâla, Damascus: Al-Hikma, ed. Riyâd M. Al-‘Abdullâh 169
- (1987) Kitâb Al-Khalwat Al-Mutlaqa, Cairo: n.p. 255
- (1967) Kitâb Kunh mâ lâ Budd li-l-Murîd Minhu, Cairo: M. A. Subaih 352
- (1970) Kitâb Al-Mabâdî wa-l-Ghâyât, Damascus: n.p. 380
- (1949) Majmû‘at Sâ‘at Al-Khabar, Cairo: Mustafa Al-Halabî 642
- (1999) Al-Masâ‘il li-Idâh Al-Masâ‘il, Amman: Azmina, ed. Qâsim M. Abbâs 433
- (1907) Mawâqî‘ Al-Nujûm, Cairo: n.p. 443
- (n.d.) Mir‘ât Al-Ma‘ânî, photocopy of a book in Al-Maktaba Al-Zâhiriyya, Damascus: n.p. 230
- (AH 1369) Mishkât Al-Anwâr, Cairo: n.p. 480
- (n.d.) Muhâdarat Al-Abrâr wa Musâmarat Al-Akhyâr, Vols 1 & 2, Beirut: Dâr Sâdir 493
- (1978) Al-Nûr Al-Asnâ bi-Munajât Allah bi Asmâ‘ihi Al-Husnâ, Cairo: M. A. Subayh 502
- (1994) Kitâb Al-Qasam Al-Ilâhi bil-Isim Al-Rabbânî, Cairo: n.p. 565
- (n.d.) Radd Al-Muhkam ila Al-Mutashâbih, Cairo: ‘Âlam Al-Fikr, ed. ‘Abd Al-Rahmân Hasan Mahmûd 588
- (n.d.) Rasâ‘il Ibn ‘Arabî, Beirut: Dâr Ihyâ‘ Al-Turâth Al-‘Arabî; this is a photographic reprint, in a single volume, of the same famous collection published by the Dâ‘irat Al-Ma‘ârif Al-‘Uthmâniyya (Hyderabad, 1948), based on a manuscript in the Ayasofia library (Istanbul), no. 376, containing 29 short works. Many of these works have been published also separately or in other groups of collected treatises. These are the books and pamphlets contained in this collection, in the same order:
- Part I
1. Kitâb Al-Fanâ‘ fî Al-Mushâhada 125
 2. Kitâb Al-Jalâl wa-l-Jamâl 168
 3. Kitâb Al-Alif wa huwa Kitâb Al-Ahadiyya 25
 4. Kitâb Al-Jalâla wa huwa Kalimat Allâh 169
 5. Kitâb Al-Sha‘n 67
 6. Kitâb (Maqâm) Al-Qurba 414

	7. Kitâb Al-I'lâm bi-Ishârât Ahl Al-Ilhâm	281
	8. Kitâb Al-Mîm wa-l-Wâw wa-l-Nun	462
	9. Risâlat Al-Qasam Al-Ilâhî	565
	10. Kitâb Al-Yâ'	205
	11. Kitâb Al-Azal	68
	12. Risâlat Al-Anwâr	33
	13. Kitâb Al-Isrâ ilâ Al-Maqâm Al-Asrâ	313
	14. Risâla fi Su'al Ismâ'il bin Sawdakîn	182
	15. Risâlat Al-Shaykh ilâ Al-Imâm Al-Râzi	612
	16. Risâlat La Yu'awwal 'Alayhi	532
	17. Kitâb Al-Shâhid	668
Part II	18. Kitâb Al-Tarâjim	737
	19. Kitâb Manzil Al-Qutb wa Maqâmuhu wa Hâluhu	585
	20. Risâlat Al-Intisâr	294
	21. Kitâb Al-Kutub	354
	22. Kitâb Al-Masâ'il	433
	23. Kitâb Al-Tajalliyât	738
	24. Kitâb Al-Isfâr 'an Natâ'ij Al-Asfâr	307
	25. Kitâb Al-Wasâyâ	817
	26. Kitâb Hilyat Al-Abdâl	237
	27. Kitâb Naqsh Al-Fusûs	528
	28. Kitâb Al-Wasiyya	820
	29. Kitâb Istilâh Al-Sûfiyya	315

— (2002–04) Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî, Beirut: Mu'assasat Al-Intishâr Al-'Arabî, ed. Sa'id 'Abd Al-Fattâh; four volumes in this series of collected treatises have been published so far. Most of their contents are available in separate books from other earlier publishers (including many of those listed separately here), but the editor has given some critical notes and comparisons between different manuscripts. A number of the treatises included in this collection are clearly apocryphal works. These are the books and pamphlets contained in these four volumes, in the same order (with page nos):

Part I	31–70	Fihras Mu'allafât Ibn 'Arabî	142
	71–118	Kitâb Al-'Azama	70
	119–130	Kitâb Marâtib 'Ulûm Al-Wahb	423
	131–146	Kitâb Al-Hurûf Al-Thalâtha	462
	147–156	Kitâb Al-Lum'a	372
	157–192	Kitâb Manzil Al-Manâzil Al-Fahwâniyya	412
	193–206	Risâla fi Asrâr Al-Dhât Al-Ilâhiyya
	207–232	Kitâb Al-Qutb wa-l-Imâmayn wa-l-Mudlijîn	585
	233–246	Kitâb Maqâm Al-Qurba	414
	247–264	Kitâb Al-Madkhal ilâ Al-Maqсад Al-Asmâ fi Al-Ishârât
	265–278	Kitâb Nuskhat Al-Haqq	551
	279–347	Kitâb Shaqq Al-Jayb bi-'Ilm Al-Ghayb	671
Part II	18–61	Kitâb Al-Qutb Wa-l-Nuqabâ'	548
	62–131	'Uqlat Al-Mustawfiz	802
	131–145	Risâlat Al-Durrat Al-Baydâ'	178
	146–231	Risâlat Al-Anwâr fi mâ Yumnahu Sâhibu Al-Khalwa min Al-Asrâr	33

	233–287	Tāj Al-Rasâ'il wa Minhāj Al-Wasâ'il	736
	288–406	Kitâb Al-Tadbîrât Al-Ilâhiyya fî Islâh Al-Mamlakat Al-Insâniyya	289
Part III		Al-Kawkab Al-Durrî fî Manâqib dhî-l-Nûn Al-Masrî
Part IV	19–76	Kitâb Al-Yaqîn	834
	79–162	Kitâb 'Anqâ' Mughrib	30
	165–311	Kitâb Al-Ma'rifa	433

— Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî; Kashf Al-Sitr (Amman: Azmina, 2004), ed. Qâsim M. Abbâs.
Includes the following treatises (several apparently apocryphal):

	69–90	Kashf Al-Sitr li Ahl Al-Sirr	340
	91–97	Risâlat Al-Waqt wa-l-Ân
	95–111	Kitâb Marâtib 'Ulûm Al-Wahb	423
	113–131	Kitâb Al-Huwa	205
	133–143	Risâlat Al-Ma'lûm min 'Aqâ'id Ahl Al-Rusûm	402
	145–167	Kitâb Al-Ittihâd Al-Kawnî fî Hadhrat Al-Ishhâd Al-'Aynî

— (2000) Majmû'at Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî, Beirut: Dâr Al-Mahajjat Al-Baydâ; most of the contents of these three volumes, as in no. 64 above, are brought together from previously published separate books or collections, but the reprinted versions in this volume are newly type in a clearer modern font. Three volumes containing a collection of treatises as follows:

Part I	7–74	Tahdhib Al-Akhlâq	745
	75–94	Al-Maw'iza Al-Hasana	448
	95–230	Risâlat Rûh Al-Quds	639
	231–258	Al-'Ujâla	772
	259–290	(Risâlat) Al-Anwâr	33
	291–308	'Aqida fî Al-Tawhid aw 'Aqidat Ahl Al-Islâm	34
	309–358	Shajarat Al-Kawn	666
	359–372	Al-Nûr Al-Asnâ bi-Munajât Allâh bi Asmâ'ihî Al-Husnâ	502
	373–422	Tanbihât 'Alâ 'Uluww Al-Haqîqat Al-Muhammadiyya	763
	423–454	Al-Khalwat Al-Mutlaqa	255
	455–520	Kitâb Al-Bâ'	71
	521–546	Kitâb Kunh mâ lâ Budd li-l-Murîd Minhu	352
	547–574	Istilâhât Al-Sûfiyya	315
	575–602	Al-Hikma Al-Hâtimiyya	233
	603–622	Risâlat Al-Shaykh ilâ Al-Imâm Al-Râzi	612
	623–662	Tawajjuhât Al-Hurûf [including: Al-Salawât Al-Mutalsama , Al-Salawât Al-Akbariyya (OY no. 705), Al-Salawât Faydiyya (702), Al-Dawr Al-A'la (244) and Al-Salât Al-Nâriyya]	244
Part II	5–66	Al-Tanazzulât Al-Layliyya fî Al-Ahkâm Al-Ilâhiyya	761
	67–314	Al-Tanazzulât Al-Mawsiliyya fî Asrâr Al-Taharât Wa-l-Salawât Wa-l-Ayyâm Al-Asliyya	762
	315–504	Radd Al-Mutashâbih ilâ Al-Muhkam min Al-Ayât wa-l-Ahâdîth	588
Part III	5–60	'Anqâ' Mughrib fî Khatm Al-Awliyâ wa Shams Al-Maghrib	30
	61–250	Al-'Abâdila	2
	251–374	Mawâqî' Al-Nujûm wa Matâli' Ahillat Al-Asrâr wa-l-'Ulûm	443
	375–484	Majmû'at Sâ'at Al-Khabar	642

— (1998) Rasâ'il Ibn 'Arabî: Sharh Muftada' Al-Tûfân wa Rasâ'il Ukhra', Abu Dhabi: Cultural Foundation, eds Qâsim M. Abbâs and Husayn M. 'Ujayl; this book contains 12 probably apocryphal treatises which are based on a manuscript in the Museum of Iraq (Baghdad no. 597), listed by its publishers as an autograph dated AH 635. The editors claim that those works were written by Ibn 'Arabî between AH 636 and 638 in apparent contradiction with the earlier date they assign to their manuscript:

1	'Ayn Al-A'yân
2	Khurûj Al-Shukhûs min Burûj Al-Khusûs	262
3	Inkhirâq Al-Junûd ilâ Al-Julûd	288
4	Bahr Al-Shukr fî Nahr Al-Nukr
5	Sharh Muftada' Al-Tûfân	685
6	Al-Miqdâr fî Nuzûl Al-Jabbâr	472
7	Nashr Al-Bayâd fî Rawdat Al-Riyâd
8	Khâtimat Nuzûl Al-Jabbâr
9	Al-Radd 'alâ Al-Yahûd	80
10	Khatimat Al-Radd 'alâ Al-Yahûd	256
11	Baqiyyat Khâtimat Al-Radd 'alâ Al-Yahûd
12	Kashf Sirr Al-Wa'd wa Bayân 'Alâmat Al-Wajd	342

- (n.d.) Al-Risâla Al-Wujûdiyya (The Treatise on Being), Cairo: n.p. 13
- (1970) Kitâb Rûh Al-Quds, Damascus: n.p. 639
- (1964) Risâlat Rûh Al-Quds fî Muhâsabat Al-Nafs, Damascus: Matba'at Al-'Ilm 639
- (1996) Al-Shajara Al-Nu'mâniyya, Cairo: n.p. 665
- (2003) Shajarat Al-Kawn, Damascus: Dâr Al-Mahabba, ed. 'Abd Al-Rahîm Mardini 666
- (2002) Sharh Asmâ' Allâh Al-Husnâ or Kashf Al-Ma'nâ 'an Asmâ' Allâh Al-Husnâ, Cairo: Al-Maktaba Al-Azhariyya li-l-Turâth, ed. M. I. M. Sâlim 338
- (1999) Shujûn Al-Masjûn wa Funûn Al-Maftûn, Damascus: Sa'd Al-Dîn, ed. Dr 'Alî I. Kurdi 692
- (2002) Tafsîr Ibn 'Arabî, Vols. 1 & 2, Beirut: Dâr Sâdir; Osman Yahya lists this work in his classification of Ibn 'Arabî's works, on the basis of one manuscript, but he and all other commentators agree that it is actually by the later figure Abd al-Razzâq al-Qâshânî, a famous commentator on Ibn 'Arabî's Fusûs al-Hikam. 732
- (1988) Al-Tajalliyât Al-Ilâhiyya, Tehran: Dânishgâh-i Tehran; critical edition by Osman Yahya, with the anonymous commentary Kashf Al-Ghâyât and Ibn Sawdakîn's notes 738
- (1987) Al-Tanazzulât Al-Layliyya fî Al-Ahkâm Al-Ilâhiyya, together with Risâla fî Nasab Al-Khirqa (OY no. 530), Cairo: 'Âlam Al-Fikr, ed. 'Abd Al-Rahmân Hasan Mahmûd 761
- (1986) Al-Tanazzulât Al-Mawsiliyya fî Asrâr Al-Taharât Wa-l-Salawât Wa-l-Ayyâm Al-Asliyya or Tanazzul Al-Amlâk fî 'Âlam Al-Aflâk, Cairo: 'Âlam Al-Fikr, ed. 'Abd Al-Rahmân Hasan Mahmûd 762
- (1966) Tarjumân Al-Ashwâq, Beirut: Dâr Sâdir; this volume is in fact the Kitâb Al-Dhakhâ'ir wa-l-A'lâq, which is Ibn 'Arabî's own commentary on his Tarjumân Al-Ashwâq (OY no. 767). 116 767
- (n.d.) Tawajjuhât Al-Hurûf, Cairo: Maktabat Al-Qâhira; includes Al-Dawr Al-A'alâ or Hizb Al-Wiqâyah li man 'Arada Al-Wilâya (244) and a few short works or prayers upon the Prophet including Al-Salawât Al-Faydiyya (702). 244

B: Arabic works on Ibn 'Arabî and related subjects

- 'Abdul-Muta'âl, A. (2003) Tasawwur Ibn Sinâ li-l-Zamân wa Usûlûh Al-Yunâniyya (Ibn Sinâ's Concept of Time and Its Greek Origins) Alexandria: Dâr Al-Wafâ'
- Abu Zayd, N. H. (1983) Falsafat Al-Ta'wil (A Study of Ibn 'Arabî's Interpretation of Qur'an), Beirut: Dâr Al-Wahda
- (2002) Hâkadha Takallama Ibn 'Arabî (That Is What Ibn 'Arabî Said), Cairo: The General Egyptian Book Organization
- Al-Ghazâlî, M. (1927) Tahâfut Al-Falâsifa (The Incoherence of the Philosophers), ed. M. Bouyges with a summary in Latin, Beirut: n.p.
- Al-Hakîm, S. (1981) Al-Mu'jam Al-Sûfî: Al-Hikma fî Hudûd Al-Kalima (The Sufi Dictionary: The Wisdom in the Word), Beirut: Dandarah
- (1991) Ibn 'Arabî wa Mawlid Lugha Jadîda (Ibn 'Arabî and the Birth of a New Language), Beirut: Al-Mu'assasa Al-Jamî'yya
- Al-Jîlî, A. (1970) Al-Insân Al-Kâmil fî Ma'rîfat Al-Awâ'il wa'l-Awâkhir (The Perfect Human Being . . .), Cairo: Mustafâ Al-Bâbî Al-Halabî
- (1999) Marâtib Al-Wujûd (The Levels of Existence), Cairo: Maktabat Al-Qâhira
- Al-Kindî (1950) Rasâ'il Al-Kindî Al-Falsafîyya, Risâla fî Al-Falsafa Al-Ûlâ (Al-Kindî's Philosophical Treatises, a Treatise on the First Philosophy), ed. Muhammed A. Abû Ridâ, Cairo: n.p.
- Al-Marzûqî (2002) Al-Azmina wa'l-Amkina (The Times and the Places), ed. Muhammad N. Al-Daylami, Beirut: 'Alâma li-l-Kutub
- Al-Muttaqî Al-Hindî (1989) Kanz Al-'Ummâl (The Treasure of the Workers), Beirut: Mu'assasat Al-Risâla
- Al-Nisabûrî, M., Al Mustadrak 'ala Sahîhayn (n.d.) Beirut: Dar Al-Kutub Al-'Ilmiyya.
- Al-Shâfî'î, A. (1980) Al-Sirâj Al-Wahhâj fî Haqâ'iq Al-Isrâ' wa'l-Mi'râj, in Mawsû'at Al-Isrâ wa'l-Mi'râj, Cairo: Maktabat Al-Il-'tisâm
- Al-Sha'rânî, A. (1959) Al-Yawâqût wa'l-Jawâhir fî Bayân Aqâ'id Al-Akâbir, Cairo: Mustafâ Al-Bâbî Al-Halabî; including: Al-Kibrît Al-Ahmar fî Bayân 'Ulûm Al-Shaykh Al-Akbar
- Al-Taftazânî, A. G. (1973) Ibn Sab'in wa Falsafatuh Al-Sûfîyya (Ibn Sab'in and His Sufi Philosophy), Beirut: Dâr Al-Kitâb Al-Lubnânî
- Al-Tu'aymî, M., ed. (1994) Mawsû'at Al-Isrâ wa'l-Mi'râj, Beirut: Dâr Al-Hilâl
- 'Al-Turâth Al-'Arabî', periodical magazine published by the Arabic Authors Union in Damascus, special issue 80, July 2000; this issue was devoted to Ibn 'Arabî, with ten articles by various Arab writers.
- Badawî, A. (1965) Aristûtâlis, Al-Tabî'a. Tarjamat Ishâq ibn Hunayn ma'a shurûh Ibn Al-Samh wa Ibn 'Âdî wa Mattâ ibn Yûnus wa Abî Al-Faraj ibn ayyib, 2 vols (Aristotle's Physics . . .), Cairo: The General Egyptian Book Organization
- Ibn Sinâ (1983) Al-Shifâ' [Al-Tabî'iyyât: Al-Samâ' Al-Tabî'î], ed. Sa'id Zâyid, Cairo: L'Organisation Egyptienne Générale du Livre
- Ibn Taymiyya (1969) Jâmi' Al-Rasâ'il (The Collection of Treatises), ed. Muhammad Rashâd Sâlim, Cairo: Maktabat Al-Madani
- Madhkûr, I. B. ed. (1969) Al-Kitâb Al-Tadhkârî, Muhyî Al-Dîn Ibn 'Arabî (The Commemorative Book of Muhyî ed-Dîn Ibn 'Arabî), Cairo: The General Egyptian Book Organization
- Mahmûd, A. ed. (1995) Dîwân Ibn Al-Fârid (Ibn Al-Fârid's Poetry), Cairo: 'Ayn for Human and Social Studies
- Râdî, A. A. (1970) Al-Rûhiyya 'inda Ibn 'Arabî (Spirituality in Ibn 'Arabî), Cairo: Maktabat Al-Nahda Al-Masriyya

- Sâlim, M. I. (1993) Ta'yîd Al-Sûfiyya fî Al-Majmû'a Al-Hâtimiyya (Supporting the Sufis Through the Hâtimî Works), Cairo: Maktabat Hamada
- (1996) Miftâh Al-Futûhât Al-Makkiyya (The Key to the Meccan Openings), Cairo: Al-Sharika Al-Muttahida
- Yahya, O., trans. Ahmad Al-Tayyib (2001) Mu'allafât Ibn 'Arabî, Tarîkhuhâ wa Tasnî-fuhâ (History and Classification of Ibn 'Arabî's Books), Cairo: The General Egyptian Book Organization; translation from French
- Yousef, M. H. (1999) Sulûk Al-Qalb Min Al-Wujûd Ilâ Al-Fanâ' thumm Al-Baqâ': Sharh Ta'wil Al-Shaykh Al-Akbar Muhyi Al-Dîn Ibn 'Arabî li Sûrat Yusuf (Ibn 'Arabî's Interpretation of the Sura of Joseph), Beirut: Dâr Al-Hayât
- (2006) Shams Al-Magrib (Biography of Ibn 'Arabî) Aleppo: Dâr Fussilat

C: English translations and studies on Ibn 'Arabî and related subjects

- Addas, C. (1985) Ibn 'Arabî ou La quête du Soufre Rouge, Paris: Gallimard; translated into English by P. Kingsley (1993), Quest for Red Sulphur: The Life of Ibn 'Arabî, Cambridge: Islamic Texts Society
- Affifi, A. E. (1938) The Mystical Philosophy of Muhyid Din-Ibn'ul Arabi, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- (1998) The Twenty-nine Pages: An Introduction to Ibn 'Arabî's Metaphysics of Unity, Cambridge: Beshara Publications
- Ali, A. Y. (2001) The Meaning of the Holy Qur'an: Arabic/English with Commentary, Beltsville: Amana Publications
- Arberry, A. J. (1956) Sufism, An Account of the Mystics of Islam, London: George Allen and Unwin
- Austin, R. J. (1971) Sufis of Andalusia, London: George Allen & Unwin
- trans. (1980) The Bezels of Wisdom, New York: Paulist Press; translation and introduction by Ralph Austin and preface by Titus Burckhardt.
- Beneito, P., Hirstenstein, S. (trans.) (2000) The Seven Days of the Heart: Prayers for the Nights and Days of the Week, Oxford: Anqa Publishing
- Bewley, A., trans. (2002) Ibn 'Arabî: The Mysteries of Bearing Witness to the Oneness of God and Prophet-hood of Muhammad, Chicago: Kazi Publications
- Böwering, G. (1992) 'Ibn Al-'Arabî's Concept of Time', in God Is Beautiful and He Loves Beauty: Festschrift in Honour of Annemarie Schimmel Presented by Students, Friends and Colleagues, edited by Alma Giese and J. Christoph Bürgel, Bern: Peter Lang: 71–91
- Brockelmann, C. (1996) Geschichte der Arabischen Literatur, Leiden: Brill Academic Publishers
- Burkhardt, T. (1950), Mystical Astrology according to Ibn 'Arabî (Clef spirituelle de l'astrologie musulmane d'après Mohyi-d-din Ibn 'Arabî); translated into English by: Bulent Rauf (1977), Abingdon: Beshara Publications
- Chittick, W. C., Morris, J. W. (trans.), Chodkiewicz, M. (ed.) (2002) The Meccan Revelations, Vol. I, New York: Pir Press
- Chittick, W. C. (1989) The Sufi Path of Knowledge: Ibn Al-'Arabî's Metaphysics of Imagination, Albany, NY: SUNY Press
- (1996) 'The School of Ibn 'Arabî', in History of Islamic Philosophy, eds S. H. Nasr and O. Leaman, London: Routledge

- (1998) The Self-disclosure of God: Principles of Ibn Al-Arabi's Cosmology, Albany, NY: SUNY Press
- Chodkiewicz, M. (1993) The Seal of the Saints: Prophethood and Sainthood in the Doctrine of Ibn Arabi, Cambridge: Islamic Texts Society
- trans. D. Streight (1993) An Ocean Without Shore, Albany, NY: State University of New York Press
- Chodkiewicz, C., Gril, D. (trans.), Chodkiewicz, M. (ed.) (2004) The Meccan Revelations, Vol. II, New York: Pir Press
- Corbin, H. (1969) Alone with the Alone: Creative Imagination in the Sufism of Ibn 'Arabî, Princeton: Bollingen
- Culme-Seymour, A. (trans.) (1984) The Wisdom of the Prophets (Fusus Al-Hikam), translated from Arabic to French with notes by Titus Burckhardt; translated from French to English by Angela Culme-Seymour, New Delhi: TAJ Company
- Davidson, H. A. (1987) Proofs for Eternity, Creation, and the Existence of God in Medieval Islamic and Jewish Philosophy, Oxford: Oxford University Press
- (1992) Alfarabi, Avicenna and Averroes: Their Cosmology, Theories of the Active Intellect, and Theories of the Human Intellect, New York, Oxford University Press
- Elmore, G. T. (1999) 'Ibn Al-'Arabî's Book of "the Fabulous Gryphon" ('Anqâ Al-Mughrib)', The Journal of the Muhyiddin Ibn 'Arabî Society, XXV
- (2000) Islamic Sainthood in the Fullness of Time: Ibn Al-'Arabî's 'Book of the Fabulous Gryphon', Leiden: Brill; introduction, translations and notes by Gerald T. Elmore of Ibn 'Arabî's book: 'Anqâ Mughrib.
- Harris, R. T. (trans.) (1989) Journey to the Lord of Power: A Sufi Manual on Retreat; with notes from commentary of 'A. K. Jilî, Rochester, VT: Inner Traditions International
- Hirtenstein, S. (ed.) (1997) Foundations of the Spiritual Life According to Ibn 'Arabî: Prayer & Contemplation, San Francisco: Muhyiddin Ibn 'Arabî Society
- (1999) The Unlimited Mercifier, The Spiritual Life and Thought of Ibn 'Arabî, Oxford: Anqa
- Hasnaoui, A. (1997) 'Certain Notions of Time in Arab-Muslim Philosophy', in Time and the Philosophies, ed. Paul Ricoeur, London: UNESCO, Benham Press
- Husaini, S. A. (1979) The Pantheistic Monism of Ibn Al-'Arabî, Lahore: Sh. Muhammad Ashraf
- (1996) Ibn Al-'Arabî: The Great Muslim Mystic and Thinker, Lahore: Sh. Muhammad Ashraf
- Gril, D. (1994) Le dévoilement des effets du voyage Ibn Arabî, Combas: Éditions de l'Eclat; translation into French of Ibn 'Arabî's Kitâb Al-Isfâr 'an Natâ'ij Al-Asfâr, with introduction
- Izutsu, T. (1983) Sufism and Taoism, Los Angeles: University of California Press
- Knysh, A. D. (1999) Ibn 'Arabî in the Later Islamic Tradition: The Making of a Polemical Image in Medieval Islam, Albany, NY: SUNY Press
- MacDonald, D. B. (1927) 'Continuous Re-creation and Atomic Time in Muslim Scholastic Theology', Isis 9: 326–344
- Morris, J. W. (1993) 'Seeing Past the Shadows: Ibn 'Arabî's "Divine Comedy"', Journal of the Muhyiddin Ibn 'Arabî Society XII: 50–69
- Nasr, S. H. (1964) Three Muslim Sages: Avicenna Suhrawardi Ibn 'Arabî, New York: Caravan Books
- (1978) An Introduction to Islamic Cosmological Doctrines: Conceptions of Nature and Methods Used for Its Study by the Ikhwân Al-Safâ, Al-Bîrûnî, and Ibn Sinâ, London: Thames and Hudson

- Netton, I. R. (1989) Allah Transcendent, London: Routledge
- (1992) Al-Farabi and His School, London: Routledge
- (1998) Middle East Sources: A Melcom Guide to Middle Eastern and Islamic Books and Materials in the United Kingdom and Irish Libraries, London: Routledge
- Nicholson, R. A. (1969) A Literary History of the Arabs, London: Cambridge University Press
- (1974) The Mystics of Islam, London and Boston: Routledge and Kegan Paul
- (1980) Studies in Islamic Mysticism, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Ormsby, E. (1984) Theodicy in Islamic Thought: The Dispute over Al-Ghazâlî's 'Best of All Possible Worlds', Princeton: Princeton University Press
- Pickthall, M. M. (1996) The Meaning of the Glorious Qur'an: An Explanatory Translation, Beltsville: Amana Publications; revised and edited in modern standard English by Dr Arafat El-Ashi
- Palacios, M. A. (1979) Ibn 'Arabî: His Life and Doctrine, translated into Arabic by Abdel-Rahmân Badawî, Kuwait: Wikâlat Al-Matbû'ât
- Sambursky, S., S. (1987) The Concept of Time in Late Neoplatonism: Texts With Translation, Introduction and Notes, Leiden: Brill
- Schimmel, A. (1975) Mystical Dimensions of Islam, Chapel Hill: The University of North Carolina
- (1993) The Mystery of Numbers, Oxford: Oxford University Press
- Sorabji, R. (1983) Time, Creation and the Continuum: Theories in Antiquity and the Early Middle Ages, Ithaca: Cornell University Press
- Yahya, O. (1964) Histoire et Classification de l'oeuvre d'Ibn 'Arabî, Damascus: Institut Français

D: Cited books and articles on philosophy, cosmology and time

- Al-'Atî, I. (1993) Al-Zamân fî Al-Fikr Al-Islâmî: Ibn Sînâ, Al-Râzi and Al-Ma'ârri (Time in Islamic Thought . . .), Beirut: Dâr Al-Muntakhab Al-'Arabî
- Arntzenius, F. and Maudlin, T. (2002) 'Time Travel and Modern Physics', in Time, Reality & Experience, ed. C. Callender, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Aspect, A., Grangier P. and Roger G. (12 July 1982) 'Experimental Realisation of Einstein-Podolsky-Rosen-Bohm Gedanken Experiment: A New Violation of Bell's Inequalities', Physical Review Letters 49 no. 2: 91
- and R. Dalibard (20 Dec. 1982) 'Experimental Test of Bell's Inequalities Using Time-Varying Analyzers', Physical Review Letters 49 no. 25: 1804
- Aveni, A. F. (1990) Empires of Time: Calendars, Clocks and Cultures, London: I. B. Tauris & Co.
- Baierlein, R. (1992) Newton to Einstein: The Trail of Light: An Excursion to the Wave-Particle Duality and the Special Theory of Relativity, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Bell, J. (July 1966) 'On the Problem of Hidden Variables in Quantum Mechanics', Reviews of Modern Physics 38 no. 3: 447
- Bianquis, T. and Bosworth, C. E. (1987), eds E. J. Vandonzel and W. P. Heinrichs, Encyclopaedia of Islam, 9 vols, Leiden: Brill
- Bickerman, E. J. (1968) Chronology of the Ancient World, Ithaca: Cornell University Press

- Bieńkowski, B. (1972) 'From Negation to Acceptance (The Reception of the Heliocentric Theory in Polish Schools in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries)', in The Perception of Copernicus' Heliocentric Theory: Proceedings of a Symposium Organised by the Nicolas Copernicus Committee of the International Union of the History and Philosophy of Science, ed. Jerzy Dobrzycki, Boston: D. Reidel.
- Blanco, W. (trans.) and Jennifer, T. R. (ed.) (1992) Herodotus: The Histories, New York, London: W. W. Norton & Company
- Bohr, N. (15 Oct. 1935) 'Can Quantum-Mechanical Description of Physical Reality Be Considered Complete?', Physical Review 48: 696; Niels Bohr's response to EPR.
- Callender, C. (ed.) (2002) Time, Reality & Experience, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Cornford, F. M. (2004) Plato's Cosmology: The Timaeus of Plato Translated with a Running Commentary, Whitefish, MT: Kessinger Publishing
- Coveny, P. and Highfield, R. (1990) The Arrow of Time: A Voyage through Science to Solve Time's Greatest Mystery, New York: Ballantine Books
- Darling, D. (2004) The Universal Book of Mathematics: From Abracadabra to Zeno's Paradoxes, London: Wiley
- Deutsch, D. and Lockwood, M. (March 1994) 'The Quantum Physics of Time Travel', Scientific American
- D'Inverno, R. (1992) Introducing Einstein's Relativity, Oxford: Clarendon
- Dobrzycki, J. (ed.) (1972) The Perception of Copernicus' Heliocentric Theory: Proceedings of a Symposium Organized by the Nicolas Copernicus Committee of the International Union of the History and Philosophy of Science, Boston: D. Reidel.
- Dolgov, A. D., Sazhin, M. V. and Zeldovich, Y. B. (1990) Basics of Modern Cosmology, Cedex: Editions Frontières
- Drake, S. (1990) Galileo: Pioneer Scientist, Toronto: University of Toronto Press
- Dungen, W., 'On Being and the Majesty of the Worlds', Reg. no. 51, in SofiaTopiaNet; Sophia Society for philosophy [www.sofiatopia.org/equiaeon/being.htm#dim] (accessed May 2005)
- Dyke, H. (2002) 'The Truth about Time', in Time, Reality & Experience, ed. Craig Callender, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press: 137–152
- Edwards, P. (ed.) (1967) The Encyclopedia of Philosophy, 8 vols, New York: Macmillan Publishing
- Einstein, A. (1920) Relativity: The Special and General Theory, trans. Robert W. Lawson, New York: Henry Holt
- (1955) The Meaning of Relativity, 5th ed., Princeton: Princeton University Press
- Einstein, A., Podolsky, B. and Rosen, N. (May 1935) 'Can Quantum-Mechanical Description of Physical Reality Be Considered Complete?' Physical Review 41: 777; the original EPR paper
- Ferguson, K. (1999) Measuring the Universe: Our Historic Quest to Chart the horizons of Space and Time, USA: Walker & Company
- Frankel, F. (1942) 'Zeno of Elea's Attacks on Plurality' American Journal of Philology, 63
- Fraser, J. T. (1978) Time as Conflict: a Scientific and Humanistic Study, Basel and Boston: Birkhäuser
- (1982) The Genesis and Evolution of Time: A Critique of Interpretations in Physics, Amherst: University of Massachusetts Press
- (1987a) How to Live with the Knowledge of Time, Amherst: University of Massachusetts Press

- (1987b) Time the Familiar Stranger, Amherst: University of Massachusetts Press
- (1990) Of Time, Passion, and Knowledge: Reflections on the Strategy of Existence, Princeton: Princeton University Press
- (1999) Time, Conflict, and Human Values, Urbana and Chicago: University of Illinois Press
- Fraser, J. T., Haber, F. C. and Müller, G. H. (eds) (1972) The Study of Time, New York, Heidelberg, Berlin: Springer-Verlag
- Freeman, E. and Sellars, W. (eds) (1971) Basic Issues in the Philosophy of Time, Illinois: Open Court Publishing
- Gaines, R. V., Skinner, H. C., Foord, E., Mason, B. and Rosenzweig, A. with sections by King, V. T., and illustrations by Dowty, E. (1997) Dana's New Mineralogy, London: John Wiley & Sons
- Gale, R. (ed.) (1968) The Philosophy of Time, London: Macmillan
- Giannakis, E. (1992) Philoponus in the Arabic Tradition of Aristotle's Physics, PhD thesis, University of Oxford
- Gott, J. R. (2001) Time Travel in Einstein's Universe: The Physical Possibilities of Travel Through Time, New York: Houghton Mifflin Co.
- Goudsmit, S. A., and Claiborne, R. (1974) Time, New York: Time-Life Books
- Grossing, G. and Zeilinger, A. (July 1991) 'Zeno Paradox in Quantum Cellular Automata' Physica D 50, no. 3: 321–326
- Grünbaum, A. (1971) 'The Meaning of Time', in Basic Issues in the Philosophy of Time, ed. Eugene Freeman and Wilfrid Sellars, Ill.: Open Court Publishing: 195–230
- Hall, A. R. (1992) Isaac Newton, Adventurer in Thought, Oxford: Blackwell
- Harrison, P. (1999) The Elements of Pantheism: Understanding the Divinity in Nature and the Universe, Massachusetts: Elements Books
- Hartmann, W. K. (1990) The Cosmic Voyage: Through Time and Space, Cal.: Wadsworth Publishing Company
- Hawking, S. (1998) A Brief History Of Time: The Updated and Expanded Tenth Anniversary Edition, UK, USA, Canada: Bantam Publishing.
- (1994) Black Holes and Baby Universes and Other Essays, UK, USA, Canada: Bantam
- Heath, T. L. (1981) A History of Greek Mathematics From Thales to Euclid, New York: Dover Publications
- Hinton, Charles H. and Rucker, R. (eds) (1980) Speculations on the Fourth Dimension: Selected Writings of C. H. Hinton, New York: Dover Publications
- Hopkins, E. W. (1930) Origin and Evolution of Religions, New Haven: Yale University Press
- Itano, W. M., Heinzen, D. J., Bollinger, J. J. and Wineland, D. J. (1990) 'Quantum Zeno Effect', Physical Review A 41: 2295–2300
- Kant, I. (1998) Critique of Pure Reason, trans. and ed. Paul Guyer and Allen W. Wood, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Langdon, S. H. (1964) The Mythology of All Races: Semitic, New York: Cooper Square Publishers
- Le Poidevin, R. and MacBeath, R. M. (eds) (1993) The Unreality of Time in The Philosophy of Time, Oxford: Oxford University Press
- Leiber, J. (1993) Paradoxes Interpretations, London: Duckworth Publishing
- Lettingck, P. (ed. and trans.) (1994) Aristotle's Physics and Its Reception in the Arabic World with an Edition of the Unpublished Parts of Ibn Bâjja's Commentary of the Physics, Leiden: Brill

- Linde, A. D. (1990) Inflation and Quantum Cosmology, San Diego: Academic Press
- MacEy, L. S. (1994) Encyclopedia of Time, London and New York: Garland Publishing
- Mandelbrot, B. and Frame, M. (2002) Fractals, Graphics, and Mathematics Education, USA: The Mathematical Association of America Incorporated
- Mehlberrg, H. (1971) 'Philosophical Aspects of Physical Time', in Basic Issues in the Philosophy of Time, ed. Eugene Freeman and Wilfrid Sellars, Ill.: Open Court Publishing: 16–71
- Minkowski, H. (1923) 'Space and Time', in The Theory of Relativity, ed. H. A. Lorentz, A. Einstein, H. Minkowski and H. Weyl, London: Methuen
- Misra, B. and Sudarshan, E. (1977) 'The Zeno's Paradox in Quantum Theory', Journal of Mathematical Physics 18: 756
- Narlikar, J. V. (1993) Introduction to Cosmology, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Oaklander, L. N. and Smith, Q. (eds) (1994) The New Theory of Time, New Haven: Yale University Press
- Pais, A. (1982) Subtle Is the Lord: The Science and the Life of Albert Einstein, New York: Oxford University
- Parise, F. (ed.) (1982) The Book of Calendars, New York: Facts On File
- Patrick, J. R. (1986) Euclidean and Non-Euclidean Geometry, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.
- Price, H. and Callender, C. (ed.) (2002) 'The Mysteries of the Entropic Arrow', in Time, Reality & Experience, Cambridge: Cambridge University.
- Robert, L. W. (1966) Basic Quantum Mechanics, New York: McGraw-Hill
- Roger, J. T. (1993) Galaxies: Structure and Evolution, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Ross, G. M. (1984) Leibniz, Oxford: Oxford University Press
- Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, Press Release (12 October 1999) 'The 1999 Nobel Prize in Chemistry'
- Rupert, A. H. (1992) Isaac Newton: Adventurer in Thought, Oxford: Blackwell
- Sainsbury, R. M. (2002) Paradoxes, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Samuel, L. (1994) Encyclopedia of Time, New York: Garland Publishing
- Schewe, P. F., Stein, B. (24 April 1992) 'COBE Picks Out Primordial Seeds at Last', The American Institute of Physics Bulletin of Physics News 77
- (28 December 1992) 'New Measurements of the Cosmic Microwave Background (CMB)', The American Institute of Physics Bulletin of Physics News, 108
- (31 March 1999) 'Creating Antimatter with Laser Light', The American Institute of Physics Bulletin of Physics News 421
- Seeds, M. A. (1990) Foundations of Astronomy, Cal.: Wadsworth
- Sitchin, Z. (1976) The 12th Planet, New York: Avon Books
- Smart, W. M. (1977) Textbook on Spherical Astronomy, Cambridge: Cambridge University
- Sorensen, R. (2003) A Brief History of the Paradox: Philosophy and the Labyrinths of the Mind, Oxford: Oxford University Press
- Spinoza, B. (1951) Chief Works of Benedict De Spinoza, ed. and trans. R. H. M. Elwes, 2 vols, New York: Dover Publications
- (1994) The Ethics and Other Works: A Spinoza Reader, ed. and trans. Edwin Curley, Princeton: Princeton University Press
- Stern, M. (1999) Semimodular Lattices: Theory and Applications, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press

- Stewart, Ian, Clark, Sir Arthur C., Mandelbrot, Benoit, Barnsley, Michael, Barnsley, Louisa, Rood, Will, Flake, Gary, Pennock, David, Prechter, Robert R. Jr. and Lesmoir-Gordon, Nigel (2004) The Colours of Infinity: The Beauty, and Power of Fractals, Singapore: Clear Books
- Stillman, D. (1990) Galileo: Pioneer Scientist, Toronto: University of Toronto Press
- Tayler, R. J. (1993) Galaxies: Structure and Evolution, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press
- Taylor, A. E. (1928) A Commentary on Plato's Timaeus, Oxford: Clarendon Press
- Trefil, J. (1938) From Atoms to Quarks: An Introduction to the Strange World of Particle Physics, New York, London, Toronto: Doubleday, Anchor Books
- Wehr, M. R., Richards, J. A. and Adair, T. W. (1984) Physics of the Atom, Mass.: Addison-Wesley
- White, R. L. (1966) Basic Quantum Mechanics, New York: McGraw-Hill
- William, K. H. (1990) The Cosmic Voyage: Through Time and Space, Belmont, Cal.: Wadsworth Publishing Company
- Wolfram, S. (2002) A New Kind of Science, Champaign, Ill.: Wolfram Media
- Yampolsky, P. (1984) 'The Origin of the Twenty-eight Lunar Mansions', Osiris IX: 62–83, Lisse: Swets & Zeitlinger
- Zee, A. (2003) Quantum Field Theory in a Nutshell, Princeton: Princeton University Press
- Zewail, A. H. (December 1990) 'The Birth of Molecules', Scientific American: 40–46

Index

- Achilles paradox 171
active force 9, 25, 37, 62; see also
intellective force
Adam 9, 44, 53, 70, 76, 83, 85, 89, 90, 92,
96, 97, 98, 125, 128, 182, 188, 198n13,
198n14, 201n20
after-world, the 163; see also hereafter age 7, 17, 30, 31, 33, 44, 59, 69, 71, 98,
173, 199n1
all-creative 173
all-encompassing 33, 70, 106, 115, 161,
170, 202n8
All-Hearing 52, 109
All-Knower 90, 151, 197n3
All-Merciful 9, 11, 39, 61, 82, 97, 127,
128, 131, 132, 156, 157, 163, 179, 181,
194n11, 196n12, 201n14
All-Mighty 102, 197n3
All-Prevailing 89
All-Sufficient 35, 110
All-Wise 122
alphabet 65, 74, 84, 85, 89, 155, 181, 182,
183, 185, 204n12
analogy 93, 121–2, 150, 152–6, 159–60,
164, 171, 180, 182, 195n3, 198n18,
201n18
Andromeda 4
angel 8, 63, 76, 83, 89, 91, 94, 97, 125,
142, 151–2, 156, 163, 183–5, 187–91,
194n9, 197n16, 204n12
animal 19, 94, 142, 148, 202n14
animated 132
anisotropy 5
annihilation 40, 48, 166, 167, 169, 185
anti-clockwise 153
anti-particle 40, 167
Archangels 152, 188
Aristotle 1, 2, 14, 17–20, 28, 30–1, 118, 171–2
arrow, of time 16, 23; paradox 171
A-series 21; see also B-series
astrology 52, 74, 76, 82, 84, 94, 163
astronomy 1–3, 7, 14, 22, 40, 55, 57, 59,
60, 74–5, 78, 80–2, 99, 112, 119, 130,
184, 195n22, 197n5, 198n11
atmosphere 56
atom 16, 18–19, 40, 43, 47–8, 66, 115,
137, 141, 143, 149, 166–7, 169, 171–5,
189, 196n6, 199n8, 202n8, 203n2
attribute 5, 27, 39, 52, 68–9, 76–7, 81–2, 87, 109, 125, 128, 147–8, 155, 159, 187,
195n2, 196n12, 200n9, 201n12
automata 25

Babylonians 75, 79, 83, 114, 129, 150,
198n11
Bible 99
Bilqīs 168–9
biology 16, 24, 74
B-series 21; see also A-series
bubbles 71

calendar 59, 79, 110, 198n11
cardinal 154
causality 32, 36, 43, 124, 165, 170, 176–9
celestial 13, 14, 40–1, 45, 48, 55, 58, 60,
69, 75, 88, 113, 115, 147, 154, 179,
197n3, 199n5
Chaos 1, 9
charge 37, 167, 180, 188, 196n11
chest 50–1
Christian 20, 91, 197n7, 200n5, 201n16
chronological 16, 25, 29, 32, 81, 176
Chronos 17
cinema 49, 160
circle 20, 33, 51, 53, 55, 67, 95, 101–2,
108, 120–2, 150, 152, 168, 185–7,
196n8, 198n1, 199n3, 203n15; circular,

- 1, 16, 17–18, 20, 41, 51–2, 55, 70, 74–5, 86, 93, 100–2, 104, 106–8, 110–11; circulate, 1, 55, 70, 74–5, 86, 93, 100–2, 104, 106–8, 111, 199n3; see also cycle
- circumambulation 47, 95, 152–4
- circumference 3, 51, 56, 101, 120, 151, 155–6, 186
- circumstance 16, 37, 39–40, 176
- clime 84, 88, 154
- clock 16, 22, 24, 46
- cloud 11, 185
- cluster 3, 4, 66
- COBE 5
- coherence 16
- coincide 33, 99, 110
- cold 23, 94, 147
- coldness 98
- collapse 15, 23
- colour 118, 148, 150, 162, 184, 201n21
- Command, the Divine 34, 42, 64, 78, 87, 95, 96, 109, 113, 128, 129, 132, 143, 144, 177
- computer 25, 106, 124, 160–4, 166–7, 192, 203n3
- cone-shaped 63
- constellation 4, 12–14, 40, 55, 57, 74, 76, 79, 84, 89–90, 93, 110, 115
- Copenhagen 174
- Copernicus 1–3, 8
- cosmogony 133, 135, 162, 166–7, 185–6
- cosmology 27, 31, 37, 41, 44, 53, 58, 60, 67, 71, 73–8, 82, 84, 94, 99, 102, 117, 119, 120–1, 123, 129, 133, 140, 142, 145, 151–2, 159, 161–2, 165–70, 172, 174, 175, 181–2, 184–5, 193n1, 195n21, 195n26, 199n1, 200n5, 201n14, 201n18, 202n4, 204n12; Ibn ‘Arabi’s 14–16; introduction to 1–9; and time 23, 25
- creation 1, 5, 8, 9, 11, 18, 20, 26, 37, 38, 43, 48–9, 53, 57–8, 65–9, 73–6, 78–84, 106, 109–11, 126, 127, 129–37, 139–43, 145–47, 149, 151–53, 155, 158–63, 166–70, 172–3, 175–8, 182–3, 185–6, 190, 196n9, 196n12, 197n5, 197n8, 198n14, 198n16, 198n17, 198n18, 201n14, 202n13; Creator 32, 53, 58, 68–9, 76, 89, 93–4, 97, 117, 120–4, 130, 133, 137, 139, 143–5, 147, 151, 163, 178; creatures 8, 11, 15, 61, 64, 89, 91, 94–6, 98, 111, 122, 124–5, 131, 133, 137, 149, 162, 178, 184, 187, 193n7, 200n6; and Divine Names 117–24; the days of 86–102; the origin of 31–35, 193n8
- cycle 52–3, 55–7, 59–60, 65, 74, 78, 80, 87, 96, 109, 110, 163; cyclic 25, 33, 51, 52, 62, 199n3; see also circle
- day 9, 25, 38, 39, 44, 47–9, 53, 59, 60–71, 73–6, 78–103, 105–16, 125, 129, 136–7, 141, 152–3, 158, 161–4, 168–70, 179, 182–3, 188, 194n11, 197n5, 198n11, 199n2, 199n3, 199n7; daytime 25, 29, 47, 52, 54, 56–63, 67, 70–1, 81, 84, 92, 95–6, 99–107, 109, 116, 129, 135, 141, 173, 196n12, 197n12, 199n2, 199n3
- dialectical 41
- diameter 3
- Dichotomy paradox 171
- doctrine 20, 75, 76, 122, 130, 142, 145, 159, 170–71, 196n10
- earth 14–15, 40–2, 44–5, 48, 57–8, 64, 65, 73, 77–9, 81, 85–6, 88, 99, 103–4, 111–2, 116, 141, 147, 156, 190
- Einstein 2–5, 17, 21–2, 24, 173–5, 180
- electromagnetic 40, 166, 188, 201n21
- electron 16, 43, 161–3, 166, 167–9, 180
- entropy 16, 23
- epicycles 184
- epiphany 9
- EPR 3, 139, 165, 170, 174
- equator 110, 158, 199n5
- equinox 116
- essence 18, 27, 33–6, 50, 56, 62, 68, 89–90, 114, 118, 127–8, 132–4, 137, 142–4, 146, 148, 159, 178, 186–7, 194n10, 195n5
- eternal 6, 17, 19, 20, 31, 33–5, 44, 62, 67–8, 87, 94, 96, 97–8, 117, 131, 141, 157–8, 171, 204n5
- eternity 46, 68, 94–6, 162–3, 195n3
- ethical 133
- etymological 80
- Euclidean 20, 195n26; see also non-Euclidean
- foreknowledge 33–4, 82, 87, 97, 106
- form 8, 30, 35, 45, 52, 64, 72, 81, 92–3, 95, 96, 103, 113, 127–9, 132, 133, 136, 137–42, 146–8, 159–62, 165, 175–6, 179, 182–4, 187–8, 194n10, 196n6, 199n1, 201n18, 202n8, 203n19
- formable 29, 30
- formation 8, 19, 138, 147, 159
- Friday 38, 49, 74, 75, 82, 85–6, 90–2, 94–8, 104, 106–7, 141, 163, 179, 194n11

- galaxy 2–5, 10–12, 38, 40, 79, 110, 192, 193n1, 193n3, 195n26
- Gehenna 14, 40, 96, 98–9, 188–9, 196n12
- Gemini 38, 87, 110, 112
- Generosity 117
- genesis 83
- geocentric 1, 14, 193n1
- geographical 83, 88, 154
- geology 53
- geometry 6, 20–1, 97, 121–2, 186, 195n26
- God 8, 15, 20, 31, 33–6, 46–8, 53, 63, 66, 73, 75–6, 78, 91–2, 111–12, 115, 125, 132–3, 142, 158–9, 178, 185–8, 190, 194n10, 194n11, 197n3, 198n14, 200n6, 200n7
- gold 147
- Greatest Element, the 67, 97, 115, 128, 141, 143, 149–55, 157–8, 161, 180, 185–6, 189, 199n1
- Greek 1, 17–18, 20, 74, 142, 182, 200n5
- grindstone 2
- heaven 7, 14–15, 17, 25, 39–42, 45, 53, 55, 57, 63, 70, 73–5, 77–9, 83–91, 93, 97–9, 112–13, 154, 157, 188, 194n11, 199n7
- heliocentric 1, 8, 14, 193n1
- hereafter 184, 188, 191–2
- hexadecimal 114
- hidden 39, 58, 63, 70, 102, 105, 106, 133, 140, 157–8, 173–5, 181–2, 193n7
- Holy 32, 106, 148
- homogeneous 5, 12, 20, 195n26; see also inhomogeneous
- imagination 4, 8, 15–17, 25–9, 33, 35, 40, 43–5, 49, 50–1, 53, 56, 64, 69–71, 81, 95, 98, 104–5, 108, 119–20, 123, 125, 136, 140–1, 144, 147, 172, 191, 194n10
- infinite 11, 16, 17, 21–2, 33–4, 47, 48, 51, 59, 61, 64, 66, 111, 114, 119, 121, 125, 134, 147, 169–72, 186
- infinitesimal 64, 141
- infinitum 19, 34, 171
- infinity 21, 24, 172
- inflation 5
- inhomogeneous 25; see also homogeneous
- instant 6, 18, 22, 24, 26, 29, 30, 43, 48–50, 64–6, 97, 106, 124, 135, 136–9, 141–2, 147, 158–9, 161–3, 168–71, 173–6, 179, 182, 187, 191
- integer 79–80, 192
- intellect 9–11, 25, 37, 61–2, 64, 67, 71, 77, 83, 90, 115, 123–4, 128–30, 133–5, 139, 142–4, 150–3, 157, 160, 162, 165, 179, 182–3, 185–6, 199n1, 200n4, 202n4, 202n10, 202n14
- intellective force 9, 25, 37, see also: active force
- intertwined days, the 48–9, 57, 73, 81–2, 93, 100–1, 103, 106–9, 111, 114, 137, 163, 167–8
- intrinsic 26, 35–6, 49, 60, 97, 126, 136–7, 141–2, 157, 175, 184
- isthmus 134
- Jupiter 85, 90
- Kaaba 46–7, 95, 152–5, 167
- Khidr 168–9
- Leibniz 20–1, 49
- Libra 53, 197n3
- light 2–4, 14, 22–4, 38, 40, 41, 55–6, 63, 88, 96, 102, 105, 117, 130–3, 136, 148, 156, 166–70, 173–5, 179, 187–8, 193n3, 195n28, 197n12, 201n21, 203n3, 204n7; Muhammadan light, 202n10
- lunar 41, 52, 59, 61, 74, 76, 78–80, 83, 85, 88–90, 93, 110, 198n11
- macrocosm 82, 86, 151, 154
- Man 30, 83, 115, 182, 196n8
- mansion 13, 74, 76, 87–90, 93, 110
- Mars 85, 89
- Mecca 7, 95; Meccan Revelations (Illuminations) 7, 204n9
- mechanic 2, 5, 16, 22, 49, 169
- Mercury 53, 85, 89
- Messenger 13, 32, 47, 133, 135–6, 177–8, 204n5
- metaphysics 1, 16, 18, 22–3, 48, 52, 100, 117–20, 123–4, 128–9, 140, 142, 146, 149, 151–6, 183
- microcosm 82, 86, 99, 151, 160, 174, 198n18
- micro-organisms 74
- microwave 5
- millstone 41
- minerals 167
- minute 3, 26, 31, 44, 48, 57, 59, 65, 78, 87, 100, 106, 111, 114–15, 168, 199n8
- miracle 169
- model, the Single Monad see monad
- moment 4, 6, 15, 17–18, 21, 26, 28–9, 35, 38–9, 43–6, 48–9, 51, 53, 58, 62, 64–7, 71, 73, 96–8, 101–2, 114, 136–8, 141–2, 145, 158, 161–2, 166, 169–70, 173, 175, 203n17

- momentum 174, 195n27
- monad 10, 30, 67, 89, 97, 115, 127–8, 135–7, 139, 195n5, 196n6, 203; the Single Monad model 4, 65, 140–92, 202n1, 202n4, 202n8
- Monday 38, 50, 52, 82, 84–6, 88, 89, 100, 103–4, 107, 109, 111
- monism 117, 171
- monitor 160–3, 203n3
- monotheism 76, 117
- month 45, 48, 74, 78–81, 83, 91, 110, 114–15, 198n10, 198n11
- moon 59, 78
- morning 49, 95, 101, 173
- mosque 90
- mother 9, 29–30, 73, 76–7, 99, 103, 129
- motion 2, 4, 7–9, 14–20, 25, 28–31, 37–8, 40–3, 46, 48–9, 51–2, 55–7, 59–62, 67, 73, 78–84, 87–90, 93, 98, 100, 103, 110–13, 116, 136, 137, 160–3, 165–6, 168–74, 176, 179–80, 184, 187, 190, 193n3, 196n11, 197n5, 198n11, 199n8, 202n4, 203n3, 204n8
- movie 23–4, 124, 159–61, 172, 175
- Muhammad 7, 13, 45–7, 52–3, 55, 68–70, 75, 90–1, 95–6, 98–9, 117, 126, 132, 135, 152, 155, 159, 182, 188, 193n8, 194n12, 197n8, 198n13, 202n10
- multiplicity 34, 36, 50, 117–40, 144, 156, 157, 170, 173, 186, 201n13, 202n1
- n-D 192
- nebulae 3
- Newton 2, 5, 20, 22, 42–3, 49, 123, 169–70
- night 19, 25, 29, 39, 45, 47, 49, 52, 54, 56–64, 67, 70–1, 81, 84, 91–2, 94–6, 98, 99, 100–9, 116, 129, 135, 141, 173, 196n12, 199; night-journey 45; nightmares 200n3; night-time 47, 49, 54, 57, 58, 61, 62, 92, 95, 96, 99, 100, 102–3, 105, 173, 199n2, 199n3
- non-Euclidean 21, 195n26, see also: Euclidean
- nonexistence 27, 33–6, 58, 66–9, 87, 94, 105–6, 117, 131–2, 134–9, 144, 148, 166, 199n10
- non-finite 134
- non-integer 79
- non-material 184
- non-physical 27
- non-zero 67
- noon 49, 101, 158, 203n17
- odd 129
- offspring 66
- one-dimensional 21, 184
- oneness 122, 135–6, 157, 173; of Allah or of the Real 120–3, 198n16; of being 4, 20, 25–6, 28, 30, 37, 42, 50, 96–7, 99, 117, 122–4, 130–2, 135, 139, 140, 144, 170–1, 184, 187, 190, 203n19; of light 132; of time 122
- ontology 8, 18, 22, 33–4, 39, 66, 90, 98, 117, 130–8, 171, 176, 179
- orb 1, 3, 7, 12–14, 19, 25, 28, 29, 30, 31, 37, 38, 40–4, 53, 55–63, 65, 69–71, 73, 76, 79, 81, 83–4, 86–9, 94, 103, 110–11, 113, 115, 119, 144, 147, 155–6, 166, 169, 181, 197n3, 204n11
- orient 55–6
- pantheism 117
- Paradise 90, 98, 152, 188, 191–2
- paradox 118, 120, 183
- paranatural 31, 37
- para-psychological 176
- parsec 3
- particle 5, 10, 40, 143, 156, 166, 167, 168, 173, 174, 175, 176, 180, 195n28, 203n2, 204n8
- past 15, 16, 17, 21, 22, 23, 24, 28, 29, 33, 39, 46, 51, 66, 67, 68, 70, 72, 144, 145, 165, 180
- Pedestal 11–15, 38, 40, 58, 65, 87, 110–11, 196n12
- Pen, the Higher, the Universal 9, 11, 115, 142–3, 151, 160, 162–3, 182–3, 187, 191, 199n1, 202n10; Pen-sounds 182
- Perfect Human Being, the 15, 61, 67, 76, 89, 99, 125, 128–9, 132, 134, 142–5, 151, 157, 158–60, 190, 198n18, 202n14, 203n18
- period 5, 18, 45, 52, 59–60, 65, 74, 79, 80–1, 98, 111, 114, 173, 198n10, 199n8
- phenomena 62, 101, 140, 165, 167–9, 172, 174, 176, 177, 180, 184, 185, 203n3
- philosopher 18–19, 21, 23, 26, 29, 31, 35, 42–3, 49, 67–8, 78, 115, 118–19, 122–3, 142, 146, 148, 170, 172, 176–7, 184, 194n13, 194n14, 194n16, 195n25, 199n4, 200n5
- philosophy 1, 7, 15–20, 22, 24, 27, 41, 47, 49, 118, 120, 129, 131, 171, 194n14, 195n22, 200n5, 204n10
- photoelectric 173
- photon 5, 43, 156, 166–9, 175, 180

physical 5, 10–11, 15–16, 18–19, 21, 23–25, 27–8, 30–1, 33, 37–8, 41–2, 45, 47–8, 62, 64, 87, 93, 121, 141–2, 146, 149, 155–6, 168, 174, 179, 184, 194n10, 195n27, 196n9, 196n11, 202n8
 physician 19, 194n16, 195n22
 physicist 1, 19, 22–4, 42–4, 120, 192
 physics 3–6, 15, 16, 21–2, 25, 27, 31, 41, 43, 49, 52, 119, 121, 165, 168–70, 174, 180, 183–4, 188–9, 201n14, 201n21, 202n8, 204n7
 pilgrimage 7, 152–3
 pillar 15, 154–5, 188, 204n5
 pixel 161–3
 Plato 17–19, 31, 160, 171
 Plotinus 18–19, 200n5
 plural 71, 126, 129, 142, 201n17
 Pole 46, 87–8, 94, 120, 154, 155, 196n8, 198n13
 Power 77, 90, 180
 pre-existence 33–5, 69, 87, 143
 preordained 79, 83
 presence 8, 28–9, 51, 64, 70, 94, 106, 178, 197n18, 199n1, 200n6
 pre-Socratics 170
 primordial 69, 71, 77, 136, 155, 158, 202n12
 Proxima Centauri 3
 psychology 16, 23, 31, 46, 180, 200n3, 201n18
 Ptolemy 1
 pulsars 16
 Pythagoras 142, 182

 quadratic 77
 quantisation 5–6, 18, 20–1, 25, 30, 43–4, 47–9, 80, 111, 166, 169–70, 172–4

 Ramadan 91
 rational 16–17, 146
 Real 15, 32–3, 36–7, 47, 50–1, 64, 66, 69–70, 76, 87, 90, 92–4, 97, 99, 111, 119–24, 126, 128, 129, 131–7, 140, 142–4, 148, 157–8, 160, 163, 177–8, 181–2, 185–91, 194n10, 196n10, 202n9, 203n15, 203n17
 reality 1, 8, 12–13, 15–16, 20, 22, 26, 28, 30, 32–3, 37, 43, 46, 48, 50–2, 54–5, 57, 60–2, 65–6, 68, 70, 83, 89, 96, 99, 112, 117, 119, 121–4, 127–35, 140–4, 146–8, 151–2, 154–8, 160–1, 169–73, 176–8, 180, 183, 187, 189, 201n18, 202n10, 202n14, 202n15, 203n19

real-through-whom-creation-takes-place, the 143, 158, 182
 re-creation 18, 26, 35, 38, 42–3, 48–9, 51–2, 64, 96–8, 124, 135, 137–41, 147–8, 159–60, 162, 166–70, 172, 175–6, 184
 redshift 2, 22, 193n3
 region 15, 55, 63, 83–5, 88, 116, 154, 174
 retrograde motion 8
 revolution 2, 16, 38, 48, 57, 59–61, 78–80, 112, 114

 Sages 71, 196n8
 Saturday 25, 38, 39, 49, 58, 71, 73–5, 81–6, 91, 93–5, 96–8, 100, 104, 106, 141, 162–3, 168–9
 Saturn 75, 83, 85, 93–4
 self-consciousness 9
 self-disclosure 87, 89–90, 93
 self-existence 120
 Self-Existent 32, 34, 36
 self-subsistent 123, 133, 135, 139, 146–7, 150
 Self-sufficient 36, 137
 sexagenary 75, 150
 sidereal 55–7, 59, 79
 Sierpinski triangle 145
 simulation 25, 47, 108, 167–8, 192
 simultaneity 170
 solar 2, 4, 8, 40, 58–9, 75, 79–81, 84, 193n1, 198n10, 198n11
 Solitary 30, 37, 71, 196n8, 198n13
 Solomon 44, 168–9
 space 2–6, 8, 12, 15–16, 20–5, 28–9, 34, 38–40, 42–4, 46–7, 49–51, 58, 63, 69–71, 74, 89, 96–101, 104–6, 123, 125, 130, 137, 141, 145, 156, 158, 161, 163, 165–6, 168, 171–2, 174–5, 179–80, 185, 189, 191, 194n12, 195n26, 196n7; space-time 3, 6, 21–2, 24–5, 38–9, 58, 71, 74, 97–8, 100, 105, 123, 141, 180, 193n1, 195n26 sphere 8, 11–15, 17, 25, 41, 45, 48, 51, 54–5, 57–9, 63, 88–91, 93, 111–13, 115, 151, 156, 177, 179–80, 184, 199n5
 spin 57, 79, 180, 204n8
 spirit 8–9, 38, 44, 46–7, 53, 61, 63, 71, 87, 95, 97, 99, 130–1, 135, 144, 150, 160, 177, 188, 191, 197n3, 198n13, 198n14, 201n20, 203n1, 204n5; spirit-heart-body 130
 spiritual 8–12, 15, 27, 30–1, 33, 35, 37, 40, 44–8, 53, 58, 62, 69–70, 73, 83, 88–9, 94, 99, 112–13, 115, 118, 120, 122, 128,

- 130, 136–7, 140, 145–9, 154–6, 159–60, 164, 173, 177–8, 181–5, 188, 191, 196n8, 197n15, 197n18, 199n1, 200n3, 200n4, 202n14, 203n18, 204n5
- Stadium paradox 171
- star 1–5, 7, 10–17, 23, 29, 33, 38, 40, 44–5, 53–5, 57, 59–61, 70, 79, 87, 104, 107–8, 110, 112, 145, 163, 166, 174, 184, 191–2, 193n1, 193n3, 195n26
- strings theory 9, 180–3; see also superstrings
- subatomic 143, 174
- sub-entities 67, 68
- sub-events 67
- sub-intellecets 67
- sub-moments 67, 145, 173
- sufism 6–8, 20, 34, 40–1, 44–6, 66, 69–70, 118–20, 134, 146, 158, 182, 190, 193n7, 194n12, 201n12, 203n1
- Sumerians 110
- sun 1–4, 12–14, 19, 29, 32, 46–7, 52–63, 67, 69, 72, 74–5, 78–81, 85, 87–8, 90–1, 99, 101–3, 106, 111, 116, 130, 145, 157–60, 185, 188; sunlight 157–8, 179; Sun-Line-Cave 160
- Sunday 38, 49, 52, 73, 74–5, 81–2, 84–5, 86–7, 91, 95–8, 100–1, 103–4, 106–11, 141, 163, 179, 194n11, 197n7
- supernatural 165
- superstrings 3, 49, 93, 180, 201n14
- supra-natural 184
- taken-out days 57, 81, 84, 100, 102–7, 114, 163
- task, the day of 48–9, 59, 64, 66, 73, 98, 100–1, 106, 114, 125, 135, 170, 197n3
- technology 3, 16, 161
- telepathy 180
- theology 1, 7, 18–20, 23, 29, 33, 35, 37, 43, 47–8, 58, 68–9, 71–2, 74–5, 78, 99, 115, 120, 131, 137–40, 142, 165, 168, 184, 194n12, 194n13, 194n14, 194n15, 194n21, 195n2, 195n5, 196n6, 201n14
- theomorphic 86, 90, 92, 96, 198n16
- theory 1, 2, 4–6, 16–17, 20–4, 26, 28, 30, 38–9, 41–2, 44–5, 47–8, 50, 93, 96, 99, 123, 139, 142, 145, 148, 166, 168–75, 180, 195n26, 195n27, 201n14, 204n7
- thermodynamics 16
- threefold 117, 128–9, 130
- Throne 9–11, 13–15, 39–40, 58, 82, 86, 91, 97–8, 102, 127–8, 152, 156–7, 188, 191, 194n11, 196n12
- Thursday 75, 82, 85–6, 90–1, 104, 107–8
- Timaeus 19
- time 15–16, 17–18, 20–1, 23, 27–9, 39, 41–2, 53, 65–6, 78, 99, 114, 195n4, 196n9, 198n13, 199n9; time-gap 166; timekeeping 16; timeless 168–9; time-scale 14, 108, 203n2; time-space 49; timing 16, 54–6, 58, 174, 198n10
- trinity 128, 130, 200n5, 201n16
- Tuesday 38, 82, 85–6, 89, 104
- twin paradox, the 45
- Unicity 36, 117–39
- union 22
- unique 4, 8, 14, 20, 25–6, 28, 30, 48, 51–2, 59, 64, 73–4, 78, 92–3, 96, 98–100, 117–25, 127, 128, 136–7, 139–40, 151, 156, 161, 175, 184, 195n4, 202n1
- unit 7, 29, 40, 58, 62, 67, 71, 74, 78, 97, 100, 105, 142, 149, 150, 164, 167, 186, 190; unity 50, 117, 156
- unitary 103
- universe 1–6, 8–9, 20, 22–4, 31, 33, 38, 41, 46, 71, 160, 193n1
- unseen 58, 62–4, 119, 131, 184
- velocity 7, 18, 42, 44, 168, 174
- Venus 85, 90
- Virgo 73, 197n3, 197n4
- wave 25, 40, 156, 161, 166, 173, 180, 188, 190–1, 195n27, 201n21, 203n2; wavelength 156, 201n21, 204n7; wave-particle duality 25
- Wednesday 82, 85, 86, 89, 104, 112
- week 25, 38, 48, 52, 58, 71, 73–109, 163, 197n5, 197n7, 198n17
- year 1–4, 7, 19, 22–4, 31, 40, 44, 45, 48, 52–4, 56, 59, 61, 69, 71, 75, 77–81, 91, 110, 114–16, 150, 152, 163, 197n3, 198n10, 198n11, 199n8
- Zeno 28, 42–3, 165, 170–2, 174
- zero-dimension 87
- zero-length 66
- zodiac 10, 12, 14, 55–7, 74, 76, 78–9, 99–100, 103, 110–12, 115–16, 154, 197n2
- zone 24

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١

[الجزء الأول]

مقدمة المؤلف

بسم الله الرحمن الرحيم الحمد لله فاعل كل محسوس و معقول و غاية كل مطلوب و مسئول و الصلاة على صفوة عبادِه و هداة الخلق إلى مبدئه و معاده سيما سيد المصطفين محمد المبعوث إلى كافة الثقلين اللهم فصل عليه و على الأرواح الطاهرة من أهل بيته و أولاده و الأشباح الزاهرة من أوليائه و أحفاده.

و بعد فيقول الفقير إلى رحمة ربه الغني محمد المشتهر بصدر الدين الشيرازي - إن السعادة ربما يظن بها أنها الفوز بالدرجات الحسية و الوصول إلى الرئاسات الخيالية - و ما أبين لمن تحقق الأمور و تفتن بالمعارف أن السعادات العاجلية و اللذات الحسية الفورية ليس شيء منها سعادة حقيقية و لا ينالها بهجة عقلية لما يرى كلا من متعاطيها منهمكا فيما انقطعت السكينات الإلهية عن حوالبه و امتنعت المعارف الربوبية عن الحلول فيه و تعذر عليه إخلاص النية الإلهية الصادرة عن حاق الجوهر النطقي من غير معاوقة همة دنيوية أو مضادة طلبية عاجلية التي يرجى بها نيل السعادة الحقيقية و تعاطيها و الاتصال بالفيض العلوي الذي يزال به الكمه عن حدقة نفسه الموجود فيها بسبب انحصارها في عالم الغربة و وجودها في دار الجسد - و احتباسها عن ملاحظة جمال الأبد و معاينة الجلال السرمدي و لا شك أن أقصى غاية يتأتى لأحد الموجودات الوصول إليها هو الكمال المختص به و الملائم المنسوب إليه و كلما انحط عنه فهو نقصان بالحقيقة فيه و إن كان كمالاته بالإضافة إلى ما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢

في رتبة الوجود تاليه و ما من دابة فما دونها إلا و من شأنها البلوغ إلى أقصى ما لها في ذاتها ما لم يعقها عائق و لنوع الإنسان كمال خاص لجوهر ذاته و حاق حقيقته - لا يفوقها فيه فائق و لا يسبق به عليها سابق و هو الاتصال بالمعقولات و مجاورة الباري - و التجرد عن الماديات و إن كانت له مشاركة بحسب كل قوة توجد فيه لما يساويه من تلك الجهة أو يليه فلسائر الأجسام في حصوله في الحيز و الفضاء و للنبات في الاغتذاء و النماء و للعجم من الحيوان في حياته بأنفاسه و حركته بإرادته و إحساسه - و تلك الخاصية إنما تحصل بالعلوم و المعارف مع انقطاع عن التعلق بالخارف.

ثم لما كانت العلوم متشعبة و فنون الإدراكات متكثرة و الإحاطة بجملتها متعذرة أو متعسرة و لذلك تشعبت فيه الهمم كما تفتنت في الصنائع قدم أهل العالم - فافتقرت العلماء زمرا و تقطعوا أمرهم بينهم زبرا بين معقول و منقول و فروع و أصول فهمة نحو نحو و صرف و أحكام و همة نحو فقه و رجال و كلام.

فالواجب على العاقل أن يتوجه بشرائره إلى الاشتغال بالأهم و الحزم له أن يكب طول عمره على ما الاختصاص لتكميل ذاته فيه أتم بعد ما حصل له من سائر العلوم و المعارف بقدر الحاجة إليها في المعاش و المعاد و الخلاص عما يعوقه

عن الوصول إلى منزل الرشاد و يوم الميعاد و ذلك هو ما يختص من العلوم بتكميل إحدى قوته اللتين هما جهة ذاته و وجهه إلى الحق و جهة إضافته و وجهه إلى الخلق و تلك هي النظرية التي بحسب حاق جوهر ذاته من دون شركة الإضافة إلى الجسم و انفعالاته و ما من علم غير الحكمة الإلهية و المعارف الربانية إلا و الاحتياج إليه بمدخلية الجسم و قواه - و مزاوله البدن و هواه و ليس من العلوم ما يتكفل بتكميل جوهر الذات الإنسانية - و إزالة مثالبها و مساوئها حين انقطاعها عن الدنيا و ما فيها و الرجوع إلى حاق حقيقتها - و الإقبال بالكلية إلى بارئها و منشئها و موجدتها و معطيها إلا العلوم العقلية المحضة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣

و هي العلم بالله و صفاته و ملائكته و كتبه و رسله و كيفية صدور الأشياء منه على الوجه الأكمل و النظام الأفضل و كيفية عنايته و علمه بها و تدبيره إياها بلا خلل و قصور و آفة و فتور و علم النفس و طريقها إلى الآخرة و اتصالها بالمال الأعلى و افتراقها عن وثاقها و بعدها عن الهيولى إذ بها يتم لها الانطلاق عن مضائق الإمكان و النجاة عن طوارق الحدثان و الانغماس في بحار الملكوت و الانتظام في سلك سكان الجبروت - فيتخلص عن أسر الشهوات و التقلب في خبط العشوات و الانفعال عن آثار الحركات - و قبول تحكم دورات السماوات.

و أما ما وراءها فإن كان وسيلة إليها فهو نافع لأجلها و إن لم يكن وسيلة إليها - كالتحوي و اللغة و الشعر و أنواع العلوم فهي حرف و صناعات كباقي الحرف و الملكات.

و أما الحاجة إلى العمل و العبادة القلبية و البدنية فلتطهارة النفس و زكائها - بالأوضاع الشرعية و الرياضات البدنية لئلا تتمكن للنفس بسبب اشتغالها بالبدن - و نزوعها إلى شهواته و شوقها إلى مقتضياته هيئة انقهارية للبدن و هواه فترسخ لها ملكة انقيادية لمشتته و تمنعها إذا مات البدن عن لذاتها الخاصة بها من مجاورة المقربين - و مشاهدة الأمور الجميلة و أنوار القدسين و لا يكون معها البدن فيلهيها كما كان قبل البدن ينسيها فصدر من الرحمة الإلهية و الشريعة الرحمانية الأمر بتطويع القوى الإمارة للنفس المطمئنة بالشرائع الدينية و السياسات الإلهية رياضة للجسد و هواه - و مجاهدة للنفس الأدمية مع أعداء من قواه لينخرط معها في سلك التوجه إلى جناب الحق من عالم الزور و معدن الغرور و لا يعاوقها بل يشايعها في مطالبها و يرافقها في مآربها.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤

ثم إنني قد صرفت قوتي في سالف الزمان منذ أول الحداثة و الريعان في الفلسفة الإلهية بمقدار ما أوتيت من المقدور و بلغ إليه قسطني من السعي الموفور - و اقتفيت آثار الحكماء السابقين و الفضلاء اللاحقين مقتبسا من نتائج خواطيرهم و أنظارهم مستفيدا من أبكار ضمايرهم و أسرارهم و حصلت ما وجدته في كتب اليونانيين و الرؤساء المعلمين تحصيلًا يختار اللباب من كل باب و يجتاز عن التطويل و الإطناب مجتنبًا في ذلك طول الأمل مع قصر العمل معرضًا من إسهاب الجدل مع اقتراب الساعة و الأجل طلبًا للجاه الوهمي و تشوقًا إلى الترويس الخيالي من غير أن يظفر من الحكمة بطائل أو يرجع البحث إلى حاصل كما يرى من أكثر أبناء الزمان من مزاولي كتب العلم و العرفان من حيث كونهم منكبين أولاً بتمام الجد على مصنفات العلماء منصبين بكمال الجهد إلى مؤلفات الفضلاء ثم عن قليل يشبعون عن كل فن بسرعة و

يقنعون عن كل دن بجرعة لعدم وجدانهم فيها ما حداهم إليها شهواتهم شهوات العنين - و دواعيهم دواعي الجنين و لهذا لم ينالوا من العلم نصيبا كثيرا و لا الشقي الغوي منهم يصير سعيدا بصيرا بل ترى من المشتغلين ما يرجي طول عمره في البحث و التكرار آناء الليل و أطراف النهار ثم يرجع بخفي حنين و يصير مطرحا للعار و الشين و هم المذكورون في قوله تعالى قُلْ هَلْ نُنَبِّئُكُمْ بِالْأَخْسَرِينَ أَعْمَالًا الَّذِينَ ضَلَّ سَعْيُهُمْ فِي الْحَيَاةِ الدُّنْيَا وَ هُمْ

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٥

يَحْسِبُونَ أَنَّهُمْ يُحْسِنُونَ صُنْعًا أعادنا الله من هذه الورطة المدهشة و الظلمة الموحشة و إنني لقد صادفت أصدافا علمية في بحر الحكمة الزاخرة مدعمة بدعائم البراهين الباهرة مشحونة بدرر من نكات فاخرة مكنونة فيها لآلىء دقائق زاهرة - و كنت برهة من الزمان أجيل رأيي أردد قداحي و أوامر نفسي و أنزع سري حديبا على أهل الطلب و من له في تحقيق الحق أرب في أن أشق تلك الأصداف السمينية و أستخرج منها دررها الثمينية و أروق بمصفاة الفكر صفافها من كدرها و أنخل بمنخل الطبيعة لبابها عن قشورها و أصنف كتابا جامعا لشتات ما وجدته في كتب الأقدمين مشتملا على خلاصة أقوال المشائين و نقاوة أذواق أهل الإشراف من الحكماء الروافيين مع زوائد لم توجد في كتب أهل الفن من حكماء الإعصار و فرائد لم يجد بها طبع أحد من علماء الأدوار و لم يسمح بمثله دورات السماوات و لم يشاهد شبهه في عالم الحركات و لكن العوائق كانت تمنع من المراد و عوادي الأيام تضرب دون بلوغ الغرض بالأسداد فأقعديني الأيام عن القيام و حجبني الدهر عن الاتصال إلى المرام لما رأيت من معادات الدهر بتربية الجهلة و الأرذال و شعشة نيران الجهالة و الضلال و رثاثة الحال و ركافة الرجال - و قد ابتلينا بجماعة غاربي الفهم تعمش عيونهم عن أنوار الحكمة و أسرارها تكل بصائرهم كأبصار الخفافيش عن أضواء المعرفة و آثارها يرون التعمق في الأمور

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٦

الربانية و التدبر في الآيات السبحانية بدعة و مخالفة أوضاع جماهير الخلق من الهمج الرعاع ضلالة و خدعة كأنهم الحنابلة من كتب الحديث المتشابه عندهم الواجب و الممكن و القديم و الحديث لم يتعد نظرهم عن طور الأجسام و مساميرها - و لم يرتق فكرهم عن هذه الهياكل المظلمة و دياجيرها فحرموا لمعاداتهم العلم و العرفان و رفضهم بالكلية طريق الحكمة و الإيقان عن العلوم المقدسة الإلهية و الأسرار الشريفة الربانية التي رمزت الأنبياء و الأولياء عليها و أشارت الحكماء و العرفاء إليها - فأصبح الجهل باهر الرايات ظاهر الآيات فأعدموا العلم و فضله و استرذلوا العرفان و أهله و انصرفوا عن الحكمة زاهدين و منعوها معاندين ينفرون الطباع عن الحكماء و يطرحون العلماء العرفاء و الأصفياء و كل من كان في بحر الجهل و الحمق أولج و عن ضياء المعقول و المنقول أسرج كان إلى أوج القبول و الإقبال أوصل و عند أرباب الزمان أعلم و أفضل -

كم عالم لم يلج بالقرع باب منى و جاهل قبل قرع الباب قد ولجا

و كيف و رؤسائهم قوم أعزل من صلاح الفضل و السداد عارية مناكبهم عن لباس العقل و الرشاد صدورهم عن حلي الآداب أعطال و وجوههم عن سمات الخير أغفال فلما رأيت الحال على هذا المنوال من خلو الديار عمن يعرف قدر الأسرار - و علوم الأحرار و أنه قد اندرس العلم و أسرارها و انطمس الحق و أنواره و ضاعت السير العادلة و شاعت الآراء

الباطلة ولقد أصبح عين ماء الحيوان غائرة وظلت تجارة أهلها باثرة وآبت وجوههم بعد نضارتها باسرة وآلت حال صفقتهم خائبة خاسرة- ضربت عن أبناء الزمان صفحا وطويت عنهم كشحا فالجاني خمود الفطنة وجمود الطبيعة لمعاداة الزمان وعدم مساعدة الدوران إلى أن انزويت في بعض نواحي الديار واستترت بالخموم والانكسار منقطع الآمال منكسر البال متوفرا على فرض أوديه و تفريط في جنب الله أسعى في تلافيه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٧

لا على درس أقيه أو تأليف أتصرف فيه إذ أتصرف في العلوم والصناعات وإفادة المباحث ودفع المعضلات وتبيين المقاصد ورفع المشكلات مما يحتاج إلى تصفية الفكر وتهذيب الخيال عما يوجب الملل والاختلال واستقامة الأوضاع والأحوال مع فراغ البال ومن أين يحصل للإنسان مع هذه المكاه التي يسمع ويرى من أهل الزمان ويشاهد مما يكتب عليه الناس في هذا الأوان من قلة الإنصاف وكثرة الاعتساف- وخفض الأعالي والأفاضل ورفع الأداني والأراذل وظهور الجاهل الشرير والعامي النكير على صورة العالم التحرير وهيئة الحبر الخبير إلى غير ذلك من القبائح والمفاسد الفاشية اللازمة والمتعدية مجال المخاطبة في المقال وتقرير الجواب عن السؤال- فضلا عن حل المعضلات وتبيين المشكلات كما نظمها بعض إخواني في الفرس.

قفل گوهر ساز یاقوت زمرد پوش را

از سخن پر در مکن همچون صدف هر گوش را

چشم بینا عذر میخواهد لب خاموش را

در جواب هر سوالی حاجت گفتار نیست

فكنت أولا كما قال سيدي ومولاي ومعتدي أول الأئمة والأوصياء وأبو الأئمة الشهداء الأولياء قسيم الجنة والنار آخذا بالتقية ومدارة مع الأشرار مخلا عن مورد الخلافة قليل الأنصار مطلق الدنيا مؤثر الآخرة على الأولى مولى كل من كان له رسول الله مولى وأخوه وابن عمه ومساهمه في طمه ورمه طفقت أرثني بين أن أصول بيد جذاء أو أصبر على طخية عمياء يهرم فيها الكبير ويشيب فيها الصغير ويكدح فيها مؤمن حتى يلقي ربه فصرت ثانيا عنان الاقتداء بسيرته عاطفا وجه الاهتداء بسنته- فرأيت أن الصبر على هاتي أحجى فصبرت وفي العين قذى وفي الحلق شجى فأمسكت عناني عن الاشتغال بالناس ومخالطتهم وآيست عن مرافقتهم وموانستهم وسهلت علي معاداة الدوران ومعاندة أبناء الزمان وخلصت عن إنكارهم وإقرارهم وتساوى عندي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٨

إعزازهم وإضرارهم فتوجهت توجها غريزيا نحو مسبب الأسباب وتضرعت تضرعا جبليا إلى مسهل الأمور الصعاب فلما بقيت على هذا الحال من الاستتار والإنزواء والخمول والاعتزال زمانا مديدا وأما بعيدا اشتعلت نفسي لطول المجاهدات اشتعالا نوريا- والتهب قلبي لكثرة الرياضات التهايا قويا ففاضت عليها أنوار الملكوت وحلت بها خبايا الجبروت ولحقتها الأضواء الأحدية وتداركتها الألفاظ الإلهية فاطلعت على أسرار لم أكن أطلع عليها إلى الآن و انكشفت لي رموز لم تكن منكشفة هذا الانكشاف من البرهان بل كل ما علمته من قبل بالبرهان عينته مع زوائد بالشهود والعيان من الأسرار الإلهية والحقائق الربانية والودائع اللاهوتية والخبايا الصمدانية فاستروح العقل من أنوار الحق بكرة وعشيا وقرب بها منه وخلص إليه نجيا فركا بظواهر جوارحه فإذا هو ماء ثجاج وزوى بباطن تعقلاته

للطالبين فإذا هو بحر موج أودية الفهوم سالت من فيضه بقدرها و جداول العقول فاضت من رشحه بنهرها فأبرزت الأوادي على سواحل الأسماع جواهر ثاقبة و دررا و أنبتت الجداول على الشواطئ زواهر ناضرة و ثمرها و حيث كان من دأب الرحمة الإلهية و شريعة العناية الربانية أن لا يهمل أمرا ضروريا يحتاج إليه الأشخاص بحسب الاستعداد و لا ييخل بشيء نافع في مصالح العباد فاقترضت رحمته أن لا يختفي في البطون و الأستار هذه المعاني المنكشفة لي من مفيض عالم الأسرار و لا يبقى في الكتمان و الاحتجاب الأنوار الفائضة علي من نور الأنوار فالهمني الله الإفاضة مما شربنا جرعة للعطاش الطالبين و الإلاحه مما وجدنا لعمه لقلوب السالكين ليحيا من شرب منه جرعة و يتنور قلب من وجد منه لعمه فبلغ الكتاب أجله و أراد الله تقديمه و قد كان أجله فأظهره في الوقت الذي قدره و أبرزه على من له يسره فرأيت إخراجهم من القوة إلى الفعل و التكميل و إبرازهم من الخفاء إلى الوجود و التحصيل فأعملت فيه فكري و جمعت على ضم شوارده أمري و سألت الله تعالى أن يشد أزرى و يحط بكرمه وزري و يشرح لإتمامه صدرى فنهضت عزيمتي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٩

بعد ما كانت قاعدة و هبت همتي غب ما كانت راكدة و اهتز الخامد من نشايطي و تموج الجامد من انبساطي و قلت لنفسي هذا أوان الاهتمام و الشروع و ذكر أصول يستنبط منها الفروع و تحلية الأسماع بجواهر المعاني الفائقة و إبراز الحق في صورته المعجبة الرائقة فصنفت كتابا إلهيا للسالكين المشتغلين بتحصيل الكمال و أبرزت حكمة ربانية للطالبين لأسرار حضرة ذي الجمال و الجلال كاد أن يتجلى الحق فيه بالنور الموجب للظهور و قرب أن ينكشف بها كل مرموز و مستور و قد أطلعني الله فيه على المعاني المتساطعة أنوارها في معارف ذاته و صفاته مع تجوال عقول العقلاء حول جنباه- و ترجاعهم حاسرين و ألهمني بنصره المؤيد به من يشاء من عباده الحقائق المتعالية أسرارها في استكشاف مبدئه و معاده مع تطواف فهوم الفضلاء حريم حماه و تردادهم خاسرين فجاء بحمد الله كلاما لا عوج فيه و لا ارتياب و لا لجلجة و لا اضطراب يعتريه حافظا للأوضاع رامزا مشبعا في مقام الرمز و الإشباع قريبا من الأفهام في نهاية علوه رفيعا عاليا في المقام مع غاية دنوه إذ قد اندمجت فيه العلوم التأهيلية- في الحكمة البحثية و تدرعت فيه الحقائق الكشفية بالبيانات التعليمية و تسربت الأسرار الربانية بالعبارات المأنوسة للطباع و استعملت المعاني الغامضة في الألفاظ القريبة من الأسماع فالبراهين تتبختر اتضاحا و شبه الجاهلين للحق تتضاءل افتضاحا- انظر بعين عقلك إلى معانيه هل تنظر فيه من قصور ثُمَّ ارْجِعِ الْبَصَرَ كَرَّتَيْنِ إلى الفاظه- هَلْ تَرَى فِيهِ مِنْ فُطُورٍ و قد أشرت في رموزه إلى كنوز من الحقائق لا يهتدي إلى معناها إلا من عنى نفسه بالمجاهدات العقلية حتى يعرف المطالب و نبهت في فصوله إلى أصول لا يطلع على مغزاها إلا من أتعب بدنه في الرياضات الدينية لكيلا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٠

يذوق المشرب و قد صنفته لإخواني في الدين و رفقائي في طريق الكشف و اليقين لأنه لا ينتفع بها كثير الانتفاع إلا من أحاط بأكثر كلام العقلاء و وقف على مضمون مصنفات الحكماء غير محتجب بمعلومه و لا منكرا لما وراء مفهومه فإن الحق لا ينحصر بحسب فهم كل ذي فهم و لا يتقدر بقدر كل عقل و وهم فإن وجدته أيها الناظر مخالفا لما اعتقدته أو

فهيمته بالذوق السليم فلا تنكره وَفَوْقَ كُلِّ ذِي عِلْمٍ عَلِيمٌ فافقهن أن من احتجب بمعلومه و أنكر ما وراء مفهومه فهو موقوف على حد علمه و عرفانه محجوب عن خبايا أسرار ربه و ديانته.

و إني أيضا لا أزعم أنني قد بلغت الغاية فيما أوردته كلا فإن وجوه الفهم لا تنحصر فيما فهمت و لا تحصى و معارف الحق لا تتقيد بما رسمت و لا تحوى لأن الحق أوسع من أن يحيط به عقل و حد و أعظم من أن يحصره عقد دون عقد فإن أحللت بالعناية الربانية مشكلها و فتحت بالهداية الإلهية معضلها فاشكر ربك على قدر ما هداك من الحكم و أحمدته على ما أسبغ عليك من النعم و اقتد بقول سيد الكونين و مرآة العالمين عليه و على آله من الصلوات أنماها و من التسليمات أزكاها- لا تؤتوا الحكمة غير أهلها فتضلوها و لا تمنعوا أهلها فتظلموها فعليك بتقديسها عن الجلود الميتة و إياك و استيداعها إلا للأنفس الحية كما قرره و أوصى به الحكماء الكبار أولي الأيدي و الأبصار.

و اعلم أنني ربما تجاوزت عن الاختصار على ما هو الحق عندي و اعتمد عليه اعتقادي إلى ذكر طرائق القوم و ما يتوجه إليها و ما يرد عليها ثم نهت عليه في أثناء النقد و التزييف و الهدم و الترسيف و الذب عنها بقدر الوسع و الإمكان و ذلك لتشحيذ الخواطر بها و تقوية الأذهان من حيث اشتغالها على

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١١

تصورات غريبة لطيفة و تصرفات مليحة شريفة تعد نفوس الطالبين للحق ملكة لاستخراج المسائل المعضلة و تفيد أذهان المشتغلين بالبحث اطلاعا على المباحث المشكلة و الحق أن أكثر المباحث المثبتة في الدفاتر المكتوبة في بطون الأوراق إنما الفائدة فيه مجرد الانتباه- و الإحاطة بأفكار أولي الدارية و الأنظار لحصول الشوق إلى الوصول لا الاكتفاء بانتقاش النفوس بنقوش المعقول أو المنقول فإن مجرد ذلك مما لا يحصل به اطمينان القلب- و سكون النفس و راحة البال و طيب المذاق بل هي مما يعد الطالب لسبيل المعرفة و الوصول إلى الأسرار إن كان مقتديا بطريقة الأبرار متصفا بصفات الأخيار- و ليعلم أن معرفة الله تعالى و علم المعاد و علم طريق الآخرة ليس المراد بها الاعتقاد الذي تلقاه العامي أو الفقيه وراثته و تلقفا فإن المشغوف بالتقليد و المجمود على الصورة لم يفتح له طريق الحقائق كما يفتح للكرام الإلهيين و لا يتمثل له ما ينكشف للعارفين المستصغرين لعالم الصورة و الذات المحسوسة من معرفة خلاق الخلائق و حقيقة الحقائق و لا ما هو طريق تحرير الكلام و المجادلة في تحسين المرام كما هو عادة المتكلم و ليس أيضا هو مجرد البحث البحث كما هو دأب أهل النظر و غاية أصحاب المباحثة و الفكر فإن جميعها ظلماتٌ بعضُها فوق بعضٍ إذا أخرج يده لم يكد يراها و من لم يجعل الله له نورا فما له من نورٍ بل ذلك نوع يقين هو ثمرة نور يقذف في قلب المؤمن بسبب اتصاله بعالم القدس و الطهارة و خلوصه بالمجاهدة عن الجهل و الأخلاق الذميمة و حب الرئاسة و الإخلاص إلى الأرض و الركون إلى زخارف الأجساد و إني لأستغفر الله كثيرا مما ضيعت شطرا من عمري- في تتبع آراء المتفلسفة و المجادلين من أهل الكلام و تدقيقاتهم و تعلم جربزتهم في القول و تفننهم في البحث حتى تبين لي آخر الأمر بنور الإيمان و تأييد الله المنان أن قياسهم عقيم و صراطهم غير مستقيم فآلقينا زمام أمرنا إليه و إلى رسوله النذير المنذر فكل ما بلغنا منه آمنا به و صدقناه و لم نحتل أن نخيل له وجهها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٢

عقليا و مسلکا بحثيا بل اقتدينا بهداه و انتهينا بنهيته امتثالا لقوله تعالى مَا آتَاكُمُ الرَّسُولُ فَخُذُوهُ وَمَا نَهَاكُمْ عَنْهُ فَانْتَهُوا حتى فتح الله على قلبنا ما فتح فأفلح ببركة متابعتة و أنجح.

فابدأ يا حبيبي قبل قراءة هذا الكتاب بتزكية نفسك عن هواها قَدْ أَفْلَحَ مَنْ زَكَّاهَا وَقَدْ خَابَ مَنْ دَسَّاهَا و استحکم أولا أساس المعرفة و الحكمة - ثم ارق ذراها و إلا كنت ممن أتى اللَّهُ بُنْيَانَهُمْ مِنَ الْقَوَاعِدِ فَخَرَّ عَلَيْهِمُ السَّقْفُ إذ أتاهم و لا تشتغل بترهات عوام الصوفية من الجهلة و لا تركز إلى أقاويل المتفلسفة جملة فإنها فتنة مضلة و للأقدام عن جادة الصواب مزلّة و هم الذين إذا جَاءَتْهُمْ رُسُلُهُم بِالْبَيِّنَاتِ فَرِحُوا بِمَا عِنْدَهُمْ مِنَ الْعِلْمِ وَ حَاقَ بِهِمْ مَا كَانُوا بِهِ يَسْتَهْزِئُونَ وقانا الله و إياك شرهاتين الطائفتين و لا جمع بيننا و بينهم طرفة عين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٣

الأسفار الأربعة و اعلم أن للسلاك من العرفاء و الأولياء أسفارا أربعة - أحدها السفر من الخلق إلى الحق. و ثانيها السفر بالحق في الحق.

و السفر الثالث يقابل الأول لأنه من الحق إلى الخلق بالحق.

و الرابع يقابل الثاني من وجه لأنه بالحق في الخلق.

فرتبت كتابي هذا طبق حركاتهم في الأنوار و الآثار على أربعه أسفار و سميته بالحكمة المتعالية في الأسفار العقلية فها أنا أفيض في المقصود مستعينا بالحق المعبود الصمد الموجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٩

الجزء الأول من الأمور العامة أو العلم الإلهي بالمعنى الأعم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٠

السفر الأول و هو الذي من الخلق إلى الحق في النظر إلى طبيعة الوجود و عوارضه الذاتية و فيه مسالك

المسلك الأول في المعارف التي يحتاج إليها الإنسان في جميع العلوم

و فيه مقدمة و ستة مراحل

المقدمة في تعريف الفلسفة و تقسيمها الأولي و غايتها و شرفها

اعلم أن الفلسفة استكمال النفس الإنسانية بمعرفة حقائق الموجودات على ما هي عليها و الحكم بوجودها تحقيقا بالبراهين لا أخذا بالظن و التقليد بقدر الوسع الإنساني و إن شئت قلت نظم العالم نظما عقليا على حسب الطاقة البشرية - ليحصل التشبه بالباري تعالى و لما جاء الإنسان كالمعجون من خلطين صورة معنوية أمرية و مادة حسية خلقية و كانت لنفسه أيضا جهتا تعلق و تجرد لا جرم افتنت الحكمة بحسب عمارة النشاطين بإصلاح القوتين إلى فنين نظرية تجردية و عملية عقلية - أما النظرية فغايتها انتقاش النفس بصورة الوجود على نظامه بكماله و تمامه - و صيرورتها عالما عقليا مشابها للعالم العيني لا في المادة بل في صورته و ورقشه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢١

و هيئته و نقشه و هذا الفن من الحكمة هو المطلوب لسيد الرسل المسئول في دعائه ص إلى ربه حيث قال

: رب أرنا الأشياء كما هي

و للخليل ع أيضا حين سأل رَبِّ هَبْ لِي حُكْمًا و الحكم هو التصديق بوجود الأشياء المستلزم لتصورها أيضا و أما العملية فثمرتها مباشرة عمل الخير لتحصيل الهيئة الاستعلائية للنفس على البدن و الهيئة الانقيادية الانقهارية للبدن من النفس و إلى هذا الفن أشار بقوله ع

: تخلقوا بأخلاق الله

و استدعى الخليل ع في قوله وَالْحَقْنِي بِالصَّالِحِينَ و إلى فني الحكمة كليهما أشهر في الصحيفة الإلهية لَقَدْ خَلَقْنَا الْإِنْسَانَ فِي أَحْسَنِ تَقْوِيمٍ و هي صورته التي هي طراز عالم الأمر ثُمَّ رَدَدْنَاهُ أَسْفَلَ سَافِلِينَ و هي مادته التي هي من الأجسام المظلمة الكثيفة إِلَّا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا إشارة إلى غاية الحكمة النظرية وَعَمِلُوا الصَّالِحَاتِ إشارة إلى تمام الحكمة العملية و للإشعار بأن المعتبر من كمال القوة العملية ما به نظام المعاش و نجاة المعاد و من النظرية العلم بأحوال المبدأ و المعاد و التدبر فيما بينهما من حق النظر و الاعتبار قال أمير المؤمنين ع

: رحم الله امرأً أعَدَ لنفسه و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٢

استعد لرمسه و علم من أين و في أين و إلى أين

و إلى ذينك الفنين رمزت الفلاسفة الإلهيون حيث قالوا تأسيا بالأنبياء ع الفلسفة هي التشبه بالآله

كما وقع في الحديث النبوي ص: تخلقوا بأخلاق الله

يعني في الإحاطة بالمعلومات و التجرد عن الجسمانيات.

ثم لا يخفى شرف الحكمة من جهات عديدة منها أنها صارت سببا لوجود الأشياء على الوجه الأكمل بل سببا لنفس الوجود إذ ما لم يعترف الوجود على ما هو عليه - لا يمكن إيجاده و إيلاده و الوجود خير محض و لا شرف إلا في الخير الوجودي و هذا المعنى مرموز في قوله تعالى وَمَنْ يُؤْتَ الْحِكْمَةَ فَقَدْ أُوتِيَ خَيْرًا كَثِيرًا و بهذا الاعتبار سمي الله تعالى نفسه حكيما في مواضع شتى من كتابه المجيد الذي هو تَنْزِيلٌ مِنْ حَكِيمٍ حَمِيدٍ و وصف أنبياءه و أوليائه بالحكمة و سماهم ربانيين حكماء بحقائق الهويات فقال وَإِذْ أَخَذَ اللَّهُ مِيثَاقَ النَّبِيِّينَ لَمَا آتَيْتُكُمْ مِنْ كِتَابٍ وَحِكْمَةٍ وَقَالَ خُصُوصًا فِي شَأْنِ لُقْمَانَ وَلَقَدْ آتَيْنَا لُقْمَانَ الْحِكْمَةَ كل ذلك في سياق الإحسان و معرض الامتنان و لا معنى للحكيم إلا الموصوف بالحكمة المذكورة حدها التي لا يستطيع ردها و من الظاهر المكشوف أن ليس في الوجود أشرف من ذات المعبود - و رسله الهداة إلى أوضح سبله و كلا من هؤلاء وصفه تعالى بالحكمة فقد انجلى وجه شرفها و مجدها فيجب إذن انتهاج معالم غورها و نجدها فلنأت على إهداء تحف منها و إيتاء طرف فيها و لنقبل على تمهيد أصولها و قوانينها و تلخيص حججها و براهينها بقدر ما يتأتى لنا و جمع متفرقات شتى واردة علينا من المبدأ الأعلى فإن مفاتيح الفضل بيد الله يُؤْتِيهِ مَنْ يَشَاءُ**

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٣

المرحلة الأولى في الوجود وأقسامه الأولية

و فيها مناهج

الأول في أحوال نفس الوجود

و فيه فصول

فصل (١) في موضوعيته للعلم الإلهي و أولية ارتسامه في النفس

اعلم أن الإنسان قد ينعت بأنه واحد أو كثير و بأنه كلي أو جزئي و بأنه بالفعل أو بالقوة و قد ينعت بأنه مساو لشيء أو أصغر منه أو أكبر و قد ينعت بأنه متحرك أو ساكن و بأنه حار أو بارد أو غير ذلك ثم إنه لا يمكن أن يوصف الشيء بما يجري مجرى أوسط هذه الأوصاف إلا من جهة أنه ذو كم و لا يمكن أن يوصف بما يجري مجرى آخرها إلا من جهة أنه ذو مادة قابلة للتغيرات لكنه لا يحتاج في أن يكون واحدا أو كثيرا إلى أن يصير رياضيا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤

أو طبيعيا بل لأنه موجود هو صالح لأن يوصف بوحدة أو كثرة و ما ذكر معهما فإذن كما أن للأشياء التعليمية أوصافا و خواص يبحث عنها في الرياضيات من الهيئة و الهندسة و الحساب و الموسيقى و للأشياء الطبيعية أعراضا ذاتية يبحث عنها في الطبيعيات بأقسامها كذلك للموجود بما هو موجود عوارض ذاتية يبحث عنها في العلوم الإلهية - فموضوع العلم الإلهي هو الموجود المطلق و مسأله إما بحث عن الأسباب القصوى لكل موجود معلول كالسبب الأول الذي هو فياض كل وجود معلول من حيث إنه وجود معلول و إما بحث عن عوارض الموجود بما هو موجود و إما بحث عن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٥

موضوعات سائر العلوم الجزئية فموضوعات سائر العلوم الباقية كالأعراض الذاتية لموضوع هذا العلم و سيتضح لك من طريقتنا في تحقيق مباحث الوجود التي هي حقيقة دار الأسرار الإلهية أن الماهيات من الأعراض الأولية الذاتية لحقيقة الوجود كما أن الوحدة و الكثرة و غيرهما من المفهومات العامة من العوارض الذاتية لمفهوم الموجود بما هو موجود فاستقام كون الموضوعات لسائر العلوم أعراضا في الفلسفة الأولى و بالجملة هذا العلم لفرط علوه و شموله باحث عن أحوال الموجود بما هو موجود و أقسامه الأولية فيجب أن يكون الموجود المطلق بينا بنفسه مستقيما عن التعريف و الإثبات و إلا لم يكن موضوعا للعلم العام و أيضا التعريف إما أن يكون بالحد أو بالرسم و كلا القسمين باطل في الموجود.

أما الأول فلأنه إنما يكون بالجنس و الفصل و الوجود لكونه أعم الأشياء لا جنس له فلا فصل له فلا حد له.

و أما الثاني فلأنه تعريف بالأعرف و لا أعرف من الوجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٦

فمن رام بيان الوجود بأشياء على أنها هي أظهر منه فقد أخطأ خطأ فاحشا و لما لم يكن للوجود حد فلا برهان عليه لأن الحد و البرهان متشاركان في حدودهما على ما تبين في القسطاس و كما أن من التصديق ما لا يمكن إدراكه ما لم يدرك قبله أشياء آخر مثل أن نريد أن نعلم أن العقل موجود نحتاج أولا إلى أن نحصل تصديقات أخرى و لا محالة ينتهي إلى تصديق لا يتقدمه تصديق آخر

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٧

بل يكون واجبا بنفسه أوليا بينا عند العقل بذاته كالقول بأن الشيء شيء و أن الشيء ليس بنقيضه و أن النقيضين لا يجتمعان و لا يرتفعان في الواقع و عن الواقع - فكذا القول في باب التصور فليس إذا احتاج تصور إلى تصور يتقدمه يلزم ذلك في كل تصور بل لا بد من الانتهاء إلى تصور يقف و لا يتصل بتصور سابق عليه كالوجوب و الإمكان و الوجود فإن هذه و نظائرها معان صحيحة مركوزة في الذهن مرتسمة في العقل ارتساما أوليا فطريا فمتى قصد إظهار هذه المعاني بالكلام فيكون ذلك تنبيها للذهن و إخطارا بالبال و تعيينا لها بالإشارة من سائر المرتكزات في العقل - لإفادتها بأشياء هي أشهر منها.

و أما إثبات الوجود لموضوع هذا العلم أي الموجود بما هو موجود فمستغن عنه بل غير صحيح بالحقيقة لأن إثبات الشيء لنفسه غير ممكن لو أريد به حقيقة الإثبات و خصوصا إذا كان ذلك الشيء نفس الثبوت فإن الثابت أو الموجود أو غيرهما من المرادفات نفس مفهوم الثبوت و الوجود كما أن المضاف بالحقيقة هو نفس الإضافة لا غيرها إلا بحسب المجاز سواء كان الوجود وجود شيء آخر أو وجود حقيقته و ذاته و هو بما هو هو أي المطلق لا يأبى شيئا من القسمين و ليس يستوجب برهان و لا تبين بضرورة أن الكون في الواقع دائما هو كون شيء فقط أو كون نفسه البتة بل البرهان و الحس أوجبا القسمين جميعا الثاني كالوجود الذي لا سبب له و الأول كالوجود الذي يتعلق بالأجسام فالوجود الغير المتعلق بشيء هو موجودية نفسه و الوجود العارض هو موجودية غيره

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٨

غشاوة وهمية وإزاحة عقلية

لما تيقنت أن الفلسفة الأولى باحثة عن أحوال الموجود بما هو موجود و عن أقسامه الأولية أي التي يمكن أن يعرض للموجود من غير أن يصير رياضيا أو طبيعيا و بالجملة أمرا متخصص الاستعداد لعروض تلك الأقسام سواء كانت القسمية بها مستوفاة أم لا و ربما كانت القسمية مستوفاة و الأقسام لا تكون أولية فلا يكون البحث عنها من الفن الأعلى بل يكون من العلم الأسفل كقسمة الموجود إلى الأسود و اللاأسود بالسلب المطلق فتأمل في ذلك و اقض العجب من قوم اضطرب كلامهم في تفسير الأمور العامة التي يبحث عنها في إحدى الفلسفتين الإلهيتين - بل تحيروا في موضوعات العلوم كما سيظهر لك فإنهم فسروا الأمور العامة تارة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٩

بما لا يختص بقسم من أقسام الموجود التي هي الواجب و الجوهر و العرض فانتقض بدخول الكم المتصل العارض

للجوهر و العرض فإن الجسم التعليمي يعرض المادة و السطح يعرض الجسم التعليمي و يعرضه الخط و كذا الكيف لعروضه للجواهر و الأعراض و تارة بما يشمل الموجودات أو أكثرها فيخرج منه الوجوب الذاتي و الوحدة الحقيقية و العلية المطلقة و أمثالها مما يختص بالواجب و تارة بما يشمل الموجودات - إما على الإطلاق أو على سبيل التقابل بأن يكون هو و ما يقابله شاملا لها و لشموله الأحوال المختصة زيد قيد آخر و هو أن يتعلق بكل من المتقابلين غرض علمي - و اعترض عليه بعض أجلة المتأخرين بأنه إن أريد بالمقابلة ما ينحصر في التضاد و التضاييف و السلب و الإيجاب و العدم و الملكة فالإمكان و الوجوب ليسا من هذا القبيل إذ مقابل كل منهما بهذا المعنى كاللاوجوب و اللإمكان أو ضرورة الطرفين أو سلب ضرورة الطرف الموافق لا يتعلق به غرض علمي و إن أريد بها مطلق المباشنة و المنافاة فالأحوال المختصة بكل واحد من الثلاثة مع الأحوال المختصة بالآخرين تشمل جميع الموجودات و يتعلق بجميعها الغرض العلمي فإنها من المقاصد العلمية.

ثم ارتكبوا في رفع الإشكال تمحلات شديدة.

و منها أن الأمور العامة هي المشتقات و ما في حكمها.

و منها أن المراد شمولها مع مقابل واحد يتعلق بالطرفين غرض علمي و تلك الأحوال إما أمور متكررة و إما غير متعلقة بطرفيها غرض علمي كقبول الخرق و الالتيام و عدم قبولهما بمعنى السلب لا بمعنى عدم الملكة.

و منها أن المراد بالتقابل ما هو أعم من أن يكون بالذات أو بالعرض و بين الواجب و الممكن تقابل بالعرض كما بين الوحدة و الكثرة و غفلوا عن صدقها بهذا المعنى على الأحوال الخاصة إلى غير ذلك من التكاليفات و التعسفات الباردة - و أنت إذا تذكرت أن أقسام الحكمة الإلهية ما يبحث فيها عن العوارض

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٠

الذاتية للموجود المطلق بما هو موجود مطلق أي العوارض التي لا يتوقف عروضها للموجود على أن يصير تعليميا أو طبيعيا لاستغنيته عن هذه التكاليفات و أشباهها إذ بملاحظة هذه الحيثية في الأمر العام مع تقييده بكونه من النعوت الكلية ليخرج البحث عن الذوات لا بما يختص بقسم من الموجود كما توهم يندفع عنه النقوض و يتم التعريف سالما عن الخلل و الفساد و مثل هذا التحير و الاضطراب وقع لهم في موضوعات سائر العلوم بيان ذلك أن موضوع كل علم كما تقرر ما يبحث فيه عن عوارضه الذاتية - و قد فسروا العرض الذاتي بالخارج المحمول الذي يلحق الشيء لذاته أو لأمر يساويه - فأشكل الأمر عليهم لما رأوا أنه قد يبحث في العلوم عن الأحوال التي يختص ببعض أنواع الموضوع بل ما من علم إلا و يبحث فيه عن الأحوال المختصة ببعض أنواع موضوعه - فاضطروا تارة إلى إسناد المسامحة إلى رؤساء العلم في أقوالهم بأن المراد من العرض

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٢

الذاتي الموضوع في كلامهم هو أعم من أن يكون عرضا ذاتيا له أو لنوعه - أو عرضا عاما لنوعه بشرط عدم تجاوزه في العموم عن أصل موضوع العلم أو عرضا ذاتيا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٣

لنوع من العرض الذاتي لأصل الموضوع أو عرضا عاما له بالشرط المذكور و تارة إلى الفرق بين محمول العلم و محمول المسألة كما فرقوا بين موضوعيهما بأن محمول العلم ما ينحل إليه محمولات المسائل على طريق الترديد إلى غير ذلك من الهوسات التي ينبو عنها الطبع السليم و لم يتفطنوا بأن ما يختص بنوع من أنواع الموضوع ربما يعرض لذات الموضوع بما هو هو و أخصية الشيء من شيء لا ينافي عروضة لذلك الشيء من حيث هو هو و ذلك كالفصول المنوعة للأجناس فإن الفصل المقسم عارض لذات الجنس من حيث ذاته مع أنه أخص منها- و العوارض الذاتية أو الغريبة للأنواع قد تكون أعراضا أولية ذاتية للجنس و قد لا تكون كذلك و إن كانت مما يقع به القسمة المستوفاة الأولية فاستيعاب القسمة الأولية قد يكون بغير أعراض أولية و قد يتحقق أعراض أولية و لا تقع بها القسمة المستوعبة نعم كل ما يلحق الشيء لأمر أخص و كان ذلك الشيء مفتقرا في لحوقه له إلى أن يصير نوعا متهيئا لقبوله ليس عرضا ذاتيا بل عرض غريب على ما هو مصرح به في كتب الشيخ و غيره كما أن ما يلحق الموجود بعد أن يصير تعليميا أو طبيعيا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٤

ليس البحث عنه من العلم الإلهي في شيء و ما أظهر لك أن تتفطن بأن لحوق الفصول لطبيعة الجنس كالاستقامة و الانحناء للخط مثلا ليس أن يصير نوعا متخصص الاستعداد بل التخصص إنما يحصل بها لا قبلها فهي مع كونها أخص من طبيعة الجنس أعراض أولية له و من عدم التفطن بما ذكرناه استصعب عليهم الأمر حتى حكموا بوقوع التدافع في كلام الشيخ و غيره من الراسخين في الحكمة- حيث صرحوا بأن اللاحق لشيء لأمر أخص إذا كان ذلك الشيء محتاجا في لحوقه له إلى أن يصير نوعا ليس عرضا ذاتيا بل عرضا غريبا مع أنهم مثلوا العرض الذاتي الشامل على سبيل التقابل بالاستقامة و الانحناء المنوعين للخط و لست أدري أي تناقض في ذلك سوى أنهم لما توهموا أن الأخص من الشيء لا يكون عرضا أوليا له- حكموا بأن مثل الاستقامة و الاستدارة لا يكون عرضا أوليا للخط بل العرض الأولي له هو المفهوم المردد بينهما.

و مما يجب أن يعلم أن بعض الأمور التي ليست ماهياتها مفتقرة في الوجودين العيني و الذهني إلى المادة لكنها مما قد يعرض لها أن يصير رياضيا كالكم أو طبيعيا كالكيف قد لا يبحث عنها في العلم الكلي بل يفرد لها علم على حدة كالحساب للعدد- أو يبحث عنها في علم أسفل كالبحث عن الكيفيات في الطبيعيات و ذلك بأحد وجهين- الأول أنه يعتبر كونها عارضة للمواد بوجه من الوجوه و يبحث عنها بهذا الاعتبار في علم مفرد فإن العدد يعتبر تارة من حيث هو و بهذا الاعتبار يكون من جملة الأمور المجردة عن المادة و يبحث عنه في باب الوحدة و الكثرة من الأمور العامة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٥

و يعتبر أخرى من حيث تعلقه بالمادة لا في الوهم بل في الخارج و يبحث عنه بهذا الاعتبار في التعاليم فإنهم يبحثون عن الجمع و التفريق و الضرب و القسمة و التجذير و التكعيب و غيرها مما يلحق العدد و هو في أوهام الناس أو في موجودات متحركة منقسمة متفرقة مجتمعة.

و الثاني أن يبحث عنها لا مطلقا بل عن بعض أنواعها التي لا توجد إلا باستعداد المادة و حركاتها و استحالاتها فاللائق

بالبحث عنه إنما هو العلم الأسفل فإن اتفق أن يذكر بعض أحوالها فيه على الوجه العام كان ذلك على سبيل المبدئية لا على أن يكون من المسائل هاهنا

فصل (٢) في أن مفهوم الوجود مشترك محمول على ما تحته حمل التشكيك لا حمل التواطؤ

أما كونه مشتركاً بين الماهيات فهو قريب من الأوليات فإن العقل يجد بين موجود و موجود من المناسبة و المشابهة ما لا يجد مثلها بين موجود و معدوم فإذا لم يكن الموجودات متشاركة في المفهوم بل كانت متباينة من كل الوجوه كان حال بعضها مع البعض كحال الوجود مع العدم في عدم المناسبة و ليست هذه لأجل كونها متحدة في الاسم حتى لو قدرنا أنه وضع لطائفة من الموجودات و المعدومات اسم واحد و لم يوضع للموجودات اسم واحد أصلاً لم تكن المناسبة بين الموجودات و المعدومات المتحدة في الاسم أكثر من التي بين الموجودات الغير المتحدة في الاسم بل و لا مثلها كما حكم به صريح العقل و هذه الحجة راجحة في حق المصنف على كثير من الحجج و البراهين المذكورة في هذا الباب و إن لم يكن مقنعة للمجادل و العجب أن من قال بعدم اشتراكه فقد قال باشتراكه من حيث لا يشعر به لأن الوجود في كل شيء لو كان بخلاف وجود الآخر لم يكن هاهنا شيء واحد يحكم عليه بأنه غير مشترك فيه بل هاهنا مفهومات لا نهاية لها و لا بد من اعتبار كل واحد منها ليعرف أنه هل هو مشترك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٦

فيه أم لا فلما لم يحتج إلى ذلك علم منه أن الوجود مشترك. و أيضاً الرابطة في القضايا و الأحكام ضرب من الوجود و هي في جميع الأحكام - مع اختلافها في الموضوعات و المحمولات معنى واحد و من الشواهد أن رجلاً لو ذكر شعراً و جعل قافية جميع أبياته لفظ الوجود لا يضر كل أحد إلى العلم بأن القافية مكررة بخلاف ما لو جعل قافية جميع الأبيات لفظ العين مثلاً فإنه لم يحكم عليه بأنها مكررة فيه و لو لا أن العلم الضروري حاصل لكل أحد بأن المفهوم من لفظ الوجود واحد في الكل لما حكموا بالتكرير هاهنا كما لم يحكموا في الصورة الأخرى.

و أما كونه محمولاً على ما تحته بالتشكيك أعني بالأولية و الأولية و الأقدمية و الأشدية فلأن الوجود في بعض الموجودات مقتضى ذاته كما سيجيء دون بعض و في بعضها أقدم بحسب الطبع من بعض و في بعضها أتم و أقوى فالوجود الذي لا سبب له أولى بالموجودية من غيره و هو متقدم على جميع الموجودات بالطبع و كذا وجود كل واحد من العقول الفعالة على وجود تاليه و وجود الجوهر متقدم على وجود العرض.

و أيضاً فإن الوجود المفارقة أقوى من الوجود المادي و خصوصاً وجود نفس المادة القابلة فإنها في غاية الضعف حتى كأنها تشبه العدم و المتقدم و المتأخر و كذا الأقوى و الأضعف كالمقومين للوجودات و إن لم يكن كذلك للماهيات فالوجود الواقع في كل مرتبة من المراتب لا يتصور وقوعه في مرتبة أخرى لا سابقة و لا لاحقة - و لا وقوع وجود آخر في مرتبته لا سابق و لا لاحق و المشاءون إذا قالوا إن العقل مثلاً متقدم بالطبع على الهيولى و كل من الهيولى و الصورة متقدم بالطبع أو بالعلية على الجسم فليس مرادهم من هذا أن ماهية شيء من تلك الأمور متقدمة على ماهية الآخر - و حمل الجوهر على الجسم و جزأيه بتقدم و تأخر بل المقصود أن وجود ذلك متقدم على وجود هذا.

و بيان ذلك أن التقدم و التأخر في معنى ما يتصور على وجهين - أحدهما أن يكون بنفس ذلك المعنى حتى يكون ما فيه

التقدم و ما به التقدم شيئا واحدا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٧

كتقدم أجزاء الزمان بعضها على بعض فإن القبلات و البعديات فيها بنفس هوياتها المتجددة المقتضية لذاتها لا بأمر آخر عارض لها كما ستعلم في مستأنف الكتاب إن شاء الله.

و الآخر أن لا يكون بنفس ذلك المعنى بل بواسطة معنى آخر فيفترق في ذلك ما فيه التقدم عن ما به التقدم كتقدم الإنسان الذي هو الأب على الإنسان الذي هو الابن - لا في معنى الإنسانية المقول عليهما بالتساوي بل في معنى آخر هو الوجود أو الزمان - فما فيه التقدم و التأخر فيهما هو الوجود أو الزمان و ما به التقدم و التأخر هو خصوص الأبوة و البنوة فكما أن تقدم بعض الأجسام على بعض لا في الجسمية بل في الوجود كذلك إذا قيل إن العلة متقدمة على المعلول فمعناه أن وجودها متقدم على وجوده - و كذلك تقدم الاثنين على الأربعة و أمثالها فإن لم يعتبر وجود لم يكن تقدم و لا تأخر - فالتقدم و التأخر و الكمال و النقص و القوة و الضعف في الوجودات بنفس هوياتها لا بأمر آخر و في الأشياء و الماهيات بنفس وجوداتها لا بأنفسها و سيأتي لك زيادة إيضاح في هذا الباب عند مباحث التشكيك في هذا الكتاب و قد استوضح هاهنا أن الوجود بحسب المفهوم أمر عام يحمل على الموجودات بالتفاوت لا بالتواطؤ مطلقا

فصل (٣) في أن الوجود العام البديهي اعتبار عقلي غير مقوم لأفراده

بيان ذلك أن كل ما يرسم بكنهه في الأذهان من الحقائق الخارجية يجب أن يكون ماهيته محفوظة مع تبدل نحو الوجود و الوجود لما كانت حقيقته أنه في الأعيان - و كل ما كانت حقيقته أنه في الأعيان فيمتنع أن يكون في الأذهان و إلا لزم انقلاب الحقيقة عما كانت بحسب نفسها فالوجود يمتنع أن يحصل حقيقته في ذهن من الأذهان فكل ما يرسم من الوجود في النفس و يعرض له الكلية و العموم فهو ليس حقيقة الوجود بل وجهها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٨

من وجوهه و حيثية من حيثياته و عنوانا من عناوينه فليس عموم ما ارتسم من الوجود في النفس بالنسبة إلى الوجودات عموم معنى الجنس بل عموم أمر لازم اعتباري انتزاعي - كالشيئية للأشياء الخاصة من الماهيات المتحصلة المتخالفة المعاني.

و أيضا لو كانت جنسا لأفراده لكان انفصال الوجود الواجبي عن غيره بفصل - فيتركب ذاته و أنه محال كما سيجيء. و أما ما قيل من أن كل ما يحمل على أشياء بالتفاوت فهو عرضي لها و الوجود قد سبق أنه يحمل على أفراده كذلك فيكون عرضيا لها فغير تام عند جماعة من شيعة الأقدمين كما سينكشف لك إن شاء الله

فصل (٤) في أن للوجود حقيقة عينية

لما كانت حقيقة كل شيء هي خصوصية وجوده التي يثبت له فالوجود أولى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٩

من ذلك الشيء بل من كل شيء بأن يكون ذا حقيقة كما أن البياض أولى بكونه أبيض مما ليس ببياض و يعرض له

البياض فالوجود بذاته موجود و سائر الأشياء غير الوجود ليست بذواتها موجودة بل بالوجودات العارضة لها و بالحقيقة أن الوجود هو الموجود كما أن المضاف هو الإضافة لا ما يعرض لها من الجوهر و الكم و الكيف و غيرها كالأب و المساوي و المشابه و غير ذلك قال بهمنيار في التحصيل - و بالجملة فالوجود حقيقته أنه في الأعيان لا غير و كيف لا يكون في الأعيان ما هذه حقيقته.

بحث و مخلص

و أما ما تمسك به شيخ الإشراق في نفى تحقق الوجود من أن الوجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٠

لو كان حاصلًا في الأعيان فهو موجود لأن الحصول هو الوجود و كل موجود له وجود فلو وجوده وجود إلى غير النهاية. فلنائل أن يقول في دفعه أن الوجود ليس بموجود فإنه لا يوصف الشيء بنفسه - كما لا يقال في العرف أن البياض أبيض فغاية الأمر أن الوجود ليس بذى وجود كما أن البياض ليس بذى بياض و كونه معدوما بهذا المعنى لا يوجب اتصاف الشيء بنقيضه عند صدقه عليه لأن نقيض الوجود هو العدم و اللاوجود لا المعدوم و اللاموجود. أو يقول الوجود موجود و كونه وجودا هو بعينه كونه موجودا و هو موجودية الشيء في الأعيان لا أن له وجودا آخر بل هو الموجود من حيث هو موجود و الذي يكون لغيره منه و هو أن يوصف بأنه موجود يكون له في ذاته و هو نفس ذاته كما أن التقدم و التأخر لما كانا فيما بين الأشياء الزمانية بالزمان كانا فيما بين أجزائه بالذات من غير افتقار إلى زمان آخر.

فإن قيل فيكون كل وجود واجبا إذ لا معنى للواجب سوى ما يكون تحققه بنفسه. قلنا معنى وجود الواجب بنفسه أنه مقتضى ذاته من غير احتياج إلى فاعل و قابل - و معنى تحقق الوجود بنفسه أنه إذا حصل إما بذاته كما في الواجب أو بفاعل - لم يفتقر تحققه إلى وجود آخر يقوم به بخلاف غير الوجود فإنه إنما يتحقق بعد تأثير

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤١

الفاعل بوجوده و اتصافه بالوجود و الحاصل أن الوجود أمر عيني بذاته سواء صح إطلاق لفظ المشتق عليه بحسب اللغة أم لا لكن الحكماء إذا قالوا كذا موجود - لم يريدوا بمجرد ذلك أن يكون الوجود زائدا عليه بل قد يكون و قد لا يكون كالوجود الواجب المجرد عن الماهية فكون الموجود ذا ماهية أو غير ذي ماهية إنما يعلم ببيان و برهان غير نفس كونه موجودا فمفهوم الموجود مشترك عندهم بين القسمين.

و بذلك يندفع ما قيل أيضا من أنه إذا أخذ كون الوجود موجودا أنه عبارة عن نفس الوجود فلم يكن حمله على الوجود و غيره بمعنى واحد إذ مفهومه في الأشياء أنه شيء له الوجود و في نفس الوجود أنه هو الوجود و نحن لا نطلق على الجميع إلا بمعنى واحد و إذ ذاك فلا بد من أخذ كون الوجود موجودا كما في سائر الأشياء و هو أنه شيء له الوجود و يلزم منه أن يكون للوجود وجود إلى غير النهاية و عاد الكلام جذعا لأننا نقول هذا الاختلاف بين الأشياء و بين الوجود ليس في مفهوم الموجود - بل المفهوم واحد عندهم في الجميع سواء طابق إطلاقهم عرف اللغويين أم لا و كون

الموجود مشتملا على أمر غير الوجود أو لم يكن بل يكون محض الوجود إنما ينشأ من خصوصيات ما صدق عليها لا من نفس مفهوم الوجود ونظير ذلك ما قاله الشيخ في إلهيات الشفاء إن واجب الوجود قد يعقل نفس واجب الوجود كالواحد قد يعقل نفس الواحد وقد يعقل من ذلك أن ماهيته مثلا هي إنسان أو جوهر آخر من الجواهر وذلك الإنسان هو الذي هو واجب الوجود كما أنه يعقل من الواحد أنه ماء أو هواء أو إنسان وهو واحد قال ففرق إذن بين ماهية يعرض لها الواحد أو الموجود - وبين الواحد والموجود من حيث هو واحد وموجود وقال أيضا في التعليقات إذا سئل هل الوجود موجود أو ليس بموجود فالجواب أنه موجود بمعنى أن الوجود حقيقته أنه موجود فإن الوجود هو الموجودة و يؤيد ذلك ما يوجد في الحواشي الشريفة وهو أن مفهوم الشيء لا يعتبر في مفهوم الناطق مثلا وإلا لكان العرض العام داخلا في الفصل ولو اعتبر في المشتق ما صدق عليه الشيء انقلبت مادة الإمكان الخاص

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٢

ضرورية فإن الشيء الذي له الضحك هو الإنسان وثبت الشيء لنفسه ضروري - فذكر الشيء في تفسير المشتقات بيان لما رجع إليه الضمير الذي يذكر فيه وكذا ما ذهب إليه بعض أجلة المتأخرين من اتحاد العرض والعرضي وإن لم يكن متبنا فيه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٣

وكذا ما أدى إليه نظر الشيخ الإلهي في آخر التلويحات من أن النفس وما فوقها من المفارقات إنيات صرفة ووجودات محضة ولست أدري كيف يسمع له مع ذلك نفي كون الوجود أمرا واقعيا عينا و هل هذا إلا تناقض في الكلام. ثم نقول لو لم يكن للوجود أفراد حقيقية وراء الحصص لما اتصف بلوازم الماهيات المتخالفة الذات أو متخالفة المراتب لكنه متصف بها فإن الوجود الواجب مستغن عن العلة لذاته و وجود الممكن مفتقر إليها لذاته إذ لا شك أن الحاجة والغنى من لوازم الماهية أو من لوازم مراتب الماهية المتفاوتة كمالا ونقصانا و حينئذ لا بد أن يكون في كل من الموجودات أمرا وراء الحصة من مفهوم الوجود وإلا لما كانت الوجودات متخالفة الماهية كما عليه المشاءون أو متخالفة المراتب كما رآه طائفة أخرى إذ الكلي مطلقا بالقياس إلى حصصه نوع غير متفاوت.

وأما قول القائل لو كانت للوجود أفراد في الماهيات سوى الحصص لكان ثبوت فرد الوجود للماهية فرعاً على ثبوتها ضرورة أن ثبوت الشيء للآخر فرع على ثبوت ذلك الآخر فيكون لها ثبوت قبل ثبوتها فغير مستقيم لعدم خصوصية ذلك بكون الوجود ذا فرد بل منشؤه اتصاف الماهية بالوجود سواء كانت له أفراد عينية أو لم يكن له إلا الحصص. وتحقيق ذلك أن الوجود نفس ثبوت الماهية لا ثبوت شيء للماهية حتى يكون فرع ثبوت الماهية والجمهور حيث غفلوا عن هذه الدقيقة تراهم تارة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤

يخصصون القاعدة الكلية القائلة بالفرعية بالاستثناء وتارة ينتقلون عنها إلى الاستلزام - وتارة ينكرون ثبوت الوجود لا ذهنا ولا عينا بل يقولون إن الماهية لها اتحاد بمفهوم الموجود وهو أمر بسيط كسائر المشتقات يعبر عنه بالفارسية

بهست و مرادفاته و ليس له مبدأ أصلاً لا في الذهن و لا في الخارج إلى غير ذلك من التعسفات

فصل (٥) في أن تخصص الوجود بما ذا

و ليعلم أن تخصص كل وجود إما بنفس حقيقته أو بمرتبة من التقدم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٥

و التأخر و الشدة و الضعف أو بنفس موضوعه أما تخصص الوجود بنفس حقيقته التامة الواجبية و بمراتبه في التقدم و التأخر و الشدة و الضعف و الغنى و الفقر - فإنما هو تخصص له بشئونه الذاتية باعتبار نفس حقيقته البسيطة التي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٦

لا جنس لها و لا فصل و أما تخصصه بموضوعه أعني الماهيات المتصفة به في اعتبار العقل فهو ليس باعتبار شئونه في نفسه بل باعتبار ما ينبعث عنه من الماهيات المتخالفة لذوات و إن كان الوجود و الماهية في كل ذي ماهية متحدين في العين و هذا أمر غريب سيتضح لك سره فيما بعد.

قال الشيخ في المباحثات إن الوجود في ذوات الماهيات لا يختلف بالنوع بل إن كان اختلاف فبالأكد و الضعف و إنما تختلف ماهيات الأشياء التي تنال الوجود بالنوع و ما فيها من الوجود غير مختلف النوع فإن الإنسان يخالف الفرس بالنوع - لأجل ماهيته لا لوجوده فالتخصص للوجود على الوجه الأول بحسب ذاته بذاته و أما على الوجه الثاني فباعتبار ما معه في كل مرتبة من النعوت الكلية قال في التعليقات الوجود المستفاد من الغير كونه متعلقا بالغير هو مقوم له كما أن الاستغناء عن الغير مقوم لواجب الوجود بذاته و المقوم للشيء لا يجوز أن يفارقه إذ هو ذاتي له و قال في موضع آخر منها الوجود إما أن يكون محتاجا إلى الغير فيكون حاجته إلى الغير مقومة له و إما أن يكون مستغنيا عنه فيكون ذلك مقوما له و لا يصح أن يوجد الوجود المحتاج غير محتاج كما أنه لا يصح أن يوجد الوجود المستغني محتاجا و إلا قوم بغيره و بدل حقيقتهما انتهى أقول إن العاقل اللبيب بقوة الحدس يفهم من كلامه ما نحن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٧

بصدد إقامة البرهان عليه حيث يحين حينه من أن جميع الوجودات الإمكانية و الإنيات الارتباطية التعلقية اعتبارات و شئون للوجود الواجبي و أشعة و ظلال للنور القيومي - لا استقلال لها بحسب الهوية و لا يمكن ملاحظتها ذواتا منفصلة و إنيات مستقلة لأن التبعية و التعلق بالغير و الفقر و الحاجة عين حقائقها لا أن لها حقائق على حيالها - عرض لها التعلق بالغير و الفقر و الحاجة إليه بل هي في ذواتها محض الفاقة و التعلق - فلا حقائق لها إلا كونها توابع لحقيقة واحدة فالحقيقة واحدة و ليس غيرها إلا شئونها و فنونها و حيثياتها و أطوارها و لمعات نورها و ضلال ضوئها و تجليات ذاتها -

كل ما في الكون وهم أو خيال أو عكوس في المرايا أو ضلال

و أقمنا نحن بفضل الله و تأييده برهانا نيرا عرشيا على هذا المطلب العالي الشريف - و المحجوب الغالي اللطيف و

سنورده في موضعه كما وعدناه إن شاء الله العزيز و عملنا فيه رسالة على حدة سمينها بطرح الكونين هذا وقيل تخصص الوجود في الممكنات إنما كان بإضافته إلى موضوعه - لا أن الإضافة لحقته من خارج فإن الوجود ذا الموضوع عرض و كل عرض فإنه متقوم بوجوده في موضوعه فوجود كل ماهية متقوم بإضافته إلى تلك الماهية لا كما يكون الشيء في المكان فإن كونه في نفسه غير كونه في المكان و هو ليس بسديد - فإن كون العرض في نفسه و إن كان نفس كونه في موضوعه بناء على ما تقرر من أن وجود الأعراض في أنفسها هو وجودها لموضوعاتها لكن الوجود ليس بالقياس إلى موضوعه كالأعراض بالقياس إلى موضوعاتها فإنه ليس هو كون شيء غير الموضوع - يكون كونه في نفسه هو كونه للموضوع بل الوجود نفس كون الموضوع لا كون شيء آخر له كما أن النور القائم بالجسم نفس ظهور الجسم لا ظهور شيء للجسم ففرق إذن بين كون الشيء في المكان و كون الشيء في الموضوع و هو المفهوم من كلام القائل المذكور.

ثم فرق آخر أيضا بين كون الشيء في الموضوع و بين نفس كون الموضوع - نص على هذا الشيخ الرئيس في التعليقات حيث قال وجود الأعراض في أنفسها هو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٨

وجودها في موضوعاتها سوى أن العرض الذي هو الوجود لما كان مخالفا لها لحاجتها إلى الوجود حتى تكون موجودة و استغناء الوجود عن الوجود حتى يكون موجودا - لم يصح أن يقال إن وجوده في موضوعه هو وجوده في نفسه بمعنى أن للوجود وجودا كما يكون للبياض وجود بل بمعنى أن وجوده في موضوعه نفس وجود موضوعه و غيره من الأعراض وجوده في موضوعه وجود ذلك الغير و على هذا يجب أن يحمل أيضا لا على ما فهمه قوم من الحمل على اعتبارية الوجود و كونه أمرا انتزاعيا مصدريا ما ذكره في موضوع آخر من التعليقات و هو قوله فالوجود الذي للجسم هو موجودية الجسم - لا كحال البياض و الجسم في كونه أبيض لأن الأبيض لا يكفي فيه البياض و الجسم و قال تلميذه في كتاب التحصيل نحن إذا قلنا كذا موجود فلسنا نعني به الوجود العام بل يجب أن يتخصص كل موجود بوجود خاص و الوجود إما أن يتخصص بفصول فيكون الوجود أي المطلق على هذا الوجه جنسا أو يكون الوجود العام من لوازم معان خاصة بها يصير الشيء موجودا.

و قال فيه أيضا كل موجود ذي ماهية فله ماهية فيها صفة بها صارت موجودة - و تلك الصفة حقيقتها أنها وجبت. أقول و لا يغرنك قوله فيما بعد إذا قلنا وجود كذا فإنما نعني به موجوديته - و لو كان الوجود ما به يصير الشيء في الأعيان لكان يحتاج إلى وجود آخر فيتسلسل - فإذا الوجود نفس صيرورة الشيء في الأعيان انتهى فإن مراده من الموجودية ليس المعنى العام الانتزاعي المصدري اللازم للوجودات الخاصة بل المراد منها صرف الوجود الذي موجوديته بنفسه و موجودية الماهية به لا بأمر آخر غير حقيقة الوجود به تصير موجودة فعبر عنه بنفس صيرورة الشيء في الأعيان و عن ذلك الأمر الآخر المفروض بما به يصير الشيء في الأعيان ليتلاءم أجزاء كلامه سابقا و لاحقا و ما أكثر ما زلت أقدم المتأخرين حيث حملوا هذه العبارات و أمثالها الموروثة من الشيخ الرئيس و أتباعه و أتباعه على اعتبارية الوجود و أن لا فرد له في الماهيات سوى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٩

الحصص فقد حرفوا الكلم عن مواضعها وإني قد كنت شديد الذب عنهم في اعتبارية الوجود و تأصل الماهيات حتى أن هداني ربي و انكشف لي انكشافا بينا أن الأمر بعكس ذلك و هو أن الوجودات هي الحقائق المتأصلة الواقعة في العين و أن الماهيات المعبر عنها في عرف طائفة من أهل الكشف و اليقين بالأعيان الثابتة ما شمت رائحة الوجود أبدا كما سيظهر لك من تضاعيف أقوالنا الآتية إن شاء الله و ستعلم أيضا أن مراتب الوجودات الإمكانية التي هي حقائق الممكنات ليست إلا أشعة و أضواء للنور الحقيقي و الوجود الواجبي جل مجده و ليست هي أمور مستقلة بخيالها و هويات مترئسة بذواتها بل إنما هي شئون ذات واحدة و تطورات لحقيقة فاردة كل ذلك بالبرهان القطعي و هذه حكاية عما سيرد لك بسطه و تحقيقه إن شاء الله تعالى.

و بالجملة فقد تبين لك الآن أن مفهوم الوجود العام و إن كان أمرا ذهنيا مصدريا انتزاعيا لكن أفراده و ملزوماته أمور عينية كما أن الشيء كذلك بالقياس إلى أفراده من الأشياء المخصوصة فنسبة مفهوم الوجود إلى أفراده كنسبة مفهوم الشيء إلى أفراده لكن الوجودات معان مجهولة الأسامي سواء اختلف بالذات أو بالمراتب الكمالية و النقضية شرح أسمائها أنها وجود كذا و وجود كذا و الوجود الذي لا سبب له ثم يلزم الجميع في الذهن الوجود العام البديهي و الماهيات معان معلومة الأسامي و الخواص

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٥٠

فصل (٦) في أن الوجودات هويات بسيطة و أن حقيقة الوجود ليست معنى جنسيا و لا نوعيا و لا كليا مطلقا

اعلم أن الحقائق الوجودية لا يتقوم من جنس و فصل. و بيان ذلك بعد ما تقرر في علم الميزان أن افتقار الجنس إلى الفصل ليس في تقومه من حيث هو بل في أن يوجد و يحصل بالفعل فإن الفصل كالعلة المفيدة للجنس باعتبار بعض الملاحظات التفصيلية العقلية هو أنه كان لحقيقة الوجود جنس و فصل لكان جنسه إما حقيقة الوجود أو ماهية أخرى معروضة للوجود فعلى الأول يلزم أن يكون الفصل مفيدا لمعنى ذات الجنس فكان الفصل المقسم مقوما هذا خلف - و على الثاني يكون حقيقة الوجود إما الفصل أو شيئا آخر و على كلا التقديرين يلزم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٥١

خرق الفرض كما لا يخفى لأن الطبائع المحمولة متحدة بحسب الوجود مختلفة بحسب المعنى و المفهوم و هاهنا ليس الأمر كذلك.

و أيضا يلزم تركيب الوجود الذي لا سبب له أصلا و هو محال.

و أما ما قيل في نفي كون الوجود جنسا من أنه لو كان جنسا لكان فصله إما وجودا و إما غير وجود فإن كان وجودا يلزم أن يكون الفصل مكان النوع إذ يحمل عليه الجنس و إن كان غير وجود لزم كون الوجود غير وجود فهو سخيف فإن فصول الجواهر البسيطة مثل جواهر و هي مع ذلك ليست بأنواع مندرجة تحت الجوهر بالذات بل إنما هي فصول فقط

و كذا فصل الحيوان مثلاً يحمل عليه الحيوان - وليس يلزم من ذلك أن يكون فصل الحيوان نوعاً له و سيجيء كيفية ذلك من ذي قبل إن شاء الله تعالى.

و إذا تقرر نفي كون الوجود جنساً من نفي المخصصات الفصلية عنه فبمثل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٥٢

البيان المذكور يتبين انتفاء نوعيته.

و بالجملة عمومها و كليته بانتفاء ما يقع به اختلاف غير فصلي عنه كالمخصصات الخارجية من المصنفات و غيرها فإن تلك الأمور إنما هي أسباب في كون الشيء موجوداً بالفعل لا في تقويم معنى الذات و تقرير ماهيتها و كما أن النوع لا يحتاج إلى الفصل في كونه متصفاً بالمعنى الجنسي بل في كونه محصلاً بالفعل فكذلك الشخص لا يحتاج إلى المشخص في كونه متصفاً بالمعنى الذي هو النوع بل يحتاج إليه في كونه موجوداً و هذا إنما يتصور في غير حقيقة الوجود فلو كان ما حقيقته الوجود - يتشخص بما يزيد على ذاته لكان المشخص داخلاً في ماهية النوع فثبت أن ما هو حقيقته الوجود ليس معنى جنسياً و لا نوعياً و لا كلياً من الكليات و كل كلي و إن كان

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٥٣

من الثلاثة الباقية فهو راجع إلى الجنس أو النوع كما لا يخفى فظهر أن الوجودات هويات عينية و متشخصات بذواتها من غير أن توصف بالجنسية و النوعية و الكلية و الجزئية بمعنى كونها مندرجة تحت نوع أو جنس أو بمعنى كونها متشخصة بأمر زائد على ذاتها بل إنما هي متميزة بذاتها لا بأمر فصلي أو عرضي و إذ لا جنس لها و لا فصل لها فلا حد لها و إذ لا حد لها فلا برهان عليها لتشاركهما في الحدود كما مرت الإشارة إليه فالعلم بها إما أن يكون بالمشاهدة الحضورية أو بالاستدلال عليها بآثارها و لوازمها فلا تعرف بها إلا معرفة ضعيفة

فصل (٧) في أن حقيقة الوجود لا سبب لها بوجه من الوجوه

إني لأظنك ممن يتفطن مما تلوناه عليك بأن الوجود لا يمكن تأليف حقيقته من حيث هي من كثرة عينية خارجية أو ذهنية فعلية أو عقلية تحليلية ألسنت إذا نظرت إلى ما يتألف جوهر الذات منه و من غيره وجدت الذات في نسخها و جوهرها مفتاقة إليهما و إن لم يكن على أنها الأثر الصادر منهما بل على أن حقيقتها في أنها هي متعلقة القوام بهما بل جوهر الذات بعينه هو جوهر ذينك الجوهرين سواء كان بحسب خصوص الخارج أو الذهن أو الواقع مطلقاً فإذا فرض لحقيقة الوجود من حيث هي مباد جوهرية قد ائتلف منها جوهر ذاته فكل واحد من تلك المقومات أو بعضها إما أن يكون محض حقيقة الوجود فالوجود قد حصل بذلك المبدأ قبل نفسه و إما أن يكون أو واحد منها أمراً غير الوجود فهل المفروض حقيقة الوجود إلا الذي هو ما وراء ذلك الأمر الذي هو غير الوجود فالذي فرض مجموع تلك الأمور عاد إلى أنه بعضها أو خارج عنها.

و أيضاً يلزم أن يكون غير الوجود متقدماً على الوجود بالوجود و هو فطري الاستحالة قطعي الفساد.

و أيضاً كان حصول حقيقة الوجود لتلك المقومات أيضاً أقدم من حصولها لما يتقوم بها أي الوجود فيلزم حصول الشيء قبل نفسه فدار الوجود على نفسه و هو ممتنع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٥٤

فإذن حقيقة الوجود يستحيل أن يجتمع ذاته من أجزاء متباينة في الوجود كالمادة و الصورة أو ينحل إلى أشياء متحدة الحقيقة و الوجود.

و بالجملة يمتنع أن يتصور تحليل حقيقته إلى شيء و شيء بوجه من الوجوه - كيف و صرف الحقيقة لا يتكرر و لا يتثنى بحسبها أصلا لا عينا و لا ذهنًا و لا مطلقًا - و إذ قد علمت استحالة قبلية غير الوجود على الوجود بالوجود لاح لك أن الوجود من حيث هو متقرر بنفسه موجود بذاته فهو تقرر نفسه و وجود ذاته فلا يتعلق بشيء أصلا بحسب ذاته بل بحسب تعيناته العارضة و تطوراته اللاحقة له فالوجود من حيث هو وجود لا فاعل له ينشأ منه و لا مادة يستحيل هي إليه و لا موضوع يوجد هو فيه و لا صورة يتلبس هو بها و لا غاية يكون هو لها بل هو فاعل الفواعل و صورة الصور و غاية الغايات إذ هو الغاية الأخيرة و الخير المحض الذي ينتهي إليه جملة الحقائق و كافة الماهيات فيتعاضم الوجود عن أن يتعلق بسبب أصلا إذ قد انكشف أنه لا سبب له أصلا لا سبب به و لا سبب منه و لا سبب عنه و لا سبب فيه و لا سبب له و ستطلع على تفاصيل هذه المعاني إن شاء الله تعالى.

إشكالات و تفصيلات

أنه قد بقي بعد عدة شبهات في كون الوجود ذا حقائق عينية -

منها ما ذكره صاحب التلويحات

بقوله إن كان الوجود في الأعيان صفة للماهية فهي قابلة إما أن تكون موجودة بعده فحصل الوجود مستقلا دونها فلا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٥٥

قابلية و لا صفتية أو قبله فهي قبل الوجود موجودة أو معه فالماهية موجودة مع الوجود لا بالوجود فلها وجود آخر و أقسام التالي باطلة كلها فالمقدم كذلك.

و الجواب عنه باختيار أن الماهية مع الوجود في الأعيان و ما به المعية نفس الوجود الذي هي به موجودة بدون الاحتياج إلى وجود آخر كما أن المعية الزمانية الحاصلة بين الحركة و الزمان الذي حصلت فيه بنفس ذلك الزمان بلا اعتبار زمان آخر حتى يكون للزمان زمان إلى غير النهاية.

ثم إن اتصاف الماهية بالوجود أمر عقلي ليس كاتصاف الموضوع بسائر الأعراض القائمة به حتى يكون للماهية وجود منفرد و لوجودها وجود ثم يتصف أحدهما بالآخر بل هما في الواقع أمر واحد بلا تقدم بينهما و لا تأخر و لا معية أيضا بالمعنى المذكور و اتصافها به في العقل.

و تفصيل هذا الكلام ما ذكره بعض الحافين حول عرش التحقيق من أنه إذا صدر عن المبدأ وجود كان لذلك الوجود هوية مغايرة للأول و مفهوم كونه صادرا عنه غير مفهوم كونه ذا هوية فإذا هاهنا أمران معقولان.

أحدهما الأمر الصادر عن الأول و هو المسمى بالوجود.

و الثاني هو الهوية اللازمة لذلك الوجود و هو المسمى بالماهية فهي من حيث الوجود تابعة لذلك الوجود لأن المبدأ الأول لو لم يفعل شيئا لم يكن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٥٦

ماهية أصلاً لكن من حيث العقل يكون الوجود تابعا لها لكونه صفة لها انتهى فقد علم مما ذكره و مما ذكرناه أن الماهية متحدة مع الوجود في الواقع نوعاً من الاتحاد و العقل إذا حللتهما إلى شيئين حكم بتقدم أحدهما بحسب الواقع و هو الوجود لأنه الأصل في أن يكون حقيقة صادرة عن المبدأ و الماهية متحدة محمولة عليه لكن في مرتبة هوية ذاته لا كالعرض اللاحق و يتقدم الآخر بحسب الذهن و هي الماهية لأنها الأصل في الأحكام الذهنية و هذا التقدم إما بالوجود كما ستعلمه أو ليس بالوجود بل بالماهية و سيجيء أن هاهنا تقدماً غير الخمسة المشهورة و هو التقدم باعتبار نفس التجوهر و الحقيقة كتقدم ماهية الجنس على ماهية النوع بلا اعتبار الوجود.

و بالجملة مغايرة الماهية للوجود و اتصافها به أمر عقلي إنما يكون في الذهن لا في الخارج و إن كانت في الذهن أيضاً غير منفكة عن الوجود إذ الكون في العقل أيضاً وجود عقلي كما أن الكون في الخارج وجود خارجي لكن العقل من شأنه أن يأخذ الماهية وحدها من غير ملاحظة شيء من الوجودين الخارجي و الذهني معها و يصفها به.

فإن قلت هذه الملاحظة أيضاً نحو من أنحاء وجود الماهية فالماهية كيف تتصف بهذا النحو من الوجود أو بالمطلق الشامل له مع مراعات القاعدة الفرعية في الاتصاف.

قلنا هذه الملاحظة لها اعتباران.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٥٧

أحدهما اعتبار كونها تخلية الماهية في ذاتها عن جميع أنحاء الوجود - و ثانيهما اعتبار كونها نحواً من أنحاء الوجود فالماهية بأحد الاعتبارين موصوفة بالوجود و بالآخر مخلوطة غير موصوفة به على أن لنا مندوحة عن هذا التجشم حيث قررنا أن الوجود نفس ثبوت الماهية لا ثبوت شيء للماهية فلا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٥٨

مجال للفرعية هاهنا و كان إطلاق لفظ الاتصاف على الارتباط الذي يكون بين الماهية و الوجود من باب التوسع أو الاشتراك فإنه ليس كإطلاقه على الارتباط - الذي بين الموضوع و سائر الأعراض و الأحوال بل اتصافها بالوجود من قبيل اتصاف البسائط بالذاتيات لا اتحادها به.

و منها أن الوجود لو كان في الأعيان لكان قائماً بالماهية

فقيامه إما بالماهية الموجودة فيلزم وجودها قبل وجودها أو بالماهية المعدومة فيلزم اجتماع النقيضين - أو بالماهية المجردة عن الوجود و العدم فيلزم ارتفاع النقيضين.

و أجيب عنه بأنه إن أريد بالموجودة و المعدومة ما يكون بحسب نفس الأمر - فنختار أن الوجود قائم بالماهية الموجودة و لكن بنفس ذلك الوجود لا بوجود سابق عليه كما أن البياض قائم بالجسم الأبيض بنفس ذلك البياض القائم به لا ببياض غيره و إن أريد بهما ما يكون مأخوذاً في مرتبة الماهية من حيث هي على أن يكون شيء منهما معتبراً في حد نفسها بكونه نفسها أو جزءها فنختار أنه قائم بالماهية من حيث هي بلا اعتبار شيء من الوجود و العدم في حد

نفسها وهذا ليس ارتفاع النقيضين عن الواقع لأن الواقع أوسع من تلك المرتبة فلا يخلو الماهية في الواقع عن أحدهما كما أن البياض قائم بالجسم لا بشرط البياض واللابياض في حد ذاته ووجوده وهو في الواقع لا يخلو عن أحدهما والفرق بين الموضعين بأن الجسم بهذه الحثية له وجود سابق على وجود البياض ومقابلته فيمكن اتصافه في الخارج بشيء منهما بخلاف الماهية بالقياس إلى الوجود فإنها في الخارج عين الوجود فلا اتصاف لها بالوجود بحسبه إذ اتصافها به في ظرف ما يقتضي لا أقل المغايرة بينهما وإن لم يقتض الفرعية وكذا في العقل للخلط بينهما فيه كما في الخارج إلا في نحو ملاحظة عقلية مشتملة على مراعاة جانبي الخلط والتعرية فيصفها العقل به على الوجه الذي مر ذكره - وقد علمت أنا في متسع عن هذا الكلام فإنه لا يلزم من كون الوجود في الأعيان

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٥٩

قيامه بالماهية أو عروضه لها إذ هما شيء واحد في نفس الأمر بلا امتياز بينهما - فإن الماهية متحدة مع الوجود الخارجي في الخارج ومع الوجود الذهني في الذهن - لكن العقل حيث يعقل الماهية مع عدم الالتفات إلى شيء من انحاء الوجود يحكم بالمغايرة بينهما بحسب العقل بمعنى أن المفهوم من أحدهما غير المفهوم من الآخر كما يحكم بالمغايرة بين الجنس والفصل في البسائط مع اتحادهما في الواقع جعلاً ووجوداً وقريب مما ذكرناه ببعض الوجوه ما ذهب إليه بعض أهل التدقيق من أنه لا يجوز عروض الوجود المصدري أو مفهوم الموجود للماهية في نفس الأمر لأن عروض شيء لاخر وثبوته له فرع لوجود المعروض فيكون للماهية وجود قبل وجودها. وأيضاً مفهوم الموجود متحد مع الماهيات والمتحدان يمتنع عروض أحدهما للآخر حيث اتحداً ولا عروض للوجود بالمعنى المصدري لها بحسب الاعتبار الذهني أيضاً لأن العقل وإن وجد الماهية خالية عنه إذا أخذها بذاتها بلا ضمنية لكنه لا يجدها بعد هذه المرتبة موصوفة به لأنه يجدها حينئذ موجودة ولا يلزم من ذلك قيام

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٦٠

الوجود بها فإن من صدق المشتق لا يلزم قيام مبدأ الاشتقاق وأما الوجود بمعنى الموجود - فهو يعرض للماهية بحسب الاعتبار الذهني يحث يجد العقل الماهية إذا أخذت بذاتها بلا ضمنية عارية عنه ويجده في المرتبة الثانية عارضا لها ولهذا يحكم بأنه عرض لها ولا يجوز عروضه لها في نفس الأمر لأنهما في نفس الأمر أمر واحد لا تغاير بينهما فيه أصلاً ضرورة أن السواد والوجود في نفس الأمر واحد ذاتاً ووجوداً - فلا يتصور هناك نسبة بينهما بالعروض وغيره وأما في الاعتبار الذهني فهما شيان - لأن العقل قد يفصل هذا الشيء الواحد إلى ماهية متقدمة ووجود متأخر فيتصور بينهما النسبة بهذا الاعتبار انتهى ملخص ما ذكره ولا يخفى على المتفطن أن بين كلامه وبين ما حققناه نحواً من الموافقة وإن كان بينهما نحو من المخالفة أيضاً - فإن الوجود عنده إما أمر مصدري وإما مفهوم محمول عام بديهي وكلاهما اعتباريان وعندنا أمر حقيقي عيني بذاته وجود وموجود بلا اعتبار أمر آخر وأما اتحاد الوجود مع الماهية فهو مما فيه جهة الموافقة.

ثم إن في كلامه وجوهاً من النظر أورد عليه بعضاً منها معاصر العلامة الدواني ويرد على المورد أيضاً أشياء كثيرة لو اشتغلنا بها لكان خروجاً عن طور هذا الكتاب.

و منها ما في حكمة الإشراق و التلويحات من أنه ليس في الوجود ما عين ماهيته الوجود فإننا بعد أن نتصور مفهومه قد نشك في أنه هل له الوجود أم لا فيكون له وجود زائد و كذا الكلام في وجوده و يتسلسل إلى غير النهاية و هذا محال و لا محيص إلا بأن الوجود المقول على الموجودات اعتبار عقلي.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٦١

و جوابه بما أسلفناه من أن حقيقة الوجود و كنهه لا يحصل في الذهن و ما حصل منها فيه أمر انتزاعي عقلي و هو وجه من وجوهه و العلم بحقيقته يتوقف على المشاهدة الحضورية و بعد مشاهدة حقيقته و الاكتناه بماهيته التي هي عين الإنية لا يبقى مجال لذلك الشك.

و الأولى أن يورد هذا الوجه معارضة إلزامية للمشائين كما فعله في حكمة الإشراق لأنهم قد استدلوا على مغايرة الوجود للماهية بأننا قد نعقل الماهية و نشك في وجودها و المشكوك ليس نفس المعلوم و لا داخلا فيه فهما متغايران في الأعيان فالوجود زائد على الماهية و الشيخ الزمهم بعين هذه الحجة لأن الوجود أيضا كوجود العنقاء مثلا فهمناه و لم نعلم أنه موجود في الأعيان أم لا فيحتاج الوجود إلى وجود آخر فيتسلسل مترتبا موجودا معا إلى غير النهاية لكن ما أوردناه عليه يجري مثله في أصل الحجة فانهدم الأساسان.

و منها ما ذكره أيضا في حكمة الإشراق -

و هو أنه إذا كان الوجود للماهية - وصفا زائدا عليها في الأعيان فله نسبة إليها و للنسبة وجود و لوجود النسبة نسبة إلى النسبة و هكذا فيتسلسل إلى غير النهاية.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٦٢

و جوابه أن وجود النسب إنما هو في العقل دون العين فذلك التسلسل ينقطع بانقطاع الملاحظات العقلية على أن الحق عندنا كما مر أنه ليس بين الماهية و الوجود مغايرة في الواقع أصلا بل للعقل أن يحلل بعض الموجودات إلى ماهية و وجود و يلاحظ بينهما اتصافا و نسبة على الوجه المسفور سابقا.

و منها أيضا قوله إن الوجود إذا كان حاصلًا في الأعيان و ليس بجوهر فتعين أن يكون هيئة في الشيء

و إذا كان كذا فهو قائم بالجوهر فيكون كيفية عند المشائين لأنه هيئة قارة لا يحتاج في تصورهما إلى اعتبار تجز و إضافة إلى أمر خارج - كما ذكروا في حد الكيفية و قد حكموا مطلقا أن المحل يتقدم على العرض من الكيفيات و غيرها فيتقدم الموجود على الوجود و ذلك ممتنع لاستلزامه تقدم الوجود على الوجود.

ثم لا يكون الوجود أعم الأشياء مطلقا بل الكيفية و العرضية أعم منه من الوجه.

و أيضا إذا كان عرضا فهو قائم بالمحل و معنى أنه قائم بالمحل أنه موجود بالمحل مفتقر فيفتقر في تحققه إليه و لا شك أن المحل موجود بالوجود فدار القيام و هو محال و الجواب أنهم حيث أخذوا في عنوانات حقائق الأجناس من المقولات - كونها ماهيات كلية حق وجودها العيني كذا و كذا مثلا قالوا الجوهر ماهية - حق وجودها في الأعيان أن لا يكون في موضوع و كذا الكم مثلا ماهية إذا وجدت في الخارج كانت بذاتها قابلة للمساواة و اللامساواة و على هذا القياس كيف

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٦٣

و سائر المقولات فسقط كون الوجود في ذاته جوهرًا أو كيفًا أو غيرهما لعدم كونه كليًا بل الوجودات كما سبق هويات عينية متشخصة بنفسها غير مندرجة تحت مفهوم كلي ذاتي كالجنس أو النوع أو الحد و ليس عرضًا بمعنى كونه قائمًا بالماهية الموجودة به و إن كان عرضيًا متحدًا بها نحوًا من الاتحاد و على تقدير كونه عرضًا لا يلزم كونه كيفية لعدم كليته و عمومته و ما هو من الأعراض العامة و المفهومات الشاملة للموجودات إنما هو الوجود الانتزاعي العقلي المصدري - الذي اشتق منه مفهوم الوجود بما هو موجود و لمخالفته أيضًا سائر الأعراض - في أن وجودها في نفسها عين وجودها للموضوع و وجود الوجود عين وجود الماهية - لا وجود شيء آخر لها ظهر عدم افتقاره في تحقيقه إلى الموضوع فلا يلزم الدور الذي ذكره على أن المختار عندنا أن وجود الجوهر جوهر بجوهرية ذلك الجوهر لا بجوهرية أخرى و كذا وجود العرض عرض بعرضية ذلك العرض لا بعرضية أخرى - لما مر أن الوجود لا عروض له للماهية في نفس الأمر بل في الاعتبار الذهني بحسب تحليل العقل

توضيح و تنبيه

قد تبين و تحقق من تضاعف ما ذكرناه من القول في الوجود أنه كما أن النور قد يطلق و يراد منه المعنى المصدري أي نورانية شيء من الأشياء و لا وجود له في الأعيان بل وجوده إنما هو في الأذهان و قد يطلق و يراد منه الظاهر بذاته المظهر

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٦٤

لغيره من الذوات النورية كالواجب تعالى و العقول و النفوس و الأنوار العرضية المعقولة أو المحسوسة كنور الكواكب و السرج و له وجود في الأعيان لا في الأذهان كما سيظهر لك وجه ذلك إن شاء الله تعالى و إطلاق النور عليها بالتشكيك الاتفاقي و المعنى الأول مفهوم كلي عرضي لما تحته من الأفراد بخلاف المعنى الثاني فإنه عين الحقائق النورية - مع تفاوتها بالتمام و النقص و القوة و الضعف فلا يوصف بالكلية و لا بالجزئية - بمعنى المعروضية للتشخيص الزائد عليه بل النور هو صريح الفعلية و التميز و الوضوح و الظهور و عدم ظهوره و سطوعه إما من جهة ضعف الإدراك عقليًا كان أو حسيًا أو لاختلاطه بالظلمة الناشئة من مراتب تنزلاته بحسب اصطكاكات وقعت بين مراتب القصور الإمكانية و شوائب الفتور الهولائي لأن كل مرتبة من مراتب نقصان النور - و ضعفه و قصوره عن درجة الكمال الأتم النوري الذي لا حد له في العظمة و الجلال و الزينة و الجمال وقع بإزائها مرتبة من مراتب الظلمات و الأعدام المسماة بالماهيات الإمكانية كما سبق لك زيادة اطلاع عليه فيما سيقرر سمعك كذلك الوجود قد يطلق و يراد منه المعنى الانتزاعي العقلي من المعقولات الثانية و المفهومات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٦٥

المصدرية التي لا تحقق لها في نفس الأمر و يسمى بالوجود الإثباتي و قد يطلق و يراد منه الأمر الحقيقي الذي يمنع طريان عدم و اللاشيئية عن ذاته بذاته و عن الماهية بانضمامه إليها و لا شبهة في أنه بملاحظة انضمام الوجود

الانتزاعي الذي هو من المعدومات إلى الماهية لا يمنع المعدومية بل إنما يمنع باعتبار ملزومه و ما ينتزع هو عنه بذاته و هو الوجود الحقيقي سواء كان وجوداً صمدياً واجبياً أو وجوداً ممكناً تعلقاً ارتباطياً و الوجودات الإمكانية هوياتها عين التعلقات و الارتباطات بالوجود الواجبى لا أن معانيها مغايرة للارتباط بالحق تعالى كالماهيات الإمكانية - حيث إن لكل منها حقيقة و ماهية و قد عرضها التعلق بالحق تعالى بسبب الوجودات الحقيقية التي ليست هي إلا شئون ذاتة تعالى و تجليات صفاته العليا و لمعات نوره و جماله و إشراقات ضوئه و جلاله كما سيرد لك برهانه إن شاء الله العزيز و الآن نحن بصدد أن الوجود في كل شيء أمر حقيقي سوى الوجود الانتزاعي الذي هو الموجودية - سواء كانت موجودية الوجود أو موجودية الماهية فإن نسبة الوجود الانتزاعي إلى الوجود الحقيقي كنسبة الإنسانية إلى الإنسان و الأبيضية إلى البياض و نسبته إلى الماهية كنسبة الإنسانية إلى الضاحك و الأبيضية إلى الثلج و مبدأ الأثر و أثر المبدأ ليس إلا الوجودات الحقيقية التي هي هويات عينية موجودة بذواتها لا الوجودات الانتزاعية التي هي أمور عقلية معدومة في الخارج باتفاق العقلاء و لا الماهيات المرسله

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٦٦

المبهمه الذات التي ما شمت بذواتها و في حدود أنفسها رائحة الوجود كما سنحقق في مبحث الجعل من أن المجعول أي أثر الجاعل و ما يترتب عليه بالذات هو نحو من الوجود بالجعل البسيط دون الماهية و كذا الجاعل بما هو جاعل ليس إلا مرتبة من الوجود لا ماهية من الماهيات فالغرض أن الموجود في الخارج ليس مجرد الماهيات - من دون الوجودات العينية كما توهمه أكثر المتأخرين كيف و المعنى الذي حكموا بتقدمه على جميع الانصافات و منعه لطريان العدم لا يجوز أن يكون أمراً عدمياً - و منتزعا عقلياً و الأمر العدمي الذهني الانتزاعي لا يصح أن يمنع الانعدام و يتقدم على الاتصاف بغيره فمن ذلك المنع و التقدم يعلم أن له حقيقة متحققة في نفس الأمر - و هذه الحقيقة هي التي يسمى بالوجودات الحقيقي و قد علمت أنها عين الحقيقة و التحقق لا أنها شيء متحقق كما أشرنا إليه فما أكثر ذهول هؤلاء القوم حيث ذهبوا إلى أن الوجود لا معنى له إلا الأمر الانتزاعي العقلي دون الحقيقة العينية.

و قد اندفع بما ذكرناه قول بعض المحققين من أن الحكم بتقدم الوجود على فعلية الماهيات غير صحيح لأنه ليس للوجود معنى حقيقي إلا الانتزاعي.

لأننا نقول ما حكم بتقدمه على تقوم الماهيات و تقررهما إنما هو الوجود بالمعنى الحقيقي العيني لا الانتزاعي العقلي و مما يدل على أن الوجود موجود في الأعيان ما ذكره الشيخ في إلهيات الشفاء بقوله و الذي يجب وجوده بغيره دائماً إن كان فهو غير بسيط الحقيقة لأن الذي له باعتبار ذاته غير الذي له باعتبار غيره و هو حاصل الهوية منهما جميعاً في الوجود - فلذلك لا شيء غير الواجب عري عن ملابسة ما بالقوة و الإمكان باعتبار نفسه و هو الفرد و غيره زوج تركيبى انتهى.

فقد علم من كلامه أن المستفاد من الفاعل أمر وراء الماهية و معنى الوجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٦٧

الإثباتي المنتزع و ليس المراد من قوله و هو حاصل الهوية منهما جميعاً في الوجود - أن للماهية موجودية و للوجود موجودية أخرى بل الموجود هو الوجود بالحقيقة - و الماهية متحدة معه ضرباً من الاتحاد و لا نزاع لأحد في أن التمايز

بين الوجود و الماهية إنما هو في الإدراك لا بحسب العين.

و بعد إثبات هذه المقدمة نقول إن جهة الاتحاد في كل متحدين هو الوجود سواء كان الاتحاد أي الهو هو بالذات كاتحاد الإنسان بالوجود أو اتحاده بالحيوان أو بالعرض كاتحاد الإنسان بالأبيض فإن جهة الاتحاد بين الإنسان والوجود - هو نفس الوجود المنسوب إليه بالذات و جهة الاتحاد بينه و بين الحيوان هو الوجود المنسوب إليهما جميعا بالذات و جهة الاتحاد بين الإنسان و الأبيض هو الوجود المنسوب إلى الإنسان بالذات و إلى الأبيض بالعرض فحينئذ لا شبهة في أن المتحدين لا يمكن أن يكونا موجودين جميعا بحسب الحقيقة و إلا لم يحصل الاتحاد بينهما بل الوجود الواحد منسوب إليهما نحوًا من الانتساب فلا محالة أحدهما أو كلاهما انتزاعي و جهة الاتحاد أمر حقيقي فالإتحد بين الماهيات و الوجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٦٨

إما بأن يكون الوجود انتزاعيا و اعتباريا و الماهيات أمور حقيقية كما ذهب إليه المحجوبون عن إدراك طريقة أهل الكشف و الشهود و إما بأن تكون الماهيات أمورا انتزاعية اعتبارية و الوجود حقيقي عيني كما هو المذهب المنصور. و بالجملة الوجود العيني و إن كان حقيقة واحدة و نوعا و بسيطا لا جنس له و لا فصل له و لا يعرض له الكلية و العموم و الجزئية و الخصوص بل التعدد و التميز له من قبل ذاته لا بأمر خارج إلا أنه مشترك بين جميع الماهيات متحد بها صادق عليها لاتحاده معها - فإن الوجود الحقيقي العيني معنى الوجود فيه هو معنى الموجود فهو من حيث إنه منشأ لانتزاع الموجودية هو الموجود و من حيث إنه باعتبار ذاته منشأ لذلك الانتزاع و به يحصل موجودية الماهيات هو الوجود فكل من مفهومي الوجود أي الحقيقي و الانتزاعي مشترك بين الماهيات إلا أن الانتزاعي يعرض له الكلية و العموم لكونه أمرا عقليا من المفهومات الشاملة كالشيئية و المعلوماتية و الإمكان العام و أشباهها بخلاف الحقيقي - لأنه محض التحقق العيني و صرف التشخص و التعيين من دون حاجة إلى مخصص و معين بل بانضمامه إلى كل ماهية يحصل لها الامتياز و التحصل و يخرج من الخفاء و الإبهام و الكمون فالوجود الحقيقي ظاهر بذاته بجميع أنحاء الظهور و مظهر

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٦٩

لغيره و به يظهر الماهيات و له و معه و فيه و منه و لو لا ظهوره في ذوات الأكوان - و إظهاره لنفسه بالذات و لها بالعرض لما كانت ظاهرة موجودة بوجه من الوجوه بل كانت باقية في حجاب العدم و ظلمة الاختفاء إذ قد علم أنها بحسب ذاتها و حدود أنفسها معرأة عن الوجود و الظهور فالوجود و الظهور يطرا عليها من غيرها فهي في حدود أنفسها هالكات الذوات باطلات الحقائق أزلا و أبدا لا في وقت من الأوقات و مرتبة من المراتب كما قيل في الفارسي -

سياه رویی ز ممکن در دو عالم جدا هرگز نشد و الله اعلم

ترجمة

لقوله ع: الفقر سواد الوجه في الدارين

فظهر الوجود بذاته في كل مرتبة من الأكوان و تنزله إلى كل شأن من الشئون يوجب ظهور مرتبة من مراتب الممكنات و عين من الأعيان الثابتة و كلما كان مراتب النزول أكثر و عن منبع الوجود أبعد كان ظهور الأعدام و الظلمات بصفة الوجود و نعت الظهور و احتجاب الوجود بأعيان المظاهر و اختفائه بصور المجالي و انصباغه بصيغ الأكوان أكثر فكل برزة من البرزات يوجب تنزلاً عن مرتبة الكمال و تواضعاً عن غاية الرفعة و العظمة و شدة النورية و قوة الوجود و كل مرتبة من المراتب يكون التنزل و الخفاء فيها أكثر كان ظهورها على المدارك الضعيفة أشد و الحال بعكس ما ذكر على المدارك القوية كمراتب أنوار الشمس بالقياس إلى أعين الخفافيش و غيرها و لهذا يكون إدراك الأجسام التي هي في غاية نقصان الوجود أسهل على الناس من إدراك المفارقات النورية التي هي في غاية قوة الوجود و شدة النورية لا أشد منها في الوجود و النورية إلا باريها و مبدعها و هو نور الأنوار و وجود الوجودات حيث إن قوة وجوده و شدة ظهوره غير متناهية قوة و مدة و عدة و لشدة وجوده و ظهوره لَا تُدْرِكُهُ الْأَبْصَارُ و لا تحيط به الأفهام بل تتجافى عنه الحواس و الأوهام و تنبو منه العقول و الأفهام فالمدارك الضعيفة تدرك الوجودات النازلة المصحوبة بالأعدام و الملكات المختفية المحجوبة بالأكوان - المنصبغة بصيغ الماهيات المتخالفة و المعاني المتضادة و هي في حقيقتها متحدة المعنى - و إنما التفاوت فيها بحسب القوة و الضعف و الكمال و النقص و العلو و الدنو الحاصلة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٧٠

لها بحسب أصل الحقيقة البسيطة باعتبار مراتب التنزلات لا غيرها كما سينكشف من مباحث التشكيك و لو لم يكن المدارك ضعيفة قاصرة عن إدراك الأشياء على ما هي عليها لكان ينبغي أن يكون ما وجوده أكمل و أقوى ظهوره على القوة المدركة و حضوره لديها أتم و أجلى و لما كان واجب الوجود من فضيلة الوجود في أعلى الأنحاء و في سطوع النور في قسب المراتب يجب أن يكون وجوده أظهر الأشياء عندنا و حيث نجد الأمر على خلاف ذلك علمنا أن ذلك ليس من جهته إذ هو في غاية العظمة و الإحاطة و السطوع و الجلاء و البلوغ و الكبرياء و لكن لضعف عقولنا و انغماسها في المادة و ملابستها الأعدام و الظلمات تعتاص عن إدراكه و لا تتمكن أن نعقله على ما هو عليه في الوجود فإن إفراط كماله يبهرها لضعفها و بعدها عن منبع الوجود و معدن النور و الظهور من قبل سنخ ذاتها لا من قبله فإنه لعظمته و سعة رحمته و شدة نوره النافذ و عدم تناهيه أقرب إلينا من كل الأشياء كما أشار إليه بقوله تعالى - وَنَحْنُ أَقْرَبُ إِلَيْهِ مِنْ حَبْلِ الْوَرِيدِ و بقوله تعالى وَإِذَا سَأَلَكَ عِبَادِي عَنِّي فَإِنِّي قَرِيبٌ فثبت أن بطونه من جهة ظهوره فهو باطن من حيث هو ظاهر فكلما كان المدرك أصح إدراكاً و عن الملابس الحسية و الغواشي المادية أبعد درجة كان ظهور أنوار الحق الأول عليه و تجليات جماله و جلاله له أشد و أكثر و مع ذلك لا يعرفه حق المعرفة و لا يدركه حق الإدراك لتناهي القوى و المدارك و عدم تناهيه في الوجود و النورية وَعَنَتِ الْوُجُوهُ لِلْحَيِّ الْقَيُّومِ.

و مما يجب أن يحقق أنه و إن لم يكن بين الوجودات اختلاف بذواتها إلا بما ذكرناه من الكمال و النقص و التقدم و التأخر و الظهور و الخفاء لكن يلزمها بحسب كل مرتبة من المراتب أوصاف معينة و نعوت خاصة إمكانية هي المسماة بالماهيات عند الحكماء و بالأعيان الثابتة عند أرباب الكشف من الصوفية و العرفاء فانظر إلى مراتب أنوار الشمس التي هي مثال الله في عالم المحسوسات كيف انصبغت بصيغ ألوان الزجاجات و في أنفسها لا لون لها و لا تفاوت فيها إلا بشدة اللمعان و نقصها فمن توقف مع الزجاجات و ألوانها و احتجب بها عن النور الحقيقي و مراتبه الحقيقية التنزلية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٧١

اختفى النور عنه كمن ذهب إلى أن الماهيات أمور حقيقية متأصلة في الوجود- و الوجودات أمور انتزاعية ذهنية و من شاهد ألوان النور و عرف أنها من الزجاجات و لا لون للنور في نفسه ظهر له النور و عرف أن مراتبه هي التي ظهرت في صورة الأعيان على صبغ استعداداتها كمن ذهب إلى أن مراتب الوجودات التي هي لمعات النور الحقيقي الواجبي و ظهورات للوجود الحق الإلهي ظهرت في صورة الأعيان و انصبغت بصبغ الماهيات الإمكانية و احتجبت بالصور الخلقية عن الهوية الإلهية الواجبية و مما يجب أن يعلم أن إثباتنا لمراتب الوجودات المتكثرة و مواضعنا في مراتب البحث و التعليم على تعددها و تكثرها لا ينافي ما نحن بصدده من ذي قبل إن شاء الله من إثبات وحدة الوجود و الموجود ذاتا و حقيقة كما هو مذهب الأولياء و العرفاء من عظماء أهل الكشف و اليقين و سنقيم البرهان القطعي على أن الوجودات و إن تكثرت و تمايزت إلا أنها من مراتب تعيينات الحق الأول و ظهورات نوره و شئوناته ذاتة لا أنها أمور مستقلة و ذوات منفصلة و ليكن عندك حكاية هذا المطلب إلى أن يرد عليك برهانه و انتظره مفتشا.

و ذهب جماعة أن الوجود الحقيقي شخص واحد هو ذات الباري تعالى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٧٣

و الماهيات أمور حقيقية موجوديتها عبارة عن انتسابها إلى الوجود الواجبي و ارتباطها به تعالى فالوجود واحد شخصي عندهم و الموجود كلي له أفراد متعددة و هي الموجودات- و نسبوا هذا المذهب إلى ذوق المتألهين.

أقول فيه نظر من وجوه- الأول أن كون ذات الواجب بذاته وجودا لجميع الماهيات من الجواهر و الأعراض غير صحيح كما لا يخفى عند التأمل فإن بعض أفراد الموجودات مما لا تفاوت فيها بحسب الماهية مع أن بعضها متقدم على بعض بالوجود و لا يعقل تقدم بعضها على بعض مع كون الوجود في الجميع واحدا وحدة حقيقية منسوبة إلى الكل فإن اعتذر بأن التفاوت بحسب التقدم و التأخر ليس في الوجود الحقيقي بل في نسبتها و ارتباطها إليه بأن يكون نسبة بعضها إلى الوجود الحقيقي أقدم من بعض آخر- نقول النسبة من حيث إنها نسبة أمر عقلي لا تحصل و لا تفاوت لها في نفسها بل باعتبار شيء من المنتسبين فإذا كان المنسوب إليه ذاتا أحدية و المنسوب ماهية و الماهية بحسب ذاتها لا تقتضي شيئا من التقدم و التأخر و العلية و المعلولية و لا أولوية أيضا لبعض أفرادها بالقياس إلى بعض لعدم حصولها و فعليتها في أنفسها و بحسب ماهيتها فمن أين يحصل امتياز بعض أفراد ماهية واحدة بالتقدم في النسبة إلى الواجب و التأخر فيه.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٧٤

و الثاني أن نسبتها إلى الباري إن كانت اتحادية يلزم كون الواجب تعالى ذا ماهيات غير الوجود بل ذا ماهيات متعددة متخالفة و سيجيء أن لا ماهية له تعالى سوى الإنية و إن كانت النسبة بينها و بين الواجب تعالى تعلقية و تعلق الشيء بالشيء فرع وجودهما و تحققهما فيلزم أن يكون لكل ماهية من الماهيات وجود خاص متقدم على انتسابها و تعلقها إذ لا شبهة في أن حقائقها ليست عبارة عن التعلق بغيرها فإن كثيرا ما تصور الماهيات و نشك في ارتباطها إلى الحق الأول

و تعلقها به تعالى بخلاف الوجودات - إذ يمكن أن يقال إن هوياتها لا يغير تعلقها و ارتباطها إذ لا يمكن الاكتفاء بنحو من أنحاء الوجود إلا من جهة العلم بحقيقة سببه و جاعله كما بين في علم البرهان و سنيين في هذا الكتاب إن شاء الله تعالى.

الثالث أن وجودات الأشياء على هذه الطريقة أيضا متكررة كالموجودات إلا أن الموجودات أمور حقيقية و الوجودات بعضها حقيقي كوجود الواجب و بعضها انتزاعي كوجودات الممكنات فلا فرق بين هذا المذهب و المذهب المشهور الذي عليه الجمهور من المتأخرين القائلين بأن وجود الممكنات انتزاعي و وجود الواجب عيني لأنه تعالى بذاته مصداق حمل الموجود بخلاف الممكنات إلا أن الأمر الانتزاعي المسمى بوجود الممكنات يعبر عنه في هذه الطريقة بالانتساب أو التعلق أو الربط أو غير ذلك - فالقول بأن الوجود على هذه الطريقة واحد حقيقي شخصي و الموجود كلي متعدد - دون الطريقة الأخرى لا وجه له ظاهرا بل نقول لا فرق بين هذين المذهبين في أن موجودة الأشياء و وجودها معنى عقلي و مفهوم كلي شامل لجميع الموجودات سواء كان ما به الوجود نفس الذات أو شيئا آخر ارتباطيا كان أو لا فإن أطلق الوجود على معنى آخر و هو الحق القائم بذاته لكان ذلك بالاشتراك و سيايتك تفصيل المذهب في موجودة الأشياء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٧٥

فصل (٨) في مساواة الوجود للشيئية

إن جماعة من الناس ذهبوا إلى أن الوجود صفة يتجدد على الذات التي هي ذات في حالتها الوجود و العدم و هذا في غاية السخافة و الوهن فإن حيثية الماهية و إن كانت غير حيثية الوجود - إلا أن الماهية ما لم توجد لا يمكن الإشارة إليها بكونها هذه الماهية إذ المعدوم لا يخبر عنه إلا بحسب اللفظ فالماهية ما لم توجد لا تكون شيئا من الأشياء حتى نفس ذاتها لأن كونها نفس ذاتها فرع تحققها و وجودها إذ مرتبة الوجود متقدمة على مرتبة الماهية في الواقع و إن كانت متأخرة عنها في الذهن لأن ظرف اتصاف الماهية بالوجود هو الذهن كما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٧٦

علمت و الموصوف من حيث إنه موصوف متقدم على الصفة في ظرف الاتصاف فاحتفظ بذلك فإنه نفيس و قالوا أيضا إن الصفات ليست موجودة و لا معدومة و لا مجهولة و لا معلومة بل المعلوم هو الذات بالصفة و الصفة لا تعلم و سلموا أن المحال منفي - و أنه لا واسطة بين النفي و الإثبات.

و ربما أثبتوا واسطة بين الموجود و المعدوم حتى يقال الثابت على بعض المعدوم - و هو المعدوم الممكن و على نفس الوجود و على أمر ليس بموجود و لا معدوم عندهم مما سموه حالا و كان هذه الطائفة من الناس إما أن يكون غرضهم مجرد اصطلاح تواضعوا عليه في التخاطب و إما أن يكونوا ذاهلين عن الأمور الذهنية فإن عنوا بالمعدوم المعدوم في خارج العقل جاز أن يكون الشيء ثابتا في العقل معدوما في الخارج و إن عنوا غير ذلك كان باطلا و لا خبر عنه و لا به - و مما يوجب افتضاحهم أن يقال لهم إذا كان الممكن معدوما في الخارج - فوجوده هل هو ثابت أو منفي فإنه باعترا فهم لا يخرج الشيء من النفي و الإثبات - فإن قالوا وجود المعدوم الممكن منفي و كل منفي عندهم ممتنع

فالوجود الممكن يصير ممتنعاً وهو محال وإن قالوا إن الوجود ثابت له و كل صفة ثابتة للشيء يجوز أن يوصف بها الشيء فالمعْدوم يصح أن يوصف في حالة العدم بالوجود فيكون موجوداً و معدوماً معاً و هو محال فإن منعوا اتصاف الشيء بالصفة الثابتة له فالماهية المعْدومة يجب أن لا يصح أن يقال لها إنها شيء فإن الشيئية ثابتة لها وإن التزم أحد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٧٧

على هذا التقدير بأنه لا يصح أن يوصف الشيء بأمر ثابت له فليس بشيء و قد قال بأنه شيء و كذا الإمكان. ثم إنهم كما اضطروا في كون الذوات مشتركة في أنها ذوات إلى صفات تفترق بها كذلك يضطربهم كون الصفات غير مختلفة في أنها صفات إلى فرض قسم ثالث يفترق بها و يتمادى الأمر إلى غير النهاية و يتبين أنه إذا لم يعلم الشيء لم يعلم به الشيء - و تبين عليهم أن الصفة مخبر عنها كما أن الذات مخبر عنها. و من هذا القبيل جماعة أيضاً تحاشوا أن يقولوا إن الباري موجود أو معدوم لكون اللفظ على صيغة المفعول يقصدونه عن ذلك و ما بحسب اللفظ أمر سهل فيما يتعلق بالعلوم و المعارف - كيف و جل الألفاظ المطلقة في وصفه تعالى بل كلها إنما المراد منها في حق الباري تعالى معان هي تكون أعلى و أشرف مما وضعت الأسماء بإزائها فكما أن المراد من السمع و البصر السائغين إطلاقهما بحسب التوقيف الشرعي عليه تعالى ليس معناهما الوضعي - لتقدسه عن الجسمية و الآلة فكذا العلم و القدرة و الوجود و الإرادة معانيها في حقه تعالى أعلى و أشرف مما يفهمه الجمهور و ليس لنا بد من وصفه و إطلاق لفظه من هذه الألفاظ المشتركة المعاني مع التنبيه على أن صفاته صريح ذاته البعيدة عن المعنى الذي تنصوره من تلك اللفظة هذه في صفاته الحقيقية و أما السلوب و الاعتبار فلا يبعد أن يراد من الألفاظ الموضوعية بإزائها المستعملة فيه تعالى معانيها الوضعية العرفية.

و أما من احتج على عدم إطلاق لفظ الموجود فيه تعالى بأنه يلزم منه كونه تعالى - مشاركاً للموجودات في الوجود فقد ذهب إلى مجرد التعطيل فإنه لا يصح حينئذ أن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٧٨

يقال إنه حقيقة أو ذات أو شيء من الأشياء و إلا لزم اشتراكه مع غيره في مفهوم الحقيقة و الذات و الشيء فإذا لم تكن شيئاً يكون لا شيئاً لاستحالة الخروج عن السلب و الإيجاب و كذا الهوية و الثبات و التقوم و أمثالها فينسب باب معرفته و وصفه بصفات جماله و نعوت كماله.

و العجب أن أشباه هؤلاء القوم ممن يعدون عند الناس من أهل النظر و هذا هو العذر في إيرادنا شيئاً من هوساتهم في هذا الكتاب إذ العاقل لا يضيع وقته بذكر هذه المجازفات و ردها و ذكر صاحب الإشراف في كتاب المطارحات بعد ذكر ما تهوسوا به من شيئية المعْدوم و إثبات الوساطة و من العجب أن الوجود عندهم يفيد الفاعل و هو ليس بموجود و لا معدوم فلا يفيد الفاعل وجود الوجود مع أنه كان يعود الكلام إليه - و لا يفيد إثباته فإنه كان ثابتاً في نفسه بإمكانه فما أفاد الفاعل للماهيات شيئاً فعطلوا العالم عن الصانع قال و هؤلاء قوم نبغوا في ملة الإسلام و مالوا إلى الأمور العقلية - و ما كانت لهم أفكار سليمة و لا حصل لهم ما حصل للصوفية من الأمور الذوقية و وقع بأيديهم مما نقله جماعة في عهد بني أمية من كتب قوم أساميهم تشبه أسامي الفلاسفة فظن القوم أن كل اسم يوناني فهو اسم فيلسوف فوجدوا فيها

كلمات استحسنا و ذهبوا إليها و فرعوها رغبة في الفلسفة و انتشرت في الأرض و هم فرحون بها و تبعهم جماعة من المتأخرين و خالفوهم في بعض الأشياء إلا أن كلهم إنما غلطوا بسبب ما سمعوا من أسامي يونانية لجماعة صنفوا كتباً يتوهم أن فيها فلسفة و ما كان فيها شيء منها - فقبلها متقدموهم و تبعهم فيها المتأخرون و ما خرجت الفلسفة إلا بعد انتشار أقاويل عامة يونان و خطبائهم و قبول الناس لها

فصل (٩) في الوجود الرابطي

إطلاق الوجود الرابطي في صناعاتهم يكون على معنيين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٧٩

أحدهما ما يقابل الوجود المحمولي و هو وجود الشيء في نفسه المستعمل في مباحث المواد الثلاث و هو ما يقع رابطة في الحملات الإيجابية وراء النسبة الحكمية الاتحادية التي هي تكون في جملة العقود و قد اختلفوا في كونه غير الوجود المحمولي بالنوع أم لا ثم تحققه في الهليات البسيطة أم لا و الحق هو الأول في الأول و الثاني في الثاني - و الاتفاق النوعي في طبيعة الوجود مطلقاً عندنا لا ينافي التخالف النوعي في معانيها الذاتية و مفهوماتها الانتزاعية كما سيتضح لك مزيداً إيضاح على أن الحق أن الاتفاق بينهما في مجرد اللفظ.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٨٠

و الثاني ما هو أحد اعتباري وجود الشيء الذي هو من المعاني الناعية و ليس معناه إلا تحقق الشيء في نفسه و لكن على أن يكون في شيء آخر أو له أو عنده لا بأن يكون لذاته كما في الوجود القيوم بذاته فقط في فلسفتنا و جملة المفارقات الإبداعية في الفلسفة المشهورة فإن وجود المعلول من حيث هو وجود المعلول هو وجوده بعينه للعللة الفاعلية التامة عندنا و عندهم لكننا نقول بأن لا جهة أخرى للمعلول غير كونه مرتبطاً إلى جاعله التام يكون بتلك الجهة موجوداً لنفسه لا لجاعله حتى يتغاير الوجودان و يختلف

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٨١

النسبتان و هم لا يقولون به إذ المعلول عندنا هو أنحاء الوجودات بالجعل الإبداعي و عندهم إما نفس الماهيات كما في طريقة الرواقيين أو اتصافها بوجوداتها كما في قاعدة المشائين فإذن هذا الوجود الرابطي ليس طباعه أن تباين تحقق الشيء في نفسه بالذات بل إنه أحد اعتباراته التي عليها إن كانت و أما الوجود الرابطي الذي هو إحدى الرابطين في الهلية المركبة فنفس مفهومه يباين وجود الشيء في نفسه و في قولنا البياض موجود في الجسم اعتباراً اعتبار تحقق البياض في نفسه و إن كان في الجسم و هو بذلك الاعتبار محمول لهل البسيطة و الآخر أنه هو بعينه في الجسم و هذا مفهوم آخر غير تحقق البياض في نفسه و إن كان هو بعينه تحقق البياض في نفسه ملحوظاً بهذه الحيثية و إنما يصح أن يكون محمولاً في الهل المركبة و مفاده أنه حقيقة ناعية ليس وجودها في نفسها لنفسها بل للجسم.

ثم وجود الشيء الناعتي بعد أن يؤخذ على هذه الجهة يلحظ على نحوين تارة ينسب إلى ذلك الشيء فيكون من أحواله و تارة إلى المنعوت فيقال الجسم موجود له البياض - فيكون بهذا الاعتبار من حالات المنعوت و على قياس ما تلوناه

عليك يقع لفظ الوجود في نفسه أيضا بالاشتراك العرفي على معنيين أحدهما بإزاء الوجود الرباطي بالمعنى الأول و يعم ما لذاته و هو الوجود في نفسه و لنفسه و ما لغيره كوجود الأعراض و الصور و هو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٨٢

الوجود في نفسه لا لنفسه و الآخر بإزاء الرباطي بالمعنى الأخير و هو ما يختص بوجود الشيء لنفسه و لا يكون للنوعات و الأوصاف.

و الحاصل أن الوجود الرباطي بالمعنى الأول مفهوم تعلقى لا يمكن تعقلها على الاستقلال و هو من المعاني الحرفية و يستحيل أن يسلك عنه ذلك الشأن و يؤخذ معنى اسميا بتوجيه الالتفات إليه فيصير الوجود المحمولي نعم ربما يصح أن يؤخذ نسبيا غير رباطي و بالمعنى الثاني مفهوم مستقل بالتعقل هو وجود الشيء في نفسه - و إنما لحقته الإضافة إلى الغير بحسب الواقع خارجا عن ماهية موضوعه فله صلوح أن يؤخذ بما هو هو فيكون معنى اسميا بخلاف الإضافات المحضة و النسب الصرفة و هذه الأقسام متأتية في العدم على وزان ما قيل في الوجود و كثيرا ما يقع الغلط من اشتراك اللفظ فلو اُصطلح على الوجود الرابط لأول الرباطين و الرباطي للأخير - و بإزائهما الوجود المحمول لأول المعنيين و الوجود في نفسه للأخير و كذا في باب العدم يقع الصيانة عن الغلط

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٨٣

المنهج الثاني في أصول الكيفيات و عناصر العقود و خواص كل منها و فيه فصول

فصل (١) في تعريف الوجوب و الإمكان و الامتناع و الحق و الباطل

إن من المعاني التي ترسم النفس بها ارتساما أوليا هو معنى الضرورة و اللاضرورة و لذلك لما تصدى بعض الناس أن يعرفها تعريفا حقيقيا لا لفظيا تنبيهيا عرفها بما يتضمن دورا فعرف الممتنع بأنه ليس بممكن ثم عرف الممكن بما ليس بممتنع و هذا دور ظاهر و عرفوا أيضا الواجب بأنه الذي يلزم من فرض عدمه محال و الممكن بأنه الذي لا يلزم من فرض وجوده و عدمه محال و هذا فاسد لا لما توهمه بعضهم من أن هذا يوجب الدور من جهة تعريفهم الممتنع بما ليس بممكن فإن المراد منه الممكن العامي و ما عرف بأنه الذي لا يلزم من فرض وجوده و عدمه محال هو الممكن الخاصي فلا يلزم الدور من هذا الوجه بل من أجل أن من عرف الممتنع بما يجب أن لا يكون عرف الواجب بما ذكرناه فيكون تعريفه دوريا فهذه الأشياء يجب أن تؤخذ من الأمور البينة فإن الإنسان لا يتصور بعد مفهوم الوجود و الشيئية العامتين مفهوما أقدم من الضروري و اللاضروري فإذا نسب الضرورة إلى الوجود يكون وجوبا و إذا نسبها إلى العدم يكون

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٨٤

امتناعا و إذا نسب اللاضرورة إلى أحدهما أو كليهما حصل الإمكان العام أو الخاص - على أن التعريفات المذكورة مشتملة على خلل آخر و هو أن مفهوم الواجب ليس ما يلزم من عدمه محال بل هو نفس عدمه محال و ليس لأجل محال آخر يلزم بل قد لا يلزم محال آخر أو لا يكون ما يلزم أظهر و لا أبين من نفس فرض عدمه و كذا الكلام في الممتنع فإن

المحال نفس الممتنع لا ما يلزم من فرض وجوده فيكون تعريفاً للشيء بنفسه وعلى هذا السبيل معنى الإمكان بل جميع المفهومات الشاملة المبحوث عنها في العلم الكلبي كما نبهناك عليه سابقاً وإن انتهيت أن تعرف شيئاً من هذه المعاني الثلاثة - فلتأخذ الوجوب بينا بنفسه كيف وهو تأكد الوجود والوجود أجلى من العدم لأن الوجود يعرف بذاته والعدم يعرف بالوجود بوجه ما ثم تعرف الإمكان بسلب الوجوب عن الطرفين والامتناع بإثبات الوجوب على السلب.

ثم اعلم أن القوم أول ما اشتغلوا بالتقسيم للشيء إلى هذه المعاني الثلاثة نظروا إلى حال المهيئات الكلية بالقياس إلى الوجود والعدم بحسب مفهومات الأقسام من غير ملاحظة الواقع الثابت بالبرهان فوجدوا أن لا مفهوم كلياً إلا وله الاتصاف بأحد منها فحكموا أولاً بأن كل مفهوم بحسب ذاته إما أن يقتضي الوجود أو يقتضي العدم أو لا يقتضي شيئاً منهما فحصل الأقسام الثلاثة الواجب لذاته والممكن لذاته والممتنع لذاته وأما احتمال كون الشيء مقتضياً للوجود والعدم جميعاً فيرتفع بأدنى الالتفات وهذا هو المراد من كون الحصر في الثلاثة عقلياً ثم لما جاءوا إلى البرهان وجدوا أن احتمال كون الماهية مقتضية لوجودها أمر غير معقول بحسب النظر العقلي وإن خرج من التقسيم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ١، ص ٨٥

في أول الأمر فوضعوا أولاً معنى الواجب على ذلك الوجه فإذا شرعوا في شرح خواصه - انكشف معنى آخر لواجب الوجود كما سنذكر على وجه التصدير وهذه عاداتهم في بعض المواضع لسهولة التعليم كما فعلوا من إثباتهم الوسائط العقلية والنفسية والطبائع الجسمية ونسبة العلية والإفاضة والآثار إليها أولاً ثقة بما بينوا في مقامه أن لا مؤثر في الوجود إلا الواجب وإنما ينسب العلية والتأثير إلى ما سواه من المبادي العقلية والنفسية والطبيعية من أجل أنها شرائط ومعدات لفيض الواحد الحق وتكثرات لجهات جوده ورحمته ونحن أيضاً سالكون هذا المنهج في أكثر مقاصدنا الخاصة - حيث سلكنا أولاً مسلك القوم في أوائل الأبحاث وأواسطها ثم نفرق عنهم في الغايات لثلاث طبائع عما نحن بصدد في أول الأمر بل يحصل لهم الاستيناس به - ويقع في أسماعهم كلامنا موقع القبول إشفافاً بهم فكما أنهم غيروا معنى الواجب عما فهمه المتعلمون من التعريف الخارج من التقسيم فكذلك نحن غيرنا معنى الممكن في بعض ما سوى الواجب عما فهم الجمهور كما ستقف عليه.

فالتقسيم الأقرب إلى التحقيق ما يوجد في كتبهم أن كل موجود إذا لاحظ العقل من حيث هو موجود و جرد النظر إليه عما عداه فلا يخلو إما أن يكون بحيث ينتزع - من نفس ذاته بذاته الموجودية بالمعنى العام الشامل للموجودات و يحكم بها عليه أم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ١، ص ٨٦

لا يكون كذلك بل يفترق في هذا الانتزاع إلى ملاحظة أمر وراء نفس الذات والحقيقة كانتسابه إلى شيء ما أو انضمام شيء ما إليه أو غير ذلك فالأول هو مفهوم الواجب لذاته - الحق الأول ونور الأنوار على لسان الإشراف الوحدة الحقيقية عند الفيثاغورثيين - و حقيقة الحقائق عند الصوفية والثاني لا يكون ممتنعاً لذاته بعد ما جعلنا المقسم الموجود - فلنسمه ممكناً سواء كان ماهية أو إنية إلا أن موجودية الماهيات بانضمام الوجود إليها وانصبغها به و موجودية

الوجودات بصدورها عن الجاعل التام كوقوع الأضواء والأظلال على الهياكل والقوالب بل بتطوره بالأطوار الوجودية المنسوبة إلى الماهيات بنحو الانصباع والاتصاف والاستكمال وإلى القيوم الجاعل على نحو القيام والنزول والتشعشع والالتماع والتجلي والفيض والرشح إلى غير ذلك مما يليق بتقدسه وغناه عما سواه فمصدق حمل مفهوم الموجود العام ومبدأ انتزاع هذا المعنى الكلي في الواجب لذاته هو نفس ذاته بذاته بلا ملاحظة جهة أخرى واعتبار أمر آخر غير ذاته من الحثيات الانضمامية أو الانتزاعية التعليلية أو التقيدية وفي الممكن بواسطة حثية أخرى انضمامية اتحادية - إذا أريد به الماهية أو ارتباطية تعليلية إذا أريد به نحو من الوجود و إذ سينكشف لك بنحو البرهان أن وجودية الممكن ليست إلا باتحاده مع حقيقة الوجود كما أشير إليه و أن مناط إمكان وجوده ليس إلا كون ذلك الوجود متعلقا بالغير مفتقرا إليه و مناط الواجبية ليس إلا الوجود الغني عما سواه فإمكان الماهيات الخارجة عن مفهومها الوجود عبارة عن لا ضرورة وجودها وعدمها بالقياس إلى ذاتها من حيث هي و إمكان نفس الوجودات هو كونها بذواتها مرتبطة و متعلقة و بحقائقها روابط و تعلقات إلى غيرها فحقائقها حقائق تعلقية و ذواتها ذوات لمعانية - لا استقلال لها ذاتا و وجودا بخلاف الماهيات الكلية فإنها و إن لم يكن لها ثبوت قبل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ١، ص ٨٧

الوجود إلا أنها أعيان متصورة بكنهها ما دام وجوداتها و لو في العقل فإنها ما لم يتنور بنور الوجود لا يمكن الإشارة العقلية إليها بأنها ليست موجودة و لا معدومة في وقت من الأوقات بل هي باقية على احتجابها الذاتي و بطونها الأصلي أزلا و أبدا و ليست حقائقها حقائق تعلقية فيمكن الإشارة إليها و الحكم عليها بأنها هي و أنها ليست إلا هي و أنها لا موجودة و لا معدومة و لا متقدمة و لا متأخرة و لا مصدر و لا صادر و لا متعلق و لا جاعل و لا مجعول و بالجملة ليست محكوما عليها بحسب ذواتها و لو في وقت وجودها المنسوب إليها مجازا عند العرفاء بنعت من النعوت إلا بأنها هي هي لا غير بخلاف الوجودات فإن حقائقها تعلقية لا يمكن للعقل الإشارة إليها مع فرض انفصالها عن القيوم الجاعل - بأنها هي هي إذ ليست لها هويات انفصالية استقلالية و مع هذا فإنها عينيات صرفة بلا إبهام و وجودات محصنة بلا ماهيات و أنوار ساذجة بلا ظلمة و هذا مما يحتاج تصورها إلى ذهن لطيف ذكي في غاية الذكاء والدقة و اللطافة و لهذا قيل إن هذا طور وراء طور العقل لأن إدراكها يحتاج إلى فطرة مستأنفة و قريحة ثانية فكما أن الماهيات الغير البسيطة التي لها حد لا يمكن تصورها بحدودها و الاكتناه بماهياتها إلا بعد تصور ما سبق عليها من مقوماتها الذاتية فكذلك لا يمكن اكتناه شيء من أنحاء الوجودات الفارقة للذوات إلا من سبيل الاكتناه بما هو مقوم له من مبادئه الوجودية و مقوماته الفاعلية و من تعمق تعمقا شديدا فيما ذكره المنطقيون في كتاب البرهان أن الحد و البرهان متشاركان في الحدود و أن الحد الأوسط في البرهان بعينه هو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ١، ص ٨٨

الحد المتأخر الذي هو الفصل في الحد و ما ذكره المعلم الأول في أثولوجيا أن الجواب عما هو و لم هو في كثير من الأشياء واحد يجد إشارة لطيفة غامضة بل واضحة إلى صحة ما قلناه. و بالجملة تجريد الممكن عن مقوماته بحسب الماهية أو الوجود ليس إلا من تعاملات النفس و تصرفاتها.

وقد تبين مما ذكر من معنى الإمكان والوجوب أن ما حظه في نفس ذاته الإمكان والافتقار لا يصح أن يقتضي وجود ذاته لا تاما ولا ناقصا ولا ترجيح وجوده أو عدمه سواء بلغا حد الوجوب أو لا فإذن تجويز كون ذات الممكن مقتضيا لرجحان الوجود وأولويته رجحانا متقدما على وجوده وألوية باعثه لتحقيقه إنما نشأ من الغفلة عن كون

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٨٩

الممكن في نفسه مع انقطاعه عن سببه باطلا محضا وليس له امتياز ولا تأثير ولا اقتضاء أصلا. وأيضا لو اقتضى ذات ممكن ما أولوية وجوده ورجحانه لزم الترجيح من غير مرجح لأنه لما لم يكن قبل وجوده تميز ولا تخصص فحيث اقتضى ممكن ما أولوية وجوده وتخصصه بمرتبة من مراتب الوجود ولا يقتضي ممكن آخر أولوية وجوده وتخصصه بتلك المرتبة مع عدم تميز شيء منهما عن الآخر لبطانتهما في تلك المرتبة يلزم ما ذكرناه من الترجيح بلا مرجح والتخصيص بلا مخصص - وأشير إلى معنى الإمكان الذاتي الشامل لجميع الممكنات في قوله تعالى كُلُّ شَيْءٍ هَالِكٌ إِلَّا وَجْهَهُ إذ الهلاك عبارة عن لا استحقاقية الوجود فاستثنى وجهه وهو جهة الوجوب الذي هو فعلية الوجود وبهذه النعمة الروحانية قيل اهتزت نفس النبي اهتزازا علويا لا سفليا حيث سمع قول لبيد -
ألا كل شيء ما خلا الله باطل و كل نعيم لا محالة زائل

و طربت طربا قدسيا لا حسيا وقال اللهم إلا أن العيش عيش الآخرة. وأما الحق فقد يعنى به الوجود في الأعيان مطلقا فحقيقة كل شيء نحو وجوده العيني - وقد يعنى به الوجود الدائم وقد يعنى به الواجب لذاته وقد يفهم عنه حال القول والعقد من حيث مطابقتها لما هو واقع في الأعيان فيقال هذا قول حق وهذا اعتقاد حق وهذا الاعتبار من مفهوم الحق هو الصادق فهو الصادق باعتبار نسبته إلى الأمر وحق باعتبار نسبة الأمر إليه وقد أخطأ من توهم أن الحقيقة عبارة عن نسبة الأمر في نفسه إلى القول أو العقد والصدق نسبتها إلى الأمر في نفسه - فإن التفرقة بينهما بهذا الوجه فيها تعسف وأحق الأقاويل ما كان صدقه دائما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٩٠

وأحق من ذلك ما كان صدقه أوليا وأول الأقاويل الحققة الأولية التي إنكاره مبني كل سفسطة هو القول بأنه لا واسطة بين الإيجاب والسلب فإنه إليه ينتهي جميع الأقوال عند التحليل وإنكاره إنكار لجميع المقدمات والنتائج وهذه الخاصة من عوارض الوجود بما هو موجود لعمومه في كل موجود ونقاوة ما ذكره الشيخ في الشفا - لسبيل مقابيح السوفسطائية أن يسأل عنهم إنكم هل تعلمون أن إنكاركم حق أو باطل أو تشكون فإن حكموا بعلمهم بشيء من هذه الأمور فقد اعترفوا بحقيقة اعتقاد ما - سواء كان ذلك الاعتقاد الحققة في قولهم بإنكار القول الحق أو اعتقاد البطلان أو الشك فيه فسقط إنكارهم الحق مطلقا وإن قالوا إنا شككنا فيقال لهم هل تعلمون أنكم شككتكم أو أنكم أنكرتم و هل تعلمون من الأقاويل شيئا معينا - فإن اعترفوا بأنهم شاكون أو منكرون وأنهم يعلمون شيئا معينا من الأشياء فقد اعترفوا بعلم ما وحق ما وإن قالوا إنا لا نفهم شيئا أبدا ولا نفهم أنا لا نفهم ونشك في جميع الأشياء حتى في وجودنا وعدمنا ونشك في شكنا أيضا وننكر الأشياء جميعا حتى إنكارنا لها أيضا ولعل هذا مما يتلفظ به لسانهم معاندين فسقط

الاحتجاج معهم ولا يرجى منهم الاسترشاد فليس علاجهم إلا أن يكلفوا بدخول النار - إذا النار واللائم واحد و يضربوا فإن الألم واللائم واحد ذنابة قسمة المفهوم بحسب المواد الثلاث إلى الواجب والممكن والممتنع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٩١

قسمة حقيقية أو في مرتبتها لأن احتمال ضرورة طرفي الوجود والعدم أو الإيجاب والسلب ساقط عن الاعتبار مع صحة القرينة وهي جارية في جميع المفهومات بالقياس إلى أي محمول كان فكل مفهوم إما أن يكون واجب الحيوانية أو ممتنعاً أو ممكنها - لكن حيثما يطلق الواجب وقسيمه في العلم الكلي يتبادر الذهن إلى ما يكون بالقياس إلى الوجود فهذه بعينها هي المستعملة في فن الميزان لكن مقيدة بنسبة محمول خاص هو الوجود.

وأما ما توهمه بعض من أن هذه مغايرة لتلك بحسب المعنى وإلا لكانت لوازم الماهيات واجبة لذواتها فمندفع بأن اللازم منه هو أن يكون الأربعة واجبة الزوجية لا واجبة الوجود فاختلف المعنى بحسب اختلاف المحمول - لا بحسب اختلاف مفهوم الوجوب الذي هو المادة والجهة وبعض أجلة أصحاب البحوث حيث لم يتفقه أن لازم الماهية كثبوت الزوجية للأربعة إنما ينسب بالذات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٩٢

إلى نفس الماهية ولا يتوقف ذلك الثبوت الرباطي على جاعل الماهية إلا بالعرض في الطبائع الإمكانية الغير المتحققة إلا بالجعل ولا على وجودها إلا بالعرض أيضاً - من جهة أنها حالة الاقتضاء مخلوطة بالوجود لا بالذات حتى يكون العلة المقتضية - مركبة عند العقل من الماهيات وحيثية الوجود لها على أن يكون القضية المعقودة لذلك الحكم وصفية ظن أن كون اللوازم واجبة لملزوماتها نظراً إلى ذواتها إنما يتصور إذا كانت الملزومات واجبة الوجود لذواتها إذ لو لم يكن كذلك لاحتاج ثبوت اللوازم لها إلى ما يوجدها وظن أن الضرورة في قولنا الأربعة زوج ما دامت موجودة بالضرورة ضرورة وصفية مقيدة بقيد الوجود ولم يتميز الضرورة الذاتية عن الضرورة بشرط الوصف ولا الضرورة الذاتية الأزلية كما في قولنا الله قادر وحكيم بالضرورة عن الضرورة الذاتية الصادقة حالة الوجود أي مع الوجود لا بالوجود كما في هذه الضرورة ليس بين الضرورة بالشيء زمانية أو غيرها - وبين الضرورة ما دام الشيء كذلك وبين الضرورة الأزلية السرمدية الذاتية فرق محصل فاتخذ سبيلاً مستتبناً إلى تحصيل الضرورة الذاتية مع الوصف لا بالوصف - وهذه الضرورة التي هي مع وصف الوجود لا به مشترك عندنا بين ذاتيات الماهية المتقدمة ولوازمها المتأخرة والفارق هو التقدم والتأخر بنحو واحد منهما هو ما بحسب الذات والماهية لا بحسب الطبع والعلية المشهورة

فصل (٢) في أن واجب الوجود لا يكون بالذات وبالغير جميعاً وفي عدم العلاقة للزومية بين واجبين لو فرضنا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٩٣

كل ما لا علة له في ذاته لا يجب بعلة لأنك قد علمت أن مناط كون الشيء واجباً بالذات هو كونه إذا نظر إليه من حيث ذاته بذاته مطابقاً للحكم عليه بأنه موجود ومحكياً عنه بذلك من غير حيثية أخرى انضمامية أو انتزاعية تقييدية أو

تعليلية فإن مصداق الحكم على الأشياء قد يكون نفس ذات الموضوع من غير اعتبار آخر مطلقا وهو الضروري الأزلي الدائم وقد يكون نفس الموضوع من دون شرط و علة لكن ما دام اتصاف ذات الموضوع بالثبوت - فالحيثية المذكورة تؤخذ على نحو الظرفية البحتة لا على تعليل الحكم أو تقييده به - كقولنا الإنسان حيوان والإنسان إنسان و يقال له الضروري الذاتي وقد يكون ذات الموضوع باعتبار حيثية تعليلية خارجة عن مصداق الحكم وقد يكون مع حيثية أخرى غير الذات تقييدية سواء كانت سلبية كزيد أعمى أو إضافية كالسماء فوقنا أو اعتبارية كزيد ممكن أو انضمامية كزيد أبيض فصدق الوجودية على

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٩٤

الواجب الوجود من قبيل الضرورة الأزلية إذ معنى كون الشيء واجبا لذاته أن يكون بحيث إذا اعتبر ذاته بذاته من غير اعتبار أي معنى كان و أية حيثية كانت غير نفس الذات يصدق عليه مفهوم الوجود و الوجودية فحينئذ نقول إذا فرض كون تلك الذات مستندة في موجوديتها إلى علة موجبة خارجة عنها لا يخلو إما أن يكون بحيث لو ارتفع المقتضي لوجودها أو فرض ارتفاعها عنها أو قطع النظر عن ملاحظة تأثيره فيها يبقى كونه مطابقا لصدق الوجود و محكيا عنها بالوجودية أم لا يكون - فإن كان الأول فلا تأثير لايجاب الغير لوجودها لتساوي فرض وجوده و عدمه - و اعتباره و لا اعتباره و قد فرض كونه مؤثرا هذا خلف و إن كان الثاني فلم يكن ما فرض واجبا بالذات واجبا بالذات فكل الشقين من التالي مستحيل و بطلان التالي بقسميه يوجب بطلان المقدم فكون واجب الوجود بالذات واجب الوجود بالغير باطل فكل واجب الوجود بغيره فهو ممكن الوجود بذاته.

و من هاهنا تبين أنه لا يصح أن يكون لواجب الوجود علاقة لزومية مع واجب وجود آخر لو فرضنا إذ العلاقة العقلية إنما يتحقق بين أمور يكون بعضها علة موجبة لبعض آخر أو بين أمور تكون معلولة لعلة واحدة موجبة بلا واسطة أو بوسط فإننا نعلم أن الأمور التي ليست بينها علاقة العلية و المعلولية و الافتقار و الارتباط بغير وسط أو بوسط يجوز عند العقل وجود بعضها منفكا عن الآخر - فإذن لو فرضنا بين الواجبين المفروضين تلازما ذاتيا و تكافؤا عقليا يلزم معلولية أحدهما أو كلاهما فيلزم إمكان شيء من الواجب و هو ينافي الوجوب الذاتي هذا خلف.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٩٥

طريق آخر لو كان بين الواجبين تلازم لزم اجتماع وجودين معا في ذات واحدة و الملازمة تظهر بأدنى تأمل و كذا بطلان اللازم فالذات الواجبية بما هي واجبية لا يعرض لها الوجوب بالقياس إلى ما لا يحتاج إليه سواء كان واجبا أو ممكنا كما لا يعرض لها الوجوب بالغير و لا يأبى طباع مفهوم الواجبية عن أن يكون للواجب إمكان بالقياس إلى الغير و للغير إمكان بالقياس إليه إلا إذا لوحظت بينهما علاقة العلية و المعلولية و ارتباط الإيجابي و الوجوبي و شيء من ذلك لا يتحقق بين الواجبين كما علمت فلو فرض وجود واجبين لا يكون بينهما معية ذاتية و لا علاقة لزومية بل مجرد صحابة اتفاقية يثبت لكل منهما إمكان بالقياس إلى الآخر و المضافان اللذان وجوب كل منهما مع الآخر لا يكفي في تحققهما موضوعاهما - بل يفترقان إلى ثالث جامع بينهما موقع الإضافة كما فصل في كتاب البرهان - حيث تبين فيه كيفية تحديد كل منهما و أنه يجب أن لا يؤخذ فيه المضاف الآخر

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٩٦

بل إنما يؤخذ في التحديد السبب الموقع للإضافة بينهما

فصل (٣) في أن واجب الوجود إنيته ماهيته

بمعنى أنه لا ماهية له سوى الوجود الخاص المجرد عن مقارنة الماهية بخلاف الممكن كالإنسان مثلاً فإن له ماهية هو الحيوان الناطق و وجوداً و هو كونه في الأعيان و فيه وجوه.

الأول لو لم يكن وجود الواجب عين ذاته

يلزم كونه مع بساطته كما سنبين قابلاً و فاعلاً بيان اللزوم أن وجوده لكونه عرضياً لماهيته يكون معلولاً لأن كل عرضي معلول إما لمعروضه و إما لغيره فلو كان معلولاً لغيره يلزم إمكانه إذ المعلولية للغير ينافي الواجبية هذا خلف فإذن الماهية يكون قابلاً للوجود من حيث المعروضية فاعلاً له من حيث الاقتضاء و في بطلان التالي كلام سيرد عليك إن شاء الله.

الثاني لو كان وجوده زائداً عليه يلزم تقدم الشيء بوجوده

على وجوده- و بطلانه ضروري من دون الاستعانة بما ذكره صاحب المباحث من أنه يفضي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٩٧

إلى وجود الشيء مرتين و إلى التسلسل في الوجودات لأن الوجود المتقدم إن كان نفس الماهية فذاك و إن كان غيرها عاد الكلام فيه و تسلسل وجه اللزوم أن الوجود حينئذ يحتاج إلى الماهية احتياج العارض إلى المعروض فيكون ممكناً ضرورة احتياجه إلى الغير فيفتقر إلى علة هي الماهية لا غير لامتناع افتقار الواجب في وجوده إلى الغير و كل علة فهي متقدمة على معلولها بالضرورة فيكون الماهية متقدمة على وجودها بوجودها.

الثالث لو كان زائداً يلزم إمكان زوال وجود الواجب

و هو ضروري الاستحالة- بيان الملازمة أن الوجود إذا كان محتاجاً إلى غيره كان ممكناً و كان جائز الزوال نظراً إلى ذاته و إلا لكان واجباً لذاته مستقلاً في حقيقته غير متعلق بالماهية هذا خلف-

و هاهنا بحث-

و هو أن إمكان الشيء لذاته لا ينافي وجوبه للغير نظراً إلى ذات ذلك الغير فإن أريد بإمكان زوال الوجود إمكان زواله نظراً إلى ذات ذلك الوجود العارض المفروض زيادته على ذات الواجب فهو مسلم لكن لا يستلزم إمكان زواله نظراً إلى ذات المعروض لأن الذات بذاتها مقتضية و موجبة لوجودها على ذلك التقدير و الإيجاب ينافي الاحتمال و الإمكان الخاصي و إن أريد بإمكان الزوال

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٩٨

ما هو بحسب الذات الموجبة للوجود فهو ممنوع و السند ما مر.

و حاصل ما ذكره صاحب المباحث في الاعتراض على الوجه الثاني الذي هو العمدة من الوجوه الثلاثة أنه لم لا يجوز أن يكون علة الوجود هي الماهية من حيث هي هي فيتقدمه لا بالوجود بل بنفس ذاتها بذاتها كما أن ذاتيات الماهية

متقدمة عليها لا بالوجود بل بالماهية و كما أن الماهية علة للوالمها بذاتها لا بوجودها و كما أن ماهية الممكن قابل لوجوده مع أن تقدم القابل أيضا ضروري.

ورده الحكيم الطوسي في مواضع من كتبه كشرح الإشارات و نقدي التنزيل و المحصل بأن الكلام فيما يكون علة لوجود أو موجود في الخارج و بديهة العقل حاكمة بوجوب تقدمها عليه بالوجود فإنه ما لم تلحظ كون الشيء موجودا امتنع أن تلحظه مبدءا لوجود و مفيدا له بخلاف القابل للوجود فإنه لا بد أن يلحظه العقل خاليا عن الوجود أي غير معتبر فيه الوجود لئلا يلزم حصول الحاصل - و عن العدم لئلا يلزم اجتماع المتنافيين فإذن هي الماهية من حيث هي و أما الذاتيات بالنسبة إلى الماهية و الماهية بالنسبة إلى لوازها فلا يجب تقدمها إلا بالوجود العقلي لأن تقومها بالذاتيات و اتصافها بلوازها إنما هو بحسب العقل لا كالجسم مع البياض.

و مما يؤيد كلام هذا المحقق ما ذكره الشيخ الرئيس في كتاب المباحثات كلاما بهذه العبارة الوجود لا يجوز أن يكون معلول الماهية لأن الوجود ليس له حال غير أن يكون موجودا و علة الموجود موجودة و علة المعدوم معدومة - و علة الشيء من حيث هو شيء و ماهية شيء و ماهية فليس إذا كان الشيء قد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٩٩

يكون من حيث هو ماهية علة لبعض الأشياء يجب أن يكون علة لكل شيء - و كل ماهية لها لازم هو الوجود لا يجوز أن يكون لازمها معلولا لها و قد بين هذا في الشفا و في الإشارات و بالجملة لا يجوز أن يكون سبب الشيء من حيث هو حاصل الوجود إلا شيئا حاصل الوجود و لو كانت ماهية سببا للوجود لأنها ماهية لكان يجوز أن يكون يلزمها مع العدم لأن ما يلزم الماهية من حيث هي يلزمها كيف فرضت - و لا يتوقف على حال وجودها و محال أن يكون ماهية علة لوجود شيء و لم يعرض لها وجود فيكون علة الموجود لم يحصل لها الوجود و إذا لم يحصل للعلة وجود لم يحصل للمعلول وجود بل يكون للعلة ماهية فيتبعها ماهية المعلول مثل أن المثلث يتبعها كون الزوايا مساوية لقائمتين لكن لا يوجد كون الزوايا كقائمتين حاصلًا موجودًا إلا و قد عرض للمثلث وجود فإن لم يعرض للمثلث وجود لم يعرض لكون الزوايا كقائمتين وجود و ليس يجوز أن يقال للوجود ماهية ليس يعتبر معها الوجود كما يجوز أن يكون لكون الزوايا كقائمتين ماهية لا يعتبر معها الوجود - فإن تلك الماهية في حال وجود المثلث تكون موجودة و في حال عدمها تكون معدومة و ما لم يوضع للمثلث وجود لم يكن لتلك الماهية وجود فليس يمكن أن يقال ماهية الأول عرض لها وجود حتى لزم عنها الوجود و لا يجوز أن يقال إنها و إن لم يوجد يكون للوجود عنها وجود و لا يجوز أن يقال إنها من حيث هي ماهية يلزمها ماهية الوجود و من حيث يعرض لها وجود يلزمها وجود ماهية الوجود - فإن ماهية الوجود لا يخلو عن أن تكون موجودة و ليس كماهية كون الزوايا كقائمتين - من حيث لا يجب لها دائما وجود ما دامت ماهية بل هذه الماهية توجد بعد وجود المثلث و إن عدم المثلث عدمت هذه الماهية فإن قال قائل و أيضا فإن عدمت

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٠٠

ماهية واجب الوجود عدم الوجود فيكون حينئذ ليست الماهية سببا للوجود بل كونها موجودة سبب للوجود فيحتاج إذن أن تكون موجودة حتى يلزمها وجود الوجود و إلا لم يلزمها إلا عدم الوجود فتكون قبل اللازم الموجود موجودة -

فيكون قد عرض لها الوجود قبل أن لزم عنها الوجود و هذا محال فاحتفظ بهذا الكلام فإنه لم يوجد نظيره في هذا المقام.

نقد وإشارة:

قد دريت أن نسبة الوجود إلى الماهية ليست كنسبة العرض إلى الموضوع - بأن يكون للماهية كون و لوجودها كون آخر يحل الماهية بل الوجود نفس كون الماهية و حصولها و ما به تتحصل فهي في حد نفسها في غاية الكمون و البطون و الخفاء و إنما تكونت و تنورت و ظهرت بالوجود فالنسبة بينهما اتحادية لا تعلقية و الاتحاد لا يتصور بين شيئين متحصلين بل إنما يتصور بين متحصل و لا متحصل كما بين الجنس و الفصل بما هما جنس و فصل لا بما هما مادة و صورة عقليتان فانصبغ الماهية بالوجود إنما هو بحسب العقل حيث يحلل الموجود إلى ماهية مبهمة و وجود حاصل لها و يصفها به كما مر فالمبهم بما هو مبهم لا يكون علة للمتحصل و خصوصاً للمتحصل الذي يتحصل ذلك المبهم به و لا تحصل له إلا به بل ذلك المتحصل نفس تحصله كما أن المضاف بالحقيقة نفس إضافة الموضوع له. و أما تقدم الذاتيات بحسب الماهية على ما يتألف منها و تقدم الماهية على لازمها فهذا نحو آخر من التقدم سوى ما بالعلية و الكلام في التقدم الذي يكون بحسب العلية و التأثير.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٠١

فإن قيل فليكن تقدم الماهية بالقياس إلى وجودها من هذا القبيل. نقول هذا فاسد من وجوه منها أنا قد بينا أن العلاقة بينهما اتحادية - من دون تقدم أحدهما على الآخر في الواقع فإن الموجود في الحقيقة هو الوجود - و الماهية منتزعة عنه و متحدة معه و من قال من المحققين بتقدم الوجود بحسب العين على الماهية معناه أن الوجود هو الأصل في الصدور من الجاعل و التقرر في الأعيان - لكونه نفس التقرر في الأعيان و الماهية مفهومة منه متحدة معه فيكون فرعاً له بهذا الاعتبار لا بمعنى المعلولية و التأثير إذ الماهيات غير مجعولة و لا متأثرة لا بالجعل البسيط و لا بالجعل المؤلف كما ستطلع عليه. و بالجملة ما لم يصدر الوجود الإمكانى عن الجاعل لم يكن هناك ماهية و إذا صدر الوجود تقررت الماهية لكن في مرتبة الوجود لا في مرتبة متأخرة و لا متقدمة - إذ لا استقلال لها في الكون و الحصول في الواقع. و منها أن لوازم الماهية أمور انتزاعية غير متأصلة و قد حققنا أن الوجود أمر حقيقي فكيف يكون من لوازم الماهية و التقدم و التأخر بين الماهية و لازمها - و إن كانا متحققين من دون مدخلة الوجود في شيء منهما لكن مع انسحاب حكم الوجود عليهما لا به لعدم انفكاكهما عن الوجود اللائق بهما فالماهية في مرتبة اقتضاؤها للازمها مخلوطة بالوجود و إن لم يكن اقتضاؤها بحسب الوجود فكيف يكون الوجود لازماً لها مع كونه في مرتبتها غير متأخر عنها.

توضيح و تنبيه: الشيء إما ماهية أو وجود

إذ المراد بالماهية غير الوجود - و لا محالة يكون أمراً يعرضه الكلية و الإبهام فنقول كل ما هو غير الوجود و إن أمكن أن يكون سبباً لصفة و يكون صفته سبباً لصفة أخرى لكن لا يمكن أن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٠٢

يكون سببا لوجوده فإن السبب متقدم بالوجود و لا شيء من غير الوجود بمتقدم بالوجود على الوجود و هذا مما ينبه على أن الواجب الوجود ليس غير الوجود- فإن الذي هو غير الوجود لا يكون سببا لوجود فلا يكون سببا لوجوده فلا يكون موجودا بذاته فلا يكون واجب الوجود بذاته بل واجب الوجود هو الوجود الذي هو موجود بذاته

وهم وإزاحة-

و لك أن تقول ما ذكرت في غير الوجود فهو بعينه آت في الوجود- فإن الوجود لو كان سببا لوجوده و كونه و السبب متقدم بالوجود كان الوجود متقدما بالوجود على وجوده و أنه محال لكننا نجيبك بأننا لا نسلم أنه محال فإن تقدم الوجود على موجوديته إنما هو بنفسه و هو الوجود و غير الوجود يتقدم لا بنفسه بل بوجوده و لا شبهة في عدم استحالة ذلك و لزيادة الإيضاح نقول كل ما هو غير الوجود فهو معلول لأن الإنسان مثلا إما أن يكون موجودا للإنسانية و لأنه إنسان- و إما موجود بسبب شيء آخر من خارج لا سبيل إلى الأول لأن الإنسان إنما يكون إنسانا إذا كان موجودا فلو كان كونه موجودا لأنه إنسان لكان كونه موجودا لكونه موجودا فيكون الإنسان موجودا قبل كونه موجودا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٠٣

و هو محال فبقي أن لا يكون الإنسان موجودا إلا عن علة و ينعكس بعكس النقيض إلى أن كل ما لا يكون معلولا لا يكون غير الوجود بل هو نفس الوجود.

فلو قيل الوجود أيضا كذلك لا يجوز أن يكون موجودا لأنه وجود لأنه إنما يكون وجودا لو كان موجودا فيكون موجودا لأنه موجود فيعود المحال.

فالجواب أن الوجود إنما يكون موجودا لا بوجود آخر بل بنفسه فلا معنى لقولنا الوجود موجود لأنه موجود إلا أن الوجود موجود بنفسه فلا يلزم أن يكون الوجود موجودا قبل كونه موجودا بل اللازم أن الوجود متقدم بنفسه على نفس كونه موجودا و لا محذور فيه.

فقد ظهر أن ما هو غير الوجود إنما يكون موجودا بالوجود و الوجود موجود بنفسه كما أن الزماني يتقدم و يتأخر بحسب الزمان و الزمان كذلك بنفسه و كما أن الأجسام يختلف بالمادة و المادة كذلك بنفسها و كما أن الأشياء يظهر بين يدي الحس بالنور و النور بنفسه لا بنور آخر هذا ما قرره بعض الحكماء و فيه تأمل.

الرابع ما أفاده صاحب التلويحات-

و هو أن الذي فصل الذهن وجوده عن ماهيته إن امتنع وجودها بعينه لا يصير شيء منها موجودا و إذا صار شيء منها موجودا فالكلي له جزئيات أخرى معقولة غير متمتعة لماهياتها بل ممكنة إلى غير النهاية و قد علمت أن ما وقع من جزئيات كلي بقي الإمكان بعد و إذا كان هذا الواقع واجب الوجود و له ماهية وراء الوجود فهي إذا أخذت كلية أمكن وجود جزئي آخر لها لذاتها إذ لو امتنع الوجود للماهية لكان المفروض واجب الوجود- متمتعة الوجود باعتبار ماهيته و هذا محال غاية ما في الباب أن يمتنع بسبب غير نفس الماهية فيكون ممكنا في نفسه فلا يكون واجبا لأن جزئيات الماهية وراء ما وقع ممكنات كما سبق فليست واجبة فإذا كان شيء من ماهياتها ممكنا فصار الواجب أيضا باعتبار ماهيته ممكنا و هذا محال فإذا كان في الوجود واجب فليس له ماهية وراء الوجود بحيث يفصله الذهن إلى أمرين فهو الوجود الصرف البحث

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٠٤

الذي لا يشوبه شيء من خصوص و عموم هذا كلامه نور الله سره و أرى أنه برهان متين و تحقيق حسن و الإراد عليه بأنه لم لا يجوز أن يفصل العقل أمرا موجودا إلى وجود و معروض له يكون ذلك جزئيا شخصا لا كليا و تخصيص إطلاق الماهية على الكلية لا ينفع إذ المقصود أن الوجود غير زائد بل هو نفس حقيقة الواجب - مندفع بأن كلامه مبني على أن تشخص الشيء في الحقيقة نحو وجوده كما هو رأي أهل الحق المصرح به في كلام أبي نصر الفارابي فكل ما يفصله الذهن إلى معروض و عارض هو الوجود كان في مرتبة ذاته مع قطع النظر عن وجوده كليا لا محالة و كل ما له ماهية كلية فنفس تصورهما لا يأبى عن أن يكون له جزئيات غير ما وقع إلا لمانع خارج عن نفس ماهيته فحاصل برهانه أنه لما كان الوجوب و الإمكان و الامتناع من لوازم الماهيات و الذوات إذ المنظور إليه في تقسيم الشيء إلى الأمور الثلاثة حاله في نفسه مقيسا إلى الوجود فلو كان المفروض واجبا معنى غير نفس الوجود يكون معنى كليا له جزئيات بحسب العقل فتلك الجزئيات إما أن يكون جميعها ممتنعة لذاتها أو واجبة لذاتها أو ممكنة لذاتها و الشقوق الثلاثة بأسرها باطلة إذ الأول ينافي الوجوب و الوجود و الثاني ينافي العدم فيما لم يقع - و الثالث ينافي الوجوب فيما يفرض واقعا و بطلان شقوق التالي بأسرها مستلزم لبطلان المقدم و هو كون الواجب معنى غير الوجود فإذن إن كان في الوجود واجب بالذات - فليس إلا الوجود الصرف المتأكد المتشخص بنفسه لا يلحقه عموم و لا خصوص.

و ما أشنع ما أورده عليه بعض الأعلام من أن دعوى عدم امتناع الجزئيات - الغير المتناهية ممنوع و لم لا يجوز أن يكون لماهية كلية أفراد متعددة متناهية - لا يمكن أن يتعدى عنها في الواقع و إن جاز في التوهم الزيادة عليها و لو سلم عدم التناهي فهو بمعنى لا يقف و بطلان اللازم حينئذ ممنوع و لو سلم أنه غير متناه بالمعنى الآخر فغاية ما يلزم أن يكون الواجبات غير متناهية فلقاتل أن يمنع بطلان هذا قائلا إن دلائل بطلان التسلسل لو تمت لدلت على امتناع ترتب أمور غير متناهية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٠٥

موجودة معا و لزوم ترتب الواجبات غير بين و لا مبين.

لأننا نقول أما بطلان ما ذكره أولا فبأن كل ماهية بالنظر إلى ذاتها لا يقتضي شيئا من التناهي و اللاتناهي و لا مرتبة معينة من المراتب أصلا فإذا قطع النظر عن الأمور الخارجة عن نفس الماهية لا يأبى عند العقل عن أن يكون لها أفراد غير متناهية - و أما فساد ما ذكره ثانيا و ثالثا فبأن الكلام هاهنا ليس في بطلان التسلسل في الواجبات - عدديا أو لا يقفيا مترتبا أو متكافئا حتى قيل إن بطلانه بعد منظور فيه بل الكلام في أنه إذا كان للواجب ماهية كلية يمكن أن يفرض لها جزئيات سوى ما هو الواقع - إذ الماهية لما لم يكن من حيث هي إلا هي كان الوقوع و اللاوقوع كلاهما خارجين عن نفسها فلا يأبى بالنظر إلى نفسها من حيث هي أن يكون لها أفراد غير واقعة - و لما كان كل من الوجوب و الإمكان و الامتناع من لوازم المعنى مع قطع النظر عن الخارجيات بمعنى أن لا معنى من المعاني في ذاته خارجا عن أحد هذه المعاني - فإذا وجب لذاته فرد من ماهية كلية كانت جميع أفرادها واجبة لذاتها و كذا امتنعت لو امتنع و أمكنت لو أمكن.

فنقول تلك الأفراد المفروضة الغير الواقعة لم تكن واجبة لذاتها وإلا لما عدت ولا ممتنعة وإلا لكان هذا الواقع أيضا ممتنعا هذا خلف لأننا نتكلم بعد أن نجزم بوجود الواجب لذاته ولا ممكنة وإلا لكان الواجب لذاته ممكنا لذاته هذا خلف أيضا فثبت أنه لو كان الواجب تعالى ذا ماهية غير الإنية لزم كونه غير واحد من هذه المواد الثلاث وهو محال.

شك وإزالة:

ولعلك تقول إنهم صرحوا بأن تشخص العقول من لوازم ماهياتها - بمعنى أن ماهية كل واحد من الجواهر المفارقة تقتضي انحصار نوعه في شخصه فليكن الواجب ذا ماهية يقتضي لذاتها الانحصار في واحد فكيف حكمت بأن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٠٦

الماهية لا تقتضي شيئا من مراتب التعيين.

فاعلم أن كون تشخص كل جوهر عقلي من لوازم ذاته ليس معناه أن الماهية المطلقة تقتضي التعيين فقد أشرنا إلى أن التعيين بمعنى ما به التعيين في الأشياء نفس وجودها الخاص والوجود مما لا يقتضيه الماهية كما عرفت بل اللزوم قد يراد منه عدم الانفكاك بين شيئين سواء كان مع الاقتضاء أم لا وهو المراد من قولهم تعيين كل عقل لازم لماهيته وأما التعيين بمعنى المتعينة فهو أمر اعتباري عقلي لا بأس بكونه من لوازم الماهية بأي معنى كان لأنه ليس أمرا مخصوصا يتعين به الشيء

الوجه الخامس

وهو قريب المأخذ مما ذكره صاحب الإشراف ويناسب مذهب المشائين وهو أن الوجود لو كان زائدا على ماهية الواجب لزم وقوعه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٠٧

تحت مقولة الجوهر فيحتاج إلى فصل مقوم فيتركب ذاته وهو محال.

وأيضا كل ما صح على الفرد صح على الطبيعة من حيث هي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٠٨

وكل ما امتنع على الطبيعة امتنع على أفرادها ولما لزم قول الإمكان على بعض الجواهر ضرورة لما يشاهد من حدوث العنصریات وزوالها صح وقوع الإمكان على مقولتها لذاتها فلو دخل واجب الوجود تحت مقولة الجوهر للزم فيه جهة إمكانية باعتبار الجنس فلا يكون واجب الوجود بالذات هذا خلف فكل ما له ماهية زائدة على الوجود فهو إما جوهر أو عرض والواجب ليس جوهرًا كما عرفت ولا عرضًا لعدم قيامه بغيره فلا يكون له تعالى ماهية سوى الوجود.

شكوك وإزاحات

قد أورد على كون واجب الوجود محض حقيقة الوجود بلا مقارنة ماهية وجوه من الإيراد -

منها لو كان وجود الواجب مجردا عن الماهية

فحصول هذا الوصف له إن كان لذاته لزم أن يكون كل وجود كذلك لامتناع تخلف مقتضى الذات فيلزم تعدد الواجب و

هو محال كما سيجيء وإن كان لغيره لزم احتياج الواجب في وجوبه إلى غيره ضرورة توقف وجوبه على التجرد المتوقف على ذلك الغير.

لا يقال يكفي في التجرد عدم ما يقتضي المقارنة.

لأننا نقول فإذن يحتاج إلى عدم ذلك المقتضي.

و أجب بأن حصول هذا الوصف له لذاته الذي هو الوجود الخاص المخالف بالحقيقة لسائر الوجودات عند المشائين و بالتمامية و النقص أو الغنى و الفقر عند حكماء الفرس و الخسروانيين و هذا تفاوت عظيم جدا فإن حقيقة الوجود ما لم يشبه ضعف و قصور لا يلحقه معنى من المعاني التي هي غير الوجود التي يعبر عنها بالماهيات - و القصور و الضعف من مراتب الإمكانيات و التنزلات كما أن الظل من مراتب تنزلات النور إذ المعنى من الظل ليس أمرا وجوديا بل هو من مراتب قصورات النور و القصور عديمي و كذلك تنزلات مراتب الوجود الذي هو حقيقة النور عند هؤلاء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٠٩

العظماء من الحكماء الفهلويين و قصوراتها إنما تنشأ من خصوصيات هوياتها- التي لا تزيد على حقيقتها المتفقة في أصل الوجود و النورية

و منها أن الواجب مبدأ للممكنات

فلو كان وجودا مجردا فكونه مبدأ للممكنات إن كان لذاته فيلزم أن يكون كل وجود كذلك و هو محال لاستلزامه كون كل وجود ممكن علة لنفسه و لعله و إلا فإن كان هو الوجود مع قيد التجرد- لزم تركيب المبدأ الأول بل عدمه ضرورة أن أحد جزءيه و هو التجرد عديمي و إن كان بشرط التجرد لزم جواز كون كل وجود مبدأ لكل وجود إلا أن الحكم تخلف عنه لفقدان شرط المبدئية و هو التجرد.

و الجواب كما مر أن ذلك لذاته الذي هو وجود خاص مخالف لسائر الوجودات ذاتا و حقيقة كما هو عند الجمهور من المشائين أو تأصلا و غنى كما هو عند الأقدمين.

و منها أن حقيقة الله لا يساوي حقيقة شيء من الأشياء

لأن حقيقة ما سواه مقتضية للإمكان و حقيقته تعالى منافية للإمكان و اختلاف اللوازم يستدعي اختلاف الملزومات على أن وجود الواجب يساوي وجود الممكن في كونه وجودا- ثم ليس مع ذلك الوجود شيء آخر غير ذاته بل ذاته مجرد الوجود فيكون جميع الوجودات الممكنات متساوية في تمام الحقيقة لذاته.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١١٠

و أجب بأن وجود الممكنات ليس نفس ماهياتها و لا جزءا منها بل عارض لها- و هذا الجواب ضعيف لأن عروض الوجودات للممكنات لا ينافي مشاركة الواجب إياها في معنى الوجود.

و أيضا كما خالف حقيقة الله تعالى ماهيات الممكنات في اللوازم كذلك يخالف وجوداتها في اللوازم لأن وجوده يقتضي التجرد و الوجوب و وجودات الممكنات تقتضي الإمكان و القيام بالغير فإن صح الاستدلال باختلاف اللوازم على اختلاف الملزومات وجب أن يكون حقيقة الله تعالى مخالفة لوجودات الممكنات في الماهية و هو خلاف ما

ذهبوا إليه.

فالحق في الجواب على طريقة المشائين أن يقال أن وجود الواجب لا يساوي وجودات الممكنات في حقيقة الوجود بل يشاركها في مفهوم الموجدية العامة التي هي من المعقولات الثانية وهذا المفهوم وإن كان معنى واحدا لكنه لازم خارجي و اتحاد اللازم لا ينافي اختلاف الملزومات بحسب الحقيقة.

و منها أن الواجب إن كان نفس الكون في الأعيان

أعني الوجود المطلق

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١١١

لزم تعدد الواجب ضرورة أن وجود الجوهر غير وجود العرض وإن كان هو الكون مع قيد التجرد لزم تركب الواجب من الوجود و التجرد مع أنه عدمي لا يصلح أن يكون جزءا للواجب أو بشرط التجرد لزم أن لا يكون الواجب واجبا لذاته و إن كان غير الكون في الأعيان فإن كان بدون الكون فمحال ضرورة أنه لا يعقل الوجود بدون الكون و إن كان مع الكون فإما أن يكون الكون داخلا فيه و هو محال ضرورة امتناع تركب الواجب أو خارجا عنه و هو المطلوب لأن معناه زيادة الوجود على ما هو حقيقة الواجب.

و بوجه آخر أنا لا نشك في أن معنى الوجود الكون و التحقق فالوجود الخاص إما أن يشتمل على معنى الكون و الثبوت أو لا فإن لم يشتمل فليس بوجود قطعا - إذ لا معنى للوجود الخاص بالشئ إلا كونه و تحققه و إن اشتمل على معنى الكون - كان الوجود المطلق ذاتيا له فهو إما أن يكون جزء الواجب أو نفسه و أيا ما كان يلزم أن يكون له ماهية كلية و أنه محال.

و الجواب أما عن الأول فبأن الواجب نفس الوجود الخاص المخالف لسائر الوجودات لأنه متقدم قاهر بالذات عليها غني بالذات عنها مؤثر بالذات فيها و لا نزاع في زيادة الكون المطلق الذي هو أمر عقلي كالشيئية و نظائرها عليه كما مر لكن موجدية الواجب بمعنى ما به الوجود ليست أمرا وراء نفس ذاته كما صرح به الشيخ في كتاب المباحثات من أن ماهية الحق موجودة لا بوجود يلحقه أي من خارج و ليس كالإنسانية التي هي موجودة بأن لها وجودا خارجا عنها بل هي نفس الوجود بلا وجود ملبوس و هو نفس الواجبية و هي معنى بسيط و إن كان المعبر يعبر

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١١٢

عنه بلفظ مركب أو إن كان له وجود مشترك فيكون ذلك لازما حتى يجب له أو يؤخذ الوجود بالمعنى العام فيكون لازما لا يرفع دائما و هو له من وجود الحق لكونه موجودا أو جعل أنه موجود في أصله و ماهيته فسأل سؤال التضعيف هل هو ذو وجود أم لا فسومح بأن له وجودا أي بالمعنى العام على أنه لازم أو نوقش و قيل ليس هو بموجود على أن وجوده صفة لشئ هي فيه و اختار في التعليقات الشق الثاني حيث قال إذا قلنا واجب الوجود موجود فهو لفظ مجاز معناه أنه بحث وجود و صحفوه بأنه يجب وجوده و هو سهو.

و الحاصل أن حقيقة الواجب عند الحكماء وجود خاص معروض للوجود المشترك المقابل للعدم على ما لخصه بعض من حاول تلخيص كلامهم بأن الحصة من الكون في الأعيان زائدة على الوجود المجرد المبدأ للممكنات الذي هو نفس

ماهية الواجب - وليس فيه اعتراف بكون وجود الواجب زائداً على حقيقته و بأنه يستلزم كون الواجب موجوداً بوجودين مع أنه لا أولوية لأحدهما بالعارضية و الآخر بالمعروضية إذ لا نزاع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١١٣

لأحد في زيادة مفهوم الكون العام و حصته التي هي نفس ذلك المفهوم مع خصوصية ما - لا ما صدق عليه هو من الوجودات المتخالفة إنما النزاع في الوجود الخاص هل هو عين حقيقة الواجب أم زائد عليه فإن وقع في كلامهم أن الوجود المشترك عين في الواجب زائد في الممكن كان معناه أن مصداق حملة و مطابق صدقه في الواجب ذاته بذاته و في الممكنات ليس كذلك و أما عن الوجه الآخر فإن الوجود ليس بكلي و إن كان مطلقاً مشتركاً فتأمل في هذا المقام فإنك لو عرفت هذا المعنى في الوجود صرت من الراسخين في العلم

و منها أن الوجود معلوم بالضرورة و حقيقة الواجب غير معلومة

و غير المعلوم غير المعلوم ضرورة.

و أجيب عنه في المشهور أن المعلوم هو الوجود المطلق المغاير للخاص الذي هو نفس حقيقة الواجب.

لمعة إشرافية

أما أن حقيقة الواجب غير معلومة لأحد بالعلم الحسولي الصوري فهذا مما لا خلاف فيه لأحد من الحكماء و العرفاء و قد أقيم عليه البرهان - كيف و حقيقته ليست إلا نحو وجوده العيني الخاص به و ليس الوجود الخاص للشيء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١١٤

متعدداً بخلاف الماهية فإنها أمر مبهم لا يأبى تعدد أنحاء الوجود لها و العلم بالشيء ليس إلا نحواً من أنحاء وجود ذلك الشيء للذات المجردة و أما أن حقيقته غير معلومة لأحد علماً اكتناهاً و إحاطياً عقلياً أو حسياً فهذا أيضاً حق لا يعتريه شبهة - إذ ليس للقوى العقلية أو الحسية التسلط عليه بالإحاطة و الاكتناء فإن القاهرة و التسلط للعلة بالقياس إلى المعلول و المعلول إنما هو شأن من شئون علته و له حصول تام عندها و ليس لها حصول تام عنده و أما أن ذاته لا يكون مشهوداً لأحد من الممكنات أصلاً فليس كذلك بل لكل منها أن يلاحظ ذاته المقدسة عن الحصر و التقيد بالأمكنة و الجهات و الأحياز على قدر ما يمكن للمفاض عليه أن يلاحظ المفيض فكل منها ينال من تجلي ذاته بقدر وعائه الوجودي و يحرم عنه بقدر ضعفه و قصوره و ضيقه عن الإحاطة به لبعده عن منبع الوجود من قبل ضعف وجوده أو مقارنته للأعدام و القوى و المواد لا لمنع و بخل من قبله تعالى فإنه لعظمته و سعة رحمته و شدة نوره النافذ و عدم تناهيه أقرب إلى كل أحد من كل أحد غيره كما أشار إليه في كتابه المجيد بقوله وَنَحْنُ أَقْرَبُ إِلَيْهِ مِنْ حَبَلٍ الْوَرِيدِ و قوله وَإِذَا سَأَلَكَ عِبَادِي عَنِّي فَإِنِّي قَرِيبٌ فهو سبحانه في العلو الأعلى من جهة كماله الأقصى - و الدنو الأدنى من جهة سعة رحمته فهو العالي في دنوه و الداني في علوه و إليه أشير في الرواية عن النبي ع لو دلتهم بالأرض السفلى لهبطتم على الله تعالى قال يعقوب بن إسحاق الكندي إذا كانت العلة الأولى متصلة بنا لفيضه علينا و كنا غير متصلين به إلا من جهته فقد يمكن فينا ملاحظته على قدر ما يمكن للمفاض عليه أن يلاحظ المفيض فيجب أن لا ينسب قدر إحاطته بنا إلى قدر ملاحظتنا له لأنها أغزر

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١١٥

و أوفر و أشد استغراقا و قال المحقق الشهرزوري في الشجرة الإلهية الواجب لذاته أجمل الأشياء و أكملها لأن كل جمال و كمال رشح و ظل و فيض من جماله و كماله فله الجلال الأرفع و النور الأقهر فهو محتجب بكمال نوريته و شدة ظهوره و الحكماء المتألهون العارفون به يشهدونه لا بالكنه لأن شدة ظهوره و قوة لمعانه و ضعف ذواتنا المجردة النورية يمنعنا عن مشاهدته بالكنه كما منع شدة ظهور الشمس و قوة نورها أبصارنا اكتناهاها لأن شدة نوريتها حجابها و نحن نعرف الحق الأول و نشاهده - لكن لا نحيط به علما كما ورد في الوحي الإلهي وَلَا يُحِيطُونَ بِهِ عِلْمًا وَعَنْتِ الْوُجُوهُ لِلْحَيِّ الْقَيُّومِ.

و اعلم أن معنى كون شدة النورية العقلية أو الحسية حجابا للعقل أو الحس عن الإدراك يرجع إلى قصور شيء منهما و فتوره عن نيل مطلوبه و الاكتناه به فإن الحجاب عديمي و حقيقة الواجب صرف الوجود و محض النورية بلا مصحوبية شيء - من الأعدام و الظلمات و النقائص و الآفات.

فإن قيل إذا جوزت كون ذاته معلوما بالحضور الإشراقي للنفوس المتألهة - و لا شك أن المشهود بالشهود الوجودي ليس إلا نفس حقيقته البسيطة لا وجهها من وجوهه فكيف لا يكون معلوما بالكنه و المشهود ليس إلا نفس حقيقته الصرفة لا غير.

قلنا لا يمكن للمعلولات مشاهدة ذاته إلا من وراء حجاب أو حجب حتى المعلول الأول فهو أيضا لا يشاهد ذاته إلا بواسطة عين وجوده و مشاهدة نفس ذاته فيكون شهود الحق الأول له من جهة شهود ذاته و بحسب وعائه الوجودي لا بحسب ما هو المشهود - و هذا لا ينافي الفناء الذي ادعوه فإنه إنما يحصل بترك الالتفات إلى الذات و الإقبال بكلية الذات إلى الحق فلا يزال العالم في حجاب تعينه و إنيته عن إدراك الحق لا يرتفع ذلك الحجاب عنه بحيث لم يصر مانعا عن الشهود و لم يبق له حكم و إن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١١٦

أمكن أن يرتفع تعينه عن نظر شهوده لكن يكون حكمه باقيا كما قال الحلاج
بيني و بينك أني ينازعني فارفع بلطفك أني من البين

حكمة عرشية:

اعلم يا أخا الحقيقة أيدك الله بروح منه أن العلم كالجهل قد يكون بسيطا و هو عبارة عن إدراك شيء مع الذهول عن ذلك الإدراك و عن التصديق بأن المدرك ما ذا و قد يكون مركبا و هو عبارة عن إدراك شيء مع الشعور بهذا الإدراك و بأن المدرك هو ذلك الشيء إذا تمهد هذا فنقول إن إدراك الحق تعالى على الوجه البسيط حاصل لكل أحد في أصل فطرته لأن المدرك بالذات من كل شيء عند الحكماء بعد تحقيق معنى الإدراك و تلخيصه عن الزوائد على ما يستفاد من تحقیقات المحققين من المشائين كما سيقع سمعك ليس إلا نحو وجود ذلك الشيء سواء كان ذلك الإدراك حسيا أو خياليا أو عقليا و سواء كان حضوريا أو حصوليا و قد تحقق و تبين عند المحققين من العرفاء و المتألهين من

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١١٧

أن وجود كل شيء ليس إلا حقيقة هويته المرتبطة بالوجود الحق القيوم و مصداق الحكم بالموجودية على الأشياء و مطابق القول فيها هو نحو هوياتها العينية متعلقة مرتبطة بالوجود الإلهي و سنقيم البرهان على أن الهويات الوجودية من مراتب تجليات ذاته و لمعات جلاله و جماله فإذن إدراك كل شيء ليس إلا ملاحظة ذلك الشيء - على الوجه الذي يرتبط بالواجب من ذلك الوجه الذي هو وجوده و موجوديته و هذا لا يمكن إلا بإدراك ذات الحق تعالى لأن صريح ذاته بذاته منتهى سلسلة الممكنات و غاية جميع العلاقات لا بجهة أخرى من جهاته كيف و جميع جهاته و حيثياته يرجع إلى نفس ذاته كما سنبين في مقامه اللائق به إن شاء الله تعالى فكل من أدرك شيئاً من الأشياء بأي إدراك كان فقد أدرك الباري و إن غفل عن هذا الإدراك - إلا الخواص من أولياء الله تعالى كما نقل عن أمير المؤمنين ع أنه قال

: ما رأيت شيئاً إلا و رأيت الله قبله و روي معه و فيه

و الكل صحيح فظهر و تبين أن هذا الإدراك البسيط للحق تعالى حاصل لكل أحد من عباده و لا يلزم من ذلك إدراكه تعالى بكنه ذاته لشيء لا متناع ذلك بالبرهان كما مر.

و أما الإدراك المركب سواء كان على وجه الكشف و الشهود كما يختص بخلص الأولياء و العرفاء أو بالعلم الاستدلالي كما يحصل للعقلاء المتفكرين في صفاته و آثاره فهو ليس مما هو حاصل للجميع و هو مناط التكليف و الرسالة و فيه يتطرق

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١١٨

الخطأ و الصواب و إليه يرجع حكم الكفر و الإيمان و التفاضل بين العرفاء و المراتب بين الناس بخلاف النحو الأول فإنه لا يتطرق إليه الخطأ و الجهالة أصلاً كما في الفارسية -

دانش حق ذوات را فطری است دانش دانش است كان فکری است

فإذن قد انكشف أن مدركات الخمس كمدركات سائر القوى الإدراكية مظاهر الهوية الإلهية التي هي المحبوب الأول و المقصود الكامل للإنسان فبعينه يشاهده و ينظر إليه لا على وجه يعتقده الأشاعرة و بأذنه يسمع كلامه و بأنفه يشم رائحة طيبة و بجميع ظاهر بدنه يلمس لا على وجه يقوله المجسمة تعالى عن ذلك علواً كبيراً - فيدرك المحبوب الحقيقي بجميع القوى و الجوارح مع تقدس ذاته عن الأمكنة و الجهات - و تجرد حقيقته عن المواد و الجسمانيات و ما ذكرناه مما أطبق عليه أهل الكشف و الشهود الذين هم خلاصة عباد الله المعبود بل جميع الموجودات عندهم بالمعنى الذي ذكرناه عقلاء عارفون بربهم مسبحون له شاهدون لجماله سامعون لكلامه - و إليه الإشارة بقوله تعالى و إِنْ مِنْ شَيْءٍ إِلَّا يَسْبِجُ بِحَمْدِهِ وَلَكِنْ لَا تَفْقَهُونَ تَسْبِيحَهُمْ و التسبيح و التقديس لا يتصوران بدون المعرفة و قوله تعالى إِنَّمَا أَمْرُهُ إِذَا أَرَادَ شَيْئًا أَنْ يَقُولَ لَهُ كُنْ فَيَكُونُ دليل واضح على كون كل من الموجودات عاقلاً

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١١٩

يعقل ربه و يعرف مبدعه و يسمع كلامه إذ امتثال الأمر مترتب على السماع و الفهم بالمراد على قدر ذوق السامع و استطاعة المدرك و بحسب ما يليق بجناحه المقدس عن الأشباه و الأمثال و قوله تعالى للسموات و الأرض اَتْتِيَا طَوْعًا أَوْ كَرْهًا قَالَتَا أَتَيْنَا طَائِعِينَ مبين لما ذكرناه و منور لما قلناه.

وهم وإزاحة:

و لعلك تقول إن الوجود طبيعة نوعيه لما ينتم من كونه مفهوما واحدا مشتركا بين الكل و الطبيعة لا تختلف لوازمها بل يجب لكل فرد ما يجب

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٢٠

للاخر لامتناع تخلف المقتضى عن المقتضى فالوجود إن اقتضى العروض أو اللاعروض - لم يختلف ذلك في الواجب و الممكن و إن لم يقتض شيئا منهما احتاج الواجب في وجوبه إلى سبب منفصل. و الجواب في المشهور منع كونه طبيعة نوعيه متواطية و مجرد اتحاد المفهوم لا يوجب ذلك لجواز أن يصدق مفهوم واحد على أشياء متخالفة الحقائق فيجوز أن يكون الوجودات الخاصة متخالفة الحقيقة فيجب للوجود الواجب التجرد و لغيره المقارنة مع اشتراك الكل في صدق مفهوم الوجود المطلق عليها سواء كانت مقوليته عليها بالتواطؤ كالماهية للماهيات و التشخيص للتشخيصات أو بالتشكيك كالنور الصادق على نور الشمس و غيره مع أن نورها يقتضي إبطار الأعشى بخلاف سائر الأنوار فلا يلزم من كون الوجود مفهوما واحدا مشتركا بين الوجودات كونه طبيعة نوعية و الوجودات الخاصة أفرادا متوافقة الحقيقة و اللوازم لا تفاوت فيها كيف و قد سبق أن الوجود مقول عليها بالتشكيك و أنه في الواجب أقدم و أولى و أشد منه في الممكن

بحث و تحصيل

و هذا الجواب على هذا الوجه غير صحيح لما أشرنا إليه أن أفراد مفهوم الوجود ليست حقائق متخالفة بل الوجود حقيقة واحدة و ليس اشتراكها بين الوجودات كاشتراك الطبيعة الكلية ذاتية كانت أو عرضية بين أفرادها إذ الكلية و الجزئية من عوارض الماهيات الإمكانية و الوجود كما مر لا يكون كلياً و لا جزئياً - وإنما له التعيين بنفس هويتها العينية و لا يحتاج إلى تعيين آخر كما لا يحتاج في موجوديته إلى وجود آخر لأن وجوده ذاته و سنيين في مبحث التشكيك أن التفاوت بين مراتب حقيقة واحدة و التميز بين حصولاتها قد يكون بنفس تلك الحقيقة فحقيقة الوجود مما تلحقها بنفس ذاتها التعينات و الشخصيات و التقدم و التأخر و الوجوب و الإمكان و الجوهرية و العرضية و التمام و النقص لا بامر زائد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٢١

عليها عارض لها و تصوره يحتاج إلى ذهن ناقد و طبع لطيف. و العجب من الخطيب الرازي حيث ذهب إلى أنه لا بد من أحد الأمرين - إما كون اشتراك الوجود لفظياً أو كون الوجودات متساوية في اللوازم فكأنه لم يفرق بين التساوي في المفهوم و التساوي في الحقيقة. و أعجب من ذلك أنه صرح في بعض كتبه بأن الوجود مقول على الوجودات بالتشكيك مع إصراره على شبهته التي زعم

أنها في المتانة بحيث لا يعترىها شك - وهي ما مر من أن الوجود إن اقتضى العروض أو التجرد يتساوى الواجب و الممكن - وإن لم يقتض شيئا منهما كان وجود الواجب من الغير و جملة الأمر أنه لم يفرق بين التساوي في المفهوم و في الحقيقة و الذات.

و من الناس من توهم أن الوجود إذا كان زائدا فهو المطلوب و إلا فاختلفا في اللاعروض و العروض على تقدير التواطؤ محال.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٢٢

و على تقدير التشكيك تهافت لاستلزامه العروض في الكل.

فيقال له كلاهما فاسد - أما الأول فلأن المتواطى ربما لا يكون ذاتيا لما تحته من الوجودات المختلفة في العروض و اللاعروض و مطلوبك زيادة الوجود الخاص و هو غير لازم - لجواز أن يكون أحد معروضات مفهوم الوجود الانتزاعي وجودا قيوما بذاته - لكونه حقيقة مخالفة لسائر المعروضات من الوجودات الخاصة ذوي الماهيات - خصوصا على قاعدتنا من كونه أصل الحقيقة الوجودية و غيره من الوجودات تجليات وجهه و جماله و أشعة نوره و كماله و ظلال قهره و جلاله.

و أما الثاني فلأن في وجوب كون المشكك خارجا عن حقائق أفراد و مراتب حصصه كلاما سيأتيك إن شاء الله تعالى

فصل (٤) في أن الواجب لذاته واجب من جميع جهاته

المقصود من هذا أن الواجب الوجود ليس فيه جهة إمكانية فإن كل ما يمكن له بالإمكان العام فهو واجب له و من فروع هذه الخاصة أنه ليس له حالة منتظرة فإن ذلك أصل يترتب عليه هذا الحكم و ليس هذا عينه كما زعمه كثير من الناس فإن ذلك هو الذي يعد من خواص الواجب بالذات دون هذا لاتصاف المفارقات النورية به إذ لو كان للمفارق حالة منتظرة كمالية يمكن حصولها فيه - لاستلزم تحقق الإمكان الاستعدادي فيه و الانفعال عن عالم الحركة و الأوضاع الجرمانية و ذلك يوجب تجسمه و تكدره مع كونه مجردا نوريا هذا خلف

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٢٣

و للأصل المذكور حجتان.

إحدهما ما تجشمنا بإقامتها و هو أن الواجب تعالى لو كان له بالقياس إلى صفة كمالية جهة إمكانية بحسب ذاته بذاته للزم التركيب في ذاته و هو مما ستطلع على استحالته في الفصل التالي لهذا الفصل فيلزم أن يكون جهة اتصافه بالصفة المفروضة الكمالية وجوبا و ضرورة لا إمكانا و جوازا.

و ثانيتهما أن ذاته لو لم تكن كافية فيما له من الصفات لكان شيء من صفاته حاصلًا له تعالى من غيره فيكون حضور ذلك الغير و وجوده علة لوجود تلك الصفة فيه تعالى و غيبته و عدمه علة لعدمها و ذلك لأن علية الشيء للشيء يستلزم كون وجود العلة علة لوجود المعلول و عدمها لعدمه و شيئيتها لشيئيتها و إذا كان كذلك لم يكن ذاته تعالى إذا اعتبرت من حيث هي بلا شرط يجب لها الوجود لأنها إما أن يجب مع وجود تلك الصفة أو يجب مع عدمها فإن كان الوجوب مع وجود الصفة المذكورة لم يكن وجودها من غيره لحصولها بذات الواجب من حيث هي بلا اعتبار حضور الغير

ولو جعلت القضية وصفية لم يكن الوجوب له تعالى ذاتيا أزليا وإن كان مع عدمها لم يكن عدمها من عدم العلة و غيبتها ولو جعلت الضرورة مقيدة لم تكن ذاتية أزلية تعالى عن ذلك علوا كبيرا وإذا لم يجب وجودها بلا شرط لم يكن الواجب لذاته

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٢٤

واجبا لذاته هذا خلف.

بحث و تحصيل

و هاهنا إيراد مشهور و هو أنه غاية ما لزم من هذا الدليل أن يكون وجود الصفة أو عدمها بالغير لا أن يكون الواجب في ذاته أو تعينه متعلقا بذلك الغير و ذلك لأنه إن أريد باعتبار الذات ملاحظتها مع عدم ملاحظة الغير فالملازمة ممنوعة إذ لا يلزم من عدم ملاحظة أمر عدم ذلك الأمر و إن أريد به اعتبارها مع عدم الغير في نفس الأمر وجودا و عدما فالملازمة مسلمة لكن بطلان التالي ممنوع - فإن اعتبار الذات مع عدم الشرطين على الفرض المذكور محال و المحال جاز أن يستلزم محالا آخر و هو عدم كون الواجب واجبا فلا يظهر بطلانه الخلف.

فالأولى أن يقرر الحجة المذكور هكذا إذا اعتبرت ذات الواجب على الفرض المذكور من حيث هي هي بلا شرط أي مع قطع النظر عن ذلك الغير وجودا و عدما فإما أن يجب وجوده مع وجود تلك الصفة و هو محال لاستحالة وجود المعلول مع قطع النظر عن وجود العلة أو مع عدم تلك الصفة و هو أيضا محال بعين ما ذكرناه و لا يخفى أن وجوب الذات لا يخلو في نفس الأمر عن هذين الأمرين المستحيلين على تقدير اعتبار الذات بلا شرط فيكون وجوب الذات أيضا مستحيلا لو لم يعتبر مع الشرط فلا بد من اعتباره و هو تالي الشرطية فثبت الملازمة و بطلان التالي معلوم فيلزمه بطلان المقدم و ليس لقائل أن يقول عدم اعتبار العلة وجودا و عدما ليس اعتبارا لعدم وجودها و عدم عدمها حتى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٢٥

ينافي تحصيل معلولها وجودا و عدما و الحاصل أن عدم اعتبار العلة بحسب العقل لا ينافي حصول المعلول بها في الواقع و أيضا كما أن اعتبار الماهية من حيث هي هي ليس اعتبارا لوجود ما يلحقها أو عدمه و مع ذلك لا تخلو الماهية عن أحدهما في الواقع فكذلك في الفرض المذكور نقول اعتبار ذات الواجب بلا اعتبار وجود صفته و ما يكون سببا له و عدمها و ما يتحصل ذلك لعدم به - لا ينافي حصول أحد الطرفين و السبب المقوم له لأننا نقول مرتبة الماهيات التي يعرضها الفعلية و التحقق من خارج ليست وعاء للكون الواقعي لشيء و لا لعدمه إذ لا يحصل لها أمر غير ذاتها و ذاتيها إثباتا و نفيا و لا علاقة لها مع غيرها وجودا و عدما فلذلك يمكن للعقل ملاحظتها مع عدم ملاحظة الغير و إن كان مصحوبا لها غير منفك عنها في الواقع بخلاف الوجود الذي هو عين الواقع لغاية فعليته و فرط تحصيله فلا يمكن أن يكون مرتبته بحيث لا يكون لها تعلق بشيء لا وجودا و لا عدما كيف و هو ينبوع الوجودات و منشأ الأكوان - و ملاك طرد الأعدام و ردع فقدان و رفع البطلان عن الأشياء القابلة للوجود فمرتبة وجوده في ذاته إما بعينه مرتبة وجود معنى آخر كما في صفاته الكمالية له تعالى إذ هي التي درجتها في الوجود درجة ذاته تعالى بذاته أو مرتبة عدمه لقصور ذاته في الوجود فلا يساوق الواجب فيه و لا يسع له إلا أن يكون متأخرا عنه بمراحل لائقة به فيكون عدمه سابقا على

وجوده بتلك المراحل و تضاعف الإمكانيات و أعداد مراتب الفقر لأجل تضاعف النزولات و القصورات عن الوجود التام الغني عما عداه بالذات فقد ثبت أن كل صفة مفروضة له تعالى - يكون لها مع اعتبار ذاته تعالى بذاته إما الوجود أو العدم و أيا ما كان يلزم اعتبار علته معه - إذ كما أن حصول ذي السبب وجودا و عدما مستفاد من حصول سببه وجودا و عدما - فكذلك اعتباره و تعقله مستفادان من اعتبار سببه و تعقله كذلك هذا غاية ما يتأتى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٢٦

لأحد من الكلام في هذا المرام و ربما يقال فيه أن هذا الحكم منقوض بالنسب و الإضافات اللاحقة لذات المبدأ تعالى لجريان الحجة المذكورة فيها فيلزم أن يكون تلك الإضافات واجبة الحصول له تعالى بحسب مرتبة ذاته بلا مدخلية الغير فيها و أن يمتنع تجددتها و تبدلها عليه مع أن ذات الواجب غير كافية في حصولها لتوقفها على أمور متغيرة متجددة متعاقبة خارجة عن الذات ضرورة و هذا مما التزمه الشيخ الرئيس في الهيئات الشفا حيث قال و لا نبالي بأن يكون ذاته مأخوذة مع إضافة ما ممكنة الوجود - فإنها من حيث هي علة لوجود زيد ليست بواجبة الوجود بل من حيث ذاته و لا يرتضي به من استشرق قلبه بأنوار الحكمة المتعالية و إن قلبه كثير من الاتباع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٢٧

و المقلدين كصاحب حواشي التجريد و غيره حيث قالوا بأن واجب الوجود بالذات - قد يعرض له الإمكان بالقياس إلى الغير و للغير أيضا إمكان بالقياس إليه و إن امتنع عليه الإمكان بالذات و الإمكان بالغير أيضا و لم يتفطنوا بأن الواجب بالذات كما أنه واجب بالذات واجب بالقياس إلى الممكنات المستندة إليه و هي أيضا واجبة الحصول له تعالى لأن وجوداتها روابط فيضه و جوده نعم لو تصور هاهنا واجب وجود آخر أو ممكنات آخر مستندة إلى واجب وجود آخر لكان لما ذكره وجه صحة - تعالى عن ذلك علوا كبيرا و ذلك لأن وجوب وجود الأشياء مما ينشأ منه تعالى فكما أن لها وجوبا بالغير الذي هو مبدعها و موجبها فكذا لها وجوب بالقياس إلى ذلك الغير و وجوب له أيضا إذ الوجوب بالقياس إلى الغير ضرورة تحقق الشيء بالنظر إلى الغير على سبيل الاستدعاء الذاتي و يرجع إلى أن الغير يأبى إلا أن يكون الشيء واجب الحصول سواء كان من جهة الاقتضاء و الفيضان أو من قبل الحاجة الذاتية و الاستدعاء الافتقاري من حيث كون الشيء رشحي الوجود ظلي التجوهر استنادي الحقيقة تعلقي الذات و هذا لا ينفك عن كون الشيء واجب الحصول للغير الذي هو ينبوع فيضه و سحاب رشحه و بحر نداه فالممكن مع ذاته بالإمكان و الجواز و مع جاعله التام بالوجوب و الضرورة سواء أخذ هذا اللصوق و الالتحاق و الالتجاء من قبل ذاته الفاقرة الرشحية التعقلية أو من قبل اقتضاء مبدعه الفياض الوهاب الباسط على من يشاء بغير حساب فالحق أن إضافات ذات الواجب تعالى إلى الممكنات و نسبة الخلاقية القيومية إليها و أضوائه الساطعة على الذوات القابلة للوجود ليست متأخرة عن تلك الماهيات الممكنة و ليست إضافته كسائر الإضافات التي تكون بين الأشياء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٢٨

و تكون متأخرة عن المنسوب إليه بل إنما يكون مصداق صفاته الإضافية ذاته بذاته يعني أن نفس ذاته بذاته كافية

لانتزاع النسبة و المنسوب إليه فكما أن بعلمه الكمالى الإجمالى يعلم جميع الأشياء و نسبتها إليه تعالى و بقدرته التامة الكاملة يقيم جميع المقدورات فكذلك ذاته كافية في انتزاع جميع اللواحق - و كيفية لحوقها و نسبتها و إضافتها إليه تعالى فليس في عالم إلهيته و صقع ربوبيته شيء من المعاني العدمية كالعدم و الإمكان و الظن و الهزل و الحدوث و الزوال و التجدد و التصرم و الفقر.

و العجب من الشيخ و شدة تورطه في العلوم و قوة حدسه و ذكائه في المعارف - أنه قصر إدراكه عن فهم هذا المعنى. و أعجب من ذلك أنه مما قد تفتن به في غير الشفاء حيث ذكر في التعليقات - أن الأشياء كلها واجبات للأول تعالى و ليس هناك إمكان البتة و في كتاب أثولوجيا المنسوب إلى المعلم الأول تصريحات واضحة بأن الممكنات كلها حاضرة عند المبدأ الأول على الضرورة و البت و أما ما يتراءى من تجدد الأشياء و تعاقبها و تغييرها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٢٩

فهذا بالقياس إلى بعض أوعية الوجود فإن الزوال و الغيبة عن بعض الموجودات - لا يستلزم الزوال و الغيبة عن بعض آخر فكيف عن حقيقة الوجود المحيط بجميع الأشياء الحافظ لكل المراتب و الأنحاء و سيأتي تحقيق هذا المقام من ذي قبل إن شاء الله المفضل المنعم

فصل (٥) في أن واجب الوجود واحد

لا بمعنى أن نوعه منحصر في شخصه على ما توهم - إذ لا نوع لحقيقة الوجود كما مر فمجرد كونه متشخصا بنفس ذاته لا يوجب استحالة واجب وجود آخر من دون الرجوع إلى البرهان كما زعمه بعض الناس حيث قال إن ما بينا من أن التعيين نفس حقيقته يكفي في إثبات توحيده فإن التعيين إذا كان نفس ماهية شيء كان نوعه منحصرًا في شخصه بالضرورة و إنما قلنا لا يكفي ذلك - لاحتمال الوهم أن يكون هناك حقائق متخالفة واجبة الوجود و تعيين كل منها نفس حقيقته فلا بد مع ذلك من استيناف برهان على تفرد واجب الوجود في معنى واجب الوجود. فنقول لو فرضنا موجودين واجبي الوجود لكانا مشتركين في هذا المفهوم و متغايرين بحسب ذاتيهما بأمر من الأمور و ما به الامتياز إما أن يكون تمام الحقيقة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٣٠

في شيء منهما فيكون وجوب الوجود المشترك بينهما خارجا عن حقيقة أحدهما و هو مستحيل لما مر من أن وجوب الوجود نفس حقيقة الواجب و إما أن يكون جزء حقيقته فيلزم التركيب فيه و التركيب يستلزم الاحتياج إلى الأجزاء و كل محتاج ممكن و إما أن يكون خارجا عن الحقيقة فيلزم أن يكون الواجب في تعيينه محتاجا إلى غيره لأن تعيين الشيء إذا كان زائدا على حقيقته عرضيا لها يلزم أن يكون معللا لأن كل ما هو عرضي لشيء فهو معلل إما بذلك الشيء و هو ممتنع - لأن العلة بتعيينها سابق على المعلول و تعيينه فيلزم تقدم الشيء على نفسه و أما بغير ذلك الشيء فيكون محتاجا إليه في وجوده كما في تعيينه إذ التعيين للشيء إما عين وجوده أو في مرتبة وجوده و الاحتياج في الوجود ينافي كون الشيء واجبا بالذات - قيل هاهنا بحث لأن معنى قولهم وجوب الوجود نفس حقيقة واجب الوجود - أنه يظهر من نفس تلك الحقيقة أثر صفة وجوب الوجود لا أن تلك الحقيقة عين هذه الصفة فلا يكون اشتراك موجودين واجبي الوجود

في وجوب الوجود إلا أن يظهر من نفس ذات كل منهما أثر صفة وجوب الوجود فلا منافاة بين اشتراكهما في وجوب الوجود و تمايزهما بتمام الحقيقة و نحن نقول إن معنى كلام الحكماء وجوب الوجود عين حقيقة واجب الوجود هو أن ذاته بنفس ذاته مصداق للموجودية و محكي عنها بالوجود بلا انضمام أمر أو ملاحظة حيثية أخرى أية حيثية كانت حقيقية أو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٣١

إضافية أو سلبية.

و توضيح ذلك أنك كما قد تعقل المتصل مثلا نفس المتصل بما هو متصل - كالجزء الصوري للجسم من حيث إنه للجسم و قد تعقل المتصل شيئا ذلك الشيء هو الموصوف بكونه متصلا كالمادة فكذلك قد تعقل واجب الوجود نفس واجب الوجود - و قد تعقل شيئا ذلك الشيء واجب الوجود و مصداق الحكم و به مطابقة و المحكي عنه في الأول حقيقة الموضوع و ذاته فقط و في الثاني هي مع حيثية أخرى هي صفة قائمة به و كل واجب الوجود لم يكن بحسب صرف حقيقته و نفس ماهيته واجب الوجود بل يكون تلك الحقيقة متصفة بكونها واجبة الوجود لا في مرتبة ذاته بل بحسب درجة ذاتها من حيث هي حتى يكون وجوب الوجود عرضيا لا ذاتيا لها - ففي اتصافها به و لحوقه بها يحتاج إلى سبب إذ كل عرضي كذلك فلا بد لها في اتصافها به من عروض هذا الأمر و إلى جاعل يجعلها كذلك أو يجعلها بحيث ينتزع منه هذا المعنى غير ذاتها إذ جاعلية الشيء لنفسه في وجوده و وجوبه مما قد أبطلناها بالبرهان الشديد القوة فإذن تلك الحقيقة تكون في حد ذاتها ممكنة و بالجاعل صارت واجبة الوجود فلا يكون واجبا لذاته فكل واجب الوجود لذاته فهو نفس واجب الوجود لذاته لا أنه شيء ذلك الشيء مما قد عرض لها واجب الوجود عروضاً لزومياً أو مفارقياً هذا.

رجم شيطان:

و ليعلم أن البراهين الدالة على هذا المطلب الذي هو من أصول المباحث الإلهية كثيرة لكن تتميم جميعها مما يتوقف على أن حقيقة الواجب تعالى هو الوجود البحت القائم بذاته المعبر عنه بالوجود المتأكد و أن ما يعرضه الوجوب أو الوجود فهو في حد نفسه مع قطع النظر عن ارتباطه و تعلقه بغيره ممكن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٣٢

و وجوبه كوجوده يستفاد من الغير و هذه المقدمة مما ينساق إليها البرهان - و يصرح بها في كتب أهل العلم و العرفان و قد أسلفناه القول فيها و بها يندفع ما تشوشت به طبائع الأكثرين و تبلدت أذهانهم مما ينسب إلى ابن كمونة و قد سماه بعضهم بافتخار الشياطين لاشتهاره بإبداء هذه الشبهة العويصة و العقدة العسيرة الحل - فإني قد وجدت هذه الشبهة في كلام غيره ممن تقدمه زمانا و هي أنه لم لا يجوز أن يكون هناك هويتان بسيطتان مجهولتا الكنه مختلفتان بتمام الحقيقة يكون كل منهما واجب الوجود بذاته و يكون مفهوم واجب الوجود منتزعا منهما مقولا عليهما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٣٣

قولا عرضيا فيكون الاشتراك بينهما في هذا المعنى العرضي المنتزع عن نفس ذات كل منهما و الافتراق بصرف حقيقة كل منهما و وجه الاندفاع أن مفهوم واجب الوجود لا يخلو إما أن يكون فهمه عن نفس ذات كل منهما من دون اعتبار حيثية خارجة عنها أية حيثية كانت أو مع اعتبار تلك الحيثية و كلا الشقين مستحيلان أما الثاني فلما مر أن كل ما لم يكن ذاته مجرد حيثية انتزاع الوجود و الوجوب و الفعلية و التمام فهو ممكن في حد ذاته ناقص في حريم نفسه و أما الأول فلأن مصداق حمل مفهوم واحد و مطابق صدقه بالذات - و بالجملة ما منه الحكاية بذلك المعنى و بحسبه التعبير عنه به مع قطع النظر عن أية حيثية و أية جهة أخرى كانت لا يمكن أن يكون حقائق مختلفة الذوات متباينة المعاني غير مشتركة في ذاتي أصلا.

و ظني أن من سلمت فطرته التي فطر عليها عن الأمراض المغيرة لها عن استقامتها - يحكم بأن الأمور المتخالفة من حيث كونها متخالفة بلا حيثية جامعة فيها لا يكون مصداقا لحكم واحد و محكيا عنها به نعم يجوز ذلك إذا كانت تلك الأمور متماثلة من جهة كونها متماثلة كالحكم على زيد و عمرو بالإنسانية من جهة اشتراكهما في تمام الماهية لا من حيث عوارضها المختلفة المشخصة أو كانت مشتركة في ذاتي من جهة كونها كذلك كالحكم على الإنسان و الفرس بالحيوانية من جهة اشتمالهما على تلك الحقيقة الجنسية أو في عرضي كالحكم على الثلج و العاج بالأبيضية من جهة اتصافهما بالبياض أو كانت تلك الأمور المتباينة متفقة في أمر خارج نسبي كالحكم على مقولات الممكنات بالوجود من حيث انتسابها إلى الوجود الحق تعالى عند من يجعل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٣٤

وجود الممكنات أمرا عقليا انتزاعيا و موجوديتها باعتبار نسبتها إلى الوجود القائم بنفسه أو كانت متفقة في مفهوم سلبي كالحكم على ما سوى الواجب بالإمكان لاشتراكها في سلب ضروري الوجود و العدم لذواتها و أما ما سوى أشباه تلك الوجوه التي ذكرناها من الجهات الاتفاقية فلا يتصور الحكم فيها بأمر مشترك بلا جهة جامعة ذاتية أو عرضية فإذا حكمنا على أمور متباينة الذوات بحكم واحد بحسب مرتبة ذواتها في أنفسها بلا انضمام أمر آخر أو اعتبار جهة أخرى غير أنفسها فلا بد هناك مما به الاتفاق و ما به الاختلاف الذاتيين فيها فيستدعي التركيب بحسب جوهر الذات من أمرين أحدهما يجري مجرى الجنس و المادة و الآخر يجري مجرى الفصل و الصورة و التركيب بأي وجه كان ينافي كون الشيء واجب الوجود بالذات.

بل نقول إذا نظرنا إلى نفس مفهوم الوجود المصدري الانتزاعي المعلوم بديهية أدانا النظر و البحث إلى أن حقيقته و ما ينتزع هو منه أمر قائم بذاته هو الواجب الحق و الوجود المطلق الذي لا يشوبه عموم و لا خصوص و لا تعدد و لا انقسام إذ كل ما وجوده هذا الوجود فرضا لا يمكن أن يكون بينه و بين شيء آخر له أيضا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٣٥

هذا الوجود فرضا مباينة أصلا و تغاير فلا يكون اثنان بل يكون هناك ذات واحدة و وجود واحد كما أشار إليه صاحب التلويحات بقوله صرف الوجود الذي لا أتم منه كلما فرضته ثانيا فإذا نظرت فهو هو إذ لا ميز في صرف شيء فوجوب وجوده الذي هو ذاته بذاته تعالى يدل على وحدته كما في التنزيل شَهِدَ اللَّهُ أَنَّهُ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا هُوَ و على موجودية

الممكنات به كما في قوله تعالى أَوْ لَمْ يَكْفِ بِرَبِّكَ أَنَّهُ عَلَى كُلِّ شَيْءٍ شَهِيدٌ.

برهان عرشي:

ولنا بتأييد الله تعالى وملكوته الأعلى برهان آخر عرشي على توحيد واجب الوجود تعالى يتكفل لدفع الاحتمال المذكور- و يستدعي بيانه تمهيد مقدمة وهي أن حقيقة الواجب تعالى لما كان في ذاته مصداقا للواجبية- و مطابقا للحكم عليه بالموجودية بلا جهة أخرى غير ذاته و إلا لزم احتياجه في كونه واجبا و موجودا إلى غيره كما مر من البيان و ليست للواجب تعالى جهة أخرى في ذاته لا يكون بحسب تلك الجهة واجبا و موجودا و إلا يلزم التركيب في ذاته من هاتين الجهتين ابتداء أو بالآخرة و قد تحقق بسلطته تعالى من جميع الوجوه كما سيجيء فحينئذ نقول يلزم أن يكون واجب الوجود بذاته موجودا و واجبا بجميع الحثيات الصحيحة و على جميع الاعتبارات المطابقة لنفس الأمر و إلا لم يكن حقيقته بتمامها مصداق حمل الوجود و الوجوب إذ لو فرض كونه فاقدا لمرتبة من مراتب الوجود و وجه من وجوه التحصل أو عادما لكمال من كمالات الموجود بما هو موجود- فلم يكن ذاته من هذه الحثية مصداقا للوجود فيتحقق حينئذ في ذاته إمكانية أو امتناعية يخالف جهة الفعلية و التحصل فيتربك ذاته من حثيتي الوجوب و غيره من الإمكان و الامتناع و بالجملة ينتظم ذاته من جهة وجودية و جهة عدمية فلا يكون واحدا حقيقيا و هذا مفاد ما مر في الفصل السابق أن واجب الوجود بالذات واجب

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٣٦

الوجود من جميع الحثيات.

فإذا تمهدت هذه المقدمة التي مفادها أن كل كمال و جمال يجب أن يكون حاصلًا لذات الواجب تعالى و إن كان في غيره يكون مترشحا عنه فائضا من لدنه.

فنقول لو تعدد الواجب بالذات لا يكون بينهما علاقة ذاتية لزومية كما مر من أن الملازمة بين الشيئين لا تنفك عن معلولية أحدهما للآخر أو معلولية كل منهما لأمر ثالث فعلى أي واحد من التقديرين فيلزم معلولية الواجب و هو خرق فرض الواجبية لهما فإذن لكل منهما مرتبة من الكمال و حظ من الوجود و التحصل لا يكون هو للآخر و لا منبعثا عنه و مترشحا من لدنه فيكون كل واحد منهما عادما لنشأة كمالية و فاقدا لمرتبة وجودية سواء كانت ممتنعة الحصول له أو ممكنه فذات كل واحد منهما بذاته ليست محض حثية الفعلية و الوجوب و الكمال بل يكون ذاته بذاته مصداقا لحصول شيء و فقد شيء آخر من طبيعة الوجود و مراتبه الكمالية فلا يكون واحدا حقيقيا و التركيب بحسب الذات و الحقيقة ينافي الوجوب الذاتي فالواجب الوجود يجب أن يكون من فرط التحصل و كمال الوجود جامعا لجميع النشآت الوجودية و الحثيات الكمالية التي بحسب الوجود- بما هو وجود للموجود بما هو موجود فلا مكافئ له في الوجود و الفضيلة بل ذاته بذاته يجب أن يكون مستند جميع الكمالات و منبع كل الخيرات و هذا البرهان و إن لم ينفع للمتوسطين فضلا عن الناقصين لا بتناؤه على كثير من الأصول الفلسفية و المقدمات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٣٧

المطوية المتفرقة في مواضع هذا الكتاب لكنه عند من ارتاضت نفسه بالفلسفة يرجح على كثير من البراهين الشديدة

فصل (٦) في استيناف القول في الجهات و دفع شكوك قيلت في لزومها

إن من التشكيكات الفخرية في هذه الجهات العقلية التي هي عناصر العقود و موادها بحث لا يخلو عنها شيء من الأحكام و الأوصاف أن الوجود الواجب لو كان ملزوما للوجوب لزم كون الوجوب معلولا له و كل معلول ممكن لذاته و كل ممكن لذاته واجب لعلته فيتقدم على هذا الوجوب وجوب آخر لا إلى نهاية.

و الجواب على ما ذكره الحكيم الطوسي أنه لا يلزم من كون الوجوب لازما كونه معلولا فإن الحق أن الوجوب و الإمكان و الامتناع أمور معقولة تحصل في العقل من استناد بعض المتصورات إلى الوجود الخارجي و هي في أنفسها معلولات للعقل بشرط الإسناد المذكور و ليست بموجودات في الخارج حتى يكون علة للأمور التي تستند إليها أو معلولا لها كما أن تصور زيد و إن كان معلولا لمن يتصوره لا يكون علة لزيد و لا معلولا له و كون الشيء واجبا في الخارج هو كونه بحيث إذا عقله عاقل مسندا إلى الوجود الخارجي لزم في عقله معقول هو الوجوب.

و منها أن نقيض الوجوب و هو اللاوجوب عديم

فيكون هو ثبوتيا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٣٨

و أيضا هو تأكد الوجود فكيف يكون عديما.

و الجواب أنه ليس عديما بمعنى المعدم المطلق أو بمعنى ما يؤخذ في مفهومه سلب شيء بل بمعنى المعدم العيني الموجود في الذهن و النقيضان و إن اقتسما جميع المفهومات لكن لا يلزم صدقهما كلياً على جميع الموجودات العينية ليس الممتنع و الممكن العام نقيضين و أحدهما و هو الممتنع معدوم و ليس يلزم أن يكون كل ممكن بالإمكان العام موجودا في الخارج بل ربما لا يوجد إلا في الذهن.

و منها أن ثبوت شيء لشيء لا يستلزم ثبوت الثابت في ظرف الاتصاف

كما هو المقرر عندهم بل إنما يستلزم ثبوت المثبت له فحينئذ إذا كان بعض الأمور الذهنية - كالعمى مثلا ثابتا في الخارج لشيء و من المشهورات المسلمة أن وجود الصفة في نفسها - هو وجودها للموصوف بها بعينه فإذن يكون لمثل هذا الأمر وجود عيني فيكون من قبيل الأعراض الموجودة في الخارج و العقل يأبى من عد هذا المفهوم و أمثاله - من الموجودات العينية فضلا عن جعله من الأعراض.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٣٩

و الجواب يستفاد مما سبق من الفرق بين معنبي الوجود الربطي و أن أحدهما و هو الوجود الذي في الهليات المركبة غير الآخر و هو وجود الأعراض و الصور الحالة و أن قولنا وجود ج مثلا هو بعينه وجوده لب معناه غير معنى قولنا وجود ج في نفسه هو أنه موجود لب و أن ج في الأول لا بد و أن يكون من الأمور الموجودة في أنفسها لا بالأعرض بخلاف الثاني و من لم يحصل الفرق بين المعنيين تحير بل ربما يسلم الفساد اللازم و التزم و من حقق الأمر يعرف أنه قد يكون الشيء ممتنع الوجود في نفسه بحسب الأعيان ممكن الوجود الربطي بالقياس إلى الغير - و من هاهنا أيضا

نشأت الشبهة التي أوردتها طائفة من أهل الشعب والجدال - على المحصلين من الفلاسفة العظام وهي أنه إذا لم يكن للإمكان صورة في الأعيان - لم يكن الممكن ممكناً إلا في الأذهان وفي اعتبار العقل فقط لا في الأعيان فيلزم أن يكون الممكن في الخارج إما ممتنعاً أو واجبا لعدم خروج شيء عن المنفصلة الحقيقية - ولك أن تدفعها بما تحصلت أنه لا يلزم من صدق الحكم على الشيء بمفهوم بحسب الأعيان أن يكون ذلك المفهوم واقعا في الأعيان. وأيضا يجري هذا الاحتجاج في الامتناع وليس لامتناع الممتنع صورة في الأعيان - فالحل ما ذكرناه

تصالح اتفاقي:

إن ما اشتهر من الحكماء المشائين أتباع المعلم الأول من الحكم بوجود هذه المعاني العامة كالوجوب والإمكان والعلية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٤٠

والتقدم ونظائرها وأنهم يخالفون الأقدمين من حكماء الرواق حيث قالوا بأن وجود هذه المعاني إنما هو بملاحظة العقل واعتباره فمنشأ ذلك ما حققناه - وفي التحقيق وعند التفتيش لا تخالف بين الرائيين ولا مناقضة بين القولين فإن وجودها في الخارج عبارة عن اتصاف الموجودات العينية بها بحسب الأعيان وقد دريت أن الوجود الرابط في الهلية المركبة الخارجية لا ينافي الامتناع الخارجي للمحمول فعلى ما ذكرناه يحمل كلام أرسطو وأتباعه فلا يرد عليهم تشنيعات المتأخرين - سيما الشيخ المتأله صاحب الإشراف.

و مما تحققت انكشف لك ضعف ما وقع التمسك به في بعض المسطورات الكلامية - من أن عدم الفرق بين نفي الإمكان والإمكان المنفي وهما مفاد لا إمكان له وإمكانه لا - يوجب كون الإمكان ثبوتيا وأن كل عدم فإنه يتعرف ويتحقق بالوجود فما يكون له عدم يكون له ثبوت وما له ثبوت فهو ثابت فإنه إن عني به إثبات أن الإمكان من الموجودات العينية فالكذب فيه ظاهر وإن عني به أنه ليس من الأعدام - بل من المحمولات العقلية على الماهيات العقلية والعينية فذلك هو المرام عند المحصلين من الحكماء العظام ومعنى إمكانه لا سلب الوجود العيني عن مفهوم الإمكان ومعنى لا إمكان له عدم صدق الإمكان كما في سائر الطبائع الذهنية التي هي أوصاف الأشياء ولا يحمل عليها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٤١

الوجود في الأعيان وعدم حمل الموجود على شيء لا ينافي حمله على الأشياء العينية و صدقه عليها وهذا أحد معاني الوجود الرابطي وأما التعريف بالوجود فإنما يلزم في العدم لكونه سلب الوجود لا في مطلق السلوب للأشياء فإن من السلوب سلب لطبيعة العدم فضلا عن طبيعة أخرى نعم لا يكون السلوب سلبا لسلبه فيكون ثبوتا إضافيا وهو المعتبر في تحديد السلوب بهذه الطبيعة الإطلاكية كما في الشفاء - أن الثبوت وأعني به الإضافي المطلق أعم من أن يكون حقيقيا في نفسه أو بالإضافة فقط يقع جزء من بيان السلوب لا أنه موجود في السلوب كما ذهب إليه بعض أتباع المشائين من مفسري كلام أرسطاطاليس فالسلوب يستحيل أن يوجد مع سلبه و من قال أن البصر جزء من العمى وأن الأعدام تعرف بملكاتها ليس يعني به أن البصر موجود مع العمى بل يريد أن العمى لا يمكن أن يحد إلا بأن يضاف السلوب إلى البصر في حده فيكون البصر جزءا من البيان لا من نفس العمى و ستعلم في مباحث الماهية أن الحد قد يزيد على المحدود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٤٢

و منها أن جعل الإمكان و قسيميه و أشباهها من المعاني العقلية

إنما يقطع لزوم السلاسل المتولدة إلى لا نهاية في الخارج و ليس يحسم لزوم التسلسل في اعتبار العقل بحسب الملاحظة التفصيلية فإن اتصاف الشيء بالإمكان يلزم أن يكون على سبيل اللزوم و إلا لزم جواز الانقلاب فيكون لإمكان الشيء وجوب في العقل - و اتصافه بذلك الوجوب على سبيل الوجود و هكذا إلى غير النهاية على أن كون الاتصاف بالإمكان على أي حال من عناصر العقود يوجب اللانهاية أيضا.

و الجواب أن التسلسل هاهنا بمعنى لا يقف لأنه حاصل من اعتمال الذهن - من غير أن ينساق إليه الأمر بحسب نفسه و ينقطع بانقطاع اعتبار العقل.

و تحقيق هذا المقام أن كون الشيء معقولا منظورا فيه للعقل غير كونه آلة للعقل في تعقله إذ لا ينظر فيه بل إنما ينظر به ما دام كونه كذلك مثلا إذا عقلنا الإنسان مثلا بصورة في عقلنا و يكون معقولنا الإنسان فنحن حينئذ لم ننظر في الصورة التي بها نعقل الإنسان و لا نحكم عليها بحكم و لا نحكم عليها حين حكمنا على الإنسان - أنه جوهر بكونه جوهر أو عرضا ثم إذا نظرنا في تلك الصورة الحاصلة و جعلناها معقولة منظورا إليها وجدناها عرضا قائما بغيره و ما وجد في كلام أهل التحقيق أن الصورة الحاصلة في العقل هي المعقولة بالذات لا ما خرج عن التصور عنوا بذلك أنها في كونها معقولة لا تحتاج إلى صورة أخرى تكون هي آلة إدراكها لا أننا إذا عقلنا ماهية الإنسان و حكمنا عليه بكونه جوهر حيوانيا جرميا يكون المنظور إليه هو الصورة العقلية التي من جملة الكيفيات النفسانية لأن هذا بين الفساد - فكذا الإمكان و مقابله كآلة للقوة العاقلة بها يتعرف حال الماهيات بحسب نحو وجودها و كيف يعرض لها و لا ينظر في هذه الملاحظة إلى كون شيء من الثلاثة موجودا أو معدوما ممكنا أو واجبا أو ممتنعا.

ثم إن التفت العقل إلى شيء منها و نظر في نحو وجوده لم يكن هو بذلك الاعتبار إمكانا لشيء و لا وجوبا و لا امتناعا له بل كان عرضا موجودا في محل هو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٤٣

العقل و ممكنا في ذاته فما كان قبل هذا وجوبا مثلا أو إمكانا صار شيئا ممكنا - و هكذا قياس المعاني الحرفية و المفهومات الأدوية إذا صارت منظورا إليها معقولة بالقصد محكوما عليها أو بها انقلبت اسمية استقلالية بعد ما كانت حرفية تعلقية - و هذا الانقلاب غير مستحيل لأنه كانقلاب المادة إلى الصورة و الجنس إلى الفصل و القوة إلى الفعل و الناقص إلى التام لا كانقلاب الصورة إلى الصورة و النوع المحصل إلى النوع المحصل لأن الروابط و الأدوات حين كونها كذلك ليست شيئا من الأشياء المحصلة التامة بل نسب إلى الأشياء و فرق بين الشيء و نسبة الشيء - و كذا فرق بين كون الشيء شيئا أو قوة على شيء إذ القوة بما هي قوة ليست شيئا من الأشياء أصلا اللهم إلا باعتبار آخر غير اعتبار كونه قوة حتى ينجر الأمر إلى ما لا جهة فيه سوى كونه قوة كالهيمولي الأولى التي لا تركيب فيها من جهتين يكون بإحدهما بالقوة و بالأخرى بالفعل و ما قرع سمعك أن المعنى الأدوي كالوجود النسبي و الاستقلالي كالوجود المحمولي هما متباينان بالذات يرام به ما أفدناك تحقيقه لا أن لهما ذاتين متباينين فإنه الرابطة لا ذات لها أصلا كالمرآة التي لا لون لها و

لا حقيقة أصلا و لهذا تقبل الألوان و يظهر به الحقائق و التباين بين شيئين قد يكون بحسب المفهوم و العنوان من غير أن يكون لكل منهما بحسب ذاته حقيقة محصلة يتغايران بها بل الاختلاف بينهما كالاختلاف بين المحصل و اللامحصل الذي له أن يصير محصلا و الشيء و اللاشيء الذي في قوته أن يصير شيئا.

قاعدة:

و إذا تحققت الأمر في هذه المعاني و معنى انقطاع سلسلتها بانقطاع اعتبار العقل فاجعله أسلوبا مطردا في جميع الطبائع العامة المتكررة كالوحدة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٤٤

و الوجود و اللزوم و مضاهياتها سواء كان بإزائها في الأعيان شيء أم لا فإن الوجود و الوحدة مع أن حقيقتهما واقعة في الأعيان بل حقيقة الوجود هي أحق الأشياء بالوقوع العيني لكن مفهومهما من المعاني المتكررة في العقل فإن لحقيقة الوجود موجودة و لموجوديتها موجودة أخرى و هكذا إلى أن يعتبرها العقل - لكن مصداق هذه الاتصافات الغير المتناهية بحسب اعتبار العقل حقيقة الوجود التي هي بنفسها موجودة و كذا الكلام في الوحدة.

فإن رجع أحد و قال إن العقل يجد أن شيئا من اللزومات الصحيحة الانتزاع إلى لا نهاية لو لم يكن محكوما عليه بامتناع الانفكاك عن اللزوم الأول لانفسدت الملازمة الأولى فيجب أن يصدق الحكم الإيجابي الاستغراقي باللزوم على كل لزوم لزوم إلى لا نهاية و الموجبة تستدعي وجود الموضوع فيلزم تحقق اللزومات لكونها موضوعات لإيجابيات صادقة. قلنا له ألم تتذكر ما بيناه لك و سقنا إليه فطانتك كيلا تعمل رويتك من أن اللزوم إنما يكون لزوما إذا اعتبر رابطة لا مفهوما ما من المفهومات فإذا هو بما هو لزوم ليس بشيء من الأشياء حتى يحكم عليه بلزوم أو عدم لزوم.

ثم إذا لوحظ بما هو مفهوم من المفهومات و وصف ما من الأوصاف - استؤنف النظر في لزومه أو لا لزومه فالموصوف بامتناع الانفكاك عن الملزوم - ليس إلا اللزوم الملتفت إليه و المنظور فيه بالذات لا بما هو لزوم و لا ضرورة في كون كل لزوم ملتفتا إليه منظورا فيه بالذات فلا محالة تنقطع خطرات الأوهام في مرتبة من المراتب و هذا أولى مما تجشمه صاحب حواشي التجريد في فك هذه العقدة - أن تلك اللزومات موجودة في نفس الأمر بوجود ما ينتزع هي منه و ليست موجودة بصور متغايرة و الوجود الذي هو مقتضى صدق الموجبة أعم من الثاني فإن الموجبة إذا كانت خارجية اقتضى صدقها وجود موضوعها في الخارج أعم من أن يكون بصورة يخصه كوجود الجسم أو لا كوجود الجزء المتصل الواحد بوجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٤٥

كله فإن هذا الجزء قد يصير موضوع الموجبة الصادقة كما إذا كان أحد قسمي المتصل حارا و الآخر باردا فيصدق الإيجاب الخارجي عليه و إن كانت ذهنية اقتضى صدقها وجود الموضوع في الذهن على أحد الأنحاء و كما أن خصوص القضية الخارجية - قد يقتضي نحوا خاصا من الوجود كالحكم بالتحيز فإنه يقتضي الوجود المستقل - و صدق الحكم على الجوهر بخواصه فإنه يقتضي النحو الخاص به كذلك خصوصيات الأحكام الذهنية قد يقتضي خصوصيات الوجود و كما أن المطلقة تقتضي وجود الموضوع بالفعل و الممكنة بالإمكان و الدائمة بالدوام نقول أيضا لزوم شيء

لآخر قد يكون بحسب الوجود بالفعل من كلا طرفي الملزوم و اللازم - بأن يمتنع انفكاك الملزوم في وجوده بالفعل عن وجود اللازم بالفعل و قد يكون بحسب الوجود بالفعل من أحد الطرفين بخصوصه دون الآخر كلزوم انقطاع الامتداد للجسم فإن معناه أنه يمتنع وجود الجسم بدون كونه بحيث يصح أن ينتزع منه انقطاع الامتداد فانقطاع الامتداد بحسب كونه صحيح الانتزاع منه لازم لوجود الجسم بالفعل و قد يكون من كلا الطرفين بحسب حيثية صحة الانتزاع و من هذا القبيل لزوم اللزوم فإن مرجعه أن اللزوم لا يمكن صحة انتزاعية من شيء إلا و هو بحيث يصح منه انتزاع اللزوم و هكذا فيكفي في صدق الحكم عليه صحة انتزاع اللزوم منه في هذا النحو من الوجود أي صحة انتزاعه عن موجود بالفعل كما أن القضية الممكنة يكفي في صدقها إمكان وجود الموضوع انتهى كلامه.

و ذلك لأنه مع كونه قد عنى نفسه و بالغ في التدقيق لم يبلغ كلامه حد الإجداء - لأن اللزوم بمجرد كونه صحيح الانتزاع عن شيء بالقوة من غير أن يصير منتزعا بالفعل - لا يصح أن يقع موضوعا للإيجاب و يحكم عليه باللزوم أو اللالزوم لأنه بهذا الاعتبار من الروابط الغير المستقلة في الملحوظية و إذا لوحظ بالفعل و حكم عليه باللزوم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٤٦

صار مفهوما من المفهومات الموجودة في العقل الملحوظة بالقصد فله بهذا الاعتبار وجود في نفسه و إن كان في النفس و ليس بهذا الاعتبار موجودا بالعرض انتزاعيا بل حقيقيا ذهنيا فموجوديتها بوجود ما ينتزع منه من قبيل الأول الذي يمتنع أن يكون موضوعا لحكم إيجابي بل و لا سلبي أيضا و وجود الموصوف لا يمكن أن يكون بعينه وجود الصفة سواء كانت حقيقية أو انتزاعية و إلا لبطل الفرق بين الذاتي و العرضي فإن وجود السماء مثلا في ذاتها غير وجود الفوقية الثابتة إذ السماء في مرتبة وجود ذاتها سماء لا غير و إنما الفوقية تعرضها بحسب وجود ثان لها يكون متأخرا عن وجود ذاتها لذاتها فالحق ما مر من أن اللزوم له تحقق رابطي يكفي في كون أحد الشئيين لازما و الآخر ملزوما و هذا النحو من الوجود الرابطي و إن كان منسوبا إلى الخارج إذا كان اتصاف الملزوم بالأمر اللازم في الخارج لكن ليس هو نحو وجود الملزوم في نفسه لأن نحو وجوده في نفسه و الحصول الذي يليق به حين تحققه مع قطع النظر عن كونه رابطا بين شئيين بل عند ملاحظة ماهيته و حقيقته في نفسه ليس إلا في ظرف الذهن و إن كانت ملاحظته في نفسه لا ينفك عن اتصافه بكونه رابطة بين شئيين و هذا كما في ملاحظة السلوب و الأعدام فإنها و إن كانت حقيقتها سلوب الأشياء و أعدامها لكن للعقل أن يلحظها كذلك و إذا صارت معقولة قد عرض لها نحو من الوجود ثم مع ذلك لا ينسلخ عن كونها سلوبا و أعداما - لأن ماهيتها كذلك و قد مر أن الوجود مما وقع ظله العمومي الانبساطي على جميع الماهيات و المفهومات حتى على مفهوم العدم و شريك الباري و اجتماع النقيضين - فمفهوم المعنى الرابطي معنى رابطي بحسب الحمل الذاتي الأولي لا بحسب الحمل الشائع الصناعي فتدبر فيه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٤٧

ثم إن في كلامه بعضا من مواضع الأنظار أما أولا فلأن أبعاد المتصل الواحد قبل أن يقع فيه كثرة و اثنيانية بنحو من أنحاء القسمة الخارجية و لو بحسب اختلاف عرضين قارين لا يمكن الحكم الإيجابي عليهما بشيء حكما صادقا بحسب الخارج فإذا حدثت الاثنيانية الخارجية - صار كل واحد منهما مما له وجود في الخارج و قبل القسمة ليس شيء

منهما موجودا أصلا إنما الموجود هو المادة القابلة لهما بعد وجودهما المستعدة لهما قبل حدوثهما ثم الوجود على رآيه أمر عقلي انتزاعي نسبي لا تحصل له إلا بما ينتزع منه - فيكون واحدا بوحدة ما ينتزع منه كثيرا بكثرتة فكيف يكون الأشياء المتعددة - من حيث تعددها موجودة بوجود واحد.

و أما ثانيا فلأن خصوصيات الأحكام وإن اقتضت خصوصيات الوجود لموضوعاتها لكن ليس يكفي في الحكم على شيء بحال خارجي وجود الانتزاعي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٤٨

بل نقول ما ذكره من أن خصوصيات الأحكام مما يقتضي خصوصيات الوجود للموضوعات - ينافي ما فرعه عليه من الاكتفاء في الحكم على شيء بحال واقعي بالفعل بوجوده الانتزاعي الذي هو بالقوة و بعد أن يخرج من القوة إلى الفعل يكون ظرف تحققة و وعاء ثبوته الذهن فقط دون الخارج.

و أما ثالثا فلأن طبيعة القضية الممكنة وإن لم يقتض صدقها الوجود بالفعل للموضوع في الأعيان لكنها اقتضت الوجود في الذهن على وفاق سائر القضايا و لا شك أن القضايا التي كلامنا فيها أشد استدعاء لوجود الموضوع من الممكنات - فكيف يتصور الاكتفاء في وجود موضوعها بنحو من الثبوت الانتزاعي الذي مرجعه إلى عدم الثبوت لا خارجا و لا ذهنا إلا بعد أن يصير منظورا إليه.

و أما رابعا فلأن عدم اقتضاء الممكنة وجود الموضوع بالفعل ليس معناه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٤٩

أنه يمكن لنا أن نحكم على زيد بأنه كاتب بالإمكان من غير أن يكون موجودا في الأعيان كيف و الكتابة بالإمكان حال خارجي لزيد و الحال الخارجي لشيء لا ينفك عن وجوده الخارجي بل معناه أن القضية الممكنة من جهة إمكان الاتصاف بالمحمول لا يستدعي وجود الموضوع أي كيفية الرابطة إذا كانت إمكانا فالقضية من حيث كون جهة الرابطة فيها إمكانا لا تستدعي الوجود للموضوع بخلاف الضرورة و الدوام و غيرهما و هذا لا يستلزم عدم اقتضاءها له من حيثية أخرى كما باعتبار أصل الحكم الخارجي مع قطع النظر عن جهاته و عدم اقتضاء بعض الجهات لوجود الموضوع - لا يستلزم عدم اقتضاء نفس الحكم له و الكلام في نفس الأحكام لا في جهاتها على أن الجهة فيما نحن فيه هي الضرورة

فصل (٧) في استقراء المعاني التي يستعمل فيها لفظ الإمكان

إن لفظ الإمكان في استعمالات الجمهور من الناس يقع على ما في قوة سلب

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٥٠

امتناع ذات الموضوع أو سلب امتناع النسبة بين طرفي العقد و الامتناع هو ضرورة انتفاء الموضوع في نفسه أو ضرورة عدم النسبة و بالجملة ضرورة الجانب المخالف - بالقياس إلى أحد هذين الأمرين فصار معنى الإمكان بحسب استعمالهم سلب ضرورة الطرف المقابل و إنما توصف به النسبة المتحققة على طريقة المجاز من باب وصف الشيء

بحال متعلقة الغير الواقع في نفس الأمر فعندهم ما ليس بممكن فهو ممتنع و الممكن واقع على الواجب و على ما ليس بواجب و لا ممتنع و لا يقع على الممتنع الذي يقابله لا على أن هناك طبيعة جامعة لهما في نفس الأمر لأن ما في نفس الأمر إما الوجوب أو الإمكان و إنما ذلك في تصور العقل و اعتباره مفهوما جامعا لهما هو في نفس الأمر و بحسب الواقع ليس إلا أحد الأمرين لا طبيعة مبهمة متحصلة بهما مع قطع النظر عن اعتبار العقل و عمله و لذلك ليس هو مادة بل جهة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٥١

ثم انصرف عن الوضع الأول بأن اعتبر ذلك المعنى تارة في طرف الإيجاب كما في الوضع الأول و تارة في طرف السلب إذ من شأن الامتناع الدخول على كل منهما- و حينئذ وقع على الممتنع و على ما ليس بواجب و لا ممتنع و تخلى عن الواجب فصار الإمكان مقابلا لكل من ضرورتي الجانبين إذ بحسب دخوله على الإيجاب قابل ضرورة السلب و بحسب دخوله على السلب قابل ضرورة الإيجاب و لما لزم وقوع الإمكان على ما ليس بواجب و لا ممتنع في حالتيه جميعا وضع منقولا خاصيا لسلب الضرورة في جانبي الإيجاب و السلب جميعا و هو الإمكان الحقيقي المقابل للضرورتين جميعا و هو أخص من المعنى الأول فكان المعنى الأول إمكانا عاما أو عاميا و الثاني خاصا و خاصيا بحسب الوجهين و صارت الأشياء بحسبه على ثلاثة أقسام واجب و ممتنع و ممكن كما كانت بحسب المفهوم الأول قسمين واجبا و ممكنا أو ممتنعا و ممكنا.

ثم قد يستعمل و يراد به ما يقابل جميع الضرورات ذاتية كانت أو وصفية أو وقتية و هو أحق باسم الإمكان من المعنيين السابقين لأن هذا المعنى من الممكن - أقرب إلى حال الوسط بين طرفي الإيجاب و السلب كالكتابة للإنسان لتساوي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٥٢

نسبة الطبيعة الإنسانية إلى وجودها و عدمها له و الضرورة بشرط المحمول و إن كانت مقابلة هذا الإمكان بالاعتبار فربما يشاركه في المادة لكنها توصف بتلك الضرورة من حيث الوجود و بهذا الإمكان من حيث الماهية و أخصيته هذا المعنى من اللذين قبله ليست إلا بضرب من التشبيه و نوع من المجاز و قد يطلق الإمكان على معنى رابع و هو ما بحسب حال الشيء من إيجاب أو سلب في الاستقبال و هو الإمكان الاستقبالي لكون ما ينسب إلى الماضي و الحال من الأمور إما موجودا أو معدوما فالضرورة قد أخرجه من حاق الوسط إلى أحد الطرفين و لذلك اعتبره

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٥٣

فرقة من المنطقيين لأن الباقي على الإمكان الصرف ليس إلا المنسوب إلى الاستقبال - من الممكنات التي يجهل حالها و من اشترط منهم في هذا أن يكون معدوما في الحال فقد غفل عن أن حسابه إن جعله موجودا قد أخرجه إلى ضرورة الوجودات مثله هاهنا إذ فرض عدم الحالي أيضا يخرج به إلى ضرورة عدم فإن استضر بذلك فيستضر بهذا فترجيح أحدهما على الآخر ليس من مرجح و هذا قول يناسبه النظر المنطقي و الأنظار البحثية.

و أما التحقيق الفلسفي فيعطي أن الممكن في الاستقبال أيضا لا يتجرد عن إحدى الضرورتين الوجوب باعتبار أحد

الطرفين و الامتناع باعتبار مقابله من جهة إيجاب العلة له كما في الحال فإذن معنى الإمكان واحد يتساوى نسبته إلى ما بحسب الحال أو الاستقبال للممكن نعم الصدق والكذب لا يتعينان في الإمكان الاستقبالي - فإن الواقع في الماضي و الحال قد يتعين طرف وقوعه و لا وقوعه و يكون الصادق و الكاذب بحسب المطابقة و عدمها واقعين و أما الاستقبالي فقد نظر في تعيين أحد طرفيه - أهو كذلك في الواقع أم لا و هذا أيضا بالقياس إلى علومنا الغير المحيطة بما في الأزال و الآباد جميعا بخلاف علوم المبادي و أوائل الوجود فإن علومهم عليه إحاطية إيجابية بنية لا أنها انفعالية إمكانية ظنية إنما الإمكان و الظن بحسب حال الماهيات - الغير المستدعية لشيء من طرفي الوجود و العدم و هو لا ينفك عن إيجاب الوجود - الناشي من اقتضاء السلب التام و الجمهور يظنون ذلك في الواقع و التحقيق يأباه لأن الممكن ممكن بذاته واجب بوجود علته و ممتنع بعدمها فما لا يعلم من الممكن إلا الإمكان فلا يتصور أن يعلم منه أنه واقع أو غير واقع و إن علم وجود سببه كان وجوده واجبا لا ممكنا و إن علم عدم سببه كان عدمه واجبا لا ممكنا فإذن وجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٥٤

الممكنات باعتبار السبب واجب فلو اطلعنا على جميع أسباب شيء واحد و علمنا وجودها قطعنا بوجود ذلك الشيء لأنه صار واجبا باعتبار وجود أسبابه و الأول تعالى يعلم الحوادث المستقبلية بأسبابها لأن الأسباب و العلل ترتقي إلى الواجب الوجود و كل حادث ممكن فهو بسببه واجب و لو لم يجب بسببه لما وجد و سببه أيضا واجب بغيره إلى أن ينتهي إلى مسبب الأسباب من غير سبب فلما كان هو عالما بترتب الأسباب كان عالما بلا وصمة شك يعتريه و المنجم لما تفحص عن بعض أسباب الوجود و لم يطلع على جميعها لا جرم يحكم بوجود الشيء ظنا و تخميناً لأنه يجوز أن ما اطلع عليها ربما يعارضه مانع فلا يكون ما ذكره كل السبب بل ذلك مع انتفاع المصادمات و المعارضات فإن اطلع على أكثر الأسباب قوي ظنه و إن اطلع على الكل حصل له العلم كما يعلم في الشتاء أن الهواء سيحمر بعد ستة أشهر لأن سبب الحمى - كون الشمس قريب الممر من سمت الرأس و ذلك في وسط البروج الشمالية لسكان الأقاليم الشمالية و يعلم بحكم الأوضاع السماوية و عادة الله فيها و سنة الله التي لا تبدل لها أن الشمس لا يتغير مسيرها و أنها ستعود إلى الأسد بعد هذه المدة و سنزيدك إيضاحاً لهذا من ذي قبل في كيفية علم الله تعالى بالمتغيرات إن شاء الله تعالى.

ثم قد يطلق الإمكان و يراد به الإمكان الاستعدادي الذي هو تهيو المادة و استعدادها لما يحصل لها من الصور و الأعراض و هو كيفية استعدادية من عوارض المادة تقبل التفاوت شدة و ضعفا بحسب القرب من الحصول و البعد عنه لأجل تحقق الأكثر و الأقل مما لا بد منه و هو ليس من المعاني العقلية الانتزاعية التي لا حصول لها خارج العقل كالسوابق من معاني الإمكان بل إنه مما يحدث بحدوث بعض الأسباب و الشرائط و ينقطع استمراره بحدوث الشيء كزوال النقص بعد حصول التام - و رفع الإبهام عند تعيين الأمر على ما في فلسفتنا من أن نسبة المادة باستعدادها إلى الشيء الحادث نسبة النقص إلى التمام كما سيتضح في موعده إن شاء الله تعالى و هذا الإمكان لا يعد من الجهات بل يجعل محمولاً أو جزءه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٥٥

فصل (٨) فيه إرجاع الكلام إلى أحكام هذه المفهومات العقلية التي هي مواد العقود على أسلوب آخر

إن كلا من هذه الطبائع العقلية يحتمل في بادي الأمر أن يكون بالذات أو بالغير أو بالقياس إلى الغير ثم العقل بعد التدبر فيها يحكم بأن الإمكان لا يكون بالغير - بل بالذات و بالقياس إلى الغير فسقط من الاحتمالات التسعة واحد فبقي المتحققة منها ثمانية اعتبارات و الثلاثة التي هي بالذات من تلك الجملة منفصلة حقيقة حاصرة لجميع الطبائع و المفهومات بحسب نفس الأمر و مراتبها اللهم إلا في الماهيات الإمكانية فإنها في مرتبة ذاتها من حيث هي لا تكون متصفة بإمكانها الذي هي حالها في نفس الأمر لا بحسب مرتبة ماهياتها فإنها من تلك الحثية ليست إلا هي نعم لما كان جميع السلوب صادقة في حق كل واحدة منها من تلك الحثية إلا سلب نفسها بحقيقتها التصورية لا بهليتها البسيطة أو المركبة لأن إيجاب نفسها أو غيرها إياها أيضا مع الوجود فيصدق فيها من جملة السلوب سلب ضروري الوجود و العدم - و كذا سلب سلبها أيضا إلا أن صدق هذه السلوب على طريقة العقود السلبية عنها - لا على طريقة إيجاب تلك السلوب لها و بينهما فرقان عظيم و حمل الإمكان على

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٥٤

الماهية كنظيره من قبيل الثاني دون الأول كيف و لو كان المقسم في الأقسام الثلاثة حال الشيء بالقياس إلى الوجود و العدم بجميع الحثيات و الاعتبارات أعم من أن يكون بحسب الواقع أو بحسب أية مرتبة منه لم يكن القسمة عقلية حاصرة - فإن الماهية بحسب نفس مرتبتها ربما لم يكن لها شيء من الثلاثة عند العقل و لو سلم ثبوت شيء من الثلاثة لها بحسب نفس ذاتها فيكون نفسها أيضا مع ذلك الشيء ثابتة لنفسها فيكون نفسها نفسها و ذلك الشيء فلا يكون القسمة حاصرة و لا الانفصال الحقيقي المشتمل على منع الجمع و منع الخلو حاصلًا في الأقسام الثلاثة و كون بعض هذه الأقسام حاصلًا في مرتبة ذات موضوعه كما في الواجب تعالى إنما نشأ من خصوصية القسم لا باعتبار حصوله و خروجه عن مفهوم المقسم فإن مجرد ذلك - لا يستدعي أن يكون الواجب بالذات مثلا مصداق وجوب وجوده نفس مرتبة ذاته بذاته و إلا لما احتجنا بعد تحصيل كل قسم إلى استيناف بيان و برهان على كون وجوب وجوده تعالى عين ذاته من دون صفة عارضة لذاته أو اعتبار آخر متأخر عن نفس

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٥٧

ذاته تعالى و فرق بين كون الذات مصدوقا عليها لصدق مفهوم و كونه مصداقا لصدقه فلا تنافي بين هذا الكلام و بين ما سنذكره أن الماهية الإمكانية لا ينفك عنها الإمكان في أية مرتبة أخذت

و اعلم أن مفهوم واجب الوجود لذاته شامل لعدة أقسام.

منها واجب يمتنع انتفاء المحمول عنه بنفس ذاته

من غير اقتضاء و عليّة من الذات لثبوته لها و هو القيوم تعالى و الضرورة هناك ذاتية أزلية مطلقة.

و منها نسب ضرورية لمحمول إلى موضوع لا يكون الموضوع علة لثبوت المحمول له

ككون الإنسان إنسانا أو حيوانا و الضرورة هاهنا مطلقة ذاتية مع وصف الوجود للموضوع لا به.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٥٨

و منها نسب ضرورية يكون لها علة هي نفس ذات الموضوعات

ككون المثلث ذا الزوايا القوائم و ضرورتها أيضا ذاتية بالنظر إلى اقتضاء ذات الموضوع و لكن مع وصف الوجود لا بالوصف و كذا مجرد مفهوم الممتنع بالذات يتحصل في أقسام.

منها ما يمتنع الوجود بالنظر إلى ذاته

من حيث هي لا بعلة و اقتضاء منها كشرية الباري تعالى و المعدوم المطلق و الشر المحض.

و منها ما يمتنع وجود المحمول له بالنظر إلى ذاته

لا بعلة منه لضرورة عدم ذلك المحمول عنه ككون الإنسان جمادا.

و منها ما يمتنع وجود المحمول له بالنظر إلى ذاته بذاته

و لكن باقتضاء من ذاته لضرورة عدمه عنه ككون الأربعة فردا فإن اقتضاءها للزوجية عين اقتضاءها لنفي الفردية عنها و كذا مفهوم الممكن بالذات يستوعب أمورا ممكنة تصدق في كل منها بحسب الإمكان الخاص إمكانان عامان موجب و سالب و الموجب فيه يستلزم السالب و يكون العقد مركبا من قضيتين موجبة و سالبة و أمورا مركبة فرضا من الواجبين أو الممتنعين أو ضدين فإن ضرورة الوجود أو عدم تلك المركبات - ليست لذواتها بما هي مركبات بل لعللة هي خصوصية الأجزاء و الاثنان اللذان هما بالغير - أي الوجوب و الامتناع إنما يعرضان لجميع الممكنات و لا يعرضان البتة و لا أحدهما - لشيء من الواجب بالذات و الممتنع بالذات و قد مر أن الواجب بالذات لا يكون واجبا بغيره و أما الثلاثة التي هي بالقياس إلى الغير فهي لا تصادم التي هي بالذات - في التحقق و إن خالفتها في المفهوم فالوجوب بالقياس إلى الغير يعم جميع الموجودات - إذ لا موجود إلا و له علة أو معلولية لشيء آخر و كل من العلة و المعلول له وجوب

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٥٩

بالقياس إلى الآخر لأن الوجوب بالقياس إلى الغير ضرورة تحقق الشيء بالنظر إلى الغير على سبيل الاستدعاء الأعم من الاقتضاء و مرجعه إلى أن الغير يابى ذاته إلا أن يكون للشيء ضرورة الوجود سواء كان باقتضاء ذاتي أو بحاجة ذاتية و وجود تعلقي ظلي

و قد وقع في الأحاديث الإلهية: يا موسى أنا بذك اللازم

و الامتناع بالقياس إلى الغير يعرض لكل موجود واجبا أو ممكنا بالنسبة إلى عدم معلوله أو عدم علته أو ما يلزم عدم معلوله أو عدم علته و كذا يعرض لكل معدوم بما هو معدوم ممتنع أو ممكن بالنظر إلى وجود معلوله أو وجود علته. و بالجملة وجود ما يصادمه وجوده و الإمكان مقيسا إلى الغير لا يعرض للواجب القيوم بالقياس إلى شيء من الموجودات الممكنة إنما يعرض له بالقياس إلى المفروض واجبا آخر و بالقياس إلى ما فرض من مجعولات واجب آخر و يعرض أيضا لموجودات ممكنة بعضها مقيسا إلى بعض أو لمعدومات ممكنة كذلك أو لموجود ممكن مقيسا إلى معدوم ممكن أو بالعكس كل ذلك بشرط أن لا يكون بين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٦٠

المقيس و المقيس إليه علاقة علية أو معلولية و يعرض لأمور ممتنعة بالذات بالقياس إلى عدمات أشياء ممكنة بالذات و

ما يلزمها لعدم العلاقة الاستدعائية بينها.

تنبيه: وجوب العلة بالقياس إلى وجود المعلول

عبارة عن استدعائه بحسب وجوبه لها أن يكون هي مما وجب لها الوجود إما بنفسها كما في العلة الأولى أو بغيرها - و وجوب المعلول بالقياس إلى وجود العلة كونها بتماميتها متأبئة إلا أن يكون معلولها ضروري الثبوت في الخارج مع عزل النظر عن أن المعلول له وجوب حاصل له من العلة - فإن هذا حال المعلول في نفسه وإن كان من جهة إعطاء العلة إياه و يعبر عنه بالوجوب بالغير و وجوب أحد المعلولين لعل واحد بالقياس إلى الآخر عبارة عن كون الآخر يابى أن يكون هذا غير ضروري الوجود بحسب اقتضاء الغير ضرورتهما جميعا مع عدم الالتفات إلى أن هذا في نفسه موصوف بضرورة التحقق لأن هذا حال شقيقة لا حالة - و الوجوب بالغير هو كون الشيء ضروري الوجود في نفسه بحسب إعطاء الغير ذلك لأنه اعتبار في الشيء بحسب ما يلائم حال الغير عند ما يلحظه مقيسا إليه لا من حيث هو له في نفسه من قبل إفاضة الغير وهذا فرق صحيح بحسب المفهوم و في الفلسفة العامة - و أما في طريقتنا فسيلوح لك ما فيه إن كنت من أهل الطريق ففي قاعدتهم المعلول واجب بالعلة و بالقياس إليها جميعا بخلاف العلة فإنها واجبة بالقياس إلى المعلول لا به - و كذا كل واحد من معلولي علة واحدة نظرا إلى الآخر و الامتناع بالغير هو ضرورة عدم الشيء من قبل اقتضاء الغير و الامتناع بالقياس إلى الغير ضرورة عدم وجوده بحسب استدعاء الغير و هو يجتمع مع الامتناع بالغير في وجود المعلول بالنسبة إلى عدم العلة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ١، ص ١٦١

أو عدمه بالنسبة إلى وجودها و يفترق عنه بالتحقق في عكس هاتين الصورتين - و في عدم أحد معلولي علة واحدة بالقياس إلى وجود الآخر أو وجوده بالنظر إلى عدم الآخر و الإمكان الخاص بالقياس إلى الغير هو لا ضرورة وجود الشيء و عدمه بحسب استدعاء حال الغير وجودا و عدما حين ما يلحظ مقيسا إليه و هذا إنما يتحقق في الأشياء - التي لا يكون بينها علاقة طبيعية من جهة العلية و المعلولية أو الاتفاق في معلولية علة واحدة

فصل (٩) في أن الإمكان يستحيل أن يكون بالغير

لما تيقنت أن قسمة الشيء إلى الواجب و الممكن و الممتنع منفصلة حقيقية إذ كل مفهوم فهو في ذاته إما ضروري الوجود أو لا فإما ضروري عدم أو لا و هذا في التحقيق منفصلتان حقيقتان كل واحدة منهما يتركب من الشيء و نقيضه و هكذا حال كل قضية منفصلة يكون أجزاءها أكثر من اثنين فإنها تكون بالحقيقة منفصلتان أو أكثر فحينئذ الشيء بأي اعتبار و حيثية أخذ لا يكون إلا أحد هذه الثلاثة فإذا كان حاله بحسب ذاته أو بحسب وصفه مع قطع النظر عن تأثير الغير فيه من جملة هذه الثلاثة المنفصلة الإمكان فلو فرض أن يكون له إمكان بالغير لكان لشيء واحد بالنظر إلى حيثية واحدة إمكانان أحدهما بالغير و الآخر بالذات بمعنى كون الذات كافية في صدقه لا بمعنى اقتضاءها له - لاستحالة ذلك كما سيظهر و من المستحيلات أن يكون إمكان واحد مستندا إلى الذات بالمعنى المذكور و إلى الغير جميعا كما مر في الوجوب من أنه لو كان بالذات لم يكن بالغير و لو كان بالغير لم يكن بالذات و أما تحقق إمكانين لشيء واحد باعتبار واحد فهو مستبين الفساد فكما لا يتصور لشيء واحد باعتبار واحد وجودان أو عدمان فكذلك لا يتصور لواحد بعينه من الذوات أو الحثيات المكثرة للذات ضرورتا وجود واحد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٦٢

أو ضرورتا عدم واحد أو لا ضرورتان لوجود واحد و عدم واحد كيف و هذه المعاني طبائع ذهنية لا يتحصل إلا بالإضافة و لا يتعدد كل منها إلا بتعدد ما أضيفت هي إليه فلو فرض إمكان بالغير لشيء ما فهو مع عزل النظر عن الغير أ هو في حد ذاته ممكن فكان لشيء واحد بعينه إمكانان و قد علمت بطلانه أو ضروري أحد من الوجود و العدم فقد أزاله ذلك الغير عما يقتضيه ذاته و كساه مصادم ما استوجبه بطباعه و ليس كذلك إذا كان الوجوب أو الامتناع بالغير حين كون الذات متصفة بالإمكان الذاتي لأنه عبارة عن لا اقتضاء الذات إحدى الضرورتين لا اقتضاءها سلبهما و بينهما فرق إذ الأول سلب تحصيلي لا إيجاب سلب أو إيجاب عدول و الثاني إيجاب لأحدهما و السلب البسيط

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٦٣

التحصيلي بما هو كذلك لا يحوج صدقه على شيء بحسب ذاته إلى اقتضاء من تلقاه تلك الذات له بل يكفي فيه عدم الاقتضاء على الإطلاق فالإمكان لأجل هذا ليس

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٦٤

من لوازم الماهيات على المعنى المصطلح الشائع في اللوازم بل على مجرد كون الماهية - كافية لصدقه عليها لا بمقتض و لا باقتضاء نعم تساوي طرفي الوجود و العدم نظرا إلى نفس الذات الإمكانية حين ما هو موجود أو معدوم في الخارج و ثابت في العقل أو صحة إيجاب سلب الضرورتين لماهيتها بحسب حكم العقل من لوازم الماهيات على المعنى الشائع فيها لكن ليس شيء منهما حقيقة الإمكان كما يسوق إليه البرهان بل أشد محوضة في عدم التحصل و أوكد صرافة في القوة و الفاقة و منهم من يجعل الإمكان بمعنى تساوي الطرفين نظرا إلى الذات أو بمعنى السلب العدولي أو التحصيلي لكن يجعله من اللوازم الاصطلاحية للذات المحوجة إلى اقتضاء من قبلها ثم يعتذر من لزوم الانقلاب عند فعلية أحد الطرفين أو تخلف مقتضى الذات عند ترجيح أحد الطرفين المتساويين أن الأمر أوسع من مرتبة الذات من حيث هي هي و أن انتفاء شيء في خصوص نحو من أنحاء نفس الأمر بخصوصه لا يستلزم انتفاءه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٦٥

في نفس الأمر فيجوز أن يكون حقيقة الإمكان اقتضاء ذات الممكن تساوي الطرفين - بالنظر إلى ذاته من حيث هي هي لا اقتضاء ذاته تساويهما في نفس الأمر و كذا ما ينافي مقتضى ذات الممكن ترجيح أحد الطرفين بالنظر إلى الذات من حيث هي لا ترجحه بالنظر إليها في نفس الأمر من جهة تأثير العلة و إفاضة الجاعل. و أنت بعد الإحاطة بما نبهناك عليه من أن الممكن في مرتبة ذاته من حيث ذاته له القوة الساذجة و الفقر المحض من غير تحصيل بوجه من الوجوه أصلا في جهة من الجهات علمت بطلان ذلك إذ الماهية الإمكانية حيث لا تحصل لها فلا فعلية لها في حد ذاتها و ما لا فعلية له لا اقتضاء منه لشيء ما لم ينصغ بصيغ الوجود من جهة إفاضة الجاعل القيوم و إلا لكان لما بالقوة من حيث هو بالقوة مدخل في إخراج شيء من القوة إلى الفعل و من الإبهام إلى التحصل و الفطرة

الإنسانية تأتي ذلك فإذاً الممكن بحسب ذاته المبهمة لا يقتضي شيئاً من الأشياء حتى سلب شيء أيضاً.

إيضاح وتنبيه:

إن من الذاهبين إلى أن الإمكان الذاتي من لوازم الماهيات بالمعنى الاصطلاحي في اللزوم بين شيئين ربما يجعل من براهين إبطال الإمكان بالغير أنه لو كان كذلك لزم تواردهن علتين مستقلتين على معلول واحد - أو انقلاب شيء من الواجب بالذات والممتنع بالذات إلى الممكن بالذات.

و يرد عليه أنه يجوز أن يكون علة الذات و استقلالها مشروطة بانتفاء الغير - فإذا وجد لم يكن لها علة أو استقلال فلا يلزم التوارد المذكور كما في أعدام أجزاء المركب فإن كلا منها علة مستقلة لعدمه عند الانفراد وإذا اجتمع عدة منها بطل الاستقلال من الأحاد و دفع بأن في التصوير المذكور لا يكون الإمكان ذاتياً أصلاً - إذ لا يزال للغير مدخل وجوداً و عدماً.

و الحق في علة كل من أعدام أجزاء المركب لعدمه أنها على سبيل التبعية لاقتها بما هو علة بالذات لأن ما هو علة بالذات لعدم المعلول هي طبيعة عدم إحدى علة من الشرائط و الأجزاء أو غيرها و ذلك أمر كلي مبهم لا تعدد فيه بحسب نفسه و الأفراد و إن تعددت لكنها ليست عللاً بخصوصها بل العلة هي القدر المشترك و كون العلة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٦٦

أضعف تحصلاً من معلولها ليس بضائر في علل الأعدام و لا حاجة في ذلك إلى ما قد تكلفه بعض الأعاض من أن علة عدم المعلول الشخصي عدم علته التامة الشخصية.

و ربما قالوا لو كان إمكان الشيء معلولاً لغيره لكان هو في ذاته جائزاً أن يكون ممكناً أو واجباً لذاته أو ممتنعاً لذاته و إمكان كون الشيء واجباً لذاته أو ممتنعاً لذاته مشتمل على التناقض و أيضاً إذا فرضنا عدم تأثير الغير فيه كان واجباً أو ممتنعاً و كلاهما مستحيلان لأن سلب تأثير الغير فيه أمر مغاير لذاته و كون الشيء بسبب الغير واجباً بذاته أو ممتنعاً بذاته تهافت.

و هذه كلها هوسات جزافية بعد ما حقق الأمر بأن معنى الإمكان الذاتي هو كون الشيء بحيث إذا اعتبر بذاته من غير ملاحظة أمر آخر وراء نفسه معه - كان مسلوب الضرورة للوجود و العدم عنه من غير اقتضاء و لا علة منه لذلك بل مع قطع النظر عن جميع ما يكون غير ذاته و إن كان من السلوب و الإضافات العارضة لذاته - و كذا الحال في الوجوب و الامتناع الذاتيين إذ المقسم في الأقسام الثلاثة هو حال الشيء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٦٧

على هذا الوجه الذي ذكرناه

دفاع شك:

إنك بعد أن لوحنا لك إلى أن كون الشيء بحسب مرتبة نفسه - مما يصدق عليه سلب أي معنى كان سوى ذاتياته لا يستلزم أن يكون ذاته مصداق تلك السلوب بأن يكون حيثية الذات بعينها حيثية تلك السلوب - لست في أن يسع لك أن تقول إن الماهية المأخوذة من حيث هي يصح سلب كل ما ليس من جوهريات ذاتها عنها من تلك الحيثية و سلب

الضرورة إذا أخذ سلباً تحصيلياً - صح صدقه عليها من تلك الحثية فيلزم أن يكون نفس هذا السلب من جوهريات الماهية مع أن الإمكان الذاتي من عوارض الماهيات لا من جوهرياتها.

إزالة ريب:

و حيث ينكشف لك من ذي قبل في مباحث الماهية فائدة تقديم السلب على من حيث هي هي في قولنا الماهية ليست من حيث هي إلا هي حتى تعود الحثية جزءاً من المحمول و يكون السلب وارداً على الثبوت من تلك الحثية لا أن يؤخر حتى يصير تتممة للموضوع و قيده إذ لو فعل هكذا لربما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٦٨

يكذب الحكم مطلقاً كما إذا كان مدخول السلب مما لا يجوز أن يكون الموضوع مجرداً عنه في نفس الأمر بوجه أصلاً فيسهل عليك دفاع شك استصعب حله كثير من الأذكياء و هو أنه لما صح سلب كل ما ليس من ذاتيات الماهيات إذا أخذت من حيث هي هي فكذاك يصح سلب ذلك السلب من تلك الحثية و كما أن الإنسان المأخوذ من حيث ماهيته و طبيعته تسلب عنه الكتابة من تلك الحثية كذلك تسلب عنه سلب الكتابة أيضاً لكونهما جميعاً من العوارض التي هي غير الذات و الذاتي له فنقول كل ماهية إمكانية كما صح سلب ضرورة الطرفين عنه من حيث هي - فكذاك يصح سلب سلب ضرورة الطرفين من تلك الحثية فإذا الإنسان من حيث هو هو كما أنه ليس بواجب و لا ممتنع بحسب ذاته فكذاك هو من تلك الحثية ليس بممكن بالذات و قد مر أن لا شيء من الأشياء بأي وجه أخذ خال عن الوجوب و الامتناع و الإمكان الذاتيات و أن الممكن في مرتبة ذاته ممكن بالذات لا ينفك عنه الإمكان الذاتي في تلك المرتبة و ذلك لأن الماهية و إن لم يصدق عليها من جهة ذاتها شيء من العرضيات اللاحقة بأن يكون جهة العروض هي الماهية من حيث هي لكن يصدق على الماهية المأخوذة من حيث هي كثير من العرضيات و هي التي لا تخلو الماهية عنها في نفس الأمر على نحو لا يكون جهة العروض هي الماهية من حيث هي فالعوارض التي لا تنفك الماهية عنها أبداً يمتنع صدق سلوبها عليها بخلاف العوارض التي تلحقها بشرط الوجود فإنها حيث تخلو الماهية عنها في مرتبتها التي لها متقدمة على الأوصاف الوجودية يصدق سلوبها على الماهية إذا أخذت تحصيلية لا عدولية لكن الإمكان ليس من هذا القبيل إذ هي من المراتب السابقة على الوجود - فسلبه لم يصدق على الماهية أصلاً.

و مما ذكرناه علمت ضعف قول من أراد التفصي عن تلك الشبهة بأن انفكاك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٦٩

الماهية من حيث هي عن الإمكان لا يستلزم جواز انفكاكها في نفس الأمر لأنها أوسع من تلك المرتبة قياساً على عوارضها الوجودية التي يكون القضايا المعقودة بها وصفية و هي العوارض التي تلحق الماهية لا بما هي هي بل بشرط الوجود و لا حاجة أيضاً إلى ما ذكره بعض الأماجد أن الإمكان لما لم يكن حقيقتها إلا سلب ضرورة الطرفين سلباً بسيطاً تحصيلياً فيكون صادقاً في مرتبة الماهية من حيث هي و إن كان خارجاً عن جوهرها فإن مجرد كون الشيء سلباً تحصيلياً لا يوجب صدقه في مرتبة الماهية المأخوذة بنفسها و إلا لصدق سلب الإمكان أيضاً.

ثم قد مر أن المقسم في الأمور الثلاثة هي حال الماهية بالقياس إلى الوجود و العدم و هذه حالة ثبوتية اتصافية و إن كان

بعض القيود كالإمكان سلبية حتى يكون المعقودة به من القضايا موجبة سالبة المحمول لا سالبة بسيطة فكون الشيء ممكنًا عبارة عن اتصافه بسلب ضرورة الطرفين لا لا اتصافه بضرورة الطرفين فصدق الإمكان على شيء معناه صدق الاتصاف به وقد صرح بذلك بعض المحققين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٧٠

وهم وتنبيه

: ثم لعلك تقول معلولية شيء لشيء يستلزم معلولية عدمه لعدم ذلك الشيء إذ عدم العلة علة لعدم المعلول فإذا كان وجوب الممكن بالغير وهو ضرورة وجوده فنقيضه وهو سلب ضرورة الوجود يكون بالغير - وإذا كان امتناعه بالغير وهو ضرورة عدمه فنقيضه وهو سلب ضرورة عدمه يكون بالغير - فإذا ثبت الإمكان بالغير. فنقول قد مر أن إمكانية الشيء هي اتصافه بسلب الضرورة الذي في قوة موجبة سالبة المحمول لا نفس سلب الضرورة الذي في قوة السالبة البسيطة وظاهر أن نقيض ضرورة الوجود هو المعنى الثاني لا الأول الذي هو إمكانية الشيء. وأيضا ليس مجموع ضرورة الوجود و ضرورة عدم صفة واحدة لها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٧١

وحدة اجتماعية يكون لها علة واحدة وحدة تأليفية حتى يكون لها سلب واحد - مستند إلى سلب علة واحدة بل هما صفتان متخالفتان بالذات مستندتان إلى علتين متخالفتين غير مجتمعتين فلا يكون نقيضاهما صفة واحدة مستندة إلى السلب واحد وإن كانت الوحدة تأليفية فضلا عن الحقيقية. وأنت تعلم أن الوحدة في جميع التقسيمات معتبرة وإلا لم ينضبط الأقسام في شيء من التقاسيم. وقد قررت هذه الشبهة في كتاب الأفق المبين بوجه آخر وهو أن الوجوب بالغير هو ضرورة الوجود بالغير ونقيضه سلب ضرورة الوجود بالغير وهو ممكن بالنظر إلى ذات الممكن وكذلك نقيض الامتناع بالغير وهو سلب ضرورة عدم بالغير فإذا ثبت الإمكان بالغير وهو مقابل الوجوب بالغير والامتناع بالغير. ثم ذكر الجواب عنها بأن نقيض ضرورة الوجود بالغير سلب ضرورة الوجود بالغير على أن يكون بالغير قيذا للضرورة لا لسلب الضرورة وكذلك نقيض الامتناع فاللازم سلب الضرورة الآتية من الغير لا سلب الضرورة الآتية منه والمستحيل هو إتيان سلب الضرورة من الغير لا سلب إتيان الضرورة منه.

إحصاء وتنبيه:

المشهور من الأوائل أنهم يأخذون كلا من الوجوب والإمكان والوحدة والوجود أمورا زائدة في الأعيان والمتأخرون على أن تلك الأمور زائدة في العقل على الماهيات إلا أنها من العقلية الصرفة التي لا صورة لها في الأعيان يحاذي بها ما في الأذهان وقد علمناك ما فتح الله علينا من طريق

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٧٢

القصد و سلوك الأمة الوسط في نحو وجود هذه المعاني وأنها على أي سبيل تكون ثابتة ومنفية معا وربما قرع سمعك

من أقوام ليسوا من أهل المخاطبة و التوهين لكلامهم و البحث عن مرامهم أن هذه الأمور لا يزيد على ما يضاف هي إليها من الماهيات الموصوفة بها لا ذهنًا و لا عينا فإنك تعلم بأول الفطرة أنه إذا قيل الإنسان ممكن الوجود أو الفلك ممكن الوجود لا يعنى بإمكان الوجود في الإنسان نفس معنى الإنسان - و في الفلك نفس معنى الفلك على قياس ما نقلناه عنهم في الوجود بل هو معنى واحد يقع عليهما فلو حمل الإمكان على الإنسان و عني به نفس معنى الإنسان ثم حمل على الفلك و عني به نفس الفلكية فلم يكن معنى واحد وضع بإزائه لفظ واحد غير ما وضع بإزائه الإنسان و الفلك و إن قيل على الفلك بالمعنى الذي قيل على الموصوفات بالإنسانية فقد كان المفهوم من الإنسان و الفلك شيئًا واحدًا و ذلك بديهي البطلان.

فقد ثبت أن معنى الإمكان إذا حمل على الماهيات المختلفة فليس هو عين تلك أو واحدًا منها بل أمر آخر يعمها عموم العرض العام اللاحق و قد قضى العجب عنهم و عن قولهم هذا بعض أبناء الحكمة و التحقيق حيث قال إن هؤلاء يوافقون أبناء الحقيقة في الاحتجاج على وجود الصانع تعالى بأن العالم ممكن مفتقر إلى سبب مرجح - ثم إذا باحثوا في الإمكان يقولون هو نفس الشيء الذي يضاف إليه فكانهم قالوا العالم محتاج إلى الصانع لأن العالم عالم.

قاعدة إشراقية:

قد وضع شيخ الإشراقيين قاعدة لكون الإمكان و أشباهه أوصافا عقلية لا صورة لها في الأعيان بأن كل طبيعة عامة يقتضي نوعه إذا كانت له صورة خارجية أن يتكرر متسلسلا مترادفا يتولد منه في الوجود سلاسل متولدة معا إلى لا نهاية كالوجوب و الوجود و الإمكان و الوحدة لا تكون موجودة في الأعيان فكما أنه إذا كانت للوجود صورة عينية وراء الماهية الموجودة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٧٣

كان له وجود عيني و لوجوده وجود أيضا إلى لا نهاية له ثم لمجموع السلسلة وجود آخر يتسلسل مرة ثانية إلى لا نهاية أخرى و هكذا و لا يكون للوجود الأصل حصول إلا بحصولها جميعا فكذلك الوحدة إذا كانت في الأعيان وراء الماهية كان للماهية دون الوحدة وحدة و للوحدة دونها وحدة أخرى و للوجود وحدة و للوحدة وجود و تعود اللانهاية مترادفة متضاعفة و كذلك في الإمكان و الوجوب - و يتولد سلسلة أخرى على التضاعف من الإمكان و الوجود فلإمكان وجود و لوجوده إمكان إذ لو وجب لم يكن عارضا و وراء تلك السلاسل سلاسل إلى لا نهاية في التضاعف بين الإمكان و الوجوب بالغير و بين الوجود و الوجوب و بين الوحدة و الوجوب فإذن كل مفهوم هذه سبيله فإنه لا يكون له صورة في الأعيان - و لا هو بحسب الأعيان شيء وراء الماهية فإذن هذه الأمور طبائع انتزاعية و اعتبارات ذهنية لا يحاذي بها شيء في الخارج و لا مبلغ لها متعين في الذهن يقف عنده و يتخصص به من التكرار في الحصول لدى العقول

بحث و تنقيح و مما تزلزل به هذه القاعدة أمور

منها كون الواجب عند القائلين بصحتها و استحكامها - وجودا صرفا

و وجوبا بحثا قائما بذاته واجبا بنفسه فضلا عن كونه في الأعيان فقد ناقضوا أنفسهم في باب الوجود و كونه عندهم اعتباريا محضا لا صورة له في العين و ذات الباري تعالى عندهم صورة الصور و أصل الحقائق.

و منها أن مقنن هذه القاعدة و مخترعها قائل بجواز أن يكون مفهوم واحد

و معنى فارد يوجد تارة صفة لشيء و تارة متحصلا بنفسه متقوما بذاته و بالجملة متفاوتا في أنحاء الكون و الحصول متخالفا في أطوار القوة و الضعف و الكمال و النقص - فليجوز مثل ذلك في بعض هذه المعاني كما أسلفناه في الوجود و الوحدة من قبولهما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٧٤

أطوارا مختلفة في التحقق و أنحاء متفاوتة في الفضيلة و النقصان فغاية كمال كل منهما - أن يكون ذاتا أحديا قيوما واجبا بالذات و غاية نقصه أن يكون اعتبارا عقليا و معنى رابطيا لا حقيقة متأصلة بإزائه فموجودية الماهيات التي لا حقيقة لها بأنفسها إنما هي بالوجود لا بأنفسها و موجودية الوجود بنفس ذاته لأن الوجود نفسه حقيقة الماهيات الموجودة به فكيف لا يكون له حقيقة و حقيقته عين ذاته و لا يحتاج في موجوديته إلى وجود ليتضاعف الوجود لكن للعقل أن يعتبر لها موجودية أخرى كما في حقيقة النور على ما هو طريقته فإن حقيقة النور ظهور الأشياء و مظهرها فالأشياء ظاهرة بالنور و النور ظاهر بذاته لا بنور آخر ليتضاعف الأنوار إلى لا نهاية لكن للعقل أن يفرض للنور نورانية اعتبارية و لنورانية النور نورانية أخرى و هكذا إلى أن ينقطع بانقطاع اعتبارات العقل و ملاحظاته و كذا الكلام في الوحدة التي هي صفة عينية لأنها عين الوجود ذاتا و غيره مفهوما و كثيرا ما يكون للشيء حقيقة و ذات سوى مفهومه و ما حصل منه في العقل كالوجود و صفاته الكمالية و قد يكون للشيء مجرد مفهوم - لا حقيقة له في العين كالإمكان و الامتناع و اجتماع النقيضين و شريك الباري و أمثالها - و كذا سائر السلوب و الإضافات و ربما يكون مفهومات متعددة موجودة بوجود واحد بل متحدة مع حقيقة واحدة كمفهومات العلم و القدرة و الحياة التي هي عين وجود الحق تعالى.

و بهذا يندفع ما ذكره هذا الشيخ الجليل القدر في كتاب المشارعات و وصفه بالقوة و المتانة و هو قوله إنا نتسامح مع من قال الموجودية نفس الوجود فنقول الوجود و الوحدة حالهما واحد في أنهما ينبغي أن يكونا في الأعيان عندكم و أن كلا منهما اعتبار عقلي عندنا و هب أنكم منعمتم السلسلة الغير المتناهية في الوجود بأنه هو الموجودية فلا شك أن الوجود و الوحدة مفهومهما مختلف و يعقل أحدهما دون الآخر فلا يرجع أبدا معنى الوحدة إلى الوجود و لا معنى الوجود إلى الوحدة فنقول إذا كان الوجود موجودا كان له وحدة و إذا كانت الوحدة موجودة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٧٥

كان لها وجود له وحدة أخرى موجودة بوجود آخر و هكذا فيلزم بالضرورة سلسلة مترتبة غير متناهية من وجود وحدة و وحدة وجود و لا يكفي أن يقال إن وحدة الوجود هو أو وجود الوحدة هي فإن مفهوم الوجود غير مفهوم الوحدة و لا يكون شيئا شيا واحدا في نفسه هذا خلاصة كلامه في هذا المرام و بناؤه على أن المفهومات المختلفة - لا يمكن أن ينتزع من مصداق واحد و ذات واحدة و امتناع ذلك غير مسلم فإن أمرا واحدا و حقيقة واحدة من حيثية واحدة ربما كان فردا و مصداقا لمفهومات متعددة و معان مختلفة ككون وجود زيد معلولا و معلوما و مرزوقا و متعلقا فإن اختلاف هذه المعاني ليس مما يوجب أن يكون لكل منها وجود على حدة و كاختلاف الصفات الحقيقية الإلهية التي هي عين الوجود الأحدي الإلهي باتفاق جميع الحكماء - و الحاصل أن مجرد تعدد المفهومات لا يوجب أن يكون حقيقة كل منها و نحو وجوده غير حقيقة الآخر و وجوده إلا بدليل آخر غير تعدد المفهوم و اختلافه يوجب أن يكون ذات كل

واحد منها غير ذات الآخر.

و مما يؤيد هذا قول الشيخ الرئيس في إلهيات الشفا في بيان أن كون الشيء عاقلا و معقولا لا يوجب اثنيية في الذات و لا في الاعتبار و أن المتحرك إذا اقتضى شيئا محركا لم يكن نفس هذا الاقتضاء يوجب أن يكون شيئا آخر أو هو بل نوع آخر من البحث يوجب ذلك و يبين أنه من المحال أن ما يتحرك هو ما يحرك و لذلك لم يمتنع أن يتصور فريق لهم عدد أن في الأشياء شيئا محركا لذاته إلى وقت إن قام البرهان على امتناعه و لم يكن نفس تصور المحرك و المتحرك يوجب ذلك و كذلك المضافان يعرف اثنييتهما لأمر لا لنفس النسبة و الإضافة المفروضة في الذهن انتهى.

أقول معنى كلامه أن مجرد اختلاف المعاني و المفاهيم لا يقتضي أن يتعدد ذواتها أو يتحد بل يحتاج إلى استيناف نظر و برهان غير اختلاف المفاهيم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٧٦

يقتضيان تعددها أو وحدتها في الذات و الحقيقة فكما أن مفهوم التحريك غير مفهوم التحرك و مفهوم الأبوة غير مفهوم البنوة فكذلك مفهوم العاقلية غير مفهوم المعقولية - لكن النظر و البرهان قد حكما في القبيل الأول بتعدد الذوات دون الثاني بل حكما بأن عاقلية الذات المجردة عين معقوليتها بحسب الذات و الوجود مع اختلافهما بحسب المفهوم بلا شك و ريب فأتقن ذلك المقام فإنه قد زلت فيه الأقدام.

فإذن انكشف وهن قاعدته في بعض هذه الأمور كالوحدة و الوجود و إثباتها لعدميته في الخارج فلا تأثير لها فيما سوى ذلك و بيان كونها كونها اعتبارا عقليا فيجب الاستعانة بغيرها و قد مرت الإشارة إلى كيفية لحوق هذه المعاني بالحقائق و الماهيات فعليك بحسن التأمل و قوة التدبر.

ثم إنك قد علمت أن الإمكان وصف للماهية باعتبار ملاحظتها من حيث هي مع قطع النظر عن انتسابها إلى الفاعل التام و معلوم أن ما يتصف به الماهية - المأخوذة على هذا الوجه لا يكون أمرا عينيا بل اعتباريا.

و أيضا الإمكان مفهومها سلبي و السلوب بما هي سلوب لا حظ لها من الوجود لا عينا و لا ذهنا و مما يفتضح به الفرقة المجادلة القائلة بكون الإمكان موجودا عينيا وراء الماهية النظر في المعلول الأول و أنه ممكن الوجود لأنه من الحوادث الذاتية عندهم فلا بد و أن يمكن أولا ثم يوجد لأن ترجح الوجود بالغير لا يتصور إلا بعد كون الشيء ممكنا في نفسه فإذا تقدم الإمكان عليه فإمكانه يكون ممكنا أيضا - لاستحالة كونه واجبا بالذات لكونه صفة متعلقة بغيره و لامتناع تحقق واجبين فإذا كان ممكنا فلا بد له من مرجح و علة فإن كان مرجحه واجب الوجود بذاته فيلزم منه محالان

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٧٧

أحدهما كون الواحد بحيث يحصل منه الشيء و إمكانه و حصول شيئين من واحد يستدعي جهتين فيه و هذا محال في الذات الأحدية.

و الثاني أن يكون إمكان الممكن بفعل فاعل فيكون إمكان الممكن معللا بغيره - و قد علمت أن الإمكان لا يكون معللا فضلا عن كونه معللا بغير ذات الممكن - و ليس لأحد منهم أن يقول إن الإمكان لا يتقدم على المعلول الأول و سائر الأزليات - فإنه يلزم أن يكون الإمكان إنما يحصل بعد أن يوجد الشيء و قد اعترف بأن الممكنات لها حدوث ذاتي

فإذن إمكانها متقدم على وجوبها الذي يحصل لها بغيرها إذ الوجوب بالغير منوط بإمكان الشيء في نفسه كيف و حال الشيء في نفسه من نفسه متقدم على حاله من غيره.

و لا يمكن الاعتذار بما يقال إن إمكان الأزليات له معنى آخر غير الإمكان في غيرها- فإن الإمكان الحقيقي الذي هو قسم الوجوب و الامتناع لا يخلو عنه شيء من المعلولات- كيف و إن لم يكن الإبداعات الدائمة ممكنة في ذاتها بالمعنى القسم للواجب و الممتنع كانت واجبة بذاتها أو ممتنعة بذاتها و ليس كذا.

و كذا لا ينفع الاعتذار بما وجد في مسودات بقيت من الشيخ الرئيس سماها بالإنصاف و الانتصاف من أن جود الحق الأول لا يمكن المعلولات من تقدم الإمكان عليها فإن الكلام ليس في التقدم الزمني حتى يحصل الفرق بين المبدع و الكائن- في سبق الإمكان على أحدهما دون الآخر إنما الكلام في التقدم بالذات أو بالطبع- و لا شك أن الإمكان إذا كان أمرا في العين و الوجود بالغير مشروط بالإمكان في نفسه- و ما للشيء من ذاته يتقدم على ما له من غيره سيما إذا كان ما له من غيره مشروطا بما له من ذاته فلا مخلص من هذا الإشكال للقائلين بموجودية الإمكان إلا بالمصير إلى ما حققناه في الاعتذار عنهم و هو كون الإمكان و نظائره موجودات لغيرها معدومات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٧٨

في ذاتها كيف و لو كان للإمكان صورة موجودة في نفسها و إن كانت حاصلة لغيرها كسائر الأعراض الخارجية التي لها صور في الأعيان لم يكن من لوازم الماهيات مع قطع النظر من ملاحظة الوجود و العدم معها لأن لازم الماهيات مطلقا سواء بالمعنى المصطلح أم لا يجب أن يكون عقليا.

و أيضا لو كان للإمكان الممكن صورة عينية لما أمكن لحوق الوجود بالغير للماهية لأن لا ضرورة الوجود و العدم إذا كان حالا وجوديا خارجيا لكان حالا للماهية الموجودة فينا في ضرورة أحدهما التي هي أيضا صفة خارجية نعم إذا كان الإمكان صفة للماهية باعتبار ملاحظتها في نفسها مع قطع النظر عما يستند إليه وجودها أو عدمها فلا يضر إثباتها للماهية المأخوذة على هذا الوجه وجودها أو عدمها الحاصل لها لا من ذاتها بل من غيرها فبالحقيقة موضوع الوصفين متعدد و ملحوق النعتين مختلف.

و أما ما قيل إن الإمكان للممكن عبارة عن لا ضرورة وجوده و لا ضرورة عدمه- الناشئين عن ذاته المقيسين إلى ذاته فسخافته ظاهرة لأن مناط القسمة إلى الواجب و الممكن و الممتنع حال الشيء بالقياس إلى طبيعة الوجود مطلقا من دون تقييده بقيد و مقياسته إلى شيء.

إشكالات و تفصيلات:

إن الذين يقولون إن الإمكان و نظائره كالوجوب و الوجود و الشيئية و الوحدة لها صورة في الأعيان و هوية زائدة على ذات الممكن و الواجب و الموجود و الواحد و الشيء ربما احتجوا على إثبات دعواهم بحجج

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٧٩

أولها أنا إذا حكمنا على الشيء بأنه ممكن في الأعيان ندرك تفرقة بين هذا و بين ما نحكم أنه ممكن في الذهن و ليس إلا أن الممكن الخارجي إمكانه في الخارج- و الممكن الذهني إمكانه في الذهن و قس عليه نظائره.

و ثانيتهما أنه إن لم يكن الشيء ممكنا في الأعيان لكان في الأعيان إما ممتنعا أو واجبا إذ لا مخرج للشيء عن أحد هذه الأوصاف و لو لم يكن موجودا في الأعيان لكان معدوما و لو لم يكن واحدا لكان كثيرا فيلزم أن يكون المحكوم عليه بأنه ممكن أو موجود أو واحد في الأعيان ضروري وجود أو ضروري عدم و معدوما و كثيرا و هذا تناقض مستحيل. و ثالثتها لو كان هذه الأشياء محمولات ذهنية و أوصافا عقلية لا أمورا عينية في ذوات الحقائق كان للذهن أن يضيفها بأية ماهية اتفقت فكان كل مفهوم و إن كان من الممتنعات كشريك الباري و اجتماع النقيضين و العدم المطلق ممكنا و قس عليه غيره.

و رابعتها مختصة بالإمكان و هو أن كل حادث يجب أن يسبقه الإمكان - و لا يوجد الفاعل إلا لأنه ممكن في الأعيان لا لأنه ممكن في الذهن فحسب و إلا ما حصل له تحقق إلا في الذهن فما وجد في الخارج فلا بد من أن يكون له إمكان في الخارج - و هذه الحجج أقوى ما يمكن أن يذكر من قبلهم في كون الإمكان و سائر الأمور العقلية و الأوصاف الذهنية التي يجري مجراها لها صورة عينية لكن لطالب الحق أن يدفع هذه الاحتجاجات بأن المسلم هو أن الإمكان و نحوه أمور زائدة على الحقائق التي أضيفت هي إليها في العقل بأن العقل إذا لاحظ ماهية الإنسان أو غيرها مثلا وجدها في حد نفسها بحيث لم يكن الإمكان ذاتها أو ذاتها و كذا سائر النعوت التي ليست نفس الماهية و لا جزأها و أما أن هذه الأمور الزائدة لها صور في الأعيان فغير مسلم اللهم إلا في النعت الذي هو الوجود و كذا الوحدة الشخصية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٨٠

التي هي نفس حقيقة الوجود عند الراسخين ببرهان خاص بالوجود و لا تأثير لشيء من هذه الحجج في أن للوجود صورة في الأعيان بل هو مما حصلناه بإلهام غيبي - و تأييد ملكوتي و إمداد علوي و توفيق سماوي و قول من قال أنه ممكن أو موجود في الأعيان فيستدعي أن يكون إمكانه أو وجوده في الأعيان غير صحيح إذ لا يلزم من صحة حكمنا على شيء بأنه ممكن في الأعيان أن يكون إمكانه واقعا في الأعيان - لما علمت من أن الوجود الرابط قد يفترق من الوجود في نفسه للشيء بل الممكن محكوم عليه من قبل الذهن أنه في الأعيان ممكن كما مر و محكوم عليه أيضا من قبله أنه في الذهن ممكن فالإمكان صفة ذهنية أي نحو وجودها الخاص به في الذهن - لكن يضيفها العقل تارة إلى ما في الخارج و تارة إلى ما في الذهن و تارة يحكم حكما مطلقا بتساوي النسبة إلى العين و الذهن و كما لا يتأتى لأحد أن يزعم أن الامتناع - إن لم يكن له صورة في الأعيان لم يكن الممتنع في الأعيان ممتنعا فيه و إن لم يكن له امتناع في الأعيان لكان إما واجبا أو ممكنا فكذا ليس له أن يقول ما ذكر في الحجة الثانية بل الامتناع و الوجوب و الإمكان حالها واحد في أنها من الأوصاف العقلية - التي لا صورة لها في الأعيان مع اتصاف الأشياء بها في الأعيان و الأذهان جميعا فبطلت الحجة الأولى و الثانية و أما ما وجد في المطارحات لصاحب الإشراق في إبطال كون الإمكان و الوجوب - و الامتناع و الوجود ذا صورة في الأعيان من أن حالها كحال المعقولات الثانية كالكلية و الجزئية و الذاتية و العرضية و الجنسية و الفصلية و غيرها من موضوعات علم الميزان - حيث إن الأشياء تتصف بها في الأعيان و لا صورة لها في الأعيان و لا منافاة بين أن يكون

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٨١

زيد جزئيا و الإنسان كليا في الأعيان و بين كون الكلية و الجزئية من الأمور - الممتنعة التحقق في الأعيان فكذلك الحال في اتصاف شيء بالإمكان و الامتناع و نظائرها فمنظور فيه لأن قياس الإمكان و الامتناع و نظائرها إلى الكلية و الجزئية و نظائرها قياس بلا جامع فإن مصداق اتصاف الأشياء بموضوعات علم الميزان ليس إلا نحو وجودها الذهني بخلاف الاتصاف بأمثال هذه الأوصاف التي تذكر في العلم الكلي - فإنه قد يكون بحسب حال الماهية في العين و إن كان ظرف تحقق القبيلين في أنفسها - إنما هو في الذهن فقط.

و أما الحجة الرابعة المختصة بالإمكان فنقول إن أريد بالإمكان الكيفية الاستعدادية المقربة للشيء إلى فياض وجوده المهيئة له لقبول الفيض عن فاعله التام - من جهة تحصيل مناسبة و ارتباط لا بد منه بين المفيض و المفاض عليه فسلمنا الآن أنه يسبق لكل حادث زماني إمكان بهذا المعنى موجود في العين إلى أن يحين وقت بيانه و تحقيق القول فيه أنه بأي معنى يقال فيه إنه من الموجودات العينية و إن أريد به ما هو بحسب نفس الذات من حيث هي فالمسلم أنه سبق الإمكان الذاتي على الوجود بحسب اعتبار ذهني و ملاحظة عقلية حتى إن الممكن و إن لم يكن له عدم زماني سابق على وجوده تصور العقل حاله لا كونه بل نقول لا يتصور أن يكون لكل حادث إمكان عيني متقدم على وجوده لأن الممكنات غير متناهية و في المستقبل من الحوادث ما لا يتناهى الذي هو بسبيل الحصول و بصدد الكون شيئا بعد شيء - كحركات أهل الجنة و عقوبات أهل النار على ما وردت به الشرائع الإلهية و أقيمت عليه البراهين العلمية فإن وجب أن يكون لكل حادث أو ما هو بصدد الحدوث إمكان يخصه على ما هو موجب هذه الحجة فيحصل في المادة إمكانات غير متناهية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٨٢

و إن لم يكن لبعض الحوادث إمكان فيكون من الحوادث ما لا يسبقه إمكان فيلزم على مقتضى الحجة أن يلتحق بالمتنوع أو الواجب.

و ربما يرتكب منهم مرتكب حصول سلسلة الإمكانات الغير المتناهية بأن يقول هي غير مترتبة بل متكافئة لكل حادث إمكان يخصه لكننا نبين أن اجتماع الإمكانات الغير المتناهية مستحيل من وجهين.

الأول أن الإمكان معنى واحد و الممكن بما هو ممكن و من حيث

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٨٣

طبيعة الإمكان غير مختلف و تلك الطبيعة لا يمكن اختلافها من جهة الهيولى التي هي حاملة الإمكانات لأنها قوة محضة و إبهام مطلق كما ستعلم فليس اختلاف الإمكانات الذاتية إلا لاختلاف ما هي إمكاناته و هي الحوادث المعدومة بعد الغير المتناهية و يستحيل أن يمتاز شيء بسبب إضافته إلى شيء معدوم فإن ما لا ذات له لا يميز به شيء عن شيء. و ليس لأحد أن يقول إنا إذا عقلنا تلك الأمور الغير المتناهية يصح إضافة الإمكانات الغير المتناهية إليها فيمتاز بها بعض الإمكانات عن بعض.

لأننا نقول هذا ممتنع أما أولا فلاستحالة تحصيل العقل أمورا غير متناهية العدد بالفعل في الذهن مفصلة نعم يجوز أن يخطر بالبال على سبيل الإجمال إمكانات غير متناهية و فرق بين ما يخطر بالبال الإنسان العدد الغير المتناهي مطلقا كليا و

بين أن يحصل في نفسه و يفصل في ذهنه أعداد غير متناهية بالفعل فإن هذا مستحيل دون ذاك فإذا خطرنا بالبال إمكانات غير متناهية مجملة بإزاء حوادث غير متناهية مجملة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٨٤

كانت نسبة كل من إحدهما بكل من الأخرى سواء فلم يتميز إمكان عن إمكان كما لم يتميز حادث عن حادث. و أما ثانيا فلأن كلامه على تقدير التسليم في الحقيقة اعتراف بما هو مقصودنا- فإن ظرف الحصول بعينه ظرف الامتياز فإذا لم يكن الامتياز بين أعداد الإمكانات- إلا بحسب العقل و تصويره لم يكن ظرف تحصيله و تحققه إلا الذهن لأن تعقلنا لامتياز الإمكانات إذا فرضنا كون امتيازها واقعا بحسب الأعيان يكون تابعا لنفس امتيازها فإذا حصل الامتياز بينها بنفس تصور العقل و اعتباره لزم توقف الشيء على نفسه و تابعيته إياها و هو محال الوجه الثاني أن المادة الحاملة للإمكانات الغير المتناهية إذا قطعناها بنصفين- فإما أن يبقى في كل من النصفين إمكانات غير متناهية هي بعينها الإمكانات التي كانت- أو يحدث لها إمكانات غير متناهية في تلك الحال أو يبقى في كل واحد إمكانات متناهية و أقسام التوالي باطلة فكذا المقدم.

أما بطلان الأول فلاستلزامه أن يكون شيء واحد بعينه موجودا في حالة واحدة في محلين و هو محال. و أما الثاني فلأن الإمكانات إذا حدثت في كل واحد منهما فيسبقها لكونها أيضا من الحوادث إمكانات أخرى. ثم إن كانت حادثة تحتاج إلى إمكانات أخرى حادثة فلا يوجد الفاعل طبقة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٨٥

منها إلا و قد حصل قبله في حالة القطع طبقات غير متناهية و الموقوف في حالة واحدة- على ما لا يتناهى مترتبا ممتنع الوقوع و يلزم أيضا أن يكون الحوادث التي كانت إمكاناتها هذه الإمكانات الحادثة ممتنعة قبل حدوث إمكاناتها على ما هو مقتضى الحجة المذكورة من أن كل ما ليس له إمكان في الخارج يجب أن يكون ممتنعا- فيلزم انقلاب الأشياء من الامتناع الذاتي إلى الإمكان الذاتي.

و أما الثالث فلأن مجموع العددين المتناهيين عدد متناه فيتناهى الإمكانات في مادة واحدة و الحوادث في كل واحد لا يتناهى و لا يصح أن يفرض في كل واحد من الجزئين إمكانات غير متناهية ليست بحادثة بل هي نصف المبلغ الغير المتناهي الذي كان في الكل فإن القسمة في الجسم غير متناهية فعند كل قطع يلزم ما يلزم في القطع الأول و ليست الإمكانات تحدث حين القسمة كما هو المفروض فإذا قبل الانقسام كانت متميزة المحال حتى يبقى بعد الانقسام بعض منها في جزء و بعض منها في جزء آخر لعدم انتقال الأعراض و عدم كون الإمكانات حادثة على ما فرضناه فإذا كانت متميزة المحال و هي غير متناهية العدد بالفعل ففي الجسم أبعاض غير متناهية متميزة بالفعل - بأعراضها التي هي الإمكانات فيلزم إما أجزاء لا تتجزى و هو محال كما سيجيء برهان امتناعه أو مقادير غير متناهية العدد المستلزم لمقدار غير متناه للمجموع المركب منها و هو أيضا مستحيل سيأتي بيانه و كيف يصح في جسم واحد متناهي المقدار محال متميزة بأعراضها القائمة بها غير متناهية عددا بالفعل مع كونه محصورا بين الحواصر- على أن الكلام يتأتى بعينه في كل واحد منها بحسب إمكان قسمته.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٨٦

و مما يرد أيضا على القائلين بأن إمكان الحادث موجود في الخارج أن إمكان الشيء يلزمه الإضافة إلى ذلك فإذا كان صفة عقلية تلزمه الإضافة إلى أمر معقول يضاف هو إليه في العقل بخلاف ما إذا كان صفة عينية فإنه يلزمه أن يضاف إلى موجود عيني إذ الإضافة الخارجية إلى معدوم خارجي غير صحيح نعم للعقل أن يتصور صورة الشيء الذي يمكن حصوله في الخارج فيصف بصحة كونه و لا كونه إما بحسب حاله في نفسه كما في الإمكان الذاتي أو بحسب أسباب وجوده و استعداد قابلية و عدم أضداده و رفع موانعه عن مادته المتهية له كما في الإمكان الاستعادي

فصل (١٠) يذكر فيه خواص الممكن بالذات

و إنما أخرجنا ذكر خواص الواجب بالذات إلى قسم الربوبيات لأن اللائق بذكرها أسلوب آخر من النظر لجلاله ذكرها عن أن يكون واقعا في أثناء أحكام المفهومات الكلية و خواص المعاني العقلية الانتزاعية إلا شيئا نرأ منها يتوقف عليه صحة السلوك العلمي و تنوط به العبادة العقلية و هو الذي قد مر بيانه و سنعود إليه على مسلك قدسي و طريق علوي.

إخاذا:

كما أن الضرورة الأزلية مساوقة للبساطة و الأحدية - و ملازمة للفردية و الوترية فذلك الإمكان الذاتي رفيق

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٨٧

التركيب و الامتزاج و شقيق الشركة و الإزدواج فكل ممكن زوج تكويني إذ الماهية الإمكانية لا قوام لها إلا بالوجود و الوجود الإمكانية لا تعين له إلا بمرتبة من القصور - و درجة من النزول ينشأ منها الماهية و ينتزع بحسبها المعاني الإمكانية و يترتب عليها الآثار المختصة لا الآثار العامة المطلقة الكلية التي تفيض عن الواجب بالذات على كل قابل و إن كانت الآثار الجزئية المختصة بواحد واحد من الوجودات الإمكانية - أيضا من إبداع الحق الأولي و أضواء النور الأزلي و نسبتها إليها بضرب من التشبيه و التسامح كما سيظهر فإذن كل هوية إمكانية ينتظم من مادة و صورة عقليتين هما المسماتين بالماهية و الوجود و كل منهما متضمن فيه الآخر و إن كانت من الفصول الأخيرة و الأجناس القاصية - و أيضا كل من الذوات الإمكانية فإنها في نفسها و من حيث طبيعتها بالقوة - و هي من تلقاء علتها بالفعل فإن لها بحكم الماهية الاليسية الصرفة و بحكم وجود سببها التام الإيسية الفائضة عنه فهي مصداق معنى ما بالقوة و معنى ما بالفعل من الحثيثتين - و كل ممكن هو حاصل الهوية منهما جميعا في الوجود فلا شيء غير الواجب بالذات - متبريء الذات عن شوب القوة و ما سواه مزدوج من هذين المعنيين و القوة و الإمكان يشبهان المادة و الفعلية و الوجوب يشبهان الصورة ففي كل ممكن كثرة تركيبية من أمر يشبه المادة و آخر يشبه الصورة فإذن البساطة الحققة مما يمتنع تحققها في عالم الإمكان لا في أصول الجواهر و الذوات و لا في فروع الأعراض و الصفات.

و أما الوترية فهي أيضا مما يستأثر به الحقيقة الإلهية لأن كل ممكن بحسب ماهيته مفهوم كلي لا يأبى معناه أن يكون له تحصيلات متكررة و وجودات متعددة - و ما من شخص إمكانية إلا و هو واقع تحت طبيعة كلية ذاتية أو عرضية لا يأبى معناها أن يكون هناك عدة أفراد تشترك معه فيها و إن امتنع ذلك بحسب أمر خارج عن طبيعتها فإذن لا وحدة و لا فردانية لممكن ما على الحقيقة بل إنما هي بالإضافة إلى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٨٨

ما هو أشد كثرة و أوفر شركا فوحدات الممكنات وحدات ضعيفة في البساطة بل الوحدة فيها اتحاد والاتحاد مفهومه متألف من جهة وحدة و جهة كثرة و جهة الوحدة في الممكنات ظل من الوحدة الصرفة الإلهية و هي التي أفاضت سائر الوحدات على الترتيب النزولي فكلما كان أشد وحدة كان أقرب إلى الوحدة الحققة كالوحدة الشخصية للعقل الأول التي هي بعينها وجوده و تشخصه ثم وحدة سائر العقول الفعالة ثم وحدة النفوس ثم وحدة الصور ثم الوحدة الاتصالية الجسمية التي هي كثرة بالقوة من غير أن تجمعها ثم وحدة الهيولى التي هي بعينها جامعة لكثرتها و تفصيلها إلى الحقائق النوعية و الشخصية لأنها وحدة إبهامية جنسية.

ثم اعلم أنه كما أن الإمكان عنصر التركيب كذلك التركيب صورة الإمكان - فإن المركب بما هو مركب من دون النظر إلى خصوصية جزء أو أجزاء منه حالة عدم الاستقلال في الوجود و الوجوب و في العدم و الامتناع و كيف يتحقق الافتقار و لا يكون هناك إمكان و أما المركب من واجبين مفروضين أو ممتنعين مفروضين أو واجب و ممتنع أو نقيضين أو ضدين مفروضي الاجتماع فهذه مجرد مفهومات ليست عنوانات لذوات متقررة في أنفسها متجوهرة في حقائقها و تلك المفهومات لا تحمل على أنفسها بالحمل الصناعي الشائع فكما أن مفهوم شريك الباري ليس إلا نفس مفهوم شريك الباري لا أن يحمل عليه أنه شريك الباري بل يحمل عليه أنه من الكيفيات - النفسانية الفائضة عليها لأجل تصرفات المتخيلة و شيطنة المتوهمة فكذلك هذه المركبات الفرضية مفهوماتها ليست من أفراد أنفسها بل من أفراد نقائضها و مع ذلك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٨٩

وجوبها أو امتناعها تابع لوجوب أجزائها أو امتناع أجزائها و ليس لها إلا مرتبة الفقر و الحاجة و الإمكان و التعلق سواء كان بحسب الوجود أو بحسب العدم و المستحيل في النقيضين أو الضدين هو الاجتماع بينهما في الوجود لموصوف واحد لا نفس ذاتيهما على أي وجه كانتا.

و هاهنا دقيقة أخرى

و هي أن الوحدة معتبرة في أقسام كل معنى يكون موضوعا لحكم كلي و قاعدة كلية فقولنا كل مركب ممكن و كل واجب بسيط و كل حيوان كذا أي كل مركب له صورة واحدة فهو ممكن و كل واجب الوجود فهو واحد بسيط و كل ما له طبيعة واحدة حيوانية فهو كذا فالمركب من الواجبين إذا فرضهما الوهم ليس له ذات سوى ذات كل منهما و لا له امتناع و لا إمكان و لا وجوب ثالث غير وجوب كل منهما و كذا المركب المفروض من الممتنعين ليس له امتناع مستأنف سوى الامتناعين للجزئين و في المركب المفروض من الواجب و الممتنع ليس له إلا وجوب هذا و امتناع ذاك لا غير و المركب من الحيوانين ليس فيه إلا حيوانية هذا و حيوانية ذاك و ليست هناك حيوانية أخرى سوى الحيوانيتين المنفصلتين إحداهما عن الأخرى فإن كان أحد الحيوانين ناطقا و الآخر صاهلا ليس المجموع من حيث هو مجموع ناطقا و لا صاهلا بل و لا موجودا إنما الموجود فيهما موجودان هذا و هذا - لا أمر ثالث له حيوانية ثالثة و سيجيء في مباحث الوحدة أنها لا تفارق الوجود و أن ما لا وحدة له لا وجود له.

و أما ما قيل لو كان المركب من الممتنعين بالذات ممكنا ذاتيا كان عدمه مستندا إلى عدم علة وجوده و علة وجود المركب هي علة وجود أجزائه و ذلك غير متصور في أجزاء هذا المركب لعدم الإمكان. فمردود بأن علة عدم المركب بما هو مركب عدم الجزء أولا و بالذات كما أن علة وجوده كذلك وجود الأجزاء حتى لو فرض للأجزاء وجود بلا علة لكان المركب موجودا و إنما الاحتياج إلى علة الأجزاء إذا كانت ممكنات الوجود فكان عدم جزء ما و هو الذي يكون بالحقيقة علة تامة لعدم المركب بما هو مركب مستندا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٩٠

إلى عدم علتها فلم يعدم إلا بانعدامها فيستند إليه عدم ذلك المركب بالواسطة - فإذا كان جزء المركب ممتنع الوجود بالذات فينتهي عدم المركب إلى عدمه الضروري الذاتي و لا يتجاوز منه إلى عدم أمر آخر كما يقف سلسلة الوجودات إلى الوجود الضروري الذاتي الأزلي

فصل (١١) في أن الممكن على أي وجه يكون مستلزما للممتنع بالذات

إن كثيرا من المشتغلين بالبحث من غير تعمق في الفكر و النظر يحيلون الملازمة بين الممكن و الممتنع و يحكمون أن كل ما يستلزم وقوعه في نفس الأمر ممتنعا ذاتيا فهو مستحيل بالذات و بنوا ذلك على أن إمكان الملزوم بدون إمكان اللازم يستلزم إمكان الملزوم بدون اللازم و هو يصادم الملازمة بينهما. و هذا لو صح لاستوجب نفي الملازمة بين الواجب و الممكن بل بين كل علة موجبة مع معلوله لأن العلة قد تجب حيث لم يكن المعلول واجبا سواء كان الوجوب من الذات أو من الغير كما سنحقق. و أعجب من ذلك ما قيل في بعض التعاليق إن إمكان الملزوم إنما هو بالقياس إلى ذاته و هو يستلزم إمكان اللازم بالقياس إليه أعني ذات الملزوم لا إمكانه بالقياس إلى ذاته و مقتضى الاستلزام بين الممكن و المحال كون نقيض اللازم غير

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٩١

ضروري بالقياس إلى ذات الملزوم لا كونه لا ضروريا بالقياس إلى حد ذاته سواء كان اللازم ضروري العدم أو ضروري الوجود أو لا ضروري الوجود و العدم جميعا نظرا إلى ذاته من حيث هي و لا يتوهم أن هذا إمكان بالغير و هو من المستحيل كما مر - بل هذا إمكان بالقياس إلى الغير و قد وضح الفرق بينهما. و نحن نقول هذا الكلام و إن كان في ظاهر الأمر يوهم أنه على أسلوب الفحص و التحقيق إلا أنه سخييف لما علم أن الإمكان بالقياس إلى الغير إنما يتصور بين أشياء - ليست بينها علاقة الإيجاب و الوجوب و الإفاضة و الاستفاضة و بالجملة العلاقة الذاتية - السببية و المسببية في الوجود و العدم.

و يقرب منه في الوهن كلام المحقق الطوسي و الحكيم القدوسي حيث ذكر أن استلزام عدم المعلول الأول عدم الواجب لذاته ليس يستوجب استلزام الممكن المحال بالذات لأنه إنما استلزم عدم عليه العلة الأولى فقط لا عدم ذات العلة الأولى - فإن ذات المبدأ الأول لا يتعلق بالمعلول الأول لو لا الاتصاف بالعلية لكون المبدأ الأول واجبا لذاته ممتنعا على ذاته العدم سواء كان لذاته معلول أو لا فإذا لم يستلزم الممكن محالا إلا بالعرض أو بالاتفاق و هو عدم كون العلة بما

هي متصفة بالعلية واجبة في ذاتها فإنه إنما صار محالاً من كون العلة في الواقع واجبة في ذاتها- وإنما ذلك من حيث ذاته لا بما هي متصفة بالعلية وهذا بخلاف عكسه أعني فرض عدم العلة الأولى فإنه يستلزم عدم المعلول الأول مطلقاً لأن ذاته إنما إفاضتها العلة الأولى لا غير.

وليت شعري كيف ذهل مع جلالة شأنه و وثاقه رأيه و دقة نظره في الأبحاث الإلهية عن كون الواجب لذاته واجبا بالذات في جميع ما له من النعوت و أن العلة الأولى إنما موجب عليتها نفس الذات من دون حالة منتظرة أو داعية زائدة و أنها هي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٩٢

القيوم الجواد التام القيومية و الإفاضة و أنها بما يتحقق ذاتها يتحقق عليتها من دون المغايرة الخارجية أو العقلية بحسب التحليل فلو فرض سببية السبب الأول شيئاً ممكناً لتصح الملازمة بينها و بين المعلول الأول نقلنا الكلام إلى الملازمة بين السببية و السبب الأول لإمكانها و وجوبه فإما أن يتسلسل الكلام في السببيات أو يعود المحذور الأول كيف و ليس في الموجود الأول جهة إمكانية أصلاً سواء كان بحسب الذات أو بحسب كمال الذات أو بحسب خيراته الإضافية و رشحاته الإفاضية- فالحق في هذا المقام أن المعلول له ماهية إمكانية وجود مستفاد من الواجب- فيتركب بهوية العينية من أمرين شبيهين بالمادة و الصورة أحدهما محض الفاقة و القوة و البطون و الإمكان و الآخر محض الاستغناء و الفعلية و الظهور و الوجوب و قد علمت من طريقتنا أن منشأ التعلق و العلية بين الموجودات ليس إلا انحاء الوجودات و الماهية لا علاقة لها بالذات مع العلة إلا من قبل الوجود المنسوب إليها و قد مر أيضاً أن معنى الإمكان في الوجود الممكن غير معناه في الماهية- و أن أحدهما يجامع الضرورة الذاتية بل عينها بخلاف الآخر فإنه ينافيها.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٩٣

فنقول إن المعلول الأول إن اعتبر ماهيته التي هي عبارة عن مرتبة قصوره عن الكمال الأتم و خصوصيته تعيينه المصحوب لشوب الظلمة و العدم و إن كان مستورا عند ضياء كبرياء الأول و مقهوراً تحت شعاع نور الأول فعدمه ممكن بهذا الاعتبار بل حال عدمه كحال وجوده أزلاً و أبداً من تلك الجهة ما شَم رائحة شيء منهما بحسب ماهيته من حيث هي هي و ليس يستلزم عدمه عدم الواجب بهذه الحيثية- لعدم الارتباط بينه و بين الواجب من هذه الحيثية و إن اعتبر من حيث وجوده- المتقوم بالحق الأول الواجب بوجوبه فعدمه ممتنع بامتناع عدم قيومه و وجوده مستلزم لوجوده استلزام وقوع المعلول وقوع العلة الموجبة له فلم يلزم استلزام الممكن للمحال أصلاً و ليس لعدمه في نفسه أي نفس ذلك العدم جهة إمكانية كما للوجود من حيث الوجود و لا يلزم من ذلك كون كل وجود واجبا بالذات على ما مر من الفرق بين الضرورة الأزلية و بين الضرورة المسماة بالذاتية المقيدة بها فلذلك لا يلزم هاهنا كون كل عدم ممتنعاً بالذات لأجل الفرق المذكور و هذا في غاية السطوع و الوضوح على أسلوب هذا الكتاب و أما على أسلوب الحكمة الذائعة فلا يبعد أن يقول أحد إن كان يعني بأول شقي الكلام أن العقل إذا جرد النظر إلى ذات المعلول الأول و لم يعتبر معه غيره لم يجد فيه علاقة للزوم فذلك لا ينافي استلزام عدمه عدم الواجب بحسب نفس الأمر بل هو محفوظ بحاله و إن أريد به أنه على ذلك التقدير لا يكون مستلزماً له بحسب نفس الأمر فهو ظاهر البطلان فإنه معلول له بسحب نفس

الأمر فكيف لا يكون

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٩٤

مستلزمًا لعلته.

أقول نختار الثاني قوله المعلول كيف لا يكون مستلزمًا للعلة الجواب أن المعلول ليس نفس ماهية الممكن بل وجوده معلول لوجود العلة و عدمه لعدمها.

و يقول أيضا إن كان يعني بأخير الشقين أن عدم الممتنع بالعلة ليس ممكنا بالذات فهو مستبين الفساد فإن الامتناع بالغير ليس يصادم الإمكان بالذات و ليس ينفيه بل إن معروضه لا يكون إلا الممكن بالذات.

أقول عنينا به أن عدم بما هو عدم ليس إلا جهة الامتناع كما أن حقيقة الوجود بما هو وجود ليس إلا جهة الوجود كيف و عدم يستحيل أن يتصف بإمكان الوجود كما أن الوجود يستحيل عليه قبول عدم و إلزم الانقلاب في الماهية - و كون معروض الامتناع بالغير و الوجود بالغير أي الموصوف بهما ممكنا بالذات بمعنى ما يتساوى نسبة الوجود و عدم إليه أو ما لا ضرورة للوجود و عدم بالقياس إليه بحسب ذاته غير مسلم عندنا إلا فيما سوى نفس الوجود و عدم و أما في شيء منهما فالموصوف بالوجود الغيري هو الوجود المتعلق بالغير و بالامتناع الغيري عدم المقابل له.

فإن قلت فعلى ما ذكرت من جواز العلاقة اللزومية بين الممكن و الممتنع بالوجه الذي ذكرت كيف يصح استعمال نفسي هذا الجواز في القياس الخلفي حيث يثبت به استحالة شيء لاستلزام وقوعه ممتنعا بالذات فيتشكك لما جاز استلزام الممكن لذاته ممتنعا لذاته فلا يتم الاستدلال لجواز كون البعد الغير المتناهي مثلا ممكنا مع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٩٥

استلزام وقوعه محالا بالذات هو كون غير المتناهي محصورا بين حاصرين.

قلنا هذا الإشكال قد مضى مع جوابه و الذي ندفعه به الآن هو أن الإمكان المستعمل هناك هو لا ضرورة الطرفين بحسب الوقوع و التحقق في نفس الأمر و عدم إباء أوضاع الخارج و طبيعة الكون لوقوعه و لا وقوعه و الممكن الذي كلامنا فيه هاهنا هو ما يكون مصداقه نفس ماهية الشيء بحسب اعتبار ذاته بذاته لا بحسب الواقع فإن حال المعلول الأول و سائر الإبداعات في نفس الأمر ليس إلا التحصل و الفعلية على ما هو مذهبهم دون الإمكان و قد مر أن ظلمة إمكانه مختلف تحت سطوع نور القيوم تعالى فالممكن بهذا المعنى مستلزم للمحال لا من حيث ذاته بل من حيث وصفه الذي هو عدمه كما أنه مستلزم للواجب لا بحسب ذاته بل بحسب حاله الذي هو وجوده و ما يستعمل في قياس الخلف أن الممكن لا يستلزم المحال هو الممكن بحسب الواقع لا بحسب مرتبة الذات و بينهما فرقان كما أن الامتناع الذاتي أيضا قد يعني به ضرورة عدم بحسب نفس الذات و الماهية المقدرة كما في شريك الباري و اجتماع النقيضين و قد يراد به ضرورة ذلك في نفس الأمر سواء كان مصداق تلك نفس الماهية المفروضة أو شيء آخر وراء ماهيته مستدع له مقتض

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٩٦

إياه في نفس الأمر أو علة مقتضية له بحسب طور الوجود و هيئة الكون و طباع الواقع و كذلك الضرورة الذاتية قد يراد

بها ما هو بحسب مرتبة الذات في نفسها- وقد يراد أعم من هذا وهو ما يكون بحسب نفس الأمر مطلقا سواء كان بحسب مرتبة الذات أيضا كذات القيوم الأحدي تعالى أو لأجل علة مقتضية له وقد يقال للأول الدوام الأزلي وللثاني الدوام الذاتي فإذن قد ثبت أن أمثال الأقيسة الخلفية- وكثيرا من الشرطيات الاستثنائية إنما يستبين فيها بالبداهة العقلية أن ما يلزم من فرض وقوعه ممتنع بالذات لا يكون ممكنا في نفس الأمر بل لا ينفك عن الامتناع الذاتي سواء كان بنفسه وبماهيته ممتنعا أو بواسطة سبب تام سببية لامتناعه كما يقال مثلا الجواهر البسيطة العقلية يستحيل عدمها سابقا ولاحقا وإلا أي وإن كانت ممكنة العدم بوجه لكان عدمها بعدم علتها الفياضة لذواتها وكانت لها مادة قابلة للوجود والعدم وكلا التالين مستحيل بالذات كما بين فذلك المقدم وظاهر أن الإمكان المذكور في هذا القياس ليس المقصود منه ما هو بحسب مرتبة الماهية فقط إذ لو كان المراد فيه نفي إمكان العدم عنها بحسب مرتبة الماهية من حيث هي- يلزم عليهم كون كل جوهر عقلي واجبا بالذات تعالى القيوم الواحد عن ذلك علوا كبيرا وهم متبرءون عن هذا التصور القبيح الفضيح

وهم وإزاحة:

ربما قرع سمعك في بعض المسفورات العلمية شبهة في باب اتصاف الشيء بالإمكان وهو أن الموصوف بالإمكان إما موجود أو معدوم وهو في كل الحالين يمتنع أن يقبل مقابل ما يتصف به وإلا اجتمع المتقابلان في موضوع واحد وإذا امتنع أحدهما امتنع إمكان واحد منهما بالإمكان

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ١، ص ١٩٧

الخاص لأن امتناع أحد الطرفين يستلزم وجوب الطرف الآخر فلم يتحقق هاهنا المحكوم عليه بالإمكان أصلا وأيضا الشيء الممكن إما مع وجود سببه التام فيجب أو مع رفعه فيمتنع فإين ممكن. فتسمعه يقولون في دفع الأول إن التردد غير حاصر للشقوق المحتملة- إن أريد من الوجود والعدم التحييث إذ يعوزه شق آخر وهو عدم اعتبار شيء منهما- إذ الموصوف بالإمكان هو الماهية المطلقة عن الوجود والعدم ولا يلزم من عدم قبول العدم من حيثية الاتصاف بالوجود عدم قبوله من حيثية أخرى وكذلك بالعكس- بل المصحح لقبول كل منهما حال الماهية بحسب إطلاقها عن القيود وإن أريد بهما مجرد التوقيت فلنا أن نختار كلا من الشقين قوله في كل من الحالين أي الوقتين يمتنع أن يقبل مقابل ما يتصف به قيل هذا ممنوع والمسلم هو امتناع الاتصاف بشيء مع تحقق الاتصاف بمقابله وهو غير لازم في معنى الممكن فالمحذور غير لازم واللازم غير محذور- وفي الثاني يقال إن قوله الشيء إما مع وجود سببه أو مع عدم سببه التردد فيه مختل إن أريد المعية بحسب حال الماهية واعتبار المراتب فيها إلا أن يراد في الشق الثاني رفع المعية لا معية الرفع وإن أريد المعية بحسب الوجود فيصح التردد لكن اتصاف الماهية بالإمكان ليس في الوجود سواء كانت مع السبب أم لا بل في اعتبارها وأخذها من حيث هي فقد ثبت أن كل ممكن وإن كان محفوفًا إما بالوجوبين السابق واللاحق للذين أحدهما بسبب اقتضاء العلة والآخر بحسب حاله في الواقع- وإما بالامتناعين للجانب المخالف السابق واللاحق كذلك لكن لا يصادم شيء منهما ما هو حاله بحسب ماهيته من حيث هي هي هكذا قالوا.

و العارف البصير يعلم أن هذا اعتراف منهم بعدم ارتباط الماهية بعلة الوجود وأن المتصف بالوجود السابق واللاحق

إنما هو وجود كل ماهية إمكانية لا نفسها من حيث نفسها فإن حيثة الإطلاق عن الوجود و العدم ينافي التلبس به سواء كان ناشئا من حيثة الذات أو من حيثة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٩٨

العلة المقتضية له فالماهية الإمكانية لم تخرج و لا تخرج أبدا بحسب نفسها من كتم البطون و الاختفاء إلى مجلى الظهور و الشهود فهي على بطلانها و بطونها و كمونها أزلا و أبدا و إذا لم يتصف بأصل الوجود فعلى الطريق الأولى بسائر الصفات الخارجية التي هي بعد الوجود فلم يتصف بشيء من الحالات الكمالية و الصفات الوجودية إلا نفس الوجود - و الماهية في جميع تلك الصفات تابعة للوجود و كل نحو من أنحاء الوجود تتبعه ماهية خاصة من الماهيات المعبر عنها عند بعضهم بالتعين و عند بعضهم بالوجود الخاص - تابعة الصورة الواقعة في المرآة للصورة المحاذية لها فكما أن العكس يوجد بوجود ذي العكس و يتقدر بتقدره و يتشكل بتشكله و يتكيف بتكيفه و يتحرك بتحركه و يسكن بسكونه و هكذا في جميع الصفات التي تتعلق بها الرؤية كل ذلك على طريق الحكاية و التخيل لا على طريق الأصالة و الاتصاف بشيء منها بالحقيقة فكذلك حال الماهية بالقياس إلى الوجود و توابعه فإن الماهية نفسها خيال الوجود و عكسه - الذي يظهر منه في المدارك العقلية و الحسية فظهر ما ذهب إليه المحققون من العرفاء - و الكاملون من الأولياء أن العالم كله خيال في خيال.

قال الشيخ العارف المتأله محي الدين الأعرابي في الباب الثالث و الستين من الفتوحات المكية إذا أدرك الإنسان صورته في المرآت يعلم قطعا أنه أدرك صورته بوجه و أنه ما أدرك صورته بوجه لما يراه في غاية الصغر لصغر جرم المرآة أو الكبر لعظمه و لا يقدر أن ينكر أنه رأى صورته و يعلم أنه ليس في المرآة صورته - و لا هي بينه و بين المرآة و ليس بصادق و لا كاذب في قوله رأى صورته و ما رأى صورته - فما تلك الصورة المرئية و أين محلها و ما شأنها فهي منفية ثابتة موجودة معدومة معلومة مجهولة أظهر سبحانه هذه الحقيقة لعبده ضرب المثل ليعلم و يتحقق أنه إذا عجز و حار في درك حقيقة هذا و هو من العالم و لم يحصل علم بحقيقته فهو بخالفها إذن أعجز و أجهل و أشد حيرة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ١٩٩

فصل (١٢) في إبطال كون الشيء أولى له الوجود أو العدم أولوية غير بالغة حد الوجوب

لعلك لو تفتنت بما سبق من حال الماهيات في أنفسها و من كيفية لحوق معنى الإمكان بها لا تحتاج إلى مزيد مئونة لإبطال الأولوية الذاتية سواء فسرت باقتضاء ذات الممكن رجحان أحد الطرفين بالقياس إليها رجحانا غير ضروري لا يخرج به الشيء عن حكم الإمكان أو بكون أحد الطرفين أبقى بالنسبة إلى الذات لياقة غير واصله إلى حد الضرورة لا من قبل مبدأ خارج و لا باقتضاء و سببية ذاتية على قياس الأمر في الوجوب الذاتي ليس قد استبان من قبل أن علاقة الماهية إلى جاعل الوجود إنما هي تبع للوجود و الوجود بنفسه مفاض كما أنه بنفسه مفيض بحسب اختلافه كمالا و نقصا و قوة و ضعفا و الماهية في حد نفسها لا علاقة بينها و بين غيرها فما لم يدخل الماهية في عالم الوجود دخولا عرضيا ليست هي في نفسها شيئا من الأشياء - حتى نفسها حتى تصلح لإسناد مفهوم ما إليها إلا بحسب التقدير البحث و الإمكان و إن كان من اعتبارات نفس الماهية قبل اتصافها بالوجود لكن ما لم يقع في دار الوجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٠٠

و لم يحصل إفادة وجودها من الجاعل لا يمكن الحكم عليها بأنها هي أو بأنها ممكنة - وإن كان كونها هي أو كونها ممكنة من أحوالها السابقة على وجودها و صفات وجودها - و قد علمت تقدم الماهية بحسب العقل على موجوديتها تقدم الموصوف على الصفة - فقس عليها تقدم أحوالها الذاتية على أحوالها الوجودية و أما في الخارج من اعتبار العقل فلا موصوف و لا صفة متميزا كل منهما عن صاحبه بل شيء واحد هو الوجود و الموجود بما هو موجود ثم العقل بضرب من التعامل و التحليل يحكم بأن بعض الموجود يقتزن به - معنى غير معنى الوجود و الموجود و يتصف أحدهما بالآخر في العقل و العين على التعاكس - لأن اللائق بالعقل تقدم الماهية على الوجود لحصولها بكنهها فيه و عدم حصول الوجود بالكنه فيه كما مر و اللائق بالخارج تقدم الوجود على الماهية إذ هو الواقع فيه بالذات فهو الأصل و الماهية تتحد معه اتحادا بالعرض فهي العارض بهذا المعنى اللطيف الذي قد غفل عنه الجمهور.

و الحاصل أن الحكم على ماهية ما بالإمكان إنما هو بحسب فرض العقل إياها مجردة عن الوجود أو مع قطع النظر عن انصباعها بنور الوجود و إما باعتبار الخارج عن فرض العقل إياها كذلك فهي ضرورية بوجودها الناشئة عن الجاعل التام بالعرض و ليست لها بحسب ذاتها صفة من الصفات لا ضرورة و لا إمكان و لا غيرهما أصلا.

و الفرق بين المعدوم الممكن و المعدوم الممتنع هو أن العقل بحسب الفحص يحكم بأن المعدوم الممكن لو انقلب من الماهية التقديرية إلى ماهية حقيقية مستقلة - كان الإمكان من اعتبارات تلك الماهية بخلاف الماهية التقديرية الممتنعة فإنها و إن صارت ماهية حقيقية مستقلة بحسب الفرض المستحيل لم ينفك طباعها عن الامتناع و لم يصلح إلا إياه لا أن المعدوم بما هو معدوم موصوف بالإمكان و الامتناع كيف و المعدوم ليس بشيء فحينئذ من أين ماهية قبل جعل الوجود حتى يوضع أولوية الوجود أو شيء ما من الأشياء بالقياس إليها فاما تجويز نفس كون الشيء مكون نفسه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٠١

و مقرر ذاته مع بطلانه الذاتي فلا يتصور من البشر تجشم ذلك ما لم يكن مريض النفس. فقد ثبت أن الحكم بنفي الأولوية الذاتية بعد التثبت على ما قررناه من حال الماهية بشرط سلامة الفطرة مستغن عن البيان.

و للإشارة إلى مثل هذا قال المعلم الثاني أبو نصر الفارابي في مختصر له يسمى بفصوص الحكم لو حصل سلسلة الوجود بلا وجوب لزوم إما إيجاد الشيء نفسه و ذلك فاحش و إما صحة عدمه بنفسه و هو أفحش.

و توضيحه أن الأولوية الناشئة عن الذات إما أنها علة موجبة للوقوع فيكون الشيء علة نفسه و إما أنه يقع الشيء لا بمقتضى و موجب و لا باقتضاء و إيجاب من الذات و هو صحيح العدم لعدم خروجه عن حيز الإمكان الذاتي بكونه ذا رجحان أحد الطرفين و ليس يصلح لعلية العدم إلا عدم علة الوجود و ليس هناك علة للوجود فإذاً يكون الشيء بنفسه صحيح العدم ثم على تقدير وجود الممكن بالرجحان يكون متصفاً بالوجود و ليس عينه فذاته كما أنها مبدأ رجحان الاتصاف بالوجود كذلك علة الاتصاف بالوجود إذ لا نعني بالعلة إلا ما يترجح

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٠٢

المعلول به و مع كونه علة لا تصاف نفسه بالوجود يجوز عدمه لعدم بلوغه حد الوجوب - فإذن قد صار العدم جائز الوقوع لا بمرجح بل مع بقاء مرجح الوجود و هذه محض السفسطة.

و حيث إن هذا البحث إنما الحاجة إليه قبل إثبات الصانع و قبل ثبوت نفس الأمر مطلقا فليس لقائل أن يقول لعل شيئا من الماهيات في وجوده العلمي أي في وجوده في علم الباري تعالى أو ارتسامه في بعض الأذهان العالية يقتضي رجحان وجوده الخارجي على أن الكلام في الوجود الذهني و مرتبة اتصاف الماهية به بعينه كالكلام في الوجود الخارجي في أن الماهية لا توجد به إلا بجعل جاعل الوجود لعدم كون الماهية ماهية إلا مع الوجود ثم مع عزل النظر عن استحالة الأولوية يقال لو كفت في صيرورة الماهية موجودة يلزم كون الشيء الواحد مفيدا لوجود نفسه و مستفيدا عنه فيلزم تقدمه بوجوده على وجوده

هدم:

إياك و أن تستعين بعد إنارة الحق من كوة الملكوت على قلبك بإذن الله بما يلتزم من بعض الأنظار الجزئية في طريق البحث و هو ما ذكره الخطيب الرازي في شرحه لعيون الحكمة و استحسنة الآخرون - من أن ما يقتضي رجحان طرف فهو بعينه يقتضي مرجوحية الطرف الآخر للتضاييف الواقع بينهما و معية المتضاييفين في درجة التحقق و مرجوحية الطرف الآخر يستلزم امتناعه لاستحالة ترجيح المرجوح و امتناعه يستلزم وجوب الطرف الراجح فما فرض غير منته إلى حد الوجوب فهو منته إليه فظهر الخلف.

و يفسده أنه إذا كان اقتضاء رجحان طرف بعينه على سبيل الأولوية كان استدعاء مرجوحية الطرف المقابل أيضا على سبيل الأولوية لمكان التضاييف و المرجوحية المستلزمة لامتناع الوقوع إنما هي المرجوحية الوجوبية لا ما هي على سبيل الأولوية - فلذلك ثبوتها على هذا الوجه لا يطرد الطرف الآخر أي راجحية الطرف المرجوح بته بل بنحو الأليقية و بالجملة فحال مرجوحية الطرف المرجوح

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٠٣

كحال نفس ذلك الطرف و حال راجحيته كحال نفس الطرف المقابل له فكما أن الوجود يترجح على سبيل الأولوية و الرجحان فكذلك أولوية الأولوية و كما أن العدم مرجوح على سبيل الأولوية و الرجحان فكذلك راجحية المرجوحية على نهج الرجحان و هكذا في الطرفين و كما أن راجحية طرف على سبيل الرجحان - تستدعي مرجوحية الطرف الآخر على سبيل الرجحان فكذلك مرجوحية الطرف الآخر كذلك لا تقتضي إلا سلب وقوعه على سبيل الرجحان فكيف تقتضي الامتناع - ثم لو فرض تسليم ذلك فمن المستبين أن مرجوحية الطرف المرجوح إنما يستدعي امتناعه بالنظر إلى الذات مع تقييدها بتلك المرجوحية أعني الذات المحيثة بالحيثية المذكورة لا الذات بما هي هي و هذا امتناع وصفي فيكون بالغير و لا يستدعي إلا وجوب الطرف الراجح كذلك أي بالغير لا بالذات فليس فيه خرق الفرض و الامتناع بالوصف الذي هو ممكن الانفكاك يكون ممكن الانفكاك - فكيف ظنك بالوجوب الذي بإزاء هذا الامتناع و بهذا ينهدم سائر الأساسات التي ذكروها في هذا المطلب و قلما يسلم في الوجوه المذكورة من هذا الإيراد.

أوهام و جزافات:

من الناس من جوز كون بعض الممكنات مما وجوده أولى من عدمه بالنظر إلى ذاته لا على وجه يخرج عن حيز الافتقار

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٠٤

إلى الغير و يسد به إثبات الصانع له لكونه مع ذلك في حدود الإمكان بل على وجه يستدعي أكثرية وقوع وجوده بإيجاب العلة وإفاضة الجاعل أو أشد وجودا أو أقل شرطا للوقوع و بعض آخر بالعكس مما ذكر. و منهم من ظن هذه الأولوية في طرف العدم فقط بالقياس إلى طائفة من الممكنات بخصوصها. و منهم من ظنها بالقياس إلى الجميع لكون العدم أسهل وقوعا و المتقولون بهذه الأقاويل كانوا من المنتسبين إلى الفلسفة فيما قدم من الزمان قبل تصحيح الحكمة وإكمالها. و عند طائفة من أهل الكلام كل ما هو الواقع من الطرفين فهو أولى لمنعهم تحقق الوجوب فيما سوى الواجب و إن كان بالغير.

و ربما توهم متوهم أن الموجودات السيالة كالأصوات و الأزمنة و الحركات - لا شك أن العدم أولى بها و إلا لجاز بقاؤها و يصح الوجود أيضا عليها و إلا لما وجدت أصلا و إذا جازت الأولوية في جانب العدم فليكن جوازها في جانب الوجود أولى و أن العلة قد توجد ثم يتوقف اقتضاؤها معلولها على تحقق شرط أو انضمام داع أو انتفاء مانع و لا شبهة في أن تلك العلة الأولى بها إيجاب المعلول و إلا لم يتميز علة شيء عن غيرها في العلية فإذن العلة قبل تأثيرها و إيجابها يصح عليها الاقتضاء و اللاقتضاء جميعا مع كون الإيجاب أولى بها من عدمه فليكن الوجود أيضا بالنسبة إلى ماهية ما من هذا القبيل فيكون ذلك الوجود أكثريا لا دائما كما في ذلك الإيجاب كما ترى من العلل ما يكون تأثيرها أكثريا لا دائما كطبيعة الأرض

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٠٥

في اقتضاءها الهبوط مع ما قد يمنع عنه عند ما يرمى إلى العلو قسرا و كلا القولين زور و اختلاق. ففي الأول اشتباه بين قوة الوجود و ضعفه و بين أوليته و لا أوليته بالقياس إلى الماهية و قد مر أن لكل شيء درجة من الوجود لا يتعداها و بعض الأشياء حظه من الوجود أكد و بعضها بخلافه كالحركة و نظائرها لا أن الوجود أولى بها من العدم أو بالعكس فاستقرار الأجزاء و بقاؤها ليس نحو وجود الموجود الغير القار بل يمتنع ثبوته له و كلامنا في مطلق الوجود الممكن لماهية ما فإن ما بالقياس إليه يعتبر طباع الإمكان الذاتي إنما هو مطلق الوجود و مطلق العدم فامتناع نحو خاص منهما لا يخرج الشيء عن الإمكان الذاتي المستلزم لتساوي نسبة طبيعتي الوجود و العدم إلى ذلك الشيء و كل من الاستمرار و عدمه متساويا النسبة بالقياس إلى ذات كل أمر غير قار و تخصيص كل واحد منهما بالوقوع يحتاج إلى مرجح خارج من غير أولوية أحدهما بحسب الماهية من الآخر فماهية الحركة و أشباهها من الطبائع الغير القارة إذا قيست إلى وجودها التجديدي و رفعها كان لها مجرد القابلية البحتة من غير استدعاء طرف بعينه لا بته و لا رجحانا و إنما يتخصص الوجود أو العدم بإيجاب العلة التامة أو لا إيجابها و إذا قيست إلى الوجود الاجتماعي للأجزاء التحليلية لها كان سبيلها بالقياس إلى هذا النحو من الوجود الامتناع البتي بلا ثبوت صحة و جواز عقلي - و قد مر أن امتناع نحو من الكون لا ينافي الإمكان الذاتي مطلقا.

و في الثاني وقع الغلط بحسب أخذ ما ليس بعلة علة فإن الفاعل قبل شرائط إيجابه ليس بفاعل و موجب أصلا و مع الشرائط موجب بته و أما القرب و البعد من الوقوع لأجل قلة الشرائط و كثرتها فلذلك لا يقتضي اختلاف حال في ماهية الممكن - بالقياس إلى طبيعي الوجود و العدم بل إنما يختلف بذلك الإمكان بمعنى آخر أعني الاستعداد القابل للشدة و الضعف الذي هو من الكيفيات الخارجية لا الإمكان الذاتي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٠٦

الذي هو اعتبار عقلي و للمسترشد أن يجمع بالأصول المعطاة إياه التهويسات التي وقعت من طائفة متجادلين في هذا المقام لا فائدة في إيرادها و ردها إلا تضييع الوقت بلا غرض و تفويت نقد العمر بلا عوض

فصل (١٣) في أن علة الحاجة إلى العلة هي الإمكان في الماهيات و القصور في الوجودات

إن قوما من الجدليين المتسمين بأهل النظر و أولياء التمييز العارين عن كسوة العلم و التحصيل كان أمرهم فرطا و تجشموا في إنكارهم سبيل الحق شططا و تفرقوا في سلوك الباطل فرقا.

فمنهم من زعم أن الحدوث وحده علة الحاجة إلى العلة.

و منهم من جعله شطرا داخلا فيما هو العلة.

و منهم من جعله شرطاً للعلة و العلة هي الإمكان.

و منهم من يتأهب للجدال بالقدح في ضرورة الحكم الفطري المركوز في نفس الصبيان بل المفطور في طباع البهيمة من الحيوان الموجب لتنفره عن صوت الخشب - و العيدان و الصوت و الصولجان و كلامهم كله غير قابل لتضييع العمر بالتهجين - و تعطيل النفس بالتوهين لكن نفوس الناس و جمهور المتعلمين متوجهة نحوه طائعة إليه.

فنقول أليس وجوب صفة ما و امتناعها بالقياس إلى الذات يغنيان الذات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٠٧

عن الافتقار إلى الغير و يحيلان استنادها إليه بحسب تلك الصفة فلو فرض كون الحدوث مأخوذا في علة الحاجة شرطاً كان أو شطراً كان إنما يعتبر و يؤخذ فيما هو ممكن للذات لا واجب أو ممتنع فقد رجع الأمر أخيراً إلى الإمكان وحده و هو الخلف.

و بسبيل آخر الحدوث كيفية نسبة الوجود المتأخرة عنها المتأخرة عن الوجود المتأخر عن الإيجاد المتأخر عن الحاجة المتأخرة عن الإمكان فإذا كان الحدوث هو علة الحاجة بأحد الوجهين كان سابقاً على نفسه بدرجات و ليس لأحد أن يعارض بمثله على نفي علية الإمكان من جهة أنه كيفية نسبة الوجود لأن الإمكان حالة تعرض لنسبة مفهوم الوجود إلى الماهية بحسب الذات في لحاظ العقل و ليس مما يعرض في الواقع لنسبة خارجية فإنما يلزم تأخره عن مفهومي الوجود و الماهية - بحسب أخذها من حيث هي لا عن فعلية النسبة في ظرف الوجود و أما الحدوث فهو وصف الشيء بحسب حال الخارج بالفعل و لا يوصف به الماهية و لا الوجود إلا حين الموجودية لا في نفسها و لا ريب في تأخره عن الجعل و الإيجاد.

و أما قول من ينكر بداهة القضية المفطورة بأن متى عرضنا قولكم الطرفان لما استويا بالنسبة إلى الذات في رفع الضرورة

عنهما فامتنع الترجيح إلا بمنفصل على العقل مع قولنا الواحد نصف الاثنين وجدنا الأخيرة فوق الأولى في القوة و الظهور - و التفاوت إنما يستقيم إذا تطرق الاحتمال بوجه ما إلى الأولى بالسببة إلى الأخيرة - و قيام احتمال النقيض ينقض اليقين التام.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٠٨

فالظلم فيه ظاهر إذ لم يعلم أن التفاوت في الفطريات كثيرا ما يكون بحسب التفاوت في طرفي الحكم و الحكم في نفسه مما لا يتفاوت على أن الحكم الفطري و الحدسي كالاقتناصي مما يجوز فيه التفاوت بالقياس إلى الأذهان و الأزمنة و خصوصيات المفهومات و العقود لتفاوت النفوس في استعداداتها الأولية غريزية و استعداداتها الثانوية كسبية فالسلائق العقلية في إدراك نظم الحقائق و تأليفها وزانها وزان السلائق الحسية السمعية في وزن الألفاظ و تأليف الأصوات و جهة الوحدة في العقلية كجهة الوحدة في السمعية و التخالف كالتخالف و كل من سلمت ذائقة عقلية من القصور و الاختلال أو من الأمراض النفسانية و الاعتلال الحاصل من مباشرة الجدل و المناقشة في القيل و القال لم يرتب في استحالة رجحان الشيء على مثله من كل جهة إلا بمنفصل - و من استحل ترجيح الشيء بلا مرجح يوشك أن يسلك سبيل الخروج عن الفطرة البشرية لخباثة ذاتية وقعت من سوء قابليتها الأصلية و عصيان جبلي اقترفت ذاته الخبيثة في القرية الظالمة الهيولانية و المدنية الفاسقة السفلية

ظلمة وهمية:

المستحلون ترجيح أحد المتساويين بلا سبب تشعبوا في القول - ففرقة قالت إن الله سبحانه خلق العالم في وقت بعينه دون سائر الأوقات من دون مخصص يتخصص به ذلك الوقت. و فرقة زعمت أن الله سبحانه خصص الأفعال بأحكام مخصوصة من الوجوب و الحظر و الحسن و القبح من غير أن يكون في طبائع الأفعال ما يقتضي تلك الأحكام - و كذلك الهارب من السبع إذا عن له طريقان متساويان من كل الوجوه و الجائع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٠٩

المخير بين رغيفين متساويين كذلك يخصص أحدهما بالاختيار من غير مرجح. و فرقة تقول ما يختص من الأحكام و الأحوال بأحد المتماثلين دون الآخر غير معلل بشيء لأنه بأي شيء علل فسد. و فرقة تقول الذوات متساوية بأسرها في الذاتية مع اختصاص بعضها دون بعض بصفة معينة دون سائر الصفات. فهذه متشبثاتهم في الجدل و لو تنبهوا قليلا من نوم الغفلة و تيقظوا من رقدة الجهالة لتفطنوا أن لله في خلق الكائنات أسبابا غائبة عن شعور أذهاننا محجوبة عن أعين بصائرنا و أن الجهل بالشيء لا يستلزم نفيه و في كل من الأمثلة الجزئية التي تمسكوا بها في مجازفاتهم بنفي الأولوية في رجحان أحد المتماثلين من طريقي الهارب و قدحي العطشان و رغيفي الجائع مرجحات خفية مجهولة للمستوطنين في عالم الاتفاقات فإنما لهم الجهل بالأولوية لا نفي الأولوية و أقلها الاتصالات الكوكبية و الأوضاع الفلكية و الهيئات الاستعدادية فضلا عن الأسباب القصوى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢١٠

التي بها قدر الله سبحانه الأمور و قضى من صور الأشياء السابقة في علمه الأعلى على الوجه الأتم الأولى. و أما الذي نسب إلى أنبأ دقلس الحكيم و أنه قائل بالبخت و الاتفاق فالظاهر أن كلامه مرموز على ما هو عادته و عادة غيره من القدماء حيث كنمو أسرارهم الربوبية بالرموز و التجوزات. و قد وجه كلامه بعض العلماء بأنه إنما أنكر العلة الغائية في فعل واجب الوجود بالذات لا غير إذ هو معترف بأن ما لم يجب لم يوجد بل قد سمى هو و غيره الأمور اللاحقة بالماهيات لا لذاتها بل لغيرها اتفاقية و حينئذ يصح أن يقال إن وجود العالم اتفاقي لا بمعنى أنه يصير موجودا بنفسه كلا أو يفعله الباري جزافا بل إن وجوده ليس لاحقا به من ذاته بل هو من غيره.

و يقرب من هذا ما خطر ببالي في توجيه كلامه و هو أن ماهيات الممكنات لما علمت من طريقتنا أنها في الموجدية ظلال و عكوس للوجودات و إنما تعلق الجعل و الإبداع في الحقيقة بوجود كل ماهية لا بنفس تلك الماهية و كذا علته الغائية إنما تثبت لأنحاء الوجودات دون الماهيات فماهية العالم إنما تحققت بلا غاية و فاعل لها بالذات بل وجوده يحتاج إليهما بالحقيقة فعبر الرجل عن هذا المعنى بأن العالم اتفاقي أي هو واقع بالعرض نظير الجهات التي ضمت إلى المعلول الأول البسيط عندهم و صح بها صدور الكثير عنه إذ لا ريب لأحد أن الصادر عن الواجب بالذات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢١١

على رأيهم إحدى تلك الجهات كوجود المعلول و غير ذلك كالماهية الإمكان و الوجوب بالغير إنما صدر بالعرض بلا سبب ذاتي و إلا لزم إما صدور الكثير عن الأمر الوجداني - أو التركيب في الموجود الأول تعالى عن ذلك علوا كبيرا عظيما.

و بالجملة القدماء لهم الغاز و رموز و أكثر من جاء بعدهم رد على ظواهر كلامهم و رموزهم إما بجهله أو غفلة عن مقامهم أو لفرط حبه لرئاسة الخلق في هذه الدار الفانية و طائفة ممن تأخر عنهم اغتروا بظواهر أقاويلهم و اعتقدوها تقليد الأجل اعتقادهم بالقائل و صرحوا القول بالاتفاق و ضلوا ضلالا بعيدا و لم يعلموا أن المتبع هو البرهان اليقيني أو الكشف و أن الحقائق لا يمكن فهمها عن مجرد الألفاظ فإن الاصطلاحات و طبائع اللغات مختلفة

عقود و انحلالات: إن للقائلين بالاتفاق متمسكات.

الأول أن وجود الأشياء لو كان بتأثير العلة فيها

لكان تأثيرها إما حال وجود الأثر أو حال عدمه و الأول تحصيل الحاصل و الثاني جمع بين المتناقضين. و الحل يكون بالفرق بين أخذ الأثر في زمان الحصول و بين أخذه بشرط الحصول فالحصول في الأول ظرف و في الثاني سبب و شرط و لا استحالة في الأول بل هو بعينه شأن المؤثر بما هو مؤثر مع أثره فإن كل علة مؤثرة فهي مع معلولها زمانا أو ما في حكمه من غير انفكاك أحدهما عن الآخر في الوجود و كل علة مؤثرة فإنها تؤثر في معلولها في وقت الحصول لكن من حيث هو هو لا بما هو حاصل حتى يلزم المحذور

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢١٢

الأول ولا بما ليس بحاصل حتى يلزم المحذور الثاني والحاصل أن تأثير العلة في حال حصول الحاصل بنفس ذلك التأثير وذلك تحصيل للحاصل بنفس ذلك التحصيل - لا بتحصيل غيره وهذا غير مستحيل.

و بوجه آخر إن أريد بحال الحصول المعية الوجودية بين المؤثر والأثر - نختار أن التأثير في حال وجود الأثر وإن أريد المعية الذاتية العقلية بينهما - نختار أن التأثير ليس في حال وجوده ولا في حال عدمه ولا يلزم شيء من المحذورين - إذ تأثير العلة حال الوجود في ماهية المعلول من حيث هي لا من حيث هي موجودة أو معدومة والماهية من تلك الحثية ليست بينها وبين العلة مقارنة ذاتية لزومية - وأما الماهية الموجودة أو المعدومة فهي متأخرة عن مرتبة وجود العلة أو عدمها ومقارنة لها بحسب الحصول في الواقع فتدبر فيه.

وللجدلين مسلك آخر وهو أن تأثير العلة في حال حدوث الأثر وهو غير حال الوجود وحال العدم وربما زاد بعضهم غباوة ومنع وجوب المقارنة بين العلة والمعلول ومثله بالصوت لأنه يوجد في الآن الثاني ويصدر من ذي الصوت في الآن السابق عليه.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢١٣

الثاني أن التأثير إما في الماهية أو في الوجود أو في اتصافها به

والأول محال لأن ما يتعلق بالغير يلزم عدمه من عدم الغير وسلب الماهية عن نفسه محال والثاني يستلزم أن لا يبقى الوجود وجودا عند فرض عدم ذلك التأثير فإن ظن أنه لا يلزم أن يكون الإنسان مثلا مع كونه إنسانا يصير موصوفا بأنه ليس بإنسان بل إنما ينتفي الإنسان ولا يبقى دفع بأن نفى الإنسان قضية ولا بد من تقرير موضوعها حال الحكم فيكون الفاني هو الثابت فيكون الشيء ثابتا ومنفيا متقرا وغير متقرر وكذا الكلام في الوجود إيرادا ودفعا والثالث غير صحيح لكون الاتصاف أمرا ذهنيا اعتباريا لا يجوز أن يكون أول الصوادر بالذات ومع ذلك ثبوته لكونه من النسب بعد ثبوت الطرفين على أن الاتصاف أيضا ماهية فيعود السؤال بأن أثر الجاعل نفس الاتصاف أو وجوده أو الاتصاف بالاتصاف بالوجود وكذا الكلام في الاتصاف بالاتصاف حتى يتسلسل الأمر إلى لا نهاية.

و يزاح في المشهور بأن الجعل يتعلق بنفس الإنسان و يترتب عليه الوجود والاتصاف به لكونهما اعتباريين مصداقهما نفس الماهية الصادرة عن الجاعل - والإنسان وإن لم يكن إنسانا بتأثير الغير لكن نفس ماهية الإنسان بالغير بمعنى أن مجرد ذاته البسيطة أثر العلة لا الحالة التركيبية بينها وبينها وبين غيرها كقولنا الإنسان إنسان أو الإنسان موجود فالإنسان إنسان بذاته لكن نفسه من غيره وبين المعنيين فرق واضح فإذا فرض الإنسان على الوجه البسيط وجب إنسانيته بسبب الفرض وجوبا مترتبا على الفرض فيمتنع تأثير المؤثر فيه لأن وجوب الشيء ينافي احتياجه إلى الغير فيما وجب لذاته ولاستحالة جعل ما فرض مجعولا أما قبل فرض الإنسان نفسه فيمكن أن يجعل المؤثر نفس الإنسان ولك أن تقول يجب نفس الإنسان وأردت به الوجوب السابق وقد ثبت الفرق بين الوجوبين السابق واللاحق

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢١٤

في ميزان المعقولات وكثيرا ما يقع الغلط في هذا من جهة الاشتراك اللفظي ومن جهة وضع ما ليس بعلّة علة فإن كون الإنسان واجبا من العلة - لا يوجب كونه واجبا في نفسه وكذا كونه مفتقرا إلى العلة لا يستلزم كونه إياه مفتقرا إليها

فكون نفس الإنسان من الغير لا يدل على عدم كون الإنسان إنساناً عند ارتفاع الغير وإنما يدل عليه كون كون الإنسان إنساناً من الغير.

و كذا الكلام في كون نفس الوجود مجعولا كما اخترناه إلا أن المتأخرين عن آخرهم اختاروا مجعولية نفس الماهية و سيرد عليك في هذا المقام ما بلغ إليه قسطنطين من عالم المكاشفة و معدن الأسرار و المشهور من المشاءين اختيار الشق الثالث أي كون تأثير المؤثر في موصوفية الماهية بالوجود فقد وجهوا كلامهم بأن مقصودهم أن أثر الجاعل أمر مجمل يحلله العقل إلى موصوف و صفة و اتصاف لذلك الموصوف بتلك الصفة فأثر الجاعل في الإنسان مثلاً هو مصداق قولنا الإنسان موجود و ليس أثره بالذات ماهية الإنسان وحدها و لا وجوده وحده بل الأمر التركيبي المعبر عنه باتصاف الماهية بالوجود و الاتصاف بالوجود و إن كان أمراً عقلياً لكنه من الاعتبارات المطابقة للواقع فيجب ارتباطه إلى سبب وراء اعتبار العقل إياه هو نفس سبب الماهية.

و قد ظهر مما ذكرناه أن التقسيم المذكور منفسخ الضبط لأن الموصوفية المترتبة على تأثير الفاعل يمكن أن يؤخذ على أنها معنى غير مستقل في التصور بل هي مرآة ملاحظة الطرفين و المعاني الارتباطية من حيث إنها ارتباطية لا يمكن أن يتعلق بها التفات الذهن إليها و استقلالها في التصور كما أشرنا إليه و أما إذا استؤنف الالتفات بأن انفسخت عما هي عليها من كونها آلة الارتباط و صارت أمراً معقولاً في نفسه مباين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢١٥

الذات للطرفين فكانت كسائر الماهيات في أن تعلقها بالجاعل بما ذا و تأثير الجاعل فيها بحسب أية حيثية تكون من الأمور المحتملة المذكورة

فصل (١٤) في كيفية احتياج عدم الممكن إلى السبب

ربما يتشكك فيقال إن رجحان عدم الممكن على وجود لو كان لسبب

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢١٦

لكان في العدم تأثير لكن العدم بطلان صرف يمتنع استناده إلى الشيء ثم قولكم عدم الممكن يستند إلى عدم علة وجوده يستدعي التمايز بين الأعدام و كونها هويات متعددة بعضها علة و بعضها معلول فحيث لا تمايز و لا أولوية فلا علية و لا معلولية.

فيزاح بأن عدم الممكن ليس نفيًا محضًا بمعنى أن العقل يتصور ماهية الممكن - و ينضاف إليها معنى الوجود و العدم و يجدها بحسب ذاتها خالية عن التحصل و اللاتحصل سواء كانا بحسب الذهن أو بحسب الخارج فيحكم بأنها في انضمام كل من المعنيين إليها تحتاج إلى أمر آخر و كما أن معنى تأثير العلة في وجود ماهية ما ليس أن تودع في الماهية شيئاً تكون هي حاملة له في الحقيقة أو متصفة به في الواقع - بل بأن يبدع أمراً هو المسمى بالوجود ثم هو بنفسه ذو ماهية من غير تأثير و الماهية منصبة بصبغ الوجود مستضيئة بضوئه ما دام الوجود على ما علمت من مسلكنا - فكذلك معنى تأثيرها في عدم الماهية ليس إلا أن لا تبدع أمراً يتحد بالماهية نوعاً من الاتحاد أي بالعرض نعم للعقل أن يتصور ماهية الممكن و يضيف إليها شيئاً من مفهومي العدم و الوجود بسبب تصور وجود العلة أو عدمها من جهة علمه

بالأسباب المسمى بالبرهان اللمبي أو بسبب ملاحظة وجدان الآثار المترتبة على الشيء الدالة على وجوده أو عدمها الدال على عدمه كما في البرهان المسمى بالإن فلعلم أن مرجح عدم كمرجح الوجود ليس إلا ما له حظ من الوجود لا ذات عدم بما هو عدم إلا أن مرجح طرف الوجود يجب أن يكون بنفسه أمرا متقدرا حاصلا بدون الفرض والاعتبار و أما مرجح البطلان و عدم فلا يكون إلا معقولا مجردا من غير تقرر له خارجا عن الملاحظة العقلية فعدم العلة وإن كان نفيا محضا في ظرف عدم إلا أن له حظا من الثبوت بحسب ملاحظة العقل و ذلك يكفي في الترجيح العقلي و الحكم باستتباعه - لعدم المعلول ذهنيا و خارجا كل واحد منهما بوجه غير الآخر فإن استتباع عدم العلة عدم المعلول في الخارج هو كونهما بما هما كذلك باطلين بحيث لا خبر عنهما بوجه من الوجوه أصلا حتى عن هذا الوجه السلبي و أما استتباع عدمها عدمه في الذهن فهو كون تصور عدم العلة و الحكم به عليها يوجب تصور عدم المعلول و الحكم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢١٧

به عليه و في تصور عدم المعلول مجرد استتباع لتصور عدم العلة من دون ترتب الحكم بعدمها على الحكم بعدمه و بالجملة الامتياز بين الأعدام بحسب مفهوماتها العقلية و صورها الذهنية بوجه من الوجوه يكفي في كون بعضها مرجحا لآخر إنما الممتنع الامتياز بين الأعدام بما هي أعدام و ذلك لم يلزم هاهنا.

خلاصة إجمالية:

إن للماهيات الإمكانية و الأعيان المتقدرة حالات عقلية - و اعتبارات سابقة على وجودها في الواقع مستندة في لحاظ العقل بعضها إلى بعض من غير أن يكون في الخارج بإزائها شيء و ليس في الخارج عندنا أمر سوى الوجود ثم العقل يتصور الماهية متحدة به و يجد الماهية بحسب المفهوم غير مفهوم الوجود و يجدها بحسب نفسها معرفة عن الوجود و عدم خالية عن ضرورتيهما و لا ضرورتيهما بالمعنى العدولي أيضا فيحكم بحاجتها في شيء من الأمرين - إلى مرجح غير ذاتها موجب لها فلعلم من ذلك أن الشيء أي الماهية أمكنت فاحتاجت فأوجبت فوجدت فوجدت و هذا لا ينافي كون الوجود أول الصوادر و أصلها لأن الموضوع في هذا الحكم الوجود و فيما ذكر المنظور إليه حال الماهية بقياسها إلى وجودها و إلى جاعل وجودها و هذا كما يقال إن الشيء كثيرا ما يتأخر بحسب وجوده الرابطي عن الذي يتقدم عليه بحسب وجوده في نفسه - و كما يثبت في العلم الطبيعي وجود مبدأ الحركة بعد إثبات الحركة و وجود المحرك الغير المتحرك اللامتناهي القوة و القدرة بعد إثبات الحركة الدورية و ذلك لأن حال الجسم في نفس ماهيته المتغيرة متقدمة على حال كونه ذا مبدأ محرك غير متناهي القوة واجب بالذات مع كون الواجب بالذات بحسب ذاته تعالى متقدما على جميع الأشياء - فلا تناقض أيضا بين كون الوجود متقدما في نفسه على الماهية و حالاتها متأخرا عنها و عن مراتبها السابقة بحسب تعلقها و ارتباطها به.

تبصرة تذكيرية:

قد لوحنا إليك و سنوضح لك بيانه أن المفهوم الكلبي ذاتيا كان أو عرضيا ليس أثر الجاعل القيوم الموجود بالذات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢١٨

فالحكم بأن المنسوب بالذات إلى العلة ليس إلا نفس الوجود بذاته سواء كان متصفا بالحدوث أو بالبقاء بل الوجود

الباقى أشد حاجة في التعلق بالغير من الوجود الحادث إذا كانا فاقرين و أنت إذا حللت معنى الوجود الحادث إلى عدم سابق و وجود- علمت أن عدم ليس مستندا بالذات إلى علة موجودة و كون الوجود بعد عدم من لوازم هوية ذلك الوجود فلم يبق للتعلق بالغير إلا نفس الوجود مع قطع النظر عما يلزمه فليس للفاعل صنع فيما سوى الوجود ثم بعض من الوجود بنفسه يوصف بالحدوث بلا مقتض من غيره أو اقتضاء من ذاته كما أن الجسم في وجوده متعلق بالعلة ثم هو بنفسه موصوف بلزوم التناهي مطلقا و كما أن حاجة الماهيات إلى علة وجوداتها من حيث إنها في ذاتها متساوية النسبة إلى الوجود و عدم و المستفاد لها من العلة وصف الوجود و أما وصف كونها متساوية النسبة أو كون وجودها بعد البطلان سواء كان بالذات أو بالزمان فأمر ضروري غير مفتقر إلى العلة فكذلك حاجة الوجود إلى العلة و تقومه بها من حيث كونه بذاته و هويته وجودا ضعيفا تعلقيا ظليا و المستفاد من العلة نفسه الضعيفة لا كونه متصفا بالحدوث أو القدم و يلائم هذا ما وجد في كلام بعض متأخري العلماء أن الذات المستفادة من

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢١٩

الغير كونها متعلقة بالغير مقوم لها كما أن الاستغناء عن الغير مقوم لواجب الوجود لذاته فالذات التي هي من تلقاء الغير كونها من تلقاء الغير و فاقتها إلى الغير مقوم لها- فلا يسوغ أن يستمر الذات المفتقرة ذاتا مستغنية كما لا يجوز أن يتسرمد المستغني عن جميع الأشياء مفتقرا و إلا فقد انقلب الحقائق عما هي عليه و هذا شديد الوضوح فيما عليه سلوكنا من كون استناد الممكن إلى الجاعل من جهة وجوده الذي يتقوم بوجود فاعله لا من جهة ماهيته فنفس الوجود مرتبط إلى الفاعل و ارتباطه إلى الفاعل مقوم له أي لا يتصور بدونه و إلا لم يكن الوجود هذا الوجود كما أن الوجود الغير المتعلق بشيء هو بنفسه كذلك فلو عرض له التعلق بالغير لم يكن الوجود ذلك الوجود فالافتقار للوجود التعلقى ثابت أبدا حين الحدوث و حين الاستمرار و البقاء جميعا فحاجته في البقاء كحاجته في الحدوث بلا تفاوت لا بمعنى أن كونه بعد عدم أثر الفاعل أو كونه بعد كون سابق أثره بل هما لازمان لنفس الوجود بلا جعل و تأثير كما مر إنما المفعول و أثر الجاعل نفس الوجود لا تصييره ذا اللوازم التي من جملتها كونه غير أزلي فليس للحق إلا إفاضة نور الوجود على الأشياء و إدامتها و حفظها و إبقاء ما يحتمل البقاء قدر ما يحتمل و يسع له بحسب هويته و أما النقائص و القصورات فهي لها من ذاتها مثال ذلك على وجه بعيد فيضان نور الشمس على الأجسام القابلة بلا منع و بخل فلو حجب بعض الأجسام عن ورود شعاعها عليه لكان من جهته لا من جهتها فالذات الأحدية لا تزال تضيء هياكل الممكنات و يخرجها من ظلمة ليل عدم إلى نور نهار الوجود بحيث لو فرض الوهم أنه تعالى يمسك عنها إفاضة الوجود لحظة- لعادت إلى ظلمة ذاتها الأزلية فسبحان القوي القدير الحكيم الذي يمسك السماوات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٢٠

و الأرض أن تزولا و لئن زالتا إن أمسكهما من أحد من بعده و ما أشد سخافة وهم من يرى أن حاجة العالم إلى قيوم السماوات و الأرض و من فيهما و ما عليهما في حال الحدوث لا في حال البقاء حتى صرح بعض من هؤلاء القائلين بهذا القول جهلا و عنادا- أن الباري لو جاز عدمه لما ضر عدمه وجود العالم بعده لتحقيق الحدوث بإحداثه و هذا غاية الجهل و الفساد في الاعتقاد على أن كل علة ذاتية فهي مع معلولها وجودا و دواما كما سنذكره في مباحث العلة و

المعلول.

و من الشواهد في ذلك حرارة النار الفائضة من جوهرها أعني صورتها على ما حولها من الأجسام للتسخين و هكذا يفيض من الماء الرطوبة و البلل على الأجسام المجاورة له و الرطوبة جوهرية و ذاتية للماء كما أن الحرارة للنار كذلك و هكذا يفيض من الشمس النور و الضياء على الأجرام الكوكبية و العنصرية لأن النور جوهرى للشمس و الفعل الذاتى لا يتبدل و كذلك يفيض الحياة من النفس على البدن إذ الحياة جوهرية لها و صورة مقومة لذاتها فلا يزال ينشأ منها الحياة على البدن الذي هو جسم ميت في ذاته حي بالنفس ما دام صلوحه لإفاضة الحياة عليه من النفس باقيا فإذا فسد صلوحه لقبول الحياة تخلت و لخراب البدن ارتحلت و كذلك نسبة كل علة ذاتية مع معلولها و يجيء أن نسبة الإيجاد إلى المؤلف و المركب كالبناء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٢١

للبيت و الخياط للثوب مغالطة نشأت من عدم الفرق بين ما بالذات و ما بالعرض - و أخذ ما ليس بعلة علة و البارى أجل من أن يكون فعله مجرد التأليف و التركيب كما زعموه بل فعله الصنع و الإبداع و إنشاء الوجود و الكون و ليس الإبداع و الإنشاء تركيبا و لا تأليفا بل تأسيس و إخراج من العدم إلى الوجود و المثال في الأمرين المذكورين يوجه كلام المتكلم و كتابة الكاتب فإن أحدهما يشبه الإيجاد و الآخر يشبه التركيب فلاجل هذا بطل الأول بالإمساك دون الثانى فإنه إذا سكت المتكلم بطل الكلام و إذا سكن الكاتب لا يبطل المكتوب فوجود العالم عن البارى جل مجده كوجود الكلام عن المتكلم فالوجودات العقلية و النفسية و الآليات الروحية و الجسمية كلها كلمات الله التي لا تنفذ و لو كان بحر الهيولى العنصرية مدادا لكلمات ربه الوجودية لنفذ البحر قبل أن تنفذ كلمات ربه و لو جئنا بمثله مددا من أبحر الهويلات الفلكية تثنية لقوله تعالى وَلَوْ أَنَّ مَا فِي الْأَرْضِ مِنْ شَجَرَةٍ أَقْلَامٌ وَالْبَحْرُ يَمُدُّهُ مِنْ بَعْدِهِ سَبْعَةُ أَبْحُرٍ مَا نَفِدَتْ كَلِمَاتُ اللَّهِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ عَزِيزٌ حَكِيمٌ

فصل (١٥) في أن الممكن ما لم يجب بغيره لم يوجد

لما يتيقن أن كل ممكن ما لم يترجح وجوده بغيره لم يوجد و ما لم يترجح عدمه كذلك لم ينعدم فلا بد له في رجحان كل من الطرفين من سبب خارج عن نفسه - فالآن نقول إن ذلك السبب المرجح ما لم يبلغ ترجيحه إلى حد الوجوب لم يكن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٢٢

السبب المرجح مرجحا فالأولية الخارجة الغير الواصلة إلى حد الوجوب بسبب الغير غير كافية كما ظنه أكثر المتكلمين فما دام الممكن في حدود الإمكان لم يتحقق وجوده أليس إذا لم يصل إلى حد الوجوب بسبب الغير يجوز وجوده و يجوز عدمه - فلا يتعين بعد التخصيص بأحدهما دون الآخر فيعود طلب المخصص و المرجح جذعا و الأولوية مستوية النسبة إلى الجانبين فيحتاج المعلول رأسا إلى ضم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٢٣

شيء آخر ثالث مع العلة والأولية ثم مع انضمامه لو لم يحصل الوجوب بل كان بحسبه جواز الطرفين فلم يقف الحاجة إلى المرجح لأحدهما وهكذا حتى ينتهي الأمر إلى مرجحات وأولويات غير متناهية ولا يكون مع ذلك قد حصل تعيين أحد الطرفين إذ كل مرتبة فرضت من المراتب الغير المتناهية يأتي الكلام في استواء نسبة الأولوية المتحققة فيها الغير الموجبة إلى الجانبين بحاله مع فرض حصول ما فرض سببا مرجحا - فاستواء نسبة هذه الأولوية إلى طرفي الفعلية واللافعلية مع تحقق تلك الأسباب الغير المتناهية باق على شأنه من دون أن يفيد تعييناً لأحد الطرفين فلا يكون ما فرض سببا مرجحا سببا مرجحا فقد ظهر أن المفروض مستحيل من غير أن نستعين في بيانه باستحالة ذهاب السلسلة الغير المتناهية من العلل والمعلولات لأنها مما لم يحن حينه بعد - بل من جهة أن ما فرضناه علة مخصصة لم يكن إياها فكان الشيء غير نفسه وهو محال.

و بالجملة الوجوب منتهى سلسلة الإمكانيات والفعلية الذاتية مبدأ انبثاث شعب القوى وإعدام الملكات فلهذا قيل إن وجوب الشيء قبل إمكانه وفعليته قبل قوته - و صورته سابقة على مادته وخيره مستول على شره بل وجوده قاهر على عدمه - و رحمة الله سابقة على غضبه كما سيتضح بك في مباحث القوة والفعل.

و بالجملة فقد صح إذن أن كل ماهية ممكنة أو كل وجود إمكاني لا يتقرر ولا يوجد ما لم يجب تقررده و وجوده بعلته فلا يتصور كون العلة علة ما لم يكن ترجيحها للمعلول ترجيحاً إيجابياً فكل علة واجبة العلية و كل معلول واجب المعلولية و العلة الأولى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٢٤

كما هو واجب الوجوب كذلك واجب العلية فهو بما هو واجب الوجود واجب العلية فكونه واجبا بذاته هو كونه مبدأ لما سواه كما سنبين إن شاء الله العزيز

فصل (١٦) في أن كل ممكن محفوف بالوجوبين وبالامتناعين

إن ما مضى في الفصل السابق هو ثبوت الوجود السابق للممكن الناشي من قبل المرجح التام لأحد طرفي الوجود و عدم قبل تحققه و بإزائه الامتناع السابق اللازم من اقتضاء العلة ذلك الطرف بعينه ثم بعد تحقق الوجود و عدم يلحق وجوب آخر - في زمان اتصاف الماهية بأحد الوصفين من جهة الاتصاف به على الاعتبار التحيثي - فإن كل صفة يجب وجودها للموصوف حين الاتصاف بها من حيث الاتصاف بها - وهذا هو الوجوب اللاحق المسمى بالضرورة بحسب المحمول و بإزائه الامتناع اللاحق بالقياس إلى ما هو نقيض المحمول فكل ممكن سواء كان موجوداً أو معدوماً لنفسه أو لغيره فإنه يكتنفه الوجوبان و الامتناعان بحسب ملاحظة العقل و لا يمكن الخلو عنهما بحسب نفس الأمر أصلاً لا باعتبار الوجود و لا باعتبار عدمه و إن كانت ماهية الممكن في نفسها و بما هي بحسبه على طباع الإمكان الصرف خالية عن الجميع - أما عدم الخلو عن الوجوب السابق وجوداً و عدماً و كذلك الامتناع السابق اللازم له فقد مر و أما الوجوب و الامتناع اللاحقان فلأن الوجود محمولاً كان أو رابطة ينافي عدمه و عدم الوجود المقابل له فإمكان عدمه في زمان الوجود و معه يساوق جواز الاقتران بين النقيضين فيلزم استحالة ذلك الإمكان و استحالته يقتضي استحالة عدمه - المساوقة لوجوب مقابلة الذي هو الوجود و كذلك حكم إمكان وجود الشيء حين عدمه فقد ثبت ما ادعينا.

و مما يجب أن يعلم أنه كما أن الوجوب السابق للممكن بالغير فكذلك وجوبه اللاحق أيضاً و هكذا قياس الامتناعين في

كونهما جميعا بالغير إذا أريد من

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٢٥

الممكن ماهيته و أما إذا أريد وجوده فالأخيران من الوجوب و الامتناع ذاتيان له أما بيان الأول فلأن الموصوف بالوجوب على التقدير المذكور إنما هي الماهية - بشرط الوجود على أن يكون الوجود خارجا عنها لا مجموع الماهية و مفهوم الوجود - فالماهية الموجودة متقدمة على وجوبها اللاحق و ضرورة وجودها بحسب الواقع - لا تنفك عن إمكانه لها بحسب نفسها و أما بيان الثاني فلأن صدق مفهوم الوجود - على حقيقة كل وجود من قبيل صدق ذاتيات الشيء عليه حيث إنها ضرورية ذاتية ما دامت الذات متحققة و ليست نسبة الشيء إلى نفسه بالإمكان بل بالوجوب نعم لو جرد الوجودات الخاصة بالإمكانية بحسب الفرض عن تعلقها بجاعلها لم يبق لها عين و ذات أصلا بخلاف الماهيات فإنها حين صدور وجودها عن العلة فهي بحسب ذاتها ممكنة الوجود فكل عقد اتحادي أو ارتباطي لا يخلو عن الوجوب اللاحق و الضرورة بحسب المحمول سواء اقترن ذلك بالضرورة المطلقة الأزلية كقولنا الله موجود قادر - أو بالضرورة الذاتية المقيدة بالذات أو الوصفية المقيدة بالوصف داخلا أو خارجا أو بالإمكان الذاتي و بالجملة إذا وقع أحد طرفي الوجود و العدم لماهية وقتا ما - فإن نسب طرفه الآخر إلى الماهية من حيث هي كان ممكن للحوق لها في ذلك الوقت البتة و إن قيس إلى نفس ذلك الطرف أو إلى الماهية من حيث تلبسها به كان ممتنعا عليها لا بحسب ذات تلك الماهية بل بحسب قيدها أو تقييدها به المنافيان لهذا الطرف الآخر فالامتناع امتناع بالغير على أحد الاعتبارين و بالذات على ثانيهما.

وهم و تنبيه:

ربما توهم متوهم أن ذات الممكن المأخوذ مع الوجود ممتنع له العدم امتناعا ذاتيا نظرا إلى المجموع لكون اجتماع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٢٦

النقيضين محالا لذاته فيكون ما بإزائه وجوبا ذاتيا لا بالغير فيلزم كون الممكن المركب واجبا بالذات فيجب عليه أن يتنبه مما كررنا الإشارة إليه أن الضرورة هاهنا ليست مطلقة أزلية بل ضرورة بشرط الذات فكما أن الإنسان إنسان بالضرورة ما دام كونه إنسانا فكذلك الإنسان الموجود موجود بالضرورة ما دام كونه موجودا - فهذا بالحقيقة وجوب بالغير لأن الوجودات الإمكانية و اتصاف الممكنات بها إنما يكون بعد تأثير الفاعل إياها و من هاهنا وضح أن وجوب الوجود في المركب من الواجبين المفروضين إنما هو بالغير لا بالذات و كذا الامتناع في المركب من الممتنعين امتناع بالغير لأن المجموع في مرتبة أحد الجزئين ليس واجبا و لا ممتنعا بل ما دام كونه مجموعا.

و ما أسخف ما اعتذر بعضهم من لزوم الوجوب الذاتي في الماهية المأخوذة مع الوجود أن هذا المجموع أمر اعتباري لكون الوجود عنده اعتباريا فمجموع الذات مع القيد لا يكون إلا من الاعتبارات العقلية فكيف يكون معروض الوجوب. و ذهل عن أن أحدا لا يروم أن نفس مفهوم هذا الملحوظ مع قطع النظر عن ما يحكي عنه و يطابقه له الوجوب اللاحق بل ما رام إلا أن مطابق هذا المفهوم في نفس الأمر و هو الذات المأخوذة من حيث كونها موجودة له الوجود و الوجوب - أعني ما إذا عبر عنه العقل حيث الماهية بالوجوب سواء كان للوجود صورة في الخارج - كما هو المذهب

المنصور أم لا.

و لبعض الأماجد الكرام مسلك آخر في هذا المقام تلخيصه أنه كلما امتنع طرف العدم مثلاً حين الوجود على الذات يجب أن يجب للذات اللابطلان حين الوجود وهو أعم من الوجود حين الوجود و من العدم رأساً في الآزال و الأباد - فلم يلزم من ضرورة هذا الأعم ضرورة هذا الأخص بل يمكن تحقيقه في ضمن العدم في جميع الأزمنة و الأوقات فإذن لحق وجوب الوجود حين الوجود بسبب الغير و يمكن انسلابه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٢٧

في نفسه و بحسب ذات الممكن.

و أنت تعلم أن هذا الكلام على تقدير تمامه إنما يجدي لو لزم وجوب الوجود - من مجرد امتناع العدم و أما إذا قيل إن الماهية المحيثة بالوجود يجب لها الوجود وجوب الجزء للكل و وجوب العلة للمعلول باعتبار كونه معلولاً فإن الممكن الموجود سواء كان حيثية الوجود له بحسب التقييد و الجزئية أو بحسب التعليل و الشرطية - لا بد له من الوجود لا يتصور انفكاكه عنه و كل ما كان كذلك كانت ضرورية ذاتية - و كذا الحال في الممكن الموصوف بكونه صادراً عن الجاعل يجب له وجود الجاعل من حيث كونه صادراً عنه و لهذا لا يتصور انفكاك العالم من حيث إنه صنع الباري عن الباري فالعلة مقومة لوجود المعلول و المقوم للشيء واجب له و لهذا

ورد: أن الله تعالى قال مخاطباً لموسى بن عمران يا موسى أنا بذك اللزم

فالمصير إلى ما حققناه.

و بعض من تصدى لخصومة أهل الحق بالمعارضة و الجدل و التشبه بأهل الحال بمجرد القيل و القال كمن تصدى لمقابلة الأبطال و مقاتلة الرجال بمجرد حمل الأثقال و آلات القتال قال في تأليف سماه تهافت الفلاسفة إن قياس الطرف الآخر إلى الممكن له اعتبارات - أحدها أن يقاس إلى ذات الممكن من حيث هي مع قطع النظر عن الواقع فيها - و بهذا الاعتبار يكون ممكناً لها في ذلك الوقت بل في جميع الأوقات. و ثانيها أن يقاس إليها بحسب تقييدها بالطرف الواقع على أن يكون قيداً

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٢٨

لا جزءاً و حينئذ إن اعتبر ثبوت الطرف الآخر لنفس الذات المقيدة بذلك الطرف من حيث هي من غير أن يكون للتقييد دخل فيما ثبت له الطرف الآخر يكون ممكناً لها دائماً و ممتنعاً لها بالغير في ذلك الوقت و إن اعتبر ثبوته لها لا من حيث هي بل من حيث تقييدها بذلك الطرف فقد يكون الطرف الآخر ممكناً بالذات بل واقعا و قد يكون ممتنعاً بالذات مثلاً إذا اعتبر الممكن الموجود من حيث إنه موجود فالعدم ممكن له بل واقع بل واجب و لا يلزم من هذا اجتماع النقيضين لأن الموصوف بأحدهما الذات من حيث هي و بالآخر الذات من حيث التقييد و إذا اعتبر الممكن المعدوم من حيث هو معدوم فالوجود ممتنع له بالذات.

و ثالثها أن يقاس إليها مع تقييدها بحيث يكون المقارن جزءاً لما ثبت له الطرف الآخر و يتأتى فيه أيضاً التقسيم المذكوران في الثاني و لزوم توهم اجتماع النقيضين هنا أبعد فقد حصل من ذلك أن ما وقع هذه الاعتبارات بالقياس إليه

في الاعتبارين الأولين ممكن بالذات و في الأخيرين ممتنع بالذات انتهى ما ذكر و فساده يظهر بالتدبر فيما أسلفنا بيانه من أن الكلام ليس في امتناع أحد الطرفين - بالقياس إلى الطرف الآخر بحسب ما يعتمله الذهن من دون محاذاته لما هو الواقع - كما ينادي إليه كلام هذا القائل بل المنظور إليه في الطرف الآخر نحو وقوعه في نفس الأمر فإن الذات المتلبسة بالوجود مثلاً سواء أخذت على الوجه الثاني أو على الوجه الثالث يستحيل عدمه في الواقع و ظاهر أن موضوع أحد الطرفين هو بعينه ما يقاس إليه الطرف الآخر و يحكم بامتناع لحق ذلك الطرف به امتناعاً ذاتياً و ليس المراد من

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٢٩

التحيث بأحد الطرفين في الاعتبار الثاني أن يؤخذ مفهوم التحيث و يضم إلى أصل الذات - حتى يحصل منه مركب اعتباري و حكم بوجوب عدمه و قيل يتعدد موضوع المتقابلين - فالمراد من الذات المتلبسة بأحد الطرفين كالوجود مثلاً هو اعتبار تلك الذات على وجه يكون مصداقاً لما يعبر عنه و يحكي عنه العقل بهذا المفهوم الذهني الذي هو مفهوم التحيث بهذا الطرف و لا شبهة في أن الذات المأخوذة على هذا الوجه الذي يمكن الحكاية عنها بحسبه بما ذكر يمتنع لحق الطرف الآخر له بالذات و لا شبهة أيضاً أن ليس في تلك الذات المحكي عنها بما ذكرناه تركيب بحسب الواقع إلا في الاعتبار الذهني حتى يختلف موضوع الطرفين فثبت الامتناع الذاتي للطرف الآخر - و من امتناعه الذاتي يلزم الوجوب الذاتي لمقابله على أن ما يتمحل هذا القائل لا يجري في نفس الوجود الذي هو بعينه جهة الوجوب اللاحق في كل شيء و هو بعينه ذات موجودة كما قررناه و بمجرد نفسه ينحل إلى موضوع و صفة هي أحد المتقابلين في قولنا الوجود ثابت و يمتنع له لذاته قولنا لا ثابت فلا محيص إلا فيما أسسناه في هذا المقام من الفرق بين الوجوبين اللازم منهما غير محذور و هو الوجوب المقيد بدوام ذات الموضوع و المحذور منهما غير لازم و هو الوجوب المطلق الأزلي.

ذيل:

كل ممكن لحقه الوجود و الوجوب لغيره في وقت من الأوقات فإنه كما يمتنع عدمه في ذلك الوقت كذلك يمتنع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٣٠

عدمه في مطلق نفس الأمر أي ارتفاعه عن الواقع مطلقاً بلا تقييده بالأوقات المبينة لذلك الوقت لأن ارتفاعه عن الواقع إنما يصح بارتفاعه عن جميع مراتب الواقع و المفروض خلافه فمعنى جواز العدم للممكن الموجود في وقت جوازه بالنظر إلى ماهيته لا بالنظر إلى الواقع

فصل (١٧) في أن الممكن قد يكون له إمكانان و قد لا يكون

إن بعض الممكنات مما لا يأبى مجرد ذاته أن يفيض من جود المبدأ الأعلى بلا شرط خارج عن ذاته و عما هو مقوم ذاته فلا محالة يفيض عن المبدأ الجواد بلا تراخ و مهلة و لا سبق عدم زمني و استعداد جسماني لصلوح ذاته و تهيو طباعه للحصول و الكون و هذا الممكن لا يكون له إلا نحو واحد من الكون و لا محالة نوعه منحصر في شخصه إذا الحصولات المختلفة و التخصصات المتعددة لمعنى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٣١

واحد نوعي إنما يلحق لأجل أسباب خارجة عن مرتبة ذاته و قوام حقيقته فإن مقتضى الذات و مقتضى لازم الذات داخلا كان أو خارجا لا يختلف و لا يتخلف فلا مجال لتعدد الشخصات و تكثر الحصولات و بعضها مما لا يكفي ذاته و مقوماته الذاتية - في قبول الوجود من دون استعانة بأسباب اتفافية و شروط غير ذاتية فليس له في ذاته إلا قوة التحصل من غير أن يصلح لقبوله صلوحا تاما ثم بعد انضياف تلك الشروط - و المعدات إلى ما يقبل قوة وجوده و هو المسمى بالمادة يتهيأ لقبول الوجود و يصير قريب المناسبة إلى فاعله بعد ما كان بعيد المناسبة منه فلا محالة ينضم إلى إمكانه الذاتي إمكان آخر متفاوت الوقوع له مادة حاملة ذات تغير و زمان هو كمية تغيرها و انتقالها من حالة إلى حالة أخرى حتى انتهت إلى مواصلة ما بين القوة القابلة و القوة الفاعلة ليتحصل من اجتماعهما و يتولد من ازدواجهما شيء من المواليد الوجودية - و لما تحقق و تبين أن الممكنات مستندة في وجودها إلى سبب واجب الوجود و القيومية لكونه بالفعل من جميع جهات الوجود و الإيجاد و كل ما كان كذلك استحال أن يخص بإيجاده و فيضه بعض القوابل و المستعدات دون بعض بل يجب أن يكون عام الفيض فلا بد أن يكون اختلاف الفيض لأجل اختلاف إمكانات القوابل و استعدادات المواد.

ثم إن للممكنات طرا إمكانا في أنفسها و ماهياتها فإن كان ذلك كافيا في فيضان الوجود عن الواجب بالذات عليها و جب أن تكون موجودة بلا مهلة لأن الفيض عام و الجود تام و أن لا يتخصص وجود شيء منها بحين دون حين و الوجود بخلاف ذلك لمكان الحوادث الزمانية و إن لم يكن ذلك الإمكان الأصلي كافيا بل لا بد من حصول شروط آخر حتى يستعد لقبول الوجود عن الواجب بالذات فلمثل هذا الشيء إمكانان. فقد ثبت أن لبعض الممكنات إمكانين. أحدهما هو وصف عام و معنى واحد عقلي مشترك لجميع الممكنات و نفس ماهياتها حاملة له.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٣٢

و الثاني ما يطرا لبعض الماهيات لقصور إمكانه الأصلي في الصلاحية لقبول إفاضة الوجود فلا محالة يلحق به إمكان بمعنى آخر قائم بمحل سابق على وجوده سبعا زمانيا به يستعد لأن يخرج من القوة إلى الفعل و هو الذي يسمى بالإمكان الاستعدادي و قد مر ذكره من قبل و بحسبه يمكن لماهية واحدة أنحاء غير متناهية من الحصول و الكون لأجل استعدادات غير متناهية يلحق لقابل غير متناهي الانفعال - ينضم إلى فاعل غير متناهي التأثير فيستمر نزول البركات و ينفتح باب الخيرات - إلى غير النهاية كما ستطلع على كفيته و لو انحصر الإمكان في القسم الأول لغلق باب الإفاضة و الإفادة و يبقى في كتم العدم عدد من الوجود لم يخرج إلى فضاء الكون أكثر مما وقع و هو مبرهن الاستحالة فيما بعد إن شاء الله تعالى و ليس في هذه الأحكام حيص عما ذهب إليه المحققون من أهل الشريعة و لا حيد عما يراه المحققون من أهل الحكمة القويمة إنما الزيغ في الحكم بقدوم المجعولات الزمانية و لا نهاية القوى الإمكانية فإن الحوادث المتسابقة و إن لم يكن حدوثها إلا بعد حركة و تغير و مادة و زمان و لكن الحوادث الإبداعية سواء تجردت عن الزمان

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٣٣

و المكان أو اقترنت بهما لا على وجه الانفعال و التجدد لا يعترىها المسبوقية بالزمان و المكان بل هي فاعلة الحركات سواء كانت متحركات أو مشوقات و الباري تعالى فوق الجميع هو الأول بلا أول كان قبله و الآخر بلا آخر كان بعده و هو جل مجده فعل كله بلا قوة و وجوب كله بلا إمكان و خير كله بلا شر و تمام كله بلا نقص و كمال كله بلا قصور و غاية كله بلا انتظار و وجود كله بلا ماهية و إنما يفيض منه على غيره من كل متغيرين أشرفهما و المقابل الآخر من اللوازم الغير المجعولة الواقعة في الممكنات لأجل مراتب قصوراتها عن البلوغ إلى الكمال الأتم الواجب و لمخالطة أنوار وجوداتها الضعيفة بشوائب ظلمات الأعدام اللاحقة بها بحسب درجات بعدها عن ينبوع النور الطامس القيومي و بالتفاوت في مراتب النزول - و البعد عن الحق الأول يتضاعف الإمكانات و بتضاعفها يتفاوت الموجودات كمالاً - و نقصاً و استنارة و انكسافاً و قد سبق أن نسبة الوجوب إلى الإمكان نسبة تمام إلى نقص و أن كل ما وجب وجوده لا بذاته فهو لوضع شيء ما ليس هو في مرتبة ماهيته صار واجب الوجود مثاله الاحتراق ليس واجب الحصول في ذاته و لكن عند

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٣٤

فرض التقاء القوة الفاعلة بالطبع و القوة المنفصلة بالطبع أعني الصورة المحرقة و المادة المحترقة يجب حصوله فتفطن و تيقن أن مثار الإمكان و الفقر هو البعد عن منبع الوجوب و الغنى و مجلاب الفعلية و الوجود هو القرب منه و الإمكان جهة الانفصال و عدم التعلق و ملاك الهلاك و الاختلال و الوجوب جهة الارتباط و الاتصال و مناط الجمعية و الانتظام و حيث يكون الإمكان أكثر يكون الشر و فقدان أوفر و الاختلال و الفساد أعظم و إذا قلت جهات العدم و سدت بعض مراتب الاختلال بتحقيق بعض شرائط الكون و ارتفاع بعض صوامد البلوغ إلى الكمال حصل الإمكان الاستعدادي الذي هو كمال ما بالقوة من حيث هو بالقوة في خصوص الطرف الخارجي كما أن الإمكان الذاتي هو كمال الماهية المعرفة عن الوجود على الإطلاق من حيث هي كذلك في أي نحو من الظروف و هو أوغل في الخفاء و الظلمة و النقصان من الإمكان - الذي هو إحدى الكيفيات الاستعدادية لكونه بالفعل من جهة أخرى غير جهة كونها قوة و إمكاناً لشيء فإن المني و إن كان بالقياس إلى حصول الصورة الإنسانية له بالقوة لكن بالقياس إلى نفسه و كونه ذا صورة منوية بالفعل فهو ناقص الإنسانية تام المنوية بخلاف الإمكان الذاتي الذي هو أمر سلبي محض و ليس له من جهة أخرى معنى تحصيلي و لأن المقوي عليه في الإمكان الاستعدادي هو أمر معين و صورة خاصة كالإنسانية في مثالنا بخلاف ما يضاف إليه الإمكان الذاتي لأنه مطلق الوجود و العدم و إنما التعيين ناش من قبل الفاعل من غير استدعاء الماهية بإمكانها إياه - و لأن الإمكان الاستعدادي يزول عند طريان ما هو استعداد له بخلاف الإمكان الذاتي الذي هو بحسب حال الماهية في مرتبة بطلان نفسها و باعتبار عدم ذاتها لا بحسب حالها قبل وجوده الخارجي ففعالية الشيء و تحققه و وجوبه في نفس الأمر لا يطرد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٣٥

إمكانه الذاتي لكونه بحسب مرتبة الماهية و ما بحسب الماهية لا يزول بعلة خارجية - بخلاف إمكانها الاستعدادي الذي

هو بحسب الواقع فلا يجمع الفعلية فيه فأحد الإمكانين أشد فيما يستدعيه الممكنية من القوة والفاقة والشر ولأن الإمكان الذاتي منبع الإمكان الاستعدادي وذلك لأن الهيولى التي هي مصححة جهات الشرور والأعدام إنما نشأت من العقل الفعال بواسطة جهة الإمكان فيه ولأجل أن الإمكان الاستعدادي له حظ من الوجود يقبل الشدة والضعف بحسب القرب من الحصول والبعد عنه فاستعداد النطفة للصورة الإنسانية أضعف من استعداد العلقة لها وهو من استعداد المضغة وهكذا إلى استعداد البدن الكامل بقواه وآلاته وأعضائه مع مزاج صالح لها وإنما يحصل الاستعداد التام بعد تحقق الإمكان الذاتي بحدوث بعض الدواعي والأسباب وانبتات بعض الموانع والأضداد وينقطع استمراره و اشتداده إما بحصول الشيء بالفعل وإما بطرو بعض الأضداد.

و بالجملة فإطلاق الإمكان على المعنيين بضرب من الاشتراك الصناعي لاقتضاء أحدهما رجحان أحد الجانبين وقبوله الشدة والضعف وعدم لزومه لماهية الممكن - وقيامه بمحل الممكن لا به وكونه من الأمور الموجودة في الأعيان لكونه كيفية حاصلة لمحلها معدة إياها لإضافة المبدأ الجواد وجود الحادث فيه إما بالذات كالصورة والعرض أو بالعرض كالنفس المجردة بخلاف الثاني لأنه بخلافه في جميع تلك الأحكام ثم الإمكان الاستعدادي إذا أضيف إلى ما يقوم به يسمى استعداد - وإذا أضيف إلى الحادث فيه يسمى إمكان ذلك الحادث فالإمكان الوقوعي بما هو إمكان وقوعي للشيء قائم لا به بل بمحله فهو بالوصف بحال المتعلق أشبه.

و منهم من يرى أن المسمى بالإمكان الاستعدادي هو بعينه الكيفية المزاجية وغيرها من

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٣٦

حيث انتسابها إلى الصورة التي ستحدث بسببها فمزاج النطفة إذا اعتبر بذاته كان كيفية مزاجية وإذا نسب إلى الصورة الحيوانية كان استعدادا لها وكذلك صحن الدار صفة الدار وإذا أضيف في الذهن إلى عدد ما يسهه من الناس كان إمكانا له و ستسمع في تحقيقه ما هو الحق القراح في فصل القوة والفعل بإذن الله العليم الفعال

فصل (١٨) في بعض أحكام الممتنع بالذات

و اعلم أن العقل كما لا يقدر أن يتعقل حقيقة الواجب بالذات لغاية مجده و علوه و شدة نوريته و وجوبه و فعليته و عدم تناهي عظمته و كبرائه كذلك لا يقدر على أن يتصور الممتنع بالذات بما هو ممتنع بالذات فغاية نقصه و محوطة بطلانه و لا شيء - فكما لا ينال ذات القيوم الواجب بالذات لأنه محيط بكل شيء فلا يحاط للعقل - فكذلك لا يدرك الممتنع بالذات لفراره عن صقع الوجود و الشيئية فلا حظ له من الهوية حتى يشار إليه و يحيط به العقل و يدركه الشعور و يصل إليه الوهم فالحكم بكون شيء ممتنعا بالذات بضرب من البرهان على سبيل العرض والاستتباع كما أن الدليل على وجود الحق المبدع إنما يكون بنحو من البيان الشبيه بالبرهان اللمي - و كما تحقق أن الواجب بالذات لا يكون واجبا بغيره فكذلك الممتنع بالذات لا يكون ممتنعا بغيره بمثل ذلك البيان و كما لا يكون لشيء واحد وجوبان بذاته و بغيره أو بذاته فقط أو بغيره فقط فلا يكون أيضا لأمر واحد امتناعان كذلك فإذا قد استبان أن الموصوف بما بالغير من الوجوب و الامتناع ممكن بالذات و ما يستلزم الممتنع بالذات فهو ممتنع لا محالة من جهة بها يستلزم الممتنع و إن كانت لها جهة أخرى إمكانية - لكن ليس الاستلزام للممتنع إلا من الجهة الامتناعية مثلا كون الجسم غير

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٣٧

الأبعاد يستلزم ممتنعاً بالذات هو كون المحصور غير محصور الذي مرجعه إلى كون الشيء غير نفسه مع أنه عين نفسه فأحدهما محال بالذات والآخرة محال بالغير فلا محالة يكون ممكناً باعتبار غير اعتباره علاقته مع الممتنع بالذات على قياس ما علمت في استلزام الشيء للواجب بالذات فإنه ليس من جهة ماهيته الإمكانية بل من جهة وجوب وجوده الإمكانية - و بالجملة فكما أن الاستلزام في الوجود بين الشئيين لا بد له من علاقة عليية و معلولية بين المتلازمين فكذلك الاستلزام في العدم و الامتناع بين شئيين لا ينفك عن تعلق ارتباطي بينهما و كما أن الواجبين لو فرضنا لم يكونا متلازمين بل متصاحبين بحسب البخت و الاتفاق كذلك التلازم الاصطلاحي لا يكون بين ممتنعين بالذات - بل بين ممتنع بالذات و ممتنع بالغير و هو لا محالة ممكن بالذات كما مر و بهذا يفرق الشرطي اللزومي عن الشرطي الاتفاقي فإن الأول يحكم فيه بصدق التالي وضعاً و رفعاً على تقدير صدق المقدم وضعاً و رفعاً لعلاقة ذاتية بينهما و الثاني يحكم فيه كذلك من غير علاقة لزومية بل بمجرد الموافقة الاتفاقية بين المقدم و التالي.

فما فشى عند عامة الجدليين في أثناء المناظرة عند فرض أمر مستحيل ليتوصل به إلى استحالة أمر من الأمور بالبيان الخلفي أو الاستقامي أن يقال إن مفروضك مستحيل - فجاز أن يستلزم نقيض ما ادعيت استلزامه إياه لكون المحال قد يلزم منه محال آخر واضح الفساد فإن المحال لا يستلزم أي محال كان بل محالاً إذا قدر وجودهما - يكون بينهما تعلق سببي و مسببي فإذن المتصلة اللزومية من كاذبتين قد تصدق و قد لا تصدق لأنهما إذا تحققت بينهما علاقة لزومية كحمازية الإنسان و ناهقيته صدقت لزومية و إذا لم تتحقق تلك العلاقة بينهما فإما أن يجد العقل بينهما علاقة المنافاة - فكذب الحكم بينهما بالاتصال رأساً أو لا يكون بينهما إلا مجرد الاتصال الاتفاقي - من غير لزوم و تناف ذاتيين لعدم العلاقة بينهما أصلاً فصح الحكم بينهما بالاتصال على نحو التجويز و الاحتمال لعدم إجراء البرهان اليقيني إلا في اللزوميات فإن الضرورة و الوجوب مناط الجزم و اليقين و الجواز و الإمكان مثار الظن و التخمين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٣٨

فصل (١٩) في أن الممتنع أو المعدوم كيف يعلم

كل ما كان معلوماً فلا بد أن يكون متميزاً عن غيره و كل متميز عن غيره فهو موجود فإذن كل معلوم موجود و ينعكس انعكاس النقيض أن ما لا يكون موجوداً لا يكون معلوماً لكننا قد نعرف أموراً كثيرة هي معدومة و ممتنعة الوجود و مع ذلك فهي معلومة مثل أنا نعلم عدم شريك الباري و عدم اجتماع النقيضين فكيف يمكن الجمع بين هذين القولين المتنافيين ظاهراً.

فنقول المعدوم لا يخلو إما أن يكون بسيطاً و إما أن يكون مركباً فإن كان بسيطاً مثل عدم ضد الله تعالى و عدم شريكه و عدم مثله و غير ذلك فذلك إنما يعقل لأجل تشبيهه بأمر موجود مثل أن يقال ليس له تعالى شيء نسبته إليه نسبة السواد إلى البياض و لا له ما نسبته إليه نسبة المندرج مع آخر تحت نوع أو جنس فلو لا معرفة المضادة أو المماثلة أو المجانسة بين أمور وجودية لاستحال الحكم بأن ليس لله تعالى ضد أو مماثل أو مجانس أو ما يجري مجراها من المحالات عليه و إن كان مركباً مثل العلم بعدم اجتماع المتقابلين كالمضادين فالعلم به إنما يتم بالعلم بأجزائه الوجودية - مثل أن يعقل

السواد والبياض ثم يعقل الاجتماع حيث يجوز ثم يقال الاجتماع الذي هو أمر وجودي معقول غير حاصل بين السواد والبياض فالحاصل أن عدم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٣٩

البسائط إنما يعرف بالمقايضة إلى الأمور الوجودية و عدم المركبات إنما يعرف بمعرفة بسائطها هذا ما قيل في هذا المقام.

و أنا أقول إن للعقل أن يتصور لكل شيء حتى المستحيلات كالمعدوم المطلق و المجهول المطلق و اجتماع النقيضين و شريك الباري و غير ذلك مفهوما و عنوانا- فيحكم عليه أحكاما مناسبة لها و يعقد قضايا إيجابية على سبيل الهليات الغير البتية- فموضوعات تلك القضايا من حيث إنها مفهومات في العقل و لها حظ من الثبوت و يصدق عليها شيء و ممكن عام بل عرض و كيفية نفسانية و علم و ما يجري مجراها- تصير منشأ لصحة الحكم عليها و من حيث إنها عنوان لأمر باطل تصير منشأ لامتناع الحكم عليها و عند اعتبار الحيتين يحكم عليها بعدم الإخبار عنها أو بعدم الحكم عليها أو بعدم ثبوتها أو أشباه ذلك و بهذا تندفع الشبهة المشهورة في قولنا المجهول المطلق لا يخبر عنه و السرف في ذلك صدق بعض المفهومات على نفسه بالحمل الأولي و عدم صدقه على نفسه بالحمل الشائع العرضي فإن مفهوم شريك الباري و المجهول المطلق

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤٠

يصدق على نفسه بأحد الحملين و مقابله يصدق عليه بالحمل الآخر و هذا مناط صحة الحكم عليه بأنه ممتنع الوجود

فصل (٢٠) في أن الممتنع كيف يصح أن يستلزم ممتنعا آخر

و اعلم أن من عادة عامة الجدليين أن يقولوا هذا المفروض لما كان محالا جاز أن يستلزم محالا آخر أي محال كان و هذا ليس بصحيح كلية إذ لا فرق بين المحال و الممكن في أن الاستلزام بين شيئين لا يثبت إلا بعلاقة ذاتية فإن معنى الملازمة هو كون الشئيين بحيث لا يمكن في نظر العقل نظرا إلى ذاتيهما وقوع تصور الانفكاك بينهما و هذا مما يستدعي العلاقة العلية الإيجابية إما بين نفس العلة و معلولها و إما بين معلولي علة واحدة على الوجه الذي سيجيء في مبحث التلازم بين الهيولى و الصورة- ألم تسمع قول الميزانيين إن الشرطية اللزومية ما يكون الحكم فيها بصدق التالي- على تقدير صدق المقدم لعلاقة بينهما طبيعية و لهذا يمتاز عن الشرطية الاتفاقية و كما أن الاستلزام لا يتحقق إلا بتحقيق العلاقة الطبيعية بالفعل فجواز الاستلزام لا يكون إلا بجواز تحقق العلاقة فكل ما صح عند العقل أن يكون بين المحالين على تقدير تحققهما علاقة ذاتية يكون بحسبها اللزوم جاز أن يحكم بالاستلزام بينهما و إلا بطل بته فإذن المحال قد يستلزم محالا آخر إذا كان بينهما علاقة ذاتية سواء كانت معلومة بالضرورة كاستلزام تحقق مجموع ممتنعين ذاتيين تحقق أحدهما و كاستلزام حمارية زيد مثلا ناهقيته أو بالاكساب كما أن الدور يستلزم التسلسل و قد لا يستلزم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤١

إذا لم يكن بينهما علاقة عقلية بل ربما ينافيه إذا كان العقل يجد بينهما علاقة المنافاة- إما بالفطرة كما في تحقق المركب

من الممتنعين بالذات بالنسبة إلى تحقق أحدهما فقط أو حمارية الإنسان بالنسبة إلى صاهليته وإما بالاكتساب كما في حمارية الإنسان - بالنسبة إلى إدراكه للكليات على تقدير الحمارية فإذاً قولنا المحال جاز أن يستلزم المحال قضية موجبة مهمة و قولنا الواقع لا يستلزم المحال سالبة كلية فالمتصلة للزومية من كاذبتين إنما تصدق إذا كان بينهما علاقة للزوم فإذا لم يكن بينهما علاقة للزوم - فإما أن يكذب الحكم بالاتصال رأساً إذا وجد العقل بينهما علاقة المنافاة وإما أن يصدق الاتصال الاتفاقي دون للزومي إذا لم يكن هناك علاقة أصلاً لا علاقة للزوم ولا علاقة المنافاة وذلك أيضاً إنما يصح على سبيل الاحتمال التجويزي - لا الحكم البتي من العقل إذ الاتفاق إنما يكون بين الموجودات و أما الكاذبات الاتفاقية أي المعدومات و الممتنعات فعلى سبيل التجويز فلعن التحقق التقديري يتفق لبعضها دون بعض فإذاً لا يصدق الحكم البتي بأن الكاذبين المتفقين كذبا يتفقان صدقا أصلاً.

و من الناس من يكتفي في الحكم بجواز الزوم بين محالين بعدم المنافاة بينهما - وإن لم يجد العقل علاقة للزوم.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤٢

و منهم من يعتبر علاقة للزوم.

و منهم من يعتبر العلاقة و يظن أنها قد تتحقق مع المنافاة فإذاً تحققت حكم بجواز الاستلزام و المنافاة و هما متصادمان بته و ربما يتشبث بأن اجتماع النقيضين مستلزم لارتفاعهما لأن تحقق كل من النقيضين يوجب ارتفاع الآخر.

و لا يخفى فيه الزور فإن تحقق أحد النقيضين في نفس الأمر مستلزم لارتفاع الآخر لا تحققه على تقدير محال و هو اجتماعه مع الآخر فتحققه على ذلك التقدير مستلزم لتحقيق الآخر لا لارتفاعه فمن أين يلزم من تحققهما ارتفاعهما.

تفريع:

و من هناك ينحل ما ربما يتشكك أحد فيقول إن الزوميات لا تنتج متصلة لأن الملازمة في الكبرى يحتمل أن لا يبقى على تقدير ثبوت الأصغر مثلاً إذا قلنا كلما كان هذا اللون سواداً و بياضاً كان سواداً و كلما كان سواداً لم يكن بياضاً بطلت الملازمة في الكبرى إذا ثبت الأصغر فإذاً لا يلزم من ذلك كلما كان هذا اللون سواداً و بياضاً لم يكن بياضاً و الحل أن الوسط إن وقع في الكبرى على الجهة التي بها يستلزم الأكبر لزمت النتيجة بته و إلا فلم يكن الوسط مشتركاً ففي هذا المثال السواد في الكبرى بالمعنى المضاد للبياض و في الصغرى بالمعنى المجامع له فلذلك لم تبق الملازمة مع الأصغر فالخلل إنما وقع بسبب عدم تكرار الوسط لا بسبب العارض التابع فإذاً الحد الأوسط في مثل هذا القياس إن أخذ على وجه يجوز أن يحمل أو يصدق عليه النقيضان و الضدان في كلتا المقدمتين كذبت الكبرى لا محالة و بطل لزوم النتيجة و إن أخذ في إحدى المقدمتين على وجه و في الأخرى على وجه آخر لم يتكرر الوسط و من هذا القبيل ما أورد الشيخ في الشفاء شكاً على الشكل الأول من اللزوميتين و هو أنه يصدق كلما كان الاثنان فرداً كان عدداً و كلما كان عدداً كان زوجاً مع كذب قولنا كلما كان الاثنان فرداً كان زوجاً و دفع بأن الكبرى إن أخذت اتفاقية لم ينتج القياس لأن شرط إنتاج الإيجاب أن يكون الأوسط مقدماً في اللزومية - و إن أخذت لزومية كانت ممنوعة الصدق و إنما تصدق لو لزم زوجية الاثنيين عدديته

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤٣

على جميع الأوضاع الممكنة الاجتماع مع العددية و ليس كذلك إذ من الأوضاع الممكنة الاقتران مع عددية الاثنين كونه فردا و الزوجية ليست ملازمة على هذا الوضع - و ربما يقال فيه ضعف فإننا نختار أن الكبرى لزومية و فردية الاثنين ليست ممكنة الاجتماع مع عدديته لكونها منافية للاثنينية فتكون منافية لذات الاثنين فزوجية الاثنين لازمة لعدديته على جميع الأوضاع الممكنة الاجتماع معها فتصدق لزومية و حق الدفع و الحل ما في الشفا - أن الصغرى كاذبة بحسب نفس الأمر لا بحسب الإلزام لأن بحسب الإلزام كما تصدق الصغرى تصدق النتيجة أيضا لأن من يرى أن الاثنين فرد فلا بد أن يلتزم أنه زوج أيضا و إلا لم يكن يلتزم أن الاثنين فرد بل غير الاثنين و لك أن تقول إن الدفيعين متشاركا المسلك في الإصابة و لا ضعف في الأول فإنه إن أريد أن بين عددية الاثنين و فرديته منافاة في نفس الأمر فهو حق و لا ضير إذ الأوضاع الممكنة الاقتران مع فرض المقدم ليس يجب أن لا يكون شيء منها منافيا له في نفس الأمر و إن أريد أن المنافاة تكون متحققة بحسب جميع الاعتبارات فهو ليس بحق فإن الملازمة بين فردية الاثنين و عدديته صارت متحققة بحسب وضع ما و تسليم ما - فإذن زوجية الاثنين ليست بلازمة لعدديته على جميع الأوضاع الممكنة الاقتران معها و لو بحسب الوضع و التسليم

فصل (٢١) في كون وجود الممكن زائدا على ماهيته عقلا

زيادة وجود الممكن على ماهيته ليس معناه المباينة بينهما بحسب الحقيقة - كيف و حقيقة كل شيء نحو وجود الخاص به و لا كونه عرضا قائما بها قيام الأعراض

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤٤

لموضوعاتها حتى يلزم للماهية سوى وجودها وجود آخر بل بمعنى كون الوجود الإمكانى لقصوره و فقره مشتملا على معنى آخر غير حقيقة الوجود منتزعا منه محمولا عليه منبعثا عن إمكانه و نقصه كالمشبهكات التي تتراءى من مراتب نقصانات الضوء و الظلال الحاصلة من تصورات النور و المشهور في كتب القوم من الدلائل على زيادة الوجود على الماهيات و جوه لا يفيد شيء منها إلا التغاير بين الوجود و الماهية بحسب المفهوم و المعنى دون الذات و الحقيقة. فمنها إفادة الحمل فإن حمل الوجود على الماهية مفيد و حمل الماهية و ذاتياتها عليها غير مفيد.

و منها الحاجة إلى الاستدلال فإن التصديق بثبوت الوجود للماهية قد يفتقر إلى كسب و نظر كوجود العقل مثلا بخلاف ثبوت الماهية و ذاتياتها لها لأنهما بينتا الثبوت لها - و منها صحة السلب إذ يصح سلب الوجود عن الماهية مثل العنقاء ليس بموجود و ليس يصح سلب الماهية و ذاتياتها عن نفسها.

و منها اتحاد المفهوم فإن الوجود معنى واحد و الإنسان و الفرس و الشجر مختلفة.

و منها الانفكاك في التعقل فإننا قد نتصور الماهية و لا نتصور كونها لا الخارجي و لا الذهني.

لا يقال التصور ليس إلا الكون الذهني - لأننا لا نسلم أن التصور هو الكون في الذهن و إن أسلم فبالدليل و إن سلم فتصور الشيء لا يستلزم تصور تصوره و عبارة الأكثرين أنا قد نتصور الماهية - و نشك في وجودها العيني و الذهني فيرد عليها الاعتراض بأنه لا يفيد المطلوب لأن حاصله أنا ندرك الماهية تصورا و لا ندرك الوجود تصديقا و هذا لا ينافي الاتحاد و لا يستلزم المغايرة بين الماهية و الوجود لعدم اتحاد الحد الأوسط في القياس.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤٥

فهذه الوجوه الخمسة بعد تمامها لا يدل إلا على أن المعقول من الوجود - غير المعقول من الماهية مع أن المطلوب عندهم تغايرهما بحسب الذات والحقيقة أو لا ترى أن صفات المبدأ الأعلى عند أهل الحق متغايرة بحسب المفهوم واحدة بحسب الذات والحيثية لأن حيثية الذات بعينها حيثية جميع صفاته الكمالية كما سيجيء إن شاء الله تعالى

فصل (٢٢) في إثبات أن وجود الممكن عين ماهيته خارجا و متحد بها نحواً من الاتحاد

لأنه حيث بينا أن الوجود بالمعنى الحقيقي لا الانتزاعي المصدرى العام من الأمور العينية فلو لم يكن الوجود الإمكانى متحدا بالماهية الممكنة اتحاد الأمر العيني مع المفهوم الاعتباري لكان نفس الماهية بحسب المفهوم أو جزء منها كذلك وقد تبين بطلانه اتفاقا وعقلا لإمكان تصورهما مع الغفلة عن وجودها - ولغير ذلك من الوجوه المذكورة أو زائدا عليها قائما بها في الأعيان قيام الصفة بالموصوف وقيام الشيء بالشيء و ثبوته له فرع قيام ذلك الشيء لا بما يقوم به و ثبوته في نفسه فيلزم تقدم الشيء على نفسه أو تكرر أنحاء وجود شيء واحد من حيثية واحدة - وكلاهما ممتنعان لأن ما لا كون له في نفسه لا يكون محلا لشيء آخر فكون الماهية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤٦

إما بالوجود العارض فيلزم تقدم الشيء على نفسه ضرورة تقدم وجود المعروض على وجود العارض وإما بوجود آخر فيلزم المحذور الثاني وينجر إلى التسلسل في المترتبات من الوجود المجتمعة وهذا التسلسل مع امتناعه بالبراهين واستلزامه لانهصار ما لا يتناهى بين حاصرين الوجود والماهية يستلزم المدعى وهو كون الوجود نفس الماهية في العين لأن قيام جميع الوجودات العارضة لها بحيث لا يشذ عنها وجود عارض يستلزم وجودا لها غير عارض وإلا لم يكن الجميع جميعا.

طريق آخر لو قام الوجود بالماهية فالماهية المعروضة إما معدومة فيتناقض - أو موجودة فيدور أو يتسلسل. والجواب بأن قيامه بالماهية من حيث هي لا بالماهية المعدومة ليلزم التناقض ولا بالماهية الموجودة ليلزم الدور أو التسلسل كما أن قيام البياض ليس بالجسم الأبيض ولا بالجسم اللاأبيض ليلزم إما التناقض وإما الدور أو التسلسل بل قيامه بالجسم من حيث هو غير نافع لأن الماهية من حيث هي مع قطع النظر عن الوجود والعدم ليس لها تحصل في الخارج إلا باعتبار وجودها لا سابقا عليه - فلا يجوز أن يثبت لها في الخارج شيء من هذه الجهة بل كل ما يعرضها من هذه الجهة يكون من لوازمها الانتزاعية التي لا وجود لها في العين - بخلاف الجسم من حيث هو أي مع قطع النظر عن البياض واللا بياض فإنه موجود في الخارج بهذه حيثية وجودا سابقا على وجود البياض ومقابلة و أيضا ثبوت البياض للجسم ليس فرع بياض الجسم بل فرع وجود الجسم وكذا ثبوت كل صفة بياضا أو غيره لكل موصوف جسما أو غيره يتفرع على ثبوت الموصوف في نفسه لا حصول تلك الصفة فلا يلزم توقف الشيء على نفسه ولا التسلسل بخلاف الوجود فإنه لو كان صفة للماهية لكان وجود الماهية متوقفا على وجودها فيتوقف الشيء على نفسه فقياس

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤٧

الوجود لو كان صفة زائدة لشيء على سائر الصفات مغالطة فالحق كما سبق أن زيادة الوجود على الماهية في التصور لا

في العين بأن يلاحظ العقل كلا منهما من غير ملاحظة الآخر و يعتبر الوجود متصلا و يلاحظ معنى له اختصاص ناعت للماهية لا بحسب الخارج كاتصاف الجسم بالبياض ليلزم تقدمها عليه بالوجود تقدما زمانيا أو ذاتيا فيلزم المحالات بل غاية الأمر أنه يلزم تقدمها عليه بالوجود العقلي و نلتزم ذلك لجواز أن يلاحظها العقل وحدها من غير ملاحظة وجود خارجي أو ذهني معها و ملاحظتها مع عدم ملاحظة شيء من الوجود معها وإن كانت نحوها من الوجود الذهني لكن لا يلاحظها العقل من حيث ذلك الوجود إذ لا يلاحظ ذلك الوجود وإن كان هو نفس تلك الملاحظة فإن عدم اعتبار الشيء غير اعتبار عدمه فللعقل أن يصف الماهية بالوجود المطلق في هذه الملاحظة لا بحسبها ثم إن اعتبر العقل وجودها الذهني لم يلزم تسلسل في الوجودات بل ينقطع بانقطاع الاعتبار و من الناس من منع لزوم تقدم المعروض على العارض بالوجود على الإطلاق قائلا إن ذلك في عوارض الوجود دون عوارض الماهية.

وهم وفهم:

و ما يقال إنا نتصور الماهية مع الذهول عن وجودها إنما هو بالنسبة إلى الوجود الخارجي إذ لو نذهل عن وجودها الذهني - لم يكن في الذهن شيء أصلا و لو سلم ذهولنا عن وجودها الذهني مع عدم الذهول عنها لا يلزم أيضا أنها تكون غير الوجود مطلقا لجواز أن تكون الماهية وجودا خاصا - يعرض لها الوجود في الذهن بوجه و هو كونها في الذهن كما يعرض لها في الخارج و هو كونها في الخارج فيحصل الذهول عن وجودها في الذهن و لا يحصل عنها و الوجود قد يعرض لنفسه باعتبار تعدده كالوجود لعرض العام اللازم للوجودات الخاصة و من هنا قيل إن الوجود هو الكون و الحصول فالحق كما ذهبنا إليه وفاقا للمحققين من أهل الله هو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤٨

أن الماهيات كلها وجودات خاصة و بقدر ظهور نور الوجود بكمالاته تظهر تلك الماهيات و لوازمها تارة في الذهن و أخرى في الخارج و قوة ذلك الظهور و ضعفه - بحسب القرب من الحق الأول و البعد عنه و قلة الوسائط و كثرتها و صفاء الاستعداد و كدرة فيظهر للبعض جميع الكمالات اللازمة للوجود بما هو وجود و للبعض دون ذلك و صور تلك الماهيات في أذهاننا هي ظلال تلك الصور الوجودية - الفائضة من الحق على سبيل الإبداع الأولى الحاصلة فينا بطريق الانعكاس من المبادي العالية أو بظهور نور الوجود فينا بقدر نصيبنا من تلك الحضرة و لذلك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤٩

صعب العلم بحقائق الأشياء على ما هي عليه إلا لمن تنور قلبه بنور الحق و ارتفع الحجاب بينه و بين الوجود المحض فإنه يدرك بالحق تلك الصور العلمية على ما هي عليه في أنفسها و مع ذلك بقدر إنيتته محتجب عن ذلك فغاية عرفان العارفين إقرارهم بالعجز و التقصير و علمهم برجوع الكل إليه و هو العليم الخبير

تفصيل مقال لتوضيح حال:

اختلف كلمة أرباب الأنظار و أصحاب الأفكار - في أن موجودية الأشياء بما ذا. فذهب بعض الأعلام من الكرام إلى أن موجودية كل شيء هو كونه متحدا مع مفهوم الموجود و هو عنده مفهوم بديهي بسيط يعبر عنه بالفارسية به هست - و ذهب أبو الحسن الأشعري إلى أن وجود كل شيء عين ذاته بمعنى أن المفهوم

من وجود الإنسان هو الحيوان الناطق و لفظ الوجود في العربية و مرادفاته في سائر اللغات مشترك بين معان لا تكاد تنحصر.

و جمهور المتكلمين على أن الوجود عرض قائم بالماهية في الواجب و الممكن جميعا قيام الأعراض.
و المشهور من مذهب الحكماء المشاءين أنه كذلك في الممكنات و في الواجب عين ذاته.
و توجيه مذهبهم كما سبق أن وجود الممكن زائد على ماهيته ذهنا بمعنى كون المفهوم من أحدهما غير المفهوم من الآخر ذهنا و نفس ذاته حقيقة و عينا بمعنى عدم تمايزهما بالهوية و وجود الواجب عين ذاته يعني أن حقيقته وجود خاص قائم بذاته من دون اعتبار معنى آخر فيه غير حيثية الوجود بلا اعتبار انتسابه إلى فاعل يوجده أو محل يقوم به و لو في العقل و هو عندهم مخالف لوجودات الممكنات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٥٠

بالحقيقة و إن كان مشاركا لها في كونه معروضا للوجود المطلق و يعبرون عنه بالوجود البحت و الوجود بشرط لا بمعنى أنه لا يقوم بالماهية كما في وجود الممكنات - و قالوا لو كان الواجب ذا ماهية فإما أن يكون الواجب هو المجموع فلزم تركبه و لو عقلا أو يكون أحدهما فلزم احتياجه ضرورة احتياج الماهية في تحققها إلى الوجود - و احتياج الوجود لعروضه إلى الماهية و لو عقلا.

و حين اعترض عليهم بأن الوجود الخاص أيضا يحتاج إلى الوجود المطلق - ضرورة امتناع تحقق الخاص بدون العام. أجابوا بأنه وجود خاص متحقق بنفسه لا بالفاعل قائم بذاته لا بالماهية - غني في التحقق عن الوجود المطلق و غيره من العوارض و الأسباب و وقوع الوجود المطلق عليها وقوع لازم وجود خارجي غير مقوم كما أن كون الشيء أخص من مطلق الماهية لا يوجب احتياجه إليها و كيف و المطلق اعتباري محض و الوجودات عندهم حقائق متخالفة متكثرة بأنفسها لا بمجرد عارض الإضافة إلى الماهيات لتكون متماثلة الحقيقة و لا بالفصول ليكون الوجود المطلق جنسا لها إلا أنه لما لم يكن لكل وجود اسم خاص كما في أقسام الشيء توهم أن تكثر الوجودات إنما هو بمجرد الإضافة - إلى الماهيات المعروضة لها و ليس كذلك.

و منهم من فرق فقال بالاختلاف بالحقيقة حيث يكون بينهما من الاختلاف ما بالتشكيك كوجود الواجب و وجود الممكن.

و زعمت جماعة من الآخرين أن الوجود أمر عام عقلي انتزاعي من المعقولات الثانية و هو ليس عينا لشيء من الموجودات حقيقة نعم مصداق حمله على الواجب ذاته بذاته و على غيره ذاته من حيث هو مجعول الغير فالمحمول في الجميع زائد بحسب الذهن و مبدأ انتزاع المحمول في الممكن ذاته من حيثية مكتسبة من الفاعل و في الواجب ذاته بذاته و إلى هذا المذهب مال صاحب الإشراق كما يظهر من كلامه و كتبه و خلاصة ما ذكر من احتجاجاته مع المشاءين في هذا الباب أنه لو وجد الوجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٥١

فإما بوجود زائد فيتسلسل أو بوجود هو نفسه فلا يكون إطلاق الموجود على الوجود - و على سائر الأشياء بمعنى واحد

لأن معناه في الوجود أنه الوجود وفي غيره أنه ذو الوجود وأنه على تقدير تحقق الوجود إما أن يكون جوهرًا فلا يقع صفة للأشياء - أو عرضًا فيتقوم المحل بدوره و التقوم بدون الوجود محال وأنه لو وجد الوجود للماهية فله نسبة إليها و للنسبة وجود و لوجود النسبة نسبة إلى النسبة و يتسلسل - وأنه لو وجد فأما قبل الماهية فيكون مستقلًا دونها لا صفة لها أو بعدها فهي قبل الوجود موجودة أو معها فهي موجودة معه لا به.

و قالت طائفة أن موجودة الواجب بكون ذاته تعالى وجودًا خاصًا حقيقيًا - و موجودة الممكنات بارتباطها بالوجود الحقيقي الذي هو الواجب بالذات فالوجود عندهم واحد شخصي و التكثر في الموجودات بواسطة تكثر الارتباطات لا بواسطة تكثر وجوداتها فإذا نسب الوجود الحقيقي إلى الإنسان مثلاً حصل موجود و إذا نسب إلى الفرس فموجود آخر و هكذا فمعنى قولنا الواجب موجود أنه وجود و معنى قولنا الإنسان أو الفرس موجود أن له نسبة إلى الواجب حتى إن قولنا وجود زيد و وجود عمرو بمنزلة قولنا إله زيد و إله عمرو فمفهوم الموجود أعم من الوجود القائم بذاته و من الأمور المنتسبة إليه نحوا من الانتساب لأن صدق المشتق لا ينافي قيام مبدأ الاشتقاق بذاته الذي مرجعه عدم قيامه بالغير و لا كون ما صدق عليه أمرًا منتسبًا إلى المبدأ لا معروضًا له بوجه من الوجوه كما في الحداد المأخوذ من الحديد - و التامر المأخوذ من التمر على أن أمر إطلاق أهل اللغة و أرباب اللسان لا عبرة به في تصحيح الحقائق و قالوا كون المشتق من المعقولات الثانية و المفهومات العامة و البديهيات الأولية لا يصادم كون المبدأ حقيقة متصلة متشخصة مجهولة الكنه و ثانوية المعقول و تأصله قد يختلف بالقياس إلى الأمور و نسبوا هذا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٥٢

المذهب إلى أذواق المتألهين من الحكماء و قد مر القدر فيه من قبلنا. و ما يفهم من أواخر كتاب التلويحات للشيخ الإلهي صاحب الأنوار هو أن وجود المجرد سواء كان واجبًا أو ممكنًا عقلاً أو نفسًا عين ذاته فالمجردات عنده وجودات محضة قائمة بذواتها بدليل لاح له أولاً على كون ماهية النفس الإنسانية هي الوجود ثم حكم به على تجرد وجود ما فوقها و اقتصر في بيان ذلك على قوله و إذا كان ذاتي على هذه البساطة فالعقول أولى و مراده أن العقول علل النفوس على ما سيجيء و هي أقرب في مرتبة المعلولية إلى الواجب لذاته و العلة لا بد و أن تكون أشرف من المعلول و أقوى تحصيلًا و قوامًا فما هو أقرب إلى الواجب فلا بد و أن يكون أفضل من الأبعد منه و أكمل و إذا كانت النفوس وجودات مجردة غير مركبة الذات من جنس و فصل إذ كل ما ماهيته نفس الوجود فهو بسيط الحقيقة لا تركيب فيه فما فوقها من العقول و ما هو فوق الجميع و وراء الكل أولى بذلك إذ كل كمال و شرف يمكن بالإمكان العامي للموجود بما هو موجود و لا يوجب تجسماً و لا تركيباً و لا نقصاً بوجه من الوجوه فإذا تحقق في المعلول فقد وجب تحققه في العلة - إذ المعلول رشح و فيض من العلة و حيث توجه عليه الإشكال في كون النفس وجودًا قائمًا بذاته من وجهين - أحدهما أن الوجود الواجب إنما كان واجبًا لكونه غير مقارن لماهية إذ لو كان مقارنًا للماهية لكان ممكنًا و إذا كان كذا فكل وجود لا يقارن ماهية فهو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٥٣

واجب فلو كانت النفوس ماهياتها القائمة بأنفسها هي عين الوجود لكانت واجبة و هو محال.

و ثانيهما أن الوجود من حيث هو وجود لو اقتضى الوجود لكان كل وجود واجبا بالذات.

و أجاب عن الأول بأن النفس وإن شاركت الواجب لذاته في كونه وجودا محضا لكن التفاوت حاصل بينهما من جهة الكمال و النقص و هو تفاوت عظيم جدا فإن الوجود الواجب لا يتصور ما هو أعلى منه في التمام و الكمال لأنه غير متناهي الشدة في قوة الوجود و وجود النفس ناقص إذ هو معلول له بعد وسائط كثيرة و مرتبة العلة في الكمال فوق مرتبة المعلول كما أن نور الشمس أشد من النور الشعاعي الذي هو معلوله و هذا تمثيل لمطلق كون المعلول أنقص من العلة و إلا فالتفاوت بين كمال الباري و كمال النفس لا يقاس إلى هذا و قد حقق روح الله رمسه في سالف القول - أن تفاوت الكمال و النقص لا يفتقر إلى مميز فصلي ليلزم من ذلك تركيب الواجب لذاته و إمكان النفوس هو نقص وجودها و كذا إمكان غيرها من المعلولات - و مراتب النقص متفاوتة تفاوتاً لا تكاد تنحصر و أما الوجود الواجب فوجوبه هو كمال وجوده الذي لا أتم منه بل و لا يجوز أن يساويه وجود آخر لاستحالة وجود واجبين.

فإن قيل الأشياء القائمة بأنفسها لا يجوز أن يكون بعضها أشد من بعض إذ لا أشد و لا أضعف فيما يقوم بنفسه.

قلنا إن دعواكم تحكم محض ليس لكم عليه حجة إلا عدم إطلاق أهل اللسان و هو مما لا عبرة به في تحقيق الحقائق.

و أجاب عن الثاني بطريقتين المنع و المعارضة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٥٤

أما الأول فهو أنا لا نسلم أنه كان واجبا لذاته بمجرد عدم مقارنته لماهية بل وجوبه لأنه وجود لا أتم منه و من لوازم كونه لا أتم منه أن لا يكون مقارنا لماهية فلو لا التفاوت فيما يقوم بنفسه بالتمامية و النقص لكان هذا السؤال متوجهاً - لكنه اندفع بالتام و الناقص و إنما يقع هذا موقعه في المتواطى لا المشكك.

و أما الثاني فبأن نقول لمن اعترف و هو جمهور المشاءين بتجرد الوجود عن الماهية في الواجب تعالى و مقارنته لها في الممكن أن مفهوم الوجود من حيث هو وجود إن اقتضى التجرد عن الماهية فيجب أن يكون كل وجود مجردا و هو بخلاف ما زعمتم في الممكنات و إن اقتضى اللاتجرد عنها فالوجود الواجب يجب أن لا يتجرد عنها و هو بخلاف ما اعترفتم به و إن لم يقتض شيئا منهما وجب أن يكون تجرد وجود الواجب لعله فيفتقر إلى غيره فلا يكون واجبا هذا خلف فإن لم يلزم هذا الإيراد هاهنا لم يلزم إيرادكم هناك و إن كان مدفوعا هناك بأن المفهوم المشترك - ليس مقولا بالتواطؤ بل بالتشكيك فقد دفع هنا أيضا.

بحث و تحصيل:

الفرق بين الموضعين واضح فإن الوجود المشترك عندهم ليس طبيعة نوعية و لا جنسا لأن الماهية و كذا جزؤها لا يمكن أن يقع عندهم على أشياء مختلفة بالتشكيك بل إنما يكون الواقع بالتشكيك عرضا خارجيا لازما يختلف ملزوماً بالحققة و الماهية و عند الشيخ حقيقة واحدة بسيطة نوعية فلهم أن يدفعوا السؤال عن أنفسهم بوجه آخر غير جهة التشكيك - و هو أن الوجود المشترك عرض لازم للوجودات الخاصة ليس ماهية و لا جزءا لشيء منها و اتحاد اللازم لا يوجب اتحاد الملزومات في الحقيقة كما أن النور معنى واحد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٥٥

مشترك واقع على الأنوار لا بالتساوي مع أن نور الشمس يقتضي إِبصار الأعشى - دون سائر الأنوار فيكون مخالفا لها في الحقيقة و كذلك الحرارة المشتركة بين الحرارة مع أن بعضها يوجب استعداد الحياة دون البواقي و ذلك لاختلاف ملزومات النور و الحرارة المتخالفة شدة و ضعفا المتباينة نوعا عندهم و إن اشترك في مفهوم واحد عرضي نعم الكلام في أصل قاعدتهم في أن الواقع على أشياء بالتشكيك إنما يكون عرضيا و ارد كما ذكره في كتبه و لما كان نسبة الوجود الانتزاعي إلى الوجودات الحقيقية كنسبة الإنسانية المصدورية إلى الإنسان و الحيوانية المصدورية إلى الحيوان حيث إن المأخوذ عنه و المنتزع منه نفس ذات الموضوع بلا حيثية أخرى غيرها - كان الوجود حقيقة واحدة لامتناع أخذ مفهوم واحد من نفس حقائق متباينة - و انتزاع معنى واحد من صرف ذواتها المتخالفة بلا جهة جامعة يكون جهة الاتحاد - و قد مر ذكر هذا الأصل في نفي تعدد الواجب لذاته على أن حقيقة الوجود ليست ماهية كلية و إن كانت متفقة السنخ و الأصل في جميع المراتب المتعينة لا بتعين زائد على نفسها و جوهرها بل بالامتنياز بينها بنفس ما يقع به الاشتراك فيها لا غير.

ثم إن الدائر على السنة طائفة من المتصوفة أن حقيقة الواجب هو الوجود المطلق تمسكا بأنه لا يجوز أن يكون عدما أو معدوما و هو ظاهر و لا ماهية موجودة بالوجود أو مع الوجود تعليلا أو تقييدا لما في ذلك من الاحتياج و التركيب فتعين أن يكون وجودا و ليس هو الوجود الخاص لأنه إن أخذ مع المطلق فمركب أو مجردا لمعروض فمحتاج ضرورة احتياج المقيد إلى المطلق و ضرورة أنه يلزم من ارتفاعه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٥٦

ارتفاع كل وجود و هذا القول منهم يؤدي في الحقيقة إلى أن وجود الواجب غير موجود و أن كل موجود حتى القاذورات واجب تعالى عما يقول الظالمون علوا كبيرا لأن الوجود المطلق مفهوم كلي من المعقولات الثانية التي لا تحقق لها في الخارج - و لا شك في تكثر الموجودات التي هي أفرادها و ما توهموا من احتياج الخاص إلى العام باطل بل الأمر بالعكس إذ العام لا يحقق له إلا في ضمن الخاص نعم إذا كان العام ذاتيا للخاص يفتقر هو إليه في تقومه في العقل دون العين و أما إذا كان عارضا فلا و أما قولهم يلزم من ارتفاعه ارتفاع كل وجود حتى الواجب فيمتنع عدمه و ما يمتنع عدمه فهو واجب فمغالطة منشؤها عدم الفرق بين ما بالذات و ما بالعرض - لأنه إنما يلزم الوجوب لو كان امتناع العدم لذاته و هو ممنوع بل ارتفاعه يستلزم ارتفاع بعض أفراد الذي هو الواجب كسائر لوازم الواجب مثل الشيئية و العلية و العالمية و غيرها فإن قيل بل يمتنع لذاته لامتناع اتصاف الشيء بنقيضه.

قلنا الممتنع اتصاف الشيء بنقيضه بمعنى حمله عليه بالمواطاة مثل الوجود عدم لا بالاشتقاق مثل قولنا الوجود معدوم كيف و قد اتفقت الحكماء على أن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٥٧

الوجود المطلق العام من المعقولات الثانية و الأمور الاعتبار التي لا تحقق لها في الأعيان.

فانظر ما أعجب حال الوجود من جهة الاختلافات العقلاء فيه بعد كونهم متفقين على أنه أظهر الأشياء و أعرفها عند العقل.

فمنها اختلافهم في أنه كلي أو جزئي فقليل جزئي حقيقي لا تعدد فيه أصلا- وإنما التعدد في الموجودات لأجل الإضافات إليه و الحق أن الموجود بما هو موجود كلي و الوجودات أفراد له و حصص لحقيقة الوجود باعتبار أن تشخصاتها لا يزيد على حقيقتها المشتركة بينها المتفاوتة الحصول بذاتها فيها و حقيقة الوجود ليست كلية و لا جزئية و لا عامة و لا خاصة و إن كانت مشتركة بين الموجودات و هذا عجيب لا يعرفه إلا الراسخون في العلم.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٥٨

و منها اختلافهم في أنه واجب أو ممكن فقد ذهب جمع كثير من المتأخرين - إلى أن مفهوم الوجود واجب و ذلك هو الضلال البعيد.

و منها اختلافهم في أنه عرض أو جوهر أو ليس بعرض و لا جوهر لكونهما من أقسام الموجود و الوجود ليس بموجود فقليل هذا هو الحق و في كلام الشيخ الرئيس و أتباعه ما يشعر في الظاهر بأنه عرض و هو بعيد جدا لأن العرض ما لا تقوم بنفسه - بل بمحلله المستغني عنه في تقومه و لا يتصور استغناء الشيء في تقومه و تحققه عن الوجود- و الحق عندي كما مر أن وجود الجوهر جوهر بنفس جوهرية ذلك الشيء و وجود العرض عرض كذلك لاتحاده معها في الواقع و إذا اعتبر حقيقته في نفسها فهو ليس بهذا الاعتبار مندرجا تحت شيء من المقولات إذ لا جنس له و لا فصل له لكونه بسيط الحقيقة و لا له ماهية كلية ليجتاج في وجودها إلى عوارض مشخصة فليس كليا و لا جزئيا بل الوجودات هي حقائق متشخصة بذواتها متفاوتة بنفس حقيقتها- مشتركة في مفهوم الموجودية العامة التي هي من الأمور الاعتبارية كما سبق القول إليه.

و منها اختلافهم في أنه موجود أو لا فقليل إنه موجود بوجود هو نفسه فلا يتسلسل و قيل بل اعتباري لا تحقق له في الأعيان و قيل ليس بموجود و لا معدوم- و الحق أن العام اعتباري و له أفراد حقيقية.

و منها اختلافهم في أن الوجودات الخاصة بنفس الماهيات أو زائدة عليها- و الحق أنه نفس الماهيات الممكنة في الواقع و غيرها بحسب بعض الاعتبارات في الذهن- و منها اختلافهم في أن لفظ الوجود مشترك بين مفهومات مختلفة أو متواط يقع على الموجودات بمعنى واحد لا تفاوت فيه أو مشكك يقع على الجميع بمعنى واحد هو مفهوم الكون لكن لا على السواء و هذا هو الحق.

و منها اختلافهم في أن الوجود سواء كان حقيقيا أو انتزاعيا معتبر في مفهوم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٥٩

الموجود و قيام المبدأ بالشيء حقيقة أو مجازا شرط في كونه موضوعا للحكم عليه بأنه موجود أم لا بل الموجود مفهوم بسيط من غير دخول المبدأ فيه و ليس للمبدأ تحقق لا عينا و لا ذهنيا و لا قيام بالموضوع لا حقيقة و لا مجازا بل موجودية كل شيء اتحاده مع مفهوم المشتق لا غير و الأول هو الحق الذي لا شبهة فيه

نقاوة عرشية:

قد تبين مما قرع سمعك أن حقيقة الوجود من حيث هو غير مقيد بالإطلاق و التقييد و الكلية و الجزئية و العموم و الخصوص و لا هو واحد بوحدة زائدة عليه و لا كثير و لا متشخص بتشخص زائد على ذاته كما سنزيدك انكشافا و لا

مبهم بل ليس له في ذاته إلا التحصل والفعلية والظهور وإنما تلحقه هذه المعاني الإمكانية والمفهومات الكلية والأوصاف الاعتبارية والنوع الذهنية بحسب مراتبه ومقاماته المنبه عليها بقوله تعالى رَفِيعُ الدَّرَجَاتِ فيصير مطلقاً ومقيداً وكلياً وجزئياً واحداً وكثيراً من غير حصول التغير في ذاته وحقيقته وليس بجوهر كالماهيات الجوهرية المحتاجة إلى الوجود الزائد ولوازمه وليس بعرض لأنه ليس موجوداً بمعنى أن له وجوداً زائداً فضلاً عن أن يكون في موضوع المستلزم لتقدم الشيء على نفسه وليس أمراً اعتبارياً كما يقوله الظالمون لتحققه في ذاته مع عدم الاعتبارين إياه فضلاً عن اعتبارهم وكون الحقيقة بشرط الشركة أمراً عقلياً وكون ما ينتزع عنها من الوجودية والكون المصدري شيئاً اعتبارياً لا يوجب أن تكون الحقيقة الوجودية بحسب ذاتها وعينها كذلك وهو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٦٠

أعم الأشياء بحسب شموله وانبساطه على الماهيات حتى يعرض لمفهوم العدم المطلق - والمضاف والقوة والاستعداد والفقر وأمثالها من المفهومات العدمية وبنور الوجود يتميز الأعدام بعضها عن بعض عند العقل حيث يحكم عليها بامتناع بعضها وإمكان الآخر إذ كل ما هو ممكن وجوده ممكن عدمه وغير ذلك من الأحكام والاعتبارات - وهو أظهر من كل شيء تحقّقاً وإنية حتى قيل فيه إنه بديهي وأخفى من جميع الأشياء حقيقة وكنها حتى قيل إنه اعتباري محض على أنه لا يتحقق شيء في العقل ولا في الخارج إلا به فهو المحيط بجميعها بذاته وبه قوام الأشياء لأن الوجود لو لم يكن - لم يكن شيء لا في العقل ولا في الخارج بل هو عينها وهو الذي يتجلى في مراتبه ويظهر بصورها وحقائقها في العلم والعين فيسمى بالماهية والأعيان الثابتة كما لوحنا به - وهي مع سائر الصفات الوجودية مستهلكة في عين الوجود فلا مغايرة إلا في اعتبار العقل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٦١

والصفات السلبية مع كونها عائدة إلى العدم أيضاً راجعة إلى الوجود من وجه والوجود لا يقبل الانقسام والتجزّي أصلاً خارجاً وعقلاً لبساطته فلا جنس له ولا فصل له فلا حد له كما علمت وهو الذي يلزمه جميع الكمالات وبه يقوم كل من الصفات فهو الحي العليم المريد القادر السميع البصير المتكلم بذاته لا بواسطة شيء آخر به يلحق الأشياء كمالاتها كلها بل هو الذي يظهر بتجليه وتحوّله في صور مختلفة بصور تلك الكمالات فيصير تابعاً للذوات لأنها أيضاً وجودات خاصة وكل تال من الوجودات الخاصة - مستهلك في وجود قاهر سابق عليه والكل مستهلكة في أحدية الوجود الحق الإلهي - مضمحلة في قهر الأول وجلاله وكبريائه كما سيأتي برهانه فهو الواجب الوجود الحق سبحانه وتعالى الثابت بذاته المثبت لغيره الموصوف بالأسماء الإلهية المنعوت بالنعوت الربانية المدعو بلسان الأنبياء والأولياء الهادي خلقه إلى ذاته أخبر بلسانهم أنه بهويته مع كل شيء لا بمداخلة ومزاولة وبحقيقته غير كل شيء لا بمزايلة وإيجاده للأشياء اختفاؤه فيها مع إظهاره إياها وإعدامه لها في القيامة الكبرى ظهوره بوحدته وقهره إياها بإزالة تعيناتها وسماتها وجعلها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٦٢

متلاشية كما قال لِمَنْ الْمُلْكُ الْيَوْمَ لِلَّهِ الْوَاحِدِ الْقَهَّارِ و كُلُّ شَيْءٍ هَالِكٌ إِلَّا وَجْهَهُ وفي الصغرى تحوله من عالم الشهادة إلى عالم الغيب فكما أن وجود التعينات الخلقية - إنما هو بالتجليات الإلهية في مراتب الكثرة كذلك زوالها بالتجليات الذاتية في مراتب الوحدة فالماهيات صور كمالاته و مظاهر أسمائه و صفاته ظهرت أولا في العلم ثم في العين و كثرة الأسماء و تعدد الصفات و تفصيلها غير قاذحة في وحدته الحقيقية و كمالاته السرمدية كما سيجيء بيانه إن شاء الله تعالى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٦٣

المنهج الثالث في الإشارة إلى نشأة أخرى للوجود غير هذا المشهود و ما ينوط به و فيه فصول

فصل (١) في إثبات الوجود الذهني و الظهور الظلي

قد اتفقت السنة الحكماء خلافا لشرذمة من الظاهريين على أن للأشياء سوى هذا النحو من الوجود الظاهر و الظهور المكشوف لكل واحد من الناس وجودا أو ظهورا آخر عبر عنه بالوجود الذهني مظهره بل مظهره المدارك العقلية و المشاعر الحسية.

تمهيد: إنا قبل أن نخوض في إقامة الحجج على هذا المقصود و الكلام عليها و فيها نمهد لك مقدمتين -

الأولى هي أن للممكنات كما علمت ماهية و وجودا

و ستعلم بالبرهان ما قد نبهناك عليه و كاد أن تكون من المدعين له إن أخذت الفطنة بيدك أن أثر الفاعل و ما يترتب عليه أولا و بالذات ليس إلا نحوا من أنحاء وجود الشيء لا ماهيته لاستغنائها عن الجعل و التحصيل و الفعل و التكميل لا لوجوبها و شدة فعليتها بل لفرط نقصانها - و بطونها و غاية ضعفها و كمونها و الوجود قد مرت الإشارة إلى أنه مما يتفاوت شدة و ضعفا و كمالا و نقصا و كلما كان الوجود أقوى و أكمل كانت الآثار المرتبة عليه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٦٤

أكثر إذ الوجود بذاته مبدأ للأثر فقد يكون لماهية واحدة و مفهوم واحد أنحاء من الوجود و الظهور و أطوار من الكون و الحصول بعضها أقوى من بعض و يترتب على بعضها من الآثار و الخواص ما لا يترتب على غيره فكما أن الجوهر معنى واحد و ماهية واحدة يوجد تارة مستقلا بنفسه مفارقا عن المادة متبرئا عن الكون و الفساد و التغير فعلا ثابتا كالعقول المفارقة على مراتبها و يوجد تارة أخرى مفتقرا إلى المادة مقترنا بها منفعلا عن غيره متحركا و ساكنا و كائنا و فاسدا كالصور النوعية على تفاوت طبقاتها في الضعف و الفقر فيوجد طورا آخر وجودا أضعف من ذينك الصنفين - حيث لا يكون فاعلا و لا منفعلا و لا ثابتا و لا متحركا و لا ساكنا كالصور التي يتوهمها الإنسان من حيث كونها كذلك.

و الثانية هي أن الله تعالى قد خلق النفس الإنسانية

بحيث يكون لها اقتدار - على إيجاد صور الأشياء المجردة و المادية لأنها من سنخ الملكوت و عالم القدرة و السطوة و الملكوتيون لهم اقتدار على إبداع الصور العقلية القائمة بذواتها و تكوين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٦٥

الصور الكونية القائمة بالمواد و كل صورة صادرة عن الفاعل فلها حصول له بل حصولها في نفسها نفس حصولها لفاعلها و ليس من شرط حصول شيء لشيء أن يكون حالاً فيه وصفاً له بل ربما يكون الشيء حاصلًا لشيء من دون قيامه به بنحو الحلول و الوصفية كما أن صور جميع الموجودات حاصلة للباري حصولاً أشد من حصولها لنفسها أو لفاعلها كما ستعلم في مباحث العلم و ليس قيامها به تعالى قياماً حلولياً ناعتياً- و كل صورة حاصلة لموجود مجرد عن المادة بأي نحو كان فهي مناط عالمية ذلك المجرد بها سواء كانت قائمة بذاته أو لا و مناط عالمية الشيء بالشيء حصول صورة ذلك الشيء له سواء كانت الصورة عين الشيء العالم فيكون حصولها حصوله كعلم النفس بذاتها- أو غيره فيكون حصولها إما فيه و ذلك إذا كان الشيء قابلاً لها و إما عنه و ذلك إذا كان فاعلاً لها فالحصول للشيء المجرد الذي هو عبارة عن العالمية أعم من حصول نفسه أو الحصول فيه أو الحصول له فللنفس الإنسانية في ذاتها عالم خاص بها من الجواهر و الأعراض المفارقة و المادية و الأفلاك المتحركة و الساكنة و العناصر و المركبات و سائر الحقائق يشاهدها بنفس حصولاتها لها لا بحصولات أخرى و إلا يتسلسل و ذلك لأن الباري تعالى خلاق الموجودات المبدعة و الكائنة و خلق النفس الإنسانية مثلاً لذاته و صفاته و أفعاله فإنه تعالى منزّه عن المثل لا عن المثل فخلق النفس مثلاً له ذاتاً و صفاتاً و أفعالا ليكون معرفتها مرعاة لمعرفته فجعل ذاتها مجردة عن الأكوان و الأحياء و الجهات و صيرها ذات قدرة و علم و إرادة و حياة و سمع و بصر و جعلها ذات مملكة شبيهة بمملكة باريها يخلق ما يشاء و يختار لما يريد إلا أنها و إن كانت من سنخ الملكوت و عالم القدرة و معدن العظمة و السطوة فهي ضعيفة الوجود و القوام

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٦٦

لكونها واقعة في مراتب النزول ذات وسائط بينها و بين باريها و كثرة الوسائط بين الشيء و ينبوع الوجود يوجب وهن قوته و ضعف وجوده فلهذا ما يترتب على النفس و يوجد عنها من الأفعال و الآثار الخاصة يكون في غاية ضعف الوجود بل وجود ما يوجد عنها بذاتها من الصور العقلية و الخيالية أطلال و أشباح للموجودات الخارجية الصادرة عن الباري تعالى و إن كانت الماهية محفوظة في الوجودين فلا يترتب عليه الآثار المرتبة عليه بحسب وجودها في الخارج اللهم إلا لبعض المتجربين عن جلباب البشرية من أصحاب المعارج فافهم لشدة اتصالهم بعالم القدس و محل الكرامة و كمال قوتهم يقدرّون على إيجاد أمور موجودة في الخارج مترتبة عليها الآثار و هذا الوجود للشيء الذي لا يترتب عليه الآثار و هو الصادر عن النفس بحسب هذا النحو من الظهور يسمى بالوجود الذهني و الظلي و ذلك الآخر المترتب عليه الآثار يسمى بالوجود الخارجي و العيني و يؤيد ذلك ما قاله الشيخ الجليل محي الدين العربي الأندلسي قدس سره في كتاب فصوص الحكم بالوهم يخلق كل إنسان في قوة خياله ما لا وجود له إلا فيها و هذا هو الأمر

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٦٧

العام لكل إنسان و العارف يخلق بالهمة ما يكون له وجود من خارج محل الهمة و لكن لا يزال الهمة تحفظه و لا يثودها حفظ ما خلقه فمتى طرأ على العارف غفلة عن حفظ ما خلق عدم ذلك المخلوق إلا أن يكون العارف قد ضبط جميع الحضرات و هو لا يغفل مطلقاً بل لا بد له من حضرة يشهدها فإذا خلق العارف بهمته ما خلق و له هذه الإحاطة ظهر

ذلك الخلق بصورته في كل حضرة و صارت الصور يحفظ بعضها بعضاً فإذا غفل العارف عن حضرة ما أو حضرات و هو شاهد حضرة ما من الحضرات حافظ لما فيها من صورة خلقه انحفطت جميع الصور بحفظ تلك الصورة الواحدة في الحضرة التي ما غفل عنها لأن الغفلة ما تعم قط لا في العموم و لا في الخصوص و قد أوضحت هاهنا سرا لم يزل أهل الله يغارون على مثل هذا أن يظهر قال و هذه مسألة أخبرت عنها أنه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤٨

ما سطر أحد في كتاب لا أنا و لا غيري إلا في هذا الكتاب فهي يتيمة الدهر و فريده - فإياك أن تغفل عنها فإن تلك الحضرة التي يبقى لك الحضور فيها مع الصور مثلها مثل الكتاب الذي قال تعالى فيه مَا فَرَطْنَا فِي الْكِتَابِ مِنْ شَيْءٍ فهو الجامع للواقع و غير الواقع و لا يعرف ما قلناه إلا من كان قرانا في نفسه فإن المتقي الله يجعل له فرقانا انتهى كلامه و لا شبهة في أنه مما يؤيد ما كنا بصده تأييدا عظيما و يعين إعانة قوية مع اشتماله على فوائد جملة ستقف على تحقيقها و تفصيلها في مباحث النفس إن شاء الله تعالى - فأتقن ما مهدنا لك كي ينفعك في مباحث الوجود الذهني و الإشكالات الواردة عليه

فصل (٢) في تقرير الحجج في إثباته و هي من طرق

الطريقة الأولى

أنا قد نتصور المعدوم الخارجي بل الممتنع كشريك الباري - و اجتماع النقيضين و الجوهر الفرد بحيث يتميز عند الذهن عن باقي المعدومات - و تميز المعدوم الصرف ممتنع ضرورة فله نحو من الوجود و إذ ليس في الخارج فرضا و بيانا فهو في الذهن.

و اعترض عليه بأنه لا يجوز أن يحصل العلم بالمعدوم لأن العلم كما مر عبارة عن الصور الحاصلة عن الشيء فصورة المعدوم إما أن تكون مطابقة له فيجب أن يكون للمعدوم و خصوصا الممتنع ذات خارجية تطابقها صورته الذهنية و المعدوم لا ذات له أو لا تكون مطابقة له فلا يحصل لنا العلم بالمعدوم إذ العلم عبارة عن صورة مطابقة للمعلوم. و أجيب عنه بأن المراد بحصول الصورة ليس أنه يحصل في الذهن شبح و مثال له محاكاة عن الأمر العيني مغاير له بالحقيقة بل المراد بالصورة الذهنية هو حقيقة المعلوم من حيث ظهورها الظلي الذي لا يترتب به عليها أثرها المقصود منها فالعلم بالمعدوم لا يكون إلا بأن يحصل في ذهننا مفهوم لا يكون ثابتا في الخارج فلا يجري

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٤٩

الترديد أن هذه الصورة مطابقة للمعدوم أو لا و لا يلزم شيء من المحذورين إذ المسمى بالصورة هو بعينه المعدوم في الخارج هذا على رأي المحققين و أما على قول من ذهب إلى أن الحاصل في الذهن شبح المعلوم لا حقيقته فيقال العلم بالشيء عبارة عن حصول شبح و مثال في الذهن فإن كان له مطابق فهو العلم بالموجود و إلا فهو العلم بالمعدوم فصورة المعدوم غير مطابقة له بالفعل إذ لا ذات له عينية و لا مطابق له إلا بحسب التقدير بمعنى أنه لو كان له وجود يطابقه هذه الصورة و العلم بالمعدوم عبارة عن حصول شبح لا يكون له مطابق بالفعل هكذا قيل و هو ليس بكاف في المقصود إذ لقاتل أن يقول هذا الجواب إنما يجري في المعدومات التي لها حقائق سوى كونها معدومة و أما إذا تصورنا

المعدوم المطلق بما هو معدوم مطلق فيلزم من قولكم المراد بالصورة الذهنية حقيقة المعلوم من حيث وجودها الذهني و ظهورها الظلي التناقض - إذ المعدوم بما هو معدوم لا يكون له وجود أصلا و الخفي بما هو خفي لا يكون له ظهور مطلقا و هذا بالحقيقة راجع إلى أشكال المجهول المطلق المشهور و سيايتك ما ينفك في دفعه إن شاء الله تعالى.

الطريقة الثانية

أنا نحكم على أشياء لا وجود لها في الخارج أصلا بأحكام ثبوتية صادقة و كذا نحكم على ما له وجود و لكن لا نقتصر في الحكم على ما وجد منه - بل نحكم حكما شاملا لجميع أفراد المحققة و المقدرة مثل قولنا كل عنقا طائر

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٧٠

و كل مثلث فإن زواياه الثلاث مساوية لقائمتين و صدق الحكم الإيجابي يستلزم وجود موضوعه كما تصدق به الغريزة الإنسانية و إذ لا يكفي في هذا الحكم الوجود العيني للموضوع علمنا أن له وجودا آخر هو الوجود الذهني هذا ما قرره. و فيه بحث من وجوه - الأول أنه لا شك أن أمثال هذه القضايا ليست فعلية خارجية حتى يكون معنى قولك كل عنقا طائر أن كل ما هو فرد للعنقا و لو بحسب التقدير فهو طائر بالفعل كيف و من ينكر الوجود الذهني ينكر صدق هذا الحكم و أمثاله بل هي قضايا حقيقية موضوعاتها مقدرة الوجود و معناها كل ما لو وجد و كان متصفا بعنوان كذا فهو بحيث لو وجد صدق عليه محمول كذا و الحكم بهذا النحو لا يقتضي إلا وجود الموضوع بحسب التقدير فجاز أن يكون هو الوجود الخارجي فلم يثبت وجود آخر أصلا.

الثاني لو تم هذا الكلام لزم منه وجود جميع الأفراد المقدرة الغير المتناهية - لأمثال هذه العنونات على التفصيل في ذهننا عند هذا الحكم فإنا إذا قلنا كل مثلث كذا يوجد في ذهننا جميع المثلثات المقدرة على التفصيل لأنه مما تقرر على مدارك المتأخرين أن الحكم في المحصورة على ذوات الأفراد فوجب لصدقها وجود الأفراد لا وجود العنوان و إن سلطنا مسلك التحقيق و قلنا إن المحكوم عليه في المحصورة هو العنوان لكن الفرق بينها و بين الطبيعية أن الحكم فيها على وجه يسري إلى الأفراد بخلاف الطبيعية فينحل الإشكال لكنه على هذا يجب الاقتصار على عقود ليس لموضوعاتها وجود عيني أصلا و إلا فلاحد أن يقول إن الطبائع موجودة بوجود الأفراد فإذا كان للموضوع فرد عيني يوجد العنوان بوجوده فالحكم عليه بذلك الاعتبار.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٧١

فإن قيل إنا لا نأخذ الموضوع في المحصورة على وجه مشخص جزئي حتى يكون الحكم في قولنا كل إنسان كذا على إنسان موجود بوجود جزئي مشخص بل نأخذه بحيث يقبل الاشتراك بين كثيرين فهو بهذا الاعتبار ليس موجودا في الخارج ضرورة.

قيل كما أن الموجود الخارجي مشخص لا يقبل الاشتراك كذلك الموجود الذهني له تعيين يمتنع فرض اشتراكه مع ذلك التعيين ضرورة أن الوجود لا يعرض المبهم من حيث هو مبهم غاية الأمر أن للعقل أن يلاحظ الوجود الذهني من حيث هو مع قطع النظر عن تعيينه فكما جاز أن يلاحظ الموجود الذهني المتعين بحسب الوجود الذهني من حيث هو فليجز ذلك في الوجود العيني لا بد لنفيه من دليل.

و الحق أن المأخوذ على وجه الاشتراك ليس تحققه إلا في العقل لكن مع عدم اعتبار تحققه فيه و سيجيء تحقيق ذلك عن قريب إن شاء الله تعالى.

الثالث أنا قد نتصور شخصا كان موجودا و نحكم عليه بحكم خارجي كما أنا نحكم على جسم قد فني أنه كان صلبا ثقيلًا متحركا فيلزم أن يكون صورته الذهنية و الشخص الخارجى واحدا بالعدد لأن هذه الأحكام إنما كانت للشخص الخارجى لكنه محال بالبدئية و التزم بعضهم في الجواب اتحادهما بالعدد قال إن الشخص الخارجى مع تشخصه الخارجى و تعينه العيني يوجد في الخيالات و هذا فاسد جدا فإن الذات الواحدة لا يكون لها إلا وجود واحد كيف و الوجود إما مساوق للتشخص أو متحد معه بل الجواب أن يقال إن المحمول الخارجى أيضا كالموضوع له صورة ذهنية مطابقة للأمر العيني متحد مع الموضوع الذهني لكن المنظور إليه في القضية الخارجية ليس حال الموضوع و المحمول بحسب وجودهما الذهني بل حكاية حالهما بحسب الخارج و لا حجر في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٧٢

كون الشيء الموجود في الذهن حكاية عن الأمر الخارجى المحكى عنه لأن المنظور إليه في الحكاية ليس حال الحكاية نفسها بل حال الشيء المحكى عنه على وجه يطابقها الحكاية

الطريقة الثالثة

أن لنا أن نأخذ من الأشخاص المختلفة بتعيناتها الشخصية - أو الفصلية المشتركة في نوع أو جنس معنى واحدا ينطبق على كل من الأشخاص بحيث جاز أن يقال على كل منها أنه هو ذلك المعنى المنتزع الكلي مثلا جاز لك أن تنتزع من أشخاص الإنسان المتفرقة المختلفة المتباينة معنى واحدا مشتركا فيه - و هو الإنسان المطلق الذي ينطبق على الصغير و الكبير و الحيوان العام المحمول على البغال و الحمير مجامعا لكل من تعييناتها مجردا في حد ذاته من عوارضها المادية و مقارناتها و هذا المعنى لا يوجد في الخارج واحدا و إلا لزم اتصاف أمر واحد بصفات متضادة و هي التعينات المتباينة و لوازمها المتنافية فوجوده إنما هو بشرط الكثرة - و نحن قد لاحظناه من حيث إنه معنى واحد فهو بهذا الاعتبار لا يوجد في الخارج فوجوده من هذه الجهة إنما هو في العقل.

فإن قلت قد تقرر عند المحققين من الحكماء أن الأجناس و الأنواع و بالجملة الحقائق المتأصلة دون الاعتباريات لها وجود في الأعيان فإنهم قد صرحوا بأن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٧٣

معروضات مفهوم الكلي و النوع و الجنس من الحقائق التي هي معقولات أولى بالقياس إلى تلك العوارض التي تسمى عندهم بالمعقولات الثانية أمور موجودة في الخارج - فيلزم على رأيهم أن يكون في الوجود إنسانية واحدة هي بعينها مقارنة للعوارض التي يقوم بها شخص زيد و شخص عمرو و غيرهما من أشخاص الناس و هي مع كل هذه العوارض غيرها مع العارض الآخر بالاعتبار و غير متغيرة بنفسها و إذا عدم شخص من تلك الأشخاص فقد فارقها الأعراض الخاصة بذلك الشخص فقط و أما غير تلك الإنسانية فهي باقية غير فاسدة و إنما يفسد مقارنتها لتلك الأعراض فقط فهي ذات واحدة مقترنة بعينها بأعراض كثيرة و تعيينات شتى تصير مع أعراض كل شخص إنسانية ذلك الشخص و كذا

الحال في حقيقة الحيوان بالقياس إلى القيود و الفصول المتباينة - فلا حاجة إلى القول بوجودها في نحو آخر من الوجود المسمى بالذهن.

قلنا هذا اشتباه وقع لبعض منشوء الغفلة عن رعاية الحثيات و الإهمال في جانب الاعتبارات فإن قولهم بوجود الطبائع النوعية و الجنسية ليس معناه أن النوع بما هو نوع أو الجنس بما هو جنس و بالجملة الكلي الطبيعي بما هو كلي طبيعي أو معروض الكلي من حيث كونه معروض الكلي و الكلية له تحقق في الخارج فإن هذا مما لا يتفوه به من له أدنى ارتياض بالفلسفة فضلا عن الحكماء الأكابر و قد بينوا في كتبهم و تعاليمهم أن الكلي بما هو كلي مما لا وجود له في الخارج و للشيخ الرئيس رسالة مفردة في هذا الباب شنع فيها كثيرا على رجل غريز المحاسن كثير السن قد صادفه بمدينة همدان قد توهم أن معنى وجود الأنواع و الأجناس في الأعيان هو أن يكون ذاتا واحدة بعينها مقارنة لكل واحد من الكثرة المحصلة المختلفة مطابقة لها مشتركا فيها أمر موجود فيها قائلا هل بلغ من عقل الإنسان أن يظن أن هذا موضع خلاف بين الحكماء و كان ذلك المرء لما سمع من القوم أنهم يقولون إن الأشخاص تشترك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٧٤

في حقيقة واحدة و معنى واحد موجود فتعذر عليه تحصيل غرضهم في استعمال لفظ الواحد في هذا الموضع فسبق إلى وهمهم أنهم ذهبوا إلى أن الحقيقة الواحدة و المعنى الكلي بصفة الوحدة و الكلية واقعة في الأعيان و هو فاسد نعم المعنى الواحد و المشترك - و الكلي و العام و النوع و الجنس إلى غير ذلك من اللواحق قد يوجد في الأعيان لكن لا بهذه الاعتبارات فحقيقة الإنسان مثلا من حيث هو إنسان موجودة في الأعيان منصبة بالوجود لا من حيث نوعيته و اشتراك الكثرة فيه بل من حيث طبيعته و ماهيته - و قد فرض العموم لاحقا بها في موطن يليق لحقوقه بها فيه و هو الذهن لا الخارج - و قد نص الشيخ في سائر كتبه أن الإنسانية الموجودة كثيرة بالعدد و ليس ذاتا واحدة - و كذلك الحيوانية لا كثرة يكون باعتبار إضافات مختلفة بل ذات الإنسانية المقارنة لخواص زيد هي غير ذات الإنسانية المقارنة لخواص عمرو فهما إنسانيتان إنسانية قارنت خواص زيد و إنسانية قارنت خواص عمرو لا غيرية باعتبار المقارنة حتى يكون حيوانية واحدة تقارن المتقابلات من الفصول.

فإن قلت كما أن الموجود الخارجي مشخص لا يقبل الاشتراك كذلك الموجود الذهني مشخص لا يقبل الاشتراك و لا ينطبق على كثيرين و المنطبق على كثيرين إنما هو الماهية من حيث هي هي و هي موجودة في الخارج أيضا فلا يتم الدليل.

قلت ليس المقصود أن الإنسان الموجود في الذهن مثلا ليس شخصا و ليس معه ما يمنعه عن الاشتراك بل المراد أن لنا أن نتصور معنى الإنسان المطابق لكثيرين و نحضره عند العقل كذلك و معلوم يقينا أن الإنسان المعلوم كذلك من حيث أنه معلوم كذلك ليس في الخارج و لا متشخصا بتشخص خارجي أصلا.

و من الاستبصارات في هذا الباب أنا نتصور الأمور الانتزاعية و الصفات المعدومة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٧٥

في الخارج و نحكم بها على الأشياء فلا محالة لها ثبوت فثبوتها إما في الخارج و هو محال لأنها أمور اعتبارية فهي

موجودة في الذهن و هو المطلوب.

و من العرشيات الواردة أن كل فاعل يفعل فعلا لغاية و حكمة لو لم يكن لما يترتب على فعله من الغاية و الغرض نحو من الثبوت لم يفعل ذلك الفاعل فعلا لأجله- و لو كان له تحقق في الخارج عيني لزم تحصيل الحاصل فلا بد و أن يكون له نحو من التقرر لا يترتب عليه آثاره المخصوصة به المطلوبة منه و هو المعنى بالوجود الذهني.

و مما ينبهك على ما نحن بصدده كون الأشياء الوهمية الغير الواقعة في الأعيان- سببا للتحريكات و التأثيرات الخارجية و إن لم يترتب عليها آثارها المخصوصة المطلوبة أ و لا ترى أن تخيلك لمشتهى لطيف كيف يحدث في بدنك شيئا و تخيلك للحموضة يوجب لك انفعالا و قشعريرة و لو لم يكن لصورة بيت تريد بناءه نحو من الثبوت لما كان سببا لتحريك أعضائك.

و قد حكى عن بعض حذاق الأطباء معالجة بعض الملوك حيث أصابه فالج لا ينجع فيه العلاج الجسماني دفعة بمجرد تدبيرات نفسانية و أمور تصورية باعثة لاشتعال الحرارة الغريزية حتى دفعت المادة.

و بعض النفوس قد يبلغ في القوة و الشرف إلى حيث يقوى تصورات و جودا و ظهورا حتى يقوم وجودها مقام الوجود العيني فيبرىء المريض و يمرض الأشرار- و يقلب عنصرا إلى عنصر آخر حتى يجعل غير النار نارا أو يحرك أجساما عجزت عن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٧٦

تحريكها نفوس أبناء النوع كل ذلك باهتزاز علوي و تأييد ملكوتي و طرب معنوي. فإن قلت إنهم صرحوا بأن للطبائع غايات في أفعالها الطبيعية فإن لزم أن يكون لتلك الغايات نحو من الوجود الغير العيني لزم أن يكون تلك الطبائع ذوات أذهان شاعرة بنتائج أفعالها و نهاية حركاتها مع كونها جرمانية. قلنا هذا الكلام مما أورده الخطيب الرازي على الفلاسفة رادا عليهم حيث ذهبوا إلى أن للطبائع العالية و السافلة غايات طبيعية و نهايات ذاتية و أن الغاية علة بماهيته لفاعلية الفاعل و استكمالها بما يستدعي التوصل إليه في فعله. و أجاب عنه الشارح المحقق لمقاصد كتاب الإشارات بالتزام أن لها شعورا بمقتضاها و غاية في أفعالها غاية ما في الباب أن يكون شعورها ضعيفا- و النظر في إناث النخل و ميلانها إلى صوب بعض ذكرائها و إن كان على خلاف ذلك الصوب مما يؤكد ذلك و كذا مشاهدة ميل عروض الأشجار إلى جانب الماء في الأنهار

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٧٧

و انحرافها في الصعود عن الجدار و إخراجها الأوراق الكثيرة بين الفواكه ليسترها عن صنوف الآفات و إحرازها لب الثمار في الوقايات الصائنة يهديك إلى ما ذكره و هاهنا لمعات نورية لا يناسب هذا المقام ذكرها عسى أن يأتي بها حين ما قدر الله إتيانه فيه بمنه و كرمه

فصل (٣) في ذكر شكوك اعتقادية و فيه فكوك اعتقادية عنها

قد تقرر عند المعلم الأول و متبعيه من المشاءين و الشيخين أبي نصر و أبي علي- و تلامذته و جمهور المتأخرين أن ظرف الوجود الذهني و الظهور الظلي للأشياء فينا إنما هو قوانا الإدراكية العقلية و الوهمية و الحسية فالكليات توجد في

النفس المجردة- و المعاني الجزئية في القوة الوهمية و الصور المادية في الحس و الخيال فوَقَّعت للناس في ذلك إشكالات ينبغي ذكرها و التفصي عنها.

الإشكال الأول:

أن الحقائق الجوهرية بناء على أن الجوهر ذاتي لها و قد تقرر عندهم انحفاظ الذاتيات في أنحاء الوجودات كما يسوق إليه أدلة الوجود الذهني يجب أن تكون جوهرًا أينما وجدت و غير حالة في موضوع- فكيف يجوز أن يكون الحقائق الجوهرية موجودة في الذهن أعراضًا قائمة به ثم إنكم قد جعلتم جميع الصور الذهنية كصفات فيلزم اندراج حقائق جميع المعقولات المتباينة بالنظر إلى ذاتها مع الكيف في الكيف.

و الجواب عنه على ما يستفاد من كتب الشيخ-

أن معنى الجوهر الذي صيروه جنسًا و جعلوه عنوانًا للحقائق الجوهرية ليس هو الموجود من حيث هو موجود- مسلوبًا عنه الموضوع لأن هذا المعنى لا يمكن أن يكون جنسًا لشيء و إلا لكان فصله الذي فرض مقسمًا له مقومًا له ضرورة أن الفصول المقسمة للجنس لا يحتاج إلى شيء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٧٨

منها الجنس في تقومه من حيث هو بل هي من الخواص العارضة للجنس كما أنه عرض عام لازم لها بل احتياجه إليها في أن يوجد و يحصل تحصيلًا وجوديًا لا تألفيًا- فكل فصل كالعلة المفيدة لوجود حصة من الجنس فإذا كانت ماهية الجنس هو الوجود بالفعل مع قيد عديمي هو سلب الموضوع لكان فصله المفروض محصل وجوده- مقوم معناه و ماهيته كما سبقت الإشارة إليه.

و بوجه آخر يلزم على فرض كون هذا المعنى جنسًا للجواهر انقلاب الماهية حين انعدام شيء من أفرادها. و بوجه آخر لزم تعدد الواجب لذاته فإن نفس الماهية لا يتعلق بها جعل و تأثير فلو كان الوجود عينها أو جزؤها يلزم الضرورة الأزلية فيها تعالى القيوم الواحد عن الشريك و النظير علوا كبيرا.

و أما الوجودات الإمكانية فحقائقها نفس العلاقات بفاعلها و ذاتها عين الاحتياج بمبدعها و فاطرها.

و كذلك قولنا الشيء الموجود بالفعل غير صالح لأن يكون عنوانًا للحقيقة الجنسية الجوهرية لازما لها و إلا لكان كل من علم شيئًا هو في نفسه جوهر علم أنه موجود بل معنى الجوهر الذي يصلح للجنسية هو ما يعبر عنه بأنه الشيء ذو الماهية- إذا صارت ماهيته موجودة في الخارج كان وجودها الخارجي لا في موضوع و هذا المعنى ثابت له سواء وجد في العقل أو في الأعيان و حلوله في العقل لا يبطل كونها- بحيث إذا تحققت في خارج العقل كانت غير حالة في المحل المتقوم بنفسه فالمعقول من الجوهر جوهر لأنه لا في موضوع بالمعنى المذكور.

و مما يؤكد ما ذكر أن حمل الجوهر بهذا المعنى على الأنواع و الأشخاص المندرجة تحته غير معلل بشيء خارج و أما حمل كونها موجودة بالفعل الذي هو بعض من مفهوم كونها موجودة بالفعل لا في موضوع فلا محالة بسبب و علة خارجة عن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٧٩

الماهية وإذا لم يكن حمل الموجود بالفعل على ما تحته من عوالي الأجناس والمقولات العشر إلا بسبب لا كحمل الذاتي الغير المعلل فلم يصير بإضافة معنى عدمي إليه وهو قولنا لا في موضوع جنسا لشيء منها وإلا لصار بإضافة معنى وجودي إليه وهو قولنا في موضوع جنسا للبواقي بل هذا أولى وهو خلاف ما تقرر عندهم هذا بيان مقصودهم في كون المعقول من الجوهر جوهرًا.

و هاهنا دقيقة أخرى سنشير إلى بيانها في تحقيق الحمل إن شاء الله تعالى حاصله أنه لا منافاة بين كون الشيء مفهوم القائم بنفسه و كونه مما يصدق عليه القائم بغيره - على قياس مفهوم العدم والاشياء واللاممكن و شريك الباري و الحرف و الوضع - و الحركة و ممتنع الوجود و اللاتناهي و نظائرها حيث يصدق على كل منها نقيضها بحسب المفهوم هذا.

فقد علم بما ذكروا أن مفهوم العرض أعم من مقولة الجوهر باعتبار الوجود الذهني فالجوهر الذهني جوهر بحسب ماهيته و عرض باعتبار وجوده في الذهن فلا منافاة بينهما إنما المنافاة بين المقولات التي هي ذاتيات للحقائق المتخالفة المندرجة تحتها.

و أما أن القوم قد عدوا الصور العلمية من باب الكيف و يلزم منه أن يكون صورة الجوهر في العقل جوهرًا و كيفًا فيندرج تحت مقولتين فقل إن هذا من باب المسامحة و تشبيه الأمور الذهنية بالأشياء الخارجية لأنه إن أريد بالكيف ماهية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٨٠

حقها في الوجود الخارجي أن يكون في موضوع و غير مقتضية للقسمة و النسبة فهو بهذا المعنى يصلح لأن يكون جنسا من عوالي الأجناس كما أن الجوهر بالمعنى المذكور له جنس عال فهما باعتبار هذين المعنيين متباينان لا يصدقان على شيء في شيء من الظروف و إن أريد منه عرض لا يكون بالفعل مقتضيا للقسمة و النسبة فهو بهذا المعنى عرض عام لجميع المقولات في الذهن فلا تمنع بهذا الاعتبار بينه و بين ماهية الجوهر و كذا بينه و بين ماهيات بواقي الأعراض على نحو ما مر في مفهوم العرض - فلا يلزم اندراج الصور العقلية تحت مقولتين هذا تقرير كلامهم على ما يناسب أسلوبهم و مرامهم و الحق ما سنذكر لك إن شاء الله تعالى.

و ليعلم هاهنا أن معنى قولهم إن كليات الجواهر جواهر ليس أن المعقول من الجوهر الذي يوصف بأنه في الذهن و له محل مستغن عنه أنه قد يزول عنه صور الجواهر العقلية و يعود إليه و يكون تلك الصور بحيث توجد تارة في الخارج لا في موضوع و تارة في الذهن في الموضوع كالمغناطيس الذي هو في الكف فإنه بحيث يجذب الحديد تارة كما إذا كان في خارج الكف و لا يجذبه أخرى كما إذا كان فيه - فإن هذه مغالطة من باب تضييع الحثيات و إهمال الاعتبارات و أخذ الكلي مكان الجزئي فإن الكلي الذي ذاته في العقل على رأيهم يستحيل وقوعها في الأعيان و استغناؤها عن الموضوع و المغناطيس الذي هو في الكف يجوز عليه الخروج و الجذب للحديد ثم الدخول و عدم الجذب مع بقاء هويته الشخصية و ليست الصور العقلية كذلك بل المراد بالكلي المذكور في كلامهم أن كلي الجوهر جوهر الماهية من حيث هي بلا قيد و شرط من الكلية و الجزئية و سائر المنضافات الذهنية و الخارجية إليها - و يقال لها الكلي الطبيعي أيضا كما يقال للماهية المعروضة للكلية الكلي العقلي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٨١

و الكلي بالمعنى الثاني لا يصلح للشخصية و الوجود في الخارج بخلاف المعنى الأول- فإنها لفرط إبهامها تصلح لكثير من القيود المتنافية كالوحدة و الكثرة و الحلول- و التجرد و المعقولية و المحسوسية فالمعقول من الجوهر و إن كان عرضا بحسب خصوص وجوده الذهني و كونه كلياً و لكنه جوهر عندهم بحسب ماهيته فإن ماهيته ماهية شأنها أن يكون وجودها في الأعيان لا في موضوع و أما التمثيل للجوهر العقلي بالمغناطيس حيث وقع في كلامهم فهو إنما كان باعتبار أن ماهيته تتصف بجذب الحديد مع قطع النظر عن نحو وجودها فإذا وجد مقارنا لكف الإنسان و لم يجذب الحديد أو وجد مقارنا لجسمية الحديد فجذبه لم يلزم أن يقال إنه مختلف الحقيقة في الكف و في خارج الكف مع الحديد بل هو في كل منهما بصفة واحدة- و هو أنه حجر من شأنه جذب الحديد و هذا القدر يكفي في المناسبة بين المثال و الممثل له فإن قلت قد صرح الشيخ في الهيئات الشفاء و غيرها بأن فصول الجواهر لا يجب أن يكون جواهر بحسب ماهياتها و إن صدق عليها مفهوم الجوهر صدق اللوازم العرضية حتى لا يلزم أن يكون لكل فصل فصل إلى غير النهاية فعلى ما ذكره من كونها لا تندرج تحت مقولة الجوهر يلزم أن تكون مندرجة تحت مقولة أخرى- من المقولات العرضية فيكون حقيقة واحدة جوهرًا و عرضًا في وجود واحد لا تحاد كل نوع مع فصله.

قلت لا يلزم من عدم اندراج فصول الأنواع الجوهرية تحت مقولة الجوهر لذاتها اندراجها تحت مقولة أخرى حتى يصدق عليها مفهوم العرض لكونه عرضا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٨٢

عاما لازما للمقولات العرضية إذ لا مانع بحسب العقل و النقل من عدم وقوع الحقائق البسيطة التي لا جنس لها و لا فصل تحت مقولة من المقولات أصلا نص عليه الشيخ في كتاب قاطيقورياس من الشفاء.

قال بعض أهل الكلام في دفع الإشكال المذكور

و هو كون شيء واحد جوهرًا و عرضا كلياً و جزئيا علما و معلوما أنا إذا تصورنا الأشياء يحصل عندنا أمران أحدهما موجود في الذهن و هو معلوم و كلي و هو غير حال في الذهن ناعتا له- بل حاصل فيه حصول الشيء في الزمان و المكان و ثانيهما موجود في الخارج و هو علم و جزئي و عرض قائم بالذهن من الكيفيات النفسانية فحينئذ لا إشكال فيه إنما الإشكال من جهة كون شيء واحد جوهرًا و عرضا أو علما و معلوما أو كلياً و جزئيا.

فنقول إن أراد أن هناك أمرين متغايرين بالاعتبار موافقا لما ذهب إليه الحكماء و المحققون فلا يفي إلا بدفع إشكال كون شيء واحد علما و معلوما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٨٣

و كونه كلياً و جزئيا و أما إشكال كونه جوهرًا و عرضا فبمجرد ما ذكره لا يخرج عنه الجواب و إن أراد أنهما اثنان متغايران بالذات فيرد عليه سوى كونه مخالفا للذوق و الوجدان و إحداث مذهب ثالث من غير دليل و برهان أنه قد تقرر عندهم و سنتلو عليك إن شاء الله تعالى أن كل صورة مجردة قائمة بذاتها فإنها علم و عالمة بذاتها و معلومة لذاتها و بنوا على ذلك إثبات علم الله تعالى بذاته و علم الملائكة الروحانيين بذواتهم فيلزم عليه أن يكون النفس

الإنسانية عند تصوّره المعقولات محصلة مكونة باختيارها لذوات مجردة عقلية علامة فعالة بناء على اعترافه بأنه يحصل عند تصوّرنا الأشياء أمر معقول غير قائم بالذهن ولا بأمر آخر غير الذهن كما هو الظاهر.

و كون النفس فعالة للجوهر العقلي المستقل الوجود وإن كان بمعنى الإعداد من المستبين فساده واستحالته كيف و النفس قابلة للمعقولات بالقوة وإنما يخرجها من القوة إلى الفعل ما هو عقل بالفعل فإذا أفادت النفس العقل فكانت إما علة مفيضة لها فكان ما بالقوة بحسب الذات مخرجا و محصلا لما بالفعل بالذات من القوة - هذا محال فاحش و إما علة قابلية لها فهو ينافي ما ذهب إليه لأن قابل الشيء يجب أن يكون محلا له و إن لم يكن شيئا منهما و ليست بغاية أيضا و هو ظاهر و لا هي صورة لها بل العكس أولى فلا علاقة لها مع المعقولات فكيف يكون منشأ لوجودها - على أن الحدوث و التجدد ينافي كون الشيء عقلا بالفعل كما تقرر عندهم و أيضا يلزم على هذا كون المعلوم كلياً و جزئياً باعتبار واحد أما كونه كلياً - فلكونه معقولا مجردا عن المشخصات الخارجية و أما كونه جزئياً فلضرورة كون المعلوم إذا كان حاصلا عند النفس حصولا استقلاليا من غير قيامه بها يكون متشخصا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٨٤

بنفسه إذ الوجود خارج الذهن يساوق التشخص كذلك و تحقيق المقام أن تشخص الماهية المتكثرة الأفراد إنما يكون بهيئات و لواحق خارجية فما لم يحصل الماهية حصولا آخر غير ما هو بحسب الواقع يكون في ذلك الحصول معرفة مقشرة - عن تلك الغواشي و اللبوسات بتعرية معر و تقشير مقشر لا يوصف بالكلية و الاشتراك بين كثيرين فلا بد أن يكون للماهية حصول للشيء المعرّى لها من المقارنات المانعة من العموم و الاشتراك إذ تعرية الشيء للشيء لا ينفك عن وجود ذلك الشيء له و لا بد أيضا أن يكون وجودها المعرّى عين جودها الحاصل لذلك الشيء أي الذي عراها عن الغواشي و إذا كان الوجود التجردى لماهية ما عين وجودها الارتباطي للذهن - الذي من شأنه انتزاع الصور عن المواد الجزئية و تجريدتها عن العوارض الهيولانية فلا محالة يكون وجودها له على نعت الحلول و القيام لا غير إذ معنى حلول الشيء في الشيء أن يكون وجود الحال في نفسه عين وجوده لذلك المحل فعلم مما ذكر أن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٨٧

الصورة الحاصلة في موادها من غير ارتباطها و قيامها بالنفس جزئية و محسوسة لا كلية و معقولة لعدم استخلاصها بعد عن الغواشي و اللبوسات المادية التي تمنع المدرك أن يصير معقولا للنفس و قد فرضنا أنها معقولة للنفس موجودة بوجود آخر غير وجودها الخارجي الذي يصحبها الأغشية و الأغشية الجسمانية المادية فتدبر ثم ليت شعري إذا كان المعلوم موجودا مجردا عن المادة قائما بذاته و النفس أيضا كذلك فما معنى كونه فيها و ما المرجح في كون أحدهما ظرفا و الآخر مظلوما.

و الظرفية بين شيئين مع مباينة أحدهما عن الآخر في الوجود إنما يتصور في المقادير و الأجرام.

نعم من استنار قلبه بنور الله و ذاق شيئا من علوم الملكوتيين يمكنه أن يذهب إلى ما ذهبنا إليه حسبما لوحناك إليه في صدر المبحث أن النفس بالقياس إلى مدركاتها الخيالية و الحسية أشبه بالفاعل المبدع منها بالمحل القابل و به يندفع كثير من الإشكالات الواردة على الوجود الذهني التي مبناها على أن النفس محل للمدركات و أن القيام بالشيء عبارة عن

الحلول فيه.

منها كون النفس هيولى الصور الجوهرية.

و منها صيرورة الجوهر عرضا و كيفا.

و منها اتصاف النفس بما هو منتف عنها كالحرارة و البرودة و الحركة و السكون - و الزوجية و الفردية و الفرسية و الحجرية إلى غير ذلك من العويصات المتعلقة بهذا المقام.

فإنه إذا ثبت و تحقق أن قيام تلك الصور الإدراكية بالنفس ليس بالحلول - بل بنحو آخر غيره لم يلزم محذور أصلا و لا حاجة إلى القول بأن ما هو قائم بالنفس غير ما هو حاصل لها و هذا في المحسوسات ظاهرة كانت أو باطنية.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٨٨

و أما حال النفس بالقياس إلى الصور العقلية من الأنواع المتأصلة فهي بمجرد إضافة إشراقية تحصل لها إلى ذوات عقلية نورية واقعة في عالم الإبداع نسبتها إلى أصنام أنواعها الجسمية كنسبة المعقولات التي ينتزعها الذهن عن المواد الشخصية - على ما هو المشهور إلى تلك الأشخاص بناء على قاعدة المثل الأفلاطونية و تلك الذوات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٨٩

العقلية و إن كانت قائمة بذواتها متشخصة بأنفسها لكن النفس لضعف إدراكها و كلالها في هذا العالم بواسطة تعلقها بالجسمانيات الكثيفة لا يتيسر لها مشاهدة تامة إياها - و تلق كامل لها بل مشاهدة ضعيفة و ملاحظة ناقصة كإبصارنا في هواء مغبر من بعد أو كإبصار إنسان ضعيف الباصرة شخصا فيحتمل عنده أن يكون زيدا أو عمرا أو بكرا أو خالدا أو يشك في كونه إنسانا أو شجرا أو حجرا فكذا يحتمل المثل النوري و الصورة العقلية عند النفس و بالقياس إلى إدراكاتها الكلية و الإبهام و العموم و الاشتراك و غيرها من الصفات التي هي من نتائج ضعف الوجود و وهن المعقولية - أعم من أن يكون ناشئا من قصور المدرك أو من فتور الإدراك فإن ضعف الإدراك و قلة النيل كما يكون تارة من جانب المدرك بأن يكون قوته الدراكة في نفسها ضعيفة كعقول الأطفال أو معوقة عن الإدراك التام لمانع خارجي كالنفوس المدبرة للأبدان المتعلقة بعالم الظلمات فكذلك قد يكون أيضا من جانب المدرك و ذلك يكون من جهتين إما من جهة قصوره و نقصه و خفاءه في نفسه و إما من جهة كماله و جلاله و غاية ظهوره و جلالة فالأول كما في الأمور الضعيفة كالزمان و العدد و الهیولی و نظائرها فلا محالة يكون تعلقها ضعيفا لاتحاد العقل و المعقول بحسب الحقيقة - و الثاني كما في الأشياء التي تكون رفيع السمك و بعيد الدرك فلا يحتملها النفس لغاية قوتها و ضعف النفس كالعقول الفعالة و ربما يغلب فرط جماله و جلاله على القوة المدركة و يجعلها مقهورة مبهورة من شدة نوريته و فرط قوته و استيلائه و قهره بحيث لا يمكنها إدراكه على التمام كما في إدراك العقل لواجب الوجود جل كبرياؤه.

و الحاصل أن النفس عند إدراكها للمعقولات الكلية تشاهد ذواتا عقلية مجردة لا بتجريد النفس إياها و انتزاعها معقولها من محسوسها كما هو عند جمهور الحكماء بل بانتقال لها من المحسوس إلى المتخيل ثم إلى المعقول و ارتحال من

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٩٠

الدنيا إلى الآخرة ثم إلى ما وراءهما و سفر من عالم الأجرام إلى عالم المثال ثم إلى عالم العقول و في قوله تعالى وَلَقَدْ عَلِمْتُمُ النَّشْأَةَ الْأُولَىٰ فَلَوْلَا تَذَكَّرُونَ إشارة إلى هذا المعنى فإن معرفة أمور الآخرة على الحقيقة في معرفة أمور الدنيا لأنها من جنس المضاف و أحد المتضايفين يعرف بالآخر و كأننا قد كدنا أن نخرج من أسلوب المباحثة - فلنعد إلى ما كنا فيه فنقول العلم لما كان مرجعه إلى نحو من الوجود و هو المجرد الحاصل للجوهر الدراك أو عنده كما سنحقق في موضعه و كل وجود جوهري أو عرضي يصحبه ماهية كلية يقال لها عند أهل الله العين الثابت و هي عندنا لا موجودة و لا معدومة في ذاتها و لا متصفة بشيء من صفات الوجود من العلية و المعلولية و التقدم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٩١

و التأخر و غيرها كما مر بيانه فكما أن الموجود في نفسه من المحسوسات و المعقولات إنما هي وجودات مادية أو مجردة و لها ماهيات متحدة معها موجودة بوجودها بالعرض فكذا الموجود الرابطي أي المعلوم للقوى الإدراكية و المشهود لها و الحاضر لديها إنما هي الوجودات الحسية أو العقلية أما الحسيات فباستيناف وجودها عن النفس الإنسانية و مثولها بين يديها في غير هذا العالم بواسطة مظهر لها كالجليدية و المرأة و الخيال و غيرها من غير حلولها فيه و أما العقليات فبارتقاء النفس إليها - و اتصالها بها من غير حلولها في النفس و تلك العقليات في ذاتها شخصية و باعتبار ماهياتها كلية صادقة على كثيرين من أشخاص أصنافها النوعية و حصول الماهيات و المفهومات العقلية و وقوعها مع أنحاء الوجودات حصول تبعي و وقوع عكسي - وقوع ما يترأى من الأمثلة في الأشياء الصيقلية الشبيهة بالوجود في الصفاء و البساطة و عدم الاختلاف من غير أن يحكم على تلك الأشباح بأنها في ذاتها جواهر أو أعراض - فكما أن ما يتخيل من صورة الإنسان في المرأة ليس إنسانا موجودا بالحقيقة بل وجوده شبح لوجود الإنسان متحقق بتحقيقه بالعرض فكذلك ما يقع في الذهن من مفهوم الحيوان و النبات و الحركة و الحرارة و غيرها هي مفهومات تلك الأشياء و معانيها - لا ذواتها و حقائقها و مفهوم كل شيء لا يلزم أن يكون فردا له و بالجملة يحصل للنفس الإنسانية حين موافاتها الموجودات الخارجية لأجل صقاتها و تجردها عن المواد - صور عقلية و خيالية و حسية كما يحصل في المرأة أشباح تلك الأشياء و خيالاتها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٩٢

و الفرق بين الحصولين أن الحصول في المرأة بضرب شبيه بالقبول و في النفس بضرب من الفعل. و لا تظن أن ما ذكرناه هو بعينه مذهب القائلين بالشبح و المثال إذ الفرق بين الطريقين أنهم زعموا أن الموجود من الإنسان مثلا في الخارج ماهيته و ذاته - و في الذهن شبحه و مثاله دون ماهيته و نحن نرى أن الماهية الإنسانية و عينه الثابتة محفوظة في كلا الموطنين لا حظ لها من الوجود بحسب نفسها في شيء من المشهدين على ما قررناه إلا أن لها نحوا من الاتحاد مع نحو من الوجود أو أنحاء كالإنسان مثلا - فإن مفهومه يتحد أما في الخارج فبنحو من الوجود يصدق عليه أنه جوهر قابل للأبعاد نام حساس مدرك للمعقولات و بنحو آخر يصدق عليه أنه جوهر مفارق عقلي مسمى بروح القدس على رأي أفلاطون و من سبقه و أما في الذهن فبنحو آخر يصدق عليه أنه عرض نفساني غير قابل للقسمة و النسبة حال أو ملكة

تحقيق وتفصيل:

اعلم أن حمل شيء على شيء واتحاده معه يتصور على وجهين - أحدهما الشائع الصناعي المسمى بالحمل المتعارف و هو عبارة عن مجرد اتحاد الموضوع و المحمول وجودا و يرجع إلى كون الموضوع من أفراد مفهوم المحمول سواء كان الحكم على نفس مفهوم الموضوع كما في القضية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٩٣

الطبيعية أو على أفرادها كما في القضايا المتعارفة من المحصورات أو غيرها و سواء كان المحكوم به ذاتيا للمحكوم عليه و يقال له الحمل بالذات أو عرضيا له و يقال له الحمل بالعرض و الجميع يسمى حملا عرضيا. و ثانيهما أن يعنى به أن الموضوع هو بعينه نفس ماهية المحمول و مفهومه - بعد أن يلحظ نحو من التغير أي هذا بعينه عنوان ماهية ذلك لا أن يقتصر على مجرد الاتحاد في الذات و الوجود و يسمى حملا ذاتيا أوليا إما ذاتيا لكونه لا يجري و لا يصدق إلا في الذاتيات و إما أوليا لكونه أولي الصدق أو الكذب فكثيرا ما يصدق و يكذب محمول واحد على موضوع واحد بل مفهوم واحد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٩٤

على نفسه بحسب اختلاف هذين الحملين كالجزئي و اللامفهوم و اللاممكن بالإمكان العام و اللاموجود بالوجود المطلق و عدم العدم و الحرف و شريك الباري و النقيضين و لذلك اعتبرت في التناقض وحدة أخرى سوى الشروط الثمانية المشهورة و تلك هي وحدة الحمل فالجزئي مثلا جزئي بالحمل الذاتي ليس بجزئي بل كلي بالحمل المتعارف و مفهوم الحرف حرف بالأول اسم بالثاني. فإذا تمهدت هذه المقدمة فنقول إن الطبائع الكلية العقلية من حيث كليتها و معقوليتها لا تدخل تحت مقولة من المقولات و من حيث وجودها في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٩٥

النفس أي وجود حالة أو ملكة في النفس يصير مظهرا أو مصدرا لها تحت مقولة كيف فإن سألت عنا ليس الجوهر مأخوذا في طبائع أنواعه و أجناسه و كذا الكم و النسبة في طبائع أفرادهما كما يقال الإنسان جوهر قابل للأبعاد حساس ناطق - و الزمان كم متصل غير قار و السطح كم متصل قار منقسم في الجهتين فقط نجيبك يا أخا الحقيقة بأن مجرد كون الجوهر مأخوذا في تحديد الإنسان لا يوجب أن يصير هذا المجموع الذي هو حد الإنسان فردا للجوهر مندرجا تحته كما أن كون مفهوم الجزئي و حده و هو ما يمتنع فرض صدقه على كثيرين عين نفسه لا يوجب كونه جزئيا و كون حد الشيء عين محدوده و إن كان صحيحا لكن لا يستدعي كون الحد فردا للمحدود و كذا كون مفهوم الجوهر عين نفسه لا يصيره من جزئيات الجوهر و أنواعه و كذا باقي المقولات و إنما يلزم لو ترتب عليه أنه يكون نفس مفهوم الجوهر مثلا من حيث هو بشرط الكلية إذا وجد في الخارج كان لا في موضوع - و هذا المفهوم بشرط الكلية يمتنع وجوده في الخارج إذ كل موجود خارجي مشخص - و كذا نقول في أكثر الحدود و المفهومات فإن حد الحيوان و هو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٩٦

النامي الحساس لا يصدق عليه هذا المفهوم بالحمل الشائع وإن حملة عليه حملا أوليا فإن قلت إذا لم يكن الطبائع النوعية مندرجة تحت المقولات بذواتها في أي نحو كان من الوجود لم يكن المقولة ذاتية لها وصادقة عليها على أي وجه أخذت - ولم يكن الأشخاص أيضا مندرجة تحت تلك المقولات على هذا الوجه إذ حقيقة الشيء ليس إلا الماهية النوعية له - قلت كون موجود مندرجا تحت مقولة يستتبع أمرين أحدهما أن يكون مفهوم تلك المقولة مأخوذا في حقيقته كما يقال السطح كم متصل قار منقسم في جهتين فقط فإنه اعتبر فيه هذه المفهومات اعتبار أجزاء الحد في الحد. و ثانيهما أن يترتب عليه أثره بأن يكون باعتبار كميته قابلا للانقسام والمساواة وباعتبار اتصاله ذا أجزاء مفروضة مشتركة في الحدود وباعتبار قراره ذا أجزاء مجتمعة في الوجود.

إذا تمهد هذا فاعلم أن الطبائع النوعية إذا وجدت في الخارج و تشخصت بالتشخصات الخارجية يترتب عليها آثار ذاتياتها لكون شرط ترتب الآثار هو الوجود العيني وإذا وجدت في الذهن من حيث طبيعتها و تشخصت بالتشخصات الظلية - يكون تلك الطبائع حاملة لمفهومات الذاتيات من غير أن يترتب عليها آثارها إذ الآثار للموجود لا للمفهوم مثلا الحاصل من السطح في الذهن متضمن لمعنى الكم - لكن ليس بحيث يترتب فيه آثار الكمية أي ليس الحاصل في الذهن من حيث إنه - موجود ذهني و قائم به قابلا للانقسام إلى الأجزاء لذاته بل هو معنى بسيط مجرد - بحيث إذا وجد في الخارج يترتب عليه آثار الكمية لذاته و مثل ذلك الحاصل من مفهوم الإنسان هو معنى الحيوان الناطق مجملا لكن ليس حيوانا يترتب عليه آثار الحيوانية من الأبعاد بالفعل و التحيز و النمو و الحس و الحركة في الذهن بل يتضمن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٩٧

لمعنى الحيوان المجرد عن العمل المعزول عن الآثار و الأفعال و كذا حال الناطق. فإن قلت ما حسبه من آثار الذاتيات منفكة عن الأنواع في الذهن هي نفس الذاتيات فإن معنى الكم ليس إلا نفس المنقسم بالذات فكيف يكون الحاصل في الذهن كما و لا يكون قابلا للانقسام لأنه معنى عقلي مجرد بسيط و إذا كان منقسما بالذات فلا يكون كيفاً.

قلت بل هو باعتبار أخذ مفهوم الكم فيه و أدلة الوجود الذهني بعد تمامها - لا يستدعي إلا حصول نفس ماهيات الأشياء في الذهن لا أفرادها و أنحاء وجوداتها - و قد أقمنا نحن البرهان على امتناع انتقال أنحاء الوجودات و التشخصات من موطن إلى موطن و ناهيك من ذلك تعريف العلم بالصورة الحاصلة عن الشيء.

و بالجملة حمل مفهوم الكم على هذه الأنواع كحمل مفهومه على نفسه بمعنى كونه مأخوذا في حدها كأخذ الشيء فيما هو ذاتيه أو ذاته فكما أن مفهوم الكم باعتبار - لا يصير فردا لنفسه و لا يصير منقسما لذاته كذلك الأنواع الحاصلة منه في العقل.

فبجملة ما قررناه ظهر لك أن شيئا من المعقولات الذهنية من حيث ماهياتها - ليست مندرجة تحت مقولة من المقولات بمعنى كونها أفرادا لها بل المقولات إما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٩٨

عينها أو مأخوذ فيها وإما من حيث كونها صفات موجودة للذهن ناعته له من مقولة الكيف بالعرض لا أن الكيف ذاتي لها وأصل الإشكال وقوامه على أن جميع المقولات ذاتيات لجميع الأفراد بجميع الاعتبارات وهو مما لم يقم عليه برهان - وما حكم بعمومه وجدان وهو الذي جعل الأفهام صرعى وصير الأعلام حيارى - حيث أنكر قوم الوجود الذهني وجوز بعضهم انقلاب الماهية وزعم بعضهم أن إطلاق الكيف على العلم من باب التشبيه والمسامحة فاختار كل مذهبا وطريقة ولم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٢٩٩

يهتدوا إلى حله سبيلا ولم يأتوا بشيء يضمن ولا يغني قليلا

الإشكال الثاني أنا نتصور جبلا شاهقة وصحارى واسعة مع أشجارها وأنهارها وتلالها وهادها

و نتصور الفلك والكواكب العظيمة المقدار على الوجه الجزئي المانع عن الاشتراك فوجب على ما ذهبوا إليه أن يحصل تلك الأمور - في القوة الخيالية التي ليست جسما ولا متقدرة بل كيفية وقوة عرضت لبخار حاصل في حشو الرأس و كذا إذا نتصور زيدا مع أشخاص أخرى إنسانية يحصل في تلك الكيفية المسماة بالقوة الخيالية أناس مدركون متحركون متعقلون موصوفون بصفات آدميين مشتغلون في تلك القوة بحرفهم وصنائعهم وهو مما يجزم العقل ببطلانه - وكذا لو كان محل هذه الأشياء الروح التي في مقدم الدماغ فإنه شيء قليل المقدار والحجم - وانطباع العظيم في الصغير مما لا يخفى ببطلانه ولا يكفي الاعتذار بأن كليهما يقبلان التقسيم إلى غير النهاية فإن الكف لا يسع الجبل وإن كان كل منهما يقبل التقسيم لا إلى نهاية.

و الجواب

أن هذا إنما يرد نقضا على القائلين بوجود الأشباح الجسمية - والأمثلة الجرمانية في القوة الخيالية أو الحسية ولم يبرهنوا ذلك بدليل شاف وبرهان واف كما لا يذهب على متتبع أقوالهم وليس لهذه القوى إلا كونها مظاهر معدة لمشاهدة النفس تلك الصور والأشباح في عالم المثال الأعظم كما هو رأي شيخ الإشراق تبعا للأقدمين من حكماء الفرس والرواقيين أو أسبابا وآلات للنفس بها يفعل تلك الأفعال والآثار في عالم مثالها الأصغر كما ذهبنا إليه والحاصل أنه لا يرد ذلك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٠٠

نقضا على من أثبت وجودا آخر للمدركات الحسية سوى هذا الوجود العيني في عالم المواد الجسماني. وبالجملة فإنما يثبت بأدلة الوجود العلمي للأشياء الصورية وجود عالم آخر - وأن لهذه الصور والأشباح وجودا آخر سوى ما يظهر على الحواس الظاهرة وبذلك الوجود ينكشف ويظهر عند القوى الباطنية بل ربما يشاهدها النفس المجردة المنزهة عن مقارنة شيء من هذين الوجودين المستعلية عن مخالطة هذين العالمين بمعونة القوى الباطنية كما يشاهد هذه الأشباح بمعونة القوى الظاهرة وبالجملة يستدل النفس المجردة بإدراك القوى الظاهرة على وجود هذا

العالم و بإدراك القوى الباطنة على ثبوت عالم آخر شبحي مقداري كما يستدل بإدراك ذاتها و الحقائق العقلية على وجود عالم عقلي خارج عن القسامين عال على الإقليمين لأننا ندرك ما شاهدناه مرة من أشخاص هذا العالم بعد انعدامه على الوجه الذي شاهدناه أولا من المقدار و الشكل و الوضع به ينتصب عند المدرك و به يتمثل بين يديه بخصوصه - وله وجود البتة و ليس في هذا العالم بالفرض فوجوده في عالم آخر فذهب أفلاطون و القدماء من الحكماء الكبار و أهل الذوق و الكشف من المتألهين إلى أن موجودات ذلك العالم قائمة لا في مكان و لا في جهة بل هو واسطة بين عالم العقل و عالم الحس - إذ الموجودات العقلية مجردة عن المادة و توابعها من الأين و الشكل و الكم و اللون و الضوء و أمثالها بالكلية و الموجودات الحسنة مغمورة في تلك الأعراض و أما الأشباح المثالية الثابتة في هذا العالم فلها نحو تجرد حيث لا يدخل في جهة و لا يحويها مكان و نحو تجسم حيث لها مقادير و أشكال.

و خلاصة ما ذكره الشيخ المتأله شهاب الدين السهروردي في حكمة الإشراق - لإثبات هذا المطلب أن الإبصار ليس بانطباع صورة المرئي في العين على ما هو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٠١

رأي المعلم الأول و لا بخروج الشعاع من العين إلى المرئي كما هو مذهب الرياضيين فليس الإبصار إلا بمقابلة المستنير للعين السليمة لا غير إذ بها يحصل للنفس علم إشراقي حضوري على المرئي فيراه و كذلك صورة المرأة ليست في البصر لامتناع انطباع العظيم في الصغير و ليست هي صورتك أو صورة ما رأيته بعينها كما ظن لأنه بطل كون الإبصار بالشعاع فصلا عن كونه بانعكاسه و إذ تبين أن الصورة ليست في المرأة و لا في جسم من الأجسام و نسبة الجليدية إلى المبصرات كنسبة المرأة إلى الصور الظاهرة منها - فكما أن صورة المرأة ليست فيها كذلك الصورة التي تدرك النفس بواسطتها ليست في الجليدية بل تحدث عند المقابلة و ارتفاع الموانع من النفس إشراق حضوري على ذلك الشيء المستنير فإن كان له هوية في الخارج فيراه و إن كان شبحا محضا - فيحتاج إلى مظهر آخر كالمرأة فإذا وقعت الجليدية في مقابلة المرأة التي ظهر فيها صور الأشياء المقابلة وقع من النفس أيضا إشراق حضوري فرأت تلك الأشياء - بواسطة مرآة الجليدية و المرأة الخارجية لكن عند الشرائط و ارتفاع الموانع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٠٢

و بمثل ما امتنع به انطباع الصورة في العين يمتنع انطباعها في موضع من الدماغ فإذا الصور الخيالية لا تكون موجودة في الأذهان لامتناع انطباع الكبير في الصغير و لا في الأعيان و إلا ليراها كل سليم الحس و ليست عدما و إلا لما كانت متصورة و لا متميزة و لا محكوما عليها بالأحكام المختلفة الثبوتية و إذ هي موجودة و ليست في الأذهان و لا في الأعيان و لا في عالم العقول لكونها صورا جسمانية لا عقلية - فبالضرورة يكون في صقع آخر و هو عالم المثال المسمى بالخيال المنفصل لكونه غير مادي تشبيها بالخيال المتصل و هو الذي ذهب إلى وجوده الحكماء الأقدمون - كأفلاطون و سقراط و فيثاغورس و أنباذقلس و غيرهم من المتألهين و جميع السلاك من الأمم المختلفة فإنهم قالوا العالم عالمان عالم العقل المنقسم إلى عالم الربوبية و إلى عالم العقول و النفوس و عالم الصور المنقسم إلى الصور الحسية و إلى الصور الشبحية و من هاهنا يعلم أن الصور الشبحية ليست مثل أفلاطون لأن هؤلاء العظماء من أكابر الحكماء كما

يقولون بهذه الصور يقولون بالمثل الأفلاطونية- وهي نورية عظيمة ثابتة في عالم الأنوار العقلية وهذه مثل معلقة في عالم الأشباح المجردة بعضها ظلمانية هي جهنم عذاب الأشقياء وبعضها مستنيرة هي جنات يتنعم بها السعداء من المتوسطين وأصحاب اليمين وأما السابقون المقربون فهم يرتقون إلى الدرجة العليا ويرتعون في رياض القدس عند الأنوار الإلهية والمثل الربانية

نقد عرشي:

اعلم أنا ممن يؤمن بوجود العالم المقداري الغير المادي كما ذهب إليه أساطين الحكمة وأئمة الكشف حسبما حرره وقرره صاحب الإشراف أتم تحرير و تقرير إلا أنا نخالف معه في شيئين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٠٣

أحدهما أن الصور المتخيلة عندنا موجودة كما أومأنا إليه في صقع من النفس بمجرد تأثيرها و تصويرها باستخدام الخيال لا في عالم خارج عنها بتأثير مؤثر غيرها كما يفهم من كلامه لظهور أن تصرفات المتخيلة و دعاباتها الجزافية- و ما يعبث به من الصور و الأشكال القبيحة المخالفة لفعل الحكيم ليس إلا في العالم الصغير النفساني لأجل شيطنة القوة المتخيلة و أن هذه الصور الخيالية باقية ببقاء توجه النفس و التفاتها إليها و استخدامها المتخيلة في تصويرها و تشبيتها فإذا أعرض عنها النفس انعدمت و زالت لا أنها مستمرة الوجود باقية لا بإبقاء النفس و حفظها إياها كما زعمه و الفرق بين الذهول و النسيان أن للنفس في الأول ملكة الاقتدار على تصوير الصور الخيالية من غير افتقار إلى إحساس جديد أو غيره بخلاف الثاني فإن فيه يحتاج إلى ذلك أو ما هو بمنزلته كالعلامات الدالة.

و الثاني أن الصور المرآتية عنده موجودة في عالم المثل و عندنا ظلال للصور المحسوسة بمعنى أنها ثابتة في هذا العالم ثبوتا ظليا أي ثبوتا بالعرض لا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٠٤

بالذات و كذا ثانية ما يراه الأحوال من الصور و ثانية الصوت الذي يقال له الصدى- كل ذلك عكوس و ظلال ثابتة بالعرض تبعا للصور المحسوسة الخارجية كما أن ما سوى أنحاء الوجودات أعيان ثابتة بالعرض تبعا للوجودات و ظلال و عكوس حاكية لها- و حكاية الشيء ليست حقيقة ذلك الشيء كما في النظم لبعض العرفاء

همه عالم صداى نغمه اوست كه شنيد اين چنين صداى دراز

الإشكال الثالث أنه لو كان للأشياء وجود في الذهن

على ما قررتم يلزم أن يكون لكل نوع من الأنواع الجسمانية و الأنواع العرضية فرد شخصي مجرد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٠٥

عن المادة و لواحقها من المقدار و الأين و الوضع و أشباهها يكون ذلك الأمر المشخص كليا و نوعا.

بيان ذلك أن كل مفهوم كلي تعقلنا فعلى ما قررتم يوجد ذلك المفهوم في الذهن فإما أن يوجد فيه من غير أن يتشخص

بل يبقى على صرافة إبهامه أو يصير متشخصا لا سبيل إلى الأول لأن الوجود لا ينفك عن التشخص و وجود المبهم مبهما غير معقول و على الثاني يلزم أن يحصل في ذهننا عند تعقل الإنسان إنسان مشخص مجرد عن الكم و الكيف و سائر العوارض المادية إذ لو قارنها لم يجز أن يحصل في العقل المجرد على ما تقرر عندهم من امتناع حصول الجسماني في المجرد - لكن التالي باطل بديهية و اتفاقا فالمقدم كذلك.

و الجواب عنه في المشهور

أن الموجود في الذهن و إن كان أمرا شخصيا - إلا أنه عرض و كيفية قائمة بالذهن و ليس فردا من حقيقة ذلك الجوهر المأخوذ منه هذا الفرد نعم هو عين مفهوم ذلك الجوهر و نفس معناه و كذا القياس في تعقل الأعراض الجسمانية. و قد علمت من طريقتنا في دفع الإشكال الأول أن المأخوذ من الجواهر النوعية الخارجية في الذهن معناها و مفهومها دون ذواتها و أشخاصها و أما كلية الموجود الذهني و صدقه على كثيرين فباعتبار أخذه مجردا عن الشخصات الذهنية - و الخارجية جميعا و لا حجر في كون شيء كلياً باعتبار و شخصياً باعتبار - سيما بالقياس إلى الوجودين الخارجي و العقلي و إن ألح ملح و ارتكب مرتكب

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٠٦

أن الإنسانية التي في الذهن تشارك الإنسان في الحقيقة و هي جوهر أيضاً و حالة في الذهن و محلها مستغن عنها فقد وقع فيما لا مهرب عنه على ما علمت آنفا. و العجب أن المولى الدواني مصر على جوهرية المعاني الجوهرية الذهنية - قائلا إن الجوهر ماهية من شأنها أن يكون في الخارج لا في الموضوع و شنع على القائل بكون صورة الجوهر الذهنية من باب الكيف أنه يلزم حينئذ انقلاب الجوهر كيفاً.

و لم يعلم أن لزوم انقلاب الحقيقة على ما صورته و توهمه ألحق به و ألزم كما يظهر عند التعمق و التدبر اللهم إلا أن يلتزم في جميع الحدود التي للأنواع الجوهرية - التقييد بكونها إذا وجدت في الخارج كذا و كذا إذ كما أن جوهرية الإنسان الذهني كذلك فكذا قابليته للأبعاد و مقداره و نموه و حسه و نطقه و جميع لوازم هذه المعاني و حينئذ لا فرق بين القول بكون الصورة الذهنية كيفاً بالحقيقة و بين كونها نوعاً من الجوهر بهذه الوجوه التعسفية فالحق أن مفهوم الإنسانية و غيرها من صور الأنواع الجوهرية كيفيات ذهنية يصدق عليها معانيها بالحمل الأولي و يكذب عنها بالحمل المتعارف و دلائل الوجود الذهني لا يعطي أكثر من هذا في العقلية هذا لمن لا يدعن بوجود عالم عقلي فيه صور الأنواع الجوهرية كالمعلم الأول و أتباعه كما هو المشهور و أما من يؤمن بوجود ذلك العالم الشامخ الإلهي فله أن يقول إن كون بعض من أفراد الماهية النوعية مجرداً و بعضها مادياً مما لم يحكم بفساده بديهية و لا برهان و لا وقع على امتناعه اتفاق كيف و قد ذهب العظيم أفلاطون و أشياخه العظام إلى أن لكل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٠٧

نوع من الأنواع الجسمانية فرداً في عالم العقل و تلك الأفراد أسباب فعالة لسائر الأفراد الجسمانية لتلك الأنواع و هي ذوات عناية بها و الدليل الدال على أن أفراد نوع واحد لا يقبل التشكيك و التفاوت في وجوداتها بحسب التمامية و

النقص و التقدم و التأخر على تقدير تماميته و إنما يتم بحسب نحو واحد من الوجود و موطن واحد من الكون لا بحسب الوجودين و بحسب المواطنين - و الحق أن مذهب أفلاطون و من سبقه من أساطين الحكمة في وجود المثل العقلية للطباع النوعية الجرمانية في غاية المتانة و الاستحكام لا يرد عليه شيء من نقوض المتأخرين و قد حققنا قول هذا العظيم و أشياخه العظام بوجه لا يرد عليه شيء من النقوض و الإيرادات التي منشؤها عدم الوصول إلى مقامهم و فقد الاطلاع على مرامهم كما سنذكره لمن وفق له إن شاء الله تعالى على أن بناء مقاصدهم و معتمد أقوالهم على السوانح النورية و اللوامع القدسية التي لا يعترىها وصمة شك و ريب - و لا شائبة نقص و عيب لا على مجرد الأنظار البحثية التي سيلعب بالمعوليين عليها و المعتمدين بها الشكوك يلعن اللاحق منهم فيها للسابق و لم يتصالحوا عليها و يتوافقوا فيها بل كلما دخلت أمة لعنت أختها.

ثم إن أولئك العظماء من كبار الحكماء و الأولياء و إن لم يذكروا حجة على إثبات تلك المثل النورية و اكتفوا فيه بمجرد المشاهدات الصريحة المتكررة التي وقعت لهم فحكوها لغيرهم لكن يحصل للإنسان الاعتماد على ما اتفقوا عليه و الجزم بما شاهدوه ثم ذكروه و ليس لأحد أن يناظرهم فيه كيف و إذا اعتبروا أوضاع الكواكب و أعداد الأفلاك بناء على ترصد شخص كأبرخس أو أشخاص كهو مع غيره بوسيلة الحس المثار للغلط و الطغيان فبان يعتبر أقوال فحول الفلسفة المبتنية على أرصادهم العقلية المتكررة التي لا يحتمل الخطأ كان أخرى.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٠٨

الإشكال الرابع أنه يلزم على القول بالوجود الذهني أن يصير الذهن حارا

حين تصور الحرارة باردا عند تصور البرودة معوجا مستقيما كرويا مثلثا مربعا - كافرا مؤمنا متحيزا لأن الحار ما حصل فيه الحرارة و البارد ما حصل فيه البرودة - و كذلك سائر المشتقات فيلزم اتصاف النفس بصفات الأجسام و الأمور المتضادة - و بطلانه ضروري.

بيان اللزوم أنه يلزم على التقدير المذكور أنا إذا تصورنا الأشياء يحصل في أذهاننا حقائق تلك الأشياء و تحل فيها و الحلول هو الاختصاص الناعت فيجب أن تكون حقائق تلك المعلومات أوصافا و نعوتا للذهن.

و الجواب عنه بوجوده.

الأول و هو من جملة العرشيات -

أن صور هذه الأشياء عند تصور النفس إياها في صقع من ملكوت النفس من غير حلول فيها بل كما أن الجوهر النوراني أي النفس الناطقة عند إشراق نورها على القوة الباصرة يدرك بعلم حضوري إشراقي - ما يقابل العضو الجليدي من المبصرات من غير انطباع كما هو رأي شيعة الأقدمين - فكذا عند إشراقه على القوة المتخيلة يدرك بعلم حضوري إشراقي الصورة المتخيلة الخارجية المباشرة للنفس من غير حلول الصور فيها و اتصاف النفس بها بل كما يرى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٠٩

و يحس صور الأشياء الخارجية بالباصرة و غيرها كذا ينظر إلى صورها الباطنية - و يشاهدها بحواسها الباطنية من غير حلولها في ذات النفس و الوجدان لا يحكم بالتفرقة بين المشاهدة في اليقظة و المشاهدة في النوم.

ثم على تقدير أن يكون للصور الخيالية قيام حلولي بالنفس نقول إن شرط الاتصاف بشيء الانفعال و التأثير منه دون مجرد القيام فإن المبادي الفعالة لوجود الحوادث الكونية مع أن لها الإحاطة العلمية على نحو ارتسام صور تلك الأشياء فيها كما هو مذهبهم لكن لا يتصف بالكائنات و أعراضها الجسمية لأن قيام الصور الكونية بمباديها العالية من جهة الفعل و التأثير في تلك الصور دون الانفعال و التأثير عنها و لا نسلم أن مجرد قيام الشيء بالشيء يوجب اتصافه بذلك الشيء من غير تأثير و تغير و لست أقول أن إطلاق المشتق بمجرد هذا لا يصح أم يصح لأن ذلك أمر آخر - لا يتعلق بغرضنا في هذا المقام أصلاً

الوجه الثاني و هو أيضاً مما يستفاد من الرجوع إلى ما سبق

من التحقيق في اختلاف نحوي الحمل فإن مفهوم الكفر ليس كفراً بالحمل الشائع فلا يلزم من الاتصاف به الاتصاف بالكفر حتى يلزم أن من تصور الكفر كان كافراً و كذا الحكم في أنحاء هذا المثال فليحسن المسترشد إعمال رويته في ذلك التحقيق لينحل منه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣١٠

الإيراد بنظائر هذه النقوض.

الوجه الثالث من الجواب و هو المذكور في الكتب

بأن مبنى الإيراد على عدم التفرقة بين الوجود المتأصل الذي به الهوية العينية و غير المتأصل الذي به الصورة العقلية فإن المتصف بالحرارة ما يقوم به الحرارة العينية لا صورتها الذهنية - فالتضاد إنما هو بين هوية الحرارة و البرودة و أشباههما لا بين صورتها المتضادين و بالجملة هذه الصفات يعتبر في حقائقها أنها بحيث إذا وجدت في المواد الجسمانية تجعلها بحالة مخصوصة و تؤثر فيها بما يدركه الحواس مثلاً الحرارة تقتضي تفريق المختلفات من الأجسام و جمع المتشابهات منها و الاستقامة حالة قائمة بالخط مما يكون أجزاءه على سمت واحد و قس عليه الانحناء و التشكلات فإذا عقلناها و وجدت في النفس المجردة حالة فيها لم يلزم إلا اتصاف بما من شأنه أن تصير به الأجسام حارة أو باردة أو متشكلة أو غير ذلك لا أن تصير النفس موضوعة لهذه المحمولات الانفعالية المادية.

و لقائل أن يقول هذا الجواب لا يجري في النقض بلوازم بعض الماهيات و الأوصاف الانتزاعية و الإضافيات كالزوجية و الفردية و الوجوب و العلية و الأبوة و أمثالها مما ليست من الأمور الخارجية و كذا لا يجري في صفات المعدومات كالامتناع و العدم و أمثالهما إذ لا يتيسر لأحد أن يقول إن اتصاف محل الزوجية و العلية و الامتناع - من الأحكام المتعلقة بوجودها العيني إذ لا وجود لأمثالها لأنها إما أمور اعتبارية عقلية من لوازم الماهيات أو عدمية من صفات المعدومات. و يمكن دفع هذا الإيراد بما حققناه في هذا الكتاب من أن لكل معنى من المعاني حظاً من الوجود فالزوجية مثلاً له وجود بمعنى كون موصوفها على نحو يدرك العاقل منه الانقسام بمتساويين هذا هو نحو الوجود الأصيل و الخارجي له

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣١١

فأما إذا تصورت النفس معنى الزوجية فليس هذا نحو وجوده الأصيل إذ لا تصير النفس بسبب إدراكها مفهوم الزوجية بحيث يفهم منها الانقسام بمتساويين و كذا الحكم في نظائرها و أما العدم و أمثاله فلا صورة لها في العقل بل العقل

بقوته المتصرفة يجعل بعض المفهومات صورة و عنواناً لأمور باطلة و يجعلها وسيلة لتعرف أحكامها.

الإشكال الخامس أن الذهن موجود في الخارج و الأمور الذهنية موجودة فيه

على ما قررتم فيلزم من تعقلنا لها وجودها في العقل الموجود في الخارج و الموجود في الموجود في الشيء موجود في ذلك الشيء كالماء الموجود في الكوز الموجود في البيت -

و الجواب أن الموجود في الموجود في الشيء

إنما يكون موجوداً في ذلك الشيء إذا كان الوجودان متأصلين و يكون الوجودان هويتين كوجود الماء في الكوز و الكوز في البيت بخلاف الموجود في الذهن الموجود في الخارج - فإن الحاصل من المعلوم في الذهن صورة لا هوية و الوجود ظلي لا متأصل و من الذهن في الخارج هوية و الوجود متأصل و معنى في في الموضوعين مختلف و كذا استعمالها فيهما و في المكان و الزمان ليس بمعنى واحد بل بالحقيقة و المجاز لأن كون الشيء في الخارج ليس من قبيل الماء في الكوز بل معنى كون الشيء في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣١٢

الخارج هو أن يترتب عليه الآثار المطلوبة منه و كونه في الذهن هو أن لا يكون كذلك

الإشكال السادس

أنه يلزم أن يوجد في أذهاننا من الممتنعات الكلية أشخاص حقيقية يكون بالحقيقة أشخاصاً لها لا بحسب فرضنا لأننا إذا حكمنا على اجتماع النقيضين بالامتناع بعد تصورنا اجتماع النقيضين و يحصل في ذهننا هذا المعنى متشخصاً و متعيناً فالموجود في ذهننا فرد شخصي من اجتماع النقيضين مع أن بديهية العقل - يجزم بامتناع اجتماع النقيضين في الذهن و الخارج و كذا يلزم وجود فرد حقيقي للمعدوم المطلق و كذا شريك الباري تعالى فيلزم وجود ذلك الفرد في الخارج أيضاً لأنه إذا وجد في الذهن فرد مشخص لشريك الباري تعالى فيجب بالنظر إلى ذاته الوجود العيني و إلا لم يكن شريكاً للباري تعالى.

و الجواب أن القضايا التي حكم فيها على الأشياء الممتنعة الوجود

حملات غير بنية و هي التي حكم فيها بالاتحاد بين طرفيها بالفعل على تقدير انطباق طبيعة العنوان على فرد فإن للعقل أن يتصور مفهوم النقيضين و شريك الباري و الجوهر الفرد و أن يتصور جميع المفهومات حتى عدم نفسه و عدم علته و عدم عدم و مفهوم الممتنع لا على أن ما يتصوره هو حقيقة الممتنع إذ كل ما يتصور و يوجد في الذهن يحمل عليه أنه ممكن من الممكنات بل ذلك المتصور هو عنوان لتلك الحقيقة الباطلة و مناط صحة كون مفهوم عنواناً لماهية من الماهيات أن يحمل عليه المفهوم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣١٣

منها حملاً أولياً و إن لم يحمل عليه حملاً شائعاً صناعياً فالعقل يقدر أن يتصور مفهوماً - و يجعله عنواناً بحسب الفرض لطبيعة باطلة الذات مجهولة التصور و يحكم عليه بامتناع الحكم عليه و العلم به و باعتبار وجود هذا المفهوم في الذهن و كونه عنواناً لماهية باطلة يصير منشأ لصحة الحكم عليه بامتناع الحكم عليه و جواز الإخبار عنه بامتناع الإخبار عنه

فصحة الحكم يتوجه عليه من حيث كونه فردا لمفهوم ممكن و موجود و امتناعه يتوجه إليه من حيث كونه مما يحمل عليه الممتنع و المعدوم حملا أوليا و باعتبار كونه عنوانا لطبيعة مستحيلة من هذه الجهة و من هذا القبيل الأحكام الجارية على مفهوم الواجب الوجود بالذات كقولنا واجب الوجود و تشخصه عين ذاته و وحدته مغايرة لما يفهم من الوحدة فإن الحكم بعينية التشخص من حيث كونه حكما من الأحكام يتوجه إلى مفهوم واجب الوجود- لكن عينية التشخص غير متوجه إليه بل إلى ما يؤدي إليه البرهان أنه بإزائه و هو الحي القيوم جل ذكره و إن تقدر عن أن يتمثل في ذهن من الأذهان.

فعلم أن هذه القضايا و نظائرها عمليات غير بتية و هي و إن كانت مساوقة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣١٤

للشرطية لكنها غير راجعة إليها كما يظن فإن الحكم فيها على المأخوذ بتقدير ما- بأن يكون التقدير من تنمة فرض الموضوع حيث لم يكن طبيعة متحصلة أصلا أو في الذهن لا بأن يكون الموضوع مما قد فرض و تم فرضه في نفسه ثم خصص الحكم عليه بالتقدير المذكور حتى يكون الموضوع من قبيل الطبيعة الموقته أو المقيدة ليلزم كون القضية مشروطة في المعنى

فصل (٤) في زيادة توضيح لإفادة تنقيح

اعلم أن قوما من المتأخرين لما ورد عليهم الإشكالات المذكورة في الوجود الذهني و تعسر عليهم التخلص عن الجميع اختاروا أن الموجود في الذهن ليس حقائق المعلومات بل أشباحها و أظلالها المحاكية عنها بوجه. و بيان ذلك أنه لما تعاضد البرهان و الوجدان على أنه يوجد في ذهننا عند تصور الحقائق أمر محاك لها به يشعر الذهن بها و يجري عليها الأحكام و يخبر عنها- و لا يسوغ لنا أن نقول تلك الحقائق بعينها موجودة في الذهن لورود هذه الإشكالات- فالمذهب الجامع بين الدليلين هو أن يقال الحاصل في الذهن ظل من المعلوم و أنموذج

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣١٥

له نوع محاكاة عنه كمحاكاة اللفظ و الكتابة إلا أن محاكاتها للمعاني بحسب الوضع و محاكاة النقوش الذهنية بحسب الطبيعة.

و يرد عليهم أنه لو تم دلائل الوجود الذهني لدلت على أن للمعلومات بأنفسها- وجودا في الذهن لا لأمر آخر مباين لها بحقيقتها كالنقوش الكتبية و الهيئات الصوتية- إذ لا يقول أحد أن كتابة زيد و اللفظ الدال عليه هما زيد بعينه بخلاف إدراكه و تصوره فإنه يجري عليه أحكامه و يحمل عليه ذاتياته و عرضياته فليس فيما ذكره جمع بين الدليلين بل إبطال لهما و إحداث مذهب ثالث.

و سلك بعض الأماجد مسلكا دقيقا قريبا من التحقيق لا بأس بذكره و ما يرد عليه تشجيذا للافهام و توضيحا للمقام. و بيانه يتوقف على تمهيد مقدمة هي أن ماهية الشيء متأخرة عن موجوديتها بمعنى أنه ما لم يصر موجودا لم يكن ماهية من الماهيات إذ المعدوم الصرف ليس

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣١٦

له ماهية أصلاً وليس شيئاً من الأشياء فما لم يكن له نوع تحصل و تحقق إما ذهنًا أو خارجاً لم يكن ماهية من الماهيات. فإن قلت فما يصير موجوداً ثم يصير ماهية أما هذه الماهية فتصير هذه الماهية موجودة ثم تصير هذه الماهية وهو ظاهر البطلان أو ماهية أخرى وهو أفحش - مثل أن يقال وجد الفرس فصار إنساناً. قلت لا حصر بل يتصور شق ثالث أما أولاً فلأن هذا التقدم رتبي لا زمني - وارتفاع النقيضين في المرتبة جائز كما سنبين مراراً و أما ثانياً فلأن معنى قولنا وجد فصار إنساناً ليس أنه وجد شيء معين فصار إنساناً حتى يتأتى التردد بأن هذا الشيء إما الإنسان أو غيره بل هناك أمر واحد هو إنسان و موجود فتحققه و حصوله من حيث هو موجود أولاً بالحصول من حيث هو ماهية الإنسان و أيضاً لو تم ما ذكرت لزم أن لا يتقدم ملزوم على لازمه المحمول عليه كالأربعة على الزوج مثلاً بأن يقال لو وجدت الأربعة أولاً فصارت زوجاً فما وجد أولاً إما زوج فالزوج يصير زوجاً

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣١٧

أو ليس بزواج فيكون الأربعة ليست بزواج ثم تصير زوجاً و بطلانهما ظاهر. إذا تمهد هذا نقول لما كانت موجودة الماهية متقدمة على نفسها فمع قطع النظر عن الوجود لا يكون هناك ماهية أصلاً و الوجود الذهني و الخارجي مختلفان بالحقيقة فإذا تبدل الوجود بأن يصير الموجود الخارجي موجوداً في الذهن - لا استبعاد أن يتبدل الماهية أيضاً فإذا وجد شيء في الخارج كانت له ماهية إما جوهر أو كم أو من مقولة أخرى و إذا تبدل الوجود و وجد في الذهن انقلبت ماهيته و صارت من مقولة الكيف و عند هذا اندفع الإشكالات إذ مدار الجميع على أن الموجود الذهني باق على حقيقته الخارجية فإن قلت هذا بعينه هو القول بالشبح و يرد عليه أنه على هذا لا تكون الأشياء بأنفسها حاصلة في الذهن بل أمر آخر مباين لها بالحقيقة. قلت ليس للشيء بالنظر إلى ذاته بذاته مع قطع النظر عن الوجودين حقيقة معينة يمكن أن يقال هذه الحقيقة موجودة في الذهن و في الخارج بل الموجود الخارجي بحيث إذا وجد في الذهن انقلبت كيفاً و إذا وجدت الكيفية الذهنية في الخارج كانت عين المعلوم الخارجي فإن كان المراد بوجود الأشياء بأنفسها في الذهن وجودها فيه و إن انقلبت حقيقتها إلى حقيقة أخرى فذلك حاصل و إن أريد أنها توجد في الذهن باقية على حقيقتها العينية فلم يبق عليه دليل إذ مودى الدليل أن المحكوم عليه يجب وجوده عند العقل و في الذهن ليحكم عليه و لا يخفى أن هذا الحكم ليس عليه بحسب الوجود الذهني بل بحسب نفس الأمر فيجب أن يوجد في الذهن أمر لو وجد في الخارج كان متصفاً بالمحمول و إن انقلبت حقيقته و ماهيته بتبدل الوجود. فإن قلت إنما يتصور هذا الانقلاب لو كان بين الموجودات الخارجية من الجواهر و الأعراض و بين الكيفيات الذهنية أي الصور العلمية مادة مشتركة يكون بحسب

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣١٨

الوجود الظلي كيفاً و بحسب الوجود الخارجي من مقولة المعلوم كما قرروا الأمر في الهيولى المبهمه في ذاتها حق الإبهام و تصير باقتران الصورة تارة ماء و تارة هواء و تارة ناراً و ظاهر أنه هناك مادة مشتركة بين جميع الموجودات.

قلت إنما استدعى هذا الانقلاب لو كان انقلاب أمر في صفته كانقلاب الأسود أبيض و الحار باردا أو صورته كانقلاب النطفة جنينا و الماء هواء و أما انقلاب نفس الحقيقة بتمامها إلى حقيقة أخرى فلا يستدعي مادة مشتركة موجودة بينهما نعم يفرض العقل لتصوير هذا الانقلاب أمرا مبهما عاما هذه خلاصة ما ذكره هذا الحبر العلامة في تعاليقه. و اعترض عليه معاصره العلامة الدواني بقوله لا يخفى على من له أدنى بصيرة - أن انقلاب الحقائق غير معقول بل المعقول أن ينقلب المادة من صورة إلى أخرى - أو الموضوع من صفة إلى أخرى و ليس لكل أمر يوجد في الذهن محل أو موضوع - سوى الذهن باعتبار حصوله فيه و معلوم أن الذهن لا ينقلب من الصورة الذهنية - التي هي عنده كيف إلى الأمر الخارجي الذي هو جوهر مثلا و ليت شعري ما هذا الأمر الواحد الذي زعم أنه بحيث إذا وجد في الخارج كان ماهية و إذا وجد في الذهن كان ماهية أخرى و كيف ينحفظ الوحدة مع تعدد الماهية ثم متقدم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣١٩

الموجودة غير بين و لا مبين و على فرض التسليم لا يوجب جواز الانقلاب إذ العوارض متقدمة كانت أو متأخرة لا يغير حقيقة المعروض فإنها إنما تعرض لتلك الحقيقة فلا بد من بقائها معها ثم على فرض الانقلاب يكون الحاصل في الذهن - مغايرا بالماهية للحاصل في الخارج و هو خلاف مقتضى الدليل الدال على الوجود الذهني و ما ذكره من أن حصول الماهية في الذهن أعم من أن يبقى فيه على ما كان - أو ينقلب إلى ماهية أخرى من قبيل أن يقال حصول زيد في الدار أعم من أن يبقى فيه على ما كان أو ينقلب فيه إلى عمرو مثلا ثم من البين أنه إذا لم يكن بين الأمرين أمر مشترك يبقى مع الانقلاب كالمادة أو كالجنس مثلا لم يصدق أن هناك شيئا واحدا - يكون تارة ذلك الأمر و أخرى أمرا آخر و الفطرة السليمة تكفي مئونة هذا البحث - و أنت تعلم أن القائل بالشبح لا يعجز أن يقول وجود الأمر الخارجي في الذهن لا يمكن إلا بحصول شبحه فيه و أن الشبح لو وجد في الخارج يكون عين الأمر الخارجي بل هو قائل بذلك و أنه على ما ذهب إليه يتوجه أن يقال لو فرض وجود هذا الكيف النفساني في الخارج لم يكن عين الجوهر بل كيفا نفسانيا مثال الجوهر و لو فرض وجود الجوهر الخارجي في الذهن لم يكن كيفا نفسانيا بل جوهرًا قائما بالنفس - بل نقول إن الكيف النفساني القائم بالنفس موجود في الخارج كسائر الكيفيات النفسانية فإن أراد أنه على تقدير الوجود الخارجي عين الجوهر فلا يصدق أنه لو وجد في الخارج لكان عينه فإن حال قيامه بالنفس موجود في الخارج و ليس جوهرًا - و إن أراد أنه على تقدير وجوده خارج النفس أي قائما بذاته جوهر فكذلك لأنه على هذا التقدير يكون كيفا نفسانيا غير قائم بالنفس فلا يكون جوهرًا كيف و الكيف النفساني القائم بغير النفس ممتنع الوجود و الجوهر من أقسام ممكن الوجود و إن أراد أنه على تقدير وجوده خارج النفس و انقلاب حقيقته إلى حقيقة الجوهرية يكون جوهرًا فذلك على تقدير صدقه جار في الشبح أيضا انتهى.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٢٠

و غاية ما يمكن لأحد أن يقول من قبل القائل بانقلاب الحقائق الخارجية - من الجوهر و الكم و غيرهما إلى الكيف في الذهن إن لكل من الحقائق العينية ربطا خاصا بصورة ذهنية به يقال إنها صورته الذهنية و يجد العقل بينهما ذلك الربط - و حقيقة ذلك أنها لو وجدت في الخارج كانت عينه و لا يلزم من ذلك أن يكون وجود كل شيء وجود كل شيء آخر

لأنه فرق بين أن يقال لو وجد ألف مثلا في الخارج - وانقلبت حقيقته إلى حقيقة ب كانت عين ب أو يقال لو وجد ألف في الخارج كان عين ب قولك إذا وجد كيف النفساني في الخارج بحقيقته الذهنية كان كيفا نفسانيا لا جوهرًا قلنا المفروض ليس هذا بل المفروض وجوده الخارجي فقط - لا مع انحفاظ كونه كيفية نفسانية فإن وجوده الخارجي يستلزم انقلاب حقيقته - إذ الحقيقة الذهنية مشروطة بالوجود الذهني والحقيقة الخارجية مشروطة بالوجود الخارجي وبالجملة فوجود الأمر الذهني في الخارج عبارة عن انقلاب حقيقته إلى الحقيقة الخارجية أو متضمن لهذا الانقلاب فليتأمل ففيه ما فيه ويمكن توجيه كلامه بوجه آخر أقرب من الحق وأبعد من المفاسد المذكورة - وهو أنه لما قام البرهان على أن للحقائق العينية ذاتيات بها يصدر آثارها الذاتية التي هي مبادي تعرف الذاتيات وامتيازها عن العرضيات كالجسمية المعتبرة في مفهوم الشجر المقتضية للتحييز وقبول الأبعاد والصورة النباتية المقتضية للنمو والتغذية وإذا حصلت تلك الحقائق في الذهن كانت صورًا علمية ناعمة للنفس صفات لها مع بقاء تلك الحقائق بوجه ما وصارت لها حقائق عرضيات من الكيفيات النفسانية فعلم أن الحقائق الكلية من حيث هي مثالها مثال الهيولى التي أثبتتها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٢١

المعلم الأول وأتباعه من حيث إنها ليست متعينة أصلاً وليست لها حقائق متحصلة - بها تدخل من حيث هي تحت مقولة من المقولات بل هي مبهمة غاية الإبهام إنما يتحصل ويتعين لها ماهيات بالقياس إلى أحد الوجودين فالحقيقة المائنة إذا لوحظت - من حيث وجودها العيني الأصيل كانت جسماً سيالاً رطباً ثقيلاً وإذا وجدت في الذهن وقامت به صارت عرضاً من الكيفيات النفسانية وهي بنفسها لا يتحصل بشيء منها ولا يندرج تحت واحد من المقولتين بالنظر إلى حقيقته المبهمة المأخوذة مع الوجود المطلق الغير المتخصص بالخارج أو العلم. فإن قلت ما ذكرته لا يطابق قواعد القوم ولا يظهر صحته أيضاً لأن الشيء لا ينفك عن ذاته بحسب الوجودين على ما تقرر من خواص الذاتى وأيضاً على هذا التقدير لا يكون لشيء واحد وجودان ذهني وعيني - قلت لما تقرر عند هذا القائل تقدم الوجود على الماهية وهو الذي ساق

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٢٢

عندنا إليه البرهان فالشيء إنما يتعين بوجوده الخارجي أو الذهني ومع قطع النظر عن الوجودين ليس له حقيقة أصلاً لا جوهرية ولا عرضية ولا مبهمة ولا معينة فإذا وجد فإن كان من حيث الوجود لا يستدعي موضوعاً يقوم به كان جوهرًا وإلا لكان عرضاً وكذا بالنظر إلى وجوده الذاتى إن كان قابلاً للأبعاد كان جسماً وإن كان مقتضياً للنمو والتغذية كان نامياً وقس عليه الحساس والمتحرك والناطق والصاهل - فظهر أن انتزاع هذه الذاتيات من الذات إنما يمكن بشرط وجود تلك الذات في الخارج تحقيقاً أو تقديراً وإذا لم تلاحظ وجودها الخارجي بل لوحظت بشرط الوجود الذهني صلحت لأن ينتزع منها الذاتيات العرضية من العلم والكيف ومثالهما - وإن لوحظت بشرط مطلق الوجود من غير ملاحظة خصوص أحد الوجودين لم يصلح لأن يشار إليها وتعين لها حقيقة من الحقائق ولا يحيط بها تعبير الألفاظ - وتؤدي العبارات وتحديد الإشارات بل يكون لها الإطلاق الصرف واللاتعين البحث - فإذا تقرر هذا فنقول معنى انحفاظ الماهيات وعدم انفكاك الذاتى عن ذاتى الذاتى في الوجودين هو أن الذهن عند تصور الأشياء إنما يلاحظ هذه

الصورة الذهنية العرضية لا من حيث وجودها الذهني بل يلاحظها من حيث وجودها العيني الخارجي الذي به تعين مقولته من حيث إنه جوهر مثلاً و جسم و نام و يحكم عليها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٢٣

بما يقتضيه حقيقته العينية و ينتزع عنها الذاتيات الخارجية مثلاً ما وجد في الذهن عند تصور الماء ليس جسماً و لا سيلاً و لا رطباً و لا ثقيلًا بل هو كيفية نفسانية لكن الذهن لما حذف عن أشخاص المياه الموجودة مشخصاتها و عوارضها اللاحقة لوجوده حصلت له قوة و بصيرة روحانية ينظر إلى حقيقة واحدة هي مبدأ المياه الجزئية و كوشف له مفهوم كلي يصدق عليها فيجعل ذلك الأمر الصادق عليها مرآة لتعرف أحكامها و أحوالها الخارجية و كذلك يستنبط ذاتياتها طبق ما لوحناك إليه سابقاً و على هذا يحمل كلام القوم في انحفاظ الذاتيات هذا ما أردناه أن نقول في توجيه كلام هذا القائل المذكور.

و ليعلم أن كلام المتأخرين أكثره غير مبين على أصول صحيحة كشفية- و مباد قويمه إلهامية بل مبناه على مجرد الاحتمالات العقلية دون المقامات الذوقية- و على الذائعات المقبولة دون المقدمات البرهانية و لذلك من رام منهم إفادة تحقيق أو زيادة تدقيق إنما جاء بالحقاق منع و نقض فأصبحت مؤلفاتهم بتراكم المناقضات- مجموعة من ظلمات بعضها فوق بعض فما خلص عن دياجيرها إلا الأقلون وَمَا ظَلَمَهُمُ اللَّهُ وَلَكِنْ كَانُوا أَنْفُسَهُمْ يَظْلِمُونَ

فصل (٥) في بيان مخلص عرشي في هذا المقام

و هاهنا مسلك آخر في حل بعض الإشكالات الواردة على القول بالوجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٢٤

الذهني من غير لزوم ما يلتزم القائل بانقلاب الحقائق و ارتكاب ما يرتكبه معاصره الجليل من أن إطلاق الكيف على العلم و الصورة النفسانية من باب المجاز و التشبيه- بل مع التحفظ على قاعدة انحفاظ الذاتيات مع تبدل الوجودات و كون الصور العلمية كفيات حقيقية و هو أنا نقول إن للنفس الإنسانية قوة بها ينتزع المعقولات الكلية من الأعيان الخارجية و من الصور الخيالية و الأشباح المثالية- و لا شك أنها عند انتزاع هذا المعقول المنتزع يتأثر بكيفية نفسانية هي علمها به- فيعلم حينئذ أن للنفس هناك كيفية حادثة عند انكشاف هذا المعنى و الحكماء قالوا- إنا إذا فتشنا حالنا عند التعقل لم نجد إلا هذه الصورة فتلك الكيفية النفسانية هي هذه الصورة العقلية فهي قائمة بها ناعته لها فلهذا فسر العلم بالصورة الحاصلة من الشيء عند العقل و لما دل الدليل على أنه تحصل الحقائق العينية لا من حيث وجودها العيني في الذهن صرحوا بأن العلم بكل مقولة من تلك المقولة فاستشكل الأمر و اشتبه الحق.

و تحقيق الحق فيه أنه كما يوجد في الخارج شخص كزيد مثلاً و يوجد معه صفاته و أعراضه و ذاتياته كالأبيض و الضحاك و المشي و الجالس و النامي و الحيوان

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٢٥

و الناطق فهي موجودات توجد بوجود زيد ذاتاً بل عين زيد وجوداً فإن في الخارج ما هو زيد بعينه الضاحك و الكاتب

والحيوان والناطق ولا يلزم من اندراج زيد تحت الجوهر بالذات وكون الجوهر ذاتيا له أن يكون الجوهر ذاتيا للكاتب والضاحك والناطق فكذلك الموجود الذهني فإن من جملة الحقائق الكلية العلم وإذا وجد فرد منه في الذهن فإنما يتعين ذلك الفرد منه بأن يتحد بحقيقة المعلوم كما أن الجسم إنما يوجد في الخارج إذا كان فيه متكهما متشكلا متحيزا ناميا أو جمادا وعنصرا أو فلكا وبها يتعين حقيقة هذا الجسم كذلك العلم إنما يتعين ويتحصل - إذا اتحد بحقيقة المعلوم فكان العلم جنسا قريبا والكيف المطلق جنسا بعيدا.

وتحصل العلم وتعيينه إنما هو بانضمام الحقيقة المعلوم إلى متحدة معه - بحيث يكون في الواقع ذاتا واحدة مطابقة لها فهذه الذات الواحدة علم من حيث جنسها القريب وكيف من حيث جنسها البعيد ومن مقولة المعلوم من حيث تحصلها وتعيينها كما أن زيدا في الخارج حيوان من حيث جنسه القريب وجوهر من حيث جنسه البعيد ومن مقولة الكم والكيف وغيرهما من حيث تشخصه وتعيينه - ويكون اتحاد المعلوم معها اتحاد العرضي مع المعروف فصح أن العلم من مقولة الكيف والكيف ذاتي له من حيث إنه علم وهو في الواقع بعينه حقيقة المعلوم. وعلى هذا لا يتوجه الإشكال بأن العلم لكونه من صفات النفس وجب أن يكون من مقولة الكيف ومن حيث إن حقيقة المعلوم وجدت في الذهن يجب أن يكون من مقولة المعلوم فيلزم أن يكون حقيقة واحدة من مقولتين. لأن محصل هذا التحقيق أن العلم من مقولة الكيف بالذات لكون تلك المقولة جنسه ومفهوم المعلوم متحد مع العلم ذاتا وجودا في الذهن ومن تلك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٢٦

المقولة بالعرض كما أن زيدا من حيث ذاته من مقولة الجوهر ومن حيث إنه أب وابن من مقولة المضاف وقد ذهب ذلك التحرير المحقق تبعا لعبارات القدماء - أن العرض والعرضي مطلقا متحدان بالذات ومتغايران بالاعتبار فإن الأبيض والبياض عنده أمر واحد بالذات مختلف من حيث أخذه لا بشرط شيء أو بشرط لا شيء كما أن الصورة والفصل واحدة بالذات متغايرة بالاعتبار المذكور كما سيقرع سمعك إشباع القول في ذلك وعلى هذا لا غبار على ما ذكرناه ولا يشوش الأفهام وساوس الأوهام

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٢٧

المرحلة الثانية في تنمة أحكام الوجود وما يليق بأن يذكر من أحكام العدم

فصل (١) في تحقيق الوجود بالمعنى الرابط

ربما يتشكك بأنه إذا كان الوجود رابطا في الهليات المركبة فيلزم للمحمول

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٢٨

وجود إذ الوجود للغير لا يعقل بدون الوجود في نفسه ثم إن ثبوته للموضوع ثابت أيضا للموضوع فيكون له أيضا ثبوت ثابت هو أيضا للموضوع وهكذا إلى غير النهاية.

فيفك عقدة التشكيك بما سبق من أن إطلاق الوجود على الرابط في القضايا - ليس بحسب المعنى المستفاد من مطلق

الوجود أو منه إذا كان محمولا أو رابطيا أي ثابتا لغيره و كثيرا ما يقع الغلط في إطلاق لفظ الوجود تارة بمعنى الرابطة التي هي في حكم الأدوات الغير الملحوظة بالذات و تارة بمعنى أحد قسمي مفهوم الوجود- الذي بمعنى التحقق و كون الشيء ذا حقيقة سواء كان لنفسه أو غيره و هو الذي يقال له الوجود الرابطي لا الرابط كما مر سابقا فكون ألف ب ليس مفهومه و لا مفاده هو وجود ب في نفسه و لكن للموضوع كوجود الأعراض و الصور لموضوعاتها و محالها- حتى يستلزم وجوده في نفسه بل إنما هو اتصاف ألف و ب أي الرابط بينهما- فيجوز أن يتصف الموضوع بأمر عدمي مما له ثبوت بنحو من الأنحاء و إن لم يكن في الخارج بل في الذهن و قد علم أن اللانهاية الحاصلة من تضاعيف لحظات الأفهام- و خطرات الأوهام غير ممتعة لانبثاته بانبتات الملاحظة إذ ما لم يلحظ حاشيتا الحكم و لم يعقل بالقصد لم يحصل الربط بينهما ليحكم بثبوته للموضوع أو المحمول- فإذا قلنا ألف ب فقد عقنا مفهوم ثبوت ب لألف على أنه مرآة لتعرف حال ألف و ب لا على أنه ملتفت إليه بالقصد فلا يمكن لنا في هذا الحكم مراعاة حال الثبوت- بكونها ثابتا لألف أم لا منسوباً إليه بالثبوت أم باللاتبوت فإنه في حكمنا بأن ألف ب

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٢٩

نسبة محضة و النسبة بما هي نسبة لا تكون منسوبة نعم إذا قلنا ثبوت ب لألف كذا فقد جعلناه منظورا إليه بالقصد و قد انسلخ عن كونه بحيث لا يقع إلا بين الحاشيتين- و استصلح أن يصير إحداهما فيعتبر له ثبوت و ربط آخر و حينئذ يرجع الأمر إلى أن يكون ذلك الثبوت الآخر مرآة لتعرف حال الثبوت الأول من دون الالتفات إليه إلا بالتبع ثم إذا التفتنا إليه و قلنا ثبوت الثبوت كذا فقد عزلنا النظر عن الحاشيتين إلا بالعرض و انتقلنا إليه و نسبناه إلى موضوع فحصل هاهنا ثبوت ثالث غير ملتفت إليه و كذا إذا توجهنا إليه بتصويره أحد طرفي الحكم حصل رابع و كذا يوجد خامس و سادس إلى أن نقف عن هذه الالتفاتات و الملاحظات الحاصلة منا بالإرادة و الاختيار فتقطع به السلسلة.

و ما حكم به السلف الصالح من أولياء الحكمة أن المحمول بما هو محمول- ليس وجوده في نفسه إلا وجوده لموضوعه ليسوا عنوا بذلك أن وجوده في نفسه- هو بعينه وجوده لموضوعه كما في الأعراض و الصور إذ المحمول بما هو محمول ليس له وجود في نفسه يكون هو لموضوع ذلك المحمول بل عنوا أنه لا يوجد نفسه و إنما له ثبوت للموضوع لا وجود في نفسه و وجوده في نفسه هو مجرد أنه ثابت للموضوع و فرق بين قولنا وجوده في نفسه هو وجوده لموضوعه كما في العرض- و بين قولنا وجوده في نفسه هو أنه موجود لموضوعه فإن الأول يستلزم الوجود دون الثاني هذا إذا كان الكلام في مجرد مفهوم الهلية المركبة و أما أن حاشيتي الحكم هل هما بحسب الواقع مما يلزم أن يكون لهما وجود بنحو من الأنحاء فذلك كلام آخر.

ثم لا يخفى عليك حكاية ما سيقرع سمعك بيانه على الوجه اليقيني البرهاني مما نحن بصدد إن شاء الله تعالى أن وجودات جميع الممكنات في فلسفتنا من قبيل الروابط لوجود الحق تعالى فوق ما وقع في كلام بعض أئمة الحكمة الدينية و أكابر الفلسفة الإلهية أن وجود الطبائع المادية في نفسها هو بعينه وجودها لموادها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٣٠

و أن الوجود المعلول بما هو معلول مطلقا هو وجوده لعلته و أن وجود السافل مطلقا هو وجوده لدى العالي المحيط

بجملة السافلات فقالوا إن الممكنات طراً مادياتها و مفارقاتها موجودات لا لذواتها بل لغيرها الذي هو فوق الجميع و وراء الجملة و هو الواجب تعالى.

و لا يسع لأولئك الأكابر و لم يتيسر لهم إلا هذا القدر من التوحيد و هو كون وجود الممكن رابطياً لا رابطاً لأنهم لما قالوا بالثاني في الوجود أثبتوا للممكن وجوداً مغايراً للوجود الحق لكن على وجه يكون مرتبطاً إلى الحق و منسوباً إليه بحيث لا يمكن أن ينسلخ منه الانتساب إلى المعبود الحق تعالى.

و أما نحن فبفضل الله تعالى و برحمته أقمنا البرهان الموعود بيانه في مترقب القول و مستقبل الكلام أن الممكن لا يمكن تحليل وجوده إلى وجود و نسبة إلى الباري بل هو منتسب بنفسه لا بنسبة زائدة مرتبط بذاته لا بربط زائد فيكون وجود الممكن رابطياً عندهم و رابطاً عندنا و قد مرت الإشارة سابقاً إلى الفرق بينهما معنى - و عقد الاصطلاح المتفاوت عليها لفظاً ثلثاً يقع الغلط من اشتباه أحد المعنيين بالآخر - بسبب اشتراك اللفظ كما وقع لبعض

وهم و تنبيه:

إن بعضاً من أجلة العلماء المتأخرين أراد أن يصل إلى مقام الواصلين من أصحاب المعارج و أولياء الحكمة المتعالية فقال في رسالته المسماة بالزوراء المعقودة لبيان توحيد الوجود السواد إن اعتبر على النحو الذي هو في الجسم أعني أنه هيئة الجسم كان موجوداً و إن اعتبر على أنه ذات مستقلة كان معدوماً - و الثوب إن اعتبر صورة في القطن كان موجوداً و إن اعتبر مبايناً للقطن ذاتاً على حياله كان ممتنعاً من تلك الحيثية فاجعل ذلك مقياساً لجميع الحقائق تعرف معنى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٣١

قول من قال الأعيان الثابتة ما شمت رائحة الوجود و أنها لم تظهر و لا تظهر أبداً و إنما يظهر رسمها انتهت ألفاظه و قد ذكر فصولاً أخرى ليست معانيها في القوة و المتانة - أقوى من معنى هذا الكلام في هذا المقام. و إنني لقضيت من ادعائه الطيران إلى السماء بهذه الأجنحة الواهية فإن الخط و الخلط في هذا القول أوضح من أن يخفى عند المتدرب في الصناعات العلمية - أو لم يقع فيه وضع أحد معنيي الوجود الرابطي موضع الآخر فإن الأسود في قولنا الجسم أسود من حيث كونه وقع محمولاً في الهلية المركبة لا وجود له إلا بمعنى كونه ثبوتاً للجسم و هذا مما لا يأبى أن يكون للأسود باعتبار آخر غير اعتبار كونه محمولاً في الهلية المركبة وجود و إن كان وجوده الثابت في نفسه هو بعينه وجوده للجسم.

قوله و إن اعتبر على أنه ذات مستقلة كان معدوماً إن أراد بالذات المستقلة الحقيقة الجوهرية فكلامه حق لا ريب فيه لأن الحقيقة الجوهرية ممتنعة الثبوت للأعراض - لكن التردد غير حاصر لجواز أن يعتبر له ذات عرضية لها اعتبار غير اعتبار كونها صفة لشيء بل باعتبارها في نفسها إذ لا شبهة في أن الإضافة إلى الموضوع خارجة عن نفس ماهيتها المأخوذة بما هي هي و إن أراد بها اعتبار الأسود بحسب ماهيتها المأخوذة بنفسها فالحكم بكونها معدومة غير مسلم إذ كما أن للجوهر وجوداً في نفسه كذلك للعرض وجود في نفسه إلا أن وجود الأعراض في أنفسها هي بعينها وجودها لموضوعاتها فللجوهر وجود في نفسه لنفسه و للعرض وجود في نفسه لا لنفسه بل لغيره - إذ قد مر أن المراد من الوجود لنفسه أن لا يكون قائماً بغيره

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٣٢

فصل (٢) في أن الوجود على أي وجه يقال إنه من المعقولات الثانية و بأي معنى يوصف بذلك

إن كثيرا ما يطلق المعقول الثاني على المحمولات العقلية و مبادئها الانتزاعية الذهنية و من هذا القبيل الطبائع المصدرية و لوازم الماهيات و النسب و الإضافات - و قد يطلق على المعاني المنطقية و المفهومات الميزانية التي هي في الدرجة الثانية و ما بعدها من المعقولية و هي المحمولات و العوارض العقلية التي تكون مطابق الحكم و المحكي عنه في حملها على المفهومات و انتزاعها من الموصوفات هو نحو وجودها الذهني على أن يكون المعقودة بها من القضايا ذهنيات و هذه هي موضوعات حكمة الميزان بخلاف الأولى فالوجود بالمعنى المصدري لا ما هو حقيقته و ذاته

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٣٣

و كذا الشئئية و الإمكان و الوجوب و كذا المحمولات المشتقة منها من المعقولات الثانية بالمعنى الأول المستعمل في حكمة ما بعد الطبيعة لا بالمعنى الأخير المستعمل في الميزان إذ قد تحقق لك أن المعقولات الثانية هي ما يكون مطابق الحكم بها - هو نحو وجود المعقولات أولى في الذهن على أن يعتبر قيده لا شرطا في المحكوم عليه و هذا هو المراد بقولهم المعقولات الثانية مستندة إلى المعقولات الأولى و الوجود و كذا الشئئية و نظائرها ليس من هذا القبيل. و ليعلم أن النظر في إثبات نحو وجود تلك الثواني و أن وجودها هل في النفس أو في الأعيان و أن لها صلاحية الإيصال أو النفع في الإيصال من وظائف العلم الكلي إذ قد تبين فيه أن المعنى الكلي قد يكون نوعا و قد يكون جنسا أو فصلا أو خاصة أو عرضا عاما فالكلي بشرط كونه هذه الأمور مع صلاحية كونه موصلا أو نافعا في الإيصال يصير موضوعا لعلم المنطق ثم ما يعرض له بعد ذلك من اللوازم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٣٤

و الأعراض الذاتية يثبت في المنطق و الجهات أيضا كالوجوب و الامتناع و الإمكان - شرائط بها يصير المعقولات الثانية أو الثالثة موضوعا لعلم المنطق فإنه إذا علم في العلم الأعلى أن الكلي قد يكون واجبا و قد يكون ممكنا و قد يكون ممتنعا صار الكلي بهذه الشرائط موضوعا للمنطق و قس عليه سائر الموضوعات في أن إثباتها مع حيثية كونها موضوعات للعلوم موكول إلى علم هو أعلى منها و أما تحديدها و تحقيق ماهياتها فيكون في العلم الأسفل لا في العلم الأعلى و هذا أيضا يشعر لنا بأن الوجود للشيء متقدم على ماهيته و أن أثر الفاعل بالذات هو الوجود لا الماهية على ما نحن بصده

تبصرة: إن من الصفات ما لها وجود في الذهن و العين جميعا

سواء كان وجوده انضماميا كالبياض و هو ما يكون لها صورة في الأعيان أو انتزاعيا كالعمى بمعنى أن يكون وجود الموصوف في الخارج بحيث يفهم منه تلك الصفة و صورة كل شيء عندنا نحو وجودها الخاص به بناء على طريقتنا من نفي وقوع الماهيات في الأعيان و نفي مجعوليتها بل الواقع في الأعيان بالذات - منحصر في الوجود و لا حظ لغير حقيقة الوجود من الكون في الأعيان و كون الماهيات في الأعيان عبارة عن اتحادها مع نحو من حقيقة الوجود لا على الوجه الذي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٣٥

ذهب إليه النافون للكلبي الطبيعي و من الصفات ما ليس لها وجود عيني بأحد من الوجهين المذكورين أصلاً إنما وجودها العيني هو أنها حال ذهني لموجود ذهني كالنوعية للإنسان و الجزئية للأشخاص كما أنه ليس معنى قولنا زيد جزئي في الواقع أن الجزئية لها صورة خارجية قائمة بزيد فكذلك ليس معناه أن زيدا في الخارج - بما هو في الخارج جزئي في ملاحظة العقل.

و المعقولات الثانية بالوجه الأعم لا يلزمها أن لا يقع إلا في العقود الذهنية - إذ ربما يكون مطابق الحكم و المحكي عنه بها نفس الحقيقة بما هي هي لا بما هي معقولة في الذهن و لا بما هي واقعة في العين ك لوازم الماهيات و إن كان ظرف العروض هو الذهن فيصدق العقود حقيقية كقولنا الماهية ممكنة و الأربعة زوج و المعقولات الثانية في لسان الميزانيين قسم من المعقولات الثانية بهذا المعنى لكن المعقودات بها لا تكون إلا قضايا ذهنية كما علمت بخلاف ما هي بالمعنى الأعم الدائر بين الفلاسفة فإن المنعقد بها من القضايا صنفان حقيقية و ذهنية صرفة.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٣٦

ذكر تنبيهي و تعقيب تحصيلي:

إن رهطاً من القوم قد جوزا كون الصفات عدمية مع اتصاف الموصوفات بها في نفس الأمر و بين بعض أجلتهم ذلك بقوله إن معنى الاتصاف في نفس الأمر أو في الخارج - هو أن يكون الموصوف بحسب وجوده في أحدهما بحيث يكون مطابق حمل تلك الصفة عليه و هو مصداقه و لا شك أن هذا المعنى يقتضي وجود ذلك الموصوف في ظرف الاتصاف إذ لو لم يوجد فيه لم يكن هو من حيث ذلك الوجود مطابق الحكم - و لا يقتضي وجود الصفة فيه بل يكفي كون الموصوف في ذلك النحو من الوجود بحيث لو لاحظته العقل صح له انتزاع تلك الصفة عنه و قس على ما ذكرناه الحال في الاتصاف الذهني فإن مصداق الحكم بكلية الإنسان هو وجوده في الذهن على وجه خاص - يصير مبدءاً لانتزاع العقل الكلية منه ثم الحمل عليه اشتقاقاً فمعنى كون الخارج أو الذهن ظرفاً للاتصاف هو أن يكون وجود الموصوف في أحدهما منشأ لصحة انتزاع العقل ذلك الاتصاف عنه انتهى كلامه و فيه محل انظار كما لا يخفى.

و الحق أن الاتصاف نسبة بين شيئين متغايرين بحسب الوجود في ظرف

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٣٧

الاتصاف بالحكم بوجود أحد الطرفين دون الآخر في الظرف الذي يكون الاتصاف فيه تحكم نعم الأشياء متفاوتة في الموجودية و لكل منها حظ خاص من الوجود ليس للآخر منها فكل صفة من الصفات مرتبة من الوجود يترتب عليها آثار مختصة بها حتى الإضافيات و أعدام الملكات و القوى و الاستعدادات فإن لها أيضاً حظوظاً ضعيفة من الوجود و التحصل لا يمكن الاتصاف بها إلا عند وجودها لموصوفاتها.

و لا فرق في ذلك بين صفة و صفة فكما أن البياض إذا لم يكن موجوداً للجسم وجوداً عينياً به يكون موجوديته و نحو حصوله الخارجي لا يمكن وصف ذلك الجسم بأنه أبيض وصفاً مطابقاً لما في نفس الأمر فكذلك حكم اتصاف

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٣٨

أعمى و اتصاف السماء بكونها فوق الأرض و غيرهما فما وقع في كتب أهل الفن كالشفاء للشيخ و التحصيل لبهمنيار تلميذه من أن الصفة إن كانت معدومة فكيف يكون المعدوم في نفسه موجودا لشيء فإن المعدوم في نفسه مستحيل الوجود لشيء آخر معناه ما ذكرناه فلا يوجب نقضا عليه اتصاف الأشياء بالإضافيات و الأعدام و القوى لما دريت من أن لها حظا من الوجود ضعيفا- هو شرط اتصاف موصوفاتها بها و بإزاء مرتبة وجودها سلب و رفع لها يمنع عن الاتصاف بها و ربما كان حظ الصفة من الوجود أقوى و أكد من حظ الموصوف بها منه- و ذلك كما في اتصاف الهيولى الأولى بالصورتين الجسمية و الطبيعية بل اتصاف كل مادة بالصورة كما ستقف عليه في بابہ إن شاء الله تعالى فاعتبار الوجود في جانب الموصوف دون الصفة كما فعله القائل المذكور ليس له وجه بل لأحد أن يعكس الأمر في تعميمه حسب ما لم يشترط وجود أحد الطرفين في الاتصاف بأن يقول معنى الاتصاف في كل ظرف هو كون الصفة بحيث يكون نحو وجودها فيه منشأ الحكم بها على الموصوف أعم من أن يكون بانضمامها به أو بانتزاعه منها ثم يدعي بعد هذا التعميم و التقرير أنه لا شك أن هذا المعنى يستلزم وجود الصفة في ظرف الاتصاف دون الموصوف بنحو البيان الذي ذكره. فقد تحقق أن ما ذكره من الفرق بين طرفي الاتصاف في الثبوت و عدمه سخيف من القول لا يرتضيه ذو تدبر.

تنبيه: و لعلك على هدى من فضل ربك في تعرف حال مراتب الأكوان

في الكمال و النقص و تحصلات الأشياء في القوة و الضعف و المتانة و القصور فعليك أن تدفع بهذا عارا عظيما يتوهم القاصرون عن غايات الأنظار و روده على أولياء الحكمة و أئمة العلم و تميظ به الأذى عن طريق السلاك الناهجين طريق الحق و هو أنهم عرفوا الحكمة بأنها علم بأحوال الموجودات الخارجية- على ما هي عليها في الواقع و عدوا من جملة الحكمة معرفة أحوال المعقولات الثانية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٣٩

و أحوال المقولات السبعة النسبية بأن تذكر ما أصلناه من أن الوجود لكل شيء من الأشياء له مرتبة خاصة من الظهور و درجة مخصوصة من الفعلية و الحصول و غاية المجد و العلو أن يكون قيوما غنيا واجبا بالذات غير متعلق القوام بغيره أصلا فيكون بما هو هو فعلية محضة مقدسة عن جميع شوائب القوة و الإمكان و النقص و القصور و ما سواه مصحوب بالقصور و الإمكان الذاتيين على تفاوت مراتبها و تباين طبقاتها فيهما فكل ما بعد عن منبع الوجود و الوجوب كان قصوره أشد و إمكانه أكثر إلى أن ينتهي الوجود إلى غاية من النزول و الخسة يكون وجودها الجوهرية عين تقومها بالصورة الحالة فيه و فعليتها محض القوة و الاستعداد و وحدتها الشخصية بعينها كثرتها الانفصالية تارة و وحدتها الاتصالية أخرى و إذا علمت هذا النحو من القصور في الجواهر بحسب النزول فما ظنك بالأعراض إلى م ينتهي نحو وجوداتها في الوهن و الخسة بحسب مراتب إمكاناتها الذاتية و الاستعدادية فقد انتهت الأعراض في الخسة إلى عرض نحو حقيقتها و وجودها- نفس التشوق و الطلب و السلوك إلى عرض آخر كيفي أو إيني أو وضعي على سبيل التجزي و التدريج و المهلة فهذا حظ ذلك العرض المسمى بالحركة من الوجود العيني فإذا ثبت للحركة وجود في الفلسفة الأولى

أثبت لها هذا النحو من الوجود اللائق بها بحسب الأعيان لا بحسب الأوهام كيف وإثبات نحو آخر من الوجود وهو القار لها هو الجهل المضاد للحكمة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٤٠

فصل (٣) في أن الوجود خير محض

هذه المسألة إنما تتضح حق اتضاحها بعد ما ثبت أن لمفهوم الوجود المعقول - الذي من أجلى البديهيات الأولية مصداقا في الخارج و حقيقة و ذاتا في الأعيان و أن حقيقتها نفس الفعلية و الحصول و الوقوع لا بالمعنى المصدري كما ظنه المتأخرون كلهم بل بمعنى أنها نفس حقيقة الوقوع و ما به الوقوع سواء كان الوقوع وقوع نفسه أي نفس الوجود أو وقوع شيء آخر هو الماهية و أما من لم يضع للمفهوم من الوجود - عند العقل حقيقة و ذاتا سوى هذا المفهوم الانتزاعي البديهي التصور فيصعب عليه بل لا يجوز له دعوى كون الوجود خيرا محضا لأن معنى الخير ما يؤثر عند العقلاء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٤١

و يشترك إليه الأشياء و يطلبه الموجودات و يدور عليه طبعاً و إرادة و جبلة و بين أن الأشياء ليست طالبة للمعنى المصدري و لا يكون مبتغاهاً و مقصودها مفهوما ذهنياً و معقولا ثانوياً و هذا في غاية الظهور و الجلاء لا يليق أن يخفى بطلانه على أوائل العقول الإنسانية من غير رجوعها إلى استعمال الفكر و الروية. فإذا تحقق أن وجود كل شيء هو نحو ظهوره بإفاضة نور الوجود عليه من القيوم الواجب بالذات المنور للماهيات و مخرجها من ظلمات العدم إلى نور الوجود - فالخير بالحقيقة يرجع إلى حقيقة الوجود سواء كان مجرداً عن شوب الشرية - التي هي عبارة إما عن قصور الوجود و نقصانه في شيء من الأشياء أو فقدته و امتناعه رأساً أو لا يكون فالشر مطلقاً عديمي إما عدم ذات ما أو عدم كمال و تمام في ذات ما - أو في صفة من صفاته الكمالية الوجودية فالشر لا ذات له أصلاً.

و أما الماهيات الإمكانية و الأعيان الثابتة في العقول فهي في حدود أنفسها لا يوصف بخيرية و لا شرية لأنها لا موجودة و لا معدومة باعتبار أنفسها و وجودها المنسوب إليها على النحو الذي قررناه مراراً خيريتها و عدمها شربيتها. فالوجود خير محض و العدم شر محض فكل ما وجوده أتم و أكمل فخيريته أشد و أعلى مما هو دونه فخير الخيرات من جميع الجهات و الحثيات حيث يكون وجود بلا عدم و فعل بلا قوة و حقيقة بلا بطلان و وجوب بلا إمكان و كمال بلا نقص و بقاء بلا تغير و دوام بلا تجدد ثم الوجود الذي هو أقرب الوجودات إليه خير الخيرات الإضافية و هكذا الأقرب فالأقرب إلى الأبعد فالأبعد و الأتم فالأتم إلى الأنقص فالأنقص إلى أن ينتهي إلى أقصى مرتبة النزول و هي الهيولى الأولى التي حظها من

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٤٢

الوجود عريها في ذاتها عن الوجود و فعليتها هي كونها قوة وجودات الأشياء و تمامها نقصانها و شرفها خستها و فعلها قبولها و تحصلها إبهامها و فصلها جنسها كما سيرد عليك برهانه في موضعه فهي منبع الشرور و الأعدام و معدن

النقائص و الآلام - على أنها شبكة بها يصطاد النفوس الناطقة التي هي طيور سماوية لها أفقاص عنصرية. ثم اعلم أن الوجودات باقية على خيريتها الأصلية و العرضية أيضا ما دامت هي غير نازلة إلى عالم التصادم و التضاد و لم ينته سلسلتها إلى حيز المكان و الزمان و أما إذا انجرت سلسلة الوجود إلى عالم الأجسام و الظلمات و مضائق الأكوان و الازدحامات فبعض الوجودات مع أنه خير محض بالذات و بالعرض بحسب ذاته - و بالقياس إلى ما لا يستضر به بل ينتفع منه و هو ما يناسبه هذا الوجود و يلائمه لكنه بالقياس إلى ما يستضر به أو يتأذى منه أو ينعدم به يوصف بالشرية لأنه يؤدي إلى عدم ذات أو عدم كمال لذات فيكون الشر بالذات أحد هذين العدمين لا الوجود بما هو وجود لأنه خير محض كما علمت.

فالشر الحقيقي غير مقضي البتة و الشر الغير الحقيقي مقضي بالعرض للزومه - لما هو خير حقيقي و مقضي بالذات و هو الوجود بسنخه و طبيعته و قد مر أن لوازم الماهيات غير مستندة إلى الجاعل و الشرور منبعها قصورات الأنبيات و نقصانات الوجود عن الكمال الأتم و الجمال الأعظم

فصل (٤) في أن الوجود لا ضد له و لا مثل له

تقابل التضاد من شرطه كون المتضادين مما يقعان تحت جنس واحد غير عال

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٤٣

كما سيأتي في مباحث التقابل و الوجود من حيث هو وجود قد مر أنه لا جنس له فلا يقع فيه التضاد و أيضا من شرط المتضادين بما هما متضادان أن يكون بينهما غاية الخلاف و ليس بين وجود و وجود بما هو وجودان كذلك و لا أيضا بين طبيعة الوجود المطلق و شيء من المفاهيم القابلة للوجود كذلك و إذ لا طبيعة أعم من الوجود يندرج هو تحتها و يشاركه غيره فيها و في لوازمها فلا يتصور لطبيعة الوجود مثل أيضا نعم الوجودات الخاصة باعتبار تخصصها بالمعاني و المفاهيم التي هي غير حقيقة الوجود قد يقع فيها التضاد و التماثل فالوجود بما هو وجود لا ضد له و لا مثل له كيف و الضدان و المتماثلان موجودان متخالفان أو متساويان و موجودية الوجود بنفسه لا بما يزيد عليه فيخالف جميع الحقائق لوجود أضدادها و تحقق أمثالها فصدق فيه ليس كمثله شيء و به يتحقق الضدان و يتقوم المثلان بل هو الذي يظهر بصورة الضدين و يتجلى في هوية المثلين و غيرهما و هذه الحثيات إنما هي باعتبار التعينات و التنزلات و أما بحسب حقيقة الوجود بما هو وجود فيضمحل فيه الحثيات كلها و يتحد معه الجهات جميعها فإن جميع الصفات الوجودية المتقابلة أو المتشابهة مستهلكة في عين الوجود فلا مغائرة إلا في اعتبار العقل.

و أما ما يتمسك في ذلك بأن اشتراك طبيعة الوجود بين الأشياء يوجب عروضها لما فرض ضدا أو مثلا لها فيلزم اجتماع الضدين أو المثلين بالفعل أو بالإمكان و عروض أحد الضدين أو المثلين للآخر فليس بشيء لعدم تسليم عروضها لجميع المعقولات من جميع الحثيات لعدم عروضه للمعدوم بما هو معدوم لا بما هو أحد المعقولات فلو التزم أن يكون لها ضد أو مثل لا يمكن أن يتحقق في وجود أو وهم بما هو كذلك لا بما هو أحد المفاهيم لم تكن القاعدة شاملة ففات ما ادعي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٤٤

إثباته ثم عروض الشيء لصدده غير ظاهر الفساد.

تتمة:

فطبيعة الوجود مخالفة بحسب مفهومه للمفاهيم غير منافية لها كيف و ما من مفهوم إلا و له تحقق في الخارج أو في العقل - و الصفات السلبية مع كونها عائدة إلى العدم راجعة إلى الوجود من وجه فكل من الجهات المتغايرة و الحثيات المتنافية لها رجوع إلى حقيقة الوجود و عدم اجتماعها في الوجود الخارجي الذي هو مرتبة من مراتب الوجود و نشأة من نشأته لا ينافي اجتماعها في الوجود من حيث هو وجود و أما كونه منافيا للعدم فليس باعتبار كونه مفهومًا من المفاهيم فإنه بهذا الاعتبار لا يأبى اتصافه بالوجود مطلقًا بل هو بهذا الاعتبار كسائر المعاني العقلية و المفاهيم الكلية في إمكان تلبسها بالوجود بوجه ما بل المتأبى لشمول الوجود ما يفرضه العقل مصداقًا لهذا المفهوم بعقد غير بتي - و طبيعة العدم أو المعدم بما هي معروضة لمفهومها مما لا خبر عنها أصلاً و ليس شيئًا من الأشياء و لا مفهومًا من المفاهيم بل الوهم يخترع لمفهوم العدم موصوفًا - و يحكم عليه بالبطلان و الفساد لا على نفس ذلك المفهوم لكونه متمثلًا في الذهن - هذا في العدم المطلق - و كذا الحال في العدميات الخاصة إلا أن هناك نظرًا آخر حيث إن العدم الخاص كما أن مفهومه كالعدم المطلق باعتبار التمثيل العقلي له حصة من الوجود المطلق كذلك موصوفة بخصوصه له حظ ما من الوجود و لهذا حكم بافتقاره إلى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٤٥

موضوع كما تفتقر الملكة إليه.

ثم مطلق الوجود للشيء المتحقق بأي نحو من الأنحاء و طور من الأطوار - يقابله العدم المطلق المساوق لرفع جملة الوجودات و قد يجتمعان لا باعتبار التقابل - كما في تصور مفهوم المعدم المطلق المتعري عن الوجود مطلقًا إذ قد انسلب عنه جميع الوجودات في هذا الاعتبار مع أن هذا الاعتبار بعينه نحو وجود و هذا الانسلاب بذاته نحو انتساب و هذا التعري في نفسه نحو خلط لعدم انسلابه عن تصور ما - و التصور وجود عقلي فهو فرد من أفراد مطلق الوجود فانظر إلى شمول نور الوجود و عموم فيضه كيف يقع على جميع المفاهيم و المعاني حتى على مفهوم الاشياء و العدم المطلق و المتمتع الوجود بما هي مفاهيم متمثلات ذهنية لا بما هي سلوب و أعدام - و قد ذكرنا اختلاف حمل الشيء على الشيء بالذاتي الأولي و العرضي الصناعي و به يندفع إشكال المجهول المطلق و ما شاكلة ففي هذا الموضع نقول للعقل أن يتصور جميع المفاهيم حتى عدم نفسه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٤٦

و عدم العدم و المعدم المطلق و المعدم في الذهن و جميع الممتنعات و له أن يعتبر المجهول المطلق و مفهومي النقيضين و مفهوم الحرف و يحكم عليها بأحكامها - كعدم الإخبار في المجهول المطلق و نفي الاجتماع في النقيضين و عدم الاستقلال في المفهومية في الحرف لا على أن يكون ما يتصوره هو ذات المجهول المطلق و حقيقة النقيضين و فرد الحرف و شخص العدم المطلق و شريك الباري إذ كل ما يتقرر في عقل أو وهم فهو من الموجودات الإمكانية و المعاني الملحوظة بالذات بحسب الحمل الشائع و لكن يحمل عليها عنواناتها بالحمل الأولي فقط فلم يحمل على

شيء منها أنه اجتماع النقيضين أو المعدوم المطلق و شريك الباري مثلا بالحمل الشائع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٤٧

العرفي لأن هذه المفهومات ليست عنوانا لشيء من الطبائع الثابتة في عقل أو خارج - بل العقل بتعمله الذي له يقدر و يفرض أن شيئا من هذه المفهومات عنوان لفرد ما باطل الذات ممتنع التحقق أصلا فيحكم عليه لأجل تمثل هذا المفهوم الذي قدر كونه معنونا بها بامتناع الحكم عليه أصلا أو الإخبار عنه رأسا أو الوجود له مطلقا أو الاستقلال في مفهومه بوجه كل ذلك على سبيل إيجاب قضية حملية غير بنية - في قوة شرطية لزومية غير صادقة الطرفين فكان مفهوم المجهول المطلق من حيث يتمثل نفسه يتوجه عليه صحة الإخبار عنه و إن كان بعدم الإخبار عنه و إن امتنع الإخبار إنما يتوجه إليه باعتبار الانطباق على ما فرضه العقل أنه فرد له تقديرا.

و على هذا القياس حكم نظائره كالمعدوم المطلق في كونه لا يحكم عليه - بل في كل مفهوم لا يرتسم ذاته في العقل سواء كان عدم حصوله في الذهن لغاية الفساد و البطلان أو لفطر التحصل و الحقيقة مثلا إذا قلنا علم الواجب عين ذاته كان الحكم بالعينية على مفهوم الواجب لعدم ارتسام ذاته بكنهه في العقل و كذا المرتسم من صفاته الحقيقة ليس إلا مفهوماتها لكن عينية العلم و غيره من الصفات القدسية غير متوجه إلى المفهوم منها بل إلى ما يرشدنا البرهان إلى أنه بإزائه أعني الحقيقة المتعالية عن الحصر و الضبط في عقل أو وهم.

و سبيل ما أشرنا إليه سابقا في هذا الباب أن مفهوم المجهول المطلق لما كان اعتبارا لكون الشيء منسلخا عن جميع أنحاء المعلوماتية ففي هذه الملاحظة معرى عن كافة أقسام المعلوماتية حتى عن المعلوماتية بهذا الوجه و هذا هو مناط امتناع الإخبار عنه و حيث إن هذه الملاحظة نحو من أنحاء معلوماتية هذا الشيء فكان هو مشوبا بالمعلوماتية في ضمن سلب المعلوماتية و هذا هو مناط صحة الإخبار عنه بعدم الإخبار عنه.

و كذا نقول ملاحظة مفهوم المعدوم المطلق لما كان عبارة عن تعرية الشيء عن كافة الوجودات الخارجية و الذهنية كان مناط امتناع الحكم عليه مطلقا و حيث إن مطلق اعتبار الشيء و تصويره و إن كان في ضمن عدم الاعتبار و عدم التصور نحو من أنحاء وجود ذلك الشيء فكان هو متصفا بالوجود في هذا الاعتبار و بحسبه و هذا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٤٨

منشأ صحة الحكم عليه بسلب الحكم أو بإيجاب سلبه فإذن فيه جهتان مصححتان لصحة مطلق الحكم و سلبه و إليه أشار المحقق الطوسي ره في نقد المحصل حيث قال - رفع الثبوت الشامل للخارجي و الذهني يتصور بما ليس بثابت و لا متصور أصلا فيصح الحكم عليه من حيث هو ذلك المتصور و لا يصح من حيث هو ليس بثابت و لا يكون متناقضا لاختلاف الموضوعين و لا مانع من أن يكون شيء قسيما لشيء باعتبار و قسما منه باعتبار آخر مثلا إذا قلنا الموجود إما ثابت في الذهن و إما غير ثابت في الذهن - فاللا موجود في الذهن قسيم للموجود من حيث إنه مفهوم أضيف فيه كلمة لا إلى الموجود و من حيث إنه مفهوم قسم من الثابت في الذهن

فصل (٥) في أن عدم مفهوم واحد

إن من الأمور المعلومة بأوائل العقول أن عدم في نفسه ليس إلا أمرا بسيطا ساذجا متحد المعنى ليس فيه اختلاف و

امتياز و تحصل إلا من جهة ما يضاف إليه- وليس في الواقع أو في الأوهام أعدام متمائزة في ذواتها أو في عوارضها لمعدومات متغايرة في معدوميتها ولا حصص من السلوب متكررة لمسلوبات متعددة بل كل ما يقع في بقعة العدم و كتم البطلان حاله كحال غيره من المعدومات من حيث هي معدومات- و كما أن المعدوم في ظرف ما ليس بشيء فيه فكذلك العدم و إنما التمايز في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٤٩

الأعدام باعتبار الملكات فالعقل يتصور أشياء متمائزة في ذواتها أو في عوارضها- كالعلة و المعلول و الشرط و المشروط و الضد و الضد و يضيف إليها مفهوم العدم- فيحصل عدم العلة متميذا عن عدم المعلول و مختصا من جملة الأعدام بالعلة له و يتميز عدم الشرط من عدم المشروط و عن سائر الأعدام و يختص بأنه ينافي وجود المشروط- و كذلك عدم الضد يتميز عنها و يختص بأنه يصح وجود الضد الآخر و أما مع قطع النظر عن ذلك فلا يتميز عدم عن عدم بل ليس عدم و عدم و معدوم و معدوم و الوهم حيث يجد اليد ممتازة عن الرجل فيغلط و يقول عدم أحدهما غير عدم الآخر و لو كان الأمر كما يحسبه لكان في كل شيء أعدام متضاعفة غير متناهية مرات لا متناهية. و أما تجويزهم التسلسل في العدميات كأعدام الحوادث الغير المتناهية فهو إنما وقع لأن مرجعه إلى اللايقفي و غير المتناهي فيه بالقوة أبدا و ما يخرج إلى الفعل متناه البتة بلا تعيين مرتبة من التناهي بخصوصها بل العقل يفصل العدم بعد أن يضيفه إلى المتعدد إلى عدم هذا و عدم ذاك تفصيلا يشبه تفصيل المتصل الواحد إلى هذا الجزء و ذلك الجزء و كما يصح الحكم على أجزاء المتصل الواحد بعد توهم الانفصال بينها بتقديم بعضها على بعض بالرتبة و على المجموع بالطبع فكذلك يصح

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٥٠

الحكم بالتقدم و التأخر بين تلك العدميات بالعلة و المعلولية و كما أن اللانهاية في أجزاء المتصل بحسب القوة بمعنى عدم تعيين الانتهاء في القسمة الأجزائية بالوصول إلى جزء لا يمكن فرض جزء آخر فيه فكذلك التسلسل في الأعدام بمعنى عدم الانتهاء إلى عدم لا يصح للعقل اعتبار عدم آخر متقدم عليه بالعلة لا بمعنى ترتب أمور غير متناهية فالعدم ليس إلا عدم واحد لا تحصل له أصلا و ليس في نفس الأمر شيء هو عدم و لذلك لا يجاب عنه بشيء إذا سئل عنه بما هو و لا يجاب به إذا سئل عن شيء بما هو فإذا مرجع عليه العدم إلى عدم عليه الوجود و مرجع عروض العدم لشيء- إلى عدم عروض الوجود له و عدم عروض الوجود له ليس بعروض فرد أو حصة من العدم

فصل (٦) في كيفية عليّة كل من عديمي العلة و المعلول للآخر

اعلم أن العدم بما هو عدم لا يكون معقولا كما لا يكون موجودا لكن العقل الإنساني من شأنه أن يتصور لكل أمر مفهوما و يجعل ذلك المفهوم عنوانا و كما يضع لأنحاء الوجودات الخارجية معاني ذاتية هي ماهيات تلك الوجودات كذلك يضع للأمور الباطلة الذوات مفهومات يصدق عليها تلك المفهومات على التقديرية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٥١

لذواتها كما سبق.

ثم اعلم أن الأشياء العدمية و الأمور الذهنية الصرفة التي ليست لها ذوات خارجية ليس لها تنوع و تحصل إلا بما يضاف هي إليه فالعدم المقيد بشيء ما إنما يعقل و يتحصل في العقل بسبب ذلك الشيء و يصح لحق الأحكام و الاعتبار به من حيث هو معقول و ثابت في العقل فيصح أن يحكم عليه بالعلية و المعلولية و غيرهما من الأحكام و الأحوال فيقال عدم العلة علة لعدم المعلول و لا يقال عدم المعلول علة لعدم العلة و إن علم من عدم المعلول عدم العلة على سبيل الاستدلال.

و تحقيق ذلك أن عدم العلة إذا صار متصورا صح الحكم عليه بالعلية من جهتين من جهة أن وجود عدم العلة في الذهن و مثوله بين يدي العقل مصحح أن يكون محكوما عليه بالعلية و إن لم يكن مطابقا للحكم فإن مطابق الحكم بالعلية على الوجه الذي أومأنا إليه و المحكي عنه بها هو ما يطابقه أعني رفع العلة بما هو رفع و بطلان لا بما هو صورة عقلية و مفهوم علمي فالمحكي عنه بالعلية على الوجه الذي مر ذكره هو الرفع للعلة و إن كانت الحكاية عنه ما وقعت إلا حين حضور مفهومه و صورته عند العقل و من جهة أن نفس حضور عدم العلة في العقل يوجب نفس حضور عدم المعلول فيه - و أما علة عدم المعلول لعدم العلة فليست إلا من الجهة الأخيرة فعلة أحد العدمين للآخر - يكون في كلا الطرفين العلم و العين و علة الآخر له في أحدهما و هو العلم دون العين فالعدمان بما هما عدمان أحدهما بخصوصه علة و الآخر بخصوصه معلول و إن كان الحكم عليهما بالعلية و المعلولية على الوجه المقرر في مرآة العقل و أما صورتاهما العقليتان فكل واحدة منهما سبقت إليه في الارتسام صارت سببا لارتسام الآخر فلا دور فكما أن إثبات العلة سبب لإثبات المعلول و إثبات المعلول دليل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٥٢

على إثبات العلة فكذلك عدم العلة سبب لعدم المعلول و عدم المعلول دليل كاشف على عدم العلة فإذا رفعت العلة فوجب رفع المعلول و إذا رفع المعلول لا يجب منه رفع العلة بل يكون قد ارتفعت حتى ارتفع معلولها فالمعلول عدمه مع عدم العلة و به - و العلة عدمها مع عدم المعلول لا به

فصل (٧) في أن عدم كيف يعرض لنفسه

العدم كما يعرض لغيره و يصدق اشتقاقا فكذلك يعرض لنفسه فيحكم عليه بأنه معدوم في الخارج فإن اشتبه عليك أن عدم المضاف إلى أي شيء كان يكون نوعا من العدم و مقابلا لمعرضه و ما يضاف إليه فإذا أضيف إلى نفسه و صار عدم العدم فقد اجتمع فيه النوعية و التقابل و هما متدافعان إذ النوعية يوجب الحمل بهو و التقابل يوجب نفيه فتذكر أن العارضية و المعروضية بين العدم و معرضه في الحقيقة - ليست إلا بحسب وجودهما في العقل لكن العروض العقلية الثابت للعدم كاشف عن بطلان معرضه فما يضاف إليه العدم و يعرضه بما له صورة عقلية قيد لمفهوم العدم محصل له مقوم لثبوته في الذهن ثابت معه فيه فيكون العدم المقيد به نوعا من العدم و بما هو عنوان لأمر عرض له الفساد و الهلاك بسبب عروض طبيعة العدم له يكون مقابلا له فموضوع النوعية و التقابل مختلف كيف و النوعية من أحوال

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٥٣

المعقول بما هو معقول كسائر المعاني المنطقية من ثواني المعقولات و التقابل من الأحوال الخارجية للأشياء لأن المتقابلين مما يجتمعان معا في الذهن و ما ذكرناه أليق بانحلال هذه العقدة مما هو المسطور في أرقام أهل التدقيق من الآخرين

فصل (٨) في أن المعدوم لا يعاد

العدم ليس له ماهية إلا رفع الوجود و حيث علمت أن الوجود للشيء نفس هويته فكما لا يكون لشيء واحد إلا هوية واحدة فكذلك لا يكون له إلا وجود واحد و عدم واحد فلا يتصور وجودان لذات بعينها و لا فقدانان لشخص بعينه فهذا ما رامه العرفاء بقولهم إن الله لا يتجلى في صورة مرتين فإذا المعدوم لا يعاد بعينه - كيف و إذا كانت الهوية الشخصية المعادة بعينها هي الهوية المبتدأة على ما هو المفروض - فكان الوجود أيضا واحدا فإن وحدة الهوية عين وحدة الوجود و قد فرض متعددا هذا خلف و يلزم أيضا أن يكون حيثية الابتداء عين حيثية الإعادة مع كونهما متنافيين هذا محال.

ثم إنه كما لم يكن فرق بين حالة الابتداء و حالة الاستيناف لم يتعين الاستيناف الأول من الاستيناف الثاني و الثالث من الرابع و هكذا فيلزم جواز تحقق إعادات غير متناهية لعدم تعيين مرتبة من المراتب إلا متناهية للوقوف عندها في الاستيناف دون

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٥٤

غيرها بعد تسويغ ذلك أولا و هو مستبين الفساد و قس عليه حال تكرر عدم شيء واحد بعينه. فإن قلت كثير من الحوادث الزمانية كان معدوما ثم يوجد ثم ينعدم فيكون عدما لذات واحدة فإذا جاز ذلك في العدم جاز في الوجود أيضا كما اعترفت به.

قلت قد مر أن معنى عروض العدم لشيء ليس إلا بطلانا صرفا للذات و ليسية محضة لها و ليس في الواقع معروض يضم إليه أو ينتزع منه العدم بل العقل يعين ذاتا و يضيف إليه مفهوم العدم فلا يتعدد عند العقل إلا بتكثر الملكات فلا ذات قبل الوجود و لا بعده حتى يقال إنها واحدة أو متعددة متماثلة و إنما يضيف العقل نسبة العدم إلى ذات يختص وجوده بزمان معين قبل وجوده و بعد وجوده.

و حاصل كون الشيء كان معدوما قبل وجوده و سيكون معدوما بعد وجوده - انحصار وعائه الوجودي و ضيق استعداده عن الاستمرار و الانبساط سابقا و لاحقا - فالعدم ليس إلا عدما واحدا لا يتصف بالذات بالسبق و اللحق بل إنما يتصور العقل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٥٥

بقوته الوهمية للحدث الزماني عدما أزليا ثم وجودا ثم عدما طاريا كطرفين و وسط حتى إن الأوهام العامية يتخيل أن العدم يطرأ على شيء و يرفع وجوده الخاص عن متن الواقع و يحك هويته عن صفحة الأعيان و ذلك لذهولهم عن أن وجودات الأشياء إنما هي عبارة عن تجليات المبدأ الحق و أشعة نور المبدأ الأول و شئونه الذاتية لا تتبدل كل منها عما هو له إلى غيره لكن المحجوب لقصور نظره عن الإحاطة بالجميع يتوهم أن كل واحد منها بطل عن صقع الوجود و

جاء غيره حل في مقامه وهكذا ولم يتفطن بأن طريان عدم على الشيء الثابت في الواقع - لا يخلو إما أن يكون في مرتبة وجوده وفي وعاء تحققه المختص به بعينه فيلزم اجتماع النقيضين في مرتبة واحدة أو في زمان واحد بعينه وإما أن يكون في غير مرتبة وجوده ووعاء تحققه فالشيء يستحيل أن يكون له وجود إلا في مرتبة وجوده و طرف فعليته و ظهوره فإن لكل شيء نحواً خاصاً من الوجود و مرتبة معينة من الكون مع توابعه و لوازمه من الصفات و الأزمنة و الأمكنة اللاتقة به الغير المتعدي عنها إلى غيرها - فإذا استحال أن يكون لكل شيء إلا نحو واحد من الوجود يقتضيه له أسبابه السابقة و شرائطه المتقدمة المنبثقة عن وجود المبدأ الأول تعالى فلم يتصور له طور آخر من الكون غير ما هو الواقع حتى يطرأ عليه عدم و يرفعه عن ساهرة الأعيان أو يقع عدم بدلا عنه في مقامه المفروض له.

و أما ما يقال من أن ذوات الممكنات لا يابى عن عدم و لو حين الوجود فمعناه أن مع قطع النظر عن الأمور الخارجية و أنحاء تجليات الحق الأول و كون الحقائق الوجودية من مظاهر أسمائه الحسنى و رشحات صفاته العليا إذا نظر إلى نفس ماهية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٥٦

كل من الطبائع الإمكانية و المفهومات العقلية لا يابى مفهومها و معناها عن لحوق شيء إليها و زواله عنها مما هو غير ذاتها و ذاتياتها من الوجود و عدم و غيرهما و ذلك لعدم قيام الوجود بذواتها الناقصة في الواقع فلا يابى عدم و لو في زمان انصباغها بصبغ الوجود و ظهورها بنوره و أما بالنظر إلى إفاضة الحق و تجليه في صور الأسماء و الصفات و إبقائه للحقائق إلى غاية معلومة عند علمه المحيط بكل شيء على ما هي عليها فهي ممتنعة عدم مستحيلة الفساد فتجوز عدم على شيء باعتبار مرتبة من التحقق و درجة من الوجود من أغاليط الوهم و أكاذيب المتخيلة هذا تحقيق الكلام في هذا المرام - على ذوق أرباب العرفان و وجدان أهل الإيقان

وها هنا استبصارات تنبيهية

ذكرها شيوخ الفلسفة العامة و رؤساؤهم في زبرهم - يناسب أهل البحث و يكفي لصاحب الطبع المستقيم إذا لم يعرضه آفة من العصبية و اللجاج بل الحكم بامتناع إعادة المعدوم بديهي عند بعض الناس كما حكم به الشيخ الرئيس و استحسنة الخطيب الرازي حيث قال كل من رجع إلى فطرته السليمة - و رفض عن نفسه الميل و العصبية شهد عقله الصريح بأن إعادة المعدوم ممتنع -

الأول منها لو أعيد المعدوم بعينه لزم تخلل عدم بين الشيء و نفسه

فيكون هو قبل نفسه قبلية بالزمان و ذلك بحذاء الدور الذي هو تقدم الشيء على نفسه بالذات - و اللازم باطل بالضرورة فكذا الملزوم.

و رد بمنع ذلك بحسب وقتين فإن معناها عند التحقيق تخلل عدم بين زمانى وجوده و اتصاف وجود الشيء بالسابق و اللاحق نظراً إلى وقتين لا ينافي اتحاده بالشخص.

و أنت تعلم سخافة هذا الكلام بتذكر ما أصلناه من أن وجود الشيء بعينه هويته الشخصية فوحدة الذات مع تعدد الوجود غير صحيح و أما توهم الانتقاض بالبقاء فهو ساقط لأن الذات المستمرة و حداثتها باقية و التكثر بحسب تحليل الذهن ليس في الحقيقة إلا للزمان بهويته الاتصالية الكمية فينحل في الوهم إلى الأجزاء - و تكثر أجزاء الزمان مستتبع

لتكثر نسبة الذات الواقعة فيها المنحظة وحدتها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٥٧

الذاتية في كل الزمان فلا يلزم تخلل الزمان بين الشيء و نفسه بل بين متاه الأول و متاه الثاني مع انحفاظ وحدته المستمرة في جميع إفاضاته المتجددة الزمانية.

الثاني لو جاز إعادة المعدوم بعينه أي بجميع لوازم شخصيته و توابع هويته العينية فجاز إعادة الوقت الأول

لأنه من جملتها و لأن الوقت أيضا معدوم يجوز إعادته لعدم التفرقة بين الزمان و غيره في تجوير الإعادة أو بطريق الإلزام على من يعتقد هذا الرأي لكن اللازم باطل لإفضائه إلى كون الشيء مبتدأ من حيث إنه معاد إذ لا معنى للمبتدأ إلا الوجود في وقته و فيه مفاصد ثلاثة جمع بين المتقابلين و منع لكونه معادا لأنه الموجود في الوقت الثاني لا الموجود في الوقت الأول - و رفع للتفرقة و الامتياز بين المبتدأ و المعاد حيث لم يكن معادا إلا من حيث كونه مبتدأ و الامتياز بينهما ضروري.

و هذا الوجه لا يبتني على كون الزمان من الشخصات فإنه غير صحيح بل يكفي كونه من الأمور التي هي أمارات التشخص و لوازم الهوية العينية التي لها أمثال من نوعها واقعة في الأحياز و الأوضاع و الأزمنة. فإن قيل لا نسلم كون الوقت من الشخصات بأي معنى كان فإنه قد يتبدل مع بقاء الشخص بعينه في الوقتين حتى إن من زعم خلاف ذلك نسب إلى السفسطة.

قلنا معنى كون الزمان و الحيز و الوضع و غيرها من العوارض المشخصة أن كل واحد منها مع سعة ما و عرض ما من لوازم الشخص و علامات تشخصه حتى لو فرض خروج الشخص عن حدي امتداد شيء من تلك العوارض لكان هالكا كما في العرض الشخصي الذي يكون للكيفيات المزاجية و هذا لا ينافي قولهم إن اجتماع المعاني الغير المشخصة لا يفيد التشخص لأن ذلك في التشخص بمعنى امتناع الصدق على كثيرين بحسب نفس التصور و هو الذي ليس مناطه إلا نحوا من أنحاء الوجود و كلامنا في التشخص بمعنى الامتياز عن الغير يجعل المادة مستعدة لفيضان الهوية الشخصية ذات التشخص بالمعنى الأول و التشخص بهذا المعنى يكون لازما إياها علامة لها و يجوز حصوله عن اجتماع أمور عرضية عد من جملتها الوقت.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٥٨

و اعترض على هذا الدليل بأن لا نسلم أن ما يوجد في الوقت الأول يكون مبتدأ البتة و إنما يلزم لو لم يكن الوقت معادا أيضا ثم بهذا الكلام أورد على ما يقال لو أعيد الزمان بعينه لزم التسلسل لأنه لا مغايرة بين المبتدأ و المعاد بالماهية - و لا بالوجود و لا بشيء من العوارض و إلا لم يكن له إعادة بعينه بل بالسابقة و اللاحقة بأن هذا في زمان سابق و هذا في زمان لاحق فيكون للزمان زمان فيعاد بعد العدم و يتسلسل.

دفع تحصيلي:

لا يحتجبن عن فطانتك أن السبق و الابتداء و الحقوق و الانتهاء - من المعاني الذاتية لأجزاء الزمان كما ستطلع عليه

حيث يحين وقته و بالجملة وقوع كل جزء من أجزاء الزمان حيث يقع من الضروريات الذاتية له لا يتعداه مثلا كون أمس متقدما على غد ذاتي لأمس كما أن التأخر عنه جوهرى لغد و كذا نسب كل جزء من أجزاء الزمان إلى غيره من بواقي الأجزاء - فلو فرض كون يوم الخميس واقعا يوم الجمعة كان مع فرض وقوعه يوم الجمعة يوم الخميس أيضا لأنه مقوم له لا يمكن انسلاخه عنه فحينئذ نقول الزمان المبتدأ - كونه مبتدأ عين هويته و ذاته فإذا فرض كونه معادا لا ينسلخ عن هويته و ذاته فيكون حينئذ مع كونه معادا بحسب الفرض مبتدأ بحسب الحقيقة لأنه من تمام فرضه فلو لم يكن مبتدأ لم يكن المفروض هو هو بل غيره فانهدم الأساسان و انفسخ الجوابان

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٥٩

الثالث لو جاز إعادة المعدوم بعينه لجاز أن يوجد ابتداء ما يماثله

في الماهية و جميع العوارض المشخصة لأن حكم الأمثال واحد و لأن التقدير أن وجود فرد بهذه الصفات من جملة الممكنات و اللازم باطل لعدم التميز بينه و بين المعاد - لأن التقدير اشتراكها في الماهية و جميع العوارض و اعترض عليه بوجهين - أحدهما أن عدم التميز في نفس الأمر غير لازم كيف و لو لم يتميزا لم يكونا شيئين و عند العقل غير مسلم الاستحالة إذ ربما يلتبس على العقل ما هو متميز في الواقع.

و ثانيهما أنه لو تم هذا الدليل لجاز وقوع شخصين متماثلين ابتداء بعين ما ذكرتم و يلزم عدم التميز و حاصله أنه لا تعلق لهذا بإعادة المعدوم.

أقول و الجواب أما عن الأول فبان التميز بين شيئين بحسب نفس الأمر لا ينفك عن التخالف في العوارض الشخصية فإذا لم يكن لم يكن و قوله لو لم يتميزا لم يكونا شيئين من باب أخذ المطلوب في بيان نفسه لأن الكلام في أنه مع تجويز إعادة شيء و فرض مثله معه لم يكونا اثنين لعدم الامتياز بينهما مع أن أحدهما معاد و الآخر مبتدأ.

و أما عن الثاني فبان فرض المثلين من جميع الوجوه حيثما كان و إن كان رفعا للامتياز الواقعي لكن فيما نحن فيه يلزم ذلك مع الامتياز الواقعي بمجرد وضع إعادة.

لا يقال الامتياز بينهما ليس مرفوعا بالكلية لاتصاف أحدهما بكونه كان حاصلا قبل دون الآخر.

لأننا نقول هذا الامتياز هو الذي يوجب وضعه رفعه إذ بعد ما تبين أن العدم هو بطلان الذات و ليس للمعدوم بما هو معدوم ذات و لا تمايز بين المعدومات بما هي معدومات ينكشف أنه لا يكون موضوع الوجودين و العدم شيئا واحدا لعدم انحفاظ وحدة الذات في العدم بل ليس إلا اثنيية صرفة فامتياز المعاد عن المستأنف المفروض معه أو بدله و اختصاصه بأنه معاد إن كان من جهة الذات حال العدم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٦٠

و كونها رابطة بين الوجودين السابق و اللاحق فالمعدوم لا ذات له و إن كان لأنه كان موجودا أولا دون المستأنف فهذا عين النسبة التي يقع النظر في إمكانها و كونها منشأ الامتياز بينهما و هما متساويان في استحقاق ذلك و الكلام في أنه مع فقد الاستمرار الموقع للاثنيية الصرفة كيف يتصور اختصاص أحدهما بالارتباط إلى الموجود السابق.

و ليس لأحد أن يقول إن الوجود الذهني للشيء عند الفلاسفة بمنزلة ثبوت المعدومات عند المعتزلة في تصحيح

الأحكام الثابتة للأشياء المعدومة فليكن هذا المقام من جملتها فالذات وإن عدمت في الخارج لكن يستحفظ وحدتها الشخصية بحسب الوجود الذهني في بعض المدارك المرتفعة عن التغير. لأننا نقول قد مر منا أن انحفاظ نحو الوجود والوحدة الشخصية غير متصور مع تبدل الظروف والأوعية إنما ذلك شأن ماهيات كلية يكون أنحاء الوجودات وأطوار الشخصيات من لواحقها الخارجة عن معناها وحقيقتها فالموجود في الذهن هوية مكتنفة بالمشخصات الذهنية واتحادها مع الموجود الخارجي ليس في نحو وجوده وتشخصه بل معنى ذلك أن بعد تجريد الماهية المقرونة بالتشخص ولوازمه - إذا جردت عنها يكون عين ما يقترن بشخص آخر منها.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٦١

الرابع أن إعادة كل ذات شخصية إنما يتصور لو أعيدت شيء من أجزاء علتها التامة

المقتضية لها واستعداد المادة لها بخصوصه وغير ذلك من متممات العلة ومصحات المعلول ونقل الكلام إلى آخر أجزاء علتها واستعداد استعداد مادتها - وهكذا إلى المبادي القصوى والعلل العليا وسينكشف لك إن شاء الله تعالى بطلان اللازم فالملزوم باطل مثله بيان الملازمة معلوم بأدنى التفات من العقل كيف ولو لم يكن الاستعداد والعلة هما هما بعينهما لم يكن المعاد المفروض إعاديا بل إنما يكون استينافيا مماثلا للابتدائي السابق ويتوهم أنه أعادي فإذن إنما يمكن إعادة الهوية الوجودية لو عادت الاستعدادات بجملتها والأدوار الفلكية والأوضاع الكوكبية برمتها وجملة ما سبقت في النظام الكلي بجميع لوازمها وتوابعها حتى في كونها ابتدائية والفطرة الصحيحة غير متوقفة في تكذيب هذا الوهم.

إهانة: القائلون بجواز إعادة المعدومات جمهور أهل الكلام

المخالفين لكافة الحكماء في ذلك ظنا منهم أن القول بتجوز إعادة في الأشياء بعد بطلانها يصحح الحشر الجسماني الناطق بوقوعه السنة الشرائع والكتب الإلهية النازلة على أهل السفارة وأصحاب الزلفى صلوات الله عليهم أجمعين. ولم يعلموا أن أسرار الشريعة الإلهية لا يمكن أن تستفاده من الأبحاث الكلامية والآراء الجدلية بل الطريق إلى معرفة تلك الأسرار منحصر في سبيلين إما سبيل الأبرار من إقامة جوامع العبادة وإدامة مراسم العدالة وإزالة وساوس العادة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٦٢

وإما سبيل المقربين من الرياضات العلمية وتوجيه القوى الإدراكية إلى جانب القدس وتصفيل مرآة النفس الناطقة وتسويتها لئلا يتدنس بالأخلاق الرديئة ولم تصدأ بما يورده الحواس إليها من أوصاف الأجسام ولم يتعوج بالآراء الفاسدة - فإنها حينئذ يتراءى صور الحقائق الإيمانية ويشاهد الأمور الغائبة عن حواسها وتعللها بصفاء جوهرها فأما إذا كانت النفس مما قد تدنس بالأعمال السيئة أو صدأت بالأخلاق الرديئة أو اعوجت بالآراء الفاسدة واستمرت على تلك الحال كآثر أرباب الجدال بقيت محجوبة عن إدراك حقائق الأشياء الإيمانية عاجزة عن الوصول إلى الله تعالى ويفوتها نعيم الآخرة كما قال الله تعالى كَلَّا إِنَّهُمْ عَنْ رَبِّهِمْ يَوْمَئِذٍ لَمَحْجُوبُونَ فمن أراد أن يصل إلى معرفة الله و صفاته وأفعاله ومعرفة إرسال رسله وإنزال كتبه - وكيفية النشأة الآخرة وأحوال الإنسان بعد الموت وسائر أسرار المبدأ والمعاد بعلم الكلام وطريق المناظرة فقد استسمن ذا ورم وإذا جاء حين أن ينسبط القول في معاد النفوس و

كيفية رجوعها إلى بارئها في العالمين و وصولها إلى قيومها في الإقليمين - تبين لك كيفية الحشر الجسماني و ارتجاع النفوس كلاءة الأجساد بإذن ولي الإبداع و الإنشاء في المبدأ و المعاد على ما وردت به السنة الشريفة و نطقت به السنة الشريعة - ثم إن هؤلاء القوم بعد اتفاقهم في إعادة الجواهر اختلفوا في الأعراض فقال بعضهم يمتنع إعادتها مطلقاً لأن المعاد إنما يعاد بمعنى فيلزم قيام المعنى بالمعنى و إلى هذا ذهب بعض أصحاب الأشعرية و قال الأكثرون منهم بامتناع إعادة الأعراض التي لا تبقى كالأصوات و الأدوار لاختصاصها عندهم بالأوقات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٦٣

و قسموا الباقية إلى ما يكون مقدوراً للعبد و حكموا بأنه لا يجوز إعادتها لا للعبد و لا للرب و إلى ما لا يكون مقدوراً للعبد و جوزوا إعادتها و ذكروا في بيان كل واحد منها أدلة واهية شحنوا بها و بسائر هوساتهم الكتب و الدفاتر. و أكثر آرائهم الفاسدة في الفضيحة و القباحة من هذا القبيل كتعدد القدماء و إثبات الإرادة الجزافية و نفى الداعي في فعله و إبطال الحكمة في خلقه و كونه تعالى محل الكلام النفسي و الحديث الخيالي و ثبوت المعدوم و الجوهر الفرد مع ما يستلزمه من سكون المتحرك و تفكك الرحي و الطفرة إلى غيرها من المموهات و المزخرفات. كل ذلك لرفض الحكمة و معادات الحكماء و هم بالحقيقة أهل البدع و الضلال - و قدوة الجهلة و الأرذال شرهم كلهم على أهل الدين و الورع و ضرهم على العلماء - و أشدهم عداوة للذين آمنوا من الحكماء و الربانيين هذه الطائفة المجادلة المخاصمة - الذين يخوضون في المعقولات و هم لا يعرفون المحسوسات و يتعاطون البراهين و القياسات و هم لا يحسنون الرياضيات و يتكلمون في الإلهيات و هم يجهلون الطبيعيات. و أكثر ما يجادلون به من المسائل المموهة المزخرفة التي لا حقيقة لها و لا وجود إلا في الأوهام الكاذبة لا يصح لمدع فيها حجة و لا لسائل عنها برهان و إذا سئلوا عن حقيقة أشياءهم مقرون بها عند أكثر الناس لا يحسنون أن يجيبوا عنها - فإذا استعصى عليهم البحث أنكروها و جحدوها و يابون أن يقولوا لا ندري - الله أعلم و رسوله نعم عباراتهم في غاية الفصاحة و الفاظهم في نهاية الجودة و الملاحاة - فيوردون تلك الهوسات الفاسدة و العقائد الردية بأفصح العبارات و يكتبونه بأوضح الخطوط في أصح الأوراق و يسمعون الأحداث و العوام و يصورونها في قلوبهم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٦٤

و يمكنونها في نفوسهم بحيث لن ينمحي أصلاً. و مع هذه الدواهي و المحن كلها و المصيبة على أهل الدين يدعون أنهم - بهذه العقول الناقصة و الأفهام القاصر ينصرون الإسلام و يقوون الدين و إلى يومنا هذا ما سمعنا يهودياً تاب على يد واحد منهم و لا نصرانياً أسلم و لا مجوسياً آمن - بل تراهم بأديانهم إذا نظروا آراء هؤلاء المجادلة أعلق و أوثق نعوذ بالله من شرورهم على الدين و إفسادهم على المؤمنين.

و من عجيب الأمر أيضاً أن بعضاً من هؤلاء استدل على إمكان الإعادة بما قد سمع من كلام الحكماء الكرام أنهم يقولون كل ما قرع سمعك من غرائب عالم الطبيعة فذره في بقعة الإمكان ما لم يذكك عنه قائم البرهان و لعدم تعوده الاجتهاد في العقلات لم يتميز الإمكان بمعنى الجواز العقلي الذي مرجعه إلى عدم وضوح الضرورة لأحد الطرفين عند العقل عن

الإمكان الذاتي الذي هو سلب ضرورة الطرفين عن الشيء بحسب الذات فحكم بأن الأصل فيما لم يتبرهن وجوبه أو امتناعه هو الإمكان فثبت بظنه المستوهم أن إعادة المعدوم ممكن ذاتي و تشبث بهذا الظن الخبيث الذي نسجته عنكبوت وهمه كثير ممن تأخر عنه.

فيقال له و لمن تبعه إنكم إن أردتم بالأصل في هذا القول ما هو بمعنى الكثير الراجح فكون أكثر ما لم يقيم دليل على امتناعه و وجوبه ممكننا غير ظاهر و بعد فرضه غير نافع لجواز كون هذا من جملة الأقل و إن أريد به معنى ما لا يعدل عنه إلا لدليل على ما هو المستعمل في صناعاتي الفقه و أصوله فهو فاسد هاهنا إذ شيء من عناصر العقود ليس أصلا بهذا المعنى بل كل منها مقتضى ماهية الموضوع فما لم يقيم عليه البرهان لم يعلم حاله و ما قاله الشيخ الرئيس معناه أن ما لا برهان على وجوبه و لا على امتناعه لا ينبغي أن ينكر وجوده و يعتقد امتناعه بل يترك في بقعة الإمكان أي الاحتمال العقلي لأنه يعتقد إمكانه الذاتي كيف و من أقواله أن من تعود أن يصدق من غير دليل فقد انسلخ عن الفطرة الإنسانية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٦٥

فصل (٩) في أن عدم ليس رابطيا

الفلاسفة المتقدمون على أن النسبة الحكمية في كل قضية موجبة كانت أو سالبة ثبوتية و لا نسبة في السوالب وراء النسبة الإيجابية التي هي في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٦٦

الموجبات و أن مدلول القضية السالبة و مفادها ليس إلا رفع تلك النسبة الإيجابية - و ليس فيها حمل و ربط بل سلب حمل و قطع ربط و إنما يقال لها الحمالية على المجاز و التشبيه و أن لا مادة في السوالب بحسب السلب بل بحسب الإيجاب فلذلك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٦٧

لا تختلف المادة في الموجبة و السالبة بحسب النسبة الإيجابية و السلبية خلافا لما شاع بين المتأخرين و المتفلسفين من أن في السالبة نسبة سلبية هي غير النسبة الإيجابية و أن المادة كما يكون بحسب النسبة الإيجابية كذلك يكون بحسب النسبة السلبية و أن مادة النسبة السلبية مخالفة لمادة النسبة الإيجابية و لا يخلو شيء منهما من المواد الثلاث إلا أن المشهور رعايتها في الثوابت لفضلها و شرفها و لانخراط ما يعتبر في السوالب فيها فإن واجب عدم ممتنع الوجود و ممتنع عدم واجب الوجود و ممكن عدم ممكن الوجود.

فيجب عليك أن تعلم أن المادة هي حال المحمول في نفسه عند الموضوع من وجوب صدق أو امتناعه أو إمكانه و هي في مطلق الهليات البسيطة ترجع إلى حال الموضوع في وجوده بحسب قوة الوجود و وثاقة التجوهر أو ضعف الذات و سخافة الحقيقة أو بطلان التحقق و فساد الماهية لا حال المحمول في نسبته إلى الموضوع - و ثبوته له كما زعمه بعض على ما مر ذكره و في الهليات المركبة هي حال المحمول - في نسبته إلى الموضوع و ثبوته له باعتبار وثاقة النسبة أو ضعفها أو فساده و ليس في السالبة إلا انتفاء الموضوع في نفسه أو انتفاء المحمول عنه على أنه ليس هناك شيء أو ليس

شيء شيئاً لا أن هناك شيئاً هو الانتفاء أو له شيء هو الانتفاء فليس فيه شيء يكون مكيفاً بإحدى الكيفيات الثلاث فالمادة التي تسمى عند الأوائل بالعنصر - هي حال الموضوع في نفسه بالإيجاب في التجوهر من استحقاق دوام الوجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٦٨

و دوام اللاوجود أو لا استحقاق دوام الوجود و دوام اللاوجود أو حال المحمول في نفسه بالقياس الإيجابي إلى الموضوع.

و كون نسبة الإمكان إلى الوجوب و الامتناع نسبة نقص إلى تمام و نسبة ضعف إلى قوة و فتور إلى وثاقة إنما يتبين حق التبين في هذا الكتاب و على فلسفتنا - كما يقع إليه الإشارة في عدة مواضع و لو دل على العنصر بلفظ لكان يدل بالجهة - و قد يكون العقد ذا جهة تخالف العنصر إذ العنصر يكون بحسب نفس الأمر و الجهة بحسب البيان و التصريح به بالفعل.

فقد بان أن السالبة توجد لمحمولها الحال التي له عند الموضوع بالنسبة الإيجابية بعينها فإن محموله عند الإيجاب يكون له استحقاقية أحد الأمور المذكورة - و إن لم يكن أوجبت.

و ما يتوهم أن العنصر الثابت على تقدير جعل العدم محمولاً غير الثابت على تقدير جعل الوجود محمولاً فكذا الثابت على تقدير جعل العدم رابطة يكون غير الثابت على تقدير جعل الوجود رابطة.

منفسخ بأن هذا الوهم ناش عن أخذ قولنا زيد معدوم مثلاً قضية موجبة و عن الغفلة من أنه ينقلب بذلك عن أن يكون سلباً لقولنا زيد موجود فيرجع الحكم إلى إيجاب سلب الوجود و القضية إلى موجبة سالبة المحمول فلاجل ذلك تختلف القضيتان بحسب العنصر فأى مفهوم أخذ من المفهومات فإن له بما هو محمول حال عند الموضوع المعين بالنسبة الإيجابية لا يتغير ذلك الحال عند سلب تلك و لا ينبغي أن يؤخذ زيد معدوم حين ما يرام سلب وجوده في نفسه حكماً إيجابياً بل يجب أن يعنى به انتفاؤه في نفسه و سلب ذاته في وجوده لتكون القضية من سوابل الهليات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٦٩

البسيطة لا ثبوت سلب الوجود له حتى يصير من الهليات المركبة الإيجابية و لا سلب الوجود عنه حتى يكون من سوابل الهليات المركبة و من لم يفرق بين مفاد الهيتين - و ظن أن طبيعة العقد مطلقاً يستدعي ثبوت شيء لشيء أو سلب شيء عن شيء لم يمكنه أن يصدق بأن قولنا الإنسان موجود أو وجد الإنسان مثلاً يفيد تحقق ذات الإنسان - لا تحقق أمر له هو وجوده و كذلك قولنا عدم الإنسان يعطي بطلان ذاته لا انسلاب صفة عنه هي الوجود و أما قولنا الإنسان كاتب أو كتب الإنسان يعطي ثبوت صفة له هي الكتابة و كذا قولنا الإنسان ساكن الأصابع يفيد انسلاب صفة عنه هي الكتابة و عدم الفرق بين الهيتين من علل الطبيعة الإنسانية و أمراضها التي يجب إزالتها و التدبر في خلاصها لئلا يضطر إلى استثناء المقدمة الكلية القائلة بفرعية وجود الثابت لوجود المثبت له في جملة الهليات البسيطة كما سبق ذكره في أوائل الكتاب

تتمة تحقيقية:

و إذ قد تحقق لديك أن السلب بما هو سلب ليس له معنى محصل يثبت له أو به أو يرفع عنه أو به معنى على سبيل

الوجوب و الامتناع و الإمكان فقد دريت أنه لا يكون نسبة سلبية مكيفة بضرورة أو دوام أو فعلية أو إمكان أو غير ذلك بل إنما يثول معنى ضرورية النسبة السلبية إلى امتناع النسبة الإيجابية التي هي نقيضها و معنى دوام النسبة السلبية سلب تلك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٧٠

النسبة الإيجابية في كل وقت و وقت على أن يعتبر ذلك في الإيجاب و يجعل السلب قطعاً له بذلك الاعتبار فيرفع بحسب أي جزء فرض من أجزاء الأوقات فإذاً ليس فرق بين السالبة الضرورية و سالبة الضرورية أو بين السالبة الدائمة و سالبة الدائمة مثلاً- لا على ما اشتهر في الحكمة العامة بل على طريق الحكمة النقية الملخصة و كذلك قياس سائر الموجهات و قياس المطلقة التي هي مقابلة لها لأن الإطلاق عدم التوجيه- و التقابل بينهما تقابل العدم و الملكة فإن السالبة المطلقة هي بعينها سالبة المطلقة و لا سبيل لصاحب التأييد العلمي إلى فصل إطلاق السلب عن سلب الإطلاق- و إطالة الكلام في بيانه خارج عن طور هذا الكتاب إذ غرضنا فيه بيان طريق الوصول إلى الحق و كيفية السير إلى الله و إنما كفالتة إلى صناعة الميزان

فصل (١٠) في أن الحكم السلبي لا ينفك عن نحو من وجود طرفيه

إن محمول العقود الحملية سواء كانت موجبة أو سالبة قد يكون ثبوتياً و قد يكون عديمياً في الخارج و أما في الذهن فلا بد و أن يكون حاضراً موجوداً- لاستحالة الحكم بما لا يكون حاضراً عند النفس و أما موضوعها سواء كانت موجبة أو سالبة فلا بد و أن يكون له وجود في النفس لاستحالة الحكم على ما لا يكون كذلك و أما في الخارج فكذلك إذا كان الحكم بالإيجاب بحسب ظرف الخارج- لاستدعاء الحكم بحسب أي ظرف وجود الموضوع فيه لأن ثبوت شيء لشيء في أي موطن كان يتفرع على ثبوته في نفسه اللهم إلا إذا كان المحمول في معنى السلب المطلق نحو زيد معدوم في الخارج أو شريك الباري ممتنع فإنه و إن نسب إلى الخارج لكنه نفس السلب عن الخارج فكأنه قيل زيد المتصور في الذهن ليس في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٧١

الخارج و إذا كان الحكم بالسلب في الخارج فلا يقتضي نفس الحكم وجود الموضوع فيه لجواز سلب المعدوم و السلب عن المعدوم هذا بحسب خصوص طبيعة السلب بما هو سلب لا بما هو حكم من الأحكام الواقعة عن النفس الإنسانية. فقولهم إن موضوع السالبة أعم من موضوع الموجبة المعدولة أو السالبة المحمول ليس معناه أن موضوع السالبة يجوز أن يكون معدوماً في الخارج دون موضوع الموجبة إذ موضوع الموجبة أيضاً قد يكون معدوماً في الخارج كقولنا شريك الباري ممتنع و اجتماع النقيضين محال و لا أن موضوع الموجبة يجب أن يتحقق أو يتمثل في وجود أو ذهن دون موضوع السالبة إذ موضوع السالبة أيضاً كذلك- بل بمعنى أن السلب يصح عن الموضوع الغير الثابت بما هو غير ثابت أصلاً على أن للعقل أن يعتبر هذا الاعتبار في السلب و يأخذ موضوع السالبة على هذا الوجه بخلاف الإيجاب و الموجبة فإن الإيجاب و إن صح على الموضوع الغير الثابت لكن لا يصح عليه من حيث هو غير ثابت بل من حيث له ثبوت ما لأن الإيجاب يقتضي وجود شيء حتى يوجد له شيء آخر.

ولهذا يجوز أن يقال المعدوم ليس من حيث هو معدوم بشيء ولا له من هذه الحثية شيء بل من حيث له وجود و تحقق في ظرف ما و أيضا يجوز نفي كل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٧٢

ما هو غير الثابت عن الموضوع من حيث هو غير ثابت بخلاف إثبات كل ما يغيره عليه من تلك الحثية بل إثبات شيء مما يغيره عليه من تلك الجهة اللهم إلا إذا كان أمرا عديميا أو محالا فإنه إذا كان ذلك لم يكن صدق الحكم من حيث خصوص المحمول أيضا مستدعا لوجود الموضوع كما أنه يستدعيه من حيث النسبة الإيجابية - فلذلك اشتهر أن موضوع السالبة أعم من موضوع الموجبة و هو غير صحيح إلا أن يصار إلى ما قدمناه و يراد بالعموم ما سيجيء ذكره و ليس معنى كلامهم على ما فهمه الجمهور أن العموم إنما هو لجواز كون موضوع السالبة معدوما في الخارج دون الموجبة.

و أما ما قيل إن موضوع السالبة إن كان أعم من موضوع موجبة المعدول أو السالبة المحمول لم يتحقق التناقض لتفاوت أفرادهما و إن لم يكن أعم زال الفرق.

فنقول هو أعم بالاعتبار المذكور و لا يلزم منه تغاير الأفراد إذ العموم بمعنيين - و الأعمية بحسب الاعتبار المذكور لا يوجب بطلان التناقض و نفي الأعمية بحسب الأفراد لا يستلزم زوال الفرق لكون الموضوع في السالبة أعم اعتبارا و إن لم يكن أكثر شمولاً و تناولا

تذكرة: فالموجبة بحسب الموضوع أخص من السالبة

مع مساواتهما الاتفاقية لتحقيق جميع المفهومات و الأعيان الثابتة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٧٣

في المبادي العالية و لاستدعاء مطلق الحكم الوجود الإدراكي إذ المجهول مطلقا لا حكم عليه بنفي أو إثبات و الشبهة به عليه مندفة باستعانة ما ذكرناه من الفرق بين الحملين إذ الشيء قد يكذب عن نفسه بأحدهما و يصدق عليه بالآخر على أن الفرق لا يجري إلا في الشخصيات و الطبيعيات لاشتغال المحصورات على عقد وضع إيجابي - هو اتصاف ذات الموضوع بالعنوان بالفعل فإن قولنا كل ج ب ليس معناه الجيم الكلي و إلا لكانت طبيعية أو كلية أو كله و هو ظاهر بل معناه كل ما يوصف ب ج ذهنا أو عينا دائما أو غير دائم بحيثاً به أو لا فهو ب.

إعضالات و انحلالات:

و من التشكيكات الواقعة في هذا الموضوع

التي ربما تراحم السائر إلى الله تعالى في سيره و تعوقه عن السلوك إليه تعالى - أن السالبة المعدولة المحمول أعم من الموجبة المحصلة لصدقها بانتفاء الموضوع بخلاف الموجبة و قد يكون نقيض المفهوم مما لا يصدق على شيء ما بحسب الواقع كاللاشيء و اللامعلوم و اللاممكن العام و سائر نقائص المفهومات الشاملة فلا ينتظم الأحكام الميزانية لصدق سلب نقيض الأخص عما يفرض صدق نقيض الأعم عليه إذا كان معدوما فيلزم صدق قولنا ليس بعض اللاجوهر بلا حيوان بانتفاء ذلك البعض و كذلك الحال في نقيضي المتساويين فيصدق بعض اللاجسم ليس بلا متحيز

لانتفائه في نفسه و تزلزل بذلك قاعدة تعاكس الأعمية و الأخصية في نقيضي الأعم و الأخص و ينثلم الحكم بتساوي نقيضي المتساويين و انعكاس الموجبة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٧٤

الكلية كنفسها عكس النقيض و غيرها مما في القاعدة الميزانية بنقائض المعاني الشاملة. و أجابوا عنه في المشهور بأن أخذوا الربط في السوالب على أنه إيجاب لسلب المحمول و فصلوا الموجبة السالبة المحمول عن الموجبات في استدعاء وجود الموضوع و الحقوها بالسوالب في عدم الاستدعاء له و خصصوا الأحكام بما عدا نقائض الطبائع العامة و جميع هذه الآراء من مجازفات المتأخرين المتشبهين بالحكماء - من المقلدين الذين ليس لهم قدم راسخ في العلم و العرفان. و سبيل الحكمة في فك ذلك العقد ما أشرنا إليه سابقا أن أعمية السالبة عن الموجبة في باب استدعاء الوجود للموضوع و عدمه ليست بحسب الشمول الأفرادي - بل بحسب التناول الاعتباري أي لا بمعنى أنهما بحيث يكون أحدهما تصدق على فرد من الموضوع حيث تكذب عنه الأخرى بل بمعنى أن أحدهما تصدق على شيء باعتبار لا تصدق عليه الأخرى بذلك الاعتبار و إن كان الموضوع فيهما جميعا مما يلزم أن يكون موجودا بنحو من الأنحاء و إن الإيجاب سواء كان عدوليا أو تحصيليا - يقتضي ثبوت الموضوع بالوجه المقرر المفصل في موضعه ففي مطلق العقود لا بد من مطلق الثبوت عينيا أو عقليا أو تقديريا و ما يصدق الحكم معه في السوالب هو ما يقابله - و بذلك تنحسم مادة الشبهة فتصدق تلك الأحكام حقيقية و اللازم وجود موضوعاتها بحسب الفرض و التقدير و مطابق الحكم و مصداق العقد فيها إنما هو كون عنوان الموضوع بحيث لو تحقق في شيء أو صدق عليه تحقق فيه أو صدق عليه المحمول

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٧٥

و إنما يلزم الوجود الخارجي أو الذهني لو حكم في تلك القضايا بثبوت المحمول للموضوع في العين أو في العقل على البت و ليس هكذا و العمومية بين المفهومين - ليس معناها و مقتضاها إلا كون أحدهما بحيث لو وجد في مادة وجد الآخر فيها كليا دون العكس و المساواة كونهما كذلك من الجانبين كليا و ليس في ذلك لزوم الاجتماع - في مادة ما بحسب الواقع بالفعل و لا شبهة لرجل منطقي أن الأمر في تلك الطبائع الشاملة على هذه الشاكلة كيف و الكلي الذي يجري عليه هذه الأحكام ليس مفهومه مما يحتاج إلى وجود فرد له في العين أو في النفس و كذا حاله مع عروض تلك النسب و أحكامها له بالقياس إلى كلي آخر في عدم توقفها على وجود موضوعات الأحكام في شيء من الأوعية و المواطن

و منها أنه صدق قولنا كل ممكن بالإمكان الخاص فهو ممكن بالإمكان العام

و هذا ظاهر و صدق أيضا قولنا كل ما ليس بممكن بالإمكان الخاص فهو ممكن بالإمكان العام لأنه إما واجب بالذات أو ممتنع بالذات و كل منهما ممكن عام - فلو وجب أن يكون نقيض العام مطلقا أخص من نقيض الخاص كذلك يلزم المقدمة الأولى كل ما ليس بممكن عام فهو ليس بممكن خاص و صار صغرى للمقدمة الثانية - ينتج كل ما ليس بممكن عام فهو ممكن عام و أنه تناقض مستحيل و كذلك يلزم الثانية كل ما ليس بممكن عام فهو ممكن خاص و

صار صغرى للأولى ينتج أيضا كل ما ليس بممكن عام فهو ممكن عام وإنه تناقض.
و أجاب عنه الحكيم الطوسي ره بأن الممكن العام ينقسم إلى قسمين هما مانعا للجمع و الخلو و إذا أطلق بحيث يشمل القسمين فسلبه يكون خارجا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٧٦

عن النقيضين و إذا تقرر ذلك فنقول القياس الأول من القياسين المذكورين و هو قولنا كل ما ليس بممكن عام فهو ليس بممكن خاص و كل ما ليس بممكن خاص فهو ممكن عام ليس فيه الحد الأوسط مكررا لأن المراد بما ليس بممكن خاص في الصغرى ما هو خارج عن النقيضين معا و في الكبرى ما هو داخل في أحدهما و أما القياس الثاني و هو قولنا كل ما ليس بممكن عام فهو ممكن خاص و كل ما هو ممكن خاص فهو ممكن عام فصغراه كاذبة لأن عكس نقيض قولنا كل ما ليس بممكن خاص فهو ممكن عام ليس هو هذه الصغرى بل عكس نقيضه أن كل ما ليس بممكن عام فهو ليس بممكن خاص و المراد منه ما هو خارج عن النقيضين - لا الممكن الخاص الذي هو داخل في أحدهما فأعيد القول في السؤال بأن الخارج عن النقيضين الذين يعبر عنه بليس ليس بشيء أصلا فلا يمكن أن يحمل عليه شيء حتى يكون أخص من شيء فإذن كيف يكون ما ليس بممكن خاص أعم منه - فأفاد الجواب مثني بأن ما ليس بممكن خاص يصدق مع الذي ليس بشيء أصلا الذي يعبر عنه بأنه ليس و مع الداخل في طرفي النقيض أي الواجب بذاته و الممتنع بذاته - و لا يراد بكونه أعم إلا هذا.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٧٧

و بعض سادة أعظم الحكماء أدام الله علوه فصل الكلام في هذا المقام قائلا - بأن الإمكان العام هو ما يلزم سلب ضرورة عدم الشيء فإنه سلب الضرورة عن الجانب المخالف و الجانب المخالف إما عدم ما يتصف بذلك الإمكان أعني النسبة - إن كان الإمكان جهة أو عدم ذات الموضوع أعني انتفاءه في نفسه إن كان الممكن هو المحمول و ضرورة عدم كل مفهوم هي امتناع ذلك المفهوم فالإمكان العام سلب امتناع ذات الموضوع أو سلب امتناع الوصف العارض له و هو النسبة و على التقديرين لا يصدق الممكن العام على الممتنع و جمهور الناس يضعون أن الجانب المخالف هو ما يخالف الواقع من طرفي الوجود و العدم فالمخالف في الواجب هو العدم و في الممتنع هو الوجود و الممكن يقع عليهما فإن أريد بالممكن العام المعنى الأول لم يصدق قول المشكك الممتنع بالذات ممكن عام و إن أريد ما يوضع عند الأكثرين - فيقال إما أن يعتبر في كل من الواجب و الممتنع ضرورة أحد الطرفين فقط فيكون ما ليس بممكن خاص منقسما إلى ثلاثة أقسام واجب و ممتنع و ضروري الطرفين - فلا يصح حينئذ أن ما هو ضروري الطرفين مسلوب الضرورة عما هو غير واقع من طرفيه - و إما أن يعتبر في كل منهما ضرورة أحد الطرفين بلا شرط آخر من اعتبار ضرورة الطرف الآخر أو عدمها فلا يصح أن كل ممتنع مسلوب الضرورة عما هو غير واقع من طرفيه إذ ضروري الطرفين ممتنع و ليس يصح فيه ذلك.

و صاحب درة التاج أراد مناقضة قولهم كل ما ليس بممكن بالإمكان الخاص - فهو ممكن بالإمكان العام بأنه لا يصدق على الماهية من حيث هي هي الممكن بالإمكان الخاص و لا يصدق عليها من تلك الحيثية الممكن بالإمكان العام أيضا.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٧٨

و هذه المناقضة غير مرضية إذ المراد التصادق بحسب نفس الأمر وإن لم يكن بحسب بعض مراتب الماهية في نفس الأمر من الاعتبارات العقلية

فصل (١١) في أن عدم الخاص بنحو هل يجوز اتصاف الواجب بالذات به

المشهور من أقوال الحكماء أن بعض أنحاء الوجود بخصوصه مما يمتنع بالنظر إلى الحقيقة الواجبة و ذلك مما لا ينافي كونه واجب الوجود بالذات كما أن امتناع نحو من الوجود للممكن لا يخرج عن حد الإمكان الذاتي و لا ينافيه بل يؤكد و يقرر إمكانه و كذلك امتناع نحو من عدم بخصوصه بالقياس إلى ذات الممكن - مما لا يابى عنه طبيعة الممكن و مفهوم الإمكان و كذا امتناع بعض أنحاء عدم بالقياس إلى الممتنع بالذات كعدم المسبوق بالوجود أو لا يرى أن أنحاء الوجودات الإمكانية - مما يمتنع اتصاف الواجب تعالى به و كذا الوجود الحادث و الوجود الزائل و الوجود الجسماني و الوجود الحلولي و العرضي و بالجملة الوجود اللاحق و إنما ذلك لخصوصيات القيود نقصانية و الأوصاف العدمية و أن بعض أنحاء الوجود يمتنع على بعض الممكنات و بعضها على الجميع أما الثاني فكالوجود الواجب على الجميع و أما الأول فكالوجود الجوهرى على الأعراض و الوجود المفارقة على المادي و الوجود القار على الغير القار و كذا يمتنع على الغير القار بالذات بحسب الماهية أن يكون له عدم سابق على وجوده أو وجود بعد عدمه أو عدم بعد وجوده - قبلية و بعدية مقدرة زمانية لا اجتماع بحسبهما بين قبل و بعد و إن لم يمتنع الوجود و لا عدم المطلقين عليه و كذا عدم الذي هو رفع الوجود المتحقق في وعاء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٧٩

الواقع بعد اعتبار وقوعه و تحققه عن موضوعه بحسب ما هو فيه من الجهات و الاعتبارات الزمانية و المكانية و الوصفية ممتنع على كافة الممكنات امتناعا وصفيا لا ذاتيا.

نقد و تلويح:

أما أن بعض أنحاء الوجود يمتنع على الواجب بالذات من حيث كونه مصحوبا بالقصور و النقص فمما لا شبهة فيه و أما امتناع اتصاف الواجب تعالى به من حيث كونه وجودا ما مطلقا فمنظور فيه كيف و الوجود بما هو وجود طبيعة واحدة بسيطة لا اختلاف فيها إلا من جهة التمام و النقص و القوة و الضعف و النقص و الضعف مرجعهما إلى عدم فكل مرتبة من مراتب الوجود يكون دون المرتبة الواجبة فهي ذات اعتبارين اعتبار سنخ الوجود بما هو وجود و اعتبار عدم بلوغه إلى الكمال و نزوله عن الغاية فبأحد الاعتبارين يمتنع اتصاف الواجب تعالى به و بالآخر يجب أما الأول فظاهر و أما الثاني فلأن واجب الوجود بالذات واجب من جميع الجهات كما مر.

و أيضا نقول لو امتنع طور من أطوار الوجود عليه تعالى باعتبار طبيعة الوجود - مع قطع النظر عن خصوصية قيده العدمي لزم أن يتحقق في ذاته جهة امتناعية بالقياس إلى طبيعة الوجود بما هو وجود مع الجهة الوجوبية التي كانت له فيلزم تركيب الجهات و الاعتبارات في ذاته بذاته تعالى شأنه عن ذلك علوا كبيرا.

لا يقال هذا النحو من التكثر و الاختلاف لو استحال عليه تعالى من أجل كونه - مستلزما للتركيب في ذاته على ما قررت

لزم مثل هذا التركيب فيه أيضا من اعتبار جهتي وجوب الوجود و امتناع العدم.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٨٠

لأننا نقول هذان الاعتباران غير مستلزمين للتركيب بوجه لعدم تخالف الجهتين فيهما بخلاف ما نحن بصدده و الفرق بين القبيلين متحقق لأن حثية وجود الوجود هاهنا هي بعينها حثية امتناع العدم بلا تغاير و اختلاف لا في الذات و لا في الاعتبار - لأن ذاتا واحدة بحسب صرافة وحدتها و بساطتها مصداق لصدق هذين المفهومين - بخلاف ما نحن فيه فإن ذاتا واحدة بالقياس إلى معنى واحد لا يكون لها إضافتان متخالفتان متنافيتان بضرورة من الفطرة الإنسانية و هذا الأصل من جملة الأصول التي تقرر ما نحن بصدده من كون جميع الموجودات بحسب موجوديتها رشحات - و فيوض و رقائق للوجود الإلهي و تجليات و شئونات للحق الصمدي.

و أما كون بعض أنحاء العدم ممتنعا للممكن بالذات أو للممتنع بالذات فهو أيضا محل بحث فإن العدم مما لا امتياز فيه حتى يمتنع بعضه دون بعض آخر كما مر - بل ربما كان هذه الأوصاف العدمية مما يستتبعها بعض الأوصاف الوجودية على سبيل الاستتباع و الاستجرار.

فالحق أن امتناع العدم المسبوق بالوجود للممتنع بالذات يرجع إلى امتناع ذلك الوجود السابق عليه فإنه إذا امتنع السابق على شيء امتنع اللاحق أيضا باعتبار كونه لاحقا به إذ اللاحقية لا تنفك عن السابقة و إذا اتصف اللاحق بالشيء بالامتناع لا بالذات بل باعتبار اللحق كان امتناعه تابعا لامتناع الملحق به فيكون امتناع العدم أي عدم كان للممتنع بالذات امتناعا بالعرض.

و هاهنا شك مشهور

استصعبوه و قد سهل اندفاعه بما حققناه من أن الواجب بالذات ما يجب له طبيعة الوجود مطلقا و الممتنع بالذات ما يمتنع عليه طبيعة الوجود كذلك على الوجه الذي بيناه و ذلك الشك هو أن الزمان إذا امتنع عليه لذاته العدم السابق و اللاحق لزم أن يكون الزمان واجب الوجود لذاته تعالى القيوم الواجب

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٨١

بالذات عن التغير علوا كبيرا.

و أجابوا عنه بأن الواجب بالذات هو الذي يمتنع عليه جميع أنحاء العدم - و الزمان ليس كذلك إذ لا استحالة في أن يكون منعما بالكلية أزلا و أبدا.

و هذا مع أنه لا يوافق أصولهم حيث تقرر عندهم و صرحوا بأن الوجود الإمكانى يمتنع عليه تعالى يرد عليه أيضا أن الوجود الذي يكون للزمان في مقابل العدم السابق و اللاحق يلزم أن يكون واجبا له فيلزم استغناؤه عن العلة في استمرار وجوده و من أصولهم أن الممكن كما يحتاج إلى العلة في وجوده الحدوثي - يحتاج إليها في وجوده البقائي.

ثم تكلفوا في الواجب عنه بأن مقابل العدم المتقدم أو المتأخر لشيء هو رفع العدم المتقدم أو رفع العدم المتأخر و هذا المعنى أعم من الوجود الاستمراري - لا مكان صدقه على ذلك و على عدمه رأسا أزلا و أبدا صدق رفع العدم اللاحق للزمان على عدمه المطلق.

ونحن بعون الله تعالى مستغنون عن هذه التجشّمات فإن مناط الوجوب الذاتي في فلسفتنا هو ضرورة طبيعة الوجود المطلق بما هو وجود مطلق و ملاك الامتناع الذاتي هو ضرورة رفع طبيعة الوجود مطلقا و تحقق طبيعة كلية من الطبائع العامة المتواطئة و إن كان بتحقيق فرد من أفرادها و ارتفاعها بارتفاع جميع الأفراد لها لكن الوجود ليس شموله و انبساطه من حيث عروض الكلية و العموم له بل له إطلاق و شمول بنحو آخر سوى العموم على ما يعلمه الراسخون في العلم فوجوب حقيقته الكاملة يستلزم وجوب جميع شعبه و مراتبه و فروعه و امتناع هذه الحقيقة يستلزم امتناع جميع مراتبه و أنحائه و تجلياته فالزمان بهويته الاتصالية التي هي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٨٢

أفق التجدد و التقضي و عرش الحوادث و التغاير شأن واحد من شئون العلة الأولى - و مرتبة ضعيفة من مراتب نزول الوجود فيكون أضعف الممكنات وجودا و أخس المعلومات رتبة. و يمكن أن يجاب عن الأخير بأن الأمر التدريجي الوجود بالذات كالزمان المتصل و ما يتكلم به كالحركة القطعية ليس له بقاء حتى يحتاج في بقاءه إلى سبب - بل زمان تحققه بعينه ليس إلا زمان حدوثه و هو مما سيحدث ذاته و هويته الاتصالية شيئا فشيئا سواء كانت متناهية الاتصال كالحركة المستقيمة العنصرية أو غير متناهية كالدورات الأكرية العرشية فإذا كانت أوقات بقاء شيء بعينها أوقات حدوثه بمعنى أن لا بقاء له في الحقيقة إلا التدرج في الحصول و الانتظار في أصل الكون فلا يسع لقائل أن يقول إن الزمان في بقاءه أ هو محتاج إلى العلة أم مستغن عنها. و لنا أيضا وجه آخر في هدم أساس الشبهة المذكورة و هو أن وجود الزمان و الحركة المتمكمة به ليس كوجود غيرهما من الأعراض التي لها ماهية متحصلة - إذ الحركة بما هي حركة ليس حقيقتها و معناها إلا طلب شيء من الكمالات و الاشتياق إليه و ليست هي شيئا بحيالها إنما الشيء ما يطلب و يشتاق إليه أو يصلح لأن يطلب و يشتاق إليه لا ما يكون ماهيتها نفس الطلب للشيء و الاشتياق إليه - و الزمان ليس إلا مقدار الطلب و الاشتياق و عددهما فهاتان الماهيتان ما دامت أخذتا - على هذا الوجه الذي هو مقتضى ذاتيهما فلا يمكن الحكم عليهما بأن شيئا منهما كيف نسبة الوجود إليه من الضرورة و اللاضرورة و الدوام و اللادوام و الانقطاع و اللانقطاع - بل هما في الاتصاف بهذه الأمور إنما يكونان على سبيل الاستتباع و العرض و إن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٨٣

لم تكونا مأخوذتين على هذا الوجه فقد انسلختا عن ذاتيهما و صارت كل واحدة منهما شيئا آخر له حكم آخر و بعد أن استوفى النظر في ذاته يظهر حكمه و كونه من أي طبيعة من الطبائع

فصل (١٢) في أن المتوقف على الممتنع بالذات لا يلزم أن يكون ممتنعا بالذات

إن توقف شيء على محال بالذات لا يقتضي استحالة المتوقف استحالة ذاتية - بل إنما بالغير فقط لاستحالة الموقوف عليه بالذات و أما أن الموقوف عليه إن كان موصوفا كالممتنع بالذات و الموقوف صفة كالامتناع بالذات كان استحالته بالذات - ملزوم استحالة الموقوف بالذات فذلك لخصوص الموصوف بما هو موصوف بالذات - و الصفة بما هي صفة كما قيل.

و أقول منشأ ذلك أن اتصاف الشيء بالوجود و مقابله ليس كاتصاف القابل بالمقبول و بعدمه و لا كاتصاف عدم القابل بعدم المقبول حيث يجب أن يتأخر الصفة عن الموصوف وجودا كان أو عدما و ذلك كاتصاف الجسم بالبياض و اللابيض بأن يكون للموصوف ثبوت و للصفة ثبوت آخر يتفرع عليه ثم يتصف الموصوف بتلك الصفة بعد تحقق ذاته بذاته و كذا في اتصاف عدم الجسم بعدم البياض فإن ثبوت الوجود لشيء موضوع و حمله إياه هو بعينه ثبوت ذلك الموضوع فلا اتصاف و لا ناعتية هاهنا إلا بحسب التحليل العقلي كما مر تحقيقه و كذا عدمه عنه هو عبارة عن عدمه في نفسه لا عدم شيء آخر عنه فإذا كان أن اتصاف الوجود بالوجود هو بعينه اتصاف

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٨٤

الشيء الموجود بذلك الوجود بالوجود من غير تابعة و متبوعية هناك في نفس الأمر - إلا بحسب نحو من الملاحظة فكذا اتصاف عدم الشيء بالامتناع هو بعينه اتصاف ذلك المعدوم بالامتناع و كذا حال اتصاف ذلك الوجود بوجود آخر و حال اتصاف ذلك الامتناع بضرورة ثبوت الامتناع و هكذا إلى أن ينقطع بانقطاع الاعتبار العقلي - ففي جميع هذه الأوصاف اتصاف الموضوع بصفة منها عين اتصاف وصفه بتلك الصفة أو ما يلزمه من غير توقف و تابعة و متبوعية و لاحقية و ملحوقية.

فالحق عندنا أن المتوقف على المستحيل بالذات من حيث إنه متوقف عليه لا من حيث إنه عينه يكون دائما مستحيلا بالغير لا بالذات كما أن الواجب بالغير لا يكون إلا ممكنا بالذات لا واجبا بذاته و لا ممتنعا بذاته كما مر. و ستعلم في مستأنف القول أن ما اشتهر بين المجادلين أن المحال مما يستلزم محالا ليس بصحيح كليا بل إنما يصح جزئيا إذا تحقق بين المحالين علاقة عقلية كما بين المحال بالذات و المحال بالغير أي الموقوف على أمر ممتنع بالذات فلا استلزام بين محالين كلاهما مستحيل بالذات كما لا استلزام بين واجبين كلاهما واجب بالذات - لأن الاستلزام بين شيئين لا يتحقق إلا بمعلولية أحدهما لا محالة إذ لا بد في التلازم إما كون أحد المتلازمين علة و الآخر معلولا أو كونهما معا معلولي علة واحدة - فأحد المتلازمين لا بد و أن يكون معلولا بوجه و المعلول لا يكون إلا ممكنا بالذات - لما تحقق أن علة الاحتياج إلى الغير و التوقف عليه هي الإمكان لا غيره فالممتنع بالغير لا يكون إلا ممكنا بالذات فلا تلازم بين المحالين الذاتيين و كما لا استلزام بين محالين ذاتيين فلا استلزام بين الشيء و ما ينافيه.

وهم وإزاحة:

و لك أن تقول إذا بطل أن يستلزم مفهوم ما ممكن أو محال ما ينافيه فإذا ما شأن القياسات الخلفية حيث يثبت بها الشيء على فرض عدمه و يلزم فيها الشيء من فرض نقيضه كما يقال في إثبات عدم تناهي الكمية الغير القارة بالذات أعني الزمان إن عدمه قبل وجوده قبلية زمانية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٨٥

لا يجتمع المتقدم بها مع المتأخر و كذا عدمه بعد وجوده هذه البعدية مستلزم لوجوده - و كما يقال في إثبات تناهي الكميات القارة أعني المقادير التعليمية بأسرها أن لا تناهيها مستلزم لتناهيها. فيقال لك إن أردت أنه يتبين هناك أن الممتنع المفروض الوقوع لو كان حاصلًا في نفس الأمر كان عدمه واقعا فيها و لو

كان المتحقق فيها هو نقيض الشيء كان الشيء متحققا في نفس الأمر و أن الزمان لو كان عدمه واقعا قبل وجوده أو بعده وجوده لم يكن معدوما قبل الوجود أو بعده فذلك من الأكاذيب و المفتريات فإن تلك المفروضات لو وقعت كانت بحسب تحققها مستدعية للوازنها مقتضية لأحكامها و آثارها المختصة لا مناقضة لها منافية لأحكامها و آثارها. و إن أردت أنه يتبين بالبيانات الخلفية أنه لو فرض شيء من تلك الأمور مع بقاء سائر الأوضاع الممكنة و الواقعة بحالها كان يلزم هناك من فرض ذلك الشيء مع اجتماع أوضاع أخرى ممكنة ما يسوق إلى أن هذا الفرض غير مطابق للواقع من حيث إنه فرض لأمر و نقيضه و فرض لعدم الشيء و وجوده معا فذلك ما راموه في تلك المواضع و ليس فيها استيجاب استلزام الشيء ما ينافيه بل استيجاب امتناع الشيء لكون فرضه وضعاً أو رفعاً مؤدياً إلى ما يقتضي الوجود بحسب سائر الأوضاع الواقعة أو الممكنة نقيضه ففرضه بالحقيقة مساوق لفرض اجتماع المتنافيين عند التفتيش. و بالجملة الفرض الذي في البيانات الخلفية عبارة عن أنه مفروض لا على أنه محقق لأنه قد فرض نفسه و إن كان مع الأمور التي يستلزم نقيضه و لو كان فرضه ذلك الشيء على وجه أنه فرض أمر واقعي لوجب أن يوضع مع فرضه وضع جميع لوازمه و ملزوماته و رفع جميع مناقضاته و منافيته و منافيات لوازمه و منافيات ملزوماته - حتى يكون فرضه فرض أمر واقعي و ليس ما نحن فيه كذلك بل يقال في بيان الخلف

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٨٦

إننا لو فرضنا ذلك الشيء و تصورناه لعلمنا تحقق نقيضه لا أنه لو تحقق هذا الشيء في الواقع لكان عدمه متحققا في الواقع فإذاً المستحيل المفروض في العقل بحسب تمثيل مفهومه في الذهن يحكم عليه باستلزام ما هو مفهوم له لا اجتماع المتنافيين و مفهوم اجتماع المتنافيين بما هما متمثلان في لحاظ الذهن ليس من المستحيلات بل من الممكنات كما وقعت الإشارة إليه ثم يبين أن المفهوم الملزوم ليس عنوانا لشيء من الأشياء الواقعة في عالم الإمكان فيرجع ذلك إلى الاستدلال بانتفاء اللازم على انتفاء الملزوم فيجعل الشرطية بحسب الوضع الفرضي و نفي لازمه جميعا موجبا لبطلان الفرض فيكون مجموع العقد الشرطي و العقد الاستثنائي ملزوما للحكم باستحالة المفروض لا فرض المفروض فقط

تسجيل:

إنك قد سمعت سابقا و تحققت أن الواجب بذاته لا يكون واجبا بغيره فاعمل رويتك و استعمل مثل ذلك البيان في الممتنع بالذات و احكم بأن ما يمتنع بذاته يستحيل أن يمتنع بغيره و إلا لبطل امتناعه ببطلان ذلك الغير و أيضا لا يتصور لذات واحدة عدمان و لا امتناعان و لا يتصور أيضا عدم واحد و امتناع واحد لذاتين كما يتصور لذات واحدة وجودان و لا وجوبان و لا وجود واحد و ضرورة واحدة لذاتين فقط ظهر أن كلا من الوجود و البطلان و ضرورة الوجود و ضرورة عدم لا يتكرر إلا بتكرر الموضوعات و لا يتحد إلا مع اتحاد الموضوع فإذاً يستحيل أن يكون امتناع ماهية مفروضة بحسب الذات و بحسب الغير معا أو على التبادل فالمستحيل بالذات يكون ضرورة عدمه بحسب نفس ذاته فقط بته.

فقد بزغ أن كل ما بالغير من الوجوب أو البطلان فموضوعه الممكن بالذات - و قد علمت أن معنى الإمكان الذاتي يجب أن يتصور على وجه نسبته إلى كل من الوجوب بالغير و الامتناع بالغير نسبة النقص إلى التمام حتى يستصح اتصاف

الممكن بأي منهما.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٨٧

و ليعلم و يتذكر أن العقل كما لا يستطيع أن يطبق إشراق نور الأول تعالى - و يتعقل كنه مجده و جلاله لغاية سطوع شمس كبريائه و فرط ظهوره و فعليته كذلك لا يقدر أن يتعقل الممتنع بالذات لفرط نقصه و بلوغه أقصى غاية النقصان إلى حيث تجاوز الشئية فإن الشيء لا ينفك عن الوجود فما لا وجود له لا شئية له و العقل الإنساني يقدر على إدراك ماهيات الأشياء و شئياتها و لا يقدر على تعقل الوجود الصرف الذي لا شئية له كما في الواجب جل اسمه و لا على تعقل العدم الصرف - الذي لا شئية له أيضا بوجه من الوجوه لكن هناك لفرط الكمال و الفعلية و هاهنا لفرط النقصان و البطلان و كل ما يقرب من الأول تعالى كان يقرب منه في ذلك الحكم - كالعقل الأول و ما يتلوه و كل ما يقرب من الممتنع كان يقرب منه في الحكم كالهولى الأولى و الحركة و ما يقربهما.

و ملخص القول أن من المعلومات ما وجودها في غاية القوة مثل الواجب الوجود و يتلوه العقول المفارقة و الجواهر الروحانية و منها ما وجوده في غاية الضعف - شبيه بالعدم لكونه مخالطا للعدم مثل الهولى و الزمان و الحركة و منها ما يكون متوسطا بين الأمرين و ذلك مثل الأجسام المادية عند القوم و مثل الأجسام التي في خيالنا عندنا إذ الجسم ما لم ينتزع صورته عن المادة نزعا ما لا يمكن العلم به كما سنحققه في مباحث الحواس و المحسوسات و العقول البشرية ما دامت مدبرة لهذه الأبدان العنصرية تعجز عن إدراك القسم الأول كما يعجز أبصار الخفافيش عن إدراك نور الشمس لأنه يبهز أبصارها و يعجز أيضا عن إدراك القسم الثاني لضعف وجود تلك الأمور و نقصاناتها كما يعجز البصر عن إدراك المدركات البعيدة و الصغيرة في الغاية فأما القسم الثالث فهو الذي يقوى القوة البشرية على إدراكه و الإحاطة به كمعرفة الأبعاد و الأشكال و الطعوم و الألوان و سبب ذلك أن أكثر النفوس البشرية في هذا العالم مقامها مقام الخيال و الحس و المدرك لا بد أن يكون من جنس المدرك - كما أن الغذاء لا بد و أن يكون من جنس المغتذي فلذلك سهل عليها معرفة هذه الأمور

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٨٨

فصل (١٣) في أن حقائق الأشياء أي الأمور الغير الممتنعة بالذات يمكن أن تكون معلومة للبشر

ربما يوجد في بعض الكتب أن الحقائق المركبة يمكن معرفتها و ذلك لأجل إمكان تعريفها بأجزائها المقومة لها و أما البسائط فكلا لأنها لا يعقل حقائقها بل الغاية القصوى منها تعريفها بلوازمها و آثارها مثل أن يقال إن النفس شيء محرك للبدن فالمعلوم منه كونه محركا للبدن فأما حقيقة النفس و ماهيتها فهي غير معلومة و يحتاجون على ذلك بأن الاختلاف في ماهيات الأشياء إنما وقع لأن كل واحد أدرك لازما غير ما أدركه الآخر فحكم بمقتضى ذلك اللازم بحكم فأما لو عرفنا حقائق الأشياء لعرفنا لوازمها القريبة و البعيدة لما ثبت من أن العلم بالعلة علة العلم بالمعلول و لو كان الأمر كذلك لما كان شيء من صفات الحقائق مطلوبة بالبرهان هذا ما قيل.

و لعل هذا القائل لم يفرق بين العلم بوجه الشيء و بين العلم بالشيء بوجه فإن الأول يصلح موضوعا للقضية الطبيعية و لا يسري الحكم عليه إلى أفرادها فضلا عن لوازمه القريبة و البعيدة و الثاني يصلح موضوعا للقضية المتعارفة و لكن

يسري الحكم عليه بشيء إلى أفراده الحقيقية بالذات دون أفراده العرضية و لوازمه أو ملزوماته إلا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٨٩

بالعرض و سراية الحكم على الشيء بالذات إلى شيء آخر بالعرض لا يوجب أن يتعدى منه إلى ثالث فكيف إلى ما بعده.

ثم يجب لك أن تعلم أن العلاقة اللزومية بين الأشياء إنما يتحقق باعتبار وجوداتها لا باعتبار ماهياتها اللهم إلا في لوازم الماهيات من حيث هي و المتمثل في الذهن من الموجودات الخارجية هي ماهياتها و مفهوماتها لا هوياتها الوجودية و أشخاصها العينية كما سبق فالمعلوم للعقل ماهية الشيء و المستتبع للوازمه العينية هو وجوده العيني فلا يلزم من تعقل شيء من الأشياء الواقعة في العين تعقل لوازمه قريبة كانت أو بعيدة و بهذا تندفع تلك الشبهة.

و قال الإمام الرازي في المباحث المشرقية إن الحقائق البسيطة يمكن أن تكون معقولة و برهانه أن المركبات لا بد و أن يكون تركيبها من البسائط لأن كل كثرة فالواحد فيها موجود و تلك البسائط إن استحال أن تكون معقولة كانت المركبات غير معقولة بالحد و لا يمكن أيضا أن تكون معقولة بالرسم لأن الرسم عبارة عن تعريف الشيء باللوازم و تلك اللوازم إن كانت بسيطة فهي غير معقولة و إن كانت مركبة و بسائطها غير معقولة فهي أيضا غير معقولة و بالجملة فالكلام فيها كالكلام في الملزومات فإذا القول بأن البسائط لا يصح أن يعقل يوجب القول بأن لا يعقل الإنسان شيئا أصلا لا بالحد و لا بالرسم لكن التالي باطل ظاهر البطلان فالمقدم مثله انتهى كلامه.

و فيه بحث إذ لقائل أن يقول من اعترف أن الماهيات المركبة معلومة لا يلزمه تسليم أن يكون معرفتها حاصلة من معرفة بسائطها الحقيقية إذ لا نسلم أن معرفة الشيء المركب بحده عبارة عن معرفة أجزائه و أجزاء أجزائه حتى ينتهي إلى معرفة البسيط بل حد الشيء المركب لعله يكفي فيه معرفة أجزائه القريبة و لو بالرسم.

و أيضا لأحد أن يقول لا نسلم أن معرفة الأشياء المركبة لا بد أن يحصل من معرفة أجزائها سواء كانت قريبة أو بعيدة بل ربما يعرف بوجه آخر لا بكنهها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٩٠

و لا بالحد بل بالمشاهدة الحضورية أو بالرسم من جهة آثارها و لوازمها فإذا نقل الكلام إلى كيفية معرفة تلك اللوازم و الرسوم يقال تلك اللوازم سواء كانت بسائط أو مركبات إنما يعرف بوجه من الوجوه لا بكنهها و حقائقها و من قال إن البسائط غير معقولة أراد أنها غير معقولة بحقائقها و بحسب كنهها لا أنها لا تعرف بوجه من الوجوه - و لو بمفهوماتها العامة كالشيئية و الممكنية و غيرهما.

بل الحق في هذا المقام أن يستفسر من القائل بكون البسائط غير معلومة - أ كان المراد من البسيط مفهوما بسيطا أو موجودا بسيطا فإن أراد بها أن العقل لا يعرف الوجود الخارجي بهويته الشخصية بصورة عقلية مطابقة له فذلك مما له وجه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٩١

كما مر سابقا من تحقيق مباحث الوجود وإن أراد أن العقل لا يعرف مفهوما من المفهومات البسيطة فهو ظاهر البطلان فإن العقل يدرك مفهوم الكون المصدري - و الشيئية و مفهوم الذي و ما و غير ذلك فإما أن يكون المعقول له من كل شيء مفهوما مركبا أو بسيطا فإن كان مفهوما بسيطا فهو إما كنه شيء بسيط أو وجهه - فعلى الأول عقل كنه ذلك الشيء البسيط و على الثاني أيضا عقل كنه ذلك الوجه بعينه و إن لم يعقل كنه ذي الوجه إذ لو كان تعقل كل وجه بوجه آخر و هكذا فيتسلسل الوجوه و تعقلاتها إلى غير النهاية أو يدور فيلزم أن لا يعقل شيئا أصلا و اللازم باطل فكذا الملزوم و إن كان مفهوما مركبا كان المفهوم البسيط جزءه لا محالة لاستحالة تركيب المفهوم من مفهومات غير متناهية متداخلة و على تقدير عدم التناهي في المفهومات - يكون المفهوم الواحد البسيط متحققا لأن الكثرة و إن كانت غير متناهية لا بد فيها من وجود الواحد لأنه مبدؤها و اعلم أن الشيخ الرئيس ذكر في التعليقات بهذه العبارة أن الوقوف على حقائق الأشياء ليس في قدرة البشر و نحن لا نعرف من الأشياء إلا الخواص و اللوازم و الأعراض و لا نعرف الفصول المقومة لكل واحد منها الدالة على حقيقته بل نعرف أنها أشياء لها خواص و أعراض فإننا لا نعرف حقيقة الأول و لا العقل و لا النفس و لا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٩٢

الفلك و لا النار و الهواء و الماء و الأرض و لا نعرف أيضا حقائق الأعراض و مثال ذلك أنا لا نعرف حقيقة الجوهر بل إنما عرفنا شيئا له هذه الخاصة و هو أنه الموجود لا في موضوع و هذا ليس حقيقته و لا نعرف حقيقة الجسم بل نعرف شيئا له هذه الخواص و هي الطول و العرض و العمق و لا نعرف حقيقة الحيوان بل إنما نعرف شيئا له خاصية الإدراك و الفعل فإن المدرك الفعال ليس هو حقيقة الحيوان بل خاصيته و لازم له و الفصل الحقيقي لا ندركه و لذلك يقع الخلاف في ماهيات الأشياء لأن كل واحد يدرك غير ما يدركه الآخر فحكم بمقتضى ذلك اللازم و نحن إنما نثبت شيئا مخصوصا عرفنا أنه مخصوص من خاصة له أو خواص ثم عرفنا لذلك الشيء خواص أخرى بواسطة ما عرفناه أولا ثم توصلنا إلى معرفة إنيته كالأمر في النفس و المكان و غيرهما مما أثبتنا إنياتها لا من ذواتها بل من نسب لها إلى أشياء عرفناها - أو من عارض لها أو لازم و مثاله في النفس أنا رأينا جسما يتحرك فأثبتنا لتلك الحركة محركا و رأينا حركة مخالفة لحركات سائر الأجسام فعرفنا أن له محركا خاصا - أو له صفة خاصة ليست لسائر المحركات ثم تتبعنا خاصة خاصة و لازما لازما - فتوصلنا بها إلى إنيتها إلى آخر كلامه.

أقول تأويل كلامه ما أومأنا إليه و أقمنا البرهان عليه في مباحث الوجود من أن أفراد الوجود لا برهان عليها إلا على ضرب من الحيلة برهاننا شبيها باللم - حيث ذكرنا أن حقيقة كل موجود لا تعرف بخصوصها إلا بالمشاهدة الحضورية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٩٣

و فصول الأشياء عندنا عين صورها الخارجية فحق أنها لا تعرف إلا بمفهومات و عنوانات صادقة عليها و تلك المفهومات و إن كانت داخلية في المفهوم المركب المسمى بالحد - المشتمل على ما يسمى جنسا و ما يسمى فصلا إلا أنها خارجة من نحو الوجود الصوري الذي به يكون الشيء حقيقة أو ذا حقيقة و الشيخ ذكر في بعض مواضع الشفاء ما معناه أن فصل الحيوان ليس مفهوم الحساس بل جوهر نفسه التي بها تمام ذاته و هويته و حقيقته و كذا فصول سائر

الأنواع والأجناس والأول يسمى فصلا منطقيا- والثاني فصلا اشتقاقيا لأنه غير محمول على النوع المركب والمحمول عليه هو المفهوم المأخوذ منه وذلك بالحقيقة لازم من لوازمه ومن هذا الموضع يعلم أن للوجود أعيانا خارجية وليس عبارة عن مفهوم عقلي انتزاعي إضافي يتكرر بتكرر ما أضيف إليه كما زعمه المتأخرون وهذا الكلام من الشيخ كالنص على ما ادعيناه

فصل (١٤) في أقسام الممكن

الممكن ينقسم إلى ما يكون ممكن الوجود في ذاته وإلى ما يكون ممكن الوجود لشيء وكل ما هو ممكن الوجود لشيء فهو ممكن الوجود في ذاته ولا ينعكس - فإن من الممكنات ما هو ممكن في نفسه ولا يكون ممكن الوجود لشيء آخر بل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٩٤

إما واجب الوجود لشيء آخر كالصور للمواد والموضوعات للأعراض أو ممتنع الوجود لشيء كالجواهر القائمة بأنفسها. ثم ما يكون ممكن الوجود في ذاته فإما أن يكون إمكان وجوده كافيا في فيضانه من علته وإما أن لا يكون. وتحقيق هذا الكلام يحتاج إلى مقدمة وهي أن جميع الممكنات مستندة إلى سبب واجب الوجود لذاته وأنه واجب من جميع الوجوه والحيثيات وقد فرغنا من بيانه فكل ما كان كذلك استحالة أن يختص صدور بعض الأشياء منه دون بعض وأن يختص بعض المستعدات بالفيضان منه دون بعض بل يجب أن يتساوى نسبته إلى الكل ويكون عام الفيض بلا خلل لكن البرهان قائم بأن بعض الممكنات وجد قبل بعض في سلسلة العلية قبلية بالذات ونشاهد أيضا تقدم بعض الحوادث على بعض في سلسلة المتعاقبات تقدما زمانيا فنقول هذا الاختلاف في الإضافة والصدور ليس من قبل الواجب الوجود بالذات بل لأجل اختلاف الإمكانيات الذاتية في الماهيات والاستعدادية في القوابل فجميع الممكنات مشتركة في أن لها إمكانا في أنفسها وماهياتها فإن كان ذلك الإمكان كافيا في فيضان الوجود عليها من واجب الوجود فوجب أن تكون موجودة على سبيل الإبداع من غير تخصيص بزمان دون زمان ومع ذلك يجوز أن يكون إمكاناتها متفاوتة بالأولوية والأقدمية والأشدية فإن إمكان العقل الثاني ليس كإمكان العقل الأول إذ وجوده يمتنع على العقل الثاني فبالحقيقة إمكانه للوجود مطلقا يتحصل في إمكانه للوجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٩٥

الذي بعد العقل الأول كما أن إمكان العقل الأول إنما يكون بالقياس إلى الوجود الذي بعد الوجود الواجب وهكذا القياس في سائر المبدعات وسيأتي لك ما في هذا المقام من الكلام وإن لم يكن مثل هذه الإمكانيات كافيا في الفيضان بل لا بد مع ذلك من شروط أخرى زائدة على أصل الماهية حتى تصير مستعدة لقبول الوجود فلمثل هذا الممكن قسمان من الإمكان أحدهما ذاتي للماهية وهو كونه بحسب الماهية - بحال لا يلزم من فرض وجوده ولا من فرض عدمه محال والآخر استعدادي وهو أيضا هذا المعنى بالقياس إلى نحو خاص من وجوده وذلك لا يحصل إلا عند اجتماع الشرائط وارتفاع الموانع فما قيل إن هذا معنى آخر من الإمكان ليس بصحيح - نعم هما مختلفان بالموضع كما ستعلم في مباحث القوة والفعل.

ثم اعلم أن تلك الشرائط لا بد أن تكون سابقة على وجود هذا الممكن سبقاً زمانياً وإلا فلا يكون الحادث حادثاً هذا خلف ولا بد أن يكون لحصول هذا الاستعداد من حوادث سابقة لا تنتهي إلى حد ولا بد أيضاً من أمر متجدد الذات والهوية يكون حدوثه وانقضاؤه من الصفات الذاتية له ثم إنه لا بد من محل لتلك الحوادث ليصير بسببها تام القبول لما يحدث بعده وذلك هو المادة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٩٦

المرحلة الثالثة في تحقيق الجعل وما يتصل بذلك

فصل (١) في تحرير محل النزاع وتحديد حريم الخلاف في الجعل وحكاية القول في ذلك

الجعل إما بسيط وهو إفاضة نفس الشيء متعلق بذاته مقدس عن شوب تركيب وإما مؤلف وهو جعل الشيء شيئاً وتصويره إياه والأثر المترتب عليه هو مفاد الهلية التركيبية الحملية فيستدعي طرفين مجعولاً ومجعولاً إليه ومن ظن أن ذلك أيضاً يرجع بالآخرة إلى جعل بسيط يتعلق بشيء واحد - كنفس التلبس أو الصيرورة أو الاتصاف أو اتصاف الاتصاف أو شبه ذلك في بعض المراتب فقط خطأ فإن النسبة كالصيرورة أو الاتصاف أو غيرهما في النحو الأخير من الجعل إنما يتصور بين طرفيها على أنها مرآت لملحوظيتهما وآلة لملحوظية أحدهما بالآخر لا على وجه يصير ملتفتاً إليها بالذات فدخولها على الوجه المذكور في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٩٧

متعلق الجعل يكون على التبعية لا على الاستقلال فإذا لوحظت على الاستقلال بالالتفات إليها من حيث إنها في حد ذاتها ماهية من الماهيات ذهنية أو خارجية - استونف القول فيها هل هي في حد نفسها مفتقرة إلى جاعل أم تستغني عنه من تلك الحيثية ويفتقر إليه في اتصافها بما لا يدخل في قوامها والحاكم في ذلك هو البرهان النير. نظير ذلك بحسب الكون الذهني التصور والتصديق فإن التصور نوع من الإدراك لا يتعلق إلا بماهية الشيء أي شيء كان والتصديق نوع آخر منه يستدعي دائماً طرفين وهما موضوع ومحمول بأن يدخل النسبة بينهما في متعلقه على التبعية الصرفة فأثر التصور حصول نفس الشيء في الذهن وأثر التصديق صيرورة الشيء شيئاً - ثم إن الجعل المؤلف يختص بمتعلقه بالعرضيات اللاحقة لخلو الذات عنها بحسب الواقع ولا يتصور تخلله بين الشيء ونفسه أو بين الشيء وذاتياته كقولنا الإنسان إنسان والإنسان حيوان لأن كون الشيء إياه أو بعض ذاتياته ضروري والضروري مستغن عن الجاعل. لست أقول حصول نفس الشيء أو نفس مقوماته مستغن عن العلة بالضرورة إذ هو حريم التنازع بين أصحاب المعلم الأول وأتباع الرواقيين مع اتفاقهم على عدم انفكاك تقوم عن الوجود المطلق لصحة سلب المعدوم عن نفسه خلافاً لطائفة من المتكلمين وقد سبقت حكاية بعض من هوساتهم.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٩٨

فجمهور المشاءين ذهبوا كما هو المشهور إلى أن الأثر الأول للجاعل هو الوجود المعلول وفسره المتأخرون بالموجودية أي اتصاف ماهية المعلول بالوجود - بالمعنى الذي ذكرناه لا أن الأثر الأول هو ماهية الاتصاف أو ذات

المعلول أو نفس الوجود لاستغناء الماهيات بحقائقها التصورية عندهم من الجاعل. و ذهب طائفة أخرى من الحكماء المعروفين بالإشراقيين إلى أن أثر الجاعل و ما يبدعه أولا و بالذات هو نفس الماهية ثم تستلزم ذلك الجعل موجودية الماهية - بلا إفاضة من الجاعل لا للوجود و لا للاتصاف لأنهما عقليان مصداقهما نفس الماهية الصادرة عنه كما أن مصداق كون الذات ذاتا نفس الذات بدون الاحتياج إلى أمر آخر فإنه إذا صدرت ذات المعلول كماهية الإنسان مثلا عن العلة لا يحتاج بعد صدوره إلى جاعل يجعل تلك الذات نفسها فهي مستغنية بعد صدورها عن جاعلها - عن جاعل يجعلها إياها. و لا يتوهم أن كون الذات ذاتا لما كان متفرعا على نفس الذات و الذات مجعولة محتاجة إلى الجاعل فيكون هذه النسبة أيضا محتاجة إلى الجاعل و مجعولة له و كذا كونها موجودة على هذه الطريقة يحتاج إلى الجعل السابق المتعلق بنفس الماهية.

لأننا نقول فرق بين الاحتياج الناشي من الشيء بالذات و بين الاحتياج الناشي منه بالعرض و على سبيل الاتفاق فإن صدق الذاتيات و لوازم الماهيات لا يحتاج إلى جعل جاعل و تأثير مؤثر بل جعلها تابع لجعل الذات وجودا و عدما فإن كانت الذات مجعولة كانت ذاتياتها و لوازمها مجعولة بنفس ذلك الجعل و إن كانت الذات غير مجعولة كانت الذاتيات و اللوازم لها غير مجعولة باللاجعل الثابت للذات و كما أن الضرورة الأزلية تدفع الحاجة إلى العلة كذلك الضرورة الذاتية و الفرق بينهما بعدم الاحتياج التبعي في الأول و ثبوته في الثاني فالجاعل يفعل ماهية الإنسان مثلا ثم هو بنفسه إنسان و حيوان و قابل للتعلم لا بجعل مؤلف أصلا و لا بنفس ذلك الجعل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٣٩٩

البسيط كما ظنه المحقق الدواني و تلاميذه زاعمين أن ذلك مذهب الإشراقيين و قولهم ذاتيات الماهيات مجعولة بعين جعلها ليس معناه أن كون الإنسان إنسانا أو حيوانا - أي مصداق حملهما عليه يتعلق بجعل الجاعل إياه بل إنما راموا به إن جعل الماهية - هو بعينه جعلها جعلًا بسيطًا بل الجعل البسيط يتعلق أولا بالذاتيات و المقومات ثم بالماهية و اللوازم مترتبة عليها من دون تعلق الجعل بها بالذات و كذا الحال على قاعدة مجعولية الوجود عند المشاءين في صيرورة نفس الماهية و صيرورة نفسها إياها أو ذاتياتها و صحة سلب المعدوم عن نفسه إنما يستدعي استلزام حمل الشيء على نفسه تعلق الجعل به ذاتا أو وجودا على اختلاف القولين لا الاحتياج إليه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٠٠

فصل (٢) في الإشارة إلى مناقضة أدلة الزاعمين أن الوجود لا يصلح للمعلولية

إن قدماء الفلاسفة لم يورثوا أخلاقهم حجة على صحة شيء من المذهبيين - بل الظاهر أن كلا من الفريقين ادعوا بداهة دعواهم إذ لم نجد في كلام الأوائل برهانا على شيء منهما بل اقتصروا على مجرد إشارات و تنبيهات. و ربما احتج بعض الناس على كون الوجود غير صالح للمعلولية بوجوه من الدلائل - يبتني على كون الوجود أمرا اعتباريا و عارضا ذهنيا فلا يوصف بالذات بالحدوث و الزوال و الطريان بل الماهية هي الموصوفة بهذه الصفات مثلا يقال الإنسان موجود و حادث أو معدوم و زائل لا الوجود إذ لا يرد عليه القمسة فكيف يمكن أن يجعل الوجود وحده

هو المعلول و نحن بفضل الله و تأييده فككنا هذه العقد و حللنا هذه الإشكالات في مباحث الوجود.
و من المتأخرين من أبطل كون الوجود معلولا بأنه لو كان تأثير العلة في الوجود وحده لكان كل معلول لشيء معلولا
لغيره من العلل و كل علة لشيء علة لجميع الأشياء و اللازم ظاهر البطلان فكذا الملزوم بيان الملازمة أن الوجود حقيقة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٠١

واحدة فكانت علته صالحة لعلية كل وجود فإن الماء مثلا إذا سخن بعد أن لم يكن متسخنا فتلك السخونة ماهية من
الماهيات فصدورها عن المبادي المفارقة الفياضة - إما أن يتوقف على شرط حادث أو لا يتوقف فإن لم يتوقف لزم دوام
وجودها - لأن الماهية إذا كانت قابلة و الفاعل فياضا أبدا و جب دوام الفيض و إما أن يتوقف على شرط من الشرائط
فالمتوقف على تلك الشرائط وجود السخونة أو ماهيتها - فإن كان المتوقف هو وجود السخونة فهو باطل لأن ملاقة
الماء إذا كانت شرطا لوجود البرودة و وجود البرودة مساو لوجود السخونة فما هو شرط لوجود أحدهما - يجب أن
يكون شرطا لوجود الآخر لأن حكم الأمثال واحد و لو كان كذلك لوجب حصول السخونة في الجسم عند ملاقة الماء
له لأن الماهية قابلة و الفاعل فياض و الشرط حاصل عند هذه الملاقة فيجب حصول المعلول و يلزم من هذا حصول
كل شيء عند حصول كل شيء حتى لا يختص شيء من الحوادث بشرط و لا بعلة و كل ذلك باطل يدفعه الضرورة و
العيان فظهر أن المتوقف على ذلك الشرط هو ماهية السخونة فإذا كان المتوقف على الغير هو الماهية و كل ما يتوقف
على الغير يستدعي سببا - فالسبب سبب للماهية لا للوجود فعلة الممكنات ليست علة وجودها فقط بل علة لماهياتها أو
لهما معا انتهى كلام هذا القائل.

و هو مختل البيان متزلزل البنيان من وجوه - الأول أن الوجود و إن كان حقيقة واحدة إلا أن حصصها و مراتبها متخالفة - بالتقدم و التأخر و الحاجة و الغنى و قد مر بيان هذا في أوائل هذا الكتاب و لو كان الوجود ماهية كلية نوعية يكون لها
أفراد متماثلة لكان لهذا الاحتجاج وجه و قد علمت أن الوجود ليس له ماهية كلية فضلا عن أن يكون نوعا أو جنسا أو
عرضا - نعم ينتزع منه أمر مصدري يعرض للماهيات عند اعتبار العقل إياها و هو ليس من حقيقة الوجود في شيء كما
مر مرارا فوجود كل ماهية بنفس ذاته يقتضي التعيين بتلك الماهية لا بسبب زائد و مع ذلك معنى الوجود غير معنى
الماهية و إدراكه يحتاج إلى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٠٢

تلطف في السر فالوجود بما هو وجود و إن لم يضاف إليه شيء غيره يكون علة و يكون معلولا و يكون شرطا و يكون
مشروطا و الوجود العلي غير الوجود المعلولي و الوجود الشرطي غير الوجود المشروطي كل ذلك بنفس كونه وجودا
بلا انضمام ضمائم.

و أما ثانيا فلا تنتقاض ما ذكره بكون الوجود الواجبي علة للمعلول الأول - لجريان خلاصة الدليل فيه فإننا نقول على قياس
ما ذكره إن وجود الواجب إذا كان علة للمعلول الأول فهو إما أن يكون علة لأجل وجوده أو لأجل ماهيته و الأول غير
جائز لأن الوجود حقيقة واحدة في الواجب و غيره من الممكنات فإذا جاز صدور المعلول الأول من وجود الواجب
لجاز صدوره من وجود كل من الممكنات كالأعراض و الحركات و غيرها و التالي ظاهر البطلان فالمقدم مثله و الثاني

أيضا باطل لأن الواجب لا ماهية له غير الوجود التام الذي لا أشد منه ولا ينفعه القول بأن الوجود في الواجب من لوازم ذاته و ليس عينه لنهوض البراهين القاطعة على أن الوجود يستحيل أن يكون من لوازم الشيئية بالمعنى الاصطلاحي فقد علم أن حقيقة الوجود بنفسه واجب في الواجب ممكن في الممكنات أي غني و مفتقر و متقدم و متأخر و الغنى و الفقر و التقدم و التأخر كالمعاني المقومة له لا كاللواحق العرضية.

و أما ثالثا فلأن قوله ماهية السخونة إذا لم يتوقف على شرط و علة يجب دوام وجودها لأن الفاعل فياض أبدا و الماهية قابلة دائما فيجب دوام الفيض غير موجه و لا صحيح فإن القائل بأن أثر الجاعل هو وجود الماهية لا نفسها لم يذهب إلى أن المعلول إذا كان نفس الوجود يلزم ذلك أن يكون للماهية قوام و تحصل دون الوجود حتى يتفرع عليه كون الماهية علة قابلية للوجود بل الموجود في الخارج على مذهبه ليس إلا الوجود بالذات و أما المسمى بالماهية فإنما هي متحدة معه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٠٣

ضربا من الاتحاد بمعنى أن للعقل أن يلاحظ لكل وجود من الوجودات معنى منتزعا من الوجود و يصفه بذلك المعنى بحسب الواقع فالمحكي هو الوجود و الحكاية هي الماهية و حصولها من الوجود كحصول الظل من الشخص و ليس للظل وجود آخر كما فهمناك مرارا

فصل (٣) في مناقضة أدلة الزاعمين أن أثر العلة هي صيرورة الماهية موجودة

استدل بعض المتأخرين على إثبات مذهب المشاءين بأن مناط الاحتياج إلى الفاعل هو الإمكان و الإمكان ليس إلا كيفية نسبة الوجود و نحوه إلى الماهية - فالمحتاج إلى الجاعل و أثره التابع له أولا ليس إلا النسبة. و بأن الوجود لما ثبت كونه زائدا على الماهيات الممكنة فنفس تلك الماهيات لا يمكن أن يصير مصداق حمل الموجود و هل هذا إلا شاكلة الماهية بالقياس إلى الذاتيات. و بأن سبق الماهية ليس من الأقسام الخمسة المشهورة للسبق و قد لزم من مجعولية الماهية في نفسها.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٠٤

و بأن سلب الشيء عن نفسه إذا كان وجوده عين نفسه و إن كان محالا مطلقا - لكن في الماهيات الممكنة إنما يستحيل مع اعتبار وجودها فقط إذ يصح سلب المعدوم عن نفسه و ربما يصدق السالبة بانتفاء موضوعها و ذات الممكن لا تأتي عن العدم فهو في حد ذاته ليس هو

و في الأسماء الإلهية يا هو يا من هو يا من لا هو إلا هو

فما لم يصير موجودا لا يصدق على نفسه فالمحوج إلى الجاعل أولا و بالذات هو كونه موجودا لا نفس ماهيته. و أجيب عن الأول بأن القول في الإمكان ليس كما يصفه الجمهور بحسب

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٠٥

ما هو المشهور بل الأرفع من ذلك و قد مر تحقيقه.

و عن الثاني بأن مصداق الحمل في الوجود نفس الماهية لكن لا مع عزل النظر عن غيرها كما في الذاتيات و لا مع انضمام حيثة أخرى كما في العوارض غير الوجود- بل من حيث إنها صادرة بنفس تقرررها عن الجاعل و هذه الحيثة خارجة عن المحكوم عليه معتبرة على نهج التوقيف لا التقييد و الحاصل أن الماهية ما لم تصدر عن جاعلها لم يحمل عليها شيء من الذاتيات و العرضيات أصلاً فإذا صدرت صدقت عليها الذاتيات لكن لا من حيث هي صدرت بل على مجرد التوقيت لا التوقيف و صدق عليها الوجود بملاحظة كونها صادرة أي بسببه و حينه.

و عن الثالث بأن سبق الماهية على الوجود نوع آخر من أقسام السبق ساق إليه البرهان و يسمى السبق بالماهية و ذاتيات الماهيات أيضاً لها تقدم بالماهية عليها- و تقدم بالطبع أيضاً باعتبارين.

و عن الرابع بأن جواز سلب المعدوم عن نفسه لا يستلزم جواز سلب الممكن مطلقاً عن نفسه و عدم اعتبار الوجود لا يوجب اعتبار العدم و صدق الشيء على نفسه حين الوجود لا يوجب صدقه عليها بشرط الوجود فحمل الذاتيات على الموضوع- ما دامت المجعولية و الموجودية و حمل الوجود و الذات في الحقيقة الواجبية بنفس ذاته الأزلية السرمدية من دون توقيت و توقيف و تقييد و بهذا الاعتبار ينحصر الهو المطلق فيه تعالى و لم يكن هو إلا هو فحمل الوجود يشابه حمل الذاتيات من وجه و يباينه من وجه.

و احتج صاحب الإشراف في المطارحات على مجعولية الماهيات بالجعل البسيط- بأن الوجود لما كان من الأمور الاعتبارية فلا يتقدم العلة على معلولها إلا بالماهية- فجوهر المعلول ظل لجوهر العلة و العلة جوهريتها أقدم من جوهرية المعلول.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٠٦

و يقرب من ذلك ما ذكره بعض الفضلاء بأننا نعلم بالضرورة أن الأثر الأول للجاعل ليس إلا الموجود المعلول و لا شك أن الموجود المعلول ليس إلا الماهية- لأن الاتصاف بالوجود و نحوه من الأمور الاعتبارية. و أجود منه ما قال سيدنا الأستاذ أدام الله تعالى علوه و مجده من أنه لما كان نفس قوام الماهية مصحح حمل الوجود و مصداقه فاحدس أنها إذا استغنت بحسب نفسها و من حيث أصل قوامها عن الفاعل صدق حمل الوجود عليها من جهة ذاتها و خرجت عن حدود بقعة الإمكان و هو باطل فإذا هي فاقرة إلى فاعلها من حيث قوامها و تقرررها و من حيث حمل الموجودية عليها و هي في ذاتها بكلا الاعتبارين في الليس البسيط و السلب الصرف و القوة المحضة و يخرجها مبدعها إلى التقرر و الأيس بالجعل البسيط و يتبعه الوجود على اللزوم بلا وسط جعل مؤلف هذه عبارته الشريفة نقلناها تبركا بها في هذا الكتاب

بحث و مقاومة مع هؤلاء القوم:

اعلم أن مدار احتجاجاتهم و مبناها على أن الوجود أمر عقلي اعتباري معناه الموجودية المصدرية الانتزاعية كالشيئية و الممكنية و نظائرها و نحن قد بينا لك أن الوجودات الخاصة أمور حقيقية بل هي أحق الأشياء بكونها حقائق و الوجود العام أمر عقلي مصدري- كالحيوانية المصدرية و الفرق بين القبيلين مما لوحنا إليه آنفاً و سيتضح ذلك و إذا انهدم المبنى انهدم البنيان.

ثم بعد تسليم أن الوجود أمر اعتباري لا غير لا نسلم أن مصداق حمل الوجود على الماهيات إنما هو نفس تلك

الماهيات كما قالوا وإن كان بعد صدورها عن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٠٧

الجاعل حتى تكون في موجوديتها مستغنية عن الجاعل كيف و لو كان كذلك يلزم الانقلاب عن الإمكان الذاتي إلى الوجوب الذاتي فإن مناط الوجوب بالذات عندهم هو كون نفس حقيقة الواجب من حيث هي منشأ لانتزاع الموجودية و مصداقا لحملها عليه و مناط الإمكان الذاتي هو أن لا يكون نفس ذات الممكن من حيث هي كذلك فالممكن بعد صدور ماهيته عن الجاعل إذا كان بحيث يكون مصداقا لحمل الموجودية بلا ملاحظة شيء آخر معه بل مع قطع النظر عن أي اعتبار كان سوى نفس ذاته لكان الوجود ذاتيا له.

و لا يجدي الفرق بين حمل الذاتي و حمل الموجود بأن الذاتي للشيء ما يصدق عليه بلا ملاحظة حيثية تعليلية أو تقييدية و حمل الموجود يحتاج إلى ملاحظة صدور الماهية عن الجاعل.

لأننا نقول كون الماهية صادرة أو مرتبطة بالعلة أو غير ذلك إما أن يكون مأخوذاً مع الماهية في كونها محكياً عنها بالوجود أو لا فإن لم يكن عاد المحذور و هو الانقلاب عن الإمكان الذاتي إلى الوجوب الذاتي و إن كان مأخوذاً فيكون داخلاً في المحكي عنه بالوجود و مصداق حمل الموجود فيكون الصادر عن الجاعل و أثره المترتب عليه المجموع المسمى بالماهية و تلك الحيثية فليكن وجود الماهية تلك الحيثية فآثر الفاعل إذن هو اتصاف الماهية بالوجود كما هو رأي المشاءين على المعنى المسلف ذكره.

و العجب من المحقق الدواني مع شدة تورطه في كون الماهية من حيث هي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٠٨

أثر الجاعل دون الوجود قال في بعض تعاليقه إن حقيقة الواجب عندهم هو الوجود البحت القائم بذاته المعرى في ذاته عن جميع القيود و الاعتبارات فهو إذن موجود بذاته متشخص بذاته عالم بذاته قادر بذاته أعني بذلك أن مصداق الحمل في جميع صفاته هويته البسيطة التي لا تكثر فيها بوجه من الوجوه و معنى كون غيره موجوداً أنه معروض لصحة من الوجود المطلق بسبب غيره بمعنى أن الفاعل يجعله - بحيث لو لاحظته العقل انتزع منه الوجود فهو بسبب الفاعل بهذه الحيثية لا بذاته بخلاف الأول.

ثم قال بعد كلام تركناه هذا المعنى العام المشترك فيه من المعقولات الثانية - و هو ليس عينا لشيء منهما حقيقة نعم مصداق حمله على الواجب ذاته بذاته كما مر - و مصداق حمله على غيره ذاته من حيث هو مجعول الغير فالمحمول في الجميع زائد بحسب الذهن إلا أن الأمر الذي هو مبدأ انتزاع المحمول في الممكن ذاته من حيثية مكتسبة من الفاعل و في الواجب ذاته بذاته فإنه كما سبق عندهم وجود قائم بذاته فهو في ذاته بحيث إذا لاحظته العقل انتزع منه الوجود بخلاف غيره انتهى.

و الحاصل أن موجودية الماهيات الإمكانية عندهم إما بانضمام شيء إليه و هو الوجود كما هو المنقول عن المشاءين و إما بإفادة الفاعل نفس الماهية كما هو المشهور عن الإشراقيين و إما بجعلها مرتبطة و منتسبة إلى نفسه كما هو مذهب طائفة من المتألهين و الأول باطل عند هؤلاء و الثاني بما ذكرناه فبقي و تعين لهم الثالث - فيكون المجعول كون الماهية

مرتبطة يعني الهيئة التركيبية فيثبت عليهم تعلق الجعل المؤلف و تخلله بين الماهية و الوجود. طريق آخر في فسخ هذا الرأي لو كانت الماهية بحسب قوام ذاتها مفتقرة إلى الجاعل لزم كون الجاعل مقوما لها في حد نفسها فيتقدم عليها تقدم الذاتي على ذي الذاتي أي التقدم بالماهية كما هم معترفون به فيلزم أن لا يمكن تصور الماهية مع قطع النظر عن الفاعل و ارتباطها به و ليس كذلك فإننا قد نتصور

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٠٩

بعض الماهيات بكنهها مع قطع النظر عن غيرها فضلا عن الفاعل و نحكم على الماهية المأخوذة من حيث هي بأنها ليست إلا هي فعلم من ذلك أن نفس الماهيات و الطبائع الكلية في ذاتها غير متعلقة بغيرها بل التعلق مما يعرض لها بحسب حيثية أخرى سواء كانت انتزاعية عقلية أو انضمامية عينية و لا يلزم مما ذكرنا جواز انفكاك الماهية عن الوجود بحسب الخارج كما زعمته المعتزلة أو بحسب الذهن كما هو منقول عن الصوفية في الأعيان الثابتة على اصطلاحهم كيف و الممكن ما لم يوجد أصلا لم يكن شيئا من الأشياء و الشيئية غير منفكة عن الوجود بالبراهين القطعية - بل كما أن في طريقة هؤلاء القوم الماهية مفتقرة إلى الجاعل في نفس ذاتها لا في وجودها إلا بالعرض و لا يلزم منه الانفكاك بين الوجود و الماهية كذلك نقول في هذه الطريقة المحوج إلى السبب موجودية الماهية أي صيرورتها بحيث يصير منشأ للحكم عليها بالوجود لا نفس ذاتها من حيث هي و لا يلزم الانفكاك المذكور

طريق آخر

الماهيات الممكنة و الطبائع الكلية تشخصها ليس بحسب ذاتها - و إلا لم تكن كلية أي معروضا لمفهوم الكلي في العقل فتشخصها إنما يكون بأمر زائد عليها عارض لها و عند القوم إن الشيء ما لم يتشخص لم يوجد و المحققون على أن التشخص بنفس الوجود الخاص سواء كان أمرا حقيقيا خارجيا أو انتزاعيا عقليا لأن تلك الطبيعة الكلية نسبة جميع أشخاصها المفروضة إلى الجاعل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤١٠

نسبة واحدة فما لم يتخصص بواحد منها لم يصدر من الجاعل فالمجوعول إذن أولا و بالذات ليس نفس الماهية الكلية بل هي مع حيثية التعيين أو الوجود أو ما شئت فسمه - لا يقال تشخصها كوجودها بنفس الفاعل لا بأمر مأخوذ معها على وجه من الوجوه.

لأننا نقول هذا إنما يتمشى و يصح فيما إذا كان أثر الفاعل نحوا من انحاء حقيقة الوجود لا الماهية فإن الماهية لما كان مفهوما كليا يمكن ملاحظته من حيث ذاته مع قطع النظر عن الفاعل و غيره فهو من حيث ذاته إن كان متعينا موجودا لكان واجبا بالذات لما مر و إذا لم يكن كذلك فمن البين أنه إذا لم يكن بحسب نفسه متعينا موجودا في الواقع لم يصير متعينا موجودا في الواقع إلا بتغيير ما عما كان هو إياه في نفسه ضرورة أنه لو بقي الوجود على ما كان عليه في حد ذاته و لا يتغير عما هو هو في نفسه لم يصير متعينا موجودا و لو بالغير و التغير إما بانضمام ضميمة كالوجود و إما بكونه بحيث يكون مرتبطا بذاته إلى الغير بعد أن لم يكن كذلك بعدية ذاتية و الأول باطل عندهم و الثاني يلزم منه انقلاب الحقيقة و هو ممتنع بالذات.

طريق آخر

القائلون بالجمالية و المجعولية بين الماهيات يلزم عليهم كون الممكنات أمورا اعتبارية لكون الوجود أمرا اعتباريا عندهم فليس المؤثر و المتأثر في سلسلة الممكنات إلا نفس ماهياتها بدون اعتبار الوجود فيلزم كون المجعولات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤١١

و خصوصا ما سوى المجعول الأول لوازم الماهيات و لازم الماهية عندهم اعتباري محض ليس له تحقق أصلا تأمل.

تنبيه عرشي:

إن صاحب الإشراق و متابعيه حيث ذهبوا على وفق الأقدمين من الفلاسفة الأساطين كاغاثاذايمون و أنباذقلس و فيثاغورس - و سقراط و أفلاطون إلى أن الواجب تعالى و العقول و النفوس ذوات نورية ليست نوريتها و وجودها زائدة على ذاتها فيمكن حمل ما نقلناه عنه في اعتبارية الوجود و تنزيل ما ذكره في هذا الباب على أن مراده اعتبارية الوجود العام البديهي التصور لا الوجودات الخاصة التي بعينها من مراتب الأنوار و الأضواء و أن يؤول احتجاجاته على عدم اتصاف الماهية بالوجود بامتناع عروض الوجود في الخارج لماهية ما لا على امتناع قيام بعض أفرادها بذاتها. لكن يشكل هذا في باب الأنوار العرضية التي هي وجودات عارضة فإن النور حقيقة واحدة بسيطة عنده و ليس التفاوت بين أفرادها إلا بالشدة و الضعف و غاية كماله النور الغني الواجبي و غاية نقصه كونه عارضا لشيء آخر سواء كان جوهرًا نوريا أو جوهرًا غاسقا.

أو نقول غرضه المباحثة مع المشاءين فإنه كثيرا ما يفعل كذلك ثم يسير إلى ما هو الحق عنده إشارة خفية كما يظهر لمن تتبع كلامه فنقول على التقدير المذكور لا يرد عليه في باب صدور الذوات الشخصية النورية و مجعولية بعضها عن بعض

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤١٢

جعلنا بسيطاً ما يرد على المتأخرين في مجعولية الماهيات و الطبائع الكلية من لزوم كون الممكنات أمورا اعتبارية فإن تلك الذوات عندهم كالوجودات الخاصة عند المشاءين في أن حقائقها شخصية لا يمكن تعقلها إلا بالحضور الوجودي و الشهود الإشراقي و قد أسلفنا لك أن كل مرتبة من مراتب الوجود كونها في تلك المرتبة من مقوماتها فيمتنع تصورها و ملاحظتها إلا بعد ملاحظة ما قبلها فارتباط كل وجود بما قبله هو عين حقيقته لا يمكن تعقله غير مرتبط إلى علته فيجعل ذاته بعينه جعل ارتباطه مع الأول بلا انفكاك بينهما لا في الواقع و لا في التصور و ليست هي كالماهيات التي يمكن تصورهما منفكة عما سواها بناء على أنها تكون تارة في الخارج و تارة في الذهن و معانيها غير معنى شيء من الوجودين و غير ارتباطها مع الحق الأول و لا مع شيء من الأشياء إلا أجزاءها التي هي أيضا أمور كلية و المفهومات الإضافية أيضا و إن كانت مرتبطة بغيرها بحسب ماهياتها لكن المرتبطة و المرتبطة إليها في حكم واحد في عدم كونها مرتبطة بحسب ماهياتها إلى جاعلها و لذلك لا يمكن الحكم على شيء من الماهيات بالوجود إلا بعد ملاحظة حيثية أخرى غير ذاتها و معنى إمكانها تساوي نسبتي الوجود و العدم أو الصدور و اللاصدور إليها أو سلب ضرورتهما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤١٣

إليها و معنى إمكان الذوات الوجودية النورية تعلقها بغيرها بحيث لو قطع النظر عن جاعلها لم يكن شيئاً لا وجوداً ولا ماهية أصلاً فقطع النظر عن جاعلها بمنزلة قطع النظر عن تجوهر ذاتها بخلاف الماهيات الكلية فإن معانيها متصورة مع قطع النظر عن غيرها و مناط العلية عند القائلين بالجعل البسيط من الإشراقين هو كون الشيء وجوداً صرفاً كما في اصطلاح التلويحات و نوراً محضاً على ما هو اصطلاح حكمة الإشراق و إن كان الموجد الحقيقي عندهم هو الوجود الواجب الذي لا أشد منه - أو النور الغني الذي لا فقر له أصلاً و الوجود كما علمت لا يعلم إلا بالعلم الحضورى اليهودي و كذا النور لا يدرك كنهه إلا بالإضافة الإشراقية و الحضور العيني إذ لو علم شيء منه بالعلم الصوري الإدراك الذهني يلزم انقلاب الحقيقة كما أوضحناه في بعض رسائلنا فإذا المعلومات الوجودية النورية عندهم لوازم خارجية لعلها الجاعلة جعلاً بسيطاً لا لوازم ذهنية و لم يلزم من كونها مجعولة لماهيات جاعلها - كونها لوازم في كلا الوجودين حتى يلزم كونها لوازم الماهيات مع قطع النظر عن الوجودين فتكون أموراً اعتبارية و إنما يلزم ذلك لو لم تكن ماهيات عللها إنيات صرفة لا يمكن حصولها في الذهن و قد قلنا إنها كذلك فقد ظهر أن الماهيات و الحقائق على ضربين ماهية هي عين الإنية و هي لا تكون كلية و لا جزئية بمعنى كونها متشخصة بتشخص يزيد على ذاتها بل هي عين التشخص فإن الوجود و التشخص شيء واحد عند المعلم الأول و جماعة من أهل التحقيق و العرفان و ماهية هي غير الإنية فهي مما تقبل الشركة و الكلية - فلوازم الضرب الأول لا تكون إلا لوازم خارجية و ذات شخصية بخلاف لوازم الضرب الثاني فإنها لا تكون إلا أموراً اعتبارية كلية لا وجود لها في الخارج كما أثبت في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤١٤

مقامه و حقية ما ذكرناه لا يظهر إلا بعد غور تام و تأمل كامل في أقوالهم مع فطرة سليمة عن الآفات غير سقيمة بزمائم الصفات.

و من الغرائب أيضاً أن أكثر القائلين بالجاعلية و المجعولية في الماهيات لم يجوزوا التفاوت في أفراد حقيقة واحدة جنسية أو نوعية بوجه من وجوه التشكيك - و بالغوا في مناقضة هذا الرأي مع حكمهم باعتبارية الوجود و قولهم صريحاً و التزاماً - بتقدم ماهية العلة على ماهية المعلوم و قد غفلوا عن أنه إذا كانت العلة و المعلوم - كلاهما من أنواع الجوهر كالعقل الفعال و الهيولى مثلاً يلزمهم الاعتراف بأن جوهر العلة في باب الجوهرية أقدم من جوهر المعلوم و هم يتحاشون عن ذلك و سيجيء تحقيق التشكيك على وجه يزول عنه و به الشكوك إن شاء الله تعالى.

حكمة عرشية:

فالحق في هذه المسألة على ما يؤدي إليه النظر الصحيح هو مجعولية الوجود بالجعل البسيط لا نفس الماهيات لعدم ارتباطها في حدود أنفسها بالفاعل و قد بينا أن المعلوم من حيث كونه معلولاً مرتبط بالعلة نحوه من الارتباط مجهول لكنه سواء كان الوجود ذا ماهية تقتضي لذاتها تعلقاً بماهية من الماهيات من دون الافتقار إلى تخلل بين الماهية و بينه أو لم يكن كذلك.

فإن قلت لم لا يكون الأثر الأول للجاعل اتصاف الماهية بالوجود كما هو المشهور عن المشاءين بالمعنى الذي حقق أعني متعلق الهيئة التركيبية.

قلت هذا فاسد من وجهين - الأول أن أثر الفاعل الموجود يجب أن يكون أمراً موجوداً والاتصاف بأي معنى أخذ فهو أمر اعتباري لا يصلح كونه أثراً للفاعل.

و الثاني أن اتصاف شيء بصفة وإن لم يتفرع على ثبوت تلك الصفة لكن يتفرع على ثبوت الموصوف فثبوت الماهية قبل اتصافه بالموجود إما بنفس ذلك الوجود فيلزم تقدم الشيء على نفسه و تحصيل الحاصل أو بغيره فننقل الكلام إلى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤١٥

الوجود السابق و الاتصاف به فيتسلسل نعم لو قيل إن الأثر الصادر عن الجاعل أولاً - و بالذات أمر مجمل يحلله العقل إلى ماهية و وجود أعني مفاد الهيئة التركيبية كان له وجه لكن بعد التحليل نحكم بأن الأثر بالذات هو الوجود دون الماهية لعدم تعلقها من حيث هي هي بشيء خارج عنها.

فقد انكشف أن الصوار بالذات هي الوجودات لا غير ثم العقل يجد لكل منها نعوتاً ذاتية كلية مأخوذة عن نفس تلك الوجودات محمولة عليها من دون ملاحظة أشياء خارجة عنها و عن مرتبة قوامها و تلك النعوت هي المسماة بالذاتيات - ثم يضيفها إلى الوجود و يصفها بالموجودية المصدرية.

و هذا معنى ما قاله المحقق الطوسي ره في كتاب مصارع المصارع و هو أن وجود المعلولات في نفس الأمر متقدم على ماهياتها و عند العقل متأخر عنها فلا يرد عليها ما أورده بعضهم من أن تقدم الصفة على الموصوف غير معقول لأنك قد علمت أن المتحقق في نفس الأمر أولاً و بالذات ليس إلا الوجود ثم العقل ينتزع منه الماهية في حد نفسه و يحمل عليها الموجودية المصدرية المأخوذة من نفس الوجود - فما هو صفة الماهية بالحقيقة هي الموجودية المصدرية و ما يتقدم عليها بالذات هو الوجود الحقيقي فحال الوجود و الماهية على قاعدتنا في التأصل و الاعتبارية بعكس حالهما عند الجمهور فهذا مما يقضي منه العجب فأحسن تدبرك.

و يقرب من ذلك ما قاله بعض المدققين من أن تأثير القدرة في الماهية التي بعينها الموجود حتى يكون أثر الفاعل مثلاً هو السواد الذي هو نفس الموجود - لا وجوده و لا اتصافه بالوجود و لا حيثية الاتصاف لكن العقل ينسب السواد إلى الفاعل من حيث إنه موجود لا من حيث إنه سواد مثلاً فنقول هو موجود من الفاعل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤١٦

و لا نقول هو سواد منه أو عرض انتهى.

و هو كلام حق لو كان المعني بالموجود فيه هو الوجود الحقيقي الموجود بنفسه لا بأمر عارض كإضافة المضاف بنفس ذاتها لا بإضافة أخرى عارضة لها و غيرها من الأشياء و هذا القائل غير قائل به بل الموجود عنده مفهوم بسيط كلي شامل للجميع بديهي التصور و لا شك أن الموجود بهذا المعنى ليس أثراً للفاعل لكونه اعتبارياً محضاً - قال بهمنيار في كتاب التحصيل الفاعل إذا أفاد الوجود فإنه يوجب الوجود - و إفادة الوجود هي إفادة حقيقته لا إفادة وجوده فإن للوجود حقيقة و ماهية و كل ماهية مركبة فلها سبب في أن يتحقق تلك الحقيقة لا في حمل تلك الحقيقة عليها - مثل الإنسان له سبب في تحققه و تقومه إنساناً و أما في حمل الإنسان عليه فلا سبب له و يشبه أن يكون الموجود الذي له علة يجب أن يكون مركباً حتى يصح أن يكون معلولاً و أيضاً لأن الموجود المعلول في ذاته ممكن فيحتاج إلى أن يخرج إلى الفعل و

نعني بالمعلول أن حقيقته بذاته و مع اعتبار ذاته ليس بالفعل فكما أنك إذا تصورت معنى المثلث تصورت معه الخطوط الثلاث لا محالة فكذلك إذا تصورت وجود المعلول تصورت معه العلة انتهى قوله.

و فيه وجوه من التأييد لما نحن بصدده - منها أن أثر الفاعل و ما يترتب عليه هو الوجود بحقيقته البسيطة لا غير و تأثيره في الماهية بإفاضة الوجود عليها.

و منها التنصيص على أن حمل الذات على نفسها ليس بعلة أصلا لا بعلة جديدة و لا بعلة الوجود.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤١٧

و منها أن وجود المعلول بحسب حقيقته يتقوم بوجود علته بحيث لا يمكن تصور ذلك بدونه.

و اعلم أن مراده من الماهية المركبة الماهية الإمكانية مع اعتبار الوجود لها سواء كانت في حد نفسها بسيطة أو مركبة

شك و دفع:

ربما يتوهم متوهم أن الوجود وحده لا يمكن أن يكون معلولا لأن الوجود طبيعة واحدة فلو كان تأثير العلة فيه وحده لكانت علة صالحة لكل معلول مثلا سخونة الماء يحتاج في فيضانه عن العلة المفارقة إلى شرط و إلا لكانت دائمة بدوام المبدأ المفارق فالتوقف على ذلك الشرط لو كان وجود السخونة دون ماهيتها لزم أن يتحقق وجود السخونة بتحقيق ما هو شرط لوجود البرودة كالماء لأن وجود البرودة مساوق لوجود الحرارة فما هو شرط لذلك يكون شرطا لهذا فيلزم فيضان وجود السخونة عند ملاقة الماء لأن الماهية قابلة و الفاعل فياض و الشرط حاصل فيجب المعلول و من هذا يلزم حصول كل شيء - و هو بديهي البطلان يدفعه الحس و العيان.

و أنت بعد إتقان الأصول التي سبقت منا لا تفتقر إلى زيادة تجشم لإزالة أمثال هذه الشكوك فتذكر.

تنبيه: احذر يا حبيبي من سوء الفهم لدقيق كلام الحكماء -

و لطيف أقاويلهم و إشاراتهم إلى المعاني الدقيقة إذ كثير من الناس لما سمع قولهم إن الجوهر جوهر لنفسه و العرض عرض لنفسه و لم يفهم المراد فظن أنهم يقولون إنها مستغنية عن الجعل و التأثير رأسا و ليس الأمر كما توهموه وإنما قالت الحكماء هذا القول لأنك لما تأملت الوجودات و تصفحت أحوالها و لوازمها وجدت الوجودات موصوفات و ملزومات و المعاني الكلية و المفهومات الذهنية كلها صفات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤١٨

و لوازم عرفت أن علة اختلاف الموصوفات الوجودية بحسب العقل و المعرفة هي من أجل اختلاف تلك اللوازم و الصفات التي هي ذاتيات أو عرضيات و أما اختلاف تلك الصفات فهي لنفس اختلافها ذواتها و وجوداتها التي هي متخالفة المراتب كمالا و نقصا و شدة و ضعفا و سبقا و لاحوقا لأن الباري تعالى أبدعها مختلفة بأعيانها - لا لعل فيها بل لنفسها.

مثال ذلك أن اختلاف حال الأسود و الأبيض من أجل اختلاف السواد و البياض - و اختلاف السواد و البياض لذاتيهما لا لعل أخرى فمن ظن أن السواد و البياض في كونهما مختلفين لهما علة أخرى تمادى إلى غير النهاية فالسواد و البياض مختلفان بأنفسهما لا بصفة فيهما بل بذاتيهما اللتين هما عينا وجوديهما فهذا معنى كلامهم و لم يريدوا أن السواد مثلا

ليس بجعل جاعل ولا بصنع صانع كما توهم كثير ممن لم يرتاضوا بالعلوم الفلسفية و سياًتيك زيادة بصيرة.

توضيح فيه تلويح:

المعلول يجب أن يكون مناسباً للعلة وقد تحقق كون الواجب - عين الوجود والوجود بنفس ذاته فالفائض عنه يجب أن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤١٩

يكون وجود الأشياء لا ماهياتها الكلية لفقد المناسبة بينها وبينه تعالى. قال الشيخ الرئيس في بعض رسائله الخير الأول بذاته ظاهر متجل لجميع الموجودات ولو كان ذلك في ذاته تأثيراً لغيره لوجب أن يكون في ذاته المتعالية قبول تأثير الغير وذلك خلف بل ذاته بذاته متجل ولأجل قصور بعض الذوات عن قبول تجليه محتجب بالحقبة لا حجاب إلا في المحجوبين والحجاب هو القصور والضعف والنقص وليس تجليه إلا حقيقة ذاته إذ لا معنى له بذاته في ذاته إلا ما هو صريح ذاته كما أوضحه الإلهيون فذاته متجل لهم ولذلك سماه الفلاسفة صورة فأول قابل لتجليه هو الملك الإلهي الموسوم بالعقل الكلي فإن تجوهره بنيل تجليه تجوهر الصورة الواقعة في المرآة لتجلي الشخص الذي هي مثاله ولقريب من هذا المعنى قيل إن العقل الفعالة مثاله فاحترز أن تقول مثله وذلك هو الواجب الحق فإن كل منفعل عن فاعل فإنما ينفعل بتوسط مثال واقع من الفاعل فيه وكل فاعل ينفعل في المنفعل بتوسط مثال يقع منه فيه وذلك بين بالاستقراء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٢٠

فإن الحرارة النارية تفعل في جرم من الأجرام بأن تضع فيه مثالها وهو السخونة - وكذلك سائر القوى من الكيفيات والنفس الناطقة إنما تفعل في نفس ناطقة أخرى مثلها بأن تضع فيها مثالها وهي الصورة العقلية المجردة والسيف إنما يضع في الجسم مثاله وهو شكله والمسن إنما يحدد السكين بأن تضع في جوانب حده مثال ما ماسه - وهو استواء الأجزاء وملاستها انتهى كلامه وقال بعض العرفاء إن كل معلول فهو مركب في طبعه من جهتين جهة بها يشابه الفاعل ويحاكيه وجهة بها يباينه وينافيه إذ لو كان بكله من نحو يشابه نحو الفاعل كان نفس الفاعل لا صادراً منه فكان نوراً محضاً لو كان بكله من نحو يباين نحو الفاعل استحالة أيضاً أن يكون صادراً منه لأن نقيض الشيء لا يكون صادراً عنه فكان ظلمة محضة والجهة الأولى النورانية يسمى وجوداً والجهة الأخرى الظلمانية هي المسماة ماهية وهي غير صادرة عن الفاعل لأنها الجهة التي تثبت بها المباينة مع الفاعل فهي جهة مسلوب نحوها عن الفاعل ولا ينبعث من الشيء ما ليس عنده ولو كانت منبعثة عن الفاعل كانت هي جهة الموافقة فاحتاجت إلى جهة أخرى للمباينة فالمعلول من العلة كالظل من النور يشابهه من حيث ما فيه من النورية ويباينه من حيث ما فيه من شوب الظلمة فكما أن الجهة الظلمانية في الظل ليست فائضة من النور ولا هي من النور لأنها تضاد النور ومن أجل ذلك توقع المباينة فكيف تكون منه فكذلك الجهة المسماة ماهية في المعلول.

فثبت صحة قول من قال الماهية غير مجعولة ولا فائضة من العلة فإن الماهية ليست إلا ما به الشيء شيء فيما هو ممتاز عن غيره من الفاعل ومن كل شيء وهو الجهة الظلمانية المشار إليها التي تنزل في البسائط منزلة المادة في الأجسام.

وقد أشار إلى ثبوت هذا التركيب في البسائط الشيخ الرئيس في إلهيات الشفا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٢١

حيث قال و الذي يجب وجود لغيره دائما فهو أيضا غير بسيط الحقيقة لأن الذي له باعتبار ذاته فإنه غير الذي له من غيره و هو حاصل الهوية منهما جميعا في الوجود - فلذلك لا شيء غير واجب الوجود يعرّى عن ملابسة ما بالقوة و الإمكان باعتبار نفسه - و هو الفرد الحقيقي و ما عداه زوج تركيبى انتهى فالذي له باعتبار ذاته هو ماهيته - و الذي له من غيره هو وجوده و هويته منتظمة من هاتين الجهتين انتظام الجسم من الهيولى و الصورة و لهذا أسند القوة و الإمكان إلى الماهية استناده إلى المادة - و إن كان بين هذا التركيب و تركيب الجسم من الهيولى و الصورة فرق و كذا بين معنيي الإمكان في الموضوعين كما ستطلع عليه إن شاء الله تعالى.

ثم لا يختلجن في وهمك أنهم لما أخرجوا الماهية عن حيز الجعل فقد ألقوا بها بواجب الوجود و جمعوها إليه في الاستغناء عن العلة لأن الماهية إنما كانت غير مجعولة لأنها دون الجعل لأن الجعل يقتضي تحصيلها ما و هي في أنها ماهية لا تحصل لها أصلا ألا ترى أنها متى تحصلت بوجه من الوجوه و لو بأنها غير متحصلة كانت مربوطة إلى العلة حينئذ لأن الممكن متعلق بالعلة وجودا و عدما و واجب الوجود إنما كان غير مجعول لأنه فوق الجعل من فرط التحصل و الصمدية فكيف يلحق ما هو غير مجعول لأن الجعل فوقه بما يكون غير مجعول لأنه فوق الجعل فافهم.

و لقد أصاب الإمام الرازي حيث قال إن القول بكون الماهيات غير مجعولة - من فروع مسألة الماهية المطلقة و إنها في أنفسها غير موجودة و لا معدومة.

تفريع: احتياج الماهية و الطبائع الكلية إلى أجزائها

كالجنس و الفصل أو كالمادة و الصورة احتياج تقويمي بحسب نفس قوامها من حيث هي أو بحسب قوامها موجودة و احتياجها إلى فاعلها و غايتها احتياج صدوري فالأوليان علتان للماهية سواء كان مطلقا أو بحسب نحو من الوجود و الآخرين علتان لوجودها - فإذا نسب العلية و المعلولية بمعنى الإصدار و الصدور إلى الماهيات لا تصح إلا باعتبار

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٢٢

الوجود معها بخلاف نسبتها بمعنى التقويم و التقويم بحسب نفس الماهية فإنها تصح مع قطع النظر عن اعتبار الوجود و العدم معها و من هذين القبيلين موقع التصديق و موقع التصور بحسب الظرف العلمي.

ثم أعلم أنه قد ذكر الشيخ في الشفاء. في أول فصل موضوع المنطق ليس يمكن أن ينتقل الذهن من معنى واحد مفرد إلى تصديق شيء فإن ذلك المعنى ليس حكم وجوده و عدمه حكما واحدا في إيقاع ذلك التصديق لأن موقع التصديق علة التصديق و ليس يجوز أن يكون شيء علة لشيء في حالتي وجوده و عدمه فلا يقع في المفرد كفاية من غير تحصيل وجوده أو عدمه في ذاته أو في حالة له و أما التصور فإنه كثيرا ما يقع بمعنى مفرد.

و اعترض عليه العلامة الدواني بقوله فيه بحث أما أولا فلأنه منقوض بإفادته التصور فإن المقدمات جارية فيها و أما ثانيا فلأننا نقول هذا المفرد لوجوده الذهني - ربما يفيد التصديق بسبب وجوده في الذهن من غير أن يصدق بوجوده في الذهن كما في إفادة التصور بنفسه فظهر أن ما ذكره مغالطة و مثل ذلك غريب عن مثله هذا كلامه في رسالته المسمى

بأنموذج العلوم.

و قد علم مما ذكر الفرق بين الكاسيين من أن احتياج المطلوب التصديقي إلى مبادئه و تقومه بها بحسب الصدور و الوجود لا بحسب المفهوم و التصور إذ المطلوب التصديقي النظري مما يتصور أولا قبل إقامة الحجة عليها من دون تصور مبادئه و التصديق بها بوجه من الوجوه ثم تحصل النفس بعد تصور المطلوب مبادئه التصديقية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٢٣

و ينتقل منها إليه ثانيا بحسب التصديق فكانها كالعلل الفاعلية لوجود الماهية - في نفسها أو لوجود صفة من صفاتها. و يؤيد هذا ما قاله بهمنيار إن نسبة أولي الأوليات إلى جميع النظريات - كنسبة فاعل الكل إلى الموجودات و أما المطلوب التصوري و خصوصا الحدي - فاحتياجه إلى مبادئه القريبة و البعيدة احتياج تألفي و تقومه بها تقوم بحسب المفهوم و الماهية لا بحسب الصدور و التحقق كأجزاء الحد بالنسبة إلى المحدود.

فبذلك قد تحقق الفرق بين موقع التصديق و موقع التصور و اندفع النقص و كذا المنع أيضا بأدنى تأمل و تدبر

فصل (٤) في أن الوجود هل يجوز أن يشتد أو يتضعف أم لا

كل من الاشتداد و التضعف حركة في الكيف كما أن كلا من التزايد و التناقص حركة في الكم و معنى وقوع الحركة في مقولة هو أن يكون للموضوع في كل آن مفروض من زمان الحركة فرد من تلك المقولة يخالف الفرد الذي يكون له في آن آخر مخالفة نوعية أو صنفية أو نحوها آخر.

و ربما يعتقد أنها عبارة عن تغير حال تلك المقولة في نفسها و هو فاسد لأن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٢٤

معنى التسود مثلا ليس أن سوادا واحدا يشتد حتى يكون الموضوع الحقيقي - للحركة في السواد نفس السواد كيف و ذات الأول في نفسها ناقصة و الزائدة ليست بعينها الناقصة.

و لا يتأتى لأحد أن يقول ذات الأول باقية و ينضم إليها شيء آخر - فإن الذي ينضم إليه إن لم يكن سوادا فما اشتد السواد في سواديته بل حدث فيه صفة أخرى و إن كان الذي ينضم إليه سوادا آخر فيحصل سوادان في محل واحد بلا امتياز بينهما بالحقيقة أو المحل أو الزمان و هو محال و اتحاد الاثنين من السواد أيضا غير متصور لأنهما إن بقيا اثنين فلا اتحاد و كذا الحال إن انتفيا و حصل غيرهما أو انتفى أحدهما و حصل الآخر.

فقد علم أن اشتداد السواد ليس ببقاء سواد و انضمام آخر إليه بل بانعدام ذات الأول عن الموضوع و حصول سواد آخر أشد منه في ذلك الموضوع مع بقاءه في الحالين و عليه القياس في التضعف.

إذا تحقق هذا فعلم أن لا حركة في الوجود أما على طريقة القائلين باعتبارية الوجود مطلقا و تكثره بتكثر موضوعاته فقط فواضح لا يحتاج إلى البيان و أما على ما اخترناه فلما علمت سابقا أن الوجود ليس عرضا قائما بالماهية بل هو نفس وجود الموضوع و موجوديته بل هو عين الموضوع في نفس الأمر فكيف يسوغ تبديله مع بقاء ما هو عينه جعللا و تحققا اللهم إلا باعتبار بعض الملاحظات العقلية.

و أيضا يلزم من الحركة في الوجود عدم بقاء المتحرك بالفعل ما دام كونه متحركا لأن المتحرك ليس له تلبس في أبعاض

زمان الحركة وآناته بما فيه الحركة فليس يمكن أن يتحرك الشيء فيما لا يتقوم هو إلا به كالوجود و الصور الجوهرية و فوق هذا كلام آخر سيرد عليك تحقيقه إن شاء الله تعالى.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٢٥

وهم وتنبيه:

ربما يتوهم أنه لو كان معنى وقوع الحركة في شيء ما ذكر - لزم أن لا يتحقق حركة في مقولة لأن الانتقال من فرد مما فيه الحركة إلى آخر إنما يتصور إذا كان للأفراد وجود بالفعل و ليس كذلك و إلا لزم تشافع الآنات و انحصار ما لا يتناهى من الموجودات المترتبة بين حاصرين - فيزاح بأن تلك الأفراد و إن لم تكن موجودة متميزة بالفعل لكنها موجودة بالقوة القريبة من الفعل بمعنى أن أي فرض لو انقطعت الحركة فيه تلبس المتحرك بفرد مخصوص من تلك الأفراد فيه.

و رد هذا بأنه يلزم أن لا يكون للمتحرك الأيني في زمان الحركة مكان بالفعل - و لا للمتحرك الكمي كم بالفعل و هو باطل بالضرورة.

و أجاب عنه العلامة الدواني بأن المتحرك إنما يتصف بالفعل حال الحركة - بالتوسط بين تلك الأفراد و ذلك التوسط حالة بين صرافة القوة و محوضة الفعل - و القدر الضروري هو أن الجسم لا يخلو عن تلك الأعراض و التوسط فيها و أما أنه لا يخلو من أفرادها بالفعل فليس ضروريا و لا مبرهنا عليه بل البرهان ربما اقتضى خلافه هذا كلامه.

و لا يخفى ما فيه فإن المتحرك في الأين مما أحاط به جسم في كل زمان حركته فبالضرورة له أين بالفعل و إلا فيلزم الخلاء و هو محال و أيضا الأفلاك غير منفكة عن الحركة الوضعية فيلزم أن لا يكون لها وضع في وقت أصلا.

فالحق في هذا المقام أن أفراد المقولة التي تقع فيها الحركة ليست منحصرة في الأفراد الآنية بل لها أفراد آنية هي معيار السكون و أفراد زمانية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٢٦

تدرجية الوجود منطبقة على الحركة بمعنى القطع بل هي عينها كما رآه بعضهم - فحينئذ يكون للمتحرك ما دامت الحركة باقية على اتصالها فرد واحد زمني متصل - غير قار ذو هوية متكمة اتصالية متضمن لجميع الحدود المفروضة في الآنات - نسبتها إليه نسبة النقط المفروضة إلى الخط فالفرد الزمني من المقولة حاصل - للمتحرك بالفعل من دون فرض أصلا و أما الأفراد الآنية و الزمانية التي هي حدود ذلك الفرد و أبعاضه فهي حصولها بمجرد الفرض فإذن لا يلزم خلو الجسم عن المقولة المتحرك فيها و لا تتالي الآنات و لا الآنيات و لا انحصار ما لا يتناهى بين حاصرين إذ لا يوجد فرد واحد آني بالفعل حال الحركة فضلا عن تشافع الآنيات - أو كونها غير متناهية.

و ليس لك أن ترجع و تقول فلتكتف في اشتداد الوجود و تضعفه بهذه المرتبة من قوام الموضوع و ثباته.

لأن استمرار موضوع الحركة شرط للحركة و الفرد الزمني من الشيء لا استمرار له أصلا لا في زمان وجوده و لا في غير ذلك الزمان و زيادة التوضيح موكولة إلى تحقيق مباحث الحركة و الزمان إن شاء الله تعالى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٢٧

فصل (٥) في الشدة والضعف

لعلك كنت مقروع السمع في طبقات العلوم أن كل متميزين في الوجود أو العقل فتمايزهما وافتراقهما إما بتمام ماهيتهما من دون اشتراك ما جوهري بينهما - أو بشيء من سنخ الماهية بعد اشتراك طبيعة ما جوهري بينهما فالمشترك جنس و المعينات فصول و محصلات لطباع نوعية و التركيب تركيب اتحادي أو بأمور عرضية بعد اتفاقهما في تمام الحقيقة المشتركة و المتحصل أفراد شخصية أو صنفية و التركيب تركيب اقتراني.

و لا أجذك ممن تفتنت هناك بقسم رابع ذهب إليه فلاسفة الإشراق ينقدح به الحصر و هو أن الافتراق ربما لا يكون بتمام الماهية و لا ببعض منها و لا بلواحق

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٢٨

زائدة عليها بل بكمال في نفس الماهية بما هي هي و نقص فيها بأن يكون نفس الماهية مختلفة المراتب بالكمال و النقص و لها عرض بالقياس إلى مراتب نفسها وراء ما لها من العرض بالقياس إلى أفرادها المتضمنة لها و غيرها من الفصول و اللواحق.

و هذا مما وقع فيه الاختلاف بين الفريقين فاحتجت اتباع المشائية على بطلانه بأن الأكمل إن لم يكن مشتملا على شيء ليس في الأنقص فلا افتراق بينهما - و إن اشتمل على شيء كذا فهو إما معتبر في سنخ الطبيعة فلا اشتراك بينهما و إما زائد عليها فلا يكون إلا فصلا مقوما أو عرضيا زائدا.

و هذا الاحتجاج مع قطع النظر عن انتقاضه بالعارض ردي جدا بل هو مصادرة على المطلوب الأول إذ الكلام في أن التفارق قد يكون بنفس ما وقع فيه التوافق بين الشئيين لا بما يزيد عليه.

و أيضا الاختلاف بين السوادين مثلا إذا كان بفصل فالفصل الذي يميز أحدهما عن الآخر ليس بمقوم لحقيقة السواد إلا لم يكن مميزا له بل هو فصل مقوم له مقسم للسواد المشترك بينهما الذي هو جنس لهما على هذا التقدير و لا شك أن الفصل عرضي لماهية الجنس و مفهومه خارج عنها فحاله بالقياس إلى ماهية الجنس كحال سائر العرضيات فإذا كان الاشتداد و التمامية في السواد من جهة الفصل الذي معناه غير معنى السواد فيكون التفاوت فيما وراء السواد و قد فرض فيه.

أجابوا عن ذلك بأن الذي يقال بالتفاوت على الأفراد هو العرضي المحمول كالأسود على معروضات مبدأ الاشتقاق كالسواد مثلا لأجل احتمال بعضها على فرد من أفراد المبدأ له تمامية في حد فرديته الغير المشتركة و بعض آخر على

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٣٠

فرد منها ليس كذلك أيضا بحسب نفس هويته مع عدم التفاوت بين أفراد المبدأ - بالقياس إلى المفهوم المشترك بينهما فطبيعة السواد على التواطؤ الصرف في أفرادها الشديدة و الضعيفة مطلقا و إنما المشكك مفهوم الأسود على معروضي الفردين - المختلفين شدة و ضعفا في حد هويتهما الفرديتين و فصول السواد و إن كانت ماهيتها بحسب ملاحظة العقل غير ماهية السواد الذي هو الجنس لكنها مما يصدق عليها معنى السواد الجنسي فالتفاوت بحسبها لا يوجب أن يكون

تفاوتا في غير معنى السواد.

و أنت تعلم أن القول بأن الشديد من السواد والضعيف منه ليس بينهما تفاضل في السوادية ولا اختلاف في حمل السواد عليهما بل التفاوت إنما هو بين الجسمين المعروضين لهما فيه بعيد عن الصواب كيف وإذا كان الاختلاف الذي بين المبدئين - موجبا لاختلاف صدق المشتق على المعروضين فليكن ذلك الاختلاف مقتضيا لاختلاف صدق المبدأ على الفردين بل هذا أقرب.

و من حججهم في هذا الباب أن ذات الشيء إن كانت هي الكاملة فالناقص والمتوسط ليسا نفس الذات و كذا إن كانت كلا من الناقص والمتوسط فالباقيان ليسا تلك الحقيقة بعينها.

و هذا غير مجد في الحقيقة النوعية فإن ما لا يحتمل التعميم والتفاوت إنما هي الوحدة العددية و أما الوحدة المعنوية فللخصم أن يقول الحقيقة النوعية هي الجامعة للحدود الثلاثة الزائد والناقص والمتوسط.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٣١

فإن قلت الكلبي الطبيعي موجود عندهم في الخارج فالأمر المشترك بين المراتب الثلاث موجود في الخارج وإن كان ظرف عروض الاشتراك إنما هو الذهن - فما بقي عند العقل بعد تجريده عن الزوائد والمشخصات هو مطابق للكمال أو لغيره من الناقص والمتوسط وعلى أي تقدير فلا يكون مطابقا للجميع ولا مقتضيا إلا لمرتبة معينة من المراتب فيكون البواقي من المراتب مستندة إلى أمر خارج عن الطبيعة المشتركة فيلزم خرق الفرض.

قلت الكلبي الطبيعي على ما تصوره إنما يتحقق في المتواطي من الذاتيات فإن الماهيات التي إذا جردت عن الزوائد تكون متفقة في جميع الأفراد غير متفاوتة فيها - تنحصر في المتواطيات والمشكك ليس من هذا القبيل بل كل مرتبة توجد منه في الخارج في ضمن شخص أو أشخاص متعددة لو أمكن وجودها في العقل فهي بحيث إذا جردها العقل عن الخارجيات توجد تلك المرتبة بعينها في الذهن وكذا حال مرتبة أخرى له أيضا وتلك المراتب المأخوذة عن الأشخاص الخارجية الموجودة في الذهن ليست في التمامية والنقص بمنزلة واحدة فلا تعرض لواحدة منها الكلية بالقياس إلى جميع الأشخاص المندرجة تحت جميع المراتب - نعم الجميع مشترك في سنخ واحد مبهم غاية الإبهام و هو الإبهام بالقياس إلى تمام نفس الحقيقة ونقصها وراء الإبهام الناشئ فيه عن الاختلاف في الأفراد بحسب هوياتها

تنبيه تفصيلي:

ضابطة الاختلاف التشكيكي على انحائه هو أن يختلف قول الطبيعة المرسل على أفرادها بالأولوية أو الأقدمية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٣٢

أو الأتمية الجامعة للأشدية والأعظمية والأكثرية والخلاف بين شيعة الأقدمين - و اتباع المعلم الأول من المشاءين

في أربع مقامات.

الأول أن الذات أو الذاتي بالقياس إلى أفرادها إما يمنع أن يكون متفاوتا بشيء من أنحاء التشكيك سواء كان بالأولوية وعدمها أو بالتقدم والتأخر أو بالكمال والنقص أم يمكن فيها ذلك و من المتأخرين من ادعى البدهة و اتفاق الجميع في نفي التشكيك بالأولين في الذاتيات و هو مستبعد جدا و قد غفل عن أن الأنوار

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٣٣

الجوهرية النورية عند حكماء الفرس و الأقدمين بعضها علة للبعض بحسب حقيقتها الجوهرية البسيطة عندهم.

و الثاني التشكيك بالأشدية و الأضعفية أ يوجب الاختلاف النوعي بين أفراد ما فيه الاختلاف ليكون منشأ الاختلاف فصولها الذاتية أم لا بل يجوز الاتفاق النوعي بين البعض و إن لم يجز بين الجميع.

و الثالث أن التفاوت بحسب الكيف و التفاوت بحسب الكم أ هما ضربان مختلفان من التشكيك أ ضرب واحد منه و إن لم يسم باسم واحد من أسامي التفضيل و أدوات المبالغة.

و الرابع أن الاختلاف بالشدة و الضعف و الكمال و النقص أ ينحصر في الكم و الكيف أ يتحقق في غيرهما مثل الجوهر.

فالمشاءون ذهبوا إلى أول الشقين المذكورين في كل من هذه المقامات الأربعة - و الرواقيون إلى الآخر منهما في الجميع فلنذكر القول في كل منها.

أما المقام الأول

فنقول إنك لما تيقنت أن الوجود حقيقة واحدة لا جنس لها و لا فصل و هي في جميع الأشياء بمعنى واحد و أفرادها الذاتية ليست متخالفة بالذوات و لا بالهويات التي هي مغايرة للذات بل بالهويات التي هي عين الذات - و قد مر أيضا أن الجاعلية و المجعولية لا تتحقق إلا في الوجودات دون الماهيات الكلية فاحكم بأن أفرادها المتعينة بنفس هوياتها المتفقة الحقيقة المتقدمة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٣٤

بعضها على بعض بالذات و الماهية مختلفة بأنحاء الاختلافات التشكيكية من الأولوية و عدمها و التقدم و التأخر و القوة و الضعف.

و مما ينبه على ذلك أن أجزاء الزمان متشابهة الماهية مع تقدم بعضها على بعض بالذات لا بما هو خارج عن نفسها.

و مما احتج به شيخ الإشراق في إثبات هذا المطلب قوله في كتاب المطارحات - و هو أن المقدار التام و الناقص ما زاد أحدهما على الآخر بعرض و لا فصل مقسم للمقدار فإنه عرضي أيضا لما يقسمه بالتفاوت في المقادير بنفس المقدار و ليس الزائد خارجا عن المقدار بل ما زاد به هو كما ساوى به في الحقيقة فليس الافتراق بين الخطين المتفاوتين بالطول و القصر إلا بكمالية الخط و نقصه و كذا بين السواد التام و الناقص فإنهما اشتركا في السوادية و ما افترقا في أمر خارج عن السوادية - فصلا كان أو غيره فإن التفاوت في نفس السوادية.

و اعترض عليه بأن طبيعة المقدارين الزائد و الناقص على شاكلة واحدة و التفاوت بينهما ليس بنفس المقدار المطلق و إن كان فيه فإن ما به التفاوت غير ما فيه التفاوت لأنه بنفس المقدارية المختصة بكل منهما في حد فرديتهما بحسب اختلافهما في التماذي على أبعاد محدودة إلى حدود معينة و ذلك أمر خارج عن طبيعة المقدارية تابع لها من جهة استعدادات المادة و انفعالاتها المختلفة فكل من الطويل و القصير من الخطين إذا لوحظا من حيث طبيعة الخط كان كل منهما طولا حقيقيا يضاهي الآخر في أنه بعد واحد و لا يعقل بينهما في هذا المعنى تفاضل أصلا و إذا لوحظ مقيسا إلى

الآخر كان الأزيد منهما طويلا إضافيا يفضل على الآخر بحسب الخصوصية الفردية - كما قال الشيخ في قاطيقورياس الشفاء و لست أعني أن كمية لا تكون أزيد من كمية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٣٥

و أنقص بل إن كمية لا تكون أشد و أزيد في أنها كمية من أخرى مشاركة لها و إن كان من حيث المعنى الإضافي أزيد منه أعني الطول الإضافي انتهى فالطول الحق لا يقبل الأزيد و الأنقص بل الطول المضاف و كذلك حكم العدد و قال أيضا فيه اعلم أن الكثير بلا إضافة هو العدد و الكثير بالإضافة عرض في العدد و كذا طبيعة السواد و الحرارة أيضا في السوادات و الحرارة على نسق واحد إنما الاختلاف بحسب خصوصيات الأفراد لا بنفس جوهر الماهية المشتركة و سنخها كما قال أيضا السواد الحق لا يقبل الأشد و الأضعف بل الذي هو سواد بالقياس عند شيء هو البياض بالقياس إلى آخر و كل ما يفرض من السواد فهو لا يقبل الأشد و الأضعف في حق نفسه بل إنما عند ما يؤخذ بالقياس فلذلك كان تقابل الطرفين يعم الأوساط و لا يزداد بذلك أقسام التقابل و لا يهدم اشتراط التضاد الحقيقي بغاية الخلاف فمعنى الأشدية و الأزيدية يرجع عند هؤلاء إلى كون أحد الفردين في نفسه - بحيث ينتزع منه العقل بمعونة الوهم مثل الفرد الآخر مع تجويز زيادة لا ازدياد طبيعة العام بعينها في بعض الأفراد و لا بأكثرية ظهور آثار الكلي في بعض الأفراد كما فسره بعضهم و إلا لكان كثير من الذاتيات قابلا للشدة و الضعف كالإنسان مثلا لاختلاف أفرادها في استتباع الآثار كثرة و قلة قالوا ثم مجرد ذلك ليس تشكيكا بل هو سبب لاختلاف صدق المشتق من الفردين على معروضيهما كما مر فيثول في الحقيقة إلى الأولوية.

و الحاصل أنه لا يتحقق عندهم في السوادين ما فيه الاختلاف بينهما بل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٣٦

يتحقق في كل منهما ما به الاختلاف و هو فصله المنوع له بل إنما يوجد بين الجسمين - الشديد السواد و الضعيف السواد ما فيه الاختلاف و هو مفهوم الأسود فإن أحدهما أوفر حظا مما يطلق عليه السواد و الآخر أقل حظا منه. و على هذا لا يرد عليهم ما ذكره الشيخ الإلهي في المطارحات بقوله و هؤلاء هم الذين يقولون إن السواد الأشد يمتاز عن السواد الأنقص بفصل و إذا كان السواد له فصل مقسم فيكون جنسا و هو واقع بالتشكيك فبعض الجنس واقع بالتشكيك - و قالوا لا شيء من الأجناس واقعا بالتشكيك انتهى.

و أما المقام الثاني

فالحق فيه ما ذهب إليه الرواقيون من الأقدمين و غيرهم لما ذكرناه أيضا في حقيقة الوجود من أنها ليست ذات أفراد متخالفة بالفصول مع أن بعضها في غاية الشدة و العظمة و بعضها بحسب هوياتها التي لا تزيد على مرتبتها - في غاية الوهن و الخسة كوجود الحركة و الهولوى و العدد و أمثالها من ضعفاء الوجود - و أيضا إن المشاءين قد أثبتوا اشتداد الكيفيات و تضعفها بمعنى حركة الموضوع الجسماني - في مراتب الكيفيات كالحرارات و السوادات و غيرهما و من المتحقق عندهم أن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٣٧

الحركة الواحدة أمر شخصي له هوية اتصالية من مبدأ المسافة إلى منتهاها و أبعاض المتصل الواحد و حدودها أيضا متحدة بحسب الماهية النوعية و قد ادعوا بداهة هذه الدعوى في إبطال رأي ديمقراطيس في مبادي الأجسام فيلزم من ذلك أن يكون مراتب الشدید و الضعیف من السواد في تسود الجسم متحدة في الماهية النوعية و لا استحالة في أن السلوك الاشتدادي يتأدى إلى شيء يخالف السلوك فيه بحسب الحقيقة - و لكن ليس حصولها من جهة كونه مما فيه السلوك بل من جهة كونه مما إليه أو منه السلوك و إن كان نفسه مما يقع فيه السلوك بحسب مراتبه كالحمرة بين السواد و البياض فإن الفطرة حاکمة بأن الحمرة ليست بسواد ضعيف أو بياض ضعيف و لها أيضا مراتب شديدة و ضعيفة.

و أما المقام الثالث

فالشدة و الضعف قد يعنى بهما ما يعرفه الجماهير و يدل عليه أدوات المبالغة و إن كان موضوعها الأصلي بحسب اللغة هو القوة على الممانعة و منه نقل إلى هذا المعنى ففي العرف لا يقال إن خط كذا أشد خطية من خط كذا - كما يقال سواد كذا أشد سوادية من سواد كذا و كذا لا يقال هذا أخط من ذلك كما يقال هذا أسود من ذاك فمن نظر إلى استعمال العرب بحسب العرف حكم بأن الشدة و الضعف يختص قبولهما بالكيفيات دون الكميات و غيرها و الكميات إنما تقبل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٣٨

الزيادة و النقصان و الكثرة و القلة لا غير.

و لا خفاء في أن التعويل على مجرد اللفظ و إطلاق أهل العرف قبيح من أرباب العلوم العقلية و ليس من دأب الحكيم اقتباس الحقائق من العرفيات اللسانية مع أن هذا القياس العرفي فاسد في نفسه فإنه و إن لم يطلق في العرف أن خط كذا أشد خطية لكنه يقال إنه أشد طولاً من خط كذا و مفهوم الطول مفهوم الخط فالشدة هي الشدة في الخط و كذا يطلق أن هذا الخط أطول من ذلك أو أكبر منه مع أن المطلق يسلم أن الخط نفس المقدار.

و كذا في الكم المنفصل اعتمدوا في نفي الأشدية عنها على أنه لا يقال في العرف عدد كذا أشد عددية من كذا و مع ذلك فقد اعترفوا بأنه يصح أن يقال عدد كذا أكثر من عدد كذا و الكثرة و العدد شيء واحد فالكثرة شدة في العدد و على ذلك فقس حال الضعيف فيهما و قد فرق بعضهم بين الشدة و الزيادة بأن الشدة لها حد يقف عنده بخلاف الزيادة المقدارية و العددية فإن الطول لا ينتهي إلى حد لا يمكن تصور ما هو أطول منه و كذا العدد و أما السواد و الحرارة و ما يجري مجراهما فينتهي إلى ما لا يتصور ما هو أشد منه.

و يرد أولاً المنع من أن الكيفيات تنتهي إلى حد لا يمكن الزيادة عليه بحسب نفس الأمر و إن كان الذي في الوجود لا يكون إلا متناهما عند حد ليس في الوجود ما هو أشد منه و هكذا الطول و الكثرة من غير فرق. و ثانياً بأن هذا على تقدير التسليم مما لا تأثير له في بيان الفرق بينهما بأن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٣٩

كلا منهما نحو آخر من أقسام التشكيك بحسب القسمة الأولية.

و من هذا القبيل ما قالوا في الفرق بينهما أن الزائد و الناقص إنما يقال فيما صحت إليه الإشارة إلى قدر به المساواة و زائد و إلى ما يمكن تعيين بعض منه بالمساواة و بعض زائد و الأشد و الأضعف ليس من هذا القبيل.

فعلى تقدير المساواة يقال لهم إن العدد متقوم الحقيقة من الوحدات دون الأعداد و كل مرتبة من العدد نوع بسيط غير مركب من الأعداد الأخر فالأربعة لا يتقوم بالثلاثة و لا الثلاثة بالاثنتين و إذا فصل بالعقل تبطل صورته و تحصل صورة أخرى - فالتفاوت الذي يتصور بين الثلاثة و الأربعة فبأي جزء من الأربعة يقع المساواة و بأي منها متفاوتة و كيف يتأتى تعيين قدر به التساوي و آخر به التفاوت في الأنواع البسيطة.

و أيضا قالوا التفاوت الكيفي و المقداري و العددي يستحق أسامي مختلفة بحسب مواضعه المختلفة فإن ما به الفضل في الكم المقداري بعض موهوم من هوية كاملة منه متحدة الحقيقة مع هوية ناقصة و مع مساويها من تلك و كذلك يتصور بينهما الاتحاد في الوجود و في الكم العددي بعض من هوية تامة مباينة الماهية و الوجود لهوية ناقصة و لمساويها من تلك فيمتنع بينهما الاتحاد في الوجود و في الكيف نفس هوية فاضلة بما هي تلك الهوية الفاضلة لا بشيء موهوم منها أو موجود فيها بل بكلية ذاتها الخاصة.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٤٠

و هذا إنما يستقيم لو كانت الطبيعة المشتركة بين الكامل و الناقص طبيعة جنسية و يكون كل منهما متحصلا بفصل لا يزيد على حقيقتها و وجودها حتى يكون واحد منهما بنفس حقيقته المختصة و كلية ذاته الخاصة أتم و أشد من الآخر لا بجزئه الممايز في الوجود أو الوهم للجزء الآخر.

فقد استوضح أن مناط الشدة و الضعف تباين الحقيقة النوعية و كذلك الكثرة و القلة مع ما ذكر من الفرق بخلاف الزيادة و النقصان فإنهما من توابع اختلاف الشخصات و تفاوت الهويات.

فيقال لهم إنا نسامح في مثل هذه الأشياء و نمكن لهم في وضع الاصطلاح فلهم أن يصطلحوا على الكمال و النقص في الكم المقداري بالزيادة و النقصان و في العدد بالكثرة و القلة و فيما سواهما من الكيف بالشدة و الضعف إلا أن هاهنا جامعا بين الجميع و هو التمامية في نفس المعنى المتفاضل فيه و النقص فيها.

و أما المقام الرابع

فاعلم أن الحكماء المتقدمين مثل أنبازقلس و أفلاطن و من بعدهما حكموا بأن جواهر هذا العالم الأدنى أطلال لجواهر العالم الأعلى و أرادوا بذلك أنها معلولة لتلك إذ المعلول كظل لما هو علته و العلة جوهريتها أقدم من جوهرية المعلول كما علمت من قاعدة الجعل و من أن الوجود عين الحقائق الخارجية - على ما قررناه فتقدم العلة على المعلول بماهيتها الحقيقية و الجوهرية إشارة إلى كماليتها في القوام و الاستقلال و إذا استفيدت جوهرية المعلول من جوهرية العلة فكيف يساويها في الجوهرية بل لا بد و أن يكون جوهرية العلة أتم من جوهرية المعلول - و لا معنى للشدة إلا ذلك فبعض الجواهر أشد جوهرية من بعض من حيث المعنى - سواء أطلقت عليه صيغة المبالغة أم لا إذ الحقائق لا تنقص من الإطلاقات العرفية.

هذا هو المراد مما أشار إليه الشيخ الإلهي في التلويحات بقوله إن الحكماء المتقدمين قاطبة على أن جواهر هذا العالم كظل للعالم الأعلى كيف ساوتها في الجوهرية.

ثم أورد بعد ذلك على نفسه سؤالا وهو قوله إن الأولوية والأشدية يقال

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٤١

فيما بين ضدين يعني بذلك أن الجوهر لا ضد له فلا يقال إن منه ما هو أولى ولا أن منه ما هو أشد. وأجاب عنه بقوله الوجود الواجبي والعلي أتم من الوجود الممكني والمعلولي وأشد إذ لا أعني بالشدة القدرة على الممانعة ونحوها بل إنه أتم وأكمل ولا تعاقب لهما على موضوع واحد ولا ضدية ولا سلوك وقال في حكمة الإشراف قد حدوا الحيوان بأنه جسم ذو نفس حساس متحرك بالإرادة ثم الذي نفسه أقوى على التحريك وحواسه أكثر لا شك أن الحساسية والمتحركة فيه أتم فيكون حيوانية الإنسان مثلا أتم من حيوانية البعوضة مثلا- فبمجرد أن لا يطلق في العرف أن هذا أتم حيوانية من ذلك لا ينكر أنه أتم منه وقولهم لا يقال إن هذا أشد مائة من ذلك ونحوها كلها بناء على التجوزات العرفية انتهى.

فإن قلت ليس فصل الحيوان هو الإحساس والتحريك بالفعل بل هما من الآثار والخواص العارضة وإنما الفصل مبدؤهما حسب ما استيسر له والفعل مختلف من الآلات والمهيئات ورفع العوائق وإزالة الموانع فاما الذي للفاعل فغير مختلف- وكذلك ليس فصل الماء البرودة المحسوسة لعدم بقائها أحيانا بل القوة عليها حين عدم القواسر. قلت نعم ولكن هذه أمارات الفصول أقيمت مقامها لأنها أمور منبعثة عن ذوات تلك القوى التي هي الفصول الحقيقية ولذلك يؤخذ في حدودها كما يؤخذ

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٤٢

البناء في حد البناء فزيادة تلك الآثار دليل شدة القوى وقلتها دليل ضعفها. وتحقيق ذلك أن الحدود قد تكون بحسب الذات في نفسها وقد تكون بحسب نسبتها إلى أمر وقد تكون بحسبهما جميعا ولكن بالاعتبارين فتحديد الملك والبناء من حيث حقيتهما شيء ومن حيث كونهما مضافين إلى شيء شيء آخر- فيؤخذ المملكة والبناء في حديهما بالاعتبار الثاني لا بالاعتبار الأول وكل من الاعتبارين ممكن الانفكاك عن الآخر وكذا البدن وتديره يؤخذ في تحديد النفس لا من حيث ذاتها وحقيقتها بل من حيث نفسيتها وتحريكها التدبيري فإن كانت الذاتية والنفسية- مما يتصور بينهما المغايرة والمفارقة كالنفوس المجردة يخالف الحد من جهة الماهية- والذات للحد من جهة الفعل والتحريك وإن لم يكن كذلك بل يكون الوجود الذاتي عين الوجود النسبي كبعض القوى والنفوس حيث إن حقيقتها في أنفسها عين كونها محركة لشيء أو متعلقة بشيء فالحدان متحدان فيها من غير اختلاف ولا بد في تحديدها من أخذ ما تعلقت هي به على أي وجه كان وكما أن كثرة الأفاعيل البنائية- يستدعي كون البناء في كونه بناء شديدا كاملا فكذلك كثرة الأفاعيل التدبيرية توجب كون النفس في نفسيتها أي تدبيرها شديدة كاملة.

إذا تمهد ذلك فنقول لما ثبت وجود نفوس وقوى مادية الذوات والأفاعيل- بمعنى أن وجوداتها في أنفسها وجوداتها المتعلقة بأعيانها بلا مفارقة ذهنها وخارجا- فيكون حد كل واحدة منها بحسب أحد الاعتبارين بعينه حدها بحسب الاعتبار

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٤٣

الآخر إذ لا مغايرة بين الاعتبارين وإنهم اعترفوا بأن الأفعال يجب أخذها في حدود القوى لما ذكرناه وقد علم أن كثرة الأفعال مستلزمة لشدة القوة الفاعلة من حيث كونها قوة فاعلة و تلك الحيثية بعينها حيثية الذات فيما ذكرناها و معلوم أن هذه القوى بعينها مبادي فصول ذاتية لحقائق الأجسام الطبيعية المتخالفة بالقوى و الصور لا بالجسمية المشتركة بين الجميع فالتفاوت فيها بالكمال و النقص في تجوهر الذات - يوجب التفاوت في الأجسام النوعية بهذا الوجه و هذا ما أردناه.

بحث و تعقيب:

و من الأبحاث التي أوردتها أصحاب المعلم الأول على أنفسهم - أنكم قلتم الجوهر جنس و الجنس لا يقع على أنواعه بالتشكيك بوجه من الوجوه و قاعدتكم هذه تنتقض بكثير من المواضع كعلية المفارقات بعضها لبعض و سببية الهيولى و الصورة للجسم و سببية الأب لابن مع أن الجوهر جنس للجميع و كذا ينتقض بتقديم بعض أفراد الكم على بعض آخر كتقدم الجسم على السطح و السطح على الخط مع كون المقدار جنسا لها.

و أجابوا عن ذلك بأن التقدم و التأخر في معنى ما يتصور كما سلفت الإشارة إليه على وجهين أحدهما أن يكون بنفس ذلك المعنى المتفاوت فيه بالتقدم و التأخر - حتى يكون ما فيه التقدم بعينه ما به التقدم و الآخر أن يكون لا بنفس ذلك المعنى المتفاوت فيه فهناك يفترق ما فيه التقدم عما به التقدم مثال الأول تقدم وجود الواجب على وجود الممكن و وجود الجوهر على وجود العرض فإن وجود العلة متقدم على وجود المعلول في نفس المعنى المدلول عليه بلفظ الوجود و به أيضا و مثال الثاني تقدم الإنسان الذي هو الأب على الإنسان الذي هو الابن فإن هذا التقدم و التأخر ليس في معنى الإنسانية المقول عليها بالتساوي بل في معنى آخر هو الوجود أو الزمان فما فيه التقدم و التأخر فيهما هو الوجود أو الزمان و ما به التقدم و التأخر خصوص ذاتيهما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٤٤

إذا تقرر هذا فنقول كلما تحقق على و تقدم في شيء من أفراد نوع واحد أو جنس واحد بالقياس إلى فرد آخر منه فليست سببته و تقدمه للآخر لأن يصير الآخر - بحسب نفسه أو بحيث يحمل عليه ذلك المعنى النوعي أو الجنسي و لا الفرد الذي هو سبب سببته باعتبار نفس معناه و مفهومه بل سببية السبب و مسببية المسبب باعتبار وجوديهما لا باعتبار ذاتيهما فحمل الوجود على الهيولى و الصورة أقدم من حمله على الجسم و كذا حمله على الأبوين أقدم من حمله على الابن و كذا يختلف حمله على جواهر العالم الأعلى و على جواهر عالما الأدنى فإن جواهر ذلك العالم أقدم و أقوم بحسب الوجود بالفعل من جواهر هذا العالم و أما حقيقة الجوهر فحملها على الجميع بالسوية فليست جوهرية شيء في أنها جوهرية علة لجوهر شيء آخر بل الجوهر العلي أحق و أولى بالوجود من الجوهر المعلولي لا بأن يكون جوهرًا فالوجود متقدم على الوجود بالطبع لا بأمر زائد فوجود الهيولى و الصورة متقدم على وجود الجسم بالطبع و أما الجوهرية فهي بالسواء في الجميع فكما أن الجسم جوهر فكذا أجزاءه بلا تقدم و تأخر فيها و كذا الكلام فيما شاكل ذلك من تقدم أفراد ماهية الكم و غيرها بعضها على بعض و هذا الجواب مقدوح بوجوه.

منها أن فيه وقوعاً فيما هربوا عنه و اعترافاً بصحة ما قالوا بفساده فإن انصراف المتقدم و المتأخر بنفس الماهية عن أفراد الجوهر أو الكم إلى أفراد الوجود أو أجزاء الزمان غير مجد إذ الكلام عائد بعينه في الوجود و الزمان بأن يقال تقدم أفراد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٤٥

الوجود بعضها على بعض إذا كان بنفس تلك الوجودات لزم منه التفاوت بالتقدم و التأخر - بين أفراد حقيقة واحدة في ذاتها بذاتها إذ الوجود قد علمت أن له حقيقة واحدة بسيطة لا اختلاف لها بالفصول و كذا تقدم أجزاء الزمان بعضها على بعض إذا كان لأجل أن حقيقتها حقيقة تقتضي التجدد و التصرم و تقدم بعضها و تأخر الآخر لزم التفاوت على النحو المذكور.

و منها أن هذا يناقص ما ذكره في نفي كون الجسم مفيداً لوجود جسم آخر - بأنه لو كان علة لتقدم هيولى العلة كالكرة التاسعة مثلاً على جسميتها و جسميتها على هيولى المعلول كالكرة الثامنة و هيولى المعلول مشاركة لهيولى العلة في الهيولية - و لا يقع الهيولى على هيولى الكرة التاسعة و على سائر الهيوليات بالتشكيك بل بالتواطؤ - كما أن الجسم الذي يحمل على جسميتها يحمل على جميع الأجسام بالتواطؤ - فيلزم أن يكون هيولى المعلول متقدمة على جسمية العلة فيتقدم الشيء على نفسه.

وجه المناقاة أن كون بعض أفراد حقيقة واحدة علة لفرد آخر لو استلزم تقدم الشيء على نفسه في بعض المواضع كما قرره لاستلزم في سائر المواضع من دون فرق - و إن لم يستلزم ذلك بناء على الاعتذار المنقول عنهم في عليية أفراد الجوهر بعضها لبعض - فانفسخ هذا الاحتجاج المذكور في نفي تقدم بعض الهيوليات على بعض أخرى.

و منها أن هذا الجواب و إن سلم جريانه في علة الوجود كالفاعل أو الغاية - لكنه غير جار في علة القوام كالمادة و الصورة فإن الجسم مما يتقوم ماهيته من ماهية الهيولى و الصورة لا من وجودهما فلو لا جوهرية أجزائه ما كان المجموع جوهرًا - و كما أنهم يقولون حمل الجسمية على الإنسان بتوسط حملها على الحيوان و حمل الحيوان على الإنسان فكذلك نقول حمل الجوهرية على الجسم بتوسط جزئيه.

و فيه تأمل لأنهم صرحوا بأن التشكيك إنما يتحقق إذا كان الكلي متفاوتاً فيه بحسب أفراده المتباينة الحقيقة أما التفاوت بالنسبة إلى أفراده المتداخلة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ١، ص ٤٤٦

فليس من التشكيك في شيء و كذا التفاوت بالعينية و الجزئية أو بالنوعية و الجنسية بالنسبة إلى الفرد الاعتباري و الفرد الحقيقي كالحيوان بالنسبة إلى الحيوان المأخوذ بشرط لا و المأخوذ بشرط شيء فإن طبيعة الحيوان بالقياس إلى الأول عين و نوع باعتبارين و بالقياس إلى الثاني جزء و جنس كذلك فهذه الأنحاء من التفاوت لا يسمى تشكيكاً إذ هي واقعة في الماهيات بالضرورة و الاتفاق.

إذا تقرر هذا فنقول إنهم قد فرقوا بين أجزاء الماهية و أجزاء الوجود بأنها إذا أخذت لا بشرط شيء يكون أجزاء الماهية و إذا أخذت بشرط لا شيء يكون أجزاء الوجود كما سيجيء في مبحث الماهية فالمأخوذ بالوجه الأول جنس أو فصل و المأخوذ بالوجه الثاني مادة أو صورة فجزء الجسم إن أخذنا على الوجه الأول - فجوهريتهما متقدمة على جوهرية

الجسم و لا يلزم التشكيك لأنهما مع الجسم ليست من الأفراد المتباينة للجواهر من هذه الحيثية وإن أخذنا على الوجه الثاني فكل منهما وإن كان مباينا للجسم لكنهما ليسا مقومين لحقيقة الجسم بهذا الاعتبار بل لوجوده فهما من حيث وجودهما مقومان لوجوده فيلزم الاختلاف في الوجود لا في الجوهرية.

و الحمد لله أولا و آخرا و الصلاة و السلام على محمد و آله

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢

[الجزء الخامس]

[تتمة السفر الثاني]

[تتمة المرحلة من العلم الطبيعي]

[تتمة الفن الرابع]

بسم الله الرحمن الرحيم وأما المطالب

فالمطلب الأول في أحكام الجواهر وفيها فنون

الفن الأول في تجوهر الأجسام الطبيعية وفيه مقدمة و عدة فصول

أما المقدمة ففي ماهية الجسم الطبيعي

اعلم أنك لما علمت في أوائل هذا السفر أن حقائق الأشياء عبارة عن وجوداتها الخاصة التي هي صور الأكوان وهويات الأعيان وأن الماهيات مفهومات كلية مطابقة لهويات خارجية ويعرض لها العموم والاشتراك في العقل ومعنى وجودها في الخارج صدقها على الوجودات وهي في حد نفسها لا موجودة ولا معدومة ولا كلية ولا جزئية.

و معنى عروض الوجود لها اتصافها عند العقل بمفهوم الوجود

العام البديهي لا بقيام فرد حقيقي من الوجود بها لاستحالة ذلك كما علمت مرارا وبالجمل الوجود هو بنفسه موجود في الخارج ويكون متقدما ومتأخرا و علة و معلولا و كل علة فهي في رتبة الوجود أشرف وأقوى وأشد وأعلى من معلولها و كل معلول فهو في رتبة الكون أخس وأدون وأنزل من علته حتى ينتهي سلسلة الوجود في جانب العلية - إلى مرتبة من الجلالة والرفعة والقوة يحيط بجميع المراتب والنشآت ولا يغيب عن وجوده شيء من الموجودات ولا يعزب عن علمه الذي هو ذاته ذرة في الأرض والسموات - وكذا ينتهي في جانب المعلولية و جهة القصور إلى حيث لا حضور لذاته عند ذاته - بل تغيب ذاته عن ذاته وهو الوجود الامتدادي ذو الأبعاد المكانية والزمانية وليس له من الجمعية والتحصيل الوجودي قدر ما لا ينطوي وجوده في عدمه ولا يندمج حضوره في غيبته ولا يتشابه وحدته في قوة كثرته وهو كالجسم فإن كل بعض مفروض منه غائب عن بعض آخر وكذا حكم بعض البعض بالقياس إلى بعض بعضه الآخر وهكذا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣

فالكل غائب عن الكل فهذا غاية نقص الوجود في الذات الجوهرية ولا بد أن تصل نوبة الوجود لأن كل وجود هو مبدءا أثر وأثره أيضا نحو من الوجود أنقص منه وهكذا فلو لم ينته سلسلة الوجود إلى شيء يكون حيثية وجوده متضمنا لحيثية عدمه - يلزم عدم الوقوف إلى حد فلا يوجد الهيولى التي هي محض القوة والإمكان لكن لا بد من وجودها كما ستعلم وهذا أعني الصورة الجسمية وإن كان أمرا ظلما إلا أنه من مراتب نور الوجود فلو لم تنته نوبة الوجود إليه

لكان عدمه شراً وعدم إيجاده بخلاً وإمساكاً من مبدعه وهو غير جائز على المبدأ الفياض المقدس عن النقص والإمكان على مقتضى البرهان ولأن عدم فيضان هذا الجوهر الظلماني يستلزم وقوف الفيض على عدد متناه من الموجودات لنهوض البراهين الدالة على تناهي المترتبات في الوجود ترتباً ذاتياً عليها ومعلولياً فينسب بذلك باب الرحمة والإجادة عن إفادة الكائنات الزمانية المتعاقبة سيما النفوس الإنسانية الواقعة في سلسلة المعدات والعائدات وأيضاً لو لم ينته سلسلة الإيجاد إلى الجوهر الجسماني لزم أن ينحصر الممكنات في العقول فإن ما سوى العقول كالنفوس والطباع والصور والأعراض كالكم والكيف والأين والامتى وغيرها لا يمكن وجودها إلا مع الجسم أو بالجسم فهذه الوجوه وغيرها من القوانين الحكمية تدل دلالة عقلية على تحقق الممتدات الجوهرية في الوجود مع قطع النظر عن ما يوجب الحس من وجود جوهر ممتد فيما بين السطوح والنهايات حامل للكيفيات المحسوسة فهذا الجوهر الممتد هو المسمى بالجسم الذي من مقولة الجوهر وقد يطلق بالاشتراك على معنى آخر من مقولة الكم كما ستقف على الفرق بينهما وقد عرفوا الجسم بالمعنى الأول بحسب شرح اسمه بأنه الجوهر القابل لفرض الأبعاد الثلاثة. ونقل عن الشيخ أنه متردد في أن هذا التعريف للجسم حد أو رسم له - وأبطل الفخر الرازي كونه حداً بأن الجوهر لا يصلح جنساً للجسم ولا قابلية الأبعاد فصلاً له.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ٥، ص ٤

أما الأول فلو جوه سبق ذكرها في كلامه من كون الجوهر معناه الموجود لا في موضوع والوجود لا يصلح للدخول في الماهيات فلا يكون جزءاً لأنواع الجوهر ولا في موضوع أمر سلبي والسلوب خارجة عن الحقائق الموجودة وأيضاً لو كان الجوهر جنساً لاحتاج إلى فصل وفصله إن كان عرضاً يلزم تقوم الجوهر بالعرض وإن كان جوهرًا احتيج إلى فصل آخر ويعود الكلام إليه فيتسلسل.

وأما الثاني فلأن معنى القابلية وإمكان الفرض وصحته ونحو ذلك من العبارات أمور نسبية لا تحقق لها في الخارج وإلا لقام بمحل قابل لها ضرورة أنها من المعاني العرضية فيحتاج إلى قابلية أخرى ويعود الكلام إلى قابلية القابلية فيلزم التسلسل في المترتبات الموجودة ضرورة توقف كل قابلية على قابلية سابقة عليها ومثله باطل بالاتفاق سيما وهذه السلسلة أمر محصور بين حاصرين هما هذه القابلية والمحل.

والجواب أما عن الأول فلما عرفت فيما مر فإنه وأكثر الناس زعموا أن قولهم الموجود لا في موضوع حد للجوهر وفهموا منه الموجود بالفعل مسلوباً عنه الموضوع وعليه يبتني اعتراضاتهم على جنسية الجوهر ولم يعلموا أن لا حد للأجناس العالية - لكونها بسيطة ولا حد لبسيط فما ذكر في تعريف الجواهر خواص ولوازم يصلح رسماً له وعدم جنسية رسم الشيء لا يوجب عدم جنسيته.

وأما عن الثاني فقد ذكر العلامة الطوسي في شرح الإشارات أن الفصل ليس قابلية الأبعاد لأنها لا تحمل على الجسم بل الفصل هو القابل المحمول وهو ليس بشيء فإن المراد من الألفاظ المشتقة المذكورة في التعاريف هي مفهوماتها البسيطة وحينئذ الفرق بينها وبين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ٥، ص ٥

مبادئها الاشتقاقية بمجرد الاعتبار فإن مفهوم الأبيض بما هو أبيض بسيط كالبياض - و الفرق بينهما بأنه إن أخذ بشرط أن لا يكون معه شيء فهو عرض غير محمول و إن أخذ أعم من ذلك بلا شرط غيره كان عرضيا محمولا و كذا الحكم في جزء الحد كالناطق من جهة كونه جزءا غير محمول بالاعتبار الأول و فصلا محمولا بالاعتبار الثاني كما هو التحقيق - فالفرق بالوجود و العدم بين المشتق و مبدئه غير سديد.

بل الحري بالجواب أن يقال ليس المراد من الفصول المذكورة في أكثر الحدود بل هي ملزوماتها التي لا يمكن التعبير عنها إلا بتلك اللوازم كالناطق المذكور في تحديد الإنسان فإن المراد قوة النطق و كونه بحيث ينشأ منه إدراك الكليات لا نفس هذا الإدراك الذي من قبيل الإضافات ضرورة أن المضاف غير داخل فيما هو تحت مقولة الجوهر بالذات فهذه العنوانات المذكورة أقيمت مقام الفصول و المراد منها ملزوماتها.

و يؤيد هذا ما ذكره الشيخ الرئيس في إلهيات الشفاء إذا أخذ الحس في الحيوان - فليس هو بالحقيقة الفصل بل هو دليل على ما هو الفصل فإن فصل الحيوان أنه ذو نفس دراجة متحركة بالإرادة و ليست هوية نفس الحيوان أن يحس و لا هويته أن يتخيل و لا هويته أن يتحرك بالإرادة بل هو مبدأ لجميع ذلك انتهى.

و لعل من حد الجسم بأنه الطويل العريض العميق أراد به نحو ما ذكرناه لأن هذه المعاني مما يثبت عرضيتها كما مر فإن الجسمية قد تنفك عنها في مطلق الوجود أما انفكاكها عن الخط مطلقا ففي الوجود الخارجي و الذهني جميعا و أما عن السطح المستوي فكذاك مثل الكرة و الحلقة المفرغة و أشباههما.

و أما عن المستقيم و المستوي فهما جميعا فكالعدسي و الإهليلجي و أما عن المستدير فهما فكذاك مثل المكعبات. و أما عن الجميع فذلك و إن لم يتحقق في الوجود لكن مما يمكن تحقيقه في الوهم و العقل لأن التناهي ليس من لوازم ماهية الجسم فإن من تصور جسما غير متناه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٦

لم يتصور جسما لا جسما بل تصور جسما و شيئا آخر و هو كونه غير منته إلى سطح - فمن تصور في خياله جسما منبسطا في الجهات الثلاث من غير أن يتصور أو يعتبر معه تناهيه فقد أدرك و تصور جسما و لم يعوزه شيء من تصور حقيقة الجسم و إن لم يدرك تناهيه.

و من تصور جسما غير متناه لم يخطأ في التصور بل إنما أخطأ في التصديق - كمن قال إن الجسم عرض فقد تصور الطرفين البسيطين من غير خطأ فيهما لكنه أخطأ في التركيب الإيجابي فلو كان التناهي مقوما لحقيقة الجسم لم يكن الإنسان عند الفرض المذكور متصورا لحقيقة الجسم مع أنه قد تصورهما هذا خلف.

و أما مغايرة الجسم بهذا المعنى للجسم التعليمي الذي هو من باب الكم فلما سيأتي من الدليل إذ لا انفكاك بينهما في شيء من الوجودين حتى يثبت عرضيتهما بالانفكاك فقد ثبت أنه لا يجوز تحديد الجسم بهذا الأبعاد و لا بقبوله إياها بالفعل

بحث و تحقيق -

و ربما احتج القائل بصحة تعريف الجسم بهذه الأبعاد بأن الجسم لا يخلو عن صحة فرض الأبعاد و الخطوط و هذه الخطوط المفروضة إما أن تكون مفروضة في اتصال الجسم فيكون الاتصال حاصلًا بالفعل في الجسم و إلا لم تكن

مفروضة فيه بل في معنى آخر غير الاتصال و المتصل بنفسه هوى كان أو غيرها فلا بد أن يكون ذلك متصفا بالاتصال حتى يمكن فرض الأبعاد فيه و إلا لما كان الفرض صحيحا ضرورة أن ما لا اتصال له و لا بعد فيه لا يمكن فرض الأبعاد فيه.

فإذا كانت صحة هذا الفرض موقوفة على وجود الاتصال فوجب كونه موجودا قبل الفرض و إلا كان الفرض مستحيلا فيه و المقدّر خلافه و إذا كانت صحة الفرض موقوفة على وجود الاتصال فاستحال أن يكون وجود الاتصال موقوفا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٧

على صحة الفرض و لا أن يكون معها و إلا لزم توقف الشيء على نفسه إما بمرتبة أو بمرتبتين و هو محال فثبت أن الاتصالات في الجهات الكثيرة موجودة قبل فرض الخطوط - لازمة للجسم غير منفكة.

و الجواب أن للجسم اتصالا واحدا في نفسه هو المصحح لفرض الخطوط المتقاطعة فإن كان مرادكم بوجود الاتصال قبل فرض الأبعاد هذا فهو صحيح لكنه بنعت الوحدة هو الجسم و إن عنيتم أن في الجسم جهات متباينة موجودة بالفعل يفرض فيها الخطوط المتقاطعة المفروضة فليس الأمر كذلك بوجهين - أحدهما أنه لو كان عدد الجهات بالفعل بحسب الخطوط الممكنة الانقراض لكان الجهات غير متناهية كما أن الخطوط التي يمكن فرضها غير متناهية.

و ثانيهما أن الجهة ليست إلا منتهى الإشارة كما ستعرف و لا يتعين الجهات الخطية إلا بوجود الخطوط و لولاها لما كان لتلك الجهات من حيث إنها تلك الجهات حصول بالفعل فحق أنه وجد قبل فرض الخطوط الاتصال الذي عرض له الآن إن حكم عليه بأنه هذه الجهة أو في هذه الجهة و ليس بحق أنه وجد قبل الفرض هذه الجهة لأن قبل الفرض لما كانت هذه الجهة هذه الجهة كما أنه إذا حدث خط في سطح فإنه لم يكن هذا الخط موجودا قبل حدوث هذا الخط و إن كان الاتصال الذي وجد فيه الآن هذا الخط موجودا قبل هذا الخط.

ثم لقاتل أن يقول الاتصالات البعدية إذا كانت موجودة في الجسم بالقوة - و الانفصالات التي بإزائها أيضا موجودة بالقوة فإن الجسم في اتصاله و انفصاله بالقوة و ما بالقوة غير موجود فالجسم ليس بمتصل و لا منفصل هذا خلف.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٨

و الجواب عنه أن الاتصال بالمعنى الحقيقي الغير النسبي لفظ مشترك في الصناعة بين الخطوط و المقادير و بين الصورة الاتصالية كما سيتضح لك.

فنقول الاتصالات الخطية موجودة في الجسم بالقوة فاما الاتصال بمعنى الصورة الجسمية فذلك موجود بالفعل لأنه صورة مقومة لماهية الجسم المطلق فقد تقرر أن قابل الأبعاد ليس معناه القبول الإضافي المتأخر عن وجود القابل و المقبول - و لا ما يوجد فيه الأبعاد بالفعل و إلا لم يكن الكرة جسما بل المراد مبدأ هذا القبول كما علمت و علمت نظيره في تعريف الجوهر بالموجود الذي سلب عنه الموضوع.

طريقة أخرى

إن رهطا من المتأخرين لما تعسر عليهم تصحيح التعريف المذكور على الوجه الذي مر بيانه غيروا القول الموروث من القدماء إلى قولهم هو الجوهر الطويل العريض العميق.

و فيه أن كل واحد من هذه الألفاظ مشترك بين معان مختلفة فالطول يطلق تارة للخط كيف كان كما وقع في كتاب أقليدس ولأعظم الخطين المحيطين بالسطح مقداراً - ولأعظم الأبعاد المتقاطعة خطاً كانت أو غيره وللبعد المفروض أولاً وللبعد المفروض بين رأس الحيوان ومقابله من القدم أو الذنب وللبعد المفروض بين السماء والأرض وكذا العرض يطلق على السطح نفسه ولأنقص البعدين مقداراً وللبعد المفروض ثانياً وللبعد الواصل بين اليمين واليسار وكذا العمق يقال لما بين السطحين من الثخانة ولثالث البعدين المفروضين طولاً وعرضاً إذا كان متقاطعا لهما ولما يؤخذ ابتدأه من فوق حتى إنه يسمى المأخوذ عكسه سمكاً - وقد يطلق على الجسم نفسه.

وليس من شرط الجسم كما علمت أن يكون فيه خط أو خطوط كالكرة الغير المتحركة ولا أن يكون الجسمية مما يستدعي أن يكون ذا سطح وإن لم ينفك عنه في الوجود - ولا أيضاً يجب أن يكون ذا سطوح أو خطوط كثيرة بل ربما كان كالكرة والبيضي والشلجمي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٩

ولا أن السطوح والأبعاد التي وقعت في الجسم مما يجب أن تكون متفاضلة بل ربما يكون كالمكعب ثم جسمية المكعب ليست بسبب السطوح الستة المحيطة به حتى إذا زالت زالت الجسمية بزوالها وكذا جسمية الأجسام ليست بأنها واقعة بين السماء والأرض أو في جوف المحدد حتى تعرض له الجهات وإن لم يكن بد من أن يكون الجسم إما محدداً أو في محدد.

فظهر من هذا أن وجود الأبعاد الثلاثة الموجودة بالفعل بأحد من المعاني المذكورة مما ليس مقوماً للجسم ولا لازماً من لوازم ماهيته ولا من لوازم وجوده بما هو وجود الجسم من حيث هو جسم حتى لا ينفك شيء من الأجسام الموجودة - عن تلك الأبعاد بشيء من الوجوه المفهومة منها بل يجب الرجوع في تأويل هذا الرسم - إلى ما وقع التحقيق أولاً في التعريف السابق فيقال معنى هذا الرسم أن الجسم هو جوهر يمكنك أن توقع أو تفرض فيه خطاً كيف ما وقع أولاً فيسمى طولاً وخطاً آخر مقاطعاً له على نقطة من النقاط الموجودة أو المفروضة تقاطعاً على زوايا قوائم - فيسمى هذا الثاني عرضاً وخطاً ثالثاً مقاطعاً لهذين على القوائم في النقطة المفروضة في التقاطع الأول حتى يكون موضع التقاطع القائم للخطوط الثلاثة نقطة واحدة - واستحال وجود بعد آخر عمودي على نقطة واحدة غير الثلاثة الموصوفة.

فالمراد مما ذكر في تعريف الجسم بأنه طويل عريض عميق هو كون الجسم بالحيثية التي مر وصفها و مر ذكر نظائرها وأشباهاها ثم سائر الأبعاد والسطوح والتعليمات الموجودة أو الموهونة في الجسم ليست داخلية في تجوهر الجسم بل هي أعراض خارجة لازمة أو مفارقة من توابع الجسم ولواحقه كما ستعلم ولفظ الاتصال مما يطلق تارة على صورة الجسم وتارة على المقادير التعليمية وغير التعليمية بحسب الاشتراك كما سنفصله إن شاء الله تعالى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٠

تتمة استبصارية

قد علمت أن معنى كون الجسم طويلاً عريضاً عميقاً عند ما ذكرت عنواناً له وتعريفاً بها إياه هو كونه بالصفة المذكورة و

لما لم يفهم هذا المعنى من ظاهر اللفظ - ترى المتأخرين عدلوا عنه وذكروا في تعريف الجسم أنه هو الذي يمكن أن يفرض فيه أبعاد ثلاثة متقاطعة على الزوايا القوائم فزادوا قيودا ثلاثة هي الإمكان و الفرض و كون الأبعاد على وجه القيام العمودي.

أما قيد الإمكان فلما عرفت أن وجود الأبعاد ليس واجبا في الجسم لأنها ليست مقومة لماهيته و لا لازمة لوجوده فلو لم يقيد بالإمكان فهم منه الفعلية المطلقة - التي هي أدنى مراتب ما يغير الإمكان فلم يصدق التعريف على الجسم الذي لم يوجد فيه الأبعاد و لو في وقت من الأوقات فإذا قيد به دخل فيه ذلك الجسم فكل جسم و إن خلا عن وجود هذه الأبعاد لكن لم يخلو عن إمكانها.

و نقل صاحب المباحث المشرقية عن الشيخ الرئيس قدس سره أن هذا الإمكان هو الإمكان العام ليتناول ما يكون أبعاده حاصلة على طريق الوجوب كما في الأفلاك - و ما تكون حاصلة لا على طريق الوجوب مثل أبعاد الأجرام العنصرية و ما لا يكون شيء منها حاصلا بالفعل لكنه يكون ممكن الحصول كالكرة المصمتة فإننا لو حملنا هذا الإمكان على الإمكان المقارن للعدم لكان الطعن متوجها بأن يقال إنك لما جعلت هذا الإمكان جزء حد الجسم أو جزء رسمه فالجسم الذي قد فرض فيه بعض هذه الأبعاد أو ثلثها بالفعل فقد بطل جزء حده أو رسمه لأن القوة لا تبقى مع الفعل فقد بطل أن يكون جسما انتهى و فيه بحث أما أولا فلأن فرض الأبعاد المذكورة الموصوفة بصفة التقاطع القائم يمكن على أنحاء شتى و وجوه غير متناهية كلما خرج منها إلى الفعل بقي بعد في القوة وجوه غير متناهية منها حسب قبول الجسم انقسامات غير متناهية فكل نقطة من

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١١

النقاط الغير المتناهية المفروضة في الجسم يمكن فرضها مجمع تقاطع أبعاد ثلاثة في الجسم بالصفة المذكورة فلو حمل الإمكان المذكور على القوة الاستعدادية المقارنة لعدم ما هي استعداد له لم يلزم من وجود الأبعاد الثلاثة على الصفة المذكورة - بطلان مطلق الاستعداد بل بطلان استعداد مطلق الأبعاد الثلاثة أو بعضها و هو أيضا استعداد خاص لا يوجب رفعه رفع مطلق الاستعداد إذ الإمكان بهذا المعنى صفة وجودية ليس معنى سلبيا هو سلب ضرورة ما لجانب أو لجانبين كما سلف بيانه.

فبطلان فرد ما منه لا يستلزم بطلان طبيعته بخلاف بطلان فرد ما من المعنى السلبى المساوق لتحقيق طبيعة ما هو سلب له فإنه يوجب بطلان طبيعة ذلك السلب أ و لا ترى أن طبيعة رفع حركة ما في هذا اليوم يرتفع بوجود فرد ما من الحركة و لكن طبيعة الحركة لا يرتفع برفع فرد ما منها بل برفع جميع الأفراد لها و ذلك لأن تحقق الطبيعة بتحقيق فرد ما منها و ارتفاعها بارتفاع جميع أفرادها.

و أما ثانيا فلأن الإمكان المذكور في هذا التعريف على الوجه الذي قرره الرئيس في الهيئات الشفاء حيث قال يمكنك أن تفرض فيه ليس وصفا للجسم حتى يبطل بوجود ما هو قوة عليه بل هو وصف بحال متعلقه فإنه وصف للفراض فبعد تسليم أن هذا الإمكان إذا كان بمعنى الاستعداد مما يبطل طبيعته بوجود فرد ما من طبيعة ما هو إمكان له و قوة عليه يلزم أن يبطل صفة الإمكان من الفراض بتحقيق الفرض فيه لا بتحقيق البعد في الجسم.

و أما ثالثا فبعد تسليم أن الإمكان المذكور في تعريف الجسم وصف للجسم - و لا بد أن ينعدم بثبوت ما هو إمكان له

بأي وجه كان فهو إنما يلزم أن يعدم بوجود فرض الأبعاد لا بوجود نفسها و أين أحدهما من الآخر على أن معنى الإمكان غير منحصر في مفهوم الإمكان العام و الاستعدادي بل له معنى آخر يجوز أن يراد هاهنا و هو الإمكان الوقوعي بحسب نفس الأمر أعم من أن يكون معه استعداد أم لا فزيادة قيد الفرض لإدخال الفلك فظهر فائدة قيد الفرض أيضا و هو لا يغني عن قيد الإمكان إذ ربما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٢

لا يتحقق بالفعل و لا وقتا ما في جسم من الأجسام فيلزم حينئذ أن يبطل جسميته لعدم ذلك الفرض و هو مستحيل و ليس المراد منه نحو الفروض التقديرية التي قد تجري في المستحيلات بل التجويز العقلي الذي يستعمل في الرياضيات فلا يختل طرده بالجواهر المجردة و أما تقييد الأبعاد على النحو المذكور فلإخراج السطوح فإنها مما يمكن فيها الخطوط الكثيرة المتقاطعة لكن التقاطع على وجه القيام لا يمكن فيها إلا بين خطين لا أكثر منهما. و ذلك لأنه لم يتحقق بعد نحو وجود السطوح و لم يبرهن على أنها لا يمكن أن يكون إلا إعراضا و التعريف الاسمي لأمر يختلف الناس في نحو وجوده لا بد و أن يكون على وجه يتوافق فيه القوم حتى يكون التنازع المعنوي في معنى واحد بينهم - و إلا لجاز أن يكتفوا في تعريف الجسم ببعد واحد فإن الجوهر الممتد منحصر في الجسم لكن العلم بهذا الانحصار إنما يحصل بعد إقامة البرهان على نحو وجوده و هو مطلب ما الحقيقية. فذكر الأبعاد المتقاطعة على الوجه المذكور إما احتراز عما ذهب إليه بعض المعتزلة من تألف الأجسام عن السطوح الجوهرية و إما إيفاء بتمام تصوير ماهية الجسم - و إشعار بأن المعتبر في جسمية الجسم قبوله للأبعاد على الوجه المذكور و إن كان قابلا لأبعاد كثيرة لا على هذا الوجه فقد وضح هاهنا أيضا أن جسمي المكعب و غيره - ليس بحسب ما وجد فيها من الأبعاد حتى تبطل الجسمية بطلانها و لا بحسب إمكان وقوع أبعاد مخصوصة شخصية على الوجه المذكور حتى يبطل ذلك الإمكان بتحققها - و يبطل بطلانها الجسمية بل المعتبر في الرسم أو المأخوذ في الحد كون الجسم بحيث يمكن لأحد أن يفرض في داخل ثخنه بعدا و بعدا آخر عمودا عليه و بعدا ثالثا عمودا عليهما و هذا المعنى لا ينفك عن الجسم أبدا سواء وجدت فيه الأبعاد أم لا و سواء وجد الفارض أم لا و سواء تحقق منه الفرض أم لا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٣

عقد و حل

و ربما قال قائل إن هذا الرسم غير صحيح بوجوه - أما أولا فلصدقه على الهيولى الأولى لأنها جوهر يقبل الأبعاد و إن كان بواسطة الصور الجسمية فإن صحة فرض الأبعاد بالواسطة أخص من صحة فرض الأبعاد مطلقا و متى تحقق الخاص تحقق العام بالضرورة.

و أما ثانيا فلأن الوهم مما يصح فيه فرض الأبعاد الثلاثة كذلك للمقادير الموجودة فيه و التعليميات مع أن الوهم ليس جسما طبيعيا.

و أما ثالثا فلأن الصحة و الإمكان و نظائرها أمور عدمية و أوصاف لا ثبوت لها في العين و التعريف بالعدميات لو جاز

لجاز في البسائط التي لا سبيل إلى معرفتها إلا باللوامز و أما الجسم فماهية مركبة لوقوعها تحت جنس الجوهر فلها فصل يتركب هي منه و من الجنس و لتركبها من الهيولى و الصورة و التركيب في الوجود يستلزم التركيب في الماهية. فيقال في الجواب أما عن الوجه الأول فلأن الأبعاد أعراض قائمة بالجسم لأنه موضوع لها و ليس للهيولى الأولى وجود في ذاتها مستقل حتى يقبل شيئا شأنه أن لا يكون عارضا لأمر إلا بعد تمام تحصل ذلك الأمر الذي يقبله سواء كان بواسطة أو بدون واسطة بل لا يمكن لها في ذاتها إلا قبول ما يكملها و يحصلها موجودا بالفعل و تقومها ماهية نوعية خارجية.

نعم لو أريد بالواسطة الواسطة في العروض بإزاء ما هو المعروض بالذات دون الواسطة في الثبوت لكان صحيحا أن يقال إن الهيولى يقبل الأبعاد بالواسطة مثل ما يقال لمن يجلس في السفينة إنه متحرك بالواسطة لكن صحة هذا الإسناد الذي هو بحسب الواسطة في العروض بضرب من التجوز ليس كالإسناد الذي هو بسبب أمر متوسط في الثبوت كاتصاف الماء بالسخونة بتوسط النار لأن هذا إسناد بالحقيقة دون الأول و اللازم في التعريفات صدقها على أفراد المعارف صدقا بالذات و عدم صدقها على غيرها كذلك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٤

فلا يقدح في صحة التعريف أن يصدق صدقا بالعرض على غير أفراد المعرف. و بهذا يندفع كثير من الإشكالات التي تكون من هذا القبيل فإن المعلم الأول حد المتصل بأنه الذي يمكن أن يفرض فيه أجزاء يتلاقى على حد مشترك و رسمه بأنه القابل لانقسامات غير متناهية و حد الرطب بأنه القابل للأشكال بسهولة و اليابس بأنه القابل لها بصعوبة فيتوهم ورود النقض بالهيولى الأولى في جميع هذه الحدود و نظائرها- و بما ذكرناه يندفع النقض عن الجميع و لك أن تقول إن ماهية الجسم مركبة بحسب الوجود الخارجي من الجزئين هما الهيولى و الصورة و الهيولى هو الجزء الذي به يكون الجسم قابلا متهيئا لحصول الأشياء له و الصورة هو الجزء الذي به يتحقق الحصول و الفعلية و لا دخل للصورة في القابلية إذ جهة القابلية إنما هي للهيولى فقط - فالقابل للأبعاد في الحقيقة هي الهيولى لا الصورة فينتقض التعريف طردا و عكسا لصدق على الهيولى و إن كان بشرط الجسمية و عدم صدقه على المجموع المركب منهما أي الجسم لما بينا أن الصورة لا مدخل لها في القابلية فليس القابل هو المجموع بل الهيولى بالشرط المذكور.

و لنا أن نجيب عنه بأن القبول هاهنا بمعنى مطلق الاتصاف بشيء سواء كان على وجه الانفعال و التأثر التجدي الذي يقال له الاستعداد أو لم يكن و الذي يكون من خواص الهيولى هو الاستعداد لا مطلق الاتصاف لوجود الأوصاف الكمالية في المفارقات من غير انفعال هناك فقبول الأبعاد الثلاثة بحسب الفرض لا يحتاج إلى انفعال مادة أصلا أو لا ترى أن الجسم لو كان محض الجسمية من غير هيولى لكان قابلا للأبعاد الفرضية باتفاق العقلاء و لهذا عرف الجسم به من لا يعتقد وجود الهيولى الأولى - أو نقول إن إمكان القبول للأبعاد صفة للجسم لا القبول فلا يناهض هذا كون القبول من جهة أحد جزئيه أو لا ترى أن إمكان الإنسانية صفة للمني و ليس المنى إنسانا فإمكان قبول الأبعاد من لوازم الجسم التي لا يحتاج ثبوتها له إلى قابلية و استعداد و إن كان

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٥

القبول بالفعل من عوارض الهيولى المفتقرة إلى تغير و انفعال فافهم هذا فإن الإهمال فيه مما يغلط كثيرا- و أما الجواب عن الشك الثاني فلأن المراد من قبول الأبعاد أو صحة فرضها أو إمكان وجودها ما يكون بحسب الوجود الخارجي و النشأة التي نحن نتكلم فيها مع أحد أو نفيد له أو نستفيد منه و الوهم و إن قيل أشياء كثيرة و أبعادا و أجراما عظيمة إلا أن قبوله لها بنحو آخر من الوجود غير وجود هذا العالم و أبعاد هذا العالم هي التي يمكن أن يشار إليها بالحواس الظاهرة و عالم الخيال عالم آخر سماواته و أرضه أبعاده و أجرامه و أشخاصه و كفياته كلها مباينة الحقيقة لأبعاد هذا العالم و أجرامه و أشخاصه و كفياته و إليه الإشارة في قوله جل ذكره يَوْمَ تَبْدُلُ الْأَرْضَ غَيْرَ الْأَرْضِ و أما إذا قلنا في تعريف الرطب ما يكون قابلا للأشكال بسهولة لم يفهم إلا ما يكون قابلا لها في وجوده الخارجي و كونه الدنيوي و أما في غير هذا الكون فليس من شرط معنى الرطوبة- أن يقبل الشكل بسهولة أو صعوبة.

أما ترى أن القبر هاهنا قبر و أعداده متشابهة و في البرزخ إما روضة أو نيران- و الوضوء هاهنا وضوء و هناك حور و الجهاد هاهنا جهاد و هناك نور و الدار هاهنا جماد و في الآخرة حيوان.

و لنعرض عن هذا النمط من الكلام لأن الأسماع مملوءة من الصمم من استماع مثله و الأعين عماة عن مشاهدة نشأة أخرى و القلوب مغشوة غيظا و عداوة للذين آمنوا بها و عملوا بموجبها.

و أما الجواب عن الشك الثالث فبأن التعريف المذكور لم يقع بنفس القبول- لكونه غير محمول و لا بالقابل بما هو قابل حتى يرد عليه ما ذكره من كونه وصفا اعتباريا لا يليق لتعريف الحقيقة الخارجية بل وقع التعريف بكون خاص و نحو من الوجود و هو الجوهر الذي يكون بحيث يصلح لأن يفرض فيه الأبعاد أو الجوهر الذي يوجد فيه بحسب الفرض كذا و كذا فإن مفاد الذي ما يرادف الوجود أو يساوقه.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٦

و التعريف للشيء بنحو من الكون و الوجود ليس تعريفا بامر اعتباري لا تحقق له كيف و وجود كل شيء هو المتحقق بالذات لا ماهيته الكلية و كذلك الحال في أكثر التعريفات الحقيقية للأشياء كتعريف الحيوان بأنه الجسم الذي من شأنه أن يحس و يتحرك و تعريف الإنسان بأنه الحيوان الذي من شأنه أن يدرك الكليات أي يتعقل المعاني الكلية و يتصورها. ثم لا فرق في البسائط و المركبات فيما ذكره فإن تعريف الحقائق الموجودة- بنفس السلوب و الأعدام غير جائز سواء كانت بسيطة أو مركبة لأن الغرض من التعريف تحصيل أمر في الذهن و العدم و العدمي مفهومهما زوال شيء لا تحصيله

فصل (١) في ذكر اختلاف الناس في تحقق الجوهر الجسماني و نحو وجوده الذي يخصه

أما الاعتقاد بوجوده على الوجه الذي يستلزم الجوهرية مع ما يصحح الطول و العرض و العمق مطلقا فهذا أمر ضروري لا نزاع فيه لأحد من العقلاء و أما أنه متصل بنفسه أم لا أو أنه بسيط أو مركب من جوهرين أو من جوهر و عرض فليس بضروري- و لهذا وقع الاختلاف بين الناس في نحو وجوده.

فمن قائل من زعم أنه مركب من ذوات أو أوضاع جوهرية غير منقسمة أصلا لا وهما و لا فرضا و لا قطعاً و لا كسرا و هؤلاء أيضا تشعبوا إلى قائل بعدم تناهي الجواهر الفردة في كل جسم حتى الخردلة و هو النظام من المعتزلة و أصحابه.

و قائل إلى تناهيها و هم جمهور المتكلمين.

و من قائل أنه متصل في نفسه.

فمن هؤلاء من ذهب إلى أنه يقبل الانقسام بأقسامه لا إلى نهاية و هم جمهور الحكماء.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٧

و منهم من ذهب إلى أنه يقبل عددا متناهيًا ثم يؤدي إلى ما لا ينقسم أصلاً و هو صاحب كتاب الملل و النحل.
و منهم من ذهب إلى أنه لا يقبل من الانقسام إلا ما سوى الخارجي أعني الفك أو القطع لكون الجسم المفرد عنده صغيراً صلباً لا يقبل شيئاً منهما لصغره و صلابته و هو ديمقراطيس من الفلاسفة المتقدمين.
و القائل بانقسامه بأقسامه لا إلى نهاية اختلفوا ثلاث فرق ففرقة ذهبت إلى أنه جوهر بسيط هو الممتد في الجهات المتصل بنفسه اتصالاً مقدارياً جوهرياً قائماً بذاته و هو رأي أفلاطون الإلهي كما هو المشهور و مذهب شيعة المشهورين بالرواقيين و من يحذو حذوهم و سلك منهجهم كالشيخ الشهيد و الحكيم السعيد شهاب الدين يحيى السهروردي في كتاب حكمة الإشراق و فرقة إلى أنه جوهر مركب من جوهرين أحدهما صورة الاتصال و الآخر الجوهر القابل لها و هم أصحاب المعلم الأول و من يحذو حذوهم من حكماء الإسلام كالشيخين أبي نصر و أبي علي و فرقة إلى أنه مركب لكن من جوهر قابل و عرض - هو الاتصال المقداري و هو ما ذهب إليه الشيخ الإلهي في كتاب التلويحات اللوحية و العرشية - و قد شنع عليه بعض الناظرين في كتبه لما وجد تناقضاً بين كلاميه في هذين الكتابين - حيث حكم ببساطة الجسم و جوهريته المقدار في أحدهما و اختار أنه مركب من جوهر سماه هيولى و عرض هو المقدار بناء على تجويزه تركيب نوع واحد طبيعي من جوهر و عرض و بين الكلامين مخالفة بحسب الظاهر.
لكن الشارحين لكلامه مثل محمد الشهرزوري صاحب تاريخ الحكماء و ابن كمونة شارحي التلويحات و العلامة الشيرازي شارح حكمة الإشراق كلهم اتفقوا على عدم المنافاة بين ما في الكتابين في القمصود قائلين أن الفرق يرجع إلى تفاوت اصطلاحية فيهما و يتحقق ذلك بأن في الشمعة حين تبدل أشكاله مقدارين ثابت و هو جوهر لا يزيد و لا ينقص بتوارد الأشكال عليه و متغير هو ذهاب المقادير في الجوانب و هو عرض في المقدار الذي هو جوهر و مجموعهما هو الجسم و الجوهر منهما هو الهيولى على

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٨

مصطلح التلويحات و ذلك الامتداد الجوهري هو الجسم على مصطلح حكمة الإشراق و هو الذي يسمى بالنسبة إلى الهيئات و الأنواع المحصلة الهيولى فلا مناقضة بين حكمة ببساطة الجسم و جوهريته المقدار في أحد الكتابين و حكمة بتركيب الجسم و عرضية المقدار في الآخر فإن ذلك الجسم و الامتداد غير هذا الجسم و الامتداد فتوهم المناقضة إنما طراً من اشتراك اللفظ.

بحث و إشارة

إن كلام هذا الحكيم العظيم في بعض مواضع من كتابه الكبير المسمى بالشارع و المطارحات صريح في أنه كان ينكر الاتصال و الامتداد سوى ما هو من عوارض الكم و فصوله و يبطل الاتصال الذي هو مقوم للجسم و ما ذكر في

التلويحات شيئا يدل على أن ما سماه هيولى يكون امتدادا جوهريا ممتدا بذاته أو مقدارا قائما بنفسه بل أثبت له خواص الهيولى التي هي عند المشائين أبسط من ماهية الجسم بما هو جسم أعني ما يصلح جنسا للأجسام النوعية البسيطة أو المركبة إذ صرح فيه بأن في الجسم ما يقبل الاتصال والانفصال جميعا- والاتصال نفسه لا يقبل شيئا منها فالقابل لهما أمر آخر وبأن الامتداد ليس خارجا عن حقيقة الجسم وإلا لما افتقر في تعقلها إلى تعقله أولا فهو جزؤه والقابل له هو المسمى بالهيولى جزء آخر للجسم.

وهذا صريح في أن رأيه هاهنا في الهيولى موافق لرأي جمهور الحكماء وفي حكمة الإشراق نص على أن ما هو المسمى بالهيولى مقدار جوهري قائم بنفسه- فالتناقض بين كلاميه بحاله في جوهرية المقدار وعرضيته بلا مخلص وكذا في بساطة الجسم وتركيبه فإن ما سماه هيولى في أحد كتابيه يجوز كونه جسما كما حكم عليه بناء على ما رأى من كونه متصلا بذاته ومقدارا جوهريا وليس كمال الجسم إلا بهذا المعنى أو بما يلزمه.

وأما الهيولى التي أثبتها في كتابه الآخر فإنها لا تصلح إلا جزء الجسم لأن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٩

الجسمية لا تتم ولا تتصور إلا بما يجري مجرى الصورة الامتدادية لا بمجرد القابل له فقط وسيظهر لك الفرق بين الامتداد والاتصال بالمعنى الذي هو مقوم للجسم عند أصحاب أرسطو وبين ما هي نوع من الكمية عارض للجسم عندهم ومجرد الجسمية عند صاحب الإشراق وهو منكر للمعنى الأول مطلقا فهذا تفصيل ما اشتهر من مذاهب الناس في حقيقة الجسم المطلق ونحن بصدد ترجيح قول الحكماء الذاهبين إلى تركبه من جوهرين جوهر مادي وجوهر صوري إن شاء الله العزيز الحكيم

فصل (٢) في شرح الاتصال المقوم للجوهر الجسماني وما يلزمه ويتوارد عليه أحاده مع بقاء الأول

إن أول ما يجب عليك هاهنا أن تعلم معنى لفظ الاتصال والمتصل بالمعنى الذي هو حقيقي لا بالقياس إلى شيء آخر وبالمعنى الذي هو مقيس إلى الآخر- أما ما هو صفة حقيقية فهو أيضا معنيان.

أحدهما كون الشيء في مرتبة ذاته و حد ماهيته صالحا لأن ينتزع منه الامتدادات الثلاثة

المتقاطعة مطلقا من غير تعيين مرتبة من الكمية والعظم فلا تفاوت بحسبه بين متصل ومتصل ولا مساواة أي مماثلة في القدر فلا يكون متصل بهذا المعنى جزءا من متصل آخر ولا مشاركا ولا عادا ولا معدودا ولا جذرا ولا مجذورا ولا مبائنا أيضا ولا أقل ولا أكثر.

وهو بهذا المعنى فصل مقسم لمقولة الجوهر وثابت للجسم في حد نفسه كما سنبرهن عليه إن شاء الله تعالى إذ هو بعد ما حقق أمره في عدم كونه مؤلفا من غير المنقسمات الجوهرية الوضعية في مرتبة ذاته مصداق لحمل المتصل والممتد عليه- مع قطع النظر عن العوارض والخارجيات كلها فاتصاله وامتداده نفس متصليته و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٠

ممتديته لا أمر آخر يقوم به فيصيره منشأ لصدق المتصل عليه وموضوعا لحمله عليه سواء كان الجسم مجرد الصورة الامتدادية أو مؤلفا من صورة الامتداد وجوهر آخر قابل له على اختلاف رأي الحكيمين العظميين المقدمين.

فإن قلت لو كان الجسم في حد نفسه متصلاً لا يمكن فيه فرض شيء دون شيء و لكان قابلاً للقسمة إلى الأجزاء المقدرية فيكون نوعاً من الكم لأن هذا المعنى يعرض للكم المتصل لذاته و لغيره بواسطته.

قلنا ليس هذا القدر أي مجرد كون الشيء متصلاً و ممتداً مساوياً لقبول القسمة المقدرية بل إنما يستتم ذلك بعد تعيين الكمية و تحصيل قدر الاتصال - إذ ما لم يتعين ذهاب قدر التماذي و الانبساط إما إلى حد معين من الحدود و النهايات - و مبلغ خاص من المبالغ و الغايات أو إلى اللانهاية فيهما لم يصح فيه فرض جزء معين دون جزء معين و لا يتميز فيه جزء عيني عن جزء عيني و لا وهمي عن وهمي بأحد أسباب القسمة من الفك أو القطع أو الوهم أو اختلاف عرضين قارين كالبلقة أو غير قارين كمحاذايتين أو موازيتين إذ المصحح و المهيب لجمع هذه الأنحاء في القسمة - هو تعيين المقدار سواء كان معروض القسمة و الاثنينية نفس المقدار أو معنى آخر كالهولي أو الجسم.

و ليس للجسم في مرتبة ذاته إلا نفس الامتداد في الجهات كلها من دون تعيين الانبساط و تقدر الذهاب و الاتصال و إنما يعرض كمية الاتصال و تقدره بعد نفس الاتصال.

و الدليل على أن كمية الاتصال غير الاتصال أن ماهية الجسم متصورة في الذهن مع قطع النظر عن الكميات المقدرية و العددية نعم لا بد له في الوجود الخارجي من تعيين مقداري و عددي فهو من اللوازم الوجودية دون المقومات و اللوازم الذهنية.

قال الشيخ الرئيس عظم الله تقديسه في التعليقات إذا قلنا جزء من جسم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢١

فمعناه جزء من مقدار الجسم فإن الجسم بما هو جسم ليس هو جزءاً و لا كلاً.

و مثاله في المنفصل إذا قلنا جسمان من جملة خمسة أجسام فمعناه اثنان من جملة خمسة أعداد عرضت للجسم لا أن الجسم بما هو جسم واحد أو كثير.

و قال في الشفاء فالجسمية بالحقيقة صورة الاتصال القابل لما قلناه من فرض الأبعاد الثلاثة و هذا المعنى غير المقدار و غير الجسمية التعليمية فإن هذا الجسم من حيث له هذه الصورة لا يخالف جسماً آخر بأنه أكبر أو أصغر و لا يناسبه بأنه مساو أو معدود به أو عاد له أو مشارك أو مباين و إنما ذلك له من حيث هو مقدر و من حيث جزء منه بعده و هذا الاعتبار غير اعتبار الجسمية التي ذكرناها.

و ثانيهما كون الشيء بحيث يوجد بين أجزائه المتخالفة الأوضاع الموهومة - حدود مشتركة

يكون كل حد نهاية لبعض و بداية لآخر و من خواص المتصل بهذا المعنى قبوله للانقسام بلا نهاية و هو فصل من فصول الكم و يتقوم به ما سوى العدد من الكميات كلها قارة كانت أو غير قارة منقسمة في الجهات كلها أو بعضها فقط فهذان المعنيان للمتصل كلاهما حقيقيان.

و الدليل على إطلاق المتصل على هذين المعنيين الذين أحدهما فصل الجوهر يتقوم به الجسم و الآخر فصل الكم يتقوم به الكم المتصل ما ذكره في فصل من إلهيات الشفاء معقود لبيان أن المقادير أعراض بقوله و أما الكميات المتصلة فهي المتصلات الأبعاد.

و أما الجسم الذي هو الكم فهو مقدار المتصل الذي هو الجسم بمعنى الصورة فهذه العبارة نص منه على أن نفس

الاتصال في الجهات كيف كان و على أي قدر و مبلغ كان هو مقوم للجسم و جزء حده. و أما مقدار هذا الاتصال فهو قسم من أنواع الكم يطلق عليه الجسم بالاشتراك - و ربما يقيد الجسم الذي هو الجوهر الطبيعي و الذي هو عرض فيه بالتعليمي إذ يبحث عن الأول في الحكمة التي تسمى بالطبيعيات و عن الثاني في التي تسمى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٢

بالتعليميات و أما ما هو صفة إضافية فهو أيضا يطلق على معينين. أحدهما كون المقدار أو الشيء ذي المقدار متحد النهاية بآخر مثله سواء كانا موجودين اثنين أو موهومين فيقال لأحدهما إنه متصل بالثاني بهذا المعنى. و الثاني كون الجسم بحيث يتحرك بحركة جسم آخر فيقال لهذا إنه متصل بذلك بهذا المعنى فالمعنى الأول من عوارض الكم المتصل و هذا المعنى من عوارض الكم المنفصل مطلقا كاتصال خطي الزاوية أو من جهة ما هو في مادة كاتصال الأعضاء بعضها ببعض و اتصال اللحوم بالرباطات و الرباطات بالعظام و بالجملة كل مماس يكون عسر القبول لمقابل المماس

تلخيص و توضيح -

فقد استوضح بطلوع نور المعرفة من أفق التبيان أن للجسم الطبيعي بما هو جسم طبيعي امتدادا و انبساطا في الجهات الثلاث مطلقا فهذا له بحسب سنخ طبيعته - لأنه من مقومات ماهيته و ليس له من تلك المرتبة أن يتعين تماديه بالنهاية و اللانهاية إن أمكنت بل أحدهما من عوارض الوجود له لا من لوازم الماهية كما مر فالجسم بهذه الحيثية في هذه المرتبة لا يساوي جسما آخر و لا يفاوته بالعظم و الصغر. ثم إذا اعتبر تعين الامتدادات لحق له إمكان انفراض الأجزاء المشتركة في الحدود المشتركة و عرض له الاتصال بالمعنى الذي هو مبدأ فصل الكم و مصحح قبول المساواة و المفاوطة. و لا يتوهم أحد أن هناك امتدادين و ممتدين بالذات جوهريا و عرضيا بل إنما الممتد بالذات موجود واحد إن اعتبر مطلقا فهو جوهر مقوم للجسم الطبيعي - و ليس له بحسب هذه المرتبة أن يكون ممسوحا و إن اعتبر متعينا في تماديه فصح أن يمسح بكذا و كذا مرة أو مرات متناهية أو لا متناهية إن جاز وجوده فكان جسما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٣

من باب التعليميات و كذلك السطح فيه اعتباران بأحدهما نهاية الجسم الطبيعي و ليس من الكميات و إن كان عرضا خارجا عن حقيقة الجسم و بالآخر نهاية للجسم التعليمي و يكون نوعا خاصا من المقادير القارة. و كذا القياس في الخط و الذي يكشف الأمر في جوهر الجسم المتصل بأحد المعنيين و عرضيته بالمعنى الآخر بقاء شخصية أحدهما مع تبدل شخصيات الآخر عند تبدل أشكال جسم واحد بعينه بالتدوير و التكعيب كالشمعة الواحدة فهناك شخص الاتصال بالمعنى الأول باق و المقدار المساحي بحيث يمسح بكذا و كذا باق و هو حقيقة نوعية من الجسم التعليمي لأن كل مرتبة من الكم بالذات نوع تام مباين لمرتبة أخرى فوقها أو تحتها و تبدل الأشكال مع انحفاظ

المساحة توجب تبدل الأشخاص المتساوية في الكم لأن التساوي يوجب المماثلة في الكم. فعلم من هذا أن الجسم التعليمي عرض في الجسم الطبيعي يفارقه في الوهم دون الوجود بحسب الطباع و كلاهما يفارقان المادة بتتابعهما في الوهم دون الوجود- إنما المفتقر إلى المادة في الوجودين الوهمي والعيني تغيرات كل منهما و انفعالاتهما الشخصية و سيظهر لك حقيقة هذه المعاني فصل ظهور و انكشاف في الفصول التالية- من بعد إن شاء الله الحكيم

فصل (٣) في أن جميع الامتدادات و الاتصالات مما يستصح وجودها بالجواهر المتصل

إن العقل بغريزته التي فطر الناس عليها يحيل أن يعرض المقدار و الكمية الاتصالية لما ليس ممتدا في نفسه و متصلا في ذاته كما قال الرئيس بلغة الفرس في كتاب دانشنامج الموصوف بالحكمة العلائية جسم در حد ذات پيوسته است كه اگر گسسته بودی قابل ابعاد نبودی فالأبعاد سواء كانت زمانية أو مكانية مما يتوقف

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٤

وجودها على متصل بنفسه مجردا عن التعين الامتدادي و التجدد الانبساطي حيث لم يكن ذاته ذاتا مقدارية إذ لو كان في حد نفسه أمورا متفاضلة لكانت بعد عروض المقدار المتصل له إما أن يكون باقية على حالها من الانفصال أم لا فعلى الأول يلزم أن يكون المتصل منفصلا إذ تعدد المعروض يوجب تعدد العارض فإذا كان المعروض أمورا متباينة الوجود غير مشتركة في الحدود المشتركة كان العارض كذلك فلم يكن مقدارا متصلا و هو خرق الفرض. و أما الهيئة العارضة للعسكر و نظائره فليست عارضة لها في الخارج من حيث ذواتها المتعددة بل إنما عرضت لها في الذهن عند اعتبار العقل إياها أمرا واحدا- فثبت أن المقادير القارة عارضة للجواهر المتصل إما بلا واسطة كالجسم التعليمي أو بواسطة كالسطح و بعده الخط و كذا الحركة المتصلة من جهة المسافة و بحسب اتصالها المسافي صالحة لأن يتكلم بالزمان و يتقدر به فإن جملة الكميات المتصلة- مما ينصلح وجودها بتعلقها بالجواهر المتصل بالذات. و إن سألت الحق فالكمية المنفصلة و الكثرة العارضة لنوع متفق الأفراد- لا يستصح وجودها إلا بانفصال الجواهر الاتصالي لأن تكثر النوع الواحداني لا يعرض- إلا لما يعرض له الوحدة الاتصالية و ذلك لأن الموجب للتكثر لو كان أمرا ذاتيا له- أو لازما لطبيعته النوعية لكان كل فرد منه أفرادا كثيرة فلم يتحقق منه فرد واحد- فحيث لم يوجد واحد لم يوجد كثير هذا خلف.

فإذا لم يكن الكثرة لازمة و لا الوحدة لازمة و إلا لكان من حق نوعه أن لا يوجد إلا في شخص و المفروض خلافه فلا بد أن يكون مثل هذا النوع صالحا في وجوده للاتصال و الانفصال. و قد علمت أن المصحح للاتصال ليس خارجا عن حقيقة الجسم الطبيعي من حيث الجواهر الاتصالي و سيظهر لك عن قريب أن القابل للانفصال جزء آخر من الجسم بمدخلية الجزء الصوري و إعداده إياه لقبول الفصل.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٥

فعلم مما ذكرنا أن الكميات بجميع أجناسها و أنواعها مما لا يستصح إلا بالاتصال الجوهرى فليكن هذا عندك محفوظا

فصل (٤) في أنحاء التقسيم إلى الأجزاء المقدارية و هي أربعة

أحدها انفكاكية خارجية توجب كثرة بالفعل في الخارج.
و ثانيها وهمية جزئية توجب كثرة في الوهم ولا يخرج فيها إلى الفعل في الوهم إلا جزئيات متناهية العدد بالفعل مع إمكان آحاد أخرى لا إلى نهاية.
و ثالثها عقلية فرضية تحيط بجميع الأجزاء الممكنة الانفراض مجملة على ما هو شأن العقل البسيط الإجمالي في إدراك جزئيات الماهية العقلية.
و رابعها ما بحسب اختلاف عرضين قارين أو غير قارين فالأول مبدأ الافتراق الخارجي و الثاني منشأ انتزاع الوهم صفة الافتراق بحسب حال الموصوف في الواقع و القسمة بأقسامها إذا طرأ الجسم إنما ترد على الصورة الاتصالية في درجة مقدارها التعليمي إلا أن الانفكاكية مما يحتاج إلى تهيو من المادة و هي التي تقبلها و تحفظ معها كما ستعرف فهي من عوارضها بالحقيقة و إن كان المهيء لقبولها الانفكاك مقدار تعليمي عارض لصورة اتصالية.
و أما الوهمية فهي من عوارض التعليميات بما هي تعليميات من غير استعداد خاص للمادة.
و أما العقلية فهي أيضا من عوارضها بما هي متصلة اتصالا بالمعنى الأول من الأولين.
و مما يجب أن يعلم أن اسم الجزء يقع على ما يتركب منه الشيء و على ما ينحل إليه و على الجزء المقداري بضرب من الاشتراك أو على سبيل المسامحة و التجوز

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٦

فإن الأجزاء المقدارية أجزاء للمتصل بحسب الانفصال و الانحلال إليها لا بالحقيقة - بل بالمشابهة بأن يقدر و يفرض أنه لو كان للمتصل بما هو متصل أجزاء أي بحسب شخصه و وضعه لا بماهيته لكان أشبه الأشياء و أيقها بالجزئية هذه الأمور المسماة بالأجزاء - لأنها لما تأخرت وجودها عن وجود ما هو الكل فليست أجزاء بالحقيقة للحقيقة - بل جزئية كل منها بحسب وحدته الاتصالية الشخصية إنما هي بالقياس إلى عدد حاصل من الوحدات الاتصالية و لهذا تكون متوافقة و موافقة لكل في الحد و الاسم و العلم و الجسم فاحتفظ به كي ينفك في اندفاع ما ذهب إليه ديمقراطيس

فصل (٥) في إثبات المتصل الوحداني لينكشف به نحو وجود الصورة الجسمية

اعلم أن المتكفل لتحقيق الماهيات و إثبات نحو وجودها إنما هو العلم الكلي

و الفلسفة الأولى لا العلم الطبيعي كما أن إيجاد الحقائق الإبداعية لا يتصور إلا من العقول الفعالة - دون القوى الجسمانية المنفعلة الواقعة في عالم التغيرات و الاستحالات إذ العلم صورة للمعلوم و حقيقته.
و أقول إذا اشتدت معرفة الإنسان و حدث بصر بصيرته لعلم أن الفاعل لجميع الأشياء و كذا الغاية ليس إلا الباري جل اسمه بحسب قوة تأثيره في الأشياء و سرية نوره النافذ إليها فما من مطلوب إلا و يتكفل بإثبات وجوده العلم بالله عز اسمه و من

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٧

عرف الله حق معرفته يحصل له بمعرفته تعالى معرفة جميع الأشياء الكلية و الجزئية فيكون علمه بأي شيء كلي أو جزئي من مسائل العلم الإلهي لأن علومه حصلت من النظر في حقيقة الوجود و توابعها و عوارضها و عوارض

عوارضها و هكذا إلى أن ينتهي إلى الشخصيات.

و هذا هو العلم بالجزئيات على الوجه الكلي المسمى بالعلم الإلهي و الفلسفة الأولى إلا أن العقول الإنسانية لما كانت قاصرة عن الإحاطة بالأسباب القاصية - المستعلية البعيدة عن الجزئيات النازلة في هوى السفلى الثانية عن الحق الأول في هاوية البعد فلا يمكن لهم استعلام الجزئيات المتغيرة عن الأسباب العالية فضلا عن مسبب الأسباب فلا جرم وضعوا العلوم تحت العلوم و أخذوا مبادي العلم الأسفل من مسائل العلم الأعلى فشغلهم شأن من شأن و أما الأولياء و العرفاء فجعلوا الحق مبدأ علومهم بالأشياء الطبيعية و الرياضية و الإلهية كما أنه مبدأ وجود تلك الأشياء -

و قد روي عن أمير المؤمنين ص: ما رأيت شيئا إلا و قد رأيت الله قبله

و إليه الإشارة أ و لم يكف بربك أنه على كل شيء شهيد.

و بالجملة فإن الأشياء ذوي الأسباب لا يحصل العلم اليقيني بها إلا من جهة أسبابها و عللها و هي أربعة فاعل و غاية و صورة و مادة.

فمن الأشياء ما له جميع هذه الأسباب.

و منها ما لا يكون لها إلا الأولين و العلوم المختصة بمثلها يسمى علوم المفارقات و ما يخص بما له جميع الأسباب هو العلم الطبيعي إذا كانت أمرا مخصوصا و إلا فهو الرياضي فالبحث عن نحو وجود الجسم المطلق و إثبات المادة و الصورة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٨

و تشخصهما و تلازمهما على ذمة العلم الإلهي إذ لا مادة من حيث هي مادة لمثل هذه الأشياء و لا صورة. و لما كان اتصال الجسم و قبوله للانقسامات بلا نهاية مساوقا لامتناع تألفه من غير المنقسمات الوضعية فالبحث عن امتناع وجود الجوهر الفرد إنما يليق بهذا العلم لا بالطبيعات فذكر مسألة الجزء في أوائل الطبيعات على سبيل المبدئية. اللهم إلا ما يستدل به على اتصال الجسم بالبيانات الطبيعية من جهة حركاته و قواه و أفعاله المتصلة فإن شيئا واحدا يكون مسألة لعلمين مختلفين من جهتين مختلفتين - كبحث استدارة الفلك.

فإنه ثبت في الرياضي بالبرهان الإني و البيان التعليمي و في الطبيعي بالبرهان اللمي و البيان الطبيعي من جهة ما يعرض الطبيعة البسيطة من تشابه الآثار و كذا شيء واحد قد يثبت نحو وجوده من مبادئه المخصوصة ثم يجعل وجوده موضوعا لأحكام و أحوال خاصة ثم يصير تلك الأحوال بما يلزمها من الأحكام و وسائل لانكشاف حقيقة ذلك الشيء بنحو واضح لإثبات وجوده تارة أخرى و هذا مما يقع كثيرا عند تغاير الجهة.

إذا تقرر هذا فنقول إن الجوهر إذا كان له وضع و إشارة و تخصص بحيز بوجه ما فلا بد أن يكون له وجه إلى فوق و وجه إلى مقابله فينقسم و لو وهما و كذا له وجهان إلى الشرق و الغرب فينقسم كذلك و هكذا له وجهان إلى كل جهتين متقابلتين من الجهات المتقابلة للعالم فيتكثر أجزاؤه بحسب محاذاته لكل جانب من جوانب العالم عينا أو وهما أو عقلا. فإن قلت يجوز أن يكون لأمر واحد غير منقسم محاذيات و نسب إلى أمور خارجة بلا استيجاب تكثر في جوهره و ذاته و غاية الأمر أن يتعدد أطرافه و نهاياته و عوارضه و تعدد العوارض لا يستلزم تعدد الذات مطلقا.

قلت أما تحقق المحاذيات و النسب المختلفة من غير تعدد فيما يوصف بها بوجه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٩

من الوجوه أصلاً فهذا مما يحرم في شريعة العقل و يجزم بديهته العاقل ببطلانه.
والذي يوجب التنبيه عليه أن الشيء الذي له مماسات إلى أمور مختلفة بعينها إذا كان له انقسام بالفعل لكان كل من أجزائه مختصاً بملاقاة أمر واحد من تلك الأمور المختلفة دون غيره بحيث يستحيل أن يكون الجزء الملاقى لهذا عين الجزء الملاقى لذلك فقد علم من ذلك أن تخالف النسبة الوضعية و تعددها مما يوجب تخالف المنسوب و المنسوب إليه جميعاً.

ولهذا عد الحكماء الوضع من الأمور المتكثرة و المكثرة بذاتها لأن طبيعته تقتضي التغير و لو وهما فالشيء الواحد من حيث هو واحد كما لا يمكن أن يكون ذا أوضاع متعددة كذلك لا يجوز أن يكون له بما هو واحد نسب مختلفة أو متعددة إلى أشياء ذوات أوضاع مختلفة من غير عروض كثرة و تعدد في ذاته يصحح ثبوت هذه النسب الكثيرة.
و أما تجويز تعدد النهايات و الأطراف لشيء واحد ذي وضع من غير أن يتطرق إليه بحسبها كثرة و اثنيية لا في الخارج و لا في الوهم فهذا أشد سخافة و أوغل نزولاً في الباطل و أبعد بعباداً عن الحق.

اعلم أن للحكماء في باب اتصال الجسم و نفي تركبها عن الجواهر الفردة - حججاً قوية

و وجوها اضطرابية موجبة لوجود المتصل الجوهرى و لهم في هذا الباب طرق متعددة.
فمنها ما يبتني على أن تعدد جهات الجوهر المتحيز و نهاياته يوجب الانقسام.
و منها ما يبتني على الأشكال الهندسية.
و منها ما يبتني على الحركات و المسامات.
و منها ما يبتني على الظلال أما الطريق الأول فالمشهور منها في الكتب حجتان خفيفتا المؤنه لعدم ابتنائهما على إثبات الكرة و الدائرة و المثلث و نظائرها و لا على الحركة و الزمان و أشباههما.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٠

ففي الأول يفرض جوهر فرد بين جوهرين فردين فإن كان يحجز عن المماساة بين الطرفين فينقسم إذ يلقي كل منهما منه غير ما يلقي الآخر و إن لم يكن حاجزاً - فاستوى وجود الوسط و عدمه و هكذا الحكم في كل وسط فلم يبق حجاب في العالم - و لا تقدر و حجم فالتداخل مستحيل.
و في الثانية يفرض جوهر فوق اثنين و على ملتقاهما فإن لقي ب كله أو ببعضه كل كليهما فيتجزى أو ب كله كل أحدهما فقط فليس على الملتقي و قد فرض عليه و إن لقي ب كله أو ببعضه من كل منهما شيئاً فانقسم و انقسما جميعاً.
و الاحتمالات ترتقي إلى عشرة كما صوره بعض من المشتغلين بالتدقيق.
و من الحجج في هذا الطريق أنه إذا انضم جزء إلى جزء فإما أن يلاقيه بالكلية - بحيث لا يزيد حيز الجزئين على حيز الواحد فيلزم أن لا يحصل من انضمام الأجزاء حجم و مقدار فلا يحصل جسم أولاً بالكلية بل لشيء دون شيء فيكون له طرفان و هو معنى الانقسام و هذه الحجة أخف مؤنة من السابقتين في نفي التركيب من تلك الجواهر.
و أما في نفي الجوهر الفرد مطلقاً فلا أخف مما ذكر أولاً قبلهما.

و منها أنا نفرض صفحة من أجزاء لا يتجزى له الطول و العرض دون العمق - فإذا أشرقت عليها الشمس أو وقعت في شعاع بصر حتى يكون وجهها المضيء أو المرئي غير الوجه الآخر فينقسم.

و أما الطريق الثاني المبني على الأشكال و الزوايا و الأوتار فوجوه هذه الطريق كثيرة كما يظهر على المتأمل في كتاب أقليدس الصوري.

و نحن قد ذكرنا في شرحنا للهداية الأثرية قسطا صالحا من البراهين المبتنية على القوانين الهندسية الدالة على اتصال الجسم و قبوله للانقسامات بلا نهاية من أراد الاطلاع عليها فليرجع إليه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣١

عقدة و حل

قال شارح المقاصد إن برهان هذه الأشكال على ما بينه أقليدس مما يبتني على رسم المثلث المتساوي الأضلاع المتوقف على رسم الدائرة لكن لا سبيل إلى إثباتها على القائلين بالجزء لأن طريقه أن يتخيل خط مستقيم متناه يثبت أحد طرفيه و يدار حول طرفه الثابت إلى أن يعود إلى موضعه الأول فيحصل سطح محيط به خط مستدير حاصل من حركة الطرف المتحرك و في باطنه نقطة هي الطرف الثابت و جميع الخطوط الخارجة من تلك النقطة إلى ذلك الخط متساوية لكون كل منها بقدر ذلك الخط الذي أدير و لا نعني بالدائرة إلا ذلك السطح أو ذلك الخط.

و هذا البيان لا ينهض حجة على مثبتي الجزء إذ ما ذكر محض توهم لا يفيد إمكان المفروض فضلا عن تحقيقه و لو سلم فإنما يصح لو لم يكن الخط و السطح - من أجزاء لا تتجزى أو مع ذلك يمتنع الحركة على الوجه الموصوف لتأديها إلى المحال و على هذا القياس إثبات الكرة انتهى كلامه.

و الحل بأن إثبات الدائرة و الكرة و نظائرها بطريق الحركة و إن توقف على اتصال المقادير كما قرره المعترض و قد نص الشيخ عليه أيضا و غيره أيضا من الحكماء و ما فعله الفرجار ليس إلا دائرة عرفية لا حقيقية إلا أن طريق إثبات الدائرة - ليس منحصر في الحركة على الوجه المذكور.

بل للحكماء طريقان آخران لا يتوقف شيء منهما على نفي الجزء أولا فإن الرئيس قدس سره أثبت في الشفاء و النجاة الكرة أولا بطريق لمي مبناه على إثبات الطبيعة في الأجسام و كون مقتضاه في البسائط الجسمانية ليس من جملة الأشكال - إلا الاستدانة لتشابهها بل الكروية على الخصوص لأن شأن ما لا زاوية له من الأشكال البيضية و الشلجمية و المفرطحة أن يكون فيها اختلاف امتداد عن المركز و اختلاف تقدر في الطول و العرض و الطبيعة البسيطة لا توجب اختلافا و إذا أثبت الكرة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٢

بهذا الطريق فيثبت وجود الدائرة بسبب قطع يحدث أو يتوهم في الكرة الحقيقية.

ثم قال و أصحاب الجزء يلزمهم أيضا وجود الدائرة فإنه إذا فرض الشكل المرئي مستديرا مضرسا و كان موضع منه أخفض من موضع حتى إذا أطبق طرفا خط مستقيم على نقطة تفرض وسطا و على نقطة في المحيط استوى عليه في موضع كان أطول.

ثم إذا طبق على الجزء المركزي و على الجزء الذي ينخفض من المحيط كان أقصر - أمكن أن يتم قصره بجزء أو أجزاء فإن كان زيادة الجزء لا يستوي بل يزيد عليه فهو ينقص عنه بأقل من جزء وإن كان لا يتصل به بل يبقى فرجة فليدبر في الفرجة هذا التدبر بعينه فإذا ذهب الانفراج إلى غير النهاية ففي الفرج انقسام بلا نهاية وهذا خلف على مذهبهم انتهى.

فقد علم أن وجود الدائرة و الكرة و أمثالهما ليس موقوفاً على نفي الجزء - وإن كان جمهور المتكلمين القائلين بالجزء أنكروها فإن وجودها يؤدي إلى نفي وجودها أما الدائرة فلأنها لو كانت من الأجزاء الغير المتجزية فإما أن يكون ظواهر الأجزاء متلاقية كبواطنها أو لا.

فعلى الأول إما أن يكون بواطنها أصغر من الظواهر فينقسم أولاً فيساوي في المساحة باطن الدائرة أعني المقعر ظاهرها أعني المحذب و هو باطل فإن كنت متوقفاً في بطلانه فانظر إلى استلزام تساويهما مساواة الدائرتين المحيطة بها و المحاطة بها و كذا المحيطة بالمحيطة إلى أن يبلغ المحذب الأقصى و المحاطة بالمحاطة إلى أن ينتهي إلى المحيطة بالمركز و بطلانه ضروري و اللزوم واضح لأن التقدير تساوي الظاهر و الباطن و المطابق و المطابق.

و على الثاني و هو أن يكون ظواهر الأجزاء غير متلاقية يلزم انقسام الجزء لأن غير الملاقي غير الملاقي و لأن ما بينهما من الفرج إن لم يسع كلا منها جزء لزم الانقسام - وإن وسعه يلزم أن يكون الظواهر ضعف البواطن و الحس يكذبه.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٣

و أما الكرة فتحكمها يعرف بالمقايضة إلى ما ذكر من حكم الدائرة فقد انتظم أنه كلما صح القول بالدائرة أو الكرة لم يصح القول بالجزء لكن المقدم حق أو كلما صح القول بالجزء لم يصح القول بهما لكن التالي باطل.

فإذا تقرر ذلك فاعلم أن طريق إثبات الحقائق إما البرهان و الحكمة و إما المجادلة بالتني هي أحسن ففي الأول الغرض إثباتها مطلقاً تحصيلاً للمبرهن - ما هو كمال نفسه سواء صدقه غيره أم لا و في الثاني إصلاح المدينة و مصلحة الناس في هدايتهم إلى الحق و إرشادهم و صيانتهم عن الباطل في العقائد.

و كثير من الباحثين أهملوا في شرائط المباحثة مثل أنهم إذا حاولوا إقامة الحجة على نفي الجزء بطريق قياس الخلف استدلوا عليهم بوجود الدائرة بأن قالوا على تقدير وجود الدائرة و تركيبها من الأجزاء يلزم الانقسام.

فلهم أن يجيبوا عنه بأن الانقسام وإن كان محالاً عندنا لكن ثبوته على فرض أمر مستحيل ليس بمحال و ذلك الأمر وجود الدائرة لأدائها إلى انقسام الجزء - فأما إذا أقيم البرهان على وجود الكرة و الدائرة بأصول فلسفية مبتنية على إثبات الطبائع في الأجسام و إيجابها للأشكال المستديرة بالقوابل البسيطة فذلك وإن كان تاماً في نفسه لكن ليس نافعا في حقهم لإنكارهم تلك الأصول المبتنية على نفي الفاعل المختار على زعمهم.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٤

و هذا أيضاً نوع من الاختلال في المباحثة إذا أريد إلزامهم بهذا الطريق - إذ قد ثبت في الميزان مقدمة أن من جملة المغالطات الموقعة للخطأ في الاستدلال - أخذ مقدمة لا يسلمها الخصم في القياس الجدلي و إن كانت صحيحة برهانية في نفس الأمر.

ومن هذا القليل الاستدلالات التي وقعت لبعض الناس على إبطال الجزء الذي لا يتجزى مما يبتني على أشكال غير المربع والمثلث القائم الزاوية المتساوي الساقين - مما ينكره القائل بوجود الجوهر الفرد فإن المتكلمين المنكرين لاتصال الجسم - يحيلون من الأشكال إلا المربع والمثلث الذي هو يحصل من قطر المربع من الضلعين - اللذين يوترهما ذلك القطر فكل دليل يبتني على غير هذين الشكلين من الأشكال لا يكون برهانيا ولا جدليا. أما عدم كونه برهانيا فلأنه لقائل أن يمنع لزوم المحال والخلف على التقدير المذكور بأن يقول إن اللازم من الدليل وإن كان أمرا محالا في الواقع إلا أن محاليتها على التقدير المذكور غير مسلم لكون ذلك التقدير أمرا مستحيلا فيجوز أن يكون مستلزما لمستحيل آخر عند فرضه.

وأما عدم كونه جدليا فلأن الخصم لا يساعده لابتناؤه إما على أصل الاتصال وإما على أصول أخرى فلسفية كبعض الوجوه التي ذكرها العلامة الخفري في رسالة له - في نفي الجزء من فرض مثلث متساوي الساقين الذي عدد أجزاء قاعدته أقل من أجزاء كل من ساقيه كقوس الميل الكلي في الفلك مع الربعين من دائرتي المعدل ومنطقة البروج المنتهين إليها الأخذين من نقطة التقاطع الربيعي أو الخريفي و أن الانفراج

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٥

بين الساقين يتصاغر إلى أن يصير بقدر جزء واحد و بعده يصير أصغر فيلزم الانقسام فيما لا ينقسم و كما في الدليل الذي ذكره حنين بن إسحاق من أنه لو تركب الجسم من الجزء لزم أن يكون قطر فلك الأفلاك مقدار ثلاثة أجزاء لا يتجزى.

بيان اللزوم أن نفرض ثلاث خطوط متماسة يكون كل منها مركبا من جواهر أفراد و يكون الوسطاني قطرا للمحدود و أحد جانبيه خط أ ب و الآخر ج د.

فإذا وصلنا بين نقطتي أ د بخط أ د لكان مارا بالمركز ملاقيا بالمحيط من الجانبين مع أنه مار بثلاثة خطوط متصلات فيكون مركبا من ثلاثة أجزاء و هو المطلوب.

و فساده يعلم مما ذكرناه فإن كون القطر مركبا من ثلاثة أجزاء وإن كان ممتنعا في نفس الأمر إلا أن استحالته على الفرض المذكور ممنوع فإنه على أصل إثبات الجزء و تماس الخطوط المذكورة الجوهرية المتألفة من غير المنقسمات لا يمكن وقوع خط جوهري مركب منها قطرا لمربع سطحي و مارا على الخطوط الجوهرية - إلا إذا كانت أجزاء الأضلاع و القطر متساوية.

و كذا يجب أن يكون هاهنا أجزاء الخط المار المتلاصقة و عدد الممرور بها - من الخطوط المتلاصقة متساوية. ثم العجب أن بعض الأعلام ذكر في بعض تعاليقه على شرح الهداية أن أصل هذا الوجه مأخوذ من كلام الشيخ في عيون الحكمة و الهيات الشفاء حيث استدل على بطلان تركب الجسم من الجواهر الفردة بأنه لو تركب الجسم منها لزم أن يكون قطر المربع و المستطيل مساويا لضلعه.

ثم نقل منها وجها آخر مع أن مسألة بطلان الجزء لم يذكر في الهيات الشفاء - أصلا فضلا عن هذا أو غيره. و ما يظهر بمراجعة كتبه كطبيعات الشفاء و غيرها ليس إلا أنه فرض سطحا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٦

متألفا من أربعة خطوط جوهرية تتركب كل منها من أربعة أجزاء يلزم مساواة القطر للضلع و هو طريق حسن في إلزام القائلين بالجزء لا غبار عليه.

و أما الطريق الثالث المبني على الحركات و تفاوتها التي ليس بتخلل السكنات - فكما احتجوا بحركة جزءين أحدهما فوق أحد طرفي خط مؤلف من أربعة أجزاء - و الآخر تحت طرفه الآخر يكون حركتهما متساويتين في السرعة و البطء و الأخذ - فيلتقيان لا محالة عند مقطع و هو ملتقى الثاني و الثالث أو بحركة جزءين كلاهما فوق طرفي مؤلف من ثلاثة أجزاء فإنهما يلتقيان على وجه يوجب انقسام الجميع وهما.

و كما احتجوا بعدم لحوق السريع البطيء عند كونهما آخذين في الحركة معا - كالسريع خلف البطيء بمقدار من المسافة بينهما.

بيانه أن السريع إذا قطع جزءا فلو قطع البطيء أقل منه لزم الانقسام و إن قطع مساويا له أو أكثر لم يلحقه السريع أبدا و المشاهد خلافه هذا خلف.

و كما احتجوا من جهة المساواة بقولهم إن من المعلوم أن للشمس سمتا بواسطة ذي الظل مع الحد المشترك بين الظل و الضوء و حركة الظل أقل من حركة الشمس - فإذا تحركت جزء تحرك أقل و إلا لكان ما سامته الشمس دائرة مساوية لمدارها على جسم صغير.

و كما احتجوا من جهة المماسية بأننا إذا وقعنا خطا مستقيما كالسلم على جدار قائم على سطح الأرض حصل هناك شبه مثلث قائم الزاوية كان الخط المذكور و ترا لها و فرضنا كل واحد من الضلعين المحيطين بالقائمة خمسة أذرع مثلا.

فلا محالة يكون السلم جذر خمسين لقوة شكل العروس فإذا جررنا السلم و الوتر من أسفله على خلاف جهة الجدار إلى أن ينحط أعلاه عن طرف الضلع المنطبق على الجدار مقدار ذراع و جب أن يكون ما ينجر منه من أسفله أقل من ذراع - إذ لو كان ذراعا صار ذلك الضلع أربعة و الضلع الثاني ستة فيصير مربع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٧

الضلعين اثنين و خمسين مع كون السلم و ما ينطبق عليه جذر خمسين و ذلك محال فثبت أنه ينجر أقل من ذراع. و أنت إذا فرضت بدل الأذرع أجزاء لا تتجزى فإذا انجر الوتر من أعلاه جزء و جب أن ينجر من أسفله أقل من جزء و ذلك يوجب الانقسام.

و أما الطريق الرابع المبني على الظلال فكقولهم إذا غررنا خشبة في الأرض فعند كون الشمس في الأفق الشرقي لا بد و أن يقع لها ظل.

ثم لا شك أن ذلك الظل لا يزال يتناقص إلى أن يبلغ الشمس وقت الزوال فعند ما تحركت الشمس جزءا واحدا لا بد أن ينتقص من الظل شيء فإما أن يكون جزءا واحدا - فيلزم أن يكون طول الظل مساويا لربع الفلك و إنه محال أو أقل فيلزم الانقسام

أوهام وإزاحات -

من الناس من استدل على اتصال الجسم

بأن الجسم لو كان مركبا من أجزاء لا تتجزى لكان متقوما بها فيكون تعقلها قبل تعقله و يكون بين الثبوت غير مفترقة إلى البيان و لا ينكرها كثير من العقلاء و بطلان التوالي بأسرها يدل على بطلان المقدم. و الجواب أن هذه مغالطة نشأت من الخلط بين الأجزاء المحمولة و الأجزاء الخارجية و أجزاء صفات أحدهما للآخرى فإن الصفات المذكورة إنما هي في الأجزاء العقلية كالأجناس و الفصول و مع ذلك يشترط كون الماهية متعلقة بالكنه و هو ممنوع.

و أما الجزء الخارجي فربما يفتقر إلى البيان كالهولي و الصورة عند الحكماء - و كذا العقلي إذا لم يتصور الماهية بحقيقتها كجوهرية النفس عند من يقول بجنسيتها لها - و لغيرها من الجواهر.

و منهم من زعم أنه لو وجد الجزء لكان متناهما ضرورة

فكان مشكلا كرة أو مضلعا لأن المحيط به إما حد واحد أو أكثر و كل منهما يستلزم الانقسام أما المضلع فظاهر و أما الكرة فلا أنه لا بد عند ضم بعضها إلى بعض من تخلل فرج بين الكرات يكون كل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٨

فرجة أقل من الكرة.

و الجواب بأن التشكل من عوارض المقدار الطويل العريض العميق و الجزء ليس له امتداد أصلا في جهة و إلا لكان خطأ فكيف في الجهات و إلا لكان جسما و لو سلم فذلك في الأجسام دون الأجزاء.

و منهم من تخيل أن ظل كل جسم يصير مثليه في وقت ما

و حينئذ يكون نصف ظله ظل نصفه فظل الجسم الذي طوله أجزاء و تر يكون شفعاً له نصف هو نصف ظل ذلك الجسم فينتصف الجسم و ينقسم الجزء.

و الجواب بمنع كلية الحكم المذكور و إنما ذلك فيما له نصف فالاشتباه في هذا الأخير كمتلوه إنما وقع من جهة أجزاء صفة الشيء على جزئه الغير المنقسم

فصل (٦) في ذكر ما يختص بإبطال مذهب النظام المعتزلي

اعلم أنه وافق الحكماء في قبول الجسم انقسامات بغير نهاية إلا أنه و غيره من المعتزلة لا يفرقون بين القوة و الفعل فيأخذ هو تلك الأقسام حاصلة بالفعل فمن هاهنا يلزم عليه الانتهاء إلى ما لا ينقسم فقد وقع فيما هرب عنه من حيث لا يشعر.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٩

و قد يستدل على إبطال مذهبه أولاً بالنقض بوجود المؤلف من أجزاء متناهية و لو في ضمن جسم آخر إذ لا كثرة إلا و الواحد فيها موجود فإذا أخذ منها آحاد متناهية أمكن أن يركب فيحصل منها حجم لأنها أجزاء مقدارية متباعدة في الوضع. ثم يستدل على تعميم الحكم بتناهي الأجزاء في جميع الأجسام بنسبة أجزاء ذلك الجسم إلى أجزاء سائر الأجسام و نسبة حجمه إلى حجمها ليلزم المطلوب إذ بحسب ازدياد الأجزاء يزداد الحجم فنسبة الحجم إلى الحجم كنسبة الأجزاء إلى الأجزاء و لما كانت الأحجام و الأبعاد متناهية كما سيحيي فلو لم يكن أجزاء كل جسم متناهية - لزم أن يكون نسبة

المتناهي إلى المتناهي كنسبة المتناهي إلى غير المتناهي.

و اعترض عليه بمنع توافق النسبتين على التقدير المذكور و تجويز كون النسبتين مختلفين مع أن الزيادة في الحجم بسبب الزيادة في العدد مستندا بأن ازدياد الزاوية على الزاوية في المثلث بحسب ازدياد الوتر على الوتر مع أن النسبة بينهما ليست على نهج واحد - فإن نسبة الزاوية الحادة في المثلث المتساوي الساقين القائمة الزاوية إلى القائمة بالنصف - وليست نسبة وترها إلى وتر القائمة كذلك بالشكل الحماري بل يجوز أن يكون نسبة الجسمين من النسب الصمم التي توجد في المقادير دون الأعداد فلا يوجد مثله في الأعداد لأن نسبتها عددية قطعا.

و رد هذا بأنه لما كان الجسمان عنده مركبين من الأجزاء التي لا تتجزى - فقد وجد لها عاد مشترك هو الجزء الواحد فيكون النسبة بينهما عددية فلا يكون صمية فإن التفرقة بين الأعداد و المقادير إنما هي بوجود انتهاء الأعداد إلى الواحد - بخلاف المقادير فإذا كانت المقادير كالأعداد في تألفها من الوحدات لم يبق فرق إلا بأن الوحدات في أحدهما وضعية و في الآخر عقلية.

و أما الجواب عما ذكر أولا بأن ازدياد الوتر ليس مما يوجه مجرد ازدياد الزاوية في الانفراج بل مع ازدياد تعاظم الخطين المحيطين بها على نسبة ازديادها - و عند ذينك الأمرين يكون ازدياد الوتر على النسبة المذكورة و هذا وإن كان بحثا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٤٠

على السند إلا أن الغرض التنبيه على فساد هذا التصوير.

و مما يختص أيضا بمذهبه من الفساد عدم قطع مسافة معينة في زمان معين و ذلك لأن قطع كل قسم من المسافة كالنصف موقوف على قطع قسمه و قسم قسمه إلى غير النهاية - و هي أمور مترتبة و الموقوف على أمور مترتبة غير متناهية محال فقطع المسافة يكون محالا على مذهبه.

و لهذا ارتكب الطفرة و هي مع شناعته لم ينفعه لأن المقطوع إن لم يكن أكثر من المطفور فلا أقل يكون مساويا أو أقل منه و جزء المسافة و إن قل كان حكمه في الانقسام حكمها و المشاهد من الحركة ليست إلا قطع المسافة لا تركها أصلا - و اعتبر بإمرار العضو اللامس على صفحة لمساء و بمد القلم على بيضاء بالسواد كيف يجد كلها ملموسا و مسودا.

و لو كانت نسبة المقطوع إلى المطفور نسبة المتناهي إلى غير المتناهي لوجب أن لا يقع الإحساس بالملموس و لا بالأسود الأعلى هذه النسبة فليس كذلك و على هذا القياس فساد اعتذاره عن ذلك بالتداخل.

و من الناس من حاول الاعتذار عن قبله في ذلك الأشكال بأن قطع المسافة المعينة إنما توقف على زمان غير متناه الأجزاء ينطبق كل جزء منه على جزء من الحركة و هو على جزء من المسافة و هذا لا يستلزم عدم تناهي الزمان لأن المحدود من الحركة و الزمان يشتمل كل منهما على أجزاء غير متناهية كالجسم المتناهي.

و زعم أن هذا مثل قول الحكماء القائلين بقطع المسافة المحدودة مع كونها محتملة للأقسام بغير نهاية في زمان محدود و ذلك لكون الزمان أيضا كذلك و ذهل عن الفرق بين المذهبيين بالقوة و الفعل جهلا منه أو تجاهلا حبا للتعصب أو رفضا للحكمة و عن أن ما يوجد شيئا فشيئا من بداية إلى نهاية فاستحالة كونه غير متناهي العدد معلوم بالضرورة كاستحالة كون المحصور بين حاصرين غير متناه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٤١

فالقول به قرع لباب السفسطة و ضلال عن سنن الحق و صراطه المستقيم.
فمن كان ذا بصيرة يتفطن بفساد هذا المذهب من نفسه بدون الرجوع إلى قطع المسافة وإن كان عدم التناهي فيما له امتداد واحد أظهر و أجلى و لكن من لم يجعل الله له نورا فما له من نور.
ثم العجب أن المصحح لرأي النظام كيف صار بعينه نقضا على مذهب الحكماء - في اتصال الأجسام عند جماعة بأعيانهم

فصل (٧) في الإشارة إلى مفاسد مترتبة على نفي الاتصال في الجسم يشهد الحس ببطلانها

و قد التزمها مثبتو الجزء الذي لا يتجزى و هي تفكك أجزاء الرحي و سكون المتحرك و الطفرة و التداخل و عدم لحوق السريع البطيء و لقوة هذه المفاسد - انعطف بعض المتكلمين عن إصرارهم على إثبات الجزء راجعين إلى مذهب المحققين - منهم الإمام الرازي و غيره و توقف بعضهم.
قال في كتاب نهاية العقول اعلم أن من العلماء من مال إلى التوقف في هذه المسألة بسبب تعارض الأدلة فإن إمام الحرمين صرح في كتاب التلخيص في الأصول أن هذه المسألة من مجازات العقول و كذا أبو الحسين البصري و هو أحذق المعتزلة.

فنحن أيضا نختار هذا التوقف إذن لا حاجة لنا إلى هذا الجواب عما ذكره انتهى قوله و نقل في التاريخ أنه وقعت مناظرة في مجلس صاحب بن عباد بين جماعة من أصحاب تناهي الأجزاء و أصحاب النظام القائل بعدم تناهيها كما مر ذكره فالزم أصحاب التناهي أصحاب النظام أنه يجب من كون الأجزاء غير متناهية في الجسم أن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٤٢

لا يقطع مسافة محدودة إلا في زمان غير متناه لأنه لا بد عند الحركة من خروج كل جزء من حيزه و دخوله في حيز جزء آخر و انتقال جزء غيره إلى حيزه فإذا كانت الأجزاء غير متناهية كان زمان القطع غير متناه فارتكبوا في الجواب القول بالطفرة - ثم ألزمهم أيضا بأن كون الجسم مشتملا على ما لا يتناهي من الأجزاء يستلزم أن يكون حجمه غير متناه فالتزموا تداخل الأجزاء.

ثم إن أصحاب النظام ألزم أصحاب تناهي الأجزاء تجزية الجزء القريب - من قطب الرحي عند حركة البعيد و قطعه جزءا واحدا لكون القريب أبداً من البعيد - و التزموا أن البطيء يسكن في بعض أزمنة حركة السريع و لا يكون ذلك إلا بتفكك أجزاء الرحي عند حركتها على مثل دوائر دقية بعضها فوق بعض.

و شنت كل من الطائفتين على الأخرى و استمر التشنيع عليهما بالطفرة و التفكيك و كذا هؤلاء التزموا سكون المتحرك في لحوق السريع البطيء إذا تحركا على الوجه الذي مر بيانه.

و مما يقوي التشنيع عليهم في التزام التفكك و سكون المتحرك أن نقرر الأول فيما يتفق العقلاء في شدته و استحكامه و عدم تفككه كالفلك الدوار و قد وصف تعالى الأفلاك بالشدة في قوله وَبَنَيْنَا فَوْقَكُمْ سَبْعًا شِدَادًا أو في جسم لو تفكك أجزاؤه لتناثرت كالفرجار و كان له شعور بذلك بل يبطل حياته و حركته كالإنسان إذا دار على نفسه.

و الثاني فيما يقع التفاوت بين الحركتين بأضعاف أضعاف حركة البطيء- كحركة الفرس و الشمس فيما إذا كان نقطة محاذاة الفرس من الفلك الرابع عند ابتداء حركتهما متقدمة على مركز الشمس بقدر قوس من ذلك الفلك لئلا يبقى لهم مهرب من الأول إلى الاعتذار بالفاعل المختار و تعلق إرادته بتفكيك أجزاء الرحي تارة و إصاقها أخرى جهلا بأن إرادة الباري أجل شأنا مما تصوره.

ثم من العجائب أن يتفطن أجزاء الدوامة و الرحي و هما جسمان جماديان

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٣

من الفطنة و الإلهام حتى علم الأبطأ منهما أنه ينبغي أن يقف حتى لا يزول سمته عن الأسرع- و علم مقدار الوقفة من الزمان بحسب نسبة التفاوت بين المسافتين الأسرع و الأبطأ و كيفية انضباط هذه النسب في أزمنة السكنات في كل جزء جزء من الأجزاء الدورات- على حوالي الدوائر.

و لا تيسر للصوفية المرتاضين عشر من أعشار أعشار هذه الفطنة مع دعواهم الكشف و الكرامات بل لا ييسر لإنسانين قصدا موضعا واحدا أحدهما أقرب منه من الآخر و أراد أن يبلغا معا إلى ذلك الموضع و يتما سيرهما دفعة واحدة إذ لا يعلم الأقرب منهما أنه كم يجب أن يقف في حركته و لا يعلم الأبعد أنه كيف ينبغي أن يسرع- حتى يكون وصول كل منهما موافقا لوصول صاحبه.

و من الثاني بأن عدم شعورنا بالسكون في المتحرك للطافة أزمنة السكون جهلا بأنه إذا كانت نسبة زمان السكون إلى زمان الحركة كنسبة فضل مسافة السريع على مسافة البطيء لزم أن يكون زمان الحركة أطف بكثير من زمان السكون- فينبغي أن لا يحس بالحركة أصلا و لا أقل من أن يرى تارة متحركا و أخرى ساكنا. و مما يؤكد فساد قولهم لزوم وجود المعلول بدون العلة في حركة الشمس

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٤

و سكون الظل و وجود العلة بدون المعلول فيما إذا فرضنا بئرا عميقا مائة ذراع مثلا و في منتصفها خشبة شد عليها طرف حبل طوله خمسون ذراعا و على طرفه الآخر دلو ثم شددنا قلابا على طرف حبل آخر طوله خمسون ذراعا أرسلناه في البئر بحيث وقع القلاب في الجبل الأول على طرفه المشدود في الخشبة ثم جررناه فيكون ابتداء حركة القلاب من الوسط و الدلو من الأسفل معا و كذا انتهاؤهما إلى رأس البئر و قد قطع الدلو مائة ذراع و القلاب خمسين مع أن حركة القلاب من تمام علة حركة الدلو فلو كان له سكنات في خلال حركته لزم وجود المعلول بدون علته التامة

فصل (٨) في تقرير شبه المثبتين للجزء و مبنى خيالاتهم و كشف الغشاوة عن وجه المقصود بإزالتها

اعلم أن مبنى خيال القائلين بالجواهر الفردة أن الجسم إن لم يتناه القسمة فيه- فيستوي الجسم الأصغر كالخردلة و الأكبر كالجبل في المقدار لاستوائهما في عدم نهاية القسمة و يلزم أن يكون مقدار كل منهما غير متناه ضرورة أن مجموع المقادير الغير المتناهية غير متناه.

و هذا مما يندفع بأن الجسم المفرد لا جزء له بالفعل بل بالقوة و عديم النهاية بالقوة يمكن فيه التفاوت كالمئات و الألوف الغير المتناهيين و بينهما من التفاوت ما لا يخفى.

و الحاصل أنه ليس لأحدهما أقسام ما لم ينقسم و إذا قسما مساويا كل منهما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٥

صاحبه في العدد فكل واحد من الأقسام التي للخردلة أصغر و التي للجبل أكبر و هكذا بالغ ما بلغ لا إلى نهاية.
نعم من ذهب إلى أن قسمة الجسم إلى الأجزاء الغير المتناهية حاصلة بالفعل كالنظام فهذا نعم دليل على إبطال مذهبه.

و أما ما قال بعض الأفاضل في هذا المقام

من أن المقادير الغير المتناهية إذا كانت متساوية أو متزايدة كان مجموعهما غير متناه بالضرورة و أما إذا كانت متناقصة فلا- ألا ترى أن أنصاف الذراع المتداخلة الغير المتناهية بمعنى نصفه و هكذا لو فرضت موجودة لم يحصل منها إلا الذراع و الجسم إنما يقبل الانقسام إلى أجزاء غير متناهية متناقصة فمدفوع بما قيل إذا كان هناك أقسام غير متناهية بالعدد فإذا انضم بعض متناه منها إلى بعض متناه آخر يزيد مقدار المجموع على مقدار أحدهما لا محالة فإذا انضم إليه بعض بعض مرات غير متناهية يحصل المقدار الغير المتناهي قطعاً و المنع مكابرة.

و أما أن أنصاف الذراع المتداخلة الغير المتناهية لم يحصل منها إلا الذراع- فصحيح لو كانت تلك الأنصاف بالقوة و أما وجودها بالفعل فأمر محال و المحال إذا فرض وقوعه قد يستلزم محالاً آخر و هاهنا من هذا القبيل على أن المقادير إذا كانت متناقصة من جانب تكون متزايدة من الجانب الآخر لكون أحدهما مضاف الآخر- فيكون المجموع المركب منها غير متناه في المقدار على ما اعترف به.

اللهم إلا أن يفرق بين أن يكون تزايد الأجزاء من جانب اللاتناهي أو من جانب التناهي و قال بلزوم عدم تناهي المقدار في الأول دون الثاني.

و هذا تحكم محض بعد أن يكون أعيان تلك الأجزاء باقية بحالها بالفعل في السلسلتين المفروضتين متزايدة و متناقصة على أن وجود الأجزاء الغير المتناهية على ذلك الوجه مما يبطله برهان التطبيق و التضاف و غيرهما لكونها مترتبة.

شبهة أخرى قريبة المأخذ مما ذكر

و هي لزوم تغشية وجه الأرض بحبة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٦

[بخردلة] إذا قسمت بأجزاء و لا يخفى و منها و سخافتها فإن وجه الأرض سطح متناه- يمكن أن يغشيه أجزاء متناهية صغيرة الحجم جدا كثيرة العدد.

شبهة أخرى لو كانت القسمة تمر بغير نهاية لكان قطع المتحرك المسافة- يحتاج إلى قطع نصفها

و قبل ذلك نصف نصفها و هلم جرا فلا يقطع أبدا و يلزم أن يكون الزمان الذي يقطع فيه الأنصاف الغير المتناهية غير متناه و هذه الشبهة مما ذكره مرة مقبولة لتصحيح مذهب النظام و تأييداً له و مرة مردودة لانتقاص مذهب الحكماء.

و جوابها أن المسافة المقطوعة شيء واحد غير منقسم إلى أجزاء غير متناهية إلا وهما و فرضاً لا وجوداً و فصلاً و كذا الزمان الذي مقدار الحركة الواقعة فيها- و الكلام وارد على النظام كما مر.

شبهة أخرى ذكرها أبو ریحان البيروني

معترضاً على أرسطاطاليس في رسالة أرسلها إلى الشيخ الرئيس و هي أنه يلزم على أصل اتصال الجسم و قبوله للقسمة بغير نهاية أن لا يدرك متحرك متحركاً في سمت واحد و إن كان المقدم منهما أبداً بكثير كالشمس و القمر فإنهما إذا كان بينهما بعد مفروض و سار القمر سارت الشمس في ذلك الزمان مقداراً - إذا سار القمر سارت الشمس في ذلك الزمان مقداراً أصغر و كذلك إلى ما لا نهاية له على أنا قد نراه يسبقها.

و نقل الشيخ الرئيس أن هذه الشبهة مما أورده الفيلسوف على نفسه و أجاب عنه بجواب و هو مما لا يرتضيه الشيخ لأنه قال بعد ذلك و أما ما أجاب به أرسطاطاليس عن هذه المسألة و فسر المفسرون فهو ظاهر السفسطة و المغالطة.

و تلخيص الجواب الذي ذكره الشيخ أن ليس يعني بتجزية الجسم بلا نهاية أن يتجزى أبداً بالفعل بل يعني بها أن كل جزء منه له في ذاته متوسط و طرفان - فبعض الأجزاء يمكن أن يفصل بين جزئيه اللذين يحدهما الطرف و الواسطة و بعضها لا تقبل لصغره الانقسام بالفعل فيكون القسمة فيها بالقوة.

فمن قال إن جزء الجسم يتجزى بالفعل لزمه هذا الاعتراض و من قال إن بعض

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٧

أجزائه منقسم بالفعل و بعضه بالقوة لم يلزم شيء لأن الحركة إنما يأتي على تقسيم المسافة المتناهية في الأجزاء المنقسمة بالفعل.

و إنني أقول إن المتحرك ليس لمسافة حركته حد أني موجود ما دام كونه متحركاً فإذا لم يكن لكل من المتحركين المذكورين ما دام كونهما متصفين بالحركة حد معين موجود بل حد نوعي فكذلك البعد الذي بينهما ليس بعداً معيناً شخصياً - بل بعداً مطلقاً و إنما يكون لكل منهما في كل آن فرض حد معين من المسافة و بينهما مقدار معين منها و كما أن وجود الآتات في زمان الحركة المتصلة بحسب الوهم فقط فكذلك وجود حد معين لكل منهما و مقدار مخصوص بينهما.

نعم وقوع المناطق و التقاطعات و الأقطاب في الأفلاك مما يجعل بعض الحدود محصلاً بالفعل لا بمجرد الفرض لكن الحدود الحاصلة بسبب مرور المناطق أو تقاطع بعضها ببعض أو حصول الأقطاب أو مواضع هي غاية التباعد بين الدائرتين - و غاية التباعد بينهما ليست إلا عدداً متناهياً بين كل اثنين منها مقدار و حداني الذات و الصفة غير منقسمة إلا بمجرد الفرض.

شبهة أخرى إذا تدرجت الكرة على سمت واحد في بسيط مستو يكون ملاقة دائرة منها بخط مستقيم من البسيط

بنقطة بعد أخرى و يلزم منه تجاوز النقط و تركيب الخط منها و رفعت بأن مماسة الكرة البسيطة و إن كانت في حال الثبات و السكون بنقطة لا غير و لكنها في حال الحركة إنما هي بخط غير قار متدرج الأجزاء في الوجود و كذا يكون المماسية بينهما في كل آن فرض وجوده بنقطة إلا أن الآتات حالها في التحقق و الوجود حال النقط المفروضة في الخط في أن وجود الجميع بالوهم و الفرض لا بالفعل و الفصل.

فالاستدلال بتجاوز الآتات على تجاوز النقط من قبيل المصادرة على المطلوب الأول إذ التنازع فيها كالتنازع في النقط من جهة أن الحركات و الأزمنة كالأجرام و الأبعاد غير مؤلفة مما لا يتجزى و أن سبيل الآن من الزمان بعينه سبيل النقط

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج٥، ص ٤٨

من الخط وإن كان الآن السيال نسبته إلى الزمان نسبة النقطة الجواله إلى الدائرة و الراسمة للخط إلى الخط و للناس كلمات عجيبة في دفع هذه الشبهة.

فتارة يقولون إن حديث الكرة و السطح قوي و تماسهما بجوهريهما ضروري.

و تارة يقولون إن زوال الملاقة لا يكون إلا بالحركة و هي زمانية لا آنية فلزوم تتالي النقاط و الآنات ممنوع إذ زوال الانطباق في الزمان كما ذكرنا- و حصول الانطباق على نقطة أخرى في آن بينهما زمان و لما استحال الجزء الذي لا يتجزى لا يكون لزوال الانطباق أول فلم يلزم محذور.

و تارة بأن المتحقق ليس إلا نقطة واحدة فلزوم تتالي النقاط ممنوع بل ينعدم نقطة و يتحقق أخرى و كذا الحكم في تتالي الآنات و كلا هذين القولين بعيد عن الصواب.

أما الأول فلأنه لما وقع الاعتراف منه بأن الانطباق الأول في الآن و الثاني في آن آخر بينهما زمان فيتوجه السؤال بأنه كيف يكون الحال في ذلك الزمان بين الكرة و السطح أ بينهما تلاق أم تفارق و التفارق بينهما بين البطلان.

و إن شئت فافرض الكرة من الحديد أو جسم في غاية الثقل لا يرتفع عن السطح إلا بمحرك خارج فرض عدمه.

و أما التلاقي فهو إما بنقطة أو بخط فإن كان الثاني لزم الانطباق بين الخط المستدير و المستقيم و إن كان بنقطة و التلاقي النقطي لا يكون إلا في آن فننقل الكلام إلى الزمان الذي بين آن وقعت فيه الملاقات الأولى و هذا الآن و يعود الشقوق بعينها من رأس و الكل محال.

و كذا القول بتجاوز الآنات كما زعمه المتكلمون فلم يبق متسع إلا بالاطلاع على الحق الذي ذكرناه في الجواب.

و أما الثاني فلأن تجاور النقاط و اجتماعها متجاوزة في الزمان يكفي للاستحالة و إن لم تكن مجتمعة في آن واحد فذلك أمر مستحيل لاستلزامه انتهاء قسمة المقدار

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج٥، ص ٤٩

إلى ما لا ينقسم و لو بالقوة كما ذهب إليه محمد الشهرستاني و لما سيأتي حسب ما يقام عليه البرهان من أن المتجددات بحسب الزمان من الحوادث و غيرها مجتمعات في الدهر المحيط بالزمان و ما معه و فيه فيكون النقاط التي كل منها في آن مجتمعة في الواقع على نعت التجاور و لأن تجاور الآنات اللازمة لها على أي وجه أمر مستحيل في ذاته لانطباقها على الحركة المنطبقة على المسافة و المنطبق على المتصل الوجداني لا بد و أن يكون متصلا وحدانيا فإذا كان أحد المتطابقين مركبا من الأفراد المتشافة الغير المتجزية أصلا لزم أن يكون الآخر أيضا مركبا منه و قد ثبت اتصال الجسم و عدم تألفه من الجواهر الفردة فكذلك حكم ما يطابقه من الزمان و الحركة

شبهة أخرى إن ما يمكن خروجه إلى الفعل من الانقسامات في المستقبل

إن كانت متناهية فيقف القسمة إلى ما لا يقبل القسمة أصلا عند فرض وقوع تلك الانقسامات جميعا و إن كان ممكن الخروج إلى الفعل عددا غير متناه فيلزم منه ما يلزم من مذهب النظام.

و جوابها باختيار الشق الأول و القول بأنه و إن كانت القسمة الممكنة الوقوع متناهية إلا أنها ليست في مرتبة معينة من التناهي حتى لا يقبل الانقسام بعدها- و هكذا حال الزمان و الحوادث التي في المستقبل عندهم. فإنهم ذهبوا إلى أن كلما يوجد من الحوادث بعد هذا اليوم عددها متناه و كذا كل ما يحصل من أيام الزمان و ساعاتها مقدارها متناه و مع ذلك ما من جملة من الحوادث و الأيام و الساعات إلا و يوجد بعدها حادث آخر و يوم آخر و ساعة أخرى- فليس معنى كونها متناهية أنها تقف عند حد لا يتجاوزه.

و التناهي بهذا المعنى يصح في العرف اتصافه باللاتناهي إلا أن كثيرا ما يقع المغالطة باشتراك الاسم بين اللاتناهي بمعنى عدم الوقوف عند حد و بينه بمعنى عديم النهاية في المقدار و العدد.

شبهة أخرى إن وجود الأطراف يستدعي محلا غير منقسم

كالجوهر الفرد أو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٥٠

ما في حكمه و إلا لكان انقسام المحل يوجب انقسامه و هو محال. و الجواب بمنع استلزام انقسام المحل انقسام الحال مطلقا. اللهم إلا أن يكون المحل محلا من حيث ذاته المنقسمة و أما إذ كان المحل هي الذات المنقسمة مع حيثية أخرى غير مجرد الذات فلا يوجب انقسامه انقسام ما حل فيه. أو لا ترى أن الإضافات تنقسم بانقسام محالها و قد لا تنقسم. فالأول عند ما يكون عروضها بمجرد الذات المنقسمة و ذلك كمحاذاة الجسم لجسم آخر و انطباقه له فينقسم المحاذاة و المطابقة نصفاً و ثلثاً و ربعاً و غيرها حسب انقسام الجسم ذي المحاذاة أو المطابقة إلى النصف و الثلث و الربع و ذلك لأن مماسة نصف الجسم هي نصف مماسة كله و مماسة ثلثه ثلث مماسة كله و هكذا. و الثاني عند ما يكون عروضها لا لمجرد المقدار كالأبوة فإنها لا تعرض للإنسان الأب من أجل قدره و جسميته فقط بل لأجل فعله النفساني الشهوي و إخراجة فضلا من بدنه يستعد لصورة من نوعه و كالبنة فإنها تعرض للابن بواسطة انفعال جسم قليل المقدار يصير مادة لبدنه بعد استحالات و تغيرات كثيرة كما و كيفاً عن شخص آخر مثله انفعالا مثل قبول الإفراز و الإنزال عنه.

و هاتان النسبتان ليستا عارضتين للأب و الابن من جهة جسميتهما فقط حتى يتزايدتا بتزايد الجسمين و يتناقصا بتناقصهما و ينقسمان حسب انقسام البنية إلى الأعضاء- فيكون ليد الأب أبوة بالقياس إلى جزء من بنوة الابن التي تكون في يده ليكون الأبوة التي في اليد الأبوة التي في الكل.

فإن ذلك واضح البطلان بل كل من الأبوة و البنوة عارضة للحيوان بما هو حيوان أي ذو نفس مقيسا إلى مماثله أو مجانسها و كون الشيء ذا حياة و نفس ليس مما يوجب الانقسام فكذا ما يتبعه من الأعراض التي تعرض من جهة الحيوانية- فإن الحيوانية و إن كانت قابلة للتفاوت بالكمال و النقص و القوة و الضعف عند بعض

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٥١

المحققين من الحكماء كما مر ذكره إلا أن تفاوتهما في مراتب الكمال و النقص - ليس بإزاء تفاوت الجسمية في العظم و الصغر حتى يكون الكامل في التجسم كاملاً في الحيوانية و الناقص الصغير فيه ناقصاً فيها فيكون الإبل و الفيل أتم حيوانية من الإنسان و القردة.

فإذن نقول إن حلول الأطراف بما هي أطراف ليس في الجسم من حيث جسميته بل بانتهاؤه و عدمه و لهذا ذهب جمع إلى أنها عدمية.

فالسطح ينقسم في الجهتين لا في الجهة الثالثة لأن وجوده إنما يحصل بقطع وقع في الجسم من جهة امتداد واحد من امتداداته الثلاثة فلا جرم لما كان عروضه للجسم بواسطة القطع الذي وقع في هذه الجهة لم ينقسم في هذه الجهة لا بالذات - لأنه من هذه الجهة عدمي و لا بالعرض بتبعية انقسام الجسم فيها لكون عروضه للجسم - ليس من حيث وجود امتداده الحاصل فيها بل من حيث فنائه و عدمه فيها و لكن ينقسم في الجهتين الباقيتين بالذات و بالعرض جميعاً.

أما انقسامه بالذات فلكون ذاته متحصلة من الجهتين الباقيتين من جهات الجسم عند عروض القطع على الجهة الثالثة له. و أما انقسامه بالعرض و بتبعية المحل فلأن عروضه للجسم ليس لأجل قطع ما سوى الواحد من امتداداته بل لأجل قطع الواحد و بقاء الآخرين و إلا لكان خطأ أو نقطة فلا جرم ينقسم بانقسام الجسم في الامتدادين الآخرين. و أما الخط فينقسم في جهة واحدة بالذات و بالعرض بتبعية المحل و لا ينقسم في جهة أخرى أصلاً بمثل الذي ذكرناه و على هذا قياس عدم انقسام النقطة في جهة أصلاً فاعرف و تدبر.

شبهة أخرى يلزم منها طرفة الزاوية

و هي عقدة عسيرة الانحلال و إشكال

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٥٢

صعب الزوال مبناها على وجوب الاتصال في المقادير و ما يحصل منها كالزوايا و الأشكال. تقريرها أن الزاوية المسطحة مقدار سطحي بين خطين يلتقيان على نقطة أو كيفية عارضة للسطح من الجهة المذكورة على اختلاف مذهبي الرياضيين و غيرهم فيها و على أي تقدير لا خلاف بين الحكماء في قبول القسمة بغير نهاية في الجهة التي بين الضلعين.

و الزاوية قد تكون متفقة الخطين مستقيمتها أو مستديرتها سواء وقع تحديباهما و تقعرهما من جهة واحدة أو كل منهما في جهة أخرى مقابلة للجهة التي للآخر و هو أعم من أن يكون جانب التحديب منهما موضع الملاقاة أو جانب التقعير بشرط أن لا يصيرا في شيء من هذه الصور متحدين في الوضع بحيث ينطبق عليهما جميعاً خط واحد و إلا لم يكن بينهما زاوية.

و قد تكون مختلفة الخطين و هي إما أن يكون بحيث وقعت حذبة خطها المستدير إلى الداخل كزاوية حدثت من خط مستقيم بدائرة من خارج أو إلى الخارج كما إذا حدثت من تقاطع قطر الدائرة و محيطها فالأولى مما برهن أقليدس في كتابه - بالشكل الخامس عشر من المقالة الثالثة منه على أنها أحد من جميع الجواد المستقيمة الخطين و الثانية أعظم من جميع تلك الجواد.

فإذا تقرر هذا نقول إذا فرضنا خطا منطبقا على الخط المماس تحرك إلى جهة الدائرة مع ثبات نقطة التماس منه حركة ما فأي قدر يتحرك يحصل زاوية مستقيمة الخطين أعظم من الزاوية المذكورة من دون أن يصير أولا مثلها وهذا هو الطفرة بعينها في الحركة وكذا إذا فرضنا حركة القطر أدنى حركة مع ثبات أحد طرفيه تصير تلك الزاوية منفرجة من غير أن يصير أولا مثل القائمة لزيادة ما هو أزيد مما نقصت هي به عن القائمة عليها وكذا إذا فرضنا رجوع كل من الخطين المذكورين إلى موضعه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٥٣

الأول يلزم المحذور المذكور.

و استصعب كثير من الأذكياء حل هذه العقدة وذكروا فيها وجوها غير سديدة - و تشبث بعض العلماء بأن الزاوية من مقولة الكيف و مراتب الكيف مما يجوز سلوكها على وجه الطفرة - و بعضهم ذكر أن هذه الحركة من أحد الضلعين ليس في جهة هي بين الضلعين - و هي جهة عرض البسيط الواقع بينهما بل في جهة أخرى هي جهة طول ذلك البسيط - و الزاوية لا يقبل الانقسام إلا فيما بين الخطين لا فيما بين الرأس و القاعدة و السفسطة في الجميع ظاهرة. و ذكر شيخنا و سيدنا أدام الله تعالى ظله الظليل على مفارق مريديه بإدامة وجوده الشريف و عزه الجليل و أضاء إشراق نوره مستديما على تنوير قلوب السالكين و تطهير نفوس المستعدين ما يشفي العليل و يروي الغليل بحمد الله و قوته من وجه و جبه نذكره تبركا بإفادته و تيمنا بإضاءته و هو أن الزاوية المختلفة الضلعين لها اعتباران اعتبار أنها سطح و اعتبار أنها أحيطت بمستقيم و مستدير و هي إنما تقع في طريق تلك الحركة بالاعتبار الأول فقط دون الاعتبار الثاني لأن شيئا من الزوايا المستقيمة الخطين - لا يمكن أن تساوي زاوية أخرى مختلفة الضلعين و كذلك العكس. فإنه إذا طبق الضلع المستقيم من المستقيمة الخطين على المستقيم من مختلفتيهما - فإما أن يقع المستقيم الآخر بين المختلفتين أو خارجا عنهما إذ لا يمكن الانطباق بين المستقيم و المستدير فلا ينطبق الزاوية المستقيمة الخطين على مختلفتيهما.

و بالجملة يختلف حقيقة الزاوية من جهة اختلاف الضلعين استقامة و استدارة - لأنهما من الفصول المنوعة للخط فكذا لما يحاط به من جهة كونه محاطا و لما كانت الحركة أمرا متصلا اتصال المسافة و الجسم و قد تقرر أن الأمور المتخالفة بالنوع - لا يكون بينهما اتصال وحداني موجود بوجود واحد فما يقع في طريق الحركة - لا بد و أن يكون أفراد و مراتبه من نوع واحد فشيء واحد من أفراد أحد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٥٤

المقدارين المختلفين بالماهية لا يقع في مسافة الحركة و مسلكها.

أ و لا ترى أن المتزايد بحسب المقدار الخطي لا يصل و لا يبلغ بحركة في شيء - من المراتب مقدارا ما سطحيا و بالعكس و كذا المتزايد في السطح لا يبلغ بالحركة في حدودها إلى مساواة جسم ما و بالعكس فكل فرد من أحد نوعي الزاوية إذا تحرك ضلعه و صار أكبر إنما يبلغ بالتدريج إلى مساواة جميع الأفراد المتوسطة في القدر بين المبدأ و المنتهى من ذلك النوع و هي التي تكون واقعة في مسلك تلك الحركة و لا يمكن أن يبلغ إلى مساواة شيء من أفراد النوع الآخر

و لا هي واقعة في مسلك تلك الحركة أصلا فلا يلزم أن يبلغ الزاوية التي هي بين الدائرة و الخط المماس في التعاضم إلى زاوية مساوية لمستقيم الخطين و لا التي بين القطر و المحيط في التعاضم إلى مساواة القائمة و لا التي بين الخط المماس و القطر العمود عليه في التصاغر إلى مساواة ما هي أعظم الجواد

بحث و تميم-

و للباحث أن يقول إذا قيست زاوية إلى زاوية بأنها أعظم أو أصغر أو أزيد أو أنقص فلا بد أن يصلح ما يجري بينهما قياس المساواة أيضا إذ الأعظم و الأزيد بالنسبة إلى الأمر لا بد و أن يشتمل على مثل ذلك الأمر و شيء زائد عليه فالمماثلة بين المستقيمة الخطين و المختلفة الخطين ثابتة بالإمكان.

و جوابه بأن الأزيدية كمقابلها يقال بالاشتراك الاسمي أو بالحقيقة و المجاز على ما يتحقق بين مقدارين يوجد بينهما عاد مشترك و يقال لهما المتشاركان و النسبة بينهما لا محالة عديدة رسمت بأنها أيّة أحد المقدارين المتجانسين من الآخر بأن يقال هذا المقدار من ذاك المقدار ثلثه أو رבעه أو جزء من عشرين جزء منه- و هذه هي التي تقتضي التجانس بين المتناسبين و يلزم كون أحدهما مشتملا بالقوة على الآخر مع شيء زائد و على ما يتحقق بين مقدارين لا يمكن أن يقال

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٥٥

لواحد منهما أي شيء هو من صاحبه و هو لا يقتضي كونهما من نوع واحد أو جنس قريب و لذا عرف أرشميدس الخط المستقيم بأنه أقصر الخطوط الواصلة بين نقطتين - مع أن الاختلاف بين الخط المستقيم و المستدير و كذا بين الخطوط المستديرة المختلفة في التحديب بالفصول المنوعة.

و أما المساواة فلا معنى لها إلا المماثلة في المقدار و الكمية فلا بد أن يكون المتساويان متحدين في نوع من الكمية فعلى ذلك قد ظهر أنه يصح أن يصير أصغر المقدارين أعظم من الأعظم بدون أن يصير مساويا له كما إذا فرضنا درجة واحدة من الدائرة يزيد بحركة الفرجار إلى أن يبلغ نصف الدور فيصير أعظم من القطر و قد كانت أصغر منه لا محالة بدون أن يصير وقتا مساوية له فاعرف هذا.

و أما ما لزم من كون سدس المحيط من الدائرة مساويا لوتره الذي يساوي نصف القطر لكونهما ضلعي مثلث متساوي الأضلاع في البرهان الترسّي فالوتر يكون ستين جزء كنصف القطر من أجزاء بها يكون القطر مائة و عشرين جزء مثل سدس المحيط الذي أجزاءه ستون أيضا سدس ثلاثمائة و ستين هي أجزاء المحيط عند الحساب.

فأوجه فيه أن عدد ستين لسدس المحيط حقيقي و لنصف القطر وضعي - إذ ليست أجزاء القطر بحسب الحقيقة مائة و عشرين بل هي بحسب الوضع عندهم - لمصلحة راعوها هي السهولة في الحسابات و إنما أجزاء الحقيقة هي مائة و أربعة عشر و كسر فلم يلزم المساواة بين القوس و وترها إلا في الوضع لا في الحقيقة - فالمحذور غير لازم و اللازم غير محذور.

فالقدماء منهم أرشميدس أثبتوا بين المقادير المتخالفة الأنواع نسبة بالأزيدية و الأنقصية الصميتين لا بالمساواة فهي تتصف بالمفاوتة بين المختلفين بوجه الصمم - دون المساواة و سائر النسب العددية و اشتراط التجانس في النسب مطلقا على ما اشتهر بين المتأخرين تفيد فيما إذا كانت عددية لا مقدارية أي صمية.

و هاهنا شبهة أخرى كثيرة متفقة المآخذ مشتركة الأصل في الجواب تركنا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٥٦

ذكرها على وجه التفصيل مخافة الإسهاب في التطويل و لأن بناء الأجوبة عن الكل على تحقيق الحركة كما سيجيء حيث يحين حينه فانتظره مفتشا إن شاء الله.

و هي كاستلزام حضور شيء غير منقسم من الحركة و الزمان شيئا غير منقسم بإزائها من المسافة كما يجب حركة النقطة بحركة ما هي فيه كمخروط مثلا تتالي أحياء غير منقسمة و كإقتضاء عدم الآن في آن يليه تتالي الآتات المستلزمة لتركب المسافة من غير المنقسمات و كاستلزام حدوث اللاوصول في آن يلي أن الوصول تجاور الآتين و كذا اللانطباق و اللامحاذاة و كاستيجاب كون الزمان مركبا من الآتات و الحركة من الأكوآن الدفعية بكون الحاضر من الزمان أمرا غير منقسم - مع انفصاليه عما مضى و عما سيأتي بعدهما فإذا عدم وجدان آخر منفصل عنه بمثل ما ذكر و يكون الحركة لا أول لحدوثها لعدم حدوثها في آن هو مبدأ الحركة و إلا لكان الزمان موجودا في الآن و لا في آن آخر يكون بينهما زمان و إلا لم يكن ما فرض مبدأ مبدأ بل في آن يلي الآن الأول الذي هو آخر زمان السكون.

فيكون معناها الكون الأول في الآن الثاني و كاستلزام اتصال الجسم عدم وجدان التفاوت بين الحركتين سرعة و بطوءا إذا اتفقتا في الأخذ و الترك لكون كل منهما في كل آن يفرض من زمانهما في أين فأيون كل واحدة منهما مساوية لأيون الأخرى و اللازم باطل و كذا الملزوم.

و قد مر شبه هذه الشبهة في إلزام مساواة الخردلة للجبل

فصل (٩) في أن قبول القسمة الانفكاكية ثابتة إلى غير النهاية

اعلم أنه ذهب جمع من القدماء منهم ديمقراطيس إلى أن ما يشاهدون من الأجسام المفردة كالماء و الهواء مثلا ليس بسائط على الإطلاق بل إنما هي حاصلة من تماس بسائط صغار متشابهة الطبع في غاية الصلابة غير قابلة للقسمة الانفكاكية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٥٧

بل الوهمية فقط و بهذا و بتسميتها أجساما يمتاز هذا المذهب عن مذهب القائلين بالجزء. ثم اختلفوا في أشكالها فذهب الأكثرون منهم إلى أنها كرات لبساطتها و التزموا القول بالخلاء. و قيل إنها مكعبات و قيل مثلثات و قيل مربعات و قيل على خمسة أنواع في الأشكال فللنار أربع مثلثات و للأرض مكعب و للهواء ذو ثماني قواعد مثلثات و للماء ذو عشرين قاعدة مثلثات و للفلك ذو اثني عشر قاعدة مجسمات [مخمصات].

هذا ما نقله الخطيب الرازي و ذكر الشيخ في الشفا أنهم يقولون إنها مختلفة الأشكال و بعضهم يجعلها متفقة الأنواع. و قد قرر بعض المتأخرين الدليل في بطلان هذا المذهب بأن تلك الأجزاء - لما كانت متشابهة الطبع باعترافهم جاز على كل منها ما جاز على الآخر و على المجموع الحاصل من اجتماعها و القسمة الانفكاكية مما يجوز على المجموع فيجوز على كل جزء إذ لو امتنعت على الجزء نظر إلى ذاته لامتنت على المجموع و فيه بحث.

أما أولاً فلكونه مبنياً على تساوي تلك الأجسام في الماهية ولا يجدي اعترافهم بكونها متساوية بالطبع إذ غاية الأمر فيه أن يحصل إلزامهم بذلك فلم يكن البيان برهانياً.

و لقائل أن يدعي أنها متخالفة بالماهية ولا يوجد جزءان متحدان في الماهية - فلم يثبت أن كل جسم قابل للقسمة الانفكاكية فلم يتم دليل إثبات الهيولى فضلاً عن أن يعم.

و أما ثانياً فلأن صحة هذا الدليل على هذا التقرير موقوف على تساوي الأجسام المحسوسة و مبادئها التي يتركب منها الأجسام و هو غير ثابت و لا هم معترفون بها أيضاً - لأن هذه الأجسام المحسوسة متخالفة للطبائع بالضرورة فإذا كان مبادئها متفقة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٥٨

الطبع جميعاً فلم يكن الكل و الجزء متفقين في الطبيعة و إن كان المراد من المجموع - العدد الحاصل من مجرد الأجزاء المادية من غير ملاحظة الصورة الحاصلة لكل - فليس لها حقيقة متأصلة لها وحدة طبيعية حتى يحكم عليها بأنها متساوية لغيرها في الحقيقة أم لا و كأنه أخذ هذا الحكم عن قول الشيخ أن القسمة بأنواعها تحدث اثني عشر في المقسوم يساوي طباع كل واحد منها طباع المجموع و لم يدر أن المراد منه القسمة الواردة على الجسم المفرد و إلا فلا يخفى فساد -

ظل غربي مع نور شرقي

و ليكتف في إثبات هذا المرام بما ذكر من كلام الشيخ مع مزيد شرح و إتمام.

فالطباع معناه مصدر الصفة الذاتية الأولية للشيء حركة أو سكونا كان أو غيرهما و هو أعم من الطبيعة و المراد من أنواع القسمة ما يكون بحسب الفك و القطع أو بحسب الوهم و الفرض أو بحسب اختلاف عرضين قارين أي ما هو للموضوع في نفسه كالسواد و البياض أو غير قارين أي ما هو له بالقياس إلى غيره كالتماس و التحاذي و قد مر ذكر هذه الأقسام.

و الدليل على انحصار القسمة في هذه الأنواع أن الانقسام إن تآدى إلى الافتراق فالأول و إلا فإن كان في مجرد الوهم فالثاني و إلا فالثالث.

و بما قيدنا الوهم بالمجرد صار هذا بقسميه قسماً ثالثاً و إلا فهو من قبيل الانقسام الوهمي سيما ما يكون بحسب العرضين الغير القارين.

و قد أشرنا سابقاً إلى التفرقة بين قسميه بأن أحدهما وهمي منشأ انتزاعه في الخارج و الآخر خارجي عرض لقسميه اتصال إضافي بالمعنى الذي يعرض لأعضاء الحيوان و استدلال بعضهم على كون الانقسام بهما وهما بقولهم أن الجزء ما لا ينقسم لا كسراً و لا قطعاً و لا وهماً و لا فرضاً من غير تعرض لما يكون باختلاف عرضين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٥٩

ضعيف كما لا يخفى.

لأن الغرض منه تعريف الجوهر الفرد لا ضبط أنحاء القسمة و قد ظهر من نفي الأنواع المتباعدة في معنى واحد عن

الشيء نفي النوع المتوسط عن ذلك الشيء - وكذا قولهم إنا نقطع بأن الجسم الذي بعضه تسخن أو وقع عليه الضوء أو لاقى ببعضه جسماً آخر لم يحصل فيه الانفصال بالفعل و لم يصر جسمين ثم إذا زال ذلك التسخن أو الضوء أو الملافة عاد جسماً واحداً.

و كذا قولهم لو كان كذلك يصير المسافة أقساماً بلا نهاية في الخارج بحسب موافاة المتحرك حدودها ثم تعود في ذاتها متصلة واحدة في نفسها عند انقطاع الحركة - فإن ترويج سلب الوقوع في الخارج عن التي باختلاف عرضين قارين بانضمامهما مع التي صح فيها ذلك السلب نوع من التدليس و المغالطة فإننا قاطعون بأن محل السواد من الجسم غير محل البياض منه و إن ارتفع الوهم و الفرض و خصوصاً إذا انغمرا في باطنه و بأن السطح الأسود غير السطح الأبيض و بأن الماء الحار غير الماء البارد.

ثم من الذي قال إن موافاة المتحرك للمسافة متعددة ليلزم تعدد المسافة بوجه فضلاً عن عدم تناهي العدد. و من الذي قال إن للمسافة المتصلة حدوداً في الواقع و هل هذا إلا من أغاليط المتأخرين أن الموجود من الحركة في كل وقت جزء غير منقسم و سنعطف إشراق العرفان على تحقيق حقيقة الحركة و الزمان بوجه لم يبق لأحد مجال هذا الهذيان حسب ما وعدناه إن شاء الله تعالى - و مما يؤكد تصريح الشيخ في منطق الشفا بأنه انفصال بالفعل. و ما ذكر أيضاً في شرح الإشارات من أن الانفصال بحسب اختلاف العرضين - انفصال في الخارج من غير تأد إلى الافتراق ينور ما قررناه فمعنى كلامه أن كل متحيز مما يوجد أو يفرض فيه طرفان بأحد أسباب القسمة يتميز كل واحد منهما عن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٦٠

الآخر إما في الوهم أو في الخارج يساوي طباع كل من القسمين طباع الآخر و طباع المجموع المنحل إليهما و ذلك لأن الاتصال عبارة عن وحدة في الوجود - بل هو نحو من الوجود الوجداني و الوجود الواحد لا يعرض لأمر متخالفة في الماهية المتحصلة التامة المستغني كل منها في تمام ماهيته عن الآخر بخلاف المادة و الصورة و الجنس و الفصل المحتاج بعضها إلى بعض لنقصانه و إبهامه.

فإذن لا يخلو إما أن يكون طباع كل جسم من الأجسام الديمقراطية يساوي للآخر و لا أقل واحد منها لواحد آخر أو يكون الجميع متخالفة الطباع بحيث لا اشتراك في الطباع بين اثنين.

أما على الشق الأول فنقول التحام النصفين أعني اتصالهما و افتراق الجسمين أعني انفصالهما إما بحيث يمتنع ارتفاعه أو لا و على الثاني ثبت المرام من تجويز الفصل - و الوصل في تلك الأجسام - و على الأول لا يخلو إما أن يكون الامتناع لأمر ذاتي أم عرضي لازم أو مفارق - فإن كان الثاني فكذلك لأن المطلوب تمهيد إثبات الهيولى كما سيظهر و هو إنما يثبت بإمكان شيء منهما و إن لم يقع بعد في الخارج لمانع لازم كالفلك أو مفارق كالصغر و الصلابة في بعض الأجسام التي سماها الرياضيون المحسوس الأول لا يحتمل القسمة عند الحس و بإزائه الزمان الذي يقطع فيه الحركة ذلك الجسم و هو المحسوس الأول من الزمان عندهم كما ذكره العظيم أفلاطون في كتاب النواميس الإلهية - و هو الزمان الذي إذا تحرك المتحرك كالنقطة الجواله أو الهابطة فيه دائرة عظيمة أو خطاً طويلاً يراها الحس مجتمعي الأجزاء معا و إن لم يكن كذلك في الواقع - و إن كان الأول فيجب أن يكون نوعه محصوراً في واحد و المفروض خلافه - و أما على

الشق الثاني فنقول تلك الأجسام وإن تخالف بحسب الطباع والصور إلا أن الجسمية المشتركة بين جميع الأجسام ماهية نوعية متحصلة في الخارج - وإنما يختلف أفرادها من حيث هي أفرادها بأمور منضفة إليها من خارج.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٦١

وقد مر في مباحث الماهية بيان الفرق بين الجسم بالمعنى الذي هو مادة الأنواع وبين الجسم بالمعنى الذي هو جنس فالفصول عوارض خارجية منضمة بالقياس إلى المعنى الأول و متممات داخلية مضمونة منضمة بالقياس إلى المعنى الثاني فجسمية إذا خالفت جسمية أخرى كانت بأمور خارجية سواء كانت جواهر صورية أو أعراضا - وأما جسم إذا خالف جسما آخر مباينا له في النوع كانت بأمور داخلية و عدم الفرق بين هذين المعنيين مما يغلط كثيرا.

و بالجملة لا شبهة في أن الصور الامتدادية و هي تمام حقيقة الجسم بما هو جسم - في جميع الأجسام أمر واحد نوعي محصل و مقتضاها فيها واحد و ما يجوز و يمتنع لها في بعض الأفراد يجوز و يمتنع في الكل فحينئذ لو كان الالتحام بين الجزئين المتصلين مقتضى ذات الطبيعة الامتدادية يلزم أن يكون الأجسام و الامتدادات كلها متصلا واحدا و لو كان الانفكاك بين الجسمين المنفصلين ذاتيا لها لم يوجد شيء من تلك الطبيعة متصلا واحدا بل لم يتحقق لا في العين و لا في الوهم و ذلك ضروري البطلان و الجواهر الفردة مع استحالة وجودها ليست من أفراد تلك الطبيعة بحسب مفهوم الاسم و شرحه.

فهذا تقرير البرهان على أن القسمة الانفكاكية لا يقف عند حد في شيء من الأجسام من حيث الجسمية و لا حاجة إلى دعوى التشابه في الأجسام سواء كانت الدعوى مقدمة برهانية أو مسلمة عند الخصم كما في الأقيسة الجدلية.

و لذلك اكتفى الشيخ ببيان واحد في إثبات القسمة في الأجسام الديمقراطيةية و الفلكية و جعل المانع عن الانقسام في الفلك لازما و فيها زائلا و جعل المانع في القبيلتين خارجا عن الطباع المشترك و إن كان المانع في الفلك داخلا في جوهره بما هو نوع خاص من الجسم لا بما هو جسم فقط و كلما لزم المانع أو دخل فيه فمن حق نوعه أن لا يكون إلا شخصا واحدا لم ينقسم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٦٢

مخلص آخر

لو قطع النظر عن تشابه الأجسام المنفصلة لثم البرهان لأن النظر في جسم مفرد و قبوله للتبعيض الوهمي يوجب أن يقبل الجزء المقداري ما يقبله الكل و بالعكس لتشابه الكل و الجزء فإن من الحقيقة الامتدادية و ما يطابقها أيضا أن أجزاءها المقدارية جزئياتها للكل وجود بالفعل و تشخص عيني و للجزء وجود بالقوة و تشخص فيجوز بحسب الماهية المشتركة أن يعرض لأحدهما ما يعرض للآخر و بالعكس فليجز أن يكون المتصل منفصلا و المنفصل متصلا.

س جزء الجسم يلزم أن يصح كون مقداره كمقدار الكل فلم يبق فرق بين الجزء و الكل.

ج كلية الكل يمنع أن يكون المقدار الجزء مثله فهذا من ضروريات تعيين الكل كلا و الجزء جزءا و إلا فالتبادل كان جائزا من حيث الطبيعة.

س فما تقول في الفلك من حيث كونه فلكا حيث امتنع الفصل على أجزائه لا على المجموع.

ج ليس للفلك بما هو فلك جزء مقداري لأن طبيعته المتنوعة لجوهره أمر روحاني غير سار في الجسم فالمقسوم بحسب الفرض مادة الفلك لا فلكيته كما أن المقسوم من الحيوان قلبه لا حيوانيته.

و هاهنا شبهة مشهورة أعيت الفحول في حلها هي أن مبنى الاستدلال على استعمال لفظ مشترك بين المعنيين بمعنى واحد في الموضوعين فيكون مغالطة لا دليلا و هو أن ما يقبله الأجسام الديمقراطيةية و أجزاءها ليس إلا انفصالا فطريا و اتصالا خلقيا و ما يقاس عليهما من تجويز التحام الأجسام و انفصال الأجزاء صفتان طاريتان و كذا لفظ القبول في الأولين بمعنى الاتصاف الذي يجمع الفعلية و لا ينافي اللزوم و في الأخيرين بمعنى الاستعداد المتجدد الذي لا يجمع الفعلية فمقتضى اطراد حكم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٦٣

الطبيعة الواحدة في جميع الجزئيات هو جواز الاتصال و الوحدة في كل من تلك الأجسام بحسب أول فطرتها و الانفصال و التعدد في أجزائها كذلك.

و لا يكفي ثبوت هذا المعنى في تمهيد إثبات الهيولى بل لا بد من التوصل فيه إلى إمكان طء الوصل بعد الفصل أو الفصل بعد الوصل فإن المحوج إلى الهيولى في كل موضع الإمكان الاستعدادي المغاير للفعلية في الوجود دون الإمكان الذاتي المجامع لها فيه إلا في ضرب من ملاحظة العقل و اعتباره كما ستعلم إن شاء الله.

و قد أجاب شيخنا و أستاذنا سيد أعظم الأعلام و سند أكابر الكرام ضاعف الله قدره بأن قبول القسمة الوهمية مساوق لإمكان القسمة الانفكاكية بالنظر إلى نفس طبيعة الامتداد و إن منع عنها مانع لازم أو زائل إذ لو امتنع الانفكاك عليه لذاته - لكان فرض الانقسام فيه من الأوهام الاختراعية و لم يكن حينئذ فرق بين فرض الانقسام فيه و بين فرضه في المفارقات الذوات و لا شك أن فرض الانقسام الوهمي من

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٦٤

المعاني الانتزاعية و خصوصا إذا كان منشؤه اختلاف عرضين.

بحث و كشف -

هذا منقوض بالزمان فإنه عندهم متصل قابل للقسمة الوهمية غير قابل للقسمة الانفصالية و أيضا توهم القسمة و إن سلم كونه مساوقا لتجويز وقوعها في الخارج - لكن تجويز العقل وقوع أمر لا يستلزم إمكانه الذاتي فضلا عن الاستعدادي إذ ربما جوز العقل شيئا في بادي النظر.

ثم إذا قام البرهان ظهر خلافه ثم إذا لم يكن ممتدا قابلا للانفكاك الخارجي - لا يلزم أن يكون توهم القسمة فيه كتوهم القسمة في المجرد لظهور الفرق بينهما بأن هذا ممتد و ذاك خارج عن جنس الامتداد و ما لا امتداد و لا وضع له يكون تقدير القسمة فيه اختراعا محضا من العقل.

ثم إن لإبطال هذا المطلب دليلا آخران.

أحدهما وجود التخلخل و التكاثر الحقيقيين في الأجسام كما يدل عليه التجربة في القارورة الضيقة الرأس الجذابة للماء بعد المص الصياحة في النار بعد السد مع كون الخلاء محالا.

و ثانيهما أن كلا من تلك الأجسام لو كان بسيطا ذا طبيعة واحدة كانت كرية الأشكال لما سيجيء فيحصل بينها فرج خالية و الخلاء محال و إن كان مركبا من أجسام مختلفة الطبائع لم يكن متصلا واحدا هذا خلف و أيضا أجزاؤها يكون متداعية إلى الانفكاك و الرجوع إلى أحيائها و أشكالها الطبيعية فيلزم ما لزم أولا من وقوع الخلاء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٦٥

الفن الثاني في البحث عن حال الهيولى ماهية و حقيقة و فيه فصول

فصل (١) في الإشارة إلى ماهية الهيولى من جهة مفهوم الاسم و إثبات وجودها و تحقيق إنيتها بحيث ما أنكر أحد له أقل تمييز

إن في الأجسام سنخا يتوارد عليه الصور و الهيئات و لها خميرة يختلف عليها الاستحالات و الانقلابات و لا يحتاج الجمهور في إثبات وجود أمر يصدق عليه مفهوم هذا الاسم - أعني المادة القابلة لوجود هذه الحوادث و اللواحق و زوالها فإن كل من له استيهال مخاطبة علمية يعلم و يعتقد يقينا بالفكر أو الحدس أن التراب يصير نطفة و النطفة تصير جسد إنسان أو حيوان و البذر يصير شجرا و الشجر يصير رمادا أو فحما. و إذا قيل إنه خلق من الماء بشرا و من الطين حيوانا لا يخلو إما أن يفهم من هذا القول أن النطفة باقية نطفة و الطين طينا و مع هذا فهو بشر و حيوان حتى يكون في حالة واحدة نطفة و جسد إنسان أو طينا و حيوانا و إما أن يكون بطلت النطفة بكليتها حتى لم يبق منها شيء أصلا و كذا الطين.

ثم حدث حيوان أو إنسان فحينئذ ما خلق الإنسان من نطفة و لا الحيوان من طين بل ذلك شيء بطل بكليته و هذا شيء آخر حصل جديدا بجميع أجزائه و إما أن يكون الجوهر الذي كان فيه الهيئة النطفية أو الطينية بطلت عنه تلك الهيئة و حصلت فيه هيئة إنسانية أو صورة حيوانية و القسمان الأولان باطلان عند الكافة و ليست مما يعتقدهما العامة و لذلك كل من زرع بذرا لينبت شيء منه أو تزوج ليكون له ولده يفرق بين ولده و غيره بأنه من مائه و يحكم على الزرع بأنه من بذره و على الفرخ بأنه من بيضه.

أ و لا ترى أنه لا يحصل في الزراعة من البر غير البر و من الشعير غير الشعير و لا في التوليد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٦٦

من الإنسان غير الإنسان و من الفرس المحض الغير الفرس و من الحمار غير الحمار و من المزدوج من القسمين غير المزدوج من صفات كل منهما.

ثم إن جحد جاحد و عاند معاند لا يلتفت إليه العاقل الفطن بل يكذبه مجرد الحدس الإنساني و مثل هذا الإنسان يكذب نفسه في أحكام كثيرة إلا أنه لا يستحيي عن نفسه و من لا يستحيي عن نفسه لا يستحيي عن الله لأنه أقرب إليه من نفسه.

فظهر أن الهيولى من حيث المفهوم لا خلاف فيها لأحد بل وقع الاتفاق من العقلاء مع افتراقهم في الآراء على ثبوت مادة يتوارد عليها الصور و الهيئات إلا أنها عند الإشرافيين و من تبعهم نفس الجسم الذي هو أمر واحد لا تركيب فيه عندهم بوجه من الوجوه فمن حيث جوهريته يسمى جسما و من حيث إضافته و قبوله للصور و المقادير يسمى مادة.

وعند المشاءين و من يحذو حذوهم جوهر أبسط يتقوم بجوهر آخر يحل فيه يسمى صورة يتحصل من تركيبهما جوهر وحداني الحد قابل للمقادير و الأعراض و الصور اللاحقة و هو الجسم فالجسم عندهم مركب في حقيقته من الهیولی و من الاتصال القابل للأبعاد الثلاثة و عند أصحاب ديمقراطيس أجسام متعددة بسائط غير قابلة للفصل. و عند قوم آخر هم المتكلمون على تشعبهم و تكثرهم هو الجواهر الفردة التي يتقوم بها التأليف فيحصل الجسم فالتأليف عندهم بمنزلة الصورة عند المشاءين إلا أنه عرض لا يقوم بذاته بل بمحله و الصورة جوهر يقوم بذاته و يتقوم به محله الذي هو الهیولی.

نعم من زعم أن الامتداد الجسماني عرض في المادة و الجسم مركب من الهیولی - و الاتصال العرضي يكون مذهبهم أشبه بمذهبه من مذهب المشاءين و بقي الفرق بينهما - بأن تقوم جوهرية المحل في الوجود يكون عنده بما سماه صورة و عند هؤلاء بذاته - مع اتفاقهم على تقوم الجوهر المركب بالعرض القائم بالجزء الآخر منه بحسب الماهية و يكون المحل شخصا واحدا عنده و أشخاصا متعددة عندهم. و نسبة مذهب المتكلمين إلى هذا المذهب كنسبة مذهب ديمقراطيس إلى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٦٧

مذهب الإشرقيين لأن هذين مشتركان في عدم جسمية الهیولی مع جوهريتها و قبولها للانقسام و مفترقان في فعلية الأقسام و عدمها و ذاك مشتركان في جسميتها و مفترقان في كون الأقسام جميعها حاصلة بالفعل أو بالقوة. و الهیولی عند المشاءين استعداد محض و عند غيرهم ذات وجهين قوة من وجه و فعل من وجه و ستعلم أن جوهرية الهیولی لا يوجب كونها أمرا بالفعل محصلا.

فإن قلت المذكور في كتب المعتزلة أن مبادي الأجسام عند النظام و أصحابه - هي ألوان و طعوم و روائح و نحو ذلك من الأعراض فلم يكن هیولی الأجسام عند المتكلمين كافة جوهرًا. قلت نعم إلا أن هذه الأمور عندهم جواهر لا أعراض.

و تقرير هذا المذهب على ما صودف أن مثل الوهميات و العقلیات كالأكوان و التأثيرات في كتبهم و الآراء و الاعتقادات و الآلام و اللذات و ما أشبهها كلها أعراض لا دخل لها عندهم في حقيقة الجسم قطعا و أما الألوان و الأصواء و الطعوم و الروائح و الأصوات و کیفیات الملموسة من الحرارة و البرودة و غيرهما فعند النظام و من تبعه جواهر بل أجسام حتى صرح كما هو المنقول عنه بأن كلا من ذلك جسم لطيف - مركب من جواهر مجتمعة.

ثم إن تلك الأجسام اللطيفة إذا اجتمعت و تداخلت صار الجسم الكثيف الذي هو الجماد أما الروح فجسم لطيف هو شيء واحد و الحيوان كله من جنس واحد و عند الجمهور كل هذه الأمور أعراض إلا أن الجسم عند ضرار بن عمرو و الحسين النجار مجموع من تلك الأعراض و عند الآخرين جواهر مجتمعة يحلها تلك الأعراض.

و قد وجد قريبا من زماننا هذا شخص من المشتغلين بالبحث و كان مصرا على أن الماء رطوبة متراكمة و أن الأرض يبوسة متراكمة و هكذا سائر العناصر [الأعراض] - و هذا أشنع ما نسب إلى النظام و ما وقع في بعض الكتب كالمواقف و غيره من أن الجسم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٦٨

ليس مجموع أعراض مجتمعة خلافا للنظام و النجار ليس على ما ينبغي.
و الصواب أن يذكر مكان النظام ضرار على ما في سائر الكتب.
و ربما يوجه كلام الموافق بأن الكلام فيما هو جسم اتفاقا و النظام يجعله مجموع أعراض بسببها جواهر بل أجساما فهو يوافق النجار و يخالف القوم في المعنى - إلا أن الاحتجاج عليهما بأن العرض لا يقوم بذاته بل لا بد من الانتهاء إلى جوهر يقوم به و لهما بأن الجواهر متماثلة و الأجسام متخالفة فلا يكون جواهر لا يلائم هذا التوجيه و لا ينتظم على رأي النظام حيث زعم أن كلا من تلك الأمور كالسواد مثلا جسم مؤلف من جواهر متماثلة في أنفسها قائمة بذواتها و إن لم تكن متماثلة لجواهر الآخر كالحلاوة أو الحرارة مثلا.
و بهذا يظهر أيضا أن الاحتجاج بأن الأجسام باقية و الأعراض غير باقية لا تنهض عليه مع أن بقاء الأجسام غير مسلم لديه.

و أما الجواب بمنع تماثل الجواهر فجذلي لا يتأتى على مذهب المانعين - حتى لو قصد الإلزام لم يتم المرام بل الأقرب أن الأجسام بما هي أجسام متماثلة عند الحكماء و المتكلمين لأن ذلك مناط إثبات الصورة النوعية عندهم و إثبات الفاعل المختار عند هؤلاء و القائل بالاختلاف إنما هو النظام.
و ما أسخف ما في كلام صاحب الموافق تأييدا لمذهب النظام و إصلاحا لفاسده و ترويجا لكاسده و لن يصلح العطار ما أفسد الدهر من أنه لا محيص لمن يقول بتجانس الجواهر عن أن يجعل جملة من الأعراض داخلة في حقيقة الجسم فيكون الاختلاف عائدا إليها و كأنه لم يفرق بين التجانس بحسب المفهوم و التركيب الذهني و بين التماثل في الوجود و التركيب الخارجي و على تقدير التركيب العقلي و الاتحاد الجنسي.
فقد دريت أن المميز الفصلي لا يجب أن يكون ماهية مندرجة تحت مقولة عرضية و لا جوهرية فالأجسام إذا اتحدت مع سائر الجواهر في الجوهرية ذهنا و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٦٩

كان الجوهر جنسا لها عقلا فلا بد من امتيازها بفصول يتحد معها في الوجود يكون كل منها جزءا عقليا لا تأصل لها في الخارج و الطعوم و الروائح ليست كذلك و أما إذا اتحدت الأجسام بعضها مع بعض أو الجواهر بعضها مع بعض اتحادا نوعيا أو كان كل منها مركبا من الجوهرية أو الجسمية مع أمر آخر على اختلاف رأي الحكماء و المتكلمين حتى يكون التركيب خارجيا و جنسية الأمر المشترك جسما كان أو جوهرًا ذا وضع بضرب من الاعتبار على الوجه الذي أشرنا إليه من تصيير المادة الخارجية جنسا مع كونها متحدة الحقيقة خارجا و عقلا باعتبار فلا يلزم إلا دخولها في حقيقة بعض الأنواع بما هي أنواع لا في حقيقة الجسم بما هو جسم كما هو مذهب الإشراقيين من تقوم الأجسام النوعية بالأعراض كما هو مذهب النظام فإن مذهبه أنها محض الجواهر فكيف توجه بما ذكر لا في حقيقة الجسم بما هو جسم.
ثم العجب كيف ذهل عما ذهل في توجيهه مذهبه و إصلاحه من الوقوع في ورطة أخرى و هي عدم بقاء الأجسام ضرورة انتفاء الشيء بانتفاء ما يتقوم به و هو جملة الأعراض الغير الباقية باعترافه.
و قد أشار إليه بقوله و لذلك إن الأعراض لا تبقى و الجواهر باقية فلو تم كون الجواهر غير مختلفة بذواتها لما كانت

الأجسام المختلفة محض الجواهر المجتمعة - بل مع جملة من الأعراض و حينئذ يلزم عدم بقائها لعدم بقاء الأعراض و هل هذا إلا تناقض في الكلام

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٧٠

فصل (٣) في الإشارة إلى ماهية الهيولى عند المحصلين من المشاءين

قد عرفوا الهيولى بأنها الجوهر القابل للصورة و هو بحسب الظاهر منقوض بالنفس لأنها جوهر قابل للصور فالأولى أن يقيد الصورة بالحسية - و منهم من قيد التعريف بكون القابل بحيث لا معنى له إلا القابلية. و فيه خلل لا لما ذكره الشيخ الإلهي في المطارحات على ما سنذكره بل لأن في النفس جوهرًا هيولانيًا لا معنى له إلا القابلية لأنه استعداد محض نحو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٧١

المعقولات الصورية كما سنحققه و ليس هو نفس النفس لأن النفس بما هي نفس صورة كمالية للمادة الجسدانية فلا يكون استعدادا نحو الكمال العقلي لاستحالة أن يكون أمر واحد بما هو واحد فعلا و قوة و إن كان بالقياس إلى شيئين و لا أن يكون صورته لأمر و مادة لأمر و إن كان الأمران متغايرين. و ذلك لأن اتصاف الشيء بمتخالفين بالإضافة إلى أمرين إنما يجوز و يصح إذا لم يكن ذلك الشيء حقيقته محض حقيقة أحد المتخالفين و فيما نحن فيه كذلك. أما الهيولى فإنها محض القابلية و الاستعداد عند المشاءين. و أما النفوس و الصور فإنها فعلية في أنفسها متعلقة بالقوة و الاستعداد مشوبة بها شوب وجودها بوجود الهيولى الخارجة عن ذاتها و على ذلك بناء مذهبهم في تركيب الجسم المطلق من الهيولى و الصورة. و أما ما أورده الشيخ الإلهي في أوائل طبيعيات كتابه بأن القابلية و استعداد القبول ليست أمورا جوهرية بل ينبغي أن يتحقق القابل في نفسه حقيقة حتى يقبل أمرا آخر و يضاف إليه أنه قابل لأمر آخر و حامل الصور ليس نفس الاستعداد - فإن الاستعداد هو استعداد لشيء له في نفسه حقيقة.

بلى لا يمنع أن يكون الجوهر الحامل للصورة ربما يسمى هيولى باعتبار القبول كما أن النفس يسمى نفسا باعتبار تدبيرها للبدن فيكون هذه الإضافات أجزاء لمفهوم الاسم لا للحقيقة الجوهرية.

ففيه بحث لأن نسبة القابلية و الاستعداد إلى الهيولى كنسبة الفاعلية و الإيجاد إلى البارئ تعالى فكما دل البرهان على أن سلسلة التأثير ينتهي إلى مؤثر يكون بذاته مؤثرا و إلها و ليست إلهيته و تأثيره بصفة زائدة و إلا لكان مفتقرا في اتصافه بتلك الصفة إلى أمر يضم إليه و إلى إلهية سابقة على هذه الإلهية و هو ممتنع لانجراره إلى لزوم الدور أو التسلسل الباطلان بالذات كما سنحقق في مقامه فكذاك سلسلة الحاجة و الافتقار الاستعدادي ينتهي إلى شيء ذاته محض الفاقة و الافتقار و كما أن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٧٢

معنى عينية الصفات في الموجود الأول جل اسمه ليس أن المفهومات الإضافية التي لا وجود لها إلا في العقل هي عين ذات الشيء الذي هو صرف الوجود المجهول الكنه.

بل معنى ذلك كونه بذاته منشأ لحكاية تلك الصفات و منبعاً لانتزاعها عقلاً - كما أنه منبع لوجودات الأشياء خارجاً فكذلك حكم عينية الاستعداد للهيولي فإنها عبارة عن جهة فقر الأشياء و قصوراتها في الوجود العيني كما أن الإمكان الذاتي عبارة عن جهة فقر الذوات و قصورات الماهيات بحسب تقومها في مرتبة الذات و الماهية.

و لا يذهب على أحد أن كون الشيء بحسب جوهر ذاته متعلق الوجود بغيره لا يوجب كونه من مقولة المضاف بالذات لأن المتضائفين مفهومان ذهنيان كليان يعقل كل منهما مع الآخر و ليس كذلك حال الوجودات العينية إذا كان بعضها مستحيل الانفكاك عن الآخر و إلا لكان جميع الوجودات داخلية تحت جنس المضاف بالذات و ليس كذلك.

بيان ذلك أن الجاعل بنفس ذاته جاعل و المجعول بنفس جوهره مفاض و بالجعل البسيط مجعول فالباري بنفس حقيقته القدسية فياض للأشياء و مع ذلك تعالى عن أن تكون واقعة تحت جنس فضلاً عن وقوعه تحت جنس المضاف الذي هو أضعف الأعراض.

و أما النفس في نفسيتها فإن كانت بجوهرها متعلقة الوجود بغيرها تعلقاً شوقياً تدبيرياً أو طولياً كان حالها ما ذكرنا من حال الوجودات المتعلقة بغيرها بالذات و إن كان نحو العلاقة مختلفاً و إن كانت النفسية جائزة الزوال و الانفكاك عنها فقياس ارتباطها على ارتباط الهيولي بغيرها قياس بلا جامع و أما قوله قدس سره بعد ذلك و لا يجوز أن يقال الأمر الجوهري حقيقة نفسه - متقومة بالقوة و الاستعداد و هو نفس الاستعداد فإن جزء الجوهر من جميع الوجوه لا يصح أن يكون عرضاً و إلا لم يكن الشيء جوهرًا محضاً بل مجموع جوهر و عرض.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ٥، ص ٧٣

فالجواب أن كثيراً ما يعبر عن حقائق الفصول الذاتية بلوازمها العرضية كما مر ذكره غير مرة و هذا من باب تعريف القوى بأفعالها الذاتية فالقوة الفاعلة يعرف بفعلها الخاص و القوة الانفعالية يعرف بانفعالها.

و الحق أن تعريف العقل بإدراك المعقولات و تعريف القوة الحيوانية بالإحساس و التحريك و القوة النباتية بالتغذية و التنمية كلها مما أقيمت مقام الحدود و إن كانت المذكورات بظواهر مفهوماتها أعراضاً نسبية لكن الفصول الحقيقية هي ما يعبر عنها بهذه الأمور التي هي علاماتها و لوازمها.

إذاً لا يمكن الحكاية عنها إلا بهذه اللوازم فكذلك الحال في الهيولي و سائر القوى الانفعالية من حيث إنها انفعالية و السر في الجميع أن أنحاء الوجودات البسيطة لا سبيل إلى معرفتها إلا باللوازم أو بالمشاهدة الإشراقية و أن ذا الحد المنطقي المركب من الجنس و الفصل ليس إلا الماهية الكلية النوعية.

و ربما يكون الوجود نحواً بسيطاً و الماهية اللازمة له مركباً حدها من جزئين - كل منهما داخل في الماهية خارج عن ذلك الوجود إلا أنها بجزءيه حكاية عن حقيقة ذلك الوجود لازمة له بحسب حاق مرتبته فيضطر الإنسان إلى ذكرهما عند الإشارة إليه فيقال لهما حد ذلك الوجود اضطراباً مع أن الوجود مما لا حد له و قد حقق الشيخ هذا في الحكمة المشرقية.

و قريب منه ما أورده شرف الله نفسه في كتاب المباحث جواباً عن مثل ذلك الإشكال حيث قال و هاهنا سؤال و هو أنه

إن كان فصل الهيولى هو الإمكان و الهيولى جوهر و فصول الجواهر جواهر فيجب أن يكون الإمكان جوهرًا و قد أبطل هذا و إن لم يكن الإمكان فصله و لأنه لازم فقد كان قبل الإمكان ممكناً لأنها لا تنفك عن الإمكان. و الجواب عن هذا أن فصل الهيولى لا يعرف لأن الهيولى من حيث هي هيولى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٧٤

مجردة ليس ممكناً و لا غير ممكن بل يلزمه الإمكان معناه أنه إذا عقلت عقل معها الإمكان فلا ينفك عنه انتهى كلامه. و هو كما يظهر عند التعمق عين ما ذكرناه إذ غرضه أن الهيولى لكونها جوهرًا بسيطًا و فصول البسائط الوجودية يكون بحيث لا يمكن التعبير عنها إلا بلوازمها المنتزعة عن حاق حقيقتها عندنا يتصور في الذهن و لو بحسب التقدير و الهيولى ليست حقيقتها إلا قوة الحقائق و إمكانها الاستعدادي كما يدل عليه برهان وجودها. فهذا الإمكان تمام ذاتها و كمال حقيقتها من حيث هي قوة الصور الجوهرية - كما أن الحركة كمال ما بالقوة من الأوصاف العرضية من حيث هو بالقوة فيها. و أما ما اعترض ثالثًا بقوله و الاستعداد لا يكون حاملًا لما هو استعداد له - كيف و قد قيل إن الاستعداد للشيء لا يبقى مع حصوله فإذا كانت الهيولى هي الاستعداد أو جزؤها الاستعداد للصورة فلا يبقى مع الصورة و كلامنا في حامل الصورة.

فجوابه أن وحدة الهيولى كما سنحقق وحدة مبهمة لأن لها في ذاتها استعداد كافة الصور و الأعراض و كلما خرج منها إلى الفعل بطل ما بحسبه من الاستعداد فلم يكن الهيولى استعدادًا له بل لغيرها. و لهذا قيل إن وحدة الهيولى جنسية ليست شخصية و أولوا كلام من قال من الحكماء إن هيولى عالم العناصر واحدة بالشخص بأن غرضه أن الهيولى لها تشخص حصل لها من الهيئة العارضة من الصور و الأعراض جملة و لا شك في أن مجموع الجواهر و الأعراض شخص واحد. و تحقيق ذلك أن للهيولى في ذاتها لكونها أمرًا عقليًا وحدة كوحدة عارضة للمعقولات المشتركة بين الحقائق المتكثرة النوعية في الذهن عند ملاحظة العقل إياها واحدة في الذهن متشخصة بتشخصات العقل فحال الهيولى في وحدتها الشخصي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٧٥

العقلي كحال الأجناس في وحدتها الذهني الاشتراكي. و كثيرا ما يصرح الشيخ و أتباعه أن للجنس الذي للمركبات استعدادا لوجود الفصول و مع ذلك اتصافه ببعض الفصول لا يبطل استعداده لسائر الفصول و ذلك لأن وحدته مبهمة تجامع التكثر كما أن تشخصه لا يابى العموم و الاشتراك فكذلك حكم الهيولى في كونها استعدادا فإنها ليست استعدادا واحدا بل في كل مرتبة يقترن بصورة تصير استعدادا لصورة أخرى.

و أيضا الحكماء فرقوا بين القوة و الاستعداد بوجوه ثلاثة ذكرها الشيخ الرئيس في بعض رسائله و ذلك لأن القوة يكون على الضدين بالسوية فإن كل إنسان يقوى على أن يفرح و يحزن إلا أن منهم من هو مستعد للفرح و منهم من هو

مستعد للحزن و كذلك الحكم في الغضب و الخوف و سائر الانفعالات.
و لأن القوة ما تكون بعيدة و الاستعداد يكون قريبا و القوة يتفاوت شدة و ضعفا و الاستعداد لا يكون إلا واحدا هو القوة الشديدة.

و بالجملة الاستعداد استكمال للقوة بالقياس إلى أحد المتقابلين فالهيولى الأولى هي بالقوة كل شيء فبعض ما يحصل فيها يعوقها عن بعض فيحتاج المعوق عنه إلى زواله و بعض ما فيها لا يعوق عن بعض آخر ولكنه يحتاج إلى ضميمة أخرى حتى يتم الاستعداد و هذه القوة هي قوة بعيدة.

و أما القوة القريبة فهي التي لا يحتاج إلى أن يقارنها قوة فاعلية قبل القوة الفاعلية التي ينفع عنها فالشجرة مثلا ليست بالقوة مفتاحا بل يحتاج إلى أن يلقاها أولا قوة قالة ثم ناشرة ثم ناحته ثم بعد ذلك يتهيا لأن ينفع من ملاقة القوة الفاعلية المفتاحية فيصير مفتاحا.

فظهر أن الهيولى ليست استعدادا واحدا نحو صورة واحدة حتى يبطل ذاته بوجود تلك الصورة بل هي قوة مطلقة لجميع الصور و ليست في ذاتها واحدة بالعدد بل بالمعنى.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٧٦

و ليست أيضا جوهرًا مستقلا في الوجود حتى يكون وحدتها وحدة معينة - بل هي في وجودها تابعة لوجود صورة ما مطلقة يحصل طبيعتها المطلقة محصل واحد بالعدد مستقل في الوجود و يقيمها مقيم عقلي مشخص.
و إن أردت إيضاح ذلك فانظر إلى حال البدن كيف يصحبه قوة مستمرة للهيئات و الصور المتبدلة للأعضاء و غيرها و استعداداتها المتعاقبة فلم يزل يلزمه ما دام في هذه النشأة نقص و بحسبه قوة مستمرة نحو الاستكمال طور بعد طور و حالا غب حال - بحيث يتبدل فيه جميع الصور التي للأعضاء و الأمشاج و مع ذلك محفوظ الوحدة الشخصية للصور المطلقة و للاستعداد المطلق بنفس شخصيته باقية من أول العمر إلى آخر الأجل.

فقس عليه حال عالم العناصر في وحدتها الشخصية و وحدة الهيولى التي هو قوة محضة مستمرة إلى آخر الدهر مع تبدل الصور و تعدد الاستعدادات و سيجيء فصل إيضاح في مباحث التلازم إن شاء الله تعالى.

و من هناك يظهر خطأ جماعة من المتأخرين كالعلامة الخفري و غيره - زعموا أن الهيولى شخص واحد يتوارد عليه الصور و الهيئات و مثلوها بالبحر و الصور بالأمواج و لو عكسوا الأمر لكان يشبه أن يكون أولى فإن وجود الهيولى تابعة لوجود الصورة فكيف يكون المتنوع متعددا و التابع بما هو تابع واحدا شخصيا.

و قد برهن على أن ما بالفعل مطلقا متقدم على ما بالقوة و أما القوة الجزئية - فهي متقدمة على الفعل الذي هو قوة عليه و كل قوة تابعة لفعل متقدم و هي إمكان لفعل يتقدم عليه و يضاف إليه فالقوة على الرجولية تابعة للصورة الطفولية مقترنة بها و القوة على الطفولية تابعة للصورة المنوية و القوة عليها تابعة للصورة الدموية و القوة عليها تابعة لصورة الغذاء.

و هكذا متعاقبة إلى ما يقارن صور البسائط ثم يعود إلى صور المركبات تارة أخرى بغير واسطة أو بواسطة تردها من بسيط إلى بسيط حتى ينتهي إلى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٧٧

المركب فلا يزال الاستعدادات تابعة للصور بوجه آخر كالمد و الجزر للبحر و الطلوع و الغروب للفلكيات و القبض و البسط للصوفي.

و أما النقص على التعريف الذي ذكرناه للهيولى أي الجوهر القابل للصور الحسية بأن من الصور الجسمانية ما ليست بحسية سيما صور الأفلاك فإنها غير محسوسة.

فالجواب أن المراد منها ما يقبل الإشارة الحسية و إن لم يكن أمرا مدركا بإحدى الحواس الظاهرة و إطلاق الحسي على ما يقابل العقلي شائع كثير.

و لأحد أن يورد في تعريف الهيولى بدل الحسية الجسمانية فيقول الهيولى جوهر قابل للصور الجسمانية ثم يعرف الجسم بأنه جوهر من شأنه أن يعقد بالإشارة الحسية أو يمكن فيه فرض ثلاث متقاطعات على التقاطع العمودي كما مر

فصل (٣) في إثبات الجوهر الهولاني

لما بطل المذاهب القائلة بانفصال الجسم إلى أجزاء لا تقبل القسمة المقدارية أصلا جوهرية كانت كما عليه المتكلمون تبعا لعبارات بعض من تقدم عهده عهد أفلاطون و أرسطو من الفلاسفة قبل نضج الحكمة و تمامها أو عرضية كما عليه النظام و الضرار و النجار أو لا تقبل الفكية فقط دون غيرها كما رآه بعض آخر مثل ديمقراطيس و أصحابه ثبت أن حقيقة الجسم غير خارجة عن اتصال و متصل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٧٨

في نفسه كما هو عند الحس قابلا للانفصال و ليس انفصاله و اتصاله تباعد الأجزاء و تجاورها بل زوال الوحدة و حدوث الانفصال أو زوال الانفصال و حدوث الاتصال.

و بالجملة مثل هذه الحقيقة لا بد أن يكون وحدتها الشخصية هي نحو اتصالها و متصلتها كما أن وحدة العدد و شخصيتها ليست إلا انفصالها و تعددها و كما أن بطلان كثرة العدد يبطل هويتها الانفصالية فبطلان وحدة الاتصال في الجسم يبطل هويته الاتصالية فإذا تحقق للجسم اتصال و تحقق قبوله الانفصال و تحقق أن القابل و ما يلزمه يجب بقاء وجوده مع المقبول و الاتصال نفسه لا يبقى مع الانفصال - لما علمت أن الوحدة مقابلة للكثرة فلو لم يكن في الجسم شيء يقبل الانفصال لكان إما أن يقبل الاتصال مقابلة ضده أو عدمه.

و إما أن يكون الفصل إعداماً لهويته الاتصالية بالتمام و إيجاد الهويتين الاتصاليتين الآخرين من كتم العدم من غير رباط بحسب الذات بين هاتين و تلك و كذا عند التحام الهويتين متصلا واحدا إذا لم يكن قابل غير الاتصال يقبل الاتصال يلزم أن يقبل الشيء نفسه - أو يكون الوصل إعداماً لهويتين و إحداثاً لهوية واحد من غير جامع بين هذه و بين تينك و الأولان باطلان بالضرورة.

و كذا الثانيان للفرق الضروري بين الفصل و بين إعدام جسم بكليته و إحداث جسمين آخرين و كذا بين الوصل و إعدام جسمين و إحداث جسم ثالث كماء الجرة يجعل في الكيزان أو ماء الكيزان يجعل في الجرة فذلك الأمر الباقي في الحاليين - هو المراد بالهيولى و هو استعداد محض ليس في نفسه هوية اتصالية ليمتنع طريان

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٧٩

الكثرة و الانفصال عليها مع بقائها بحالها و لا هوية انفصالية كالوحدات الجوهرية - أو غير الجوهرية ليمتنع طريان الوحدة و الاتصال عليه بل وحدتها و اتصالها بحلول الصورة الاتصالية فيها و كثرتها و انفصالها بطريان الانفصال عليها. ثم إذا ظهر لك أن أدنى مراتب الوجودية بالفعل هو الوجود الاتصالي و الانفصالي - الذين لا جامعية لشيء منهما بالقياس إلى نفسه و أجزاء ذاته و أن الوجود الانفصالي - لما كان أدونهما مرتبة في الخسة و القصور فلم ينل من منبع الوجود إلا مرتبة أنزل - من أن يتصف بالتجوهر من دون حامل يحمل ذاته حسب ما برهن على استحالة جوهرية الأفراد الانفصالية.

و بطل كون المنفصلات و الآحاد الوضعية موجودا مستقلا و الموجود من الموجود العددي ليس إلا عرضا قائما بغيره و إنما المتألف من الوحدات لا يستحق إلا نحوا عرضيا من الوجود و كذا الغير القار من المقادير لا يسع إلا الوجود العرضي كما سنحقق.

فظهر أن لا أدون منزلة من الجواهر الصورية إلا الهوية الاتصالية الجسمية - و لا شك أن مادة الشيء وجودها أنقص من ذلك الشيء كيف و نسبتها إليه نسبة الشيء إلى التمام و قد فرغنا من تحقيق هذا في مباحث العلل الأربع فما ظنك بأمر يكون مادة يكون صورتها أضعف الصور فهل إلا قابل محض لا حظ لها من الفعلية.

فمثل هذه المادة يجب أن يكون حقيقتها قوة متقومة بفعل ما أي فعلية كانت - و مادة متحصلة بتعيين ما أي تعيين كان حتى إنها يستتم ماهيتها بالفصل ما يستتم بالوصل - و يتقوم بالكثرة كما يتقوم بالوحدة و يبقى مع الفساد كما يبقى مع الكون و يقبل الخير كما يقبل الشر و إنما يحصل الاستمرار و البقاء لأنها لازمة لمطلق الصور المنحفظ نوعيتها بتعاقب الأشخاص بإبقاء مقيم قدسي يديم بعنايته عالم الأجسام و صورها و توابعها اللازمة و يحفظ أنواعها بتوارد أفرادها و يبقى وجوداتها و خيراتها و يجبر نقصاناتها و ضرورها و آفاتها و نقائصها بتعقيب أمثالها و أشباحها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٨٠

أبحاث و تحقيقات -

[بحث]

قال صاحب البصائر و هو ابن سهلان الساجي معترضا على الحجة المذكورة - إن الانفصال عدمي و العدمي لا يحتاج إلى قابل يقبله و إلا لكان في العدم قوابل موجودة غير متناهية قبل وجود الأشياء.

و دفعه بأن الانفصال إن كان عبارة عن حدوث هويتين اتصاليتين فذاك و إن كان عبارة عن عدم اتصال فليس كل عديم الاتصال منفصلا حتى يكون العقل منفصلا و النقطة منفصلة بل لا بد مع ذلك من إضافة إلى محل يبقى معه و له استعداد ما يقابله فكما أن البصر يضاف إلى محل و عضو يتصور بصورة المرئي و يقبل قوة بها يرسم الألوان فكذلك العمى الذي هو بطلان تلك القوة عن العضو القابل نوعا أو شخصا و كما لا يقبل السواد البياض بل محله كذلك لا يقبل البصر العمى بل محله - فعلى هذا القياس لا يقبل الاتصال الانفصال بل محله.

و قد علمت أن قابل الاتصال لكونه محض القابلية يكفيه أقل جهة يتهيأ بها لورود الأشياء عليه لغاية عرية في ذاته عن الصورة فنسبته إلى الاتصال و زواله ثم عوده كنسبة واحدة فيقبل العود ثم العود بخلاف غيرها من القوابل الشواني لتصورها بصورها المقومة إياها الموجبة لاستعدادها و قبولها لما يحتاج إلى مزيد تأثير من مؤثر قوي لينفعل به و ينتقل

من أحد المتقابلين إلى الآخر بل ربما يفعل من أحد الطرفين بحيث يبطل استعداده لغيره أو للطرف الآخر كالمصور بصورة تامة لا أتم منها و كالمصور بصورة فلكية أو كوكبية لا ضد لها ولا ند ولا فساد يعترىها إلا على نحو الفناء المطلق كما هو عند أشرف الملة والحكمة فليس حال الهيولى الأولى من هذه الجهة بالقياس إلى الوصل والفصل حال العين بالقياس إلى البصر والعمى وحال الإنسان بالقياس إلى العلم والجهل.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٨١

بحث آخر -

قالوا سلمنا أن الانفصال يحتاج إلى قابل ولكن قابله نفس الجسم وهو الهيولى الأولى لا غير. وجوابه أنا نهنا على أن الاتصال المقوم للجسم ليس ما يتبدل عليه كأبعاد الشمعة وامتداداتها فإنها لا يخل تبدلها بحقيقة الجسمية بل بكميتها التعليمية واما الاتصال المقوم للجسمية فمتى زال لم يبق جسم كان أولا حتى يقبل الانفصال فالقابل له معنى مباين للجسمية.

ثبت أن الاتصال ليس نفسه هو الجسم وتوضيحه على نمط ثاني الأشكال أن الجسم قابل للانفصال وليس الاتصال بنفسه قابلا للانفصال فليس الجسم هو الاتصال بنفسه وفي قوة هذا الكلام أن الجسم لا يعقل إلا بالاتصال وكل ما هو كذلك فليس الاتصال خارجا عن حقيقته.

فظهر من هذا القول القياسي أن الاتصال غير خارج عن حقيقة الجسم ومن القول القياسي السابق أنه ليس كل حقيقته فكل ما ليس خارجا عن حقيقة شيء - ولا كل حقيقته فهو جزؤه فالأصل يكون جزء الجسم.

فإذا ثبت هذا لزم أن يكون الهيولى غير الجسم نفسه فبطل أن يكون القابل للاتصال نفس الجسم بل جزءه فله جزء آخر غير الاتصال فيتركب حقيقة الجسم عن الاتصال وما يقبله فيكون للاتصال صورة جوهرية والقابل مادة جوهرية وهذا هو المرام.

بحث آخر -

إن بناء الحجة المذكورة على تركيب الجسم من جوهرين على وجود الاتصال - الذي هو بمعنى الممتد الجوهري و نحن لا نسلم في الجسم إلا الاتصال الذي قيل إنه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٨٢

من فصول الكم وما سواه ممنوع إذ القدر الذي ثبت من نفي الجواهر الفردة ليس إلا جوهرها شأنه الاتصال والامتداد و قبوله للأبعاد و أما أن الامتداد نفس حقيقة الجسم أو جزؤه فلم يثبت.

وما قيل من أنك إذا شكلت الشمعة بأشكال مختلفة تغيرت أبعاده مع بقاء اتصال واحد فغير مسلم فإن الشمعة المتبدلة الأشكال لا يخلو عن تفرق اتصال و توصل بعد افتراق فالمطولة إذا جعلت مستديرة يجتمع فيها أجزاء كانت متفرقة و المدورة إذا جعلت مستطيلة يفترق فيها أجزاء كانت متصلة فاتصال واحد مستمر على تفرق الاتصال و توزع الامتدادات غير صحيح.

و بوجه آخر أن نقول الاتصال الذي يبطله الانفصال ثم يعود منه بعد زوال الانفصال لا شك في عرضيته فإن الجسم عند

توارد الانفصال والاتصال عليه باق بماهيته و نوعيته لا يتغير فيه جواب ما هو و كل ما لا يتغير بتغيره جواب ما هو عن شيء فهو عرض فالاتصال الذي يبطله الانفصال عرض.

و بوجه آخر إنكم أثبتتم في الجسم امتدادا جوهريا هو الصورة الجسمية و امتدادا عرضيا هو المقدار التعليمي و الامتداد من حيث ماهية الامتداد حقيقة واحدة- و الحقيقة الواحدة لا تختلف بالجهرية و العرضية. فإذا ثبت عرضية بعض أفرادها عندكم على ما ذكرتم من حديث تبدل أشكال الشمعة الواحدة فقد وجب عرضية الجميع فهذه وجوه ثلاثة يشترك جميعها في نفي الامتداد الجوهري عن الجسم فهي في الحقيقة ترجع إلى إنكار الصورة لا إنكار الهيولى.

و قد مر أن صاحب التلويحات ذهب إلى أن حقيقة الجسم مركب من جوهر قابل و امتداد عرضي هو نفس المقدار المسمى بالجسم التعليمي بناء على تجويزه تقوم الجوهر الجسماني من جوهر و عرض قائم به و لكن يجاب عن إشكالاته من قبل المشاءين.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٨٣

أما عن الأول فبأن الجسم من حيث هو جسم لا يتصور بدون قابلية الأبعاد الثلاثة على نعت الاتصال. و لهذا حدد بها و لو لم يكن متصلا في مرتبة ذاته لم يصح قبوله للمقدار كما سبق من العبارة المنقولة عن الشيخ في الحكمة الفارسية.

و حاصلها أن نفس ذات الجسمية بما هي هي لو لم تكن متصلة واحدة في حد جوهريتها بل كان اتصالها من قبل العارض لكانت بحسب وجود ذاتها إما متألفة من الجواهر الأفراد متناهية أو غير متناهية أو يكون من قبيل المجردات عن الأحياء- و الأبعاد و الجهات ثم يعرضها الاتصال و قابلية الانفصال أو يلحقها التعلق بالأبعاد و الجهات و كلا الشقين باطل.

فبقي أن يكون الجسم متصلا في حد حقيقته و ذاته فقابلية الجسم للأبعاد إنما يتصور إذا كان متصلا باتصال ثابت له في حد نفسه و ما ثبت للجوهر في حد نفسه يكون إما تمام ذاته أو جزءها و جزء الجوهر جوهر فيكون الاتصال جوهرا. و لقائل أن يقول إن هذا الكلام إنما يتم لو ثبت أن تقوم الجوهر بالعرض ممتنع و لم يقد برهان بعد على استحالة تقومه بعرض هو أحد جزأيه القائم بجوهر هو جزؤه الآخر كالجسم عند القائلين بتركبه عن الهيولى و عن امتداد عرضي يقوم بها فذلك الامتداد و إن كان معتبرا في حقيقة الجسم عندهم لكنه عرض البتة.

لا يقال نحن نجري الكلام إلى جزئه الجوهري فيلزم أن يكون ممتدا في حد نفسه مع قطع النظر عن عروض الامتداد له. لأننا نقول هذا بعينه و ارد عليكم منقوض بالهيولى التي أثبتتم فإن الهيولى عندكم متصلة باتصال يرد عليها من قبل الصورة فهي في حد ذاتها غير متصلة و لا منفصلة.

و أما قولكم لو لم يكن الجسم في حد ذاته متصلا واحدا يلزم أن يكون أجزاء لا تتجزى كما يستفاد من عبارة الشيخ في الحكمة العلائية و التجرد له عن الأحياء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٨٤

و الأمكنة فهو أيضا مشترك الورد.

و الجواب عن الموضوعين أن عدم اتصال الشيء في نفسه لا يوجب له التركيب من المنفصلات الأفرادية و لا يستلزم فيه التجرد له عن الأحياء و الأمكنة في الواقع - بل خلوه عن الاتصال بحسب مرتبة ذاته بذاته و إنما يلزم ذلك لو أوجب خلوه الشيء بحسب مرتبته عن الاتصال و المقادير و الأبعاد خلوه عنها بحسب الواقع و ليس كذلك بل القابل للاتصال لا ينفك عن لزوم اتصال ما و انفصال يقابله في الواقع لامتناع تجرده عنه.

فقد ظهر أن قابليته للأبعاد لا يوجب أن يكون القابل متصلا في حد نفسه.

هذا لكننا نجيب عن ذلك بأن هذا الذي ذكرتم من حكاية كون الشيء متصلا في نفس الأمر غير متصل في مرتبة الذات و لا منفصل و لا متحيز و لا متجرد إنما يصح إذا كان ذلك الشيء مما لا قوام له بنفسه و لا في مرتبة نفسه بل يكون نفسه مع نفسه بالقوة و الإمكان و يكون ذاته استعدادا محضا متحصلا بما يقترنه متصلا باتصاله منفصلا بانفصاله و هذا مما يوجب الاعتراف بكون الجوهر الذي ليس في نفسه متصلا و لا منفصلا هيولى متقومة باتصال واحد و انفصال متعدد غير مستغنية عما يجعلها متصلة - أو منفصلة في نفس الأمر فيكون الاتصال جوهرًا صوريا يقوم الهيولى بوحدته عند الاتصال الواحد و بكثرته عند الانفصال المتعدد حتى لا يلزم خلوه الهيولى في نفس الأمر عن التجسم و التحيز و لا كونهما مع قطع النظر عن الصور إما جوهرًا فردًا أو أمرًا مفارقًا لكون مرتبة ذاتها على تقدير جوهرية الصورة متأخرة الوجود عن وجود صورة ما فجوهرية الاتصال الصوري و تقوم الهيولى بها يوجب أن لا يكون للهيولى مرتبة في الواقع يكون بحسبها عارية عن الأحياء و الأبعاد.

و أما لو كانت الهيولى متجوهرة بذاتها مع قطع النظر عن الاتصال و يكون الاتصال عرضًا قائمًا غير مقوم لها بل مقوما للجسم فقط كما زعمه صاحب التلويحات فالمحذور لازم لا مدفع له.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٨٥

و هذا هو الذي حداهم إلى إثبات جوهرية الصورة.

فقد ثبت بهذا البيان أن الحال قد يكون جوهرًا و بنزع الأمر أيضا فيما ادعيناه من أنه لو لم يكن امتداد جوهرى في الوجود لم يكن لشيء من الكميات المتصلة و المقادير القارة و غير القارة وجود أصلا فكن على بصيرة في هذا الأمر.

و أما الجواب عن الإشكال الثاني فبان بقاء جسم واحد شخصي بشخصيته - عند تعاقب الاتصال و الانفصال غير صحيح بل الصحيح خلافه و بقاءه بنوعه لا ينافي جوهرية الاتصال.

قوله كل ما لا يتغير بتغيره جواب ما هو فهو عرض كلام مجمل يفتقر إلى ما يبينه.

و الحق أن كل ما لا يتغير بتغيره جواب ما هو عن شيء مع بقاءه بحالته الشخصية و لو بحسب ذاته و هويته فهو من عوارض حقيقته و أما إذا تبدل بتبدله الشخص إلى شخص آخر فهذا مما يصح كونه من الذاتيات و الجسم إذا طرأ عليه الانفصال لم يبق هويته الشخصية بحالها بل ينعدم و يحدث بدلها هويتان أخريان.

أ و لا ترى أن استمرار طبيعة نوعية جوهرية مع تواردها أشخاصها و انحفاظ جواب ما هو فيها عند تبادل جزئياتها لا يدل على كون تلك الأشخاص أعراضا.

نعم ما ذكرناه إنما يدل على كون الأشخاص و المشخصات أمورا عرضية للطبيعة فإن كل ما لا يتبدل بتبدله جواب ما هو

فهو عرضي بمعنى محمول خارجي - لا أنه عرض بمعنى المفتقر في تقومه إلى الموضوع فرب عرضي لشيء يكون جوهرًا في نفسه كما سلف فكل واحد من الاتصالات الشخصية عرضي لماهية الجسم - ومع ذلك الجسم متقوم بطبيعة الاتصال ماهية و الهولي متقومة بها وجودا وهذا شأن الجواهر الصورية كما سيجي. و أما الجواب عن الإشكال الثالث فهو من جهتين.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٨٦

الأول أنا لا نسلم أن الامتداد و الاتصال طبيعة واحدة و مفهوم واحد بل قد مر أن هاهنا اشتراكا لفظيا يطلق تارة على مفهوم جوهرى هو كفصل مقوم لماهية الجسم مقسم لجنس الجوهر و أخرى على مفهوم عرضي هو بمنزلة فصل مقسم لجنس الكم.

و الثاني أن الامتداد و إن كان مفهوما واحدا إلا أنه قد يؤخذ طبيعة مطلقة من غير تخصص بحد معين و مساحة معينة و هو بهذا الاعتبار مقوم للجسم بحسب التقرر و محصل للهولي بحسب الوجود و قد يؤخذ متخصصا بحد معين ممسوحا بمساحة كذا و كذا متناهية أو غير متناهية لو صح غير المتناهي في المتصلات و هو بهذا الاعتبار عرض خارج عن حقيقة الجسم إذ بتغيرها و تغير شخصياتها عند تبدل الأشكال على الشمعة مثلا لا يتغير الجسمية المعينة و إن تبدل مقدارها المعين.

لست أقول مرتبة ممسوحيتها لأنها أمر كلي محفوظ عند تبدل خصوصيات أبعاد الشمعة و إنما يتغير المساحة بالتدخل و التكاثف الحقيقيين.

و تحقيق الكلام في هذا المرام بحيث لا يزل أقدام الأفهام بأغاليط الأوهام - الموهومة لعقول الأنام يحتاج إلى بيان حقيقة الجسم يعني التعليمي بالمعنى الذي هو من عوارض الجسم و كمياتها و امتيازها عن الاتصال الجوهرى الداخل فيها من حيث القوام.

اعلم أنهم اختلفوا في حقيقته و تشعبوا إلى أقوال.

فأحدها أنه عرض متصل يمكن فيه فرض الخطوط الثلاثة على وجه التقاطع بالزوايا القوائم و يكون اتصاله غير اتصال الجوهر الممتد فعلى هذا يكون في الجسم متصلا.

أحدهما صورة جوهرية و الآخر صفة عرضية و يكون أحدهما كما و الآخر متكاملا به و أحدهما قابلا للقسمة العقلية الكلية غير متعينة الأبعاد و الآخر قابلا للقسمة الوهمية الجزئية متعينا في أبعاده الثلاثة ممسوحا بمساحة معينة لكنهما متحدان في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٨٧

الوضع و الإشارة الحسية و لا يخفى فساده لورود ثالث الإشكالات عليه.

و ثانيها أنه متصل بالذات و يكون به ممتدية الجسم الطبيعي بالعرض - و هذا مردود بما علمت أن الجسم في مرتبة ماهيته متصل و فصله الذي يمتاز به عن الجواهر الغير الجسمانية ليس إلا مفهوم قولنا قابل للأبعاد الثلاثة و علمت بالبرهان أنه لو لا اتصال الجوهرى في الموجودات لما صح لشيء من الأشياء الموجودة - صفة الوحدة الاتصالية و لما

صدق على شيء حمل المتصل لا بالذات ولا بالعرض.
و ثالثها أنه مجموع أمور ثلاثة هي الطول و العرض و العمق للجسم و فيه أن هذه الأبعاد ليست بنعت الكثرة موجودة في الجسم و الجسم التعليمي من الموجودات الخارجية بالفعل.
و رابعها أن في الجسم اتصالا واحدا منسوبا إلى الصورة الجسمية بالذات - و إلى مقدارها التعليمي بالعرض فحينئذ إما أن يراد بالجسم التعليمي نفس تعيين امتداد الجسم و تحدد انبساطه في الجهات فلزم أن لا يكون من مقولة الكم و إما أن يراد به الصورة الجسمية مأخوذة مع التعيين المذكور محيثة بالحيثية المذكورة فكان له اتصال بالذات لا بأمر خارج عن ذاته بل من جهة اشتمال ذاته على الصورة الجسمية و يشبه أن يكون هذا هو الذي اختاره المحققون و يوافقه كلام الشيخ في الشفاء و التعليقات - و كلام تلميذه في التحصيل.
و توضيحه ما أفاده بعضهم أن ليس في الجسم إلا ممتد واحد في الجهات - فإذا اعتبر ذلك الممتد في الجهات على الإطلاق بدون تعيين امتداداته تعينا في التقدير

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٨٨

و تحصلا مقداريا سواء كان مقدارا مطلقا أو مقدارا مخصوصا فكان بهذا الاعتبار صورة جسمية و جوهرًا و إن اعتبر من حيث هو متعين بتعين مقدار ما كان جسما تعليميا مطلقا و إذا اعتبر من حيث هو متعين مخصوص كان جسما تعليميا مخصوصا.
و أورد عليه أنه لزم أن لا يكون الجسم التعليمي عرضا بل يكون مركبا من جوهر هو الجسمية و عرض و هو تعيين الامتداد.
و قد أجيب عنه بما حاصله أن المفهوم المركب من الجوهر عند القدماء و العرض و إن لم يكن عرضا إذ لا يكون له محل أصلا لكن المركب من معنى الجوهر عند مثبتي الهيولى حيث أخذوا الموضوع في تعريفه بدل المحل و العرض يجوز أن يصدق عليه تعريف العرض فيكون عرضا إذ لا خفاء في أن المجموع المركب من الصورة و حيثيتها العرضية مندرج تحت مفهوم العرض فإن الهيولى و إن لم تكن بالنسبة إلى الصورة وحدها موضوعا لاحتياجها في التقوم إليها لكنها بالنسبة إلى المجموع المركب منها و من العرض يكون موضوعا لاستغنائها عن المجموع من حيث هو مجموع.
و فيه بحث لأن الإشكال هاهنا ليس مجرد كون هذا المجموع مما يصدق عليه مفهوم العرض أم لا بل العمدة في الإشكال أن أفراد المقولات ليس بعضها داخلا في بعض و هاهنا يلزم أن يكون ماهية واحدة مركبة من مقولتين مقولة الجوهر و مقولة الكم فلم يكن واحدا نوعيا له حد حقيقي بل أمرا اعتباريا له وحدة اعتبارية

مخلص عرشي -

الحق أن معنى الجسم التعليمي الشيء الممتد المتعين الامتداد بحيث يسمح بكذا و كذا لذاته مساحة حاصلة من تكرار مكعب واحد أو ما في حكمه و ليس كون الممتد جوهرًا داخلا في هذا المفهوم أصلا كما ليس داخلا في شيء من المشتقات كونها جوهرًا أو عرضا من حيث مفهوماتها و إن لم تكن في الوجود منفكة عن إحدى الخصوصيتين - فهذا الامتداد الذي هو في الجسم إذا أخذ على الإطلاق يكون مقوما للجسم و محصلا للهيولى - و إذا أخذ متقدرا متعينا في جهاته و قطع النظر عن كونها جزءا للجسم أو صورة للهيولى

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج٥، ص ٨٩

لأن كون الشيء جزءا لشيء آخر إضافة خارجة عن مفهوم ذاته و كذا كون الشيء صورة لأمر قابل بحسب المفهوم غير داخل في مفهوم ذلك الشيء.

فيصح للعقل أن يعتبره مطلقا عن هذين الاعتبارين النسبيين فهذا الممتد المتعين الامتداد داخل تحت مقولة الكم بالذات و مفهومه بسيط عن اعتبار دخوله في الجسم و تقويمه للهولي و ليس مركبا عن المعنى الذي هو به مقوم للجسم و عن معنى آخر عرضي ليلزم تركبه عن جوهر و عرض.

و نظير ذلك أن الأبيض داخل عندهم في مقولة الكيف بالذات كما صرحوا به في مسفوراتهم و لا يكون في الوجود إلا جسما ذا بياض و ليس هو بمعنى الذي هو بحسبه نوع من الكيفيات المحسوسة مما يدخل فيه الجسمية و لا الجوهرية لا في المفهوم و لا في الوجود بل مفهومه أمر مطلق عن الخصوصيتين اللتين هي غير البياض و وجوده أيضا ليس إلا وجود ما ينفع عنه الحاسة البصرية بتفرق نورها سواء كان معه جسم أم لا و ليس كون الشيء مفتقرا في وجوده إلى مقارنة أسباب مهيئات و أمور معدات و مقدمات في عالم الحركات مما يوجب له أن يكون وجوده من حيث ذاته متقوما بها بل لو جاز أن يكون في الوجود بياض مجرد عن قابل جسماني لكان بياضا و أبيض بذاته كما أن البياض المفتقر في وجوده إلى الجسم المركب العنصري بياض و أبيض بنفسه لا بذلك الجسم فيباضية البياض و أبيضيته ليست بسبب الجسمية بل وجوده يفتقر إلى حامل يحمله لكونه نحوا ضعيفا من الوجود عرضيا فالجسم الذي له البياض قسم من الجسم مطلقا داخل في مقولة الجوهر بلا شك.

و أما إذا سقطت عنه خصوصية الجسمية و أخذ مجرد ما له البياض فهو قسم من اللون داخل في مقولة الكيف فهكذا قياس كمية الجسم التعليمي فإن الممتد القابل للأبعاد إذا أخذ كونه مقوما للجسم يكون من باب الجوهر و إذا أخذ مجرد امتداد متعين في الجهات ممسوح بعاد مشترك خطي في طوله و عرضه و عمقه أو بعاد مشترك على هيئة المكعب فهو من مقولة الكم.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج٥، ص ٩٠

و هكذا في خصوصيات أشكاله التعليمية مثل الكرة و المكعب و المخروط و الأسطوانة و غيرها فإن الكرة بما هي كرة أي مقدار محاط بنهاية واحدة تفرض في داخله نقطة يتساوى الأبعاد الخارجة إليها من تلك النقطة من مقولة الكم و بما هي مستغنية القوام عن الموضوع مستقلة في الإشارة الحسية فهي من مقولة الجوهر - و ليس مما يدخل في تقومها الجوهرية و لا في تحصلها الجسمانية الطبيعية كونها متعينة الشكل الكروي و لا متعينة الامتداد المساحي.

و قس عليه سائر الأشكال المجسمة على هذا المنوال و اشكر لله في تأييدك لدفع هذا الإشكال.

بحث آخر -

هب أن الجسم لا يخلو عن اتصال جوهرى لكنه هو المقدار لا غير و ليس في الجسم متصل سواء و هو القابل للانفصال لا ما سميتوه مادة و لا يجدي قولكم أنه لا يبقى مع الانفصال لأن ما يبطله الانفصال هو الاتصال العارض لا الاتصال الجوهرى.

و بيانه أن لفظ الاتصال كما مر قد يطلق على المعنى الحقيقي الذي لا يستدعي أن يكون بين شيئين و هذا اصطلاح خاص لا يفهمه الكافة من لفظ الاتصال و هو الممتد الجوهرى على اصطلاحهم.

و قد يطلق على المعنى الإضافي المتعارف بين الجمهور الذي لا يتصور أن يعقل إلا بين شيئين متصل و متصل به سواء كانا متعددين في الخارج ثم يحدث أو يتوهم بينهما اتصال أو يتصور للجسم المتصل الواحد أجزاء وهمية فيقال عليها إنها متصلة بعضها ببعض أو يكون في الجسم الواحد اختلاف عرضين فيقال إن محل أحدهما متصل بمحل الآخر و لا شك في عرضية الاتصال بهذا المعنى النسبي و هو الذي يقابله الانفصال - فلا يصلح أن يكون جزء الأمر جوهرى محض.

فلقائل أن يقول الاتصال بالمعنى الأول نفس الجسم و هو بعينه المقدار و لا يقابله الانفصال بل هو يقابل الاتصال بالمعنى الثانى و هما يتعاقبان على الموضوع

الحكمة المتعالية فى الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٩١

مع بقاءه بعينه فى الحالين.

و أما ما يقال إن الممتد شيء ذو امتداد أو ما له امتداد فيلزم أن يكون محل الامتداد غيره.

فقد مر أن ذلك غير لازم بل الممتد و غيره من المشتقات لا يدخل في مفهومها غير مبدأ الاشتقاق و لو سلم فيكون هذا من المجازات اللفظية و الإطلاقات العرفية على أنه لا يبتنى الحقائق العلمية على أحكام الألفاظ.

أ و لا ترى أنه يقال بعد بعيد و جسم جسيم و خط طويل و ليل أليل و غير ذلك من المشتقات التي لا يوجب زيادة ما يشتق منه على ما يحمل عليه.

فإن قيل توارد المقادير المختلفة بالصغر و الكبر على الجسم الواحد إذا تخلخل و تكاثف مع بقاءه فى الحالين يوجب عرضية المقادير فكيف حكمتهم بجوهريتها.

يجاب بأن وجود التخلخل و التكاثر الحقيقيين من فروع وجود الهيولى و إثباتهما يتوقف على إثباتها فإذا لم يكن المقدار غير الجوهر المتصل الذي هو تمام حقيقة الجسم فلم يتصور زيادة المقدار و نقصانه من غير ورود مادة عليه أو انفصالها عنه فإن زيادة المقدار على هذا التقدير بعينها زيادة أجزاء الجسم و نقصانه بنقصانها - فمرجع التخلخل و التكاثر حينئذ إلى تخلل الجسم اللطيف بين أجزاء الجسم و انفصالها عنها و اجتماعها لا الحقيقيين اللتين هما حركة جسم واحد شخصي في المقدارية - إلى حد زائد على ما كان عليه أو حد ناقص عنه فإنهما غير ثابتين بالبرهان و إنما البرهان هو المتبع فى الأحكام العقلية.

و أما إثباتهما بالقارورة المموصصة إذا كبت على الماء أو بالقمقمة الصياحة إذا وقعت فى النار فهو فى غاية الضعف سيما و قد شوهد عند الكب الحبابات الدالة على خروج الهواء و لا سبيل لنا أيضا إلى الحكم بأن الماص لم يعط من الهواء بقدر ما يأخذ منها حتى يلزم التخلخل.

و ذكر الشيخ الإلهي فى حكمة الإشراف أنه قد جرب رشح بعض الأدهان من

الحكمة المتعالية فى الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٩٢

الزجاج فلا يمنع مثل ذلك في الهواء الذي هو أطف كثيرا من الدهن.
فإن قيل اشتراك الأجسام في الجسمية وافتراقها في المقادير يوجب مغايرة المقدار للجسم فيقال لدفعه بما في حكمه الإشراف من قوله اشتراكها في الجسمية بعينه - اشتراكها في نفس المقدار المشتركة بين المقدار الصغير والكبير و اختلافها في المقادير هو بعينه اختلافها في خصوصيات الكبر والصغر و كما أن التفاوت بين المقدار الصغير والكبير - ليس بشيء زائد على المقدار بل بنفس المقدار فكذا إذا بدل لفظ المقدار بالجسم و التفاوت بالصغر والكبر بالتفاوت في المقادير يكون الاختلاف بنفس الجسمية لا غير.

و يرجع هذا الاختلاف إلى الاختلاف بالكمال و النقصان و الشدة و الضعف في نفس ماهية الشيء على ما هو رأي الإلهيين و القدماء من الرواقيين كما مر ذكره مستقصى.

و أما الجواب من قبل المشاءين فهو إنما يتأتى بأحد أمرين - أحدهما بإثبات المغايرة في التحقق بين الاتصال بالمعنى الذي هو مقوم للجسم و ليس بمقداري و بين الاتصال بالمعنى الذي هو من مقولة الكم و في إثبات هذه المغايرة طرق - أحدها أن عند طريان الانفصال ينعدم أمر جوهري عن الجسم إما تمامه أو أحد جزأيه و ذلك لأن الجسم مع الاتصال الواحد شخص واحد له وجود واحد فإذا طرأ عليه الانفصال و حصل متصلا أحدهما ساكن في المشرق و الآخر يتحرك في المغرب أحدهما أبيض و الآخر أسود مثلا فلا شبهة في أن ذلك الوجود لم يبق بشخصيته - بل انعدم و حدث شخصان آخران لاستحالة كون موجود واحد متحركا و ساكنا أسود و أبيض و إلا لزم اجتماع المتقابلين في شخص واحد لكن البديهة تحكم بثبوت جهة ارتباطية باقية في ذات المتصل الأول و هذين المتصلين الحادثين و ما هو إلا ما ادعياه و عيناه بالهيولى.

و إذا ثبت وجود جوهر استعدادي يجمع مع المتصل العظيم و الصغير و لا يخلو عن متصل ما على سبيل البدلية تحقق أن المقوم للمادة ليس إلا المتصل مطلقا في أي امتداد كان

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٩٣

و المقوم للجوهر المحصل لوجوده لا محالة يكون جوهرًا كما سيتضح بيانه إن شاء الله و تحقق أن خصوصيات المقادير مما لا مدخل لها في تقويم الهيولى فثبت عرضيتها.

و قد مر الفرق المحصل الدقيق فيما بين طبيعة الامتداد الواحد بالمعنى الذي هو جوهر مقوم للجسم و مفتقر إليها الهيولى و بينها بالمعنى الذي هو كمية خارجة عن ماهية الجسم مستغنية عنها الهيولى.

و ثانيهما إثبات التخلخل و التكاثر الحقيقيين في الأجسام و له دلائل كثيرة سوى ما ذكره من حديث اتفاق الأجسام في الجسمية و افتراقها في المقادير.

و الحق أن هذا الدليل ضعيف كما ذكره لقوة ما أورده عليه عند الإنصاف - من تجويز الاختلاف بين أفراد حقيقة واحدة بالكمال و النقص في أصل الحقيقة - سيما إذا كانت تلك الحقيقة من الحالات الخارجية الراجعة إلى انحاء الوجود للشيء.

فإن العدد و المقدار و نظائرها حالات مخصوصة عارضة لهويات الأجسام و وجوداتها و الوجود قد مر أنه مما يتفاوت و يتميز بنفس حقيقته من دون انضمام شيء إليه به يحصل التميز و التعين و التفاوت بين أفراد و أنحائه و لكن إنكار

الحركة في الكمية بحسب التزايد و التناقص و التخلخل و التكاثر الحقيقيين لا يخلو عن مكابرة لكثرة الشهادات و وفور العلامات الدالة على وجود التخلخل و مقابله مع ملاحظة امتناع الخلاء كانكسار القمقمة الصياحة و دخول اللحم في المحجمة بعد المص و بقاءه فيه ما دام رأسه مسدودا و غير ذلك من الأمور الجزئية التي يجزم العقل عند مشاهدتها بإشراق شارق الوجدان من مشارق العرفان بأن جسما واحدا يزيد و ينقص مقداره و سنعيد القول إليه في موضعه

زيادة توضيح لإعادة تهذيب و تنقيح -

قد ظهر مما سبق أن أصحاب المعلم الأول و أتباعهم كالشيخين فارابي و أبي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٩٤

علي و من يقتفي آثارهم يفترون بين مفهومي الممتد أحدهما الصورة الجسمية التي معناها الممتد على الإطلاق و الآخر المقدار المصحح لفرض الحدود المشتركة بين أجزاء المتصل الواحد و معناه الممتد المتعين الامتداد في الجهات. و ظهر أيضا أن الأول مقوم للجسم و الآخر عرض فيه و أن الامتداد بالمعنى الأول لا يتفاوت بحسبه جسم و جسم و ممتد في الجوانب عن ممتد في الجوانب فلا يكون بسببه شيء من الأجسام صغيرا أو كبيرا و لا جزءا أو كلا و لا عادا أو معددا و لا ماسحا أو ممسوحا و لا مشاركا أو مباينا بخلاف الثاني.

و لهذا اشتهر أنهم قائلون بالامتدادين الموجودين بوجودين و ليس كذلك بل لا يكون على رأيهم في الجسم إلا ممتد واحد لكنه إذا أخذ بما هو هو من دون تعيين في الامتداد فهو جوهر محض مقوم للجسم و محصل للمادة و إذا أخذ على التعيين الامتدادي المقداري متناهيًا كان أو غير متناه فهو مقدار غير مقوم للجسم و لا محصل للمادة. و يظهر الفرق بينهما بما مر منا و بإثبات التخلخل و التكاثر في الجسم - لا بتبدل أشكال شمعة واحدة فإن في موارد التخلخل و التكاثر يتبدل نفس المقدار.

و هاهنا يتبدل عوارضه التي هي مراتب انبساطه و خصوصيات أبعاده الطولية و العرضية و العمقية و أما الشيخ المؤيد بالإشراق فهو ممن أنكر الممتد بالمعنى الأول - في كتاب حكمة الإشراق محتجا عليه بوجوه ثلاثة. أحدها أنه لو يقوم الجسم الموجود في الأعيان بامتداد جوهري لكان ذلك الامتداد إما كليا أو جزئيا لا جائز أن يكون كليا لأن الكلي من حيث هو كلي لا وجود له في الأعيان و ما لا وجود له في الأعيان لا يتقوم به الموجود العيني و لا جائز أن يكون جزئيا لأنه إن كان هو الذي ثبت عرضيته و ليس في الجسم غيره فلم يكن فيه امتداد جوهري و إن كان في الجسم امتداد عرضي و آخر جوهري فذلك محال لأن الامتداد طبيعة واحدة و مفهوم واحد لا يختلف فيه جواب ما هو فلا يكون بعض

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٩٥

جزئياته جوهرًا و بعضه عرضًا و لما ثبت عرضية البعض ثبت عرضية الباقي. و ثانيها أنه لو كان في الجسم امتداد جوهري لكان في كل الجسم و في جزئه - و ما في الكل أعظم مما في الجزء فيكون قابلا للتجزية فيكون كما مقداريا.

و ثالثها أنه إذا تخلخل الجسم إن بقي الامتداد الجوهري كما كان و هو مقدار لا شك فليس في كل الجرم المتخلخل

الزائد مقدار الصورة الجسمية و هو محال و إن لم يبق ذلك الامتداد كما كان فهو إذن صار أزيد فالامتداد الجوهرى كم لذاته و هو عرض للجوهر يكون عرضا.

قيل في الجواب عن الوجه الأول بما حاصله أنه إن أراد بالكلية الكلية العقلية - اخترنا أن الممتد المقوم للجسم العيني ليس كليا بهذا المعنى لعدم وجود الكلية بهذا المعنى في الخارج و إن أراد به الكلية الطبيعية أي ما يصير معروضا للكلية إذا وجد في العقل اخترنا أنه كلي باعتبار ماهيته و جزئي بتشخص الجسم.

قوله و إن كان هو الذي ثبت عرضيته و ليس في الجسم غيره قلنا ما ثبت عرضيته إنما هو أمر عارض هو تعين امتداداته بالانقطاع إما مطلقا أو مخصوصا و هذا العرض ليس موافقا لمفهوم الممتد في الماهية ليلزم من عرضيته عرضية ذلك المفهوم.

أقول لا يخفى ما في هذا الجواب من الوهن و الفساد أما أولا فلأن ماهية المقدار على ما سبق من مختار المحققين فيه ليست مجرد تعين الممتد الجوهرى بل المتصل القابل للقسمة المقدارية الجزئية و الحدود المشتركة المعينة. و أما ثانيا فلأن تشخص الشيء على ما حققناه ليس إلا بنحو وجوده الخاص - و إليه مآل كلام بعض المحققين من الحكماء كالمعلم الأول.

و ربما يستفاد من بعض عبارات الشيخ الرئيس و عند الآخرين من المحصلين إما بذاته - كما يراه الشيخ الإشراقي أو بارتباطه إلى الموجود الحقيقي كما نسب إلى أذواق المتألهين و إما باتحاده مع مفهوم الموجود كما ذهب إليه صدر المدققين و أما الأعراض القائمة بالشيء المستتبع إياها بحسب هويته الشخصية فليست بداخلة في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ٥، ص ٩٦

إفادة التشخص و المتشخصية عند المعتبرين من الفضلاء الذين يعتد بهم و بكلامهم - و إنما هي لوازم و أمارات للتشخص كما مر سابقا في مبحث التشخص فالممتد المقوم للجسم العيني لو كان جزئيا موجودا في الخارج فيجب أن لا يكون مناط جزئيته الأمور العارضة له إلا بمعنى كونه من اللوازم و العلامات.

فإذا صار ذلك الممتد الجوهرى جزئيا متعينا في الخارج مع قطع النظر عن العوارض و الخارجيات فلو كان عين المقدار فقد ثبت عرضيته فيلزم أن يكون الجوهر عين العرض و إن لم يكن عين ما هو المقدار بل هو غيره فيعود المحذور الذي ذكره من استلزام أن يكون في الجسم الواحد ممتدان متعينا أحدهما جوهر و الآخر عرض متباينان في الوجود و هو خلاف ما تقرر عندهم.

و أيضا إذا تعين الممتد الجوهرى مع قطع النظر عن الممتد العرضي فهو إما مساو لهذا أو أزيد أو أنقص و على كل تقدير يلزم تقدره بذاته مع محذورات أخرى - كاجتماع المثليين و التداخل و التعطل في وجود أحدهما.

فالصواب أن يجاب عن الوجه الأول بما حققناه من أن الامتداد الواحد الجرمانى له مفهومان مفهوم كونه ممتدا على الإطلاق و مفهوم كونه مقدارا خاصا متعينا في الحدود و المساحة فهو بالمعنى الأول مقوم للجسم و بالمعنى الثانى عرضي خارج عنه و كثيرا ما يكون مفهومات متعددة ينتزع من نحو وجود واحد خاص شخصي بعضها داخل في الحقيقة الشيء ذاتي له و بعضها خارج عنه عرضي له كوجود زيد مثلا ذاته بذاته أنه مصداق للإنسانية و مصداق لكونه مفهوما و شيئا و ممكنا عاما.

فلا عجب من أن يكون وجود واحد مما يصدق عليه مفهومان مختلفان بحسب

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٩٧

المعنى أحدهما مقوم له باعتبار و الآخر عارض له فالممتد من حيث معنى الاتصال الوجداني في أي حد كان مقوم للجسم و من حيث إن له صفة الكمية و المقدارية عارض و التعين في القدر غير معنى التشخص و كذا الإبهام فيه غير مستلزم للكلية فإن مرتبة معينة من المقدار ربما يوجد في أشخاص كثيرة كل منها يتفق مع الآخر فيها - و جسم معين شخصي ربما يتوارد عليه مراتب متفاوتة في المقدار كما في الحركة الكمية و الامتداد الجوهرية أي الممتد نفسه بنفس ذاته المقوم للجسم العيني الشخصي - أمر متعين الذات مبهم المقادير التي كل منها عبارة عن متعين مقداري و التعين الذاتي لا ينافي الإبهام المقداري و إنما الذي ثبت عرضيته ليس إلا المتعين المقداري من حيث كونه كما لا من حيث كونه منبسطا في الجهات على أي حد كان من حدود النهايات - و ليس المتصل الجوهرية المقوم للجسم ممتدا و المتصل المقداري ممتدا آخر غيرها في الوجود بل هما متغايران في المعنى و المفهوم و تغايرهما في المفهوم صار موجبا لتوهم أن الحكماء ذهبوا إلى أن في الجسم الواحد ممتدان جوهرية و عرضية و جسمان طبيعي و تعليمي.

و أما الجواب عما ذكره ثانيا أن الممتد بالمعنى الجوهرية ليس بحيث يتحقق له كلية و جزئية و كبر و صغر إنما هذه من عوارض الممتد بالمعنى الذي هو مقدار كيف و القائلون بجوهرية الامتداد الوجداني أجل شأننا من أن يذهلوا عن أن القابل - للجزئية و الكلية و المساواة و عدمها و العظم و مقابله ليس إلا من مقولة الكم فكون الممتد الجوهرية ذا جزء مقداري أول هذه المسألة.

و أما عن الثالث فليس معنى الحركة في الكم و لا الازدياد فيه أن يكون للموضوع مقدار معين باق من أول زمان الحركة إلى آخره و قد زيد عليه و ضم إليه آخر مثله أو أزيد أو أنقص بل معناها أن يتوارد في آتات زمان الحركة و أجزائه الفرضية على تمام الموضوع مقادير متفاوتة كل مقدار يكون بتمامه بدلا عن المقدار الذي كان للموضوع في آن سابق أو لاحق.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٩٨

فليس في التخلخل مقدار باق من أول الأمر إلى آخره حتى قيل إنه يزداد أو ينقص أو يبقى بحاله بل الباقي في تمام الزمان الذي هو زمان حركة التخلخل مثلا - هو نفس المادة مع مقدار ما على سبيل التبادل و المسافة هي خصوصيات هذه المقادير - و المبدأ هو مقدار صغير قد بطل بمجرد التلبس بهذه الحركة و المنتهى هو مقدار كبير قد حدث في آخر آن من الآتات المفروضة لزمان الحركة و كذا القياس في الاشتداد و التضعف من الحركات الكيفية و قد مر تحقيق ذلك.

ثم العجب أن هذا العظيم التال و البحث بجلالة قدره ممن حقق الأمر الذي ذكرناه في كتابه المسمى بالمشارع و المطارحات في صدر الفصل المعقود لبيان الشدة و الضعف فكيف وقع منه هذا المقال المغلط الموجب للإضلال حاشاه عن أن يتعمد في ذلك

بحث آخر معه

ثم إنه ربما يورد معارضة أوردها بعض المحققين على ما ذكره بأنه قد اختار في التلويحات أن الجرم العيني مركب من

الجوهر الذي سماه هيولى و من الاتصال و الامتداد العرضي فيقال الامتداد العرضي الذي اختار أنه مقوم للجرم العيني إما كلي أو جزئي و كلاهما باطلان على النحو الذي ذكره في الدليل.

أما الأول فظاهر و أما الثاني فلتبدل الامتدادات المعينة مع بقاء الجرم العيني - في الصورتين اللتين ذكرهما فإن كان المقوم هو الامتداد الذي ثبت عرضيته بالتبدل و ليس في العيني غيره لم يكن الامتداد مقوما للجرم لتبدله مع بقاء الجرمية و إن كان للجرم امتداد عيني باق و آخر زائل فذلك محال لأنه ليس فيه امتدادان عرضيان جزئيان.

فما أجاب عن هذا البحث فمثله جواب عن دليله غاية ما في الباب أن المعنى الثاني هو جوهر عند الحكماء و عرض عنده.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٩٩

و أقول هاهنا فرق دقيق يجب التنبيه عليه و هو أنه فرق ما بين نحو تركيب الشيء كالجسم الطبيعي من مادة و صورة عند المشاءين و بين تركيبه من موضوع - و عرض عند صاحب التلويحات.

و عند تحقيق هذا الفرق بين نحوي التركيب في المذهبين لقائل أن يقول بقاء الجرم العيني المقوم من جوهرين يتقوم كل منهما بالآخر مع تبدل أحدهما الذي هو الاتصال الجوهرى غير صحيح عند صاحب الفطرة السليمة - بخلاف الجرم العيني المقوم من جوهر هو في الحقيقة تمام ماهية الجسم بما هو جسم و عرض هو من معيناته و منوعاته فإنه مما لا استحالة عند العقل في بقاء مركب بعينه - ببقاء أحد جزأيه بالعدد و بقاء الجزء الآخر لا بالعدد بل بالمعنى و النوعية بورود الأمثال المتبادلة و ذلك لانحفاظ وحدته الشخصية العديدة باستمرار وحدة أحد جزأيه بعينه.

فما ذكره هذا المعارض المحقق لا يصلح للمعارضة لوجود الفارق المذكور - و ليس أيضا لقائل أن يقول إن هذا العظيم النحرير قد اعترف بوجود الامتداد الجوهرى في حكمة الإشراق فكيف يتأتى له الاستدلال على نفيه.

لأننا نقول ذلك الامتداد معنى آخر مقداري عند الحكماء و هو غير الامتداد المقوم للجسم عندهم إلا أن [إلا أنه] هذا المقدار عرض عندهم و جوهر عنده و قد مر مرارا أن للممتد معينين - أحدهما صورة مقومة للجسمية عند المشاءين و الآخر عرض خارج عن حقيقة الجسم لازم لها.

و الشيخ الإلهي قد أنكر المعنى الأول مطلقا جوهرًا كان أو عرضا و أثبت المعنى الثاني و ذهب إلى جوهريته و عينيته للجسم في حكمة الإشراق و إلى عرضيته و جزئيته للجسم في التلويحات كما بينا فإنه هناك بالحقيقة منكر للصورة لا للهيولى.

و محصل هذا الكلام أن بناء اعتراضه المذكور على ما فهم من ظواهر أقاويل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٠٠

الحكماء من أن الصورة الجسمية أي المتصل بالمعنى الأول عندهم أمر مبهم في الواقع - فأورد عليهم أنه كيف يتقوم أمر عيني بأمر مبهم في الواقع.

و أما المقدار الجوهرى عنده فليس أمرا مبهما في الواقع و إن عرض له الإيهام بحسب وجوده الذهني فإن للعقل أن ينتزع من الأشخاص ماهياتها و يأخذها على وجه لا يأبى عن الصدق على كثيرين فكما أن للجسم مرتبة إطلاق و تعيين عند

العقل - فكذاك للمقدار بحسبه اعتباران فإذا حلله العقل إلى ذينك الاعتبارين يحكم بأن أحدهما المقدار المقوم للجسم و المطلق منه مقدار مقوم للجسم المطلق بل هو عينه و المقادير الخاصة مقومة للأجسام الخاصة بل هي عينها كما هو رأيه.

و أما ما ثبت عرضيته عنده في ذلك الكتاب فليس إلا مراتب الطول و العرض و العمق و ليس شيء منها مقدارا للجسم بل هي عوارض للمقدار الجرمي و عرضيتها لا يوجب عرضيته.

و قد علمت أنه ممن ينكر وجود التخلخل و التكاثف الحقيقيين بل الحركة في المقدار مطلقا فلا يقام عليه الحجة الدالة على عرضية المقدار بتوارد المختلفات من المقادير هذا توجيه كلامه على ما يوافق رأيه.

و أما الجواب الحق عنه فهو أن الممتد المقوم للجسم العيني عند الحكماء المشاءين ليس إلا أمرا محصلا متعينا في نفسه غاية الأمر أنه مبهم من حيث المقدارية - و التعين الشخصي بحسب تجوهر الذات لا ينافي الإبهام الكمي بحسب العارض كما لا ينافي الإبهام الكيفي فإن الجسم في حد نفسه شخص جوهري معين و قابل للحركات و الاستحالات الكمية و الكيفية و المتحرك ما دام كونه متحركا لا يتعين له فرد من المقولة التي يقع فيها الحركة.

و به يخرج الجواب عن الوجه السابق أيضا منه فليدرك.

بحث آخر على نمط آخر -

سلمنا أن في الجسم باعتبار الامتداد أمورا ثلاثة الأول جوهر غير خارج عن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٠١

ماهية الجسم و الأخيران عرضان فيه زائدان عليه بتبدل أحدهما عن الجسم بالتخلخل و التكاثف و الآخر بتوارد الأشكال عليه لكن لم قلت إن الجسم إذا انفصل يجب أن ينعدم عنه أمر ذاتي فإن اللازم ليس إلا أن حقيقة الجسم يجب أن يكون لذاتها قابلة للاتصالات و الانفصالات.

و أما أن القابل يجب أن يكون واحدا بالعدد بالوحدة الاتصالية فلا و إنما يلزم ذلك لو كانت الوحدة الشخصية تساوي الوحدة الاتصالية و يلزمها و هو غير مسلم فإن الإنسان الواحد أو السرير الواحد مثلا لكل منهما وحدة شخصية مع تألفه عن متصلات متعددة ينضم بعضها إلى بعض فالجسمية لا تساوق الاتصال الوجداني - بل اللازم كون القابل للاتصال و الانفصال أمرا واحدا شخصا و يجوز أن يكون ذلك الواحد أمرا متصلا بذاته و مع استمرار وحدته الشخصية بتعدد اتصاله الذاتي.

فحينئذ لأحد أن يقول طريان الانفصال لا ينافي استمرار الاتصال بل إنما ينافي وحدة الاتصال فما كان متصلا واحدا بعينه صار متصلا متعددا فالممتد الجوهري باق في الحالين بشخصه و الزوال و التبدل إنما هو لعارضه أعني الوحدة و الكثرة.

و قد أجاب عنه بعض الأذكيا بعد تمهيد أن وجود كل شيء ليس إلا عبارة عن نفس تحصله و تحققه سواء كان في العين أو في العقل و هو مساوق للتشخص بل عينه - كما ذهب إليه المعلم الثاني فتعدد كل من التشخص و الوجود و وحدته يوجب تعدد الآخر و وحدته هو أن المتصل الواحد من حيث هو كذلك لما لم يكن إلا موجودا واحدا له ذات واحدة و تشخص واحد فليس لأجزائه الفرضية وجود بالفعل و تشخص خاص بحسب نفس الأمر.

كيف وقد تبين أن الأجزاء الفرضية غير متناهية حسب قبول الجسم الانقسامات بلا نهاية. فإما أن يكون لبعض أجزائه وجود و تشخص بالفعل و هو الترجيح من غير مرجح أو لجميعها فيلزم المفاسد التي ترد على أصحاب لا تناهي الأجزاء للجسم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٠٢

و إذا طرأ عليه الانقسام وجد موجودان مشخصان و هويتان مستقلتان. فإما أن يكونا موجودين حال الاتصال مع تعيينهما و هو باطل لأن أجزاء المتصل الواحد بعينها ليس إلا بحسب الفرض. و هذان التعينان بحسب نفس الأمر أو بدونها. فحينئذ إما أن يكون وجودهما حال الانفصال هو بعينه الوجود الذي لهما حال الاتصال أو لا لا سبيل إلى الأول لأنه خلاف ما تقرر من المساواة بين التعين و الوجود- فالتعين الحادث بعد الانفصال يلزم الوجود الحادث بل عينه و لا إلى الثاني لأنه يلزم أن يكون ذات واحدة يوجد بوجود واحد ثم يزول عنها هذا الوجود و يوجد بوجود آخر و هو أيضا خلاف المفروض من أن الوجود ليس إلا نفس تحقق الشيء فلا يتصور تعدده مع وحدة الذات. و إما أن يكونا موجودين حين الاتصال بالفعل بل بالقوة القرينية فلا بد لهما من مادة حاملة لقوة وجودهما و تعيينهما حين الاتصال و إذا خرج وجودهما أو تعيينهما بطريان الانفصال من القوة إلى الفعل تصير حاملة لهما و متلبسة بهما و ليس تلك المادة هي نفس ذلك المتصل الأول لما علمت بطلانه سابقا فيكون القابل له و لهما معا جوهر آخر و هو المطلوب

بحث و تعقيب

إن القول بأن تعدد الوجود عين تكثر الأشخاص الموجودة أو مستلزم له و توحده عين توحيد الشخصية أو مستلزم له و أن الاتصال و الانفصال عبارتان عن توحيد الجسم و تكثره مما لا شبهة فيه و نحن نساعد كيف و من أصولنا المقررة أن الموجود ليس إلا نحو وجود كل شيء و الوجود بنفسه متشخص و هو عين الهذية و الهوية إلا أن هاهنا فرقا ما بين المتصل بالذات بأحد المعنيين و ما هو بالعرض متصل بذلك المعنى فإن كون القسمة و إن كان موجبا لتحويل الوحدة الشخصية إلى الكثرة الشخصية و بطلان موجود واحد و حدوث

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٠٣

موجودين متعددين لكن الموصوف بوحدة الاتصال و تعيينه المقداري ليس إلا ما سميتوه المقدار و هو القابل للقسمة المقدارية عند الوهم و في الخارج بواسطة الأمر الحامل له أي الجوهر الجسماني- و قد مر مرارا أن الامتداد و الممتد بنفسه على الإطلاق شيء و المأخوذ ممتدا متعينا بالتعين المقداري أو العددي من كونه واحدا أو كثيرا شيء آخر. و ليس المراد من قولنا إنه الممتد بنفسه مطلقا أن الصورة الجسمية بصرافة إطلاقه موجود في الخارج و جزء للجسم بل الغرض كما مر أنها بذاتها مع قطع النظر عن التعين بحسب المقدارية و العددية موجودة. فحاصل الكلام في هذا المقام أن الوحدة الشخصية للجوهر المتصل ليست عين الوحدة المقدارية فكما أنه فرق بين معنيي المتصل فكذلك فرق بين وحدتهما و تعددهما فأحد المعنيين للمتصل مما يقبل الوحدة الخارجية تارة و الكثرة

التي بإزائها أخرى من جهة حامل يقبل ذاته بوجود متعدد أخرى.

و أما المتصل بالمعنى المقوم لحقيقة الجسم وهو الممتد بذاته على الإطلاق - في أي امتداد كان وفي أية وحدة أو كثرة بحسب المعنى الآخر كانت فهو مما لا يقبل في نفسه إلا نحواً واحداً من وجود حقيقته وهذا النحو الواحد لضعف وجوده و وحدته - مما لا يأبى قبول الأضداد [الامتداد] و الاختلافات لسائر الأشياء.

بل نقول القابل للأبعاد حقيقة منحصرة في شخص واحد له مقدار مساحي واحد من حيث المساحة و الكمية و هو ما حواه السطح الأعلى من الفلك أعني كرة العالم و هو شخص واحد سواء كان في اتصال واحد أو في اتصالات متعددة حادثة أو فطرية و هذا الشخص له تشخص واحد مستمر و له أيضاً تشخصات و تعيينات متبدلة حاصلة فيه - من تبدلات مقاديره اتصالا و انفصالا أو تعيينات أحواله و صورته و أعراضه المتبدلة.

و هذا كما أن هيولى العنصریات عند الحكماء شخص واحد لا يزول وحدته الشخصية بورود تعددات الصور الجسمية و توحداتها عند توارد الانفصال و الاتصال و ورود الكون و الفساد في الصور النوعية و سائر الاستحالات.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٠٤

فإن قلت الهيولى لما كانت أمراً مبهماً يمكن الحكم ببقاء ذاتها حين تعدد الاتصال و وحدته بخلاف الجسم. قيل كون ذات الهيولى أمراً مبهماً بالمعنى الذي لا يصح ثبوته و جريانه في الجسم غير بين و لا مبين بعد فكما أن معنى إبهام الهيولى كما هو المشهور و عليه الجمهور ليس إلا أنها متعينة الذات مبهمة الصور فإن لها تعيينين أحدهما ذاتي مستمر و الآخر عرضي متبدل فكذا يقال في الجوهر الممتد من أنه متعين الذات مبهم وحدة الاتصال و كثرته و لها تعيين ذاتي مستمر و تعيين مقداري يتبدل على نحو ما قالوه في الهيولى بحسب ما هو المشهور عند الجمهور.

مخلص عرشي

و أقصى ما لأحد أن يقول في التفصي عن هذا الإشكال و يتم دليل إثبات الهيولى - من جهة مسلك الاتصال و الانفصال هو أنه لا ريب لأحد من العقلاء في أنه ينعدم عند طرو الانفصال على المتصل الوحداني عن الجسم المفرد أمر كان موجوداً له في الواقع [في الخارج] عند الاتصال كما أنه يوجد له عند حدوث الاتصال بينهما أمر لم يكن موجوداً للمتصلين المتعددين قبل الاتصال.

فحينئذ نقول ذلك الأمر الذي زال عن المتصل الواحد المأخوذ مجرداً عن جميع الخارجيات و العوارض المفارقة عند طريان الانفصال ثم عاد بعد زواله و طريان الاتصال لا محالة يكون وحدة ما للاتصال البتة فهي لا تخلو إما أن تكون وحدة ذاتية و اتصالاً حقيقياً أو وحدة ارتباطية و اتصالاً إضافياً.

فعلى الأول يثبت المقصود من وجود الهيولى الأولى لاتفاق الفريقين على أن المنعدم بالذات من الجسم عند الانفصال لو كان اتصالاً جوهرياً فلا بد من اشتغال الجسم على جزء آخر حتى لا يكون الفصل إعداماً و إفناء للجسم بالمرة و الوصل إبداعاً

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٠٥

و إنشاء نشأة أخرى.

وعلى الثاني يلزم أن يكون في الجسم المفرد إضافات و وحدات اتصالية غير متناهية موجودة مجتمعة محصورة بين حدين حاصرين حسب قبول الجسم لانقسامات غير متناهية و يلزم المفسد الواردة على مذهب النظام وأصحابه القائلين من جهة قبول الجسم.

هذا ما تيسر لنا بفضل الله و ملكوته من المقال في تتميم الاستدلال على وجود الهيولى من جهة قبول الجسم لطريان الاتصال و الانفصال.

شك و هداية

قد وقع هنا إشكال لبعض المتقدمين من تلامذة الشيخ الرئيس و هو أن الوجود و الوحدة و سائر الأمور العامة التي لا تنقسم في المقدار و لا يحتاج في وجودها و تعقلها إلى المادة فكيف يتعلق بالمادة و يقبل الانقسام في المقدار ثم كيف ينقسم الوحدة و يتعدد الهوية.

ثم إن هذه الأمور لوازم و أعراض فهي لموضوعات و ينقسم لا محالة و لو كانت هذه الأمور غير حالة في الموضوعات لكانت مفارقة و لكانت جواهر بل عقولا مفارقة.

فأجاب عنه الشيخ في بعض مراسلاته إليه بقوله هذه المعاني ليست من المعقولات المجردة بالوجوب بل بالإمكان و الوجود و الوحدة المادية ينقسم و الوجود مطلقا و الواحد مطلقا ممكن له الانقسام كما يمكن المعنى النوعي في المعنى الجنسي.

بلى قوله إن هذه لوازم و أعراض فهي لموضوعات فيجب أن ينقسم قول يحتاج أن يتأمل أما أنها لوازم لموضوعات فحق و أما أنها يجب أن ينقسم في كل موضوع لأنها أعراض فليس كذلك فإنه يجب أن ينقسم ما كان منها عارضا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٠٦

للموضوعات المادية الجسمانية فيكون الوحدة فيها اتصالا و الاتصال يبطل بالانفصال - و يبقى متصلا بفرض الاثنينية الموهومة المشتركة في الحد الواحد فيكون واحدا فيه اثنينية و قسمة وضعية ذهنية هذا كلامه.

و فيه تصريح بأن الوجود و الوحدة في المتصل الحقيقي نفس الاتصال القابل للتعدد و الانفصال إن الانفصال فيه ليس إلا تعدد وجوده و تكرار وحدته مع أن الوجود و الوحدة المطلقين من الأمور الشاملة و المعقولات العامة لجميع الموجودات.

و هذا أيضا من المؤيدات لما ذهبنا إليه حسب ما حققنا و بسطنا القول فيه - في أوائل هذا السفر أن الوجود بنفسه موجود و ما ذهبنا إليه أيضا من أن الوحدة لكل واحد هي عين الوجود له فليكن هذا عندك من المتحقق الثابت الذي لا يعتره و صمة ريب و لا تهمة عيب.

و ظهر أيضا أن الوجود و الوحدة و ما يلزمها و سائر الأمور الحقيقية الشاملة لجميع الأشياء اللازمة لكل الموجودات هي أعم و أشمل من أن يكون معقولا محضا - أو محسوسا محضا لظهورها تارة في العقول و هي بهذا الاعتبار لا يحتمل القسمة إلا بأجزاء مختلفة المعاني كالأجناس و الفصول و تارة في الموارد البسيطة الاتصالية - و هي بهذا الاعتبار لا تقبل القسمة إلا بأقسام مقدارية وضعية متشاركة في الحدود المشتركة - و هي مع ذلك كما مر بحسب حقيقتها بريئة عن الماهية و المادة مقدسة عن القسمة بحسب الحد و المعنى و بحسب الوضع و الهيولى.

فما أجلها و ما أرفع شأنها و أحاط شمولها للكل لا بمعنى المخالطة و ما أقدم طور ذاتها و تجردها عن الكل لا بمعنى المزايلة.

ثم ما أشد غفلة العقلاء المدققين في البحث حيث لم يرتفع أذهانهم و لم يرتق عقولهم عن ملاحظة خواص الوجود و لوازمه من شموله معها لجميع الأشياء على الوجه المذكور إلى أن يحققوا الأمر في شمول مبدأ الوجود لجميع الأشياء شمولا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٠٧

إحاطيا انبساطيا لا على نحو شمول المعنى الكلي العقلي لأفراده الخاصة بل نحو أرفع و أجل من ذلك. و ممن تفتن بنحو آخر من الشمول هو الشيخ الرئيس حيث قال في كتاب المباحثات ذيل نحو ما نقلنا منه من المقام و المعاني العقلية هي الصور ليس إنما يمنع أن يكون فيها قسمة منع كيف كان بل أن يكون فيها قسمة ما هو واحد من جهة كثير من جهة كثرة وضعية فقد بان أن المعنى المعقول من حيث هو معقول - لا ينقسم إلا إلى أجزاء مختلفة فلا يحل الأجسام و أما هذه فإنها ليست معقولات الذوات بل يكون يمكن لها أن تكون معقولة و أن تكون غير معقولة فيقبل هذا ضربا من القسمة حينئذ و لا يبعد أن يكون الواحد بالاتصال و الوجود الجسماني ينقسم إلى اثنين منه و إلى موجودين متشابهين و لا يمنع ذلك الوحدة الجسمانية و غير ذلك انتهى كلامه - فافهم و اغتنم

بحث آخر على جهة أخرى -

إن تعدد الجسمية بعد وحدتها لو كان مقتضيا لانعدامها و محوجا إلى مادة فمادة المتعدد إن كانت واحدة لزم كون شيء واحد في أحياء متعددة و جهات مختلفة و إن كانت متعددة فتعدها إما أن يكون حادثا بالانفصال أو مفطورا بحسب الذات فإن كان حادثا فحدوثة بعد انعدام مادة الجسم الواحد أو مع بقائها. فعلى الثاني يلزم كون ذات واحدة شخصا واحدا تارة و أشخاصا متعددة أخرى - و على الأول يلزم التسلسل في المواد إذ كل حادث عندهم مسبوق بمادة قابلة لها - و هي أيضا حادثة على التقدير المذكور و مع ذلك فهو ينافي المقصود من وجود أمر يكون باقيا حالتي الفصل و الوصل لئلا يكون التفريق إعداما بالكلية و الوصل إيجادا و لو كان التعدد واقعا في المادة بحسب أصل الفطرة لكان الجسم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٠٨

المفرد مشتملا على أجزاء غير متناهية حسب قبول الانقسامات الغير المتناهية إذ لو لم يكن عدد تلك المواد غير متناه بل واقفا عند حد لوقف عدد انقسامات الجسم إذا استوفى المواد و وصل إلى ذلك الحد و ليس كذلك كما مر هذا خلف. و الجواب أن الهيولى و إن كانت واحدة في حد ذاتها و شخصيتها لكن لا يتهيأ لقبول الإشارة الحسية و الأبعاد المقدارية و تحصيل الجهات و حصول الفصل و الوصل و الوحدة و التعدد بالذات بل إنما يتهيأ لشيء من هذه الأوصاف و النعوت بالعرض - بعد تعيينها المستفاد من قبل الصور الجسمية فمع المتصل الواحد واحدة و مع المتعدد متعددة و هي في حد ذاتها بريئة عن الجميع بحسب ملاحظة العقل إياها كذلك و لا يلزم مما ذكرنا أن يكون الهيولى من المفارقات في مرتبة ذاتها كما نبهناك عليه و لا أيضا متألفة من غير المنقسمات متناهية و غيرها لما مر من الإشارة إلى ما سيجيء

من تقدم الصورة الجسمية في الوجود عليها فإن ذاتها لا تخلو من الاتصاف بشيء من تلك الأوصاف المذكورة في نفس الأمر وإن كان بواسطة الصورة الجسمية - وأما اعتبار ذاتها مجردة عن الصور كلها فهو مجرد فرض يخترعه الوهم. وستعلم أن ما بالفعل مطلقا يتقدم على ما بالقوة فالهيولى حين الاتصال لها وحدة شخصية ذاتية و وحدة اتصالية من جهة الصورة و الوحدة الأولى يتقوم إما بالوحدة الثانية - أو بما يقابلها فإذا طرأ عليها الانفصال زال عنها الوحدة اتصالية بدون زوال ذاتها وزوال شخصيتها وهذا بخلاف الجوهر الجسماني فإن وحدته اتصالية هي عين وحدته الشخصية لما علمت من أن الوجود فيه نفس وحدة الاتصال وهي عين الشخص فلا جرم لم يبق ذاته الشخصية عند الانفصال فمادة الجزئين الحادتين عند الانفصال واحدة في ذاتها متعددة الجزئين وهي محفوظة الوجود في جميع المراتب باقية الذات في حالتي الانفصال و الاتصال غير حادثة بحدوث شيء منهما ليلزم التسلسل في المواد الحادثة و لا متكرر بتكرر الانفصال ليلزم اشتغال الجسم على أجزاء غير متناهية بل الزوال و الحدوث و الوحدة اتصالية و الكثرة الانفصالية إنما تعرض للجوهر الممتد بالذات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٠٩

و الهيولى لا يقتضي في ذاتها شيئا منها و لا أيضا مما يتأبى عنها فهيولى الجسمين اللذين أحدهما في المشرق و الآخر في المغرب لها وحدة عقلية تجامع الاثنينية الوضعية و يقبلهما لها نحو وحدة تجامع الاثنينية كما أن وحدة العشرة تجامع الكثرة و التعدد كما أن لكل من الحركة و الزمان ثباتا يجامع التغير و التجدد و إنما ذلك لضعف الوحدة فيها و ضعف الثبات و الوجود فيهما فحصول الهيولى في الجهات المتخالفة و الأحياء المتباعدة عبارة عن قبولها الأجسام المتعددة و الجسميات المتكثرة الموصوفة بالذات بالوقوع في الإشارة الحسية.

و قبول الأيون و الأحياء و الجهات بوحدتها الشخصية لا ينافي كثرتها الانفصالية بخلاف وحدة الاتصال. و قد قال بعض الحكماء إن الوحدة قد تكون من لوازم نفي الكثرة و قد يكون من لوازمه نفي الكثرة فهناك نقول يشبه أن يكون وحدة الهيولى من قبيل الوحدة بالمعنى الأول - فإن وحدتها ليست صفة وجودية بل هو مفهوم سلبي من لوازم نفي الكثرة عن ذاتها بذاتها بل هو عين نفي الكثرة الذاتية و وحدة الصور الجسمية من قبيل الوحدة بالمعنى الثاني لأنها وحدة وجودية قابلة للانفصال و التعدد كيف و لو لم تكن وجودية فكيف يزول بورود الانفصال و ينعدم عن المادة بحدوث الاتصال

فصل (٤) في ذكر منهج آخر للفلاسفة لإثبات حقيقة الهيولى و نحو وجودها الذي يخصها

اعلم أن الجسم من حيث هو جسم له وجود اتصالي و صورة عينية و هو لا محالة معنى بالفعل و من حيث استعدادة لقبول الفصل و الوصل و غيرهما من الأشياء المفقودة عنه المستعد هو لها كالسواد و الحركة و الحرارة و الصور النوعية المكملة له اللاحقة به فهو بالقوة فيكون في كل جسم من حيث مجرد جسميته جهتا فعل و قوة و حيثيتا وجوب و إمكان و الشيء من حيث هو بالفعل لا يكون هو من حيث هو بالقوة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١١٠

لأن مرجع القول إلى أمر عديمي هو فقدان شيء عن شيء و مرجع الفعلية إلى حصول حقيقة لشيء و الشيء الواحد من

الجهة الواحدة لا يكون مصححا لهاتين الصفتين و منشأ لاجتماع هاتين الحالتين فلا يكون الجسم من حيث هو متصل بالفعل هو بعينه نفسه من حيث هو بالقوة منفصل أو متحرك أو ذو سواد أو نفس أو صورة بل يكون كونه جوهرًا متصلاً غير كونه جوهرًا قابلاً للأشياء فإذا كان فيه قوة قبول ما يقابل المتصل فيكون فيه أيضاً قوة قبول المتصل - لأن إمكان شيء يلزمه إمكان مقابله إذ لو كان أحد المتقابلين ضرورياً كان المقابل الآخر ممتنعاً و قد فرضناه ممكناً هذا خلف.

فعلم أن الجسم كما أنه متصل قبل القسمة ففيه ما يقبل المتصل أيضاً إذ لو كان عين المتصل أو لازماً له الاتصال حتى يكون النسبة ضرورية لم يكن له قوة الانفصال و هو باطل بالبديهة فصحة قبول شيء آخر غير المتصل الواحد كاشف عن صحة قبول المتصل كما ذكرنا فإذن الجسم بما هو جسم مركب في ذاته مما عنه له القوة و مما عنه له الفعل و هما الهيولى و الصورة و هو المطلوب.

تذكرة قياسية

إن سبيل البيان على نظم القياس البرهاني هو أن الجسم بالفعل من جهة ذاته و كل ما هو بالفعل من جهة ذاته لا يكون بالقوة فالجسم لا يكون بالقوة - و يجعل هذه النتيجة كبرى لقياس آخر من الشكل الثاني و هو أن الهيولى بالقوة و لا شيء من الجسم الموجود بالقوة ينتج لا شيء من الجسم الموجود هيولى.

و لمزيد التوضيح نقول لا شك أن في الجسم قوة على أن يوجد فيه أمور كثيرة.

فتلك القوة إما أن يكون نفس حقيقة الجوهر المتصل أو ثابتة في أمر يقارنها أو قائمة بذاتها فلو كانت هو بعينه نفس الاتصال المصحح لفرض الأبعاد حتى يكون الجوهر المتصل هو بعينه نفس القوة لأشياء كثيرة مما يطراً للجسم فيلزم أن يكون إذا فهما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١١١

الاتصال الجوهرى فهما أنه استعداد لأمر كثيرة و ما أمكننا تعقل الاتصال دون تعقل هذه الأشياء و ليس كذلك و أيضاً لو كان الاتصال الجسمي هو بعينه أنه بالقوة كذا و كذا - لكان صورة الجسم عرضاً لأن هذا المعنى أمر اعتباري عديم أو إضافي و الإضافة من أضعف الأعراض و لو كان الاتصال حاملاً لقوة تلك الأشياء لم يصح أن يعدم عند خروجه فيما يقوى عليه إلى الفعل فوجب أن يبقى مع الانفصال و ذلك لأن ذات القابل يجب وجوده مع المقبول.

لست أقول بوصف القابلية و الاستعداد لأن القوة تبطل عند وجود ما يقوى عليه و لو كانت القوة قائمة بذاتها لكان الإمكان جوهرًا لكنه عرض كما علم.

فالحامل لقوة هذه الأشياء غير الاتصال و غير المتصل بما هو متصل بل الذي يكون فيه قوة الاتصال و الانفصال و غيرهما من هيئات غير متناهية و كمالات غير واقفة على حد هو الهيولى و هذه الحجة و الحجة السابقة متقاربتا المأخذ و فيها أبحاث من وجوه -

الأول ما ذكره بعض شيعة الأقدمين نيابة عنهم

أن قولكم الجسم أو الاتصال نفسه ليس قوة على أمر فمسلّم لكن لا يلزم أن لا يكون القوة موجودة فيه و ليس إذا كانت القوة تابعة لشيء يلزم أن يكون هي هو.

فإن قلتم لو كانت القوة للانفصال موجودة في الاتصال لكان الاتصال باقياً مع الانفصال.

قلنا هو [هذا] بعينه عود إلى الحجة السابقة و قد مر الكلام فيها و إن قلتم إنه إذا كانت القوة حاصلة للاتصال قائمة به و هي شيء متحصل بالفعل فيلزم أن يكون شيء واحد بالقوة و بالفعل معا و هو محال.

قلنا الحق الصحيح امتناع كون شيء واحد من جهة واحدة بالفعل و بالقوة معا و أما امتناع أن يكون شيء واحد بالفعل و له قوة شيء آخر فغير مسلم و لا امتناع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١١٢

الأول أيضا مستلزم لامتناع الثاني فالفعل و القوة يجوز أن يجتمعا في ذات واحدة من جهتين مختلفتين بأن يكون جهة الفعلية ذاته و جهة القوة عدم شيء آخر عنه و لا منافاة بين وجود شيء و عدم أشياء كثيرة عنه و كثيرا ما يعرض الغلط في العلوم من إهمال الحثيات و الاعتبارات فيستعمل منشأ الاتصاف بشيء موضع الحامل له و لا يلزم أن يكون الحامل لمعنى القوة هو بعينه منشأ تلك القوة أو حيثية ثبوتها.

مخلص عرشي.

أقول إن كل صفة خارجية سواء كانت لها صورة وجودية أو كانت أمرا انتزاعيا بحسب الواقع أي بأن يكون وجود الموصوف بحيثية يصدق عليه في الواقع تلك الصفة فلا بد لها من مبدأ قريب يكون جهة ثبوت تلك الصفة بل التحقيق أن كل معلول يكون من لوازم علته التامة كما سبق و كل صفة يكون من لوازم موصوفها الحقيقي فحينئذ لا يجوز أن يكون صفة من الصفات الوجودية أو العدمية تكون مأخوذة منتزعة من مقابلها أو ضدها فكما أن السواد لا يجوز أن يكون صفة للبياض أو لما هو ملزوم للبياض و كذا العدم لا يجوز أن ينتزع من الوجود أو مما يلزمه الوجود - فكذا القوة و الاستعداد لا يجوز أن يكون منتزعا من جهة نفس الصورة و التمامية - و لا مما يتصف بهما المعنى الصوري بما هو معنى صوري بل يجب أن يكون المحكي عنه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١١٣

بهما أو المنتزع عنه لهما معنى مادي يكون نفس الإبهام و القصور و كأنك مما قد قرع سمعك من مباحث العلة و المعلول و خصوصا في فصل بيان مناسبة العلة لمعلولها لكنت تستغني عن الزيادة في شرح هذا المقام بشرط سلامة الذوق لكن نزيدك بيانا و نقول - كل حيثية ثابتة لشيء ما في نفس الأمر فلا بد له من مبدأ لانتراعها و منشأ لحصولها و القوة و إن كانت عدما أو عدميا لكن لما كانت مضافة إلى شيء فلها حظ من الثبات فإنها عدم شيء عما من شأنه أن يكون له أو لنوعه أو لجنسه وجود ذلك الشيء و لكن ليس بالفعل حاصلا كما بين في علم الميزان فلا محالة لهذا العدم من موصوف و قابل يصح تلبسه بملكة هذا العدم بوجه من الوجوه المذكورة فالقابل لهذا العدم هو بعينه مما يجوز أن يصير قابلا لما هو عدم له عند ما خرج من القوة إلى الفعل كما أشرنا إليه فلو كان حامل قوة الانفصال هو نفس الاتصال لكان نفس الاتصال قوة على ذاته كما مر إلا أنا لا نكتفي بهذا القدر لئلا يرد عليه أنه متوقف على الحجة الأولى في كون الانفصال مقابلا للاتصال فيكون رجوعا إليها بل نقول إذا ثبت أن لهذا العدم حظا من الوجود و أن له قابلا و موصوفا بالذات فلنفتش لما هو القابل الموصوف له بالذات و لنعمد إلى بيانه و تحقيقه.

فنقول إن المبادي للأمور الطبيعية أربعة فالقبول مطلقا صفة نسبية لا بد له - من ارتباط بأحد هذه الأسباب فهو إما نعت

للمادة أو الصورة أو الفاعل أو الغاية و للنظر في مثال واحد كقبول المادة لصورة الكرسي فهذا القبول ليس يجوز أن يكون صفة الفاعل و لا صفة للغاية لأنهما منشئان للفعالية و الحصول لا للقوة و القبول و لا يجوز أن يكون صفة للصورة الكرسية لأن وجودها نفس الفعالية لنفسها فلا يكون قبولاً لها فالموصوف بها يكون مادة الكرسي و مصحح قبولها للقوة هو قصورها عن درجة التمام فإذا علمت

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١١٤

هذا في مادة الكرسي فننقل الكلام إلى مادة هذه المادة هل هي نفس القابل بما هو قابل أو معنى صوري له قابل. فنقول معناه الصوري كالخشب مثلاً لكونه أمراً تاماً في نوعيته و حقيقته - لا يجوز أن يكون جهة قوة و إمكان للصورة الكرسية بل القابل هو مادة ذلك الخشب لا صورته و هكذا إلى أن ينتهي إلى قابل ليس هو في نفسه معنى من المعاني - التي هي بالفعل و الاتصال للجسم بما هو جسم أمر صوري لكونه مبدأ الفصل للجوهر الجرمي فلا بد من أمر آخر يكون هو مصحح القوة و الاستعداد لا بأن يكون القوة صورة طبيعية حادثة له حتى يحتاج إلى أسباب أربعة لثبوته فيحتاج إلى قابلية أخرى و يتسلسل بل بأن يكون لازماً لماهية القابل من غير قابلية أخرى في الواقع. اللهم إلا بمجرد اعتبار العقل و التفاته فتقطع بانقطاع الالتفات كسائر خطرات الأوهام المتكررة. فقد ثبت أن المصحح لقبول الحوادث الكونية في الجسم ليس هو نفس الاتصال بل القابل له ثم لا يخفى أنه و إن اشتركت هذه الحجة مع الحجة الأولى في المآخذ أو في البيان في الجملة حتى وقع الرجوع في بعض المقدمات إلى ما ثبت هناك لكن لهذه مزيد تدقيق و تحقيق حيث يظهر فيها أن أحد جزئي الجسم أمر قابل محض و معنى استعدادي صرف و هذا مما لا بد فيه حتى يظهر أن أحد حاشيتي الوجود قد انتهت إلى ما يجاور العدم المحض بحيث لا يمكن التخطي عنه إلى ما هو دونه فلم يبق شيء في الإمكان الذاتي إلا و قد أفاده القیوم الجواد و بذلك يظهر أيضاً أن كل ما لا يوجد أو يوجد غير تام الخلقة أو مع آفة أو خلل أو فساد فإنما هو لعجز المادة و قصورها عن احتمال ما هو أتم - و أشرف و أفضل مما وقع.

و بذلك يعلم أن وجود العالم أشرف ما يتصور من النظام و أتم ما يمكن من الفضل و التمام -

البحث الثاني أن أصل هذه الحجة منقوضة بوجود النفس الإنسانية

بل بوجود كل جوهر مجرد مدبر للجسم بالمباشرة و التحريك سواء كان إنسانياً

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١١٥

أو سماوياً لأنها من حيث ذاتها جوهر صوري و لها قوة قبول التغيرات و الانفعالات و سنوح الإرادات و التصورات فكبرى القياس الأول و هو قولهم كل ما هو بالفعل لا يكون بالقوة تكون منسوخة بقياس من الشكل و هو أن النفس الإنسانية مثلاً أمر بالفعل من جهة ذاتها و كل نفس إنسانية يكون لها قوة أمر ما فينتج بعض ما هو أمر بالفعل يكون له قوة أمر ما.

و الجواب عنه أن النفس الإنسانية و أمثالها و إن كانت مجردة بحسب الذات - لكنها مادية بحسب الأفعال و الصفات و كما أن الشيء الواحد بحسب الماهية يجوز أن يكون جوهرًا و عرضًا باعتبارين مختلفين فكذلك قد يكون أمر واحد

مجردا و ماديا- من جهتين مختلفتين فحيثية كون النفس بالفعل إنما هي من قبل ذاتها المستندة إلى جاعلها التام و حيثية كونها بالقوة إنما هي من جهة أفاعيلها و آثارها الموقوفة على تهيو المادة التي هي آلة لصدور تلك الأفاعيل و السر فيه أن النفس في أول تكونها في غاية القصور و الضعف ففيها مع بساطتها حيثتان عقليتان نسبتهمما إليها نسبة الجنس و الفصل إلى النوع البسيط فمن حيث إنها صدرت من المبدأ الفياض الذي هو بالفعل من جميع الوجوه فهي موجودة بحسب الذات و من حيث وجودها الحدوثي متعلق بالمادة فهي قاصرة عن رتبة الكمال في أول نشوؤها محتاجة إلى الاستكمال بما يكملها من العوارض التي يفتقر إلى مادة يحمل قوة حصولها و تجددتها فجهة الافتقار إلى الكمال و حامل قوة الاستعداد له هي المادة التي تعلقت بها و جهة الوجود و الفعلية هي نفس ذاتها المفاضة عن الجواد المحض. فقد صح من هاهنا أيضا أن جميع جهات الفعلية و التمام يرجع إلى القيوم الواجب سبحانه و جهة القوة و العدم يرجع إلى الهيولى الأولى الصادرة عن الوسائط العقلية بواسطة جهة الإمكان الذاتي فيها فالمادة منبع الشرور و العدم و القصور و منبعها الإمكان الذاتي المندمج في كل وجود إمكاني لأجل نزول مرتبته عن الوجود التام القيومي جل مجده و عظمت كبرياؤه.

و بهذا الأصل يندفع شبهة الثنوية القائلين بصانعين قديمين لما وجدوا من

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١١٦

تحقق الخير و الشر و النفع و الضر في هذا العالم و شاهدوا الأنوار و الظلام و النفوس و الأجرام و الأرواح و الأشباح و الحياة و الموت و العلم و الجهل و النهار و الليل و الضوء و الظل و القوة و الفعل و سائر المتضادات التي تجمعها الخير و الشر و الله تعالى نور محض لا يشوبه شوب ظلمة و وجوب محض بلا إمكان و حياة محضة بلا موت و فعل بلا قوة و وجود بلا بخل و عطاء بلا منع تعالى عما يقوله الظالمون علوا كبيرا

البحث الثالث النقض بوجود العقول فإنها مؤثرة فيما تحتها

منفعلة عما فوقها ففيها جهتا فعل و انفعال فذاتها مركبة من أمرين أحدهما يفعل و بالآخر ينفع.

و الجواب أن انفعالها عما فوقها ليس إلا بنفس وجوداتها و ليس الانفعال هناك بقوة استعدادية سابقة على وجودها ليكون مقابلا للفعل و لفظ القبول و الانفعال مشترك بين المعنيين أحدهما مقابل للفعل و هو منشأ التركيب الخارجي بخلاف آخر فهي بنفس وجودها الفاض عليها من علتها تفعل فيما تحتها.

البحث الرابع النقض بوجود الهيولى

فإنها في نفسها جوهر موجود بالفعل - و هي أيضا مستعدة لها قوة قبول الأشياء فيلزم تركيبها من صورة يكون بها بالفعل و من مادة يكون بها بالقوة ثم ننقل الكلام إلى مادة المادة و هيولى الهيولى.

و الجواب عنه حسب ما ذكر الشيخ الرئيس قدس سره في كتبه أن فعلية الهيولى فعلية القوة و جوهريتها جوهرية القبول للأشياء لا فعلية وجود من الوجودات المتحصلة - و جوهرية حقيقة من الحقائق المتأصلة و لا يستوجب بهاتين الجهتين أن يكون ذات جزئين أحدهما يكون بالفعل و بالأخرى يكون بالقوة.

اللهم إلا بحسب اعتبار العقل و ذلك المدعى ينكشف بأمرين - أحدهما بأنه لو كانت هاتان الجهتان موجبتين لموصوفين متغايرين لهما في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١١٧

الخارج لكان الكلام عائدا إلى ما هو بمنزلة القابل ولأدى ذلك إلى التسلسل في وجود القوابل المترتبة المجتمعة الغير المتناهية فلا محالة يجب الانتهاء إلى قابل يكون الجهتان فيه عقليتين من غير تكثر في الواقع إلا بمجرد الذهن. والثاني بأننا نقول إن نسبة الهيولى إلى الجوهرية والاستعداد ليست كنسبة المركب الطبيعي إلى المادة والصورة بل كنسبة النوع البسيط إلى ما هما بمنزلة الجنس والفصل وقد مر مثل الكلام في مباحث المادة والصورة في المرحلة التي تذكر فيها أحوال الماهية فليذكر فإذا الهيولى نوع بسيط جنسه الجوهر وفصله أنه مستعد لأي شيء مخصوص وإلا لكان مركبا من القابلية ومن الخصوصية التي بها قابل. اللهم إلا أن يكون منشأ تلك الخصوصية أمر وارد عليها من الصور اللاحقة أو يكون من الجهات الناشئة عما هو أرفع من المادة والصورة جميعا كالانتساب إلى جهة فاعلية مخصوصة فإن التحقيق أن الاختلاف بين جواهر الهيوليات الفلكية و تشخصاتها وكذا الاختلاف بينها وبين هيولى العناصر وتعيينها يرجع إلى الاختلاف بين مبادئ القرية الفعلية المنتظم تشخص كل من تلك المبادي و وحدته الجمعية من وحدة شخصية للمفارق القدسي المقيم لواحدة منها شخصية و وحدة نوعية للصورة الطبيعية - التي يقام وجود الهيولى بها من ذلك المقيم إما بورود شخص من تلك الطبيعة دائما عليها إن قبلت الدوام الشخصي أيضا بورود أمثالها إن لم يقبل كما في العناصر على ما سيجيء تفصيله و توضيحه في بحث التلازم.

فالحاصل أن الهيولى الأولى للجسم الطبيعي في ذاتها هي بما هي بالقوة يكون بالفعل و بما هي بالفعل يكون بالقوة لكل شيء أو لأشياء مخصوصة على الوجهين المذكورين ثم لا يبعد لأحد أن يقول إن القابلية والاستعداد والإمكان ليست أمورا جوهرية لأنها حال الشيء بالمقايضة إلى الخارجيات إذ الاستعداد إنما يكون استعداد شيء لشيء آخر له في نفسه حقيقة و تحصل فينبغي أن يتحصل ذلك الشيء بحسب حقيقة نفسه ثم يلحقه هذه الإضافة. نعم لا مانع من دخول الإضافات في مفهومات أسامي الأشياء لا في حدودها الجوهرية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١١٨

فالجوهر الهيولى الحامل للصورة ربما يسمى هيولى باعتبار القبول فيكون إضافة القبول داخلية في شرح اسمه و مفهوم وصفه لا في ذاته بذاته كما أن النفس و الملك إنما يسميان نفسا و ملكا باعتبار تدبيرهما للبدن و المملكة لا باعتبار ماهيتهما فيكون إضافة التدبير جزءا لمفهوم الاسم لا للحقيقة الجوهرية. وأيضا لا يصح أن يكون فضل الهيولى القوة والاستعداد لأن جزء الجوهر المحض لا يجوز أن يكون عرضا وأيضا الاستعداد لا يكون حاملا لما هو استعداد له لأنه لا يبقى مع حصوله فالهيولى يلزم أن يبطل عند وجود الصورة و كلامنا في حامل الصورة.

فنقول إن هذه الإشكالات مما قد مضى ذكرها في تحقيق ماهية الهيولى مع أجوبتها على وجه لا مزيد عليه لكننا نعيد الجواب كما أعدنا السؤال بضرب آخر من البيان في المقال تكثيرا للقوائد بما فيه من الزوائد فليعلم أن أرباب العلوم كثيرا ما يطلقون ألفاظا موضوعة لأمر عرضية أو إضافية و يعبرون بها عن الأمور الذاتية مثل ما يذكرون في فصول

الأنواع الجوهرية أمورا إضافية كالناطق في فصل الإنسان و المتحرك المريد في فصل الحيوان. و غرضهم منها المبادي التي يترتب عليها تلك الأمور حتى إن الشيخ صرح - بتسمية هذه المبادي بالفصول الحقيقية و بتسمية هذه المفهومات كمفهوم الناطق و الحساس و المتحرك بالفصول المنطقية فكذا المراد بالاستعداد و المستعد ليس نفس هذا المفهوم الإضافي بل المبدأ القابلي له و قد علمت أن محلته لمفهوم القبول ليست على سبيل القبول الاستعدادي بل كسائر لوازم الماهيات نعم لا يكون مصداق معنى القوة و القابلية إلا أمرا غير متحصل كما أن مصداق الموجودية المصدورية بنفس ذاته ليس إلا صرف الوجود و مصداق الزوجية بنفس ذاتها ليس إلا زوجا صرفا لا شيئا له زوجية عارضة أو لازمة.

فائقن هذا البتة و لا تغفل عنه فإن في الغفلة عنه و الإهمال في رعايته ضررا عظيما في تحقيق الحقائق.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١١٩

و لهذا مما قد كررنا ذكره و اجعل هذه المعاني المصدورية مرئي لملاحظة الحقائق الخارجية و مقاييس لمشاهدة أنحاء الوجودات التي لا يمكن وجودها في العقل إلا بهذه المرائي و العنوانات. و أما قول القائل القوة تبطل عند وجود ما هي قوة عليه فلا تكون باقية عند وجود ذلك الشيء فصحيح إن أراد القوة الخاصة لشيء خاص و أما القوة المطلقة لحصول الأشياء الغير المتناهية فإنما يبطل إذا حصل جميع تلك الأشياء و هو محال و إذا لزم انتهاء مقدورات الله تعالى و قد برهن على أن قدرته تعالى و قوته غير متناهية. و أما قول الباحث جزء الجوهر لا يجوز أن يكون عرضا فإن أراد بالعرض ما يعرض لذات لا يفتقر في تقومها إليه فلا نسلم أن فصل الهيولى عرض بهذا المعنى - و إن أراد ما لا يكون بحسب حقيقته جوهر و إن صدق عليه معنى الجوهر صدقا عرضيا فممنوع و لكن لا نسلم امتناع تقوم الجوهر بالعرض بهذا المعنى. و قد سبق الكلام في أن فصول الجواهر البسيطة بأي معنى يكون جوهر و على أن الحقائق الغير المتأصلة يصح عدم اندراجها في مقولة الجوهر و لا في مقولة الأعراض هذا ما يمكن أن يقال من قبل المشاءين المحصلين و الله الهادي إلى طريق الحق و اليقين

فصل (٥) في الإشارة إلى منهج آخر لهذا المرام

إن للجسم ماهية مركبة من جنس و فصل و جنسها مفهوم الجوهر و فصلها هو مفهوم قولنا ذو أبعاد ثلاثة على الإطلاق و كل ماهية لها حد أي جنس و فصل إذا كانت بحيث يمكن أن يعدم في الخارج فصلها عنها و يبقى معنى جنسها كان لا محالة جنسها - و فصلها يحاذيان جزءين خارجين هما مطابقا صدقهما و مبدأ انتزاعهما عن الخارج

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٢٠

أعني مادة خارجية يستفاد منها جنسها الذي هو بعينه مادة عقلية باعتبار أخذها بشرط لا شيء و صورة خارجية يستفاد منها فصلها الذي هو بعينه صورة عقلية باعتبار أخذها بشرط لا شيء لكن الجسم ماهية بالصفة المذكورة أي يمكن أن يعدم فصله الذي هو مفهوم قولنا الممتد في الجهات الثلاث على الإطلاق المستلزم لنعت الاتصال مع صدق معنى الجوهر عليه فيلزم تركبه من مادة هي الهيولى الأولى و صورة هي الصورة الجسمية و هو المطلوب.

أقول وهذه الحجة أيضا قريبة المأخذ من الحجتين السابقتين و يرد عليها أكثر المناقشات التي سبق ذكرها وإن كانت بعنوانات و عبارات أخرى غيرها- لكن المآل واحد كما يظهر بالتأمل تركنا استئناف الكلام فيها و إعادة القول عليها- مخافة التطويل و الإسهاب و الله ولي الحق و ملهم الصواب.

فإن قلت إذا كان جعل الجنس و الفصل في المركبات واحدا لأنهما من الأجزاء المحمولة فيلزم أن يكون وجودهما معا و عدمهما معا فإذا انعدم عن الجسم قابلية الأبعاد فيلزم أن يكون زوال الاتصال عن الجسم عن زوال الجوهرية عنه فانهدم أساس هذه الحجة لأن مبناها على زوال الاتصال و بقاء الجوهرية و ليس كذلك.

قلت قد مر مثل هذا الكلام في مباحث الماهية و ذكرنا هناك أن زوال الفصل و إن استلزم زوال الجنس من حيث هو جنس لكن لا يستلزم زواله من حيث هو مادة.

حتى إن من زعم أن الشجر إذا قطع و الحيوان إذا مات زالت الجسمية عنهما بالكلية بزوال النمو و الحياة و هما مبدأ فصل النامي و الحساس و حدث الجنس في كل منهما بحدوث جسمية أخرى بالكلية و بنية أخرى بالتمام و التزم أن جسمية الشجر المقطوع بالعدد غير ما كان قبل القطع و كذا جسمية القالب الحيواني الباقي بعد الموت- غير ما كان قبل مفارقة الروح بلحظة.

فقد كابر مقتضى عقله و حسه جميعا و ليس ارتكاب هذا منه بأقل من ارتكاب

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٢١

الطفرة في الحركة و التفكك في الرحي و غيرهما من مجازفات المتأخرين بل الحق في هذا المقام أن يتمسك بما ذكرناه بعد اختيار اتحاد الجنس و الفصل جعلاً و وجوداً لكونهما من الأجزاء المحمولة للحقيقة الموجودة من الفرق بين استمرار ذاته الجنس أو استمراره من حيث هو جزء لمركب محمول عليه.

أ و لا ترى أن [مع ظ] انهدام البيت بقي اللبنة بأنفسها قد زال عنها وصف الجزئية للبيت لأن الجزئية و الجنسية من الصفات الإضافية يكفي لانعدامها انعدام ما أضيفت هي إليه

فصل (٦) في ذكر ما تجشمه بعض المتأخرين من أهل التحقيق لهذا المطلب و سماه برهان خاص الخاص

و تحريره بعد التلخيص عن الزوائد هو أن جميع الممكنات لما وجدت عن الوجود الحقيقي و الواحد الحق الذي ليست فيه شائبة من الكثرة بوجه من الوجوه.

و من جملة الموجودات الممكنة هي الممتدات و لا بد لكل معلول أن يناسب علته مناسبة مصححة لصدوره عنها دون غيرها و لا يجادها له و تلك المناسبة مفقودة بين الصورة الجسمية و الموجود الحقيقي المنزه عن شائبة التركيب و كذا بينها و بين العقول التي لا يمكن فيها فرض جزء دون جزء فلا بد من أن يتحقق بينها و بين واحد من العقول أمر له مناسبة بكل واحد منها من حيثية و هو الهيولى إذ هي من جهة كونها غير ممتد بحسب ذاتها يناسب أن يوجد من المبدأ المفارق و من جهة قبولها للامتداد تصوير واسطة لصدور الممتدات عنه.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٢٢

بحث وإشارة

كلامه هذا مبني على تقدم الهيولى على الصورة الجرمية بالذات وليس كذلك بل الأمر بالعكس لما علمت أن جهة الفعلية في كل شيء سابقة على جهة القوة و قد مر في مباحث الماهية و في مباحث العلة و المعلول أن الصورة في كل شيء متقدمة على المادة و الفصل متقدم على تحصل الجنس بحسب الوجود و إن لم يكن متقدما عليه من حيث المفهوم.

و ممن يصرح بكون الصورة الجرمية أصلا في الجسم و الهيولى متقومة بها أي قائمة عليها العلامة التفتازاني في شرح المقاصد حيث قال و الصورة جوهر يقوم بذاته و يتقوم به محله الذي هو الهيولى.

و سينكشف لك هذا المعنى في مبحث التلازم و ما ذكره من عدم المناسبة- بين الجسمية و العقل المفارق مسلم إلا أن عدم المناسبة بين الهيولى و بينه أشد و أكد- لكون أحدهما بالفعل من كل الوجوه و الأخرى بالقوة من كل الوجوه و لأن المفارق هو النور المحض على لسان الأشراف و الوجود الصرف عندنا و إن كان نورا مفتقرا إلى نور الأنوار و وجودا مجعولا للواجب بالذات و الهيولى محض الإمكان و الظلمة- فلا يمكن أن يكون بين موجود و موجود هذه المخالفة التي بين المفارقات و الهوليات- حتى إن المتضادين يشترط فيهما الاتفاق في الجنس القريب.

فجهة المناسبة بينها و بين المفارق في الصدور هي الوجودات المتوسطة التي غلبت فيها جهة الإمكان و تضاعفت فيها جهة الحاجة بالتدرج بحسب مراتب النزول الموجبة لتكثر الحاجة إلى العلل و الأسباب لنقص الوجود حتى انتهى إلى هوية متصلة- ذات أجزاء فرضية متخالفة الأوضاع و الحدود التي ليس شأنها الحضور و الجمعية و يكون بحيث يكون وحدتها ذات قوة الكثرة و اتصالها ذا استعداد الانفصال و بقاؤها قرين استيجاب الزوال إلا بسبب صورة أخرى يحفظها عن الزوال و يقيمها على الوحدة و الاتصال شخصا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٢٣

كانت كما في الأفلاك أو نوعا كما في العناصر ثم بتوسطها وجدت الهيولى التي لا وجود لها و لا وحدة و لا اتصال بالفعل فضلا عن أن يكون في معرض الزوال و الانتقال إلى الكثرة و العدم و الانفصال بل حقيقتها كما مر محض استعداد الوجود و العدم لغيره و قوة الوحدة و الكثرة و إمكان الاتصال و الانفصال.

فظهر أن الهيولى هي عين جهة الإمكان و القوة و ذاتها ماهية تعليلية بأمر له تجوهر في الوجود و الفعلية لأن حقيقتها كحقيقة الأغراض تابعة إلا أن لها وحدة جنسية يتحد بالجواهر الجسمانية و يحمل عليها فيكتسب الجوهرية منها و إن كانت ماهيتها نفس معنى الجوهر إلا أن هذا كما علمت لا يقتضي في مصداق الجوهر

فصل (٧) في حجة أخرى أفادها صاحب المباحث المشرقية

هي أن جسمية الفلك يلزمها شكل معين و مقدار معين لعدم قبولها الكون و الفساد على رأيهم.

فنقول هذا اللزوم إما النفس الجرمية المشتركة فيكون كل جسم كذا لا اشتراكها في الجسمية و ليس هكذا هذا خلف أو لأمر آخر فهو إذن إما حال في جرمية أو محل لها أو مباين عنها فإن كان ذلك الأمر حالا فيها فإن لم يكن لازما لها لم يكن سببا للزوم الشكل و المقدار المعينين و إن كان لازما عاد التقسيم في كيفية لزومه فإما أن يتسلسل و هو محال أو ينتهي إلى ما يلزم الجرمية فيعود المحذور المذكور من أنه يجب أن يكون كل جسم كذا و إما أن يكون لزومه بسبب شيء لا حال في الجسمية و لا محل لها فلا يخلو إما أن يكون ذلك الشيء جسما آخر أو قوة موجودة فيه أو أمرا مفارقا ليس

بجسم ولا جسماني و الأول باطل لأن ذلك الأمر إذا اقتضى ذلك للزوم لجسميته وجب أن يكون كل جسم كذلك و كانت الجسمية التي هي الملزومة لتلك الفلكية أولى بذلك الاقتضاء من جسمية أخرى و قد أبطلنا ذلك و إن لم يكن لمجرد الجسمية بل لقوة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٢٤

زائدة على الجسمية فهذا هو القسم الثاني.

فنقول تلك القوة إن كانت من لوازم محلها عاد السؤال في المقتضي لذلك للزوم - و إن لم يكن من لوازم محلها فإذا فارت محلها فإما أن تنعدم أو لا فإن عدمت عدمت الملازمة - لزوال ما يقتضيها و ذلك محال و إن لم تنعدم عند مفارقتها محلها كانت غنية في وجودها عن المحل فكل ما كان كذلك لم يكن لها اختصاص بمحل دون محل اختصاصا بالوجوب.

فهي إذن قوة غنية عن المحل في وجودها فيكون تأثيرها في جميع المتماثلات تأثيرا واحدا فلا بد في اختصاص بعض الأجسام لقبول الفلكية عن تأثيرها دون بعض من مخصص و يعود الكلام في كيفية لحوق ذلك المخصص و إن كان ذلك الأمر مبائنا.

فقد علمت أن نسبة المباين إلى جميع الأمثال واحدة فلا يقتضي في بعضها الفلكية إلا برابط مخصوص و يعود الشقوق في ذلك الرابط بمثل ما مر فبقي من الاحتمالات المذكورة أن لزوم الفلكية بسبب شيء حلت فيه الجسمية و حلت الفلكية و ما يلزمها فيه.

ثم إن ذلك الشيء لذاته يقتضي صورتين معا فلا جرم أنه صارت مقارنتها واجبة - فإذا لجسمية الفلك محل و ذلك هو المسمى بالهيولى و يجب أن يكون تلك الهيولى مخالفة لسائر الهيوليات و الإعادات المحالات المذكورة و إذا ثبت أن جسمية الفلك محتاجة إلى محل يحل فيه و جب احتياج جسمية العناصر إلى الهيولى فهذا تمام الحجة التي ذكرها. قال و قد أوردتها على كثير من الأذكاء فما قدحوا في شيء من مقدماتها - قال و لكنه قد عرض لي الشك و كان حاصل شكه منع اشتراك الجسمية - في جميع الأجسام مستندا بجواز أن يكون جسمية بعض الأجسام مخالفا لجسمية غيره لئلا يلزم عند استناد الشكل و المقدار المعينين في الفلك إلى جسمية اشتراك جميع الأجسام في الفلكية و لوازمها و طول الكلام في توجيه ذلك المنع بما لا فائدة في ذكرها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٢٥

و سيجيء بيان كون الجسمية أي مصحح فرض الأبعاد حقيقة نوعية امتيازها بلواحق خارجية.

ثم العجب منه أنه مع شدة خوضه في تتبع العلوم و مهارته في البحوث كيف اعتقد أن هذه الحجة منه قوية لا يرد عليها بحث و لا فيها قدح سوى ما ذكره من الشك على أن ما ذكره في غاية الوهن و الضعف و سيجيء من الكلام ما لم يبق معه شك في أن الجسمية مشترك في جميع الأجسام.

كيف و هو أصل محقق يبنى عليه كثير من المطالب كإثبات الصور النوعية في الأجسام و إثبات الهيولى في الأفلاك و إثبات الشكل الطبيعي في كل جسم و الحيز الطبيعي له و مباحث النفوس و القوى و الكيفيات و غيرها من المسائل

الباحثة في العلم الطبيعي - وأما الذي ينقدح به الحجة المذكورة و يرد عليها فأبحاث - الأول النقض بتوجه مثل ذلك السؤال بعينه في بيان لزوم القطبية و السكون لبعض مواضع الفلك و لزوم المنطقة و الحركة السريعة لبعض آخر و لا يمكن استناد ذلك إلى الهيولى لكونها واحدة في كل فلك فلا توجب الاختلاف فإن استند لزوم القطبية لموضع من الفلك و الدائرة لموضع آخر إلى الأمور الإلهية و العناية التي هي علمه تعالى بالنظام الأفضل أو الإرادة التي ينسبونها بعضهم إليه من غير مرجح - فيسند لزوم أصل الفلكية و ما يلزمها إليها.

و بالجملة كل ما وقع به الجواب عن هذا فليقع به عن ذلك من غير تفاوت.

الثاني أن إيجاب لزوم الشكل و المقدار لا يمكن أن يسند إلى الهيولى لأنها جوهر قابل و معنى القبول الصحة و الإمكان و هو ينافي الإيجاب و الاقتضاء بل لا بد من أن يكون للفلكية و لوازمها مقتضى آخر حتى يقبلها الهيولى التي شأنها قبول الصور و الهيئات لا إيجاب شيء من الأشياء.

الثالث أن الذي ذكره هو في الحقيقة شبهة يجب حلها حتى ينكشف جليلة الحال و ارتفع و زال أصل الإشكال و ظني أن هذه الشبهة هي التي قد كان الإمام

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٢٦

معتقدا منذ ثلاثين سنة فيها أنها برهان ثم ظهر له بعد تلك المدة أنها مغلطة و كان قد بكى على ذلك مدة.

و وجه الحل أنا نختار من الشقوق التي ذكرها في السبب المقتضي للزوم المقدار و الشكل المعينين للفلك أن ذلك السبب هو أمر حال في جسمية الفلك لازم لها فإن أعيد السؤال في علة لزومه لجسمية الفلك دون غيرها مع تماثل الأجسام في الجسمية.

قلنا الحال إذا كان مقوما للمحل كالصورة النوعية فهو في وجوده متقدم على وجود محله بالذات فمنشأ لزومه لذات المحل هو نفس ذات الحال فبالحقيقة هو الأصل و المنشأ في الملازمة و المحل لازم له كما في الملازمة بين الجسمية و الهيولى حيث إن الجسمية أصل في الجوهرية و منشأ للملازمة و الهيولى لازمة لها متفرعة عليها بل أصل الإشكال و الجواب جاريان في جميع الصور النوعية و محالها و كذا الفصول اللازمة لحصص الأجناس التي يكون في الأنواع.

مثلا النطق لازم لحيوانية الإنسان لعدم انفكاك أحدهما عن الآخر فإذا سئل عن سبب لزوم النطق للإنسان أنه إن كان لأجل كونه حيوانا لزم أن يكون الحيوانات كلها ناطقا للاشتراك في الحيوانية و إن كان لأجل أمر حال في حيوانية مخصوصة فالكلام في تخصصه عائد و إن لم يكن حالا في حيوانية مخصوصة هي حيوانية الإنسان فإن كان حالا ممكن الزوال عنه فيزول بزواله الناطقية و إن كان أمرا لازما لها كان الكلام عائدا في سبب لزومه و يتسلسل أو ينتهي إلى الحيوانية فيعود المحذور المذكور.

ثم الأمر اللازم للماهية المشتركة كان مقتضاه مشتركا في الجميع و إن كان أمرا مباينا و المباين متساوي النسبة إلى جميع حصص الأنواع لتمامها مع قطع النظر عن فصول فيلزم الترجيح من غير مرجح و إن كان لأمر هو محل الحيوانية - يرد الكلام في تخصص المحل به و لا يمكن هاهنا القول بأن المخصص هو الهيولى لأن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٢٧

الهيولى في العنصریات كلها واحدة بدلیل انقلاب بعضها إلى بعض.

فالجواب الحق فيه أن الفصل مقدم في الوجود على حصة الجنس فلزوم الجنس للفصل معلل بالفصل لأنه من لوازم ذاته و اللازم البين للزوم للماهية لا يحتاج إلى سبب للزوم لها سوى ذات الملزوم.

نعم لو لم يكن الحال مقوماً للمحل و لا يفتقر إليه المحل في تحصيله نوعاً لافتقر لزومه إلى مخصص خارج عن نفس ذلك الحال كالحرارة للنار و البياض للثلج - فهناك يستند جهة الزوم إلى ذات المحل من غير محذور لجواز استناد اللازم الواحد - إلى ملزومات متخالفة و قد بقي في تحقيق هذا الموضع كلام تركناه إلى موضع آخر لضيق المقام فإن ما اختاره من الشقوق المذكورة و هو إسناد جهة الاقتضاء لتخصيص جسمية الفلك بلوازمه المخصصة إلى المحل و إن لم يصح في المخصصات الكلية كالأبداعات و مبادي الفصول للأنواع الثابتة كما بينا لكنه إذا جرى الإشكال في تخصيص الأشخاص بلوازمها الشخصية بأنه هل للماهية أو لأمر هو حال فيها أو محل لها أو مباين عنها كان المختار من الشقوق هو المحل القابل لتعين الشخص المعين و لوازمه الشخصية لعدم استغناء الشخص و وجود الشخص و وحدته عن الحاجة إلى المحل المستغني عن ذلك الحال و إن كان الحال من أشخاص الماهية الجوهرية الصورية.

و ذلك لأن المقوم للمحل المادي حقيقة الصورة الحالة فيه لا الشخص المعين منها بحسب هويته فلا يمكن تقدمه من حيث الشخصية على المحل فالمحل علة للشخص سابق عليه.

و إذا نقل الكلام إلى تخصصه بالتخصيص مع تماثله لسائر المحال ينجر الكلام إلى مسألة ربط الحادث بالقديم كما سيجيء كشفها و توضيحها إن شاء الله العليم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٢٨

تتميم -

و مما يختلج بالبال أن الهيولى و الصورة إذا كانتا من ذاتيات الجسم و مقوماته - فلم يقعا و لا شيء منهما في مطلب لم بل يقعان في الجواب عن السؤال بما هو فلا يكتسب شيء منهما بالبرهان كيف و الذاتي لا يحتاج إلى وسط فيجب أن يعلم أجزاء الشيء بحسب الماهية و هي الأجزاء العقلية اصطلاحاً كالجنس و الفصل المتحصلين في العقل - عند ملاحظة الإبهام و التعيين للماهية غير الأجزاء الوجودية أعني المادة و الصورة و ما لا يطلب بلم أصلاً لا بحسب الثبوت لشيء و لا بحسب الإثبات له إنما هي المقومات بحسب الماهية من حيث هي هي.

و أما الأجزاء الوجودية و هي أجزاء الشيء بحسب نحو خاص من الوجود فهي مما يطلب بالبرهان أنها بالنسبة إلى الماهية المطلقة كالعوارض و إن كان وجودها بالنسبة إلى وجود الماهية كالمقومات و مقومات الوجود يطلب بلم كما أن مقومات الماهية يطلب بما.

و من هاهنا علم أن منزلة وجود العلة لوجود المعلول كمنزلة مفهوم الماهية للماهية كما لوحنا إليه سابقاً فإذا نتركب الجسم من الهيولى و الصورة ليس يستوجب الاستغناء عن البرهان بل يتعرف أولاً بجوهرياتها المحمولة فيطلب بالحجة أجزاء الوجودية و إن اشتملت الأولى بالقوة على الثانية فالقبول المأخوذ في حد الجسم تدل على مادته الأولى و الأبعاد تدل على صورته أي الجوهر الممتد بالذات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٢٩

الفن الثالث في تصاحب الهيولى و الصورة بالعلاقة الذاتية و فيه فصول

فصل (١) في أن الجسمية من حيث هي لا تنفك عن الهيولى

قد استفيد من برهان وجود الهيولى من طريق القوة و الفعل

أن لا شيء من الأجسام حال عن الهيولى إذ ما من جسم إلا و فيه شوب قوة الكمال أو قصور في أوضاع و أفعال و تجدد و انتقال من حال إلى حال و إن كان في أيسر غرض و أسهل معنى فعلي أو انفعالي فإن الفلك و إن كان بالفعل من جهة جوهريته و كمه و كيفه و أين و وضعه في نفسه و جميع هيئاته القارة إلا أن فيه القوة من جهة أوضاعه بالقياس إلى الغير لعدم إمكان الجمع بين سائر الأوضاع و قد علمت أن جهة القوة يرجع إلى شيء هو محض القبول و الإمكان و لا محالة يكون لازماً للجسمية كما مر من عدم استقلاله في التجوهر و القوة لا تنفك عن ذي القوة و ذو القوة لا يمكن أن يكون مفارقاً عقلياً و النفس بما هي نفس لا تنفك عن الجسمية فالمشتمل على القوة أولاً و بالذات هو الجسم بما هو جسم.

و هذا برهان متين لا يحتاج إلى كون الجسمية طبيعة نوعية متماثلة في جميع الأجسام على أن ذلك أمر ثابت لا خلل فيه.

طريق آخر -

ذكره الشيخ الرئيس في إلهيات الشفاء مبناه على أن الجسمية حقيقة واحدة - بيانها أن جسمية إذا خالفت جسمية أخرى في أن إحداها حارة و الأخرى باردة أو أن إحداها لها طبيعة فلكية و الأخرى لها طبيعة أخرى و لحقوق الأعراض أو الطبائع إنما كان بعد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٣٠

تحصل ذاتها و نوعيتها من غير حاجة لها في الجسمية إلى انضمام شيء من هذه المعاني و هذا بخلاف المقدار حيث مثلاً لا يكمل له ماهية إلا بعد تعيين أن كميته الاتصالية القارة منقسمة في جهة حتى يكون خطأ أو في جهتين حتى يكون سطحا أو في ثلاث جهات حتى يكون جسماً تعليمياً.

فالمقدار بما هو مقدار مطلق لا وجود له و لا قوام إلا بأن يكون خطأ أو سطحا أو جسماً و أما الجسم بما هو جسم فليس اقتران أي معنى و صورة إليه كاقتران فصل الخط أو فصل السطح بالمقدار بل الجسمية متصورة أنها وجدت بالأسباب التي لها أن يوجد بتلك الأسباب و هي جسمية فقط بلا زيادة إلا بحسب استكمالات أخرى في كمالاتها الثانوية كالجمادية و النباتية و الحيوانية فكما أن الطبيعة الجمادية إذا حصلت للجسم فهي تمام له من غير حاجة إلى صورة أخرى في كون ذلك الجسم نوعاً مخصوصاً - لكن لو حصلت له صورة أخرى صار أكمل مما كان أولاً فكذلك الصورة الامتدادية - فقد علم أن لحقوق الصور المكملة للأجسام بها ليس من جهة أن مجرد الجسمية ماهية مبهمه جنسية كيف و الجنس بما هو جنس ليس تمام التحصل و الحصول لا في الذهن و لا في العين كالمقدار المطلق فإنه إذا جرد عن الفصول و أخذ في العقل محذوفاً عنها ما عداه لم يكن لها وجود في الخارج أصلاً و يكون بهذا الاعتبار مادة عقلية محضة و إذا أخذ مطلقاً عن الحذف و الحقوق كان ماهية ناقصة غير محصلة و الجسمية ليست كذلك لأن الأجسام

المختلفة الصور والهيئات وجدنا أنها إذا حذف عنها العقل تلك الصورة والأعراض كانت قد عقلت فيها ماهية تامة جوهرية موصوفة بقبول الأبعاد و جواز العقل لها أن يكون بصرافتها موجودة في الخارج. فعلم أنها ماهية نوعية إذ لو لم يكن كذلك لكانت بعد التجريد عن الصور المختلفة والهيئات المتفاوتة إما حقائق مختلفة متخالفة بذواتها البسيطة أو متفاوتة بفصول ذاتية غير تلك الصور والهيئات أو حقيقة واحدة غير الحقيقة الواحدة المسماة بالجواهر القابل للأبعاد أو هي مع طبيعة أخرى يكون بمنزلة الفصل لها و الكل فاسد عند العقل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٣١

الصحيح فبقي كون الجميع مشتركة في طبيعة واحدة نوعية هي الجسمانية أي الجوهر المصحح لفرض الأبعاد. فإذا ثبت هذه الدعوى فببني عليها كثير من المقاصد منها إثبات افتقار الأجسام من حيث جسميتها إلى الهيولى وله طريقان ذكرهما الشيخ الرئيس في الإشارات - لتعميم وجود الهيولى في الأجسام الممتنعة عن قبول الفصل والوصل بسبب خارج من طبيعة الامتداد مقارن له سواء كان لازما لها كما في الأفلاك أو زائلا كما في الأجسام الصغار الصلبة بعد إثباتها في الأجسام القابلة لتوارد الوصل والفصل عليها.

أما الأول فلأن الطبيعة الامتدادية إما أن تكون بذاتها غنية عن الهيولى أو لم تكن فإن كانت غنية فاستحال حلولها في المحل لأن الحلول في محل عين الافتقار إليه - والغنى عنه إذا كان ذاتيا استحالة زواله و لو بالغير لأن ما بالذات لا يزول ولا يزال فاستحال حلولها لكن الحلول ثابت في بعض الأجسام و هو ينافي كون الغناء ذاتيا للجسم من حيث الجسمانية وإن لم تكن غنية لذاتها فتكون مفتقرة لذاتها فيلزم حلولها في المحل أينما تحققت سواء كانت في الأجسام القابلة للانفصال الخارجي أو في غيرها

وهم وإزاحة -

قد توهم بعض الناس ورود النقص على هذا الدليل بجريانه في المحل الواحد - ليلزم اجتماع المتماثلات في محل واحد و كون صورة واحدة حالة في جميع المحال - و كون هيولى واحدة محلا لجميع الصور و كون كل جسم مركبا من جميع الصور والهيوليات إلى غير ذلك من المحالات و هو منفسخ.

لأننا نختار عند التردد أن الطبيعة المطلقة لا يفتقر لذاتها إلا إلى المحل المطلق لا المحل المخصوص بل المفتقر إليه هي الطبيعة المخصوصة فيجوز عروض الافتقار الخاص لها إلى المحل المعين لأجل خصوصية عارضة لها لا لذاتها بل لأسباب خارجة عنها - والاستغناء الذاتي عن المحل المخصوص لا ينافي الافتقار العارض لخصوص فرد من

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٣٢

الأفراد و هذا مثل لوازم الماهيات فإن ماهية المثلث إذا اقتضت تساوي الزوايا لقائمتين - لا يقتضي في كل فرد إلا تساويا مخصوصا بهذا الفرد دون غيره فالتساوي المطلق مقتضى ذاته و ليس شيء من خصوصيات التساوي مقتضاها لذاتها. فلا يرد حينئذ أن هذا التساوي المخصوص إن كان لازما للطبيعة بالذات فكان يوجد في كل مثلث هذا التساوي لقائمتين و يوجد في هذا المثلث جميع أفراد التساوي للقائمتين لأن الكلام يجري في كل مثلث و لازمه المعين.

فالحل فيه أن طبيعة المثلث مطلقا لا تقتضي إلا مطلق التساوي و الطبيعة الخاصة تقتضي التساوي الخاص فالمطلق

للمطلق و المقيد للمقيد فكذلك قياس معنى الافتقار إلى المحل للجسمية فإن الافتقار إلى المحل المطلق لازم للجسمية المطلقة و الافتقار إلى المحل المعين يستلزمه الجسمية المعينة و كما أن نفس الأفراد من عوارض الطبيعة كما تقرر عندهم فلوازمها على الوجه الأولي.

فليس لأحد أن يقول كما جاز أن لا يكون افتقار الطبيعة إلى المحل الواحد لذاتها ثم يحصل [يعرض] الافتقار لأجل خصوصية و سبب فليجز مثل ذلك بالقياس إلى المحل مطلقا.

لأننا نقول إذا جردنا الطبيعة الجسمية عن الخصوصيات فإن لم تكن مفتقرة إلى المحل كانت في ذاتها مستغنية القوام عن المواد كلها و ما كان بحسب ذاته متحصل القوام بلا تعلق بغيره كان ذلك نحو وجوده الذاتي و نحو الوجود الذاتي لماهية واحدة- لا يكون متفاوتا فلا يجوز أن يكون نحو وجود الماهية المختص بها من حيث هي هي مختلفا- بحسب اختلاف الأسباب الخارجة عنها و عن مقوماتها.

نعم هذا إنما يجوز في الوجودات العرضية و النسب و الإضافات مثلا الافتقار إلى الأكل إنما يعرض للإنسان لا بسبب أصل البقاء على الإنسانية بل بسبب الحرارة المحللة للمواد و قد يزول بزوالها و كذا الاستغناء عن اللباس الذي بالذات لا ينافي عروض الافتقار إليه بسبب برد مفرط لأن كونه آكلا و لابسا ليس نحو وجود الإنسان المختص به. و هذا هو الذي يوهم لبعض الناس إمكان الوساطة بين الافتقار و الغنى الذاتيين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٣٣

أو جواز عروض الافتقار لعله و أما عروض الافتقار إلى المحل بعد أن لم يكن بسبب أمر آخر فهو ممتنع لما مر من أن الحلول عبارة عن نحو وجود ماهية الحال و كذا عروض الاستغناء عنه بعد افتقاره إليه لذلك و لأن الصورة لو انفكت عن المحل تقدرت بمقدار معين فتشكلت بشكل خاص فانفعلت و تأثرت عن فاعل خارج يقتضي المقدار و الشكل المعينين إذ لو كانا لازمين لماهية الجسمية لم يتغيرا مع بقائها و كل ما يحدث بسبب فاعل مؤثر فلا بد فيه من قابل متأثر.

و قد علمت من أن جهة الانفعال يتصحح من الهولي الأولى فيلزم أن يكون مقارنة لها و قد فرضت منفكة عن المحل هذا خلف.

و أما الطريق الثاني و هو ما يبتني على إثبات إمكان القسمة الانفكاكية في جميع الامتدادات من حيث الطبيعة الامتدادية النوعية و هو الذي قد مر بيانه في إبطال مذهب ديمقراطيس و نحن قد أتممنا الحجة المشهورة على إبطال مذهبه بوجه لا خدشة فيها.

فظهر هناك أن كل جسم بما هو جسم مما يقبل لذاته الانقسام الفكي كما يقبل لذاته الانقسام الوهمي و جواز الانفكاك بحسب الطبيعة الامتدادية يكتفي في الافتقار إلى الهولي و إن عاق عن ذلك عائق طبيعي كما في الأفلاك أو غير طبيعي كما في الأجسام الديمقراطيةية.

و ذلك لأن الجسم إذا لم يكن مقارنا للمادة لكان قبولها للقسمة الفكية مستحيلا و قد فرض جائزا فإمكان قبول الجسم للقسمة المذكورة كاشف عن وجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٣٤

الهيولى فيه.

قال الشيخ قدس سره و لعل هذا العائق إذا كان لازما طبيعيا كان لا اثينية بالفعل - و لا فصل بين أشخاص نوع تلك الطبيعة بل نوعه في شخصه مراده على ما سنع لنا في كلامه أن الجوهر الممتد من حيث هو هو لو لزمه ما يمنعه عن الانفكاك و الانفصال بحسب الطبيعة فلا يمكن تعدد أشخاصه في الوجود بل ينحصر نوعه في شخصه إذ لو تعدد شخصه - لكان كل واحد منهما قابلا للانفكاك بالبيان السابق في رد مذهب ديمقراطيس - مع وجود المانع هذا خلف.

ثم يثبت بطريق عكس النقيض أن المانع للقسمة ليس لازما للجوهر الجسماني - من حيث هو هو و إن كان لازما لبعض أفراده كالفلك فالصورة الفلكية العائقة للقسمة و إن كانت لازمة للفلك لكنها ليست لازمة لطبيعة الجسم مطلقا و اللازم لبعض الأفراد فقط عارض للطبيعة المشتركة فيجوز زواله نظرا إلى الطبيعة فجسمية الفلك تقبل القسمة لذاتها و إن لم يقبلها من جهة الفلكية لجواز زوال العائق للقسمة عنها و القابل للقسمة الانفكاكية غير مفارق عن الهيولى.

فثبت بذلك عموم الافتقار إلى الهيولى في الأجسام و هو المرام

تحقيق و بحث

لما كانت طبائع الأفلاك أي صورها النوعية كما سيجيء مانعة عن قبول الفلك و الفصل فعلى ذلك و جب أن يكون كل نوع من الفلك محصورا في شخص واحد كما هو مذهبهم إذ لو تحقق فلكان أو كوكبان من نوع واحد لصح بينهما من الوصل ما حصل بين الجزئين الموهومين لواحد منهما و بين الجزئين الموهومين ما حصل من الانفكاك بين الفلكين أو الكوكبين فيكون في قوتها من جهة الطبيعة النوعية قبول الفصل و الوصل مع أن المانع ذاتي لهما.

و لذا حكموا بامتناع الاثينية في الأفلاك من حيث الطبيعة الفلكية و كذا في كل جرم من الفلكيات من حيث طبيعته المخصوصة و إن جازت القسمة فيها من حيث جسيميتها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٣٥

فإذا كان هذا هكذا فنقول يرد عليهم النقض لموضع من الفلك فيه كوكب أو تدوير أو خارج فيوجد له في الخارج جزءان منفصلان من فلك واحد كجنتي الكواكب أو التدوير أو الخارج و الاثينية الخارجية في طرفي الخارج المركز أظهر كالمتممين و ذلك لأن البيان الموجب لعدم الاثينية جاز فيهما بأنه يمكن على الجزئين المنفصلين على الجنبتين من فلك واحد ما صح على الجزئين المتصلين و يصح على المتصلين ما أمكن على المنفصلين فيلزم الخرق و الالتيام على الفلك من حيث طبيعته الخاصة و هما ممتنعان عليه عندهم فإن اعتذروا عن هذا بأصل الفطرة هاهنا يعارض بمثله في شخصي نوع واحد من الامتداد هناك.

مخلص عرشي

هذا النقض عليهم قد أورده الشيخ المحقق و المكاشف المدقق صاحب الإشراق - في كتاب المطارحات بحثا على الحكماء و ما أجاب عنه أصلا و لكنني أفاض الله على قلبي وجه التفصي عنه و هو أن الفلكية ليست من الصفات السارية في جسيميتها كالإنسانية و ذلك لأن صورتها التي تحصلها نوعا خاصا و يقوم جسيميتها موجودة ليست صورة تقوم بموادها لأن لكل جرم منها نفسا مجردة هي مبدء صفاتها و أوضاعها و أفعيلها - و حركاتها المختصة بأجزاء جسمية

فلك واحد سواء كانت وهمية محضة أو خارجية ليست أجزاءً مقدارية لذاته النوعية بل لمادته و جسميته و توارد الفصل و الوصل على جسمية الفلك - من حيث ذاتها الامتدادية غير مستحيل.

إنما المحال تعدد فلك واحد من حيث هو فلك إلى فلكين أو جزءين له من حيث هما جزءان للفلك لا من حيث هما جزءان لجسمية الفلك فالمتممان ليسا فلكين عندنا و إن كانا من الأجسام المنسوبة إلى الفلك و لهذا أصحاب الهيئة لم يذكرهما من جملة أعداد الأفلاك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٣٦

فصل (٢) في ذكر أحكام كلية متعلقة بهذا المقام

منها أنه قد ظهر مما ذكر أن مادة الشيء ليست داخلية في قوام ماهية ذلك الشيء

و إلا لكانت بينة الثبوت و لم يفتقر في إثباتها إلى برهان لكن الجسم بما هو جسم قد حصل لنا معناه و هو الجوهر الذي يمكن أن يفرض فيه أبعاد ثلاثة على الوجه المذكور و شككنا في أنه هل له مادة تحمل معناه أم لا إلى أن جاء البرهان الحاكم بوجود جوهر آخر مادي.

فظهر لنا أن الجسم المحسوس مركب من جوهرين حال و محل فيتبين من هذا أن المادة غير داخلية في قوام ماهية الجسم ثم إننا بعد ما أثبتنا المادة لبعض الأجسام - توقفنا في بعض آخر مع علمنا باشتراك معنى الجسم النوعي بين الذي انكشف لنا مقارنته لها و بين ما يتوقف في الحكم بوجودها له.

فبهذا أيضا يتأكد ما قلنا من عدم حاجة الشيء إلى المادة في حقيقة ذاته و إن احتاج إليها في قوام وجوده و كما علمت هذا في الجسمية بالقياس إلى ما قامت بها أي المادة فاعلم أيضا بالقياس إلى ما يقوم بها كالتبائع النوعية كما مر.

و قد تأكد الشيخ في الهيئات الشفا هذا الحكم بقوله - و أما الجسمية التي نتكلم فيها فهي في نفسها طبيعة محصلة ليس تحصل نوعيتها بشيء ينضم إليها حتى لو توهمنا أنه لم ينضم إلى الجسمية معنى بل كانت جسمية لم يمكن أن يكون متحصلا في أنفسنا إلا مادة و اتصال فقط.

و لذلك إذا أثبتنا مع الاتصال شيئا آخر فليس لأن الاتصال نفسه لا يتحصل إلا بالإضافة إليه و قرنه به بل بحجج أخرى تبين أن الاتصال لا يوجد بالفعل وحده - فليس أن لا يوجد الشيء بالفعل موجودا هو أن لا يتحصل طبيعته فإن البياض و السواد كل شيء منهما متحصل الطبيعة معنى مخصصا أتم تخصيصه الذي في ذاته ثم لا يجوز أن يوجد بالفعل إلا في مادة و أما المقدار مطلقا فيستحيل أن يحصل له طبيعة مشار إليها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٣٧

إلا أن يجعل بالضرورة خطأ أو سطحا حتى يصير جائزا أن يوجد لا أن المقدار يجوز أن يوجد مقدارا ثم يتبعه أن يكون خطأ أو سطحا.

و قال أيضا و أما صورة الجسمية من حيث هي جسمية فهي طبيعة واحدة بسيطة محصلة لا اختلاف فيها و لا يخالف مجرد صورة جسمية لمجرد صورة جسمية بفصل داخل في الجسمية - و ما يلحقها إنما يلحقها على أنها شيء خارج عن طبيعتها فلا يجوز إذن أن يكون جسمية محتاجة إلى مادة و جسمية غير محتاجة إلى مادة و اللواحق لا يغنيها عن

المادة بوجه من الوجوه لأن الحاجة إلى المادة إنما تكون للجسمية و لكل ذي مادة لأجل ذاته و للجسمية من حيث هي جسمية لا من حيث هي جسمية مع لاحق فقد بان أن الأجسام مؤلفة من مادة و صورة.

و منها أن قول الحكماء كلما استغنى فرد من أفراد طبيعة نوعية عن المحل لذاته

فيلزم استغناء سائر أفراد تلك الطبيعة عنه يجب أن يخصص الطبيعة بالطبيعة الموجودة و الأفراد بأفراد الخارجية لئلا ينتقض هذه القاعدة بالجواهر المجردة- و بالجواهر الصورية المستغنية عن الموضوع فإن كلا منها قد يوجد في الذهن مفتقرا إليه و قد يزول عنه و هو المحل المستغني عن الحال فلو لزم من افتقار الفرد الذهني للجواهر إلى الموضوع افتقار سائر الأفراد له إليه فيلزم أن لا يتحقق جوهر في العالم لا تسام الجواهر في المبادي العالية هذا خلف.

ثم إنك لما علمت من طريقتنا المختارة عند القدماء تجويز كون ماهية واحدة نوعية مختلفة المراتب في الحاجة إلى المحل و عدمها فلا استدلال على افتقار الجوهر- الممتد إلى الهيولى في الفلكيات بتحقيق الافتقار إليها في الأجسام القابلة للفصل و الفك غير صحيح على هذا الرأي فلا بد من المصير إلى أحد المسلكين الآخرين في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٣٨

بيان هذا المطلب

فصل (٣) في استحالة تعري الهيولى الجسمية عن مطلق الصورة

هذا المقصد مما يمكن فهمه من أحد مسالك الهيولى

و هو مسلك القوة و الفعل فإن الهيولى إذا تجردت عن كافة الصورة لكانت أمرا بالفعل و لها قوة قبول الأشياء و لا أقل لها استعداد شيء ما و إلا لم يكن هيولى فيتربك ذاته من جهة بها يكون بالفعل و من جهة بها يكون بالقوة و قد فرضت بسيطة هذا خلف.

و هذا برهان تمام لا يرد عليه شيء عند التحقيق لكن القوم لم يكتفوا به- بل ذكروا مقدمة أخرى هي أنها عند التجرد يلزم أن يكون جسما و كل جسم مركب من الهيولى و الصورة و المفروض خلافه.

بيان ذلك أنها إذا تجردت فإن كانت ذات وضع و حيز فكانت إما منقسمة فيكون أحد المقادير الثلاثة و قد فرضته مجردة عنها و عن ما يستدعيها أو غير منقسمة فيكون جوهر فردا لا يتجزى و قد مر بطلانه.

إذ النقطة عرض لا يجوز أن تكون موجودة منحازة و إن لم يكن ذات وضع و إشارة فلا يخلو إما أن يستحيل اتصافها بالتجسم و التقدر أو يمكن فإن كان الشق الأول- فكانت من الجواهر العقلية بالفعل فتكون خارجة عن جنس الجواهر القابل و المفروض خلاف ذلك.

و إن كان الشق الثاني فلا يخلو إما أن يحل فيها البعد المحصل لها دفعة أو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٣٩

تدريجا على نهج الحركة في حيز مخصوص أم لا فعلى الأول إذا صادفها المقدار و قد كانت في حيز مخصوص لكانت قبل التجسم متجسمة و متحيزة و إن لم تكن محسوسة و هو محال و إن لم يكن صادفها في حيز مخصوص فلم يكن فيها و لا في نفس المقدار ما به يقع التخصيص فلم يكن حيز أولى به من حيز و لا محالة لا بد أن يكون عند المصادفة

في حيز فهو إما في جميع الأحياز أو في بعضها دون بعض.

فالأول محال لأن الجسم الواحد لا يكون له في كل وقت إا حيز واحد.

و الثاني يستلزم الترجيح من غير مرجح فعلم من هذا أن هيولى جسم خاص - كالمدرّة إذا تجردت لا يكون لها في ذاتها ما به لبست الصورة المدرية و إذا لبست تلك - فليس يصح أن يختص بحيز معين من أحياز كلية عنصرها و هو الأرض إلا بجهة مخصصة - توجب لها نسبة إلى ذلك الحيز و ليست تلك الجهة إلا علاقة وضعية إذ غيرها من الأسباب و المعاني و الصفات لا يخصص القابل بحيز دون حيز لتساوي نسبة نفس كونها هيولى - و نفس الفاعل المفارق و نسبة سائر الأوصاف الفاعلية و الدواعي الغائية عند المفارقة إلى صورة معينة شخصية دون غيرها فلا تأثير لها إلا بمناسبة وضعية.

و أما على الشق الثاني أي كون قبول الهيولى لمقدار معين بكماله لا دفعة بل على سبيل تدرج و انبساط فيلزم أن تكون أيضا ذات وضع بل جسما و ذلك لأن كل منبسط في المقدار يلزمه لا محالة الجهات و الأطراف الست الفوق و التحت و القدم و الخلف و اليمين و الشمال و كل جوهر يلزمه الأبعاد و النهايات يكون جسما و قد فرض لا كذلك

طريق آخر

المادة عند التجرد أيضا يكون جوهرًا قابلاً كما علمت فيكون لازمة القبول للأشياء لأن لوازم الماهيات لا ينفك عنها و هذا هو التحقيق.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٤٠

إلا أنا نقول مع قطع النظر عن هذا هل هي وجودها عند التجرد وجود قابل بالفعل فيلزم أن يكون عند التجرد متصورة بالجسمية بالفعل و هو ممتنع و إن لم يكن وجودها وجود قابل بالفعل فيكون متقوما بذاته من غير تقدر و تكمم فلا يكون ذا جزء بالذات و لا بالعرض و لا بالقوة و لا بالفعل.

ثم إذا عرض له المقدار صار ذا أجزاء بالقوة عند الوحدة الاتصالية و ذا أجزاء بالفعل عند الكثرة فيكون عروض أمر لأمر مما يغير حقيقته عما كانت عليه و يبطل ذاتها و نحو وجودها المختص بها فكيف يكون للشيء تقوم بأنه لا جزء له أصلاً لا بالقوة و لا بالفعل ثم عرض له أن يصير ذا أجزاء بالقوة في وقت و بالفعل وقتاً آخر و التبديل في حد الشيء و قوامه ممتنع و لا كذلك الحد بالنسبة إلى المحدود فليس لأحد أن يتوهم أن الحد لما كان عين المحدود و مع ذلك وجد المحدود في الخارج أو في الذهن مجرداً عن الأجزاء كالجنس و الفصل - ثم يوجد في الذهن عند ملاحظة العقل معناه الحدي فيكون قوامه بالأجزاء بعد ما كان قبل هذه الملاحظة بسيطاً.

لأننا نقول التفاوت بين الحاليين إنما هو بحسب الأوصاف و الاعتبارات لا بحسب وجود معاني الأجزاء و عدمها فإن ذوات تلك الأجزاء لا تتبدل في الحد و المحدود - بل يتعدد عند التفصيل ما كان واحداً عند الإجمال و بالعكس إذ الإجمال و التفصيل نحوان إدراكيان من غير تفاوت و في ماهية المدرك ففي المحدود يكون وجودات الأجزاء بما هي وجودات بالقوة و في الحد يكون بالفعل و كذا حكم المقدار عند الاتصال و عند الانفصال.

و أما الجوهر المفارق فلا يمكن أن يكون فيه أجزاء مقدارية لا بالفعل و لا بالقوة فلو فرض أن الجوهر المفارق صار ذا بعد و مقدار يلزم المحال المذكور و هو التبديل في نفس قوام الشيء و حقيقته و زيادة التفصيل و التوضيح في هذا

المطلب يطلب من كتاب الشفاء.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٤١

طريق آخر

ذكرها بهمينار في التحصيل وهو أنه لو قبلت الهيولى صورة لا تقبل الانقسام - لكنت ضدا للصورة الجسمية وليس للجسمية ضد وإن لم يقبل صورة أصلا لم يكن جوهرًا قابلاً بل يكون جوهرًا بالفعل فإن كانت في نفسه قابلة للإشارة فكانت جسماً وقد فرضت مجردة عن الجسمية وإن لم يكن في نفسها مما إليه الإشارة لزم من المحالات ما ذكرناه.

طريق آخر

لما تقرر عندهم أن مصحح القسمة الخارجية في المقدار هو المادة باستعدادها فلو فرض تجرد الهيولى عن الصورة لما صحت القسمة الخارجية في المقادير و بطلان التالي كيان الملازمة بين فالمقدم كذلك.

تفريع

قد صح واستتم من كلام الشيخ وتلميذه أن الصورة الجسمية ليست بالنسبة إلى الهيولى كالأعراض اللازمة التي تلحق الشيء بعد أن يتم له نحو من انحاء الوجود أي وجود كان سواء كان ذلك اللازم بحيث يتحصل به للملزوم تقوم ثانوي وله وجود طبيعي آخر كجسمية الفلك و صورتها الفلكية أم لم يتحصل كالمثلث و مساواة زواياه لقائمتين فإن للمثلث وجوداً تاماً سواء اعتبرت معه المساواة للقائمتين أم لا فاعتبار هذا اللازم و عدمه لا يؤثر في الملزوم وجوداً و كمالات بخلاف الصور الطبيعية فإنها يستكمل بها المحل و ينفع عنها بكمال بعد كمال أول.

و أما الجسمية بالقياس إلى ما يتقوم بها فليست من أحد هذين القسمين إذ لا وجود لمحلها مستقلاً بوجه من الوجوه أصلاً بل الهيولى ما شأنها قوة الوجود بما هي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٤٢

قوة الوجود في الخارج فبقيد قوة الوجود يخرج الملزوم بالقياس إلى لازم الماهية - و بقيد الحيثية يخرج المادة الثانية كالجسم مثلاً بالقياس إلى ما يكملها من الطبائع الصورية و بقيد الخارج يخرج الإمكان و الماهية.

طريق آخر

لو جاز للهيولى بقاء بلا صورة جرمية أي توجد وجوداً عقلياً بلا وضع و إشارة حسية يلزم أن يخالف هيولى لهيولى أخرى و ليس لهما مقدار بحسب المقدار و اللازم باطل بالضرورة فالملزوم كذلك.

وجه اللزوم أنا إذا قسمنا جسماً بنصفين فيفرد هيولى كل جزء بصورة فتوهمنا تجريد الصورة عن هيولائها قبل وقوع القسمة و توهمنا تجرد كل من النصفين عن هيولاه بعد القسمة فيكون صورة كل واحدة من المادتين غير منقسمة لا بالفعل و لا بالقوة.

فلا محالة حينئذ يكون هيولى ذلك الجسم يخالف لهيولى كل واحد من النصفين و هذه المخالفة إما بالماهية و لوازمها و هي واحد في الجميع و إما بالوضع و المكان و هما لا يكونان عند عدم الجسمية و إما بالمقدار و هو مسلوب عنهما فيكون حكم وجود الشيء و عدمه واحداً و إما باتحاد الهيوليين بعد التجريد هيولى واحدة كما كانت قبل القسمة -

فيكون حكم الشيء لو لم ينفصل منه شيء ما هو غيره هو بعينه حكمه و قد انفصل عنه غيره و حكمه مع غيره و حكمه وحده من كل جهة حكما واحدا.

و إما بفساد أحدهما و بقاء الأخرى فإن كان المعدم لها زوال الجسمية عنها فهو مشترك بينهما فلا يختص أحدهما به دون الأخرى و إن كان بامتزاجهما شيئا واحدا و هو أيضا ممتنع في عديم المقدار.

فلم يبق من الشقوق إلا كون أحدهما جزءا للأخرى و ليس جزءا محمولا عليها- فيكون لا محالة جزءا مقداريا لها مع أنهما مجردتان عن المقدار هذا خلف.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٤٣

تفريع آخر

يتحقق من هاهنا أن الهيولى ليست في ذاتها إلا شيئا جسمانيا و ليس لها نحو من الوجود لم يكن به غير جسمانية و إلا لكانت بحسب ماهيتها محتملة القوام من غير تجسم- فكل ما يحصل منها في الذهن فهو وجه مباين لماهيتها غير صادق عليها إلا بحسب التقدير و الفرض.

فقولنا الهيولى أمر بالقوة معناه أن كل ما لو وجد كان هيولى فهو بحيث لو وجد كان بالقوة لأن كل ما يلتفت إليه العقل استقلالا و يحكم عليه بحكم بتي فهو أمر معقول القوام بالفعل و ليس أمرا بالقوة و هكذا الحال في نظائرها من الأمور الناقصة التحصل و الوجود كالعدد و الزمان و الحركة و الحرف و اللاتناهي و التناقض و أمثالها.

تفريع آخر-

لما ثبت أن كل ما يقبل المقادير و الأبعاد فلا يمكن أن يكون بحسب قوام ذاته- و فعلية تجوهره مما يتأبى عن قبول القسمة و التعدد و إلا لكان ما كان وجوده وجودا وحدانيا- غير انقسامي مما يقبل وجودا منقسما في ذاته قسمة بالقوة كالمقدار أو بالفعل كالعدد و هو مستحيل عند العقلاء و لهذا يحكم كل من له فطرة مستقيمة باستحالة طريان الجسمية على الجوهر المفارق أو الجوهر الفرد من ذوات الأوضاع لو فرض وجوده فلا بد أن يكون مادة الجسمية و المقدار أمرا داخلا تحت جنس التقدر و التجسم فلو تشكك متشكك أنا ننقل الكلام إلى نفس مادة الجسم هل هي في ذاتها مع قطع النظر عن قبول الصورة- تكون متصلة فيكون نفسها صورة الجسم لا مادته إذ لا نعني بحقيقة الجسم إلا جوهرًا متصلا بنفسه.

فبهذا يتم تلك الحقيقة بلا قصور فلا حاجة لها إلى جسمية أخرى غير ذاتها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٤٤

يلحقها أو يكون جوهرًا عقليا أو جوهرًا ذا وضع غير منقسم فيلزم منه من المحذور ما قد برهن على استحالة.

فهذا هو الباعث الكلي لمن أنكر وجود الهيولى الأولى على ذلك.

قلنا قد مر سابقا ما يفي بدفع هذا الشك فإن بناءه على الذهول عن معنى المادة- و مرتبة وجودها من الصورة إذ ليست نسبة الصورة الجسمية إليها نسبة لازم خارج أو صورة مكاملة لحق كل منهما إلى الشيء بعد تمام حقيقته و وجوده و ليس للهيولى وجود مستقل بالفعل إلا بالصورة بمعنى أن الصورة نحو وجودها الخارجي و جهة تحصلها و تمامها

فوجودها عبارة عن نقصان وجود الصورة بحسب التشخص دون نقصان الماهية الخارجية لها و قصور كل شيء من توابع حقيقته المطلقة.

وقد مر أن الصورة في غير المادة الأولى من المواد الثانية من ذوات الطبائع الثانوية إنما يفيد لموضوعاتها وجودا كماليا بها يصير الموضوع موجودا مستكملا له تنوع آخر من حيث الصورة بعد وجوده في ذاته و تحصله و تنوعه في نفسه. ولهذا يكون موضوعا و مادة أيضا من جهتين فمن حيث له في نفسه و صورته مع قطع النظر عن لحوق صورة أخرى نوعية خارجية يكون مستغنيا عن الحال - يكون نسبته إليه نسبة الموضوع إلى العرض و باعتبار أن نسبة ذاته إلى هذا التحصل الثانوي و التنوع الأخرى نسبة النقص إلى التمام و القوة إلى الفعل يكون مادة. و أما الهیولی الأولى فهي عارية في ذاتها عن جميع مراتب التحصل و التنوع إلا بما ضم إليها و لذلك لا حقيقة لها إلا بما انضم إليها من صورة الجسمية أولا ثم من صورة كمالية أخرى كما سيجيء إثباتها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٤٥

فصل (٤) في كيفية التلازم بين الهیولی و الصورة ليظهر نحو وجود كل صورة بالقياس إلى ما هو حامل لها و تقدمها في الوجود على هیولاهما

اعلم أنك لما علمت أن الصورة الجسمية لذاتها غير مستغنية عن الهیولی و أن الهیولی أيضا مفتقرة لذاتها إلى الصورة فعلمت أن بينهما علاقة ذاتية ليست بمجرد اتفاق و كل شيئين يكون العلاقة بينهما ذاتية فلا يخلو إما أن تكون تلك العلاقة علاقة التضاييف - أو علاقة العلية و المعلولية أما الأولى فغير ثابتة بينهما لأن ذات كل واحدة منهما غير معقولة بالقياس إلى الأخرى نظرا إلى ذاتيهما و إن كانت الهیولية بحسب المفهوم - داخلية تحت المضاف إذ لا يعقل إلا بالقياس إلى ما هي قوة أو ذات قوة له أو استعداد أو ذات استعداد له و كذا مفهوم كون الشيء صورة لا يعقل إلا بالقياس إلى ما يتم و يكمل بها لكن الكلام في نفس حقيقة كل منهما مع قطع النظر عن مفهوم اسم كل منهما و إلا لم يحتج في استلزام كل منهما للآخر إلى برهان لأن المتضاييفين يعقلان معا.

و أما الثانية فهي و إن كانت في بادي الأمر يحتمل قسمين أحدهما أن يكونا متكافئين و الآخر أن لا يكونا كذلك. لكن الشق الأول و هو كون الشيئين بحيث يكون كل منهما علة للآخر - ينفسخ بأدنى توجه من العقل الصحيح من غير حاجة إلى كلفة الاستدلال و فرق بين كون الشيئين بحيث يستلزم وجود كل واحد منهما وجود الآخر أو عدمه عدمه - و بين كون كل منهما سببا للآخر وجودا أو عدما.

فالثاني فاسد و الأول صحيح بشرط أن يكون معنى الاستلزام في الثاني هو أن يكون وقوعه كاشفا عن وقوع ما هو سبب له أولا.

ثم الشق الثاني أيضا يتصور قسمين أحدهما أن يكون كلاهما معلولي علة واحدة.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٤٦

و الآخر أن يكون أحدهما بخصوصه علة و الآخر بخصوصه معلولا لكن يستحيل أن يكون كلاهما معا صادرين عن ثالث من غير علاقة أخرى بينهما و إلا لم يلزم التلازم بينهما بالذات و هو خرق الفرض.

إذ قد ثبت امتناع ثبوت كل من الهيولى و الصورة نظرا إلى ذاتها بدون صاحبها فحينئذ لو لم يكن إحداهما أقرب إلى الثالث يلزم أن يكون وجود كل واحدة منهما عن الثالث بواسطة الأخرى فيعود المحال المذكور الذي قد لزم من كون شيئين كل واحد منهما سببا للآخر فيجب أن يكون إحداهما في درجة المعلولية أقرب إلى العلة لا على وجه الاستقلال ليعود إلى جواز تحقق إحداهما في مقام لم يكن الثانية بعد في ذلك المقام و يكون خرق الفرض بل على وجه آخر سيظهر.

ثم الأقرب المتوسط لا يجوز أن يكون هي المادة لأن لها القبول و الاستعداد لا الفعل و الاقتضاء و المستعد بما هو مستعد لا يكون سببا لوجود ما هو مستعد له فإنه لو جاز ذلك لوجب أن يوجد عنه ذلك المسمى مستعدا له دائما من غير استعداد و أيضا لو كانت المادة سببا للصورة لوجب أن يكون لها ذات بالفعل مع قطع النظر عن الصور. و هذا هو معنى التقدم العلي و المعدوم لا يكون علة للموجود و قد علمت أن الهيولى في ذاتها قوة محضة.

فروع

من هاهنا ينكشف لدى العاقل البصير أن الجسم لا يكون سببا لوجود أصلا - لا بتمامه و لا بأحد جزئيه و ذلك لأن المادة أمر عديم و كذا ما يشتمل عليها من حيث

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٤٧

يشتمل عليها و أما الصورة فلأن تأثيرها في شيء بتوسط المادة لأنها لو استغنت عن المادة في فعلها فالأولى أن يستغني عنها في وجودها في نفسها إذ الإيجاد يتقوم بالوجود و التالي محال كما علمت فكذا المقدم فإذا كان تأثيرها بواسطة المادة فيكون المادة علة قريبة لوجود الشيء و هو محال.

فقد علم من هاهنا أن الأجسام كلها في أنفسها مكافئة في درجة الوجود من غير علاقة و تلازم بينها و إنما قيدنا الكلام بقولنا في نفسها لأنها قد توجد التلازم و التعلق بينها من جهة الأمور اللاحقة و الأوصاف الثابتة فإن الأجسام المستقيمة الحركات - كالعنصرية يتوقف وجودها على وجود المحدد للجهات لكن من حيث كونها ذوات جهات و حركات و من حيث كون المحدد محددا لا من حيث كونه جرما فلكيا و بذلك يثبت وجود أمر قدسي مفارق عن الأجسام و أعراضها بالكلية لتناهي الأجسام قدرا و عددا و استحالة التسلسل مطلقا فينتهي إلى موجود واجب بالذات غير جسم و لا جسماني - و هذا أحد الطرائق لإثبات وجود الواجب و أيضا لما كان كل جسم مؤلفا من هيولى و صورة فلو كان جسم سببا لجسم آخر لكان يجب أن يكون أولا سببا لوجود جزئيه اللذين هما أقدم منه و هذا محال لأن المادة لا اختلاف لها في ذاتها و قد مر سابقا أن الصورة الجسمية حقيقة متماثلة الأفراد في الوجود و العلة يجب أن تكون مخالفة للمعلول في درجة الوجود و نحوه و ليس كذلك هذا خلف.

شك و إزالة -

ليس لقائل أن يقول اختلاف الصور يكون لاختلاف أحوال المواد لأن هذا فاسد من وجهين. أما أولا فلأنه حينئذ يكون تلك الأحوال هي الصور الأولى في المادة و الكلام فيها عائد بعينه فيرجع إلى أن الصورة الأولى يكون علة في وجود الصورة الثانية و يكون للمادة القبول فقط.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٤٨

و أما ثانيا فلأن بعد تسليم أن الصور تكون متخالفة بسبب الأحوال المكتسبة عن المواد فيكون العلية و المعلولية بين الحالين لا بين الصورتين الجسميتين.

فذلك إن صح كان حديثا آخر خارجا عن مقصودنا على أننا نقول كلاما مطلقا- إن ذلك غير متصور عند التحقيق لما أشرنا إليه أن الصورة قوة جسمانية فكما أن وجودها في نفسها لا يتحصل و لا يتشخص إلا بسبب المادة فكذا إيجادها لشيء آخر- لما علمت أن الوجود مقوم للإيجاد لأنه شرط له فلنرجع إلى ما كنا بصدد.

فنقول إذا لم يكن المادة هي الواسطة في صدور صاحبها من العلة فكانت الصورة هي الواسطة لصدور المادة و لا يمكن أيضا أن يكون واسطة مستقلة أو آلة مستقلة إذ فسادهما بعينه كفساد ما إذا كانت علة مطلقة كما عرفت و الفرق بين الآلة و الواسطة أن الآلة ما يؤثر به الفاعل في منفعله القريب و الواسطة معلول يقاس إلى الجانبين فيوجد علة قريبة لأحدهما فذاك المعلول المطلق و الآخر علة بعيدة.

ثم الصورة على ضربين صورة تفارق المادة إلى بدل عاقب و صورة لا تفارقها- أما الضرب الأول منهما فلا يتصور ذلك فيها لأنها إذا كانت علة متوسطة للمادة التي تعد منها لكانت تعدم بعدمها المادة فيكون للصورة المستأنفة مادة أخرى مستأنفة أيضا لما تقرر عندهم أن كل حادث يحتاج إلى مادة سابقة و قوة سابقة و استعداد لحامل القوة فيلزم أن يكون للمادة مادة.

و هذا مستحيل لأن الكلام في المادة الأولى و لأنه يلزم أن يكون المفروض مادة صورة و لأننا ننقل الكلام إلى مادة المادة و هكذا يلزم التسلسل في المواد المجتمعة و لأن العلة يجب أن تكون موجودة متشخصة قبل وجود المعلول و التشخص في النوع المتكثر الأفراد لا يمكن أن يكون بحسب الماهية و لوازمها و إلا لانحصرت الماهية في شخص

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٤٩

واحد و ليس كذلك بل يكون بعوارض مفارقة و كل صفة عارضة ليست من اللوازم- يحتاج وجوده إلى جهة انفعالية و الانفعال لا يكون إلا من جهة المادة فيلزم أن تكون المادة موجودة قبل ما تكون موجودة هذا محال.

فيجب أن يكون الصورة بنفسها جزءا من علة مستقلة و شريكا لعل متشخصة في إفادة وجود المادة فيكون المادة وجدت عن تلك العلة الموجبة بواسطة صورة غير معينة لا تفارق المادة إلا بورود صورة أخرى يفعل فعل ما عدمت عن المادة في إقامتها بإفاضة هذا الثالث المعطي دائما ما به تقوم المادة من الصور المتماثلة في التقويم و هو الواهب للصور الذي سنصف حاله من ذي قبل إن شاء الله.

و يلزم أن يكون جوهر روحانيا إذ لو كان جسما أو جسمانيا لكان الكلام فيه باقيا إلى أن يعود الكلام إلى جوهر قدسي

تسجيل

لما كانت الواسطة في التقويم يلزم أن يكون قد تقومت أولا بذاتها أولية بالذات لا بالزمان ثم يقوم غيره فيجب أن يكون الصورة قد تقومت أولا بالفعل من ذاتها أو من المبدأ فيقوم الهيولى بعد ذلك فالصورة وجودها أقدم من وجود الهيولى - و الصورة الجسمانية هي فعلية و تحصل للجسم و تمام له و قوة وجودها و جهة نقصها و إمكانها في المادة و المادة بالقوة إنما تصير بالصورة بالفعل فيكون الوجود أولا للصورة بما هي صورة و ثانيا للمادة بما هي مادة و كونها مادة عين

كونها مادة للصورة في الوجود وإن كان غيرها بحسب العقل عند فرضها ثم للصورة بما هي هذه الصورة المعينة. و أما الضرب الثاني من الصورة التي يلزم الهيولى أبدا لعدم تحقق أسباب الفساد من حدوث الانقطاع و الالتصاق و الاتصال و الانفصال إلا ما شاء الله فهي وإن كانت في أول النظر مما يجوز الوهم أن يكون واسطة مطلقة أو آلة مطلقة في إقامة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٥٠

الهيولى.

لكن العقل الصحيح يحكم بنفي ذلك بالبرهان و ذلك لأن تخصيص الهيولى بها دون غيرها مع اتفاقهما في الطبيعة النوعية يحتاج إلى علة.

و أيضا قد علمت أن تشخص أفراد الجوهر الامتدادي لا يتحقق إلا بعوارض انفعالية غير واجبة للزوم للطبيعة دائمة و إلا لما كان وجودها في مادة بل كانت الصورة قائمة بنفسها كالصور العقلية الخارجية و ليس كذلك فلو كانت علة مطلقة لقوامها لسبقها بالوجود و القوام بنفسها و بعلة المقومة لوجودها فيلزم من هاتين المقدمتين كون الهيولى سابقة على نفسها بالوجود بمرتبتين و هذا بين الاستحالة.

ثم لما علمت أن الإيجاد متقوم بالوجود و الوجود المتعين للصورة الجسمية متقوم بالهيولى لأنه إنما يكون بهيئات انفعالية متجددة الحصول غير منفكة عن التغير و الحدثان بسبب خصوصيات الاستمرار و البقاء و إن كانت لها جهة جامعة متفقة الحصول في تلك الخصوصيات لازمة التحقق للطبيعة دائما ليس بحسبها الانفعال و الافتقار إلا الهيولى إلا أنها مبهمه غير منفكة عن تجدد الأمثال و لا خالية عن توارد الحوادث و ما لا يخلو عن الحوادث في تحصلها فهو مفتقر إلى المادة و إن كان بالتبعية فكيف يكون سببا لوجود ما يفتقر إليه في تشخصه و التشخص متقدم على الإيجاد.

لأنها إما عين الوجود كما هو المذهب المنصور أو مساوق له فلو كانت الصورة سببا للهيولى و كانت المادة متقدمة إما عليها أو على ما معها و المتقدم على ما مع المتأخر متقدم عليه أيضا فيلزم أن يكون الهيولى سابقة على نفسها بمرتبتين - هذا محال - و لأن الصورة الشخصية لا تنفك عن التناهي و التشكل المخصوصين و هما من عوارض المادة إذ لو كانا من لوازم الطبيعة الجسمية لكانت الأجسام كلها في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٥١

مرتبة واحدة من التناهي و نحو واحد من الشكل و ليس كذلك.

فالتناهي و التشكل اللذان من العوارض المسببة بالمادة إما أن يكونا في درجة الصورة الجسمية الشخصية أو سابقا عليها و السابق على السابق على الشيء سابق على ذلك الشيء و كذا السابق على ما مع الشيء سابق على المع فلو كانت الصورة سببا للهيولى لكانت الصورة سابقة على ما يسبقها إما بمرتبة أو بمرتبتين فيلزم سبق الشيء على نفسه إما بثلاث مرتبة أو بمرتبتين و كلاهما بين الاستحالة و استحالة التالي يستلزم استحالة المقدم.

فانكشف امتناع كون الصورة بأحد قسميها علة مستقلة أو واسطة أو آلة فبقي أن يكون شركة للعلة الفاعلية و جزءا للعلة التامة

فصل (٥) في تجويز كون المعلول مقارنا للعلة

لما علمت أن الوجود أولاً للصورة بحسب الذات و ثانياً للمادة و دريت أن العلية ليست مفادها إلا التقدم في الوجود بحسب الذات و وجود الصورة على نحو الحلول فيكون وجودها في الهيولى كوجود العلة مع المعلول و المعية بينهما لا ينافي كون الصورة مفيدة و الهيولى مستفيدة بل كما أن العلة إذا كانت علة بالفعل لزم عنها المعلول و أن يكون المعلول معها إذ المعية في الوجود غير المعية في فضيلة الوجود و استقلاله و الأول لا يستلزم الثاني. فكذا الصورة إذا كانت صورة و موجودة يلزم عنها غيرها مقارنا لها و المفيد لوجود شيء منه ما يفيد و هو مباين و منه ما يفيد و هو ملاق و العقل لا ينقبض عن صحة القسمين و الوجود يصدق فيهما و البرهان قائم على وجود هذين القسمين.

و هكذا حال الجواهر مع الأعراض فإن الجوهر واسطة في وجود الأعراض الحالة فيه بعد تقومه في ذاته بالفعل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٥٢

فصل (٦) في كيفية كون الشيء الواحد بالعموم علة لشيء واحد بالعدد بوجه خاص

لما تبين و تحقق أن الصورة ليست مع الهيولى في درجة واحدة بل لها درجة من السبق لم يكن الهيولى في تلك الدرجة.

و ظهر مع ذلك أن الصورة ليست سببا تاما و لا علة فاعلية و أن هناك لا محالة شيء وراء الصورة يتعلق به الهيولى ليفيض عنه و هو جوهر نوري إلهي و فعل قدسي سبحانه لاستحالة كونه جوهرًا نفسانيا فضلا عن كونه صورة أو طبيعة جرمية لكن يستحيل أن يكمل فيضانها عنه بلا توسط صورة أصلا بل إنما يتم الأمر بهما جميعا فهذا النور العقلاني يهب الصورة الجرمية بأذن رب الصور المجردة و يقيم الهيولى بذات الصورة من حيث هي مطلقة دون العكس بأن يقيم الصورة بذات الهيولى.

إذ لا ذات لها أصلا إلا بالصور كما مر و كيفية ذلك أنه إذا انقطعت صورة معينة - تلبست بها الهيولى أدامها و استبقاها بتعقيب صورة عاقبة فمن حيث إن اللاحقة تشارك السابقة في أنها صورة ما تعاون المقيم القدسي على الإقامة و من حيث إنها تخالفها - تجعل الهيولى بالفعل جواهر غير الجوهر الذي كان بالسابقة فالصورة من وجه واسطة بين العلة و معلولها فلا محالة تكون متقومة بالعلة و متقدمة مقدما بالذات - فهي أقدم تحصلا و ثبوتا من الهيولى و هي فعل و قوة فعليتها في الهيولى التي هي قوة محضة.

و لعلك تقول كيف يصح في فتوى العقل كون طبيعة مطلقة مبدءا لوجود

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٥٣

شخصي و وحدة عمومية علة لوحدة عددية مع أن العلة يجب أن يكون أشد تحصلا و أقوى تعينا من المعلول. فيجاب عما ذكرت بوجهين - أحدهما ما أفاده الشيخ الرئيس و غيره من القدماء قدس الله أرواحهم ملخصه - أن العقل لا ينقبض عن أن يكون الواحد بالعموم الذي يستحفظ وحدة عموميه بواحد بالعدد علة لواحد بالعدد و هاهنا كذلك فإن الواحد بالنوع مستحفظ بواحد بالعدد و هو المفارق و بالحقيقة الموجب الأصل هو ذلك المفارق إلا أنه إنما يتم إيجابه

بانضمام أحد أمور يقارنه أيها كانت لا بعينه.

و ذلك لا يخرج عن الوحدة العددية بل إنما يجعل الواحد بالعدد تام التأثير - من جهة حصول المناسبة بواسطته بين المفارق المحض الذي هو بالفعل من كل جهة و بين ما هو في ذاته قوة محضة.

و بالجملة لما كانت طبيعة الصور الامتدادية علة بالذات للهيولى من غير أن يدخل في سببيتها شيء من خصوصيات الأفراد إلا بالعرض فقد كانت العلة التامة لها مؤتلفة الذات من انضمام واحد بالعموم بواحد بالعدد ذاتا شخصية تامة التأثير باقية الوجود و التشخص غير متكررة بتكثر أشخاص تلك الطبيعة المرسله إذ ليست الأفراد و لا شيء منها جزء العلة فواحد بالعدد علة لما هو كذلك.

و ثانيهما ما خطر ببال الراقم بعون الله و هو أن الهيولى ليست شخصا متعين الذات كما توهم حتى يحكم عليها باستحالة استنادها إلى أمر عام الوجود بل إنما تشخصها ضرب آخر من التشخص و تعيينها نحو ناقص من التعيين لأن تعيينها قد حصل بمطلق

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٥٤

الصور لا بصورة خاصة فما أشبه تعيين الأمور الذهنية كالمعنى الجنسي إذا لاحظ العقل من حيث هو مع قطع النظر إلى الفصول و غيرها.

فألوحة الشخصية التي للهيولى ليست وحدة شخصية أبت في ذاتها أن تكون مستندة لوحدة نوعية للصورة بل هذه إنما هي متعينة بذلك كما ينكشف للمتأمل المتدبر و أما الافتقار إلى انضمام الأمر القدسي فليس لأن مرتبة تحصل الهيولى و نحو تشخصها يستدعي الاستناد إلى واحد بالعدد دون واحد بالعموم بل لأن الصورة في كونها سببا افتقرت إليه لتكون محفوظة الوجود به و بواحد من أفرادها الشخصية كما مر.

و مما يوضح ذلك أنهم ذكروا في كيفية افتقار كل من الهيولى و الصورة إلى الأخرى في التشخص على وجه غير دائر دورا مستحيلا أن الهيولى سابقة الماهية و الشخصية - على شخصية الصورة القائمة فيها لا محالة و أما تشخص الهيولى فبنفس ذات الصورة المطلقة لا بهويتها الشخصية فالصور بماهيتها لا بشخصيتها أقدم من شخصية الهيولى و ماهيتها جميعا و أما الصورة الشخصية فهي إنما تفتقر إلى هيولى متعينة تعيينا مستفادا من الصورة لا من تعيين الصورة فكن على بصيرة

بحث و تحصيل

لك أن تقول من رأس لما تقرر بالبيان البرهاني أن كل طبيعة نوعية يحتمل أشخاصا كثيرة في العين فهي إنما تشخص بالمادة فتشخص تلك المادة إن كانت بمادة أخرى يتسلسل المواد إلى لا نهاية و إن كان بالصورة فيلزم الدور. فاعلم أن معنى تشخص الصورة بالهيولى غير معنى تشخص الهيولى بالصورة و ذلك لأن معنى الأول أنها تشخص بالهيولى من حيث هي قابلة للتشخص أو لما يلزمه من الأعراض المسماة بالمشخصات فإن حقيقة الهيولى هي القابلية و الاستعداد و ليست فاعلة للتشخص.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٥٥

و هذا معنى قولهم كل نوع يحتمل الكثرة فإنما تشخص بالمادة أي يحتاج إلى قابل يقبل الشخصية و القابل كيف يكون فاعلا لما هو قابل له بل الفاعل له هو المفيد القريب للشخصية من الأعراض المكتنفة للصورة كالوضع و الأين و متى و أمثالها المسماة بالمشخصات و أما معنى العكس أي تشخص الهيولى بالصورة المطلقة - فمن حيث هي فاعلة و مفيدة لتشخصها فلا يلزم الدور و لا التسلسل.

بحث و تحصيل

و لقائل أن يقول إن تشخص كل من المادة و الصورة بذات الأخرى على أي وجه كان غير صحيح لأنه متوقف على انضمام ذات كل منهما إلى ذات الأخرى و انضمام ذات كل منهما إلى ذات الأخرى متوقف على تشخص كل منهما فإن المطلق غير موجود و ما ليس بموجود فلا ينضم إليه غيره.

و الجواب عنه بمنع هذه المقدمة مستندا بأن انضمام الوجود إلى الماهية - لا يتوقف على صيرورة كل واحد منهما موجودا فكذا هاهنا مردود لأن المقدمة الأخيرة غير قابلة للمنع لكونها بديهية.

و أما النقض بحال الماهية و الوجود فغير وارد لأنهما ليسا في الخارج أمرين متعددين منضم و منضم إليه بل اثنتينيتهما بحسب التحليل العقلي في الذهن كما مر سابقا - بل الجواب بمنع المقدمة الأولى [الأخرى] و هي أن الشيء المطلق غير موجود - فإنها غير صحيحة و الصحيح أن المطلق بقيد الإطلاق عن القيد غير موجود و أما الشيء المطلق عن قيد الإطلاق و التقييد أي بلا ملاحظة شيء منهما لا بملاحظة عدم شيء منهما فهو موجود عند المعبرين من العقلاء القائلين بوجود الماهيات من حيث هي هي - بعين وجود أشخاصها.

فالحاصل أن الماهية يمكن أن يؤخذ بلا شرط إطلاق و تقييد و يمكن أن يؤخذ

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٥٦

بشرط الإطلاق و بين الاعتبارين فرق واضح فهي المأخوذة بأحد الوجهين موجودة خارجا و ذهنا و بالآخر غير موجودة إلا ذهنا و اللازم فيما نحن فيه هو الأول دون الثاني - فاللازم غير محذور و المحذور غير لازم. و اعلم أن هذين الجوابين المرضي و غير المرضي ذكر أحدهما المحقق الطوسي و ذكر الآخر الإمام الرازي و لعله أجاب به بناء على عدم تجويزه وجود الطبائع في الخارج.

تذنيب -

كل واحد من المادة و الصورة و إن كانت ترتفع برفع الأخرى إلا أنه لا يستلزم أن يصير كل منهما كالآخر في مرتبة الوجود و هكذا في كل علة مقتضية و معلولها و ذلك لأن إحداهما و هي العلة إذا رفعت رفع المعلول و أما الآخر و هو المعلول فليس إذا رفع رفعت العلة بل إذا رفع كانت العلة مرفوعة قبل رفعه قبلية بالذات.

فالأمر هاهنا بالعكس من ذلك فإن رفع المعلول متأخر و رفع العلة متقدم ذاتا - مع أنهما معا في زمان واحد كحركتي اليد و المفتاح حيث إن رفع حركتها متقدم على رفع حركته و هما معان في الزمان و أما بحسب التصور فكلما الوجهين من التقدم و التأخر الذاتيين جائز فيهما كما في برهاني اللم و الإن.

و قد مر هذا في مباحث العدم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٥٧

الفن الرابع في اثبات الطبائع الخاصة للأجسام والإشارة إلى جوهرية صورها المنوعة وما يلتصق بها وفيه فصول

فصل (١) في الإشارة إلى معناها

ذهب الحكماء المشاءون إلى أن لكل واحد من أنواع الأجسام الطبيعية معنى آخر غير الامتداد و قبول الأبعاد بها يصير الأجسام أنواعا مختلفة ولهذا سميت صورة نوعية أي منسوبة إلى النوع بالتقويم والتحصيل و ما يوجد في كل نوع جسمي يخالف ما يوجد في سائر الأنواع الجسمانية و هي أيضا عندهم مبادي آثارها المختلفة و مبادي حركاتها و سكناتها الذاتية فتسمى قوى و طبائع و تسمى أيضا كمالات لصيرورة الجنس بها أنواعا مركبة. فهذه عنوانات و أوصاف لأمر واحد في كل جسم طبيعي من الأجسام لأحد أن يأخذ بيان جوهرية ذلك الأمر من كل واحد من هذه النعوت و يجعلها طريقا موصلا إليه

فصل (٢) في إثباتها من جهة مبدئيتها للحركات والآثار

[الاستدلال على ذلك]

لا ريب في أن المقتضي للآثار المختلفة المختصة كل منها بقسم من أقسام

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٥٨

الأجسام لا بد و أن يكون أمورا مختلفة غير خارجة عن ذاته لأننا نعلم أن للأجسام آثارا مختلفة كقبول الانفكاك و الالتيام بسهولة كالماء و الهواء أو بعسر كالأرض و النار و امتناعهما كالكواكب و السماء و كاختصاص كل قسم من أقسام الفلكيات و العناصر - بما له من الشكل و المكان و الوضع و الكيفية اللازمة له أو المجبول على حفظها عند الحصول و طلبها عند الزوال بقاسر و الرجوع إليها بمجرد زوال القاسر على أسرع ما يتصور في حقه. و نعلم بالضرورة أيضا أن العنصر الثقيل مثلا إنما يتحرك إلى المركز بحسب ذاته و العنصر الخفيف إنما يتحرك إلى السماء بحسب ذاتها أو بحسب أمر خاص بكل واحد منهما غير خارج عن ذاته و عن مقومات ذاته و محصلات وجود ذاته.

فتلك المبادي لا يمكن أن تكون هي الجسمية المتفقة و إلا لاتفقت الآثار و لا الهيولي لأنها كما علمت قابلة محضة و الكلام في المقتضي و لأنها واحدة في العناصر - فيعود مثل المحذور المذكور في مبدئية الجسمية المشتركة و هو اتفاق الآثار في أجسام هذه الدار و لا العقل المفارق لتساوي نسبته إلى جميع الأجسام و لا يجوز استنادها أيضا إلى الباري ابتداء بلا وسط لأن نسبة الباري إلى الأشياء نسبة واحدة - و الأشرف منها ماهية و إنية أقدم منه تعالى صدورا و فيضانا.

و هذا لا ينافي القول بالفاعل المختار ما لم يجوز الترجيح من غير مرجح و ما لم يبطل أخذ الحكمة و الترتيب فاختصاص بعض الأجسام بصفات و آثار مخصوصة - لا بد في حصوله من الفاعل الحكيم و الفاطر العليم من مخصص و هو المسمى بالصورة النوعية.

نعم إنما ينسد باب إثبات الصور النوعية بل سائر القوى و الكيفيات الغير المحسوسة بل المحسوسة أيضا عند من ثبت

الفاعل المختار بمعنى من له إرادة بلا داع و حكمة إذ مع تمكين هذه الإرادة الجزافية ارتفع الاعتماد على المحسوسات و لم يبق مجال للتأمل في المقدمات و النظر في العلوم النظريات و لا أيضا يأمن الإنسان أن يخلق

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٥٩

فيه أمور يرى بها الشكل المنتج عقيما و العقيم منتجا و يرى الأشياء كلها على خلاف ما هي عليها و أكثر الناس يلتزمون هذا لإعراضهم عن الحكمة عاقبهم الله بها لسبق أعمال قبيحة و أخلاق و عادات سيئة من حب الجاه و التفوق على الأقران و سائر أمراض نفسانية استحكت في نفوسهم فصارت سببا لاستنكافهم عن التعلم و إنكارهم الحكمة لئلا يشوش أحد عليهم أصولا فاسدة أخذوها من معلمهم تقليدا و تلقفا من غير بصيرة فآلجأتهم تلك الأصول مع ما يعتريهم من تلك الأمراض و العادات و الإعراض عن العلوم الحققة و الحكميات شعفا بما عندهم من قشور الأفكار و الأنظار إلى القول بما سموه الفاعل المختار وقي الله السالكين شرهم و ضرهم في الدين.

لأن هؤلاء قطاع طريق الآخرة على المسلمين و هؤلاء المعطلة في الدورة الإسلامية بإزاء ما في دورة الأقدمين من السوفسطائية كما لا يخفى عند المنصف المتدبر قال بعض المحققين إن لظهور مثل هذه الآراء انقطعت الحكمة عن وجه الأرض و انطمست العلوم القدسية -

و اعترض على هذا الاستدلال بوجوه

الوجه الأول

لم لا يجوز أن يكون تلك المبادي للآثار المخصوصة أعراضا مخصوصة إذ كل موجب أثر في الأجسام لا يلزم أن يكون صورة جوهرية فإن الميل القسري و غير القسري مبدأ ما للحركة و ليس بصورة جوهرية و الحرارة في الحديد الحامية مبدأ الحرق لجسم و الحركة في بعض المواضع سبب للحرارة و ليست بصورة جوهرية و هكذا في مواضع كثيرة صارت الأعراض مبادي للآثار فليكن ما سميتوه صورا من هذا القبيل. لا يقال ليست هذه الأعراض مبادي للآثار بل هي معدات و الفاعل غيرها. لأننا نقول مثل هذا فيما سميتوه صورا و مما يؤكد ذلك أن الشيخ الرئيس - قد استدل في بعض رسائله على أن الطبيعة لا يجوز أن يكون مبدأ للصفات و الأعراض

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٦٠

الحاصلة في مادتها على ما هو المشهور عند جمهور الحكماء مثل الحركات و الكيفيات - كالحرارة و البرودة في النار و الماء حيث قال و ذلك لأن مصدر الفعل الجسماني - قوامه و وجوده بالجسم و لا يجوز أن يصدر عنه فعل بلا مشاركة وضع بينه و بين ما يصدر عنه.

فإذا كانت القوى المنطبعة في الأجسام لا يصدر عنها فعل بلا واسطة أجسامها و الطبيعة قوة جسمانية فلا يصدر عنها فعل إلا بواسطة جسمها و الفعل الذي واسطة جسمها شرط في إتمامه إنما يصح في أشياء خارجة عن الجسم لا في نفس الجسم و كيف يصح فعلها في الجسم و شرط كونها فاعلة كون جسمها واسطة و لا يمكن أن يكون الجسم واسطة بين الطبيعة التي فيه و بين ذاته فإذن فعلها في أجسامها محال قطعاً.

بل معنى قولنا إن الطبيعة هي مبدأ تلك الأشياء مثل الحركة و الحرارة و البرودة مثلا غير ذلك هو أن الجسم المنطبع بتلك الطبيعة إنما تستعد بحدوث الطبيعة لتلك الأشياء فإذا تم استعدادها لها أفاضها واهب الصور عليها بإذن خالقه جلت قدرته - فكما أن الطبيعة فاضت على الجسم بعد استعداد خاص و تهيؤ تام لذلك الفيض فكذلك القوى الأخرى يفيض على الجسم بعد استعداد تام لقبولها و الاستعداد التام يحدث بعد حدوث الطبيعة فيها إلا أنه لما كان وجود الطبيعة في الأجسام شرطا لقبول ذلك الفيض قيل إن الطبيعة سبب لذلك أو مبدأ لذلك.

و هكذا في غير هذا إذا تأملت وجدت بعض الهيئات و الصفات متقدما وجوده على وجود البعض و وجوده شرطا لوجود المتأخر أعني أن المادة القابلة لذلك البعض - إنما يستعد تمام الاستعداد لقبول بعض آخر بوجود ذلك البعض الذي هو شرط الاستعداد التام فبهذا الوجه يقال عليه إنه سبب للمتأخر و كذلك نسبة النفس إلى قواها و صفاتها نسبة الطبيعة إلى ما قلناه انتهى.

و هو صريح في أن هذه الأمور معدات للآثار و ليست فواعل فإنه لما ثبت أن فاعل الحرارة في النار و البرودة في الماء و الجمودة في الأرض ليس أمرا مقارنا لتلك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٦١

الأجسام فليجز مثل ذلك في الحرارة التي تحصل في غير النار بواسطة النار و في البرودة التي تحصل في غير الماء بواسطة الماء و كذلك في سائر الآثار كالأحوال إلى شبيه جوهر المغذي و الإنماء و التوليد و التصوير و غير ذلك. فما يسمونها صورا لم يثبت إلا كونها من الشرائط و المعدات التي لا ينافي العرضية كالميل و الحرارة و البرودة و أمثالها. و أيضا القوى كالغاذية و النامية و المصورة أعراض مع أنهم يسمونها فعالة و عند المشاءين ينسبون إليها أفعالا كإفادة الصور و غيرها فإذا كانت هذه المؤثرات القوية عندهم أعراضا فغيرها أولى بالعرضية.

و الجواب أن استدلالهم على إثبات [أن] الصور [التي] تكون مبادي الآثار المختلفة في الأجسام يجب أن تكون جواهر ليس متوقفا على كون المبادي أسبابا فاعلية بل يكفي كونها عللا معدة فإن الآثار المختلفة لا بد لها من مخصصات مختلفة فتللك المخصصات إن كانت ذاتيات الأجسام و مبادي فصولها الذاتية حتى يكون الأجسام بها مختلفة الحقائق فتكون جواهر لا محالة إذ مقوم الجوهر عندهم و إن كانت أعراضا فتكون كالأثار الخارجية فيحتاج إلى مخصصات غيرها.

فننقل الكلام إلى مخصصات المخصصات فإما أن يتسلسل إلى غير النهاية أو يدور أو ينتهي إلى مخصصات هي ليست آثارا للأجسام بل صورا مقومة متنوعة ينقسم بها الجسم الطبيعي أنواعا مختلفة و الأولان مستحيلان فتعين الثالث و هو المطلوب.

و أما ما وقع منهم من نسبة الفعل و الإفادة إلى بعض القوى و الكيفيات و قولهم بأنها فعالة فمن باب المسامحة بعد ما حققوا الأمر من كون الفاعل في الإيجاد يجب أن يكون متبري الذات عن علاقة المواد و هم قد صرحوا بأن المسمى فعل الطبيعة - من باب الحركات و الانفعالات و أما غير ذلك فهي واسطة و الواهب غيرها.

و ليس هذا مما خفي إلا على الناقصين في الحكمة كالأطباء و الدهريين و المنجمين و من يحذو حذوهم.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٦٢

الوجه الثاني

أنا لا نسلم أن نسبة المفارق إلى سائر الأجسام على السواء لم لا يجوز أن يكون للمفارق خصوصية ببعض الأجسام دون بعض و لو سلم ذلك لكن لا نسلم أنه يلزم منه حينئذ أن لا يصدر عن المفارق الآثار المختلفة. وإنما يكون كذلك لو لم يكن للأجسام و هيولياتها استعدادات مختلفة - بحسبها يصدر عن المفارق الآثار المختلفة كما يصدر عنه الكمالات المختلفة الفائضة عليها.

و الجواب أن الأجسام بعد اتفاقها في الجسمية المشتركة لا بد لكل منها من استعداد خاص أو حالة خاصة أو ما شئت فسمه من خصوصية بها يطرا عليها ذلك الاستعداد أو غيره لأن الاستعداد كالقوة أمر عديم منشؤه صفة خاصة متقررّة في ذات المستعد - فتلك الصفة لو كانت أمرا عارضا لكان عارضا لجسمية مخصوصة. وإنما الكلام في خصوصية ذلك الجسم فلو كانت الخصوصية أيضا أمرا عارضا متأخرا عن ذات ذلك الجسم عاد الكلام جذعا فيتسلسل الأمر أو يدور - فلا بد أن يكون الخصوصية بالآخرة أمرا داخلا في ذلك الجسم المخصوص متقدما عليه مقوما له.

فإذا حقق الأمر هكذا فليس لأحد أن يقول إذا كان اختصاص الأجسام بعوارضها و آثارها مما يحتاج إلى صور مخصوصة يكون هي أسباب اختصاصات الأجسام بالعوارض و الآثار فيعود الكلام في أصل امتياز تلك الأجسام بتلك الصور فما سبب اختصاص كل نوع من الأجسام بصورته الخاصة به بعد اتفاقها في الجسمية. و ذلك لما أشرنا إليه من أن تلك الصور وجوداتها أسباب لحصول الجسمية المطلقة نوعا خاصا و هوياتها مقومات للأنواع بماهياتها الخاصة و لغفلة أكثر الناس عن هذا السر الحكمي يتشوش عليهم الأمر في كثير من المواضع حتى أنهم يتحIRONون

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٦٣

في فصول الأنواع المركبة بل البسيطة و يطلبون سبب اختصاص الناطق بحصة الحيوان - التي في الإنسان و سبب اختصاص الصاهل بحصة الحيوان التي في الفرس و لا يعلمون أن الحيوان من اللوازم العامة للناطق و الصاهل و أمثالهما المتأخرة مرتبتها عن مرتبة هذه الملزومات فحصول الجنس للفصل أولى بطلب اللمية فيه من حصول الفصل للجنس - و اختصاصه بحصة من جنسه يطلبها فيهما.

الوجه الثالث -

أنه يجوز أن يكون للمفارق جهات مختلفة بها يختلف نسبته إلى الأجسام فيفيد لبعض الأجسام آثارا مخصوصة و لبعضها آثارا مخصوصة أخرى من غير حاجة إلى صور نوعية أو يكون عدد المفارقات كثيرة حسب تكثر الأجسام نوعا. كما ذهب إليه الأقدمون كأفلاطن و من يحذو حذوه من أشياخه و معلميه مثل سقراط و أناباذقلس و فيثاغورث و اغاثاديمون و هرمس و غيرهم من أعظم حكماء الفرس و ملوك الحكمة المشرقية و أساطين الفلسفة و الخسروانية حسب ما روى عنهم الشيخ الإلهي صاحب الإشراف في كتبه كالمطارحات المسمى بالمشارع و المقاومات - و ككتابه المسمى بحكمة الإشراف من أن لكل نوع من الأفلاك و الكواكب و بسائط العناصر و مركباتها ربا في عالم القدس و هو

عقل مدبر لذلك النوع ذو عناية به و هو الغاذي و المنمي و المولد في الأجسام النامية لامتناع صدور هذه الأفعال المختلفة في النبات - عن قوة بسيطة عديمة الشعور و فينا عن نفوسنا و إلا لكان لنا شعور بها. و هؤلاء يتعجبون ممن يقول إن الألوان العجيبة في ريش من ريش الطواويس - إنما كان لاختلاف أمزجة تلك الريشة من غير أن يستند إلى سبب كلي و قانون مضبوط و مدبر عقلي و رب نوع حافظ بل هؤلاء الأعظم من اليونانيين و الفرس ينسبون جميع أنواع الأجسام و هيئاتها إلى تلك الأرباب و يقولون إن هذه الهيئات المركبة العجيبة و النسب المزاجية و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٦٤

غيرها ظلال لإشراقات معنوية في تلك الأرباب النورية كما أن الهيئة البسيطة لنوع كرائحة المسك مثلاً ظل لهيئة نورية في رب طلسم نوعه. قالوا و انجذاب الدهن إلى النار في المصباح لما تبين أنه ليس لضرورة عدم الخلاء على ما ذكر في موضعه و لا لقوة جاذبة في النار بالخاصية فهو أيضاً لتدبير كلي من صاحب النوع لطلسم النار الحافظ لصنوبريتها و لغيرها. و هو الذي سماه الفرس ارديهشت فإن الفرس كانوا أشد مبالغة في إثبات أرباب الطلسمات و هرمس و اغاثاديمون و إن لم يذكروا الحجة على إثباتها بل ادعوا فيها المشاهدة الحقة المتكررة المبتنية على رياضاتهم و مجاهداتهم و أرصادهم الروحانية و خلعهم أبدانهم و إذا فعلوا هذا فليس لنا أن نناظرهم كما أن المشاءين لا يناظرون المنجمين كابرخس و بطليموس فيما حكموا عن مشاهداتهم الحسية بالآتهم الأرضية - حتى إن أرسطو عول على أرصاد بابل. فإذا اعتبر رصد شخص أو أشخاص معدودة من أصحاب الأرصاد الجسمانية في الأمور الفلكية حتى تبعهم غيرهم ممن تلاهم و بنوا عليه علوما كعلم الهيئة و النجوم - فليعتبر قول أساطين الحكمة و التأله في أمور شاهدوها بأرصادهم العقلية بحسب خلواتهم و رياضاتهم فيما شاهدوها من العقول الكثيرة و هيئتها و نسبها النورية. و هي بمنزلة أفلاك نورية هذه الأفلاك ظلال لأنوارها و هيئاتها الوضعية و غيرها ظلال لهيئاتها العقلية و نسبها النورية كما أشرنا إليه فيما مر.

و ليس كما قال الذاب عنهم و المتعصب لهم و هو الشيخ الإلهي للمشاءين دليل على حصر العقول في عشرة أو خمسين و بالجملة في السلسلة الطولية أي العلية و المعلولية و لا يلزم أن يأخذ الأفلاك في الترتيب حيث يأخذ العقول في الترتيب بل حصل منها مبلغ كثير على الترتيب الطولي و يحصل من تلك الطبقة على نسب بينها طبقة أخرى عرضية كالقواعد لتلك الأصول الأعلى يحصل من الفروع الأجسام الفلكية و العنصرية من البسائط و المركبات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٦٥

الأشرف من الأشرف و الأخس من الأخس و عدد الفريقين كثير كما في القرآن وَمَا يَعْلَمُ جُنُودَ رَبِّكَ إِلَّا هُوَ. قالوا و ليس صاحب النوع النفس فإن النفوس لا بد و أن يتألم بتألم أبدانها و صاحب النوع لا يتألم بتألم نوعه و للنفس علاقة بيدن واحد و لصاحب النوع علاقة و عناية بجميع الأبدان لنوعه و النفس يحصل منها و من البدن الذي يتصرف فيه حيوان واحد هو نوع واحد و رب الطلسم ليس كذا.

ثم رب طلسم النوع إذا كان فياضا لذلك النوع فلا يكون محتاجا إلى الاستكمال به بخلاف النفس فإنها مفتقرة إلى الاستكمال بالجسم وعلاقة الأجسام إنما هي لنقص في جوهر النفس يستكمل بالعلاقة ومن له رتبة الإبداع لجسم لا يقهره علاقة ذلك الجسم وشواغله وكمال المفارق التشبه بمبدئية الواجب بالذات فالعلاقة الجسمانية نقص له - و الذي ينوع الجسم ويحصل وجوده كيف ينحصر بعلاقة عرضية ذلك ظاهر لمن له أقل حدس.

و الجواب أنا وإن نساعدكم في إثبات هذه الصور العقلية المفيضة لهذه الأنواع الجسمية كما مر من كلامنا في مباحث الماهية وقد ذبنا عن إثبات المثل النورية الأفلاطونية - و أحكمنا بيانها بما لا مزيد عليه.

إلا أنا نعلم مع ذلك ضرورة أن تلك الآثار إنما تصدر من الأجسام التي قبلنا أو من المفارق بواسطة مبدأ قريب مقارن بها مباشر لحركاتها آثارها فإن الإحراق يكون من النار والترطيب من الهواء والتبريد من الماء والتجميد من الأرض إلى غير ذلك فلو لم يكن في هذه الأجسام إلا الهيولى والصورة الجسمية لم يحصل تلك الآثار من الأجسام.

كيف والشيخ الإلهي ممن قد برهن في كتبه كالتلويحات وغيرها على أن المفارق الصرف لا يمكن أن يكون محركا للأجسام على سبيل المباشرة أي الفاعلية القريبة لحركاتها بل على نحو بعيد عن المزاول كالعلة الغائية المشوقة للعلة الفاعلية كنفس المعلم التي يحرك لأجلها نفس المتعلم بدنها تقربا إليها وتشبها بها.

و بهذا الأصل حكموا بأن حركات الأفلاك كما لا بد لها من مباد عقلية هي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الأربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٦٦

غايات لحركاتها الشوقية لا بد لها من محركات جسمانية هي قوى وطبائع مزاولة لتحريكها على سبيل التجدد و الانفعال لئلا يفقد المناسبة بين المفيض والمفاض بالكلية و ليحصل أمر متوسط بين المفارق المحض والجسماني المحض.

فلا بد أيضا في الأجسام من أمور تنفعل من تلك المبادي المفارقة و تفعل في الأجسام المادية و ما هي إلا القوى الانطباعية أو النفوس النباتية أو الحيوانية و على الجميع يطلق الصورة النوعية مع ما لها من التفاوت

فصل (٣) في إثبات الصور الطبيعية من منهج آخر و هو كونها مقومة للمادة

بيانه أنا نعلم بالضرورة أن في كل نوع من الأجسام أمرا غير الهيولى والجسمية - مختصا بذلك النوع مستحيل الانفكاك عنه فهو إما أن يكون عرضا أو جوهر - و الأول باطل لكونه مقوما لما لا يمكن قوامه بنفسه و مثل هذا المقوم يكون صورة كما مر إذ كما لا يتصور وجود المادة معرى عن الجسمية كذلك لا يتصور وجودها بدون أن يتخصص نوعا من أنواع الجسم.

فإننا لا نقدر أن نتصور جسما لا يكون فلكا و لا عنصرا و لا حيوانا و لا شجرا - فلا يوجد الجسم المطلق إلا بالمخصص فيقوم وجود الجسم بذلك المخصص و المقوم للجوهر جوهر لأنه سبب وجوده الخاص و السبب أولى بالجوهريّة من المسبب لأن الوجود يتعدى من الأول إلى الثاني فيكون المخصص للجسم المطلق نوعا جوهر قطعا.

فهو إما حال في المادة أو محل لها و الثاني باطل بالوجدان و لانقلابه إلى غيره كما في العناصر مع بقاء المادة في الحالين على ضرب من البقاء فيكون حالا و الجوهر الحال يكون صورة و هو المطلوب و الاعتراض عليه من قبل الرواقيين من وجوه من الأبحاث

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٦٧

البحث الأول

أن الاحتجاج على حاجة الجسم و افتقار المادة إلى المخصصات التي سميتوها صورة بلزومها للجسم و عدم تصور خلوه عنها بعد أن يسلم أن لها ماهية و إنية حتى ينازع في أنها هل هي جواهر أو أعراض فإن الكلام في أصلها طويل غير منجح لأن استحالة الخلو لا يدل على جوهريتها و افتقار المحل إليها في تقوم الوجودي ليس الجسم لا ينفك عن مقدار ما و شكل ما و تحيز ما مع اعترافكم بعرضيتها و لا يخلو عن وحدة و كثرة و التزامم بعرضيتها. و ليس لقائل أن يقول إنها يصح تبديلها مع بقاء محلها فلا يكون جواهر لورود مثل ذلك عليكم في تبديل الصور على الهيولى مع بقائها بعينها و ما ذكرتم من البراهين على افتقار المادة إلى الصورة [لا يثبت] إلا مجرد أنه لا يتصور خلوها عن الصور فلا يمكنكم دعوى امتناع تجردها عن صورة بعينها بل عنها و عن بدلها فكذا لا يخلو الجسم عن شكل - و بدله و مقدار و بدله و كذا غيرهما.

ثم إن كون الجسم المطلق غير متصور الوقوع في الأعيان إلا بالمخصصات لو أوجب كون المخصصات مقومات لوجوده لوجب كون مخصصات الطبيعة النوعية كالإنسان مثلاً و مميزات أشخاصها مقومات لوجودها مع أن التقويم و التحصيل هاهنا أقوى مما يحتاج إليه في التخصيص النوع و هو أتم تحصيلاً أقوى في ذلك مما يحتاج إليه الجنس و هو أضعف تحصيلاً.

فكما سميت مخصصات الجنس صوراً فهلا سميت مخصصات النوع صوراً إذ لا يصح تفرده دونها.

وهاهنا أبحاث مترادفة على طريق الأسئلة و الأجوبة

ذكرها صاحب المطارحات تعصبا و نصرة للقائلين بعرضية الصور لا بأس بأن نذكرها أولاً حتى يحيط الناظر بأطراف الكلام ثم نعين ما هو الحق عندنا.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٦٨

قال س مخصصات الأنواع تابعة للمتخصص الذي هو النوع مع أن التخصيص بها - ج فيلزمكم في صور الأجسام مثله - فنقول هي تابعة للماهية الجسمية و تخصصها بها كما ذكرتم في مخصصات الأنواع. س الماهية النوعية في نفسها تامة.

ج فكذا يقال في الجسمية فإن استدللتم على عدم تمامية الجسم باحتياجه إلى مخصصات فالإنسان أيضا غير تام لحاجته إلى الأمور المخصصة.

س لو فرض الإنسان نوعه منحصر في شخصه ما احتاج إلى مميز.

ج يقول القائل لو كان الجسم حقيقة محصورة في شخص واحد ما احتاج إلى مميز.

س كان لا بد للجسم من أن يكون في مكان أو وضع أو حيز.

ج إذا فرض الإنسان وحده أو الشجر أو نوع آخر جسمي لا بد له أيضا ضرورة من كونه على وضع و جهة و مقدار ثم إذا فرض الجسم وحده و لا يكون له مكان أو وضع إن كان هناك امتناع ففي انحصار الأجسام في جسم واحد و كذا الكلام

في نوع كالإنسان و الشجر.

س لا مانع للإنسان بما هو إنسان من أن يكون هو وحده في الوجود محصورا في شخص واحد وإن كان يمنعه مانع فهو خارجي.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٦٩

ج هكذا يقال في الجسم بعينه بما هو جسم.

س الأمور المخصصة للنوع يعرض عن أسباب خارجة و أمور يتفق و لا يتقوم بها حقيقة النوع.

ج ما فرضتموه صورا أيضا يلحق الأجسام أو الهيوليات بأسباب خارجة فإن الهيولى لا يقتضي أن يكون ما فرضتموه صورة مائية أو هوائية بل يلحقها بعض هذه الصور لأمر خارجة و هي ليست بمقومة لحقيقة حاملها.

س هي مقومة لوجود حاملها بخلاف مخصصات النوع.

ج كل الكلام في أنكم بما ذا تبين لكم أن المخصصات التي سميتها صورا مقومة لوجود الجسم إن كان بالتخصيص فكذا يقال في مخصصات الأنواع ثم إذا كان المخصص لا مدخل له في التقويم فليس لكم أن تقولوا في كثير من المواضع كما في تعدد الواجب الوجود إنه يحتاج إلى مميز فيصير الذي فيه الاشتراك معلولا للتمييز - ما لم يثبتوا أن المميز فصلي أو خارجي إلى هاهنا كلامه.

مخلص عرشي

إن التحقيق في هذا المقام يستدعي تقديم أصل يبتني عليه الجواب و هو أن لواحق المادة على ضربين ضرب منها ما هي كمالات يستكمل بها المادة و يتوجه إليها الطبيعة مثل صيرورة الجسم الطبيعي نباتا ثم حيوانا ثم إنسانا فصورة النباتية مما يستكمل بها الطبيعة الجسمية الأرضية صائرة بها نوعا خاصا يترتب عليها آثار مخصوصة غير ما تترتب على الجسمية العامة من الشكل الطبيعي و الحيز الطبيعي و المقدار و الوضع و غيرها.

و كذا صورة الحيوانية كالنفس الدراكة الحراكة كمال أتم و أفضل من القوة النباتية يصير بها الجسم الطبيعي بعد استعداده الأقرب و استكمال جسمه ناميا أمرا خاصا أكمل و أشرف مما كان في المرتبتين السابقتين يترتب عليه ما يترتب على الأجسام

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٧٠

عموما من التشكل و الحيز و التقدر و التكيف بالكيفيات المحسوسة و غيرها و على الأجسام النباتية خصوصا من النمو و التغذية و التوليد و هي اللواحق الحيوانية من المشي و الشهوة و الغضب و الأكل و الجماع و غيرها.

و هلم إلى كمال لا يكون فوقه كمال آخر للجسم الطبيعي فيترتب عليه ما يترتب على كل كمال من اللواحق العامة و الخاصة مع لواحق مخصوصة يختص به لا يوجد في غيره - و الضرب الآخر منهما ما هي لواحق غير كمالية لا يصلح أن يكون غايات أخيرة و لا متوسطة للطبيعة بل يكاد أن يكون من اللوازم الضرورية للوجود العام الجسمي مثل المقدار الخاص و الشكل الخاص و الحيز الخاص.

فإن مجرد الجسمية مما يقتضيها من غير أن يصير أمرا مخصوصا فهي مكثرات العدد لا محصلات الأنواع و تكثيرها

لأعداد الإنسان و أعداد الفرس مثل تكثيرها لأعداد الجسم و أعداد النبات و الحيوان.

فالضرب الأول عندنا و عند المعبرين من المشاءين هي المسماة بالصور النوعية - و الطبائع الجسمية.

و الضرب الثاني هي العوارض الخارجية و الأولى لكونها متقدمة في الوجود على الجسم الطبيعي بالمعنى الذي هو مادة و محصلة للأنواع التي يخصها هي يكون لا محالة جواهر لأن علة تقوم الجوهر وجودا و محصل تجوهرها يكون جوهر لا محالة - و أما الثانية فلتأخرها عن الأنواع و لحوقها بعد تمامها أو كمالها الإضافية يكون أعراضا لكون محالها غير متحصلة القوام بها فتدبر

قاعدة عرشية -

إذا تركب أمر تركيبا طبيعيا له وحدة طبيعية من أمرين - أحدهما متيقن الجوهرية و الآخر مشكوك فيه الجوهرية و أردت أن تعلم حال الآخر هو جوهر أم عرض فانظر في درجة وجوده و مرتبة فضيلته في المعنى و الحقيقة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٧١

بحسب الآثار المترتبة على وجوده بما هو وجوده فإن كان وجوده أقوى من وجود ما - تحققت جوهريته لما يتراءى من الآثار التي ترتبت عليه فوق ما ترتبت على ذلك المتحقق جوهريته.

فاعلم أن نسبة التقويم و العلية و التقدم إليه أولى من نسبة التقويم و المعلولية و التأخر بالقياس إلى قرينة و لقرينة الأولى عكس ذلك بالقياس إليه بعد أن تحقق عندك - أن لا بد في كل تركيب نوعي أو صنفى من ارتباط ما بالتقدم و التأخر و العلية و المعلولية - بين جزائه و الإلالم يكن نوعا و لا صنفا إلا بمجرد العمل الوهمي و إن كان وجود الأمر الآخر الذي لم يتحقق عندك بعد أنه جوهر أو عرض أضعف من وجود ذلك الأمر الجوهرى و رتبته أنقص.

فاعلم أن ذلك الأمر مستغنى القوام عنه فيجب أن يكون هذا متأخر الوجود عن وجود ذلك محتاجا إليه معلولا له فيكون إما مادة له أو عرضا قائما به إذ لو كان هذا جوهر غير محتاج إليه و ذلك أيضا كان مستغنيا عنه فلم يكن بينهما ارتباط و ائتلاف ما طبيعي أو غيره و إن كان عرضا قائما بغيره فكذلك عاد خلاف المفروض جذعا

فصل (٤) في إيراد منهج ثالث لإثبات جوهرية الصورة النوعية

و هو من جهة كونها أجزاء لماهيات الأجسام الطبيعية المحصلة.

تقريره أن الصور إذا تبدلت في الأجسام يتغير بتغيرها جواب ما هو فليست الصور أعراضا إذ الأعراض إذا تبدلت لم يتبدل بتبدلها ماهية الشيء فما يتبدل بتبدله جواب السؤال عن الشيء الجوهرى بما هو يكون جوهر لا عرضا و إلا لكان الجوهر متحصل الحقيقة من عرض.

و البحث عليه نيابة عن القدماء الذاهبين إلى عرضية كل ما يحل في غيره - أن من الأعراض ما يتغير بتغيره جواب ما هو فإن الحديد قبل أن يحصل فيه هيئة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٧٢

السيف إذا سئل عنه بما هو حسن الجواب بأنه حديد أو بحد الحديد.

ثم إذا حصلت فيه الهيئة السيفية فسئل أنه ما هو لا يجاب بأنه حديد بل بأنه سيف و لا يحصل فيه إلا الأعراض كالشكل

و الحدة و غيرهما و هكذا الطين إذا جعل لبنات و بني منها بيت لا يجاب بأنه طين بل بأنه بيت و لم يحدث فيه إلا اجتماع و هيئات و هي أعراض فقد علم أن تبدل الحدود لا مدخل له في كون المتبدل فيه جوهرًا أو عرضًا. و لا يجوز لأحد أن يقول هذه الهيئات جواهر لأنها خروج عن الفطرة و لا أن مجموع الأعراض يصير جوهرًا بعد الانضمام و هل كان الثوب الذي اتخذ من القطن إلا قطنًا أحدث فيه هيئات بالفتل و النسج فإذا سئل بعد صيرورته ثوبًا أنه ما هو لا يتأتى أن يقال إنه قطن بل إنه ثوب و على هذا القياس أمثاله و نظائره. فعلم أن من الأعراض ما يتبدل بتبدله جواب ما هو فتبدل الحدود لا مدخل له في كون المتبدل فيه جوهرًا أو عرضًا فسقط الاحتجاج بهذا الطريق.

بحث آخر -

ثم إن الاصطلاح المذكور في رسم الجوهر و العرض و في خاصية كل منهما - لم يكن بتبدل الجواب و عدم تبدله و أما الضابط في كون محل العرض متقومًا بنفسه و محل الجوهر متقومًا بما حل فيه و لزوم كون ما حل في الموضوع المستغني عن ذلك الحال عرضًا و ما حل في المحل الذي يتقوم به صورة و جوهرًا فلا يوجب هذا المعنى فإن ذلك التقوم تقوم بحسب الوجود لا تقوم بحسب الماهية بخلاف ما ذكرناه هنا. فإن الحال لا يجوز أن يكون مقوم حقيقة المحل و كيف يكون الشيء جزء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٧٣

ما يحله و المعقول من ماهية المحل غير المعقول مما هو من أحواله فليس كون المحل مفتقرًا إلى ما يحل فيه من الصور إلا باعتبار تقوم الوجود لا الحقيقة فيرجع الكلام إلى المنهج المقدم و البحث في حاجة المحل إلى بعض ما يحله و استغناؤه عن الأعراض هل هو بمجرد التخصيص و عدم الخلو و اللزوم أو بأن ماهية المحل ناقصة الوجود - يحتاج إلى مكمل جوهرى رجوع إلى الموقف الذي سبق الكلام فيه جرحًا و تعديلاً. هذا ما للذئاب عن الأقدمين أن يبحث مع أصحاب جوهرية الصور الطبيعية - من المشاءين في هذا الموقف و لنؤخر ما عندنا من الجواب إلى أن نقرر مسلكًا آخر في هذا المطلب قريب المأخذ إلى هذا المسلك استدلالًا و بحثًا و جوابًا. و لنذكر البحث الذي يرد عليه من شيعة المنكرين للصور فنشير إلى الجواب المناسب لأصحاب الأذهان البحثية. ثم نرجع إلى ما أَرانا الله من برهانه و كشف على ضميرنا و فتح على قلبنا من باب رحمته و رضوانه فنظهر نبذا منه و لا نستحي من قول الحق و إن كان فيه حيد عن المشهور

فصل (٥) في إيراد منهج رابع في هذا المرام

و هو أن هذه الأمور أجزاء الجوهر النوعية و جزء الجوهر جوهر مثلاً ماهية النار ليست مجرد الجسمية بل ماهيتها مركبة من جسم و أمر آخر يحصل من مجموعهما حقيقة النار و هكذا الماء و الهواء و الحجر و الشجر و الدواب و غيرها و للخصم أن يقول جزء الجوهر من جميع الوجوه جوهر أو جزء الشيء الذي باعتبار جهة واحدة جوهر جوهر. و الأول هو المسلم و الثاني غير مسلم فإن الأبيض أو الجسم الحار من حيث

هو جسم حار يصح حمل الجوهر عليه فيقال هذا الأبيض جوهر أو هذا الحار جوهر لأنهما من جهة واحدة جوهر لا من جميع الجهات.

فكذا نقول حينئذ الماء يحمل عليه أنه جوهر باعتبار أنه جسم و باعتبار أنه حامل صورة و الماء ليس من جميع وجوهه جوهرًا بل هو مجموع جوهر و عرض و حمل عليه الجوهرية لأجل أحد الجزئين لا لأجل أنه من جميع الوجوه جوهر كما يحمل الجوهرية على الأبيض المذكور و على الحار المذكور.

ثم لا يخفى أنك إذا عرفت الماء لا تعرفه إلا بأجزائه و لا يمكنك أن تحكم أن الماء جوهر إلا بعد أن تعلم أن أجزائه جوهر فيتقدم العلم بجوهرية أجزائه على الحكم - بأن الماء من جميع الوجوه جوهر لا أنه مركب من جوهر و عرض. فإذا عرفت هذا فيكون الاحتجاج بأن جزء الجوهر من جميع الوجوه جوهر - مصادرة على المطلوب الأول كيف و الجوهرية إذا كانت أجزائه فكذا لا يعقل الكل إلا بالأجزاء فكذا لا يعقل الأجزاء إلا بأجزائها و المتقدم بالطبع على المتقدم بالطبع على الشيء المتقدم بالطبع على ذلك الشيء.

و قد علم أن جزء الجوهر جوهر فلا يصح أن يعقل الماء إلا أن يعقل أجزائه - و لا يعقل أجزائه إلا بأنها جواهر فيلزم أن يكون إذا عقل جوهرية الماء عقل جوهرية جميع أجزائه فكيف يصح أن يثبت بعد هذا بالحجة أن شيئًا من أجزائه جوهر.

و في الجملة لا يصح لك أن تثبت أن جزء الماء جوهر إلا بأن تثبت أن الماء من جميع وجوهه جوهر لا بأنه مجموع جوهر و عرض حتى يلزم أن جزء الجوهر من جميع الوجوه جوهر و إنما يمكنك أن تثبت أن الماء من جميع وجوهه جوهر إذا ثبت جوهرية أحاد الأجزاء.

فقد أثبت في هذه الحجة الشيء بما لا يثبت إلا به.

هذا تمام ما ذكره صاحب المطارحات نيابة عن الأقدمين ذكرناه بعبارة إذ لم أجد فائدة في تغيير العبارة إذا كان المقصود تأدية المعنى بأي لفظ كان فلنذكر ما وعدناه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٧٥

في الجواب إن شاء الله تعالى

فصل (٦) في دفع المناقضة التي ذكرت على الاستدلال بالمنهجين الآخرين

اعلم أولاً أن من الأمور المتقررة في مدارك المحققين أنه لا يجوز أن يتحصل حقيقة نوعية لها وحدة طبيعية لا صناعية كالسائط الأسطقسية و المركبات الطبيعية التي فاضت صورتها على مادتها من المبدأ الفياض باستحقاقها التي حصلت من تغيرات المادة و تطوراتها بعقل و قوى ذاتية من مقولتين مختلفتين.

لما تقرر أن الوحدة في جميع التقسيمات معتبرة فالمقولة الواحدة إما جوهر أو كم أو كيف أو غير ذلك و أما المركب من الجوهر و الكم فليس جوهرًا و لا كمًا و كذا المركب من الجوهر و الكيف ليس أمرًا واحدًا بل اثنين جوهرًا و كيفًا.

و أما مجموعهما فلا وجود لهما حتى يكون به موجدًا ثالثًا يكون له علة مقتضية و علة غائية سوى علة هذا و علة ذاك و غاية هذا و غاية ذاك لا بمجرد تسمية أو اعتبار كما أن المركبات الصناعية لها وجودات صناعية و وحدات اجتماعية و فواعل عملية - و غايات تصنعية لأغراض عرضية اعتبارية.

ولهذا حكموا بأن المشتقات و ما في حكمها كالأبيض والأسود والرومي والزنجي أشياء لا حظ لها من الوجود بالذات إنما الوجود في نفسه في كل منها اثنان - جسم و كيفية أو جسم و إضافة إلى شيء لأن الملتئم من ذات ما جوهرية و عرض ما لم يكن مجموعهما من مقولة أخرى و لا لهما معا جنس واحد له فصل يحصله و امتنعوا عن تجويز أن يكون حقيقة واحدة مندرجة تحت مقولتين و ما فوقهما بالذات.

اللهم إلا بالعرض فإن الإنسان و إن صدق عليه حيوان و أبيض و طويل و قائم - و غيرها إلا أن مقوم وجوده من جملة هذه المعاني معنى الحيوان فيكون واقعا تحت مقولة الجوهر بالذات و ليس واقعا تحت مقولة أخرى إلا لأمر عارض فيكون قول

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٧٦

الكم عليه لأجل الطول الذي عرض له قولاً بالعرض.

فكذا قول الكيف عليه لأجل عروض البياض له و هكذا في جميع المقولات - فهو و إن كان مندرجا تحت الجميع بواسطة حصول أفرادها فيه لكن ليس اندراجها تحتها كاندراج نوع تحت جنسه إلا الذي دخل في قوام ماهيته الوجدانية و هو الجوهر و غيرها خارج عن قوام ذاته من حيث هي هي و إنما صدقها عليه صدق عرضي لامتناع دخول مقولتين مختلفتين في قوام شيء له وجود فطري و وحدة طبيعية.

إذا تقرر هذا فنقول لا شك أن الجسم الناري و الهوائي و الحجري و النباتي و الحيواني و غير ذلك لكل منها حقيقة متحصلة لها وحدة طبيعية من غير اعتبار و تعمل - و هي غير حالة في موضوع فيكون جوهرها واحدا غير بسيط الحقيقة لأنها متقومة من جسمية مشتركة فيه جميع الأجسام و من أمر يتم بها نوعيته فلو لم يكن ذلك الأمر مندرجا كالجسمية المشتركة تحت مقولة واحدة هي الجوهر بل يكون هو في نفسه مندرجا تحت مقولة أخرى كالكيف مثلا فلم يكن بينهما ائتلاف طبيعي و اتحاد نوعي بل مجرد اجتماع.

و مثل هذا المجموع إذا اعتبره الفرض أمرا واحدا لا يكون نوعا من الجوهر و لا نوعا من الكيف و لا من إحدى المقولات العشر إذ لم يكن له حقيقة وحدانية له وجود فائض عليه من الحق و يكون كالحجر الموضوع بجانب الإنسان و الواقع خلاف ذلك بالاتفاق العقلي.

فيجب أن يكون للنار جزء مختص جوهرى غير الجسم هو المسمى بالصورة النوعية و كذا الماء و الأرض و الفلك و الشجر و الحيوان بل يجب أن يكون نسبة الصورة إلى الجسم بمعنى المادة كنسبة الفصل إلى الجنس من حيث يكون نسبته إليه - نسبة الكمال إلى النقص فكما أن ماهية المعنى الجنسي تكمل بالفصل المقسم كذلك جوهر الجسم يكمل بحسب وجوده بالصورة.

ولهذا الوجه يقال لها كمال الجسم و كمال الشيء ينبغي أن يكون من جنسه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٧٧

لا خارجا عن جنسه و كمال الجوهر ينبغي أن يكون محصلا لجوهريته و يكون أقوى جوهرية منه فكيف يكون عرضا تابعا له.

و إنما قلنا يجب أن يكون نسبتها إلى الجسم نسبة الفصل إلى الجنس لأن تلك المخصصات إنما هي مباد لفصول ذاتية لأنواع الجسم و هذا أمر مقرر عندهم.

كما مر من أن الجنس و الفصل مأخوذان في الماهيات المركبة من المادة و الصورة الخارجيتين و الأجزاء المحمولة إنما تكون محفوظة الحقائق في الذهن و الخارج كما مر في مباحث الوجود الذهني.

فإذا تقرر هذه المقدمات فنقول أما قول من قال في أحد المنهجين أن ما لا يتبدل بتبدله جواب ما هو فهو جوهر و ما تبدل فهو عرض ليس مراده في أي موضع كان على سبيل العموم و الكلية حتى لو فرض ماهية كالسود مركبة من جنس و فصل - يكون كلاهما عرضين كاللونية و قبض البصر.

فإذا سئل عن السود فأجيب بأنه لون قابض للبصر و إذا سئل عن غيره من الألوان فأجيب بجواب آخر يلزم كون المتبدل فيه الجواب جوهرًا بل غرضه أن كل ماهية نوعية لها وحدة طبيعية و مع ذلك تكون واقعة تحت مقولة الجوهر بالذات و يكون له صفة مخصوصة.

فإذا أردنا أن نعلم أن الصفة مقومة له أو غير مقومة له ننظر أ يتبدل بتبدله جواب ما هو أم لا فإن تبدل فهو جوهر لا محالة و إن لم يتبدل فهو عرض إذ قد ثبت أنه صفة قائمة بمحل.

فبهذا يعلم أن صفة النارية أي كونها بحيث تكون محرقة داخلية في قوام الجسم الناري و صفة الأبيضية ليست داخلية في قوام الجسم الأبيض.

لست أقول إن الحيوان الأبيض إذا أخذ مقيدا بالأبيض معتبرا معه حتى يكون مجموعا من عارض و معروض لا يكون البياض داخلا فيه و لا أنه لا يتبدل حينئذ بتبدل البياض جواب ما هو كيف و البياض بحسب هذا الأخذ ذاتي داخل نسبته

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٧٨

نسبة الفصل.

بل أقول إن الحيوان الواحد له حد نوعي يجاب به عن ماهيته و لا يتغير فيه الجواب عما هو يتبدل مثل البياض و ما يجري مجراه عنه و أما المناقضة بالسيف و السرير و نحوهما فليست هي بأنواع طبيعية و كلامنا في الأنواع الطبيعية الواقعة - تحت مقولة الجوهر بالذات.

نعم الحديد ماهية طبيعية و الخشب نوع طبيعي لكل منهما فصل ذاتي يتبدل بتبدله جواب ما هو و لا شبهة لأحد في أن نوعية كل من النار و الهواء و الأرض و الماء و الدر و الياقوت و الإنسان و الفرس نوعية طبيعية لكل منها علل أربع كلها بالذات لا بالعرض.

اثنتان منها مقومتا الوجود و هما الفاعل و الغاية الخارجان عن عالم العمل و التصنع و اثنتان منها مقومتا الماهية و هما داخلتان في ذاته تلبست إحداهما بالأخرى في الوجود من غير وضع واضح و اعتبار معتبر و لها فصول ذاتية مأخوذة من أمور خاصة طبيعية فهي المسماة بالصور.

فالصور الطبيعية جواهر فإذا كان في حقائق الأجسام فصول ذاتية مختلفة هي الصور النوعية باعتبار فإذا نسب إلى هذه الأنواع شيء يجب أن يستند الآثار المختلفة المختصة بنوع نوع إلى تلك الصور نوعا من الاستناد و إن كان لكل نوع من

الأجسام مدبر عقلي ذو عناية من ملائكة الله الروحانيين يقوم بكلاءة هذا النوع بإذن مبدع الكل وأمره جلت عظمته. وإذا كان لها تقويم المادة و تحصيل الأجسام أنواعا فلا يكون لها مباد في المواد- بل يفيدها مفيد من خارج فإن الاستعدادات و الاستعدادات ليست بأمور محصلة في الخارج يتقوم بها أنواع بل هي توابع لأمور محصلة يتخصص بها الجسم تخصيصا أوليا- وإنما شأنها الإعداد لأنها من جهات القوة و القبول. ومنشأ اختلاف تلك الصور في الحقائق يرجع إلى اختلاف مبادئها المفارقة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٧٩

دون اختلاف ذوات الهيوليات أو اختلاف استعداداتها فإنها مقدمة كما علمت بحسب الذات على الهيوليات و اختلافها و اختلاف استعداداتها إنما يصحح اختلاف الشخصيات- و أنحاء الحصوليات لا الحقائق أنفسها. و الحق أن مفيض وجود الكل هو الواجب القيوم كما علمت مرارا على وفق علمه بالنظام الأتم الأفضل و العقول و النفوس و غيرها جهات فاعلية يتكثر بها أنواع الحقائق المحصلة و المواد و الحركات و الأزمنة و الاستعدادات جهات قابلية يتكثر بها أشخاص تلك الحقائق و أنحاء حصولاتها و أعداد تعييناتها كما ذهب إليه كافة الموحدون من العرفاء و المحققين من الحكماء هذا.

و أما معنى قول المثبتين للصور إن جزء الجوهر جوهر فهو أن ما علم مجملا ببرهان أو حدس أو فطرة أنه جوهر فجزؤه لا محالة يكون جوهرًا لأنه أقدم وجودا منه فيكون أولى منه بعدم الافتقار إلى موضوع و العلم بكون الشيء جوهرًا أي بصدق الجوهرية عليه لا يتوقف على العلم بكنه حقيقته و تصور أجزائه.

بل ربما يحصل ذلك بدون تصور الأجزاء تفصيلا كما أن العلم بجوهرية الجسم الطبيعي و كونه ذا أبعاد ثلاثة حاصل قبل أن يعلم أن له أجزاء و أنه مركب من هيولى و صورة هما جوهران أو أحدهما جوهر و الآخر عرض.

فقول المعترض إن العلم بجوهرية الشيء لا يحصل إلا بعد العلم بجوهرية كل جزء من أجزائه غير صحيح و كذا قوله جزء الجوهر إنما يكون جوهرًا إذا كان ذلك الجوهر جوهرًا من جميع الوجوه لا محصل له فإن جوهرية الشيء لا يكون بوجه دون وجه لأن الجوهر جنس لما تحته من الأنواع المحصلة فيكون مقوما لماهيتها- و مقوم الشيء لا ينفك عنه أصلا في اعتبار من الاعتبارات و حيثة من الحيثيات فالجوهر جوهر بأي حيثة أخذت معه و على أي وجه كان.

و أما تمثيله بالجسم الحار أو الأبيض فحمل الجوهر على الجسم من حيث ماهيته حمل ذاتي و حملة على الحار و الأبيض حمل عرضي لأنهما بالذات من أفراد مقولة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٨٠

الكيف و مجموع المعروض و العارض ليس أمرا واحدا حتى يكون مندرجا تحت مقولة بل هما نوعان لمقولتين كل منهما تحت مقولة أخرى كما مر ذكره.

و الكلام فيما هو جوهر بالذات مقول عليه الجوهرية قولاً ذاتياً لا عرضياً و كل ما هو جوهر بالذات لا ينفك عنه الجوهرية على أي وجه كان من وجوهه بعد ما انحفظت ذاته عن الازدواج مع غيرها من الأوصاف الزائدة على ذاته و جزء الجوهر أي الواقع تحت جنس الجوهر لا بد و أن يكون جوهرًا و إلا فيلزم أن يكون المركب المعلول مستغني

القوام ذاتا و وجودا عن الموضوع و ما هو جزؤه و علتة و أقدم وجودا منه بالطبع محتاجا إليه و العلة يجب أن يكون أقوى و أوكد وجودا من معلولها هذا خلف.

و أما تجويز كون جزء الجوهر عرضا قائما بجزئه الآخر الجوهرى فهو أيضا من مجازفات من أهمل شرائط الوحدة الطبيعية في الأنواع المحصلة و اشتبه عليه حال التركيب التآحدي الذي بين المادة و الصورة بحسب فعل الطبيعة بالتركيب التأليفي الذي بين الموضوع و العرض بحسب فعل الصنعة.

و ذلك لأن أحد الجزئين إذا كان ذاتا جوهريا مستغني القوام عن ما يقوم به فيكون تام النوعية فلا يفتقر في وجوده إلى ما يضمه و ما يضمه إنما يضمه بعد مرتبة وجوده فلا يحصل منه و مما يضمه في مرتبة أخيرة ذاتا واحدة مندرجة تحت مقولة الجوهر فيكون المجموع مجموع جوهر و عرض فالجوهر متقدم و العرض متأخر- و الذات الواحدة لا تكون متقدمة و متأخرة معا.

كيف و لو كان المجموع جوهرًا واحدًا له ذات واحدة غير ذات هذا الجوهر- و هذا العرض و له جوهرية غير جوهرية جزئه بناء على أن ذاته غير ذات كل منهما- فعند حصول جزئه الجوهرى لم يوجد بعد و إنما وجد بعد وجود العرض فيكون العرض سببا لوجود الجوهر متقدما عليه هذا محال و إن لم يكن العرض قائما به بل بغيره جزءا كان ذلك الغير أم خارجا و ذلك قوام العلة يجب أن يكون أقوى و أتم و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٨١

العرض مطلقا أضعف قواما من أي جوهر كان و كذا يلزم تركيب موجود وحداني من مقولتين و قد مر فساد

تحصيل عرشي

قد سبق منا ما أفادنا الله بالهامة و فاض على قلبنا بتأييده في مباحث الماهية ما يتنور منه و ينكشف أن الصور النوعية هي محض الوجودات الخاصة للجسمانيات و الوجود بما هو وجود ليس بجوهر و لا عرض و ذلك لما أشرنا إلى أن فصول الجواهر متحدة الماهية في المركبات العينية مع الصور الخارجية و الجنس ليس بجنس لفصله المقسم- بل من لوازمه التي يعمه و غيره.

فجنس الجوهر و إن كان مقوما للأنواع المركبة الجوهرية لكنه عرضي خارج عن فصولها و صورها المأخوذة عنها تلك الفصول فالصور الطبيعية ليست ماهية جوهرية لكنها مفيد القوام للأجسام الجوهرية فلا يكون إعرضا بل هي أعلى ذاتا من الاندراج تحت إحدى المقولات فلبساطتها و نوريتها و كونها مبادي الآثار الخارجية- يتحدس اللبيب الفطن بعد تذكر أصول سابقة في أوائل هذا الكتاب أنها هي الوجودات العينية المحصلة التي تحصل الأنواع و تميز بعضها من بعض و هي بنفسها متحصلة و متميزة كما هو شأن الوجود المنبسط على هياكل الماهيات البسيطة و المركبة- حيث إنه متمايز الآحاد و الأفراد متفاضل المراتب و الدرجات بنفسه لا بأمر يلحقه- و تمايز الماهيات و تفاصلها تابعة لتمايز آحاد الوجودات و أفرادها و تفاصل مراتبها و درجاتها.

و أما حاجة الوجودات الصورية إلى الهيولى فهي ليست بحسب أنفسها و إنما يحوجها إلى المادة ما يلحقها و يلزمها من العوارض المسماة عند القوم بالعوارض المشخصة من كيف و الكم و الوضع و الأين و غيرها و هي من علامات التشخيصات و إنما التشخيص بنفس الوجود لأن تشخصه بنفسه و تشخص الأشياء به كما أن وجوده بنفسه و موجودية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٨٢

الأشياء به فهو تشخص و متشخص و مشخص كما أنه وجود و موجود و موجد كل منهما باعتبار فانظر

فصل (٧) في أن تقويم الصورة الطبيعية للجسمية ليس على سبيل البديل

لما كانت الصورة الجسمية تتبدل بتبدل الصورة لما علمت أن نسبتها إلى الجسمية - نسبة الفصل إلى الجنس و الفصل متقدم على الجنس وجودا فمهما تبدل المتقدم يتبدل المتأخر دون العكس.

و لما صرح الشيخ أيضا في التعليقات و غيرها بأن كل صورة تحدث من الصورة الطبيعية يحصل معها مقدار آخر و امتدادات أخرى فيحصل معها اتصال جوهرى آخر.

فلا ينبغي لأحد أن يقول إن الصور الطبيعية تقوم وجود الجسم على سبيل البديل كما أن الجوهر المتصل يقوم الهيولى حتى يكون الجسم بالقياس إلى الصور الطبيعية كالهوى بالقياس إلى الصور الامتدادية فإن الجسم جزء الاتصال القابل لفرض الأبعاد الثلاثة و إذا تبدل الاتصال الصوري يتبدل الصور الطبيعية بتبدل الجسم أيضا فيحدث مع كل صورة طبيعية جسم آخر فليس الجسم كالهوى التي يبقى نفسها و يقبل حدودا مختلفة يقومها على سبيل البديل.

و السر في هذا أن كل حال عرضا كان أو صورة يحتاج في لوازم تشخيصه إلى المحل إلا أن العرض كما يفتقر إلى المحل في تشخيصه كذلك يفتقر إليه في نوعيته لأن حقيقته حقيقة ناعية فالموضوع يقوم حقيقة العرض كما يقوم شخصيتها و الصورة بحقيقتها تقوم وجود محلها الذي هو المادة حيث كانت الجسمية نوعا واحدا محفوظة الحقيقة في حدود الامتدادات و مراتب المقادير المختلفة صغرا و كبرا.

فالهوى تنحفظ شخصيتها بانحفاظ نوعية الصورة الاتصالية فهي بنوعيتها تقوم الهوى و تشخصاتها متقومة بها و هذا بخلاف الجسم بالقياس إلى الصور الطبيعية

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٨٣

المتخالفة الأنواع فإن كل صورة طبيعية إذا كانت بنوعيتها مقومة للجسم - فإذا تبدلت نوعيتها إلى نوعية صورة أخرى زالت الجسمية أيضا إلى جسمية أخرى و لأن الهوى لما كانت أمرا بالقوة مبهمة الذات و الحقيقة يكفي في تشخيصها مطلق الصور و أما الجسم بما هو جسم فهو ماهية نوعية تفتقر في تشخيصها إلى صورة مخصوصة فزوال الصورة المخصوصة يوجب زوالها و لا يوجب زوال خصوصيات الصورة و لا نوعياتها زوال الهوى ما دام يبقى مطلق الصور.

تفريع

و من هاهنا حكموا بأن الشجر إذا قطع و الحيوان إذا مات فقد عدم الجسم - الذي كان موجودا مع الصورة النباتية أو الحيوانية و حدث جسم آخر بخلاف الهوى الأولى فإنها مستمرة.

و هذا أيضا موضع الخلاف بين الفريقين لأنه متفرع على الخلاف بين جوهرية الصور و عرضيتها و كذا ما مر في مباحث الماهيات من أن الجنس و الفصل مجعولان بجعل واحد في المركبات كما في البسائط و عند اتباع الإشراقيين جعل كل واحد منهما غير جعل الآخر و التزموا ذلك.

مع أنهما من الأجزاء المحمولة و الحمل عبارة عن الاتحاد في الوجود لما زعموا أن الشجر إذا قطع زال عنه الفصل أي

النامي و بقي فيه الجنس و هو الجسم - و كذا في الحيوان إذا مات و الجسم إذا انفصل و قد أسمعناك ما يفني بتحقيق هذا المقام هناك فتذكر

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٨٤

فصل (٨) في أن مرتبة وجود الصورة الطبيعية متقدمة على مرتبة وجود الصورة الجسمية

قد مضى من الأصول ما يستفاد منه هذا المقصد إلا أنا نبينه تبييناً آخر فنقول - إنه من المحال أن يكون الجسم المؤلف من الهيولى و البعد المنبسط في الأطراف مطلقاً أمراً قائماً بالفعل ثم يلحقه كونه على مقدار خاص و شكل خاص و مكان خاص - و على امتناع لقبول الخرق و الالتيام أو عدم امتناع لهما.

أما على نهج السهولة أو الصعوبة لأن مقتضى الجسم بما هو جسم بمعنى أنه ليس يوجد فيه إلا الهيولى و الصورة الامتدادية هو مكان مطلق و شكل عام جنسي و مقدار كذلك - و بالجملة مقتضاه من كل صفة أمر عام لا وجود له إلا في الذهن إذ وجوده كذلك لا يكون إلا في العقل كما علمت إذ ما لا ينفك وجوده عن خصوصيات أوصاف متخالفة بالنوع و ما يقتضيها من الصور المتخالفة الحقيقة فلا يجوز فرضه قائماً بالفعل مجرداً عن ما يخصه بإحدى هذه الصفات و لا سابقاً عليها و إن لم يكن سبقاً زمانياً بل يكون سبقاً ما بالطبع و ما يضاهيه إلا في العقل و محال وجود ما هذه صفته إلا مقترناً بإحدى الخصوصيات لا مجرداً عنها و لا متقدماً عليها أصلاً.

فمحال أن يكون الصورة الطبيعية متأخرة عن الجسمية و لا أن تكونا متكافئتين - من غير تقدم و تأخر لإحدهما على الأخرى إذ يلزم منه أن يقوم الهيولى الصورة الجسمية - على انفرادها و الصورة الطبيعة على انفرادها. و هذا من المستحيلات لأن المادة الواحدة البسيطة لا يجوز أن يقومها صورتان - لأن في تقويم إحدهما إياها غنى عن تقويم الأخرى إذا كانتا في درجة واحدة كما يستحيل أن يقوم معنى واحد جنسي فصلان منطقيان و ليس الحال في الحساس و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٨٥

المتحرك بالإرادة للحيوان هذا الحال بل هما لازمان لفصل واحد عبر بهما عنه كما بين في موضعه.

فيجب أن يتقوم الصورة الامتدادية أولاً بالصورة الطبيعية فيتنوع الجسمية نوعاً خاصاً ثم يقوم المادة و الجسم الذي يقومه الصورة الطبيعية تقويماً في الوجود - غير الجسم الذي يتركب منهما و هو الذي يقومه الصورة الطبيعية بحسب الحد و الماهية.

و قد علمت الفرق بين المعنيين فهذا الجسم هو معنى ثالث غير الجسم بمعنى المادة و غير الجسم بمعنى الجنس إذ هو متأحد من هذه الأمور الثلاثة الهيولى و صورتين تأحداً بالفعل لا بفرض فإرض كتأحد الجسم بالزنجي أو الأبيض فإن اتحاد الهيولى بالصورتين في المصورة ليس كتأحد الجسم بالحرارة في الحار و كتأحد الإنسان بالكتابة في الكاتب فإن لكل منهما قواماً بالفعل مجرداً عن الحرارة و الكتابة بخلاف حال الهيولى مع الصورة.

و لهذا يكون الاتحاد هاهنا بالذات و هناك بالعرض و هذا الاتحاد يجعل الأمر الجنسي أمراً نوعياً فهو اتحاد نوعي و اتحاد الجسم بالحرارة لم يجعل الجسم أمراً نوعياً بعد تحصله بما يلحقه لحوقاً طبيعياً ذاتياً و اتحاده بما يقومه نوعاً

خاصا تام التحصل و الخصوصية فلا يكون اتحادا نوعيا.

فانظر أ يجعل الكتابة ما ينضاف إليه أمرا يحتاج إليه الكتابة في تحصيله نوعا بل شخصا أيضا فإن الإنسان ما لم يتحصل شخصا معينا لم يتصف بالكتابة و لا بالبياض - و غيره من العوارض المتأخرة فقد ثبت أن المعنى الملتئم من الهيولى و الجوهر الامتدادي فقط وجوده كوجود الجنس في أن يفتقر إلى ما يكمله و يحصله نوعا من الأنواع الطبيعية و إن لم يكن جنسا بالحقيقة فإن الجنس المحض ما يكون غير تام المعنى لا في الذهن و لا في العين و الجوهر الممتد فقط و إن كان تام المعنى في الذهن - إلا أنه ليس تام الحقيقة في الخارج بل لنقص وجوده يحتاج إلى ما يحصله و يوجد.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٨٦

نوعا كاملا يترتب عليه آثار الوجود فوق ما يترتب على مجرد الجسمية و هكذا إلى أن يتم و يكمل تماما و كمالات لا مزيد عليه بحسبه فيكون نوعا حقيقيا مطلقا.

فإذا كان كذلك يجب أن يحصله أمر صوري هو إحدى الصور الطبيعية و المحصل للشيء يكون أقدم وجودا و أقوى قواما و تحسلا فالصورة الطبيعية متقدمة على الجسمية - تقدما بالعلية و على المركب من الثلاثة تقدما بالطبع أو بالماهية.

و هاهنا شك مشهور

و هو أن الهيولى أمر واحد فكيف اختصت ذاتها بصورة طبيعية دون صورة أخرى طبيعية و قد مر أيضا شبه هذا السؤال و هو أن اختلاف الأجسام بالآثار إذا كان منشؤه اختلاف الصور فما سبب اختلاف الصورة عليها بعد اتفاقها في الجسمية.

و نحن قد أشرنا إلى ما ينفسخ به هذا الإيراد لأن مبناه على الغفلة عن جوهرية الصور النوعية و تقدمها في الوجود و جعل على الجسم بالمعنى الذي هو مادة متفقة الحقيقة في الكل.

و أما الجسم بالمعنى الذي هو محمول على سائر الأنواع الجسمانية فليس هو واحدا متفقا في الكل و إنه يتحصل بفصول مأخوذة عن الصورة و يكون في كل منها بمعنى آخر.

و أما اختلافات تلك الصورة أو الفصول فهي بذواتها و بجهات راجعة إلى مبادئ الوجودية لا بصور و فصول أخرى لأنهما معان بسيطة غير ملتئمة من مادة و صورة أو جنس و فصل.

و بالجملة فالوجود بحسب مراتب تقدمه و تأخره و كماله و نقصه في ذاته أصل كل اختلاف و منشأ كل حقيقة و نعت و وصف ذاتي أو عرضي.

ثم إن ما يختلف من الهيوليات و الجسميات اختلافا نوعيا أعني اختلافا بالفصول

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٨٧

و الصور كهيوليات الأفلاك و جسمياتها المختلفة و هيولى العناصر و طبائعها النوعية - فالأمر فيهما واضح لعدم تقدمها ذاتا و لا زمانا على تلك الطبائع الخاصة.

و أما الهيولى بما هي واحدة بالنوع بالجسمية المشتركة أو واحدة بالشخص - كما زعمه قوم ثم يتصور بصورة بعد

صورة فباستعدادات تلحقها و يختلف بها من أسباب علوية بإعداد الحركات الدورية كما ينكشف في موضعه إن شاء الله

فصل (٩) في أن وجود الصور الطبيعية و القوى الجسمانية ليست في أطراف و نهايات للأجرام

إن الصور و القوى لا يجوز أن يختص في الجسم بحد غير منقسم منه كنقطة أو سطح بل يجب أن يكون سارية فيه إذا كانت تحل في الجسم بما هو جسم أي في نفس ذاته المنقسمة إذ لو كانت موجودة في حد منه غير منقسم لا في الجسم كله لزم أن يكون لذلك الحد وجود منحاز عن وجود الجسم فلا يكون نهاية له هذا خلف.

و لأن من الأجسام ما ليس له حد خطي أو نقطي كالكرة و أشباهها و الجسم المستدير الفلكي لم يتعين فيه نقطة و لا خط كالقطب و المحور ما لم يتحرك فلو كان وجوده القوة المحركة في تلك النقطة أو ذلك الخط لكان وجودها بعد وجود الحركة بمرتبتين و هذا ممتنع فبقي أن وجودها ليس في أمر غير منقسم.

ثم إنك قد علمت أن المقدار و الوضع من لوازم الأجسام بل من مقوماتها كما ذهب إليه جماعة من المعتبرين فإذا قارن الجسم أمر لا يصح أن لا يوجد له المقدار - و الوضع و ما يجري مجراهما و إلا لم يكن وجوده في الجسم من حيث هو جسم بل مع زيادة معنى غير منقسم كالأبوة و أمثالها فيجب أن يعرض للطباع و القوى الجسمانية هذه الأمور بالعرض و ليست مقارنة القوى و الصور للوضع و المقدار و ما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٨٨

يجري مجراهما من الجسم كمقارنتها للسواد و الحركة و ما يشابههما.

إذ ليس هذه الأمور حالها حال مثل المقدار و الوضع بالقياس إلى الجسم و ما يقوم به فإنه يرتفع بارتفاعهما الجسم و ما يقوم به و لا يرتفع بارتفاع مثل السواد و الحركة.

فلهذا لا يؤثر مثل هذه الأمور في القوى و الصور و الأعراض الموجودة في الجسم كما لا يؤثر فيه إذ لو كانت مؤثرة كان ارتفاعها يوجب ارتفاع ما يؤثر.

أ و لا ترى أنه إذا عدم المقدار أو الوضع أو الشكل من الجسم لم يبق الجسم و لا القوة الموجودة فيه أو العرض الموجود فيه و إذا عدم نصف المقدار عدم نصف السواد و لا كذلك السواد مع غيره كالحركة فليس إذا عدم السواد عدم الحركة و لا إذا عدم نصفه عدم نصفها

تلويح عرشي

و مما يجب أن يعلم هاهنا أيضا أن الوحدة في بعض الأشياء عين الانقسام - كالعدد أو عين قبول الانقسام كالزمان و المقادير فإن حقيقة العدد التي بها تحصله و قوامه هي نفس المنقسم إلى الوحدات لا أمر يعرضه الانقسام إليها و حقيقة الزمان كما سيجيء نفس الاتصال المتجدد الغير القار و حقيقة المقدار نفس الكمية الاتصالية - التي لها قوة الانقسام و في بعض الأشياء تغاير الانقسام سواء ينافيها أو يجامعها من جهتين لا من جهة واحدة و إلا لكان عددا فالأول كالواجب الوجود و كالعقول - و كنفس جهة الوحدة و الثاني كالأشياء التي لها جهة تمام و جهة نقص.

فالفلك و الحيوان مثلا لكل منهما جهة جسمية بها يقبل الانقسام بالقوة أو بالفعل و هي الجهة التي بها يكون كل منهما ناقصا و جهة نفسية أو عقلية بها لا تقبل الانقسام لا بالقوة و لا بالفعل و هي الجهة التمامية التي بها يكون تاما فالفلك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٨٩

فلكيته التي تمامه لا يصلح لأن يصير فلكين أي تصير النفس ذا نفسين و الحيوان بما هو حيوان لا يصلح لأن يصير حيوانين أعني ذا ذاتين وإنما صار جسمية كل منهما قابلة لأن يصير جسمين لأن بمجرد الجسمية لا يصير الشيء ذا حقيقة تامة لأن وحدتها كما علمت عين قبول الكثرة و تمامها عين النقصان.

و من هاهنا علم أن الجسم بما هو جسم كالجنس و أما الصور الطبيعية فهي أيضا ذات جهتين جهة قبول الانقسام و جهة عدم الانقسام و هي متفاوتة بحسب غلبة إحدى الجهتين على الأخرى.

فكلما كانت أنزل مرتبة و أشد إلصاقا بالجسمية و أقرب درجة إلى المادة الأولى - و أبعد وجودا عن وجود الفاعل الأول فهي أقبل للكثرة و الانقسام و أبعد عن التمام - و كلما كانت عكس هذه الأوصاف عليها أغلب فهي أقبل للوحدة و أقرب إلى التمام و أمتع عن قبول الخرق و الالتيام و الصق بعالم الصور المجردة عن الأبعاد و الأجرام - و كذلك حكم الأعراض و الكيفيات فإن بعضها أبعد عن الوحدة و التمامية من بعض - فإن السواد و البياض ليسا كالكرة و الدائرة إذ يتصور لكل من هاتين وحدة و تمامية بحسب الواقع و أما فيهما فليس شيء من الوحدة و التمامية إلا بحسب المقايسة و الاعتبار.

فالموجود من الشكل في كل جزء من أجزاء الجسم المشكل جزء منه و تمامه موجود في كلية الجسم و كلية الجسم الذي له وحدة طبيعية غير موجود في كل جزء من أجزائه و ليس كذلك حال مثل السواد و البياض.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٩٠

و أما القوى الجسمانية فإن كان لها تمام و معنى زائد على أنها قوة في الجسم - فإنها موجودة في كلية الجسم و أما أجزاؤها ففي أجزاء الجسم فالنفس من حيث إنها قوة في الجسم فلها أجزاء بحسب أجزائه الشريف من أجزائها في الشريف من أجزاء الجسم كالقلب و الدماغ و الخسيس من أجزائها في الخسيس من أجزائه كالعقب و العجز.

هذا إذا اعتبر الأجزاء المختلفة للبدن و أما إذا اعتبر أجزائه المتشابهة المقدارية فليس بإزائها من النفس إلا قوة متشابهة سارية في الجميع على نحو واحد متشابه و كأنها هي المسماة بالطبيعة التي عرفت بأنها مبدأ أول لحركة ما هي فيه و سكونه بالذات لا بالعرض أو ما هو كالألة للطبيعة و هو الميل فإن تلك الطبيعة قوة من قوى النفس سارية في الأجسام ذوات النفوس و هي في البسائط صورة نوعية مبدأ فصل أخير و في المركبات سيما ذوات النفوس ليست صورة مقومة بل حكمها حكم سائر القوى و الكيفيات.

و أما النفس من حيث إنها أمر في نفسها تامة الحقيقة مع قطع النظر عن أنها قوة في الجسم أو مباشرة لتحريكه أو تدبيره فليست هي ذات تجز من هذه الحيثية - و لا لها أجزاء في أجزاء الجسم لأنها ليست ناقصة كأجزائها أو قواها التي توجد في الجسم فحكمها حكم الذوات المفارقة عن المواد و من حيث لها قوة سارية فيه فهي أمر منقسم بانقسامه فما أشبه حال النفس بأمر مركب من مادة و صورة أو حيوان متألف من بدن و نفس لأنها ذات جهتين إحداهما قوة سارية في البدن حكمها حكم سائر الصور الطبيعية و الأخرى غير سارية فيه كالمفارقات.

فهذا حال النفوس المجردة الذوات و أما غيرها فجهة الوحدة فيها ضعيفة مغلوبة - كالنباتات و رب حيوان كالحيات إذا جزي بقسمين توجد في كل واحد من قسميه - قوة محركة حساسة زمانا مديدا كما يوجد في كل من قطعتي بعض الأشجار قوة نامية يظهر فعلها عند الغرس

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٩١

فصل (١٠) في الإشارة إلى نحو وجود الأشياء الكائنات

قد علمت مما سبق بعض الأسباب القريبة لوجود الأمور الطبيعية و هي المادة الأولى و الصورة و انجر البحث في تلازمهما إلى إثبات السبب العقلي الفاعلي للأجسام - و ستقف فيما يرد عليك من مباحث الحركات الكلية إثبات الغايات العقلية و هما سببان قاصيان لوجود الكائنات التي هي تحت السماويات فلو كان وجود هذه الأشياء على وجه يصح حصولها من ذينك السببين المفارقين فقط من غير حاجة إلى سببين مفارقين - لكانت سبيلها أن يبقى و يدوم و لكانت على تمامها اللائق في أول تكونها فكان أولها عين آخرها و لكن لما كان قوامها من مادة و صورة و كانت مع ذلك متضادة الصور - متفاسدة الكيفيات الأولية و كل مادة لتكونها قوة قابلة.

فإن من شأنها أن يوجد لها هذه الصورة و ضدها صار لكل واحد من هذه الأجسام حق و استيهال بصورته و حق و استيهال بمادته فالذي له بحق صورته أن يبقى و يدوم على الوجه الذي له و الذي له بحق مادته أن يتغير و يوجد لها وجود مضاد لوجوده الذي كان لها و إذا كان لا يمكن أن يوفى هذان الحقان معا في وقت واحد إذ لا يمكن أن يتصور المادة بصور متضادة في زمان واحد.

بل نقول إن جميع صور الموجودات التي في هذا العالم كانت في العالم العقلي بإبداع الواجب تعالى إياها كما ستعلم و قد مرت الإشارة إلى وجود هذه الصور وجودا مفارقا و كان وجود الفاعل الأول يقتضي تكميل المادة بوجودها في هذا العالم - لأنه من التوابع المتأخرة على سبيل الفيض و كان إيجادها في المادة على سبيل الإبداع مستحيلا إذ هي غير متأتية بل متعصية لوجود صورتين معا فضلا عن تلك الكثرة - فقدر بلطف حكيمته حركة دورية و زمانا غير منبث و مادة مستحيلة من صورة إلى صورة و لزم ضرورة أن يوفى هذه إلى مدة و ذا إلى مدة فيوجد هذه و يبقى مدة ما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٩٢

محفوظة الوجود.

ثم يتلف و يوجد ضدها ثم يبقى ذلك مدة ثم يفتنى و هكذا فإنه ليس وجود أحد الضدين أولى من وجود الآخر و لا بقاؤه أولى من بقاء الآخر فلكل منهما قسط من الوجود و البقاء.

و أيضا لما كانت المادة مشتركة بينهما فلكل منهما حق عند الآخر و يكون عنده شيء ما لغيره و عند غيره شيء ما له فعند كل منهما حق ما ينبغي أن يصير إلى صاحبه فالعدل في هذا أن تؤخذ مادته فتعطى لذلك و لذاك أن تؤخذ مادته فتعطى لهذا و تتعاقب المادة بينهما فلاجل الحاجة إلى توفية العدل في هذه الموجودات لم يمكن أن يبقى الشيء الواحد دائما على أنه واحد بالشخص كما قيل شعرا -

از آن سرد آمد این کاخ دل آویز که چون جا گرم کردی گویدت خیز

فجعل بقاء الدهر على أنه واحد بالنوع وهكذا بقاء المادة الأولى والحركة الأولى والزمان الذي بها وجود هذا العالم فإن لكل منها وحدة كوحدة الجنس وكل باق بالمعنى لا بالعدد فيحتاج في أن يوجد إلى أشخاص بعد أشخاص فيوجد أشخاص ذلك النوع مدة ثم يتلف ويقوم مقامها أشخاص آخر منه فيبقى مدة ثم يتلف ويقوم مقام الأشخاص السالفة أشخاص آخر أيضا من ذلك النوع وعلى هذا المثال إلى ما شاء الله وأراد

فصل (١١) في الإشارة إلى الصور الأول وما بعدها وإلى نحو بقاء الفاسدات

منها أن من الصور ما هي أسطقسات.

و منها ما هي كائنة عن اختلاطها فمن هذه ما هي عن اختلاط أكثر تركيبا.

و منها ما هي اختلاط أقل تركيبا.

و أما الأسطقسات فإن المضاد المتلف لكل واحد منها هو من خارجه فقط إذ كان لا ضد له في جملة جسميته و أما الكائن عن امتزاج أقل تركيبا فإن المضادات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٩٣

التي فيه يسيرة وقواها منكسرة ضعيفة فلذلك صار المضاد المفسد له في ذاته ضعيفا قليل التأثير لا يتلفه إلا المفسد من خارج فصار المفسد له أيضا من خارج و ما هو كائن عن امتزاج بعد امتزاج و عن اختلاط أكثر تركيبا فبكثرة المتضادات فيه و تراكيبها يكون تضاد المختلطات فيه أظهر و أقوى المتضادات فيه قوية.

و أيضا لما كان حصولها من أجزاء و أبعاد غير متشابهة لم يمتنع أن يكون منها تضاد و تفسد فيكون المضاد المتلف له من خارج جسمه و من داخله و ما كان من الكائنات يتلفه المضاد من خارج فإنه لا يتحلل من تلقاء نفسه دائما مثل الماء و الحجارة فإن هذين و ما جانسهما إنما يتحللان من الخارجيات فقط و أما غيرها من النبات و الحيوان فإنها تتحلل من أشياء متضادة لها من داخل و أشياء مضادة لها من خارج.

فلذلك إن كان شيء من هذه يتعلق عناية الله بأن يبقى صورته مدة ما أعطاه قوة تخلف بدل ما يتحلل من جسمه دائما و يكون ذلك شيئا يقوم مقام ما يتحلل و لا يمكن إلا بأن ينجذب إلى جسمه جسم آخر يتصل به فيخلع عن ذلك الجسم صورته - التي كانت له و يكتسي صورة هذا الجسم بعينه فجعلت في هذه الأجسام لصورها قوى أخرى هي الغذائية و ما يخدمها و يعينها حتى صار كل جسم من هذه الأجسام يجتذب إلى نفسه شيئا ما مضادا له فينسلخ عنده تلك الضدية و يقبله بذاته و يكسوه الصورة التي هو متلبس بها إلى أن ينفذ هذه القوة منه في طول المدة فيتحلل من ذلك الجسم ما لا يمكن للقوة الجابرة أن يرد مثله فيتلف.

فبهذا الوجه ينحفظ الأجسام من المتلف الداخل و أما انحفاظ الجسم من المتلف الخارج فبالآلات جعلت بعضها فيه كقوة النشو في النبات يخرج الأوراق للصيانة عن الحر و البرد المفسدين من خارج و كقوة الحركة الإرادية في الحيوان و بعضها من خارج جسمه متصلا كان أو غير متصل أما المتصل فكالأوراق للنبات و كالشعور - و المخالب و الأنف و الأظفار و الأنياب للحيوانات و أما المنفصل فكالألبسة و آلات الحروب للإنسان

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٩٤

و كاليوت و المساكين للحيوان.

ثم إذا كانت العناية متعلقة ببقاء ما لا يبقى إلا بالنوع لا بالعدد لما علمت فاحتيج في أن يقوم مقام ما تلف من الأشخاص أشخاص أخرى يدوم بها الواحد النوعي إلى قوة أخرى تخلف مادة منفصلة عن مادة الشخص السابق يحدث فيها صورة غير الصورة السابقة بالعدد لينحفظ بها و بأمثالها النوع يقال لها القوة المولدة و لها أيضا خوادم و معينات ليس هذه مقام تفصيلها و موعدها مباحثها عن ذي قبل إن شاء الله الحكيم

الفن الخامس

في أن نحو وجود الأجسام الطبيعية ليس إلا على سبيل التجدد و الانقضاء و الحدوث الاستمراري من غير دوام و لا بقاء و كنا قد أحكمنا بنیان هذا المطلب و أوضحنا برهانه و سهلنا سبيله لمن وفق له فيما مضى من الكلام حيث تكلمنا في فصول المرحلة الرابعة التي في مباحث القوة و الفعل و أحكامهما و الحركة و السكون و نحو وجود الطبيعة التي هي العلة القريبة للحركة سيما الفصل المعنون بالحكمة المشرقية في فصل كيفية ربط المتغير بالثابت و فصل إثبات الحركة في الجوهر - و الذب عن الاشتداد الجوهر في الجواهر المادية لكننا نريد أن نذكر هاهنا نمطا آخر من الكلام ما فيه زيادة توضيح و تأكيد لهذا المرام إذ فيه غرابة عن ما ارتكز في أذهان الجماهير و حيد عن المشهور عند الناس من أن الفلسفة كأنها توجب القول بقدوم الأجسام سيما الأفلاك و الكواكب و كليات العناصر.

فلاجل ذلك أساءوا الظن بأعظم الحكماء السابقين فنسبوا إليهم القول بتسرمد الأفلاك و نحوها نعم هذا الطعن يتوجه إلى متأخريهم لقصور أنظارهم و عدم صفاء ضمائرهم و خواطرهم كل الصفاء.

فالذي وصل إلينا من مآثورات كلامهم خلاف ما اشتهر عند المتأخرين من أن مذهبهم قدم العالم و تسرمد الأفلاك كما ستطلع عليه من أقوالهم سنذكرها في هذه الفصول

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٩٥

فصل (١) فيه لامعة عرشية

قد لوحنا لك فيما سلف من الكلام أن إدارة الأفلاك و تسيير الكواكب و جريان العالم على ما هو به إنما الغرض به أن يكون العالم كله خيرا و سعادة و أن أصل الإبداع و الإيجاد جود البارئ و رحمته و إيصال كل شيء إلى كماله و منتهاه و تحريكه إلى غايته و مناه و إبلاغ السافل إلى العالي و تصوير كل مادة بصورتها اللائقة بها و تصيرها أفضل ما يتصور في حقها.

فكما أن بلوغ المتحرك الطبيعي إلى حيزه سكونه و كذا بلوغ الطبيعة إلى القوة النفسانية غايتها فكذا بلوغ النفس إلى درجة العقل سكونها و هو نهاية النفس كما أن البارئ نهاية العقل و ما دونه فعند ذلك الراحة الدائمة و الطمأنينة التامة و الخير العظمى.

و هذا هو الغرض الأقصى في بناء العالم و تحريك السماوات و تسيير الكواكب و الأجرام و سائر الاستحالات و الانقلابات و في إنزال الملائكة و الرسل ع - من السماء بالكتب و الوحي و الأنباء أعني أن الغرض كله أن يصير العالم كله خيرا - فيزول منه الشر و النقص و يعود إلى ما بدأ منه فيصير لاحقا آخره بأوله و عاطفا نهاية دوره بمبدئه فيتم الحكمة و تكمل الخلقة و يرتفع عالم الكون و الفساد و يبطل الدنيا و يقوم القيامة الكبرى و ينمحق الشر و أهله و

ينقرض الكفر و حزبه و يبطل الباطل و يحق الحق بكلماته فهذا هو الغرض الأقصى و المعرفة العظمى.
 فظهر من هذا البيان أن الأجسام و طبائعها و قواها كلها عرضة للدثور و الفناء و لا حظ لها من الديمومة و البقاء فاحفظ
 هذا السر المخزون و العلم المكنون الذي لا يمسه إلا المطهرون.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٩٦

سر آخر في تلاشي عالم الطبيعة و دثوره و فناءه.

إن أصل اللذات الحسية و الأنوار و الألوان المبتهجة و الروائح و الطعوم اللذيذة و الأصوات المطربة كلها موجودة في
 الطبيعة من إفاضة النفس عليها بإذن الله سبحانه فإليها مساقها و معادها.
 و لأجل ذلك ترى نفوسنا ينتزع تلك الصور عن موادها إليها بقواها الحسية- و يتصرف فيها كيف يشاء بقوتها المتصرفية
 و المتخيلة فكل ما بقي في الطبيعة فهي في النفس- تنزل إليها غير أن الطبيعة شوشتها و كدرتها لما مازحتها و اختلطت بها إذ كانت دونها في الرتبة.

و قد مر بيان أن الوجود الجسماني ممزوج بالأعدام و مختلط لبه بالقشور و صفاه بالكدور فسميت تلك الشوائب
 المكدره شرا و وبالا لما كانت معوقة للخيرات- و حصلت من ذلك الأشياء المتضادة المخالفة بعضها لبعض من الشرور
 و النقائص و الآفات و المحن و سائر ما يوجد في هذا العالم الطبيعي و هو بجملته عالم الكون و الفساد و عالم التضاد
 سواء كان على نعت الاتصال كعالم الأفلاك أو على نعت الانفصال الانفكاكي كعالم الأسطقسات و المركبات و كل كمال
 و لذة في هذا العالم فأصله في عالم آخر و هو هناك على وجه أتم و أقوى و أشد و أعلى و ألد و أصفى.

و كيف يتوهم متوهم أن اللذات و الخيرات موجودة في المحل الناقص- و معدومة في المحل الفاضل و إذا كان الأمر
 كما وصفناه فكل شيء يعود إلى أصله و كل ناقص يتوجه و يرجع إلى كماله و كل سعيد ينقلب إلى أهله مسرورا و كل
 شقي يتعذب مدة بشقائه و يتبدل عليه جلوده نضجا بعد نضج حتى يصعد إلى دار النعيم أو يهوي إلى مقره في الحميم
فَأَمَّا مَنْ طَغَىٰ وَ آثَرَ الْحَيَاةَ الدُّنْيَا فَإِنَّ الْجَحِيمَ هِيَ الْمَأْوَىٰ - وَ أَمَّا مَنْ خَافَ مَقَامَ رَبِّهِ وَ نَهَىٰ النَّفْسَ عَنِ الْهَوَىٰ
 فَإِنَّ الْجَنَّةَ هِيَ الْمَأْوَىٰ

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٩٧

سر آخر

قد انكشف لك مما شددنا عليك بيانه و أوضحنا برهانه أن الطبيعة الجسمانية فلكية كانت أو عنصرية مما يتلاشى و
 يضمحل شيئا فشيئا و لو نظرت إلى أحوال نفسك و كل ذي نفس ظهر لك أن شأن ما يتصرف فيه النفس من الطبائع و
 القوى و الأجرام أن تذوب و تذبل و يتحلل ذاتها و صفاتها على التدريج في خدمة النفس و طاعة الأمر الأعلى.
 و هكذا شأن كل سافل بالنسبة إلى العالي و دأب كل فرع بالنظر إلى أصله- و كل معلول بالقياس إلى علته.

ثم لو تأملت قليلا لوجدت أن النفس التي وقعت لها أدنى ارتفاع عن مقام الطبيعة و درجة الحس فهي غير راضية في
 الكون مع الطبيعة و لا مشتاقة في الرجوع إليها لأنها مجبولة في محبة البقاء و التفاخر على أتم الحالات و لو لم يكن
 ذلك مقتضى غريزة كل نفس لما كانت كل واحدة من النفوس البشرية بل الحيوانية يشتهي أن يكون أمير نوعه و سلطان

بلده و رئيس أهله.

و هذا شيء مركوز في جبلة كل ذي نفس أعني الارتقاء إلى مرتبة العقل و اشتياقها إليه أكثر من اشتياقها إلى مرتبة الحس و الطبيعة و سائر الأشياء الدنية و الشهوات الحسية إن لم يعقها عائق و لم يخرجها مخرج عن فطرتها الأصلية إلى فطرة الطبيعة و ما دونها.

فإذا كانت النفس سليمة الفطرة غير مريضة كان شوقها إلى ما فوقها إذ كانت معالي الأمور أشبه إليها كما أن سفسافها و نقائصها أشبه بالطبيعة فالنفس إذن مجتهدة دائما في طلب البقاء كارهة من التجدد و الزوال و البقاء كما علمت ليس من صفات الطبيعة و هو من صفات العقل.

فبهذا الاجتهاد الغريزي إذا وصلت إلى مرادها و هو مقام العقل تخلت عن الطبيعة و اتحدت بالعقل.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٩٨

و قد علمت أيضا فيما مضى صحة اتحاد النفس بالعقل و ليس أن النفس إذا انفصلت عن الطبيعة بقيت للطبيعة هوية منفصلة عن هوية النفس لأن هذا من سخيף القول كما مر بيانه غير مرة فإذا ارتحلت النفس عن مقام الطبيعة بطلت الطبيعة و دثرت لأن قيامها بالنفس كما أن قوام النفس بالعقل و قوام الكل بالحي القيوم و لأجل أن قوام الطبيعة بالنفس و كأنها كانت تحس بالفناء و الاضمحلال دون النفس صارت جذابة للنفس إليها و متروكة في عينها حائلة بينها و بين تقدسها و طهارتها و اتصالها بالعقل مخافة أن يبطل و يضمحل.

و هذا أيضا لحكمة و مصلحة من الله في اشتغال النفس برهة من الزمان - لتدبير عالم الطبيعة إلى أن يقضي الله أمرا كان مفعولا فإذا ثبت بالبرهان المأخوذ - من العلة الغائية أن جميع عالم الطبيعة دأثر هالك.

وهم وتعليم.

و لك أن تقول لم وجب الدثور و الفناء للطبيعة و كيف لا يلتحق بمنزلة النفس - كما يلتحق النفس بمنزلة العقل قلت قد علمت ذلك فيما سبق و أما البيان اللامي لذلك فهو أن النفس حيث كانت ذات جهتين لأنها من جهة ذاتها كأنها جوهر عقلي ثابت بالقوة و من جهة تعلقها بالطبيعة و نسبتها إليها جوهر متجدد غير ثابت و هاتان الجهتان مما يشبه أن يكون أحدهما مقومة للنفس داخلية في قوامها لأنها الجنبه العالية - و الأخرى لاحقة لذاتها و هي الجنبه السافلة المضافة إلى أمر متجدد.

فإذا سقطت عنها هذه الإضافات رجعت إلى منبعها الأصلي و حيزها العقلي و أما الطبيعة فهي سارية في أقطار الهاوية نائية عن عالم البقاء و النور متخلصة إلى محل التجدد و الدثور فهي لاهية عن الأمور العقلية غير عارفة بها و لا مشتاقة إليها فلا يمكنها اللحق بعالم البقاء و بما فيها من الجهة العقلية النوعية فحكمها حكم سائر المعاني النوعية.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ١٩٩

و الكليات الطبيعية لا وجود لها استقلالاً إلا بما يقومها وجودا و يحصلها شخصا - فهي أيضا جسمانية الكون و كل جسماني الكون فهو متجدد الوجود لا بقاء له و لا ثبات فيه فالطبيعة لا شعور لها بذاتها و لا غيرها فلا شوق لها إلى عالم العقل فلا يدوم و أيضا لا يمكن بقاؤها إلا بالنفس كما مر.

وقد علمت أن النفس لا تدوم فيها و معها بل يرتقي عنها و تخليها لأنها محنة و عذاب لها و إنما أهبطت النفس إليها و بليت بها لعصيان و نقصان اعتراها في النشأة الأولى و خطيئة صدرت عنها في مبدأ الوجود و أول الولادة فاستوجب الوقوع في موضع البلية و المحنة حتى يزول عنها النقائص و العيوب و درن الذنوب و وسخ الجرائم فتخرج عند ذلك عن السجن الطبيعي.

ثم إن مكان البلية لا يبقى عند خروج المذنب من ذنبه كما أن السجن إذا خرج عنه المسجون لم يبق له بيت مغلق بابه و لا أيضا حاجة إلى السجن بعد خروج المسجون.

و إليه الإشارة بقول الصادق ع

: لا يقوم الساعة و على وجه الأرض من يقول الله الله

فلذلك وجب في الحكمة الإلهية و السنة الواجبية زوال الطبيعة و تلاشيها و دثورها و اضمحلالها. فثبت بالبرهان الصريح أن ذهاب الطبيعة و دثور الأجسام أمر ممكن واجب في الحكمة و أن الطبيعة سواء كانت سماوية أو أرضية إذا استحالت و ذهبت تخلت النفس و لخراب البيت [البدن] ارتحلت كما قال سبحانه إِذَا السَّمَاءُ انشَقَّتْ وَ أَدْنَتْ لِرَبِّهَا وَ حَقَّتْ وَ إِذَا الْأَرْضُ مُدَّتْ وَ أَلْقَتْ مَا فِيهَا وَ تَخَلَّتْ فإن انشقاق السماء إشارة إلى ذهاب طبيعتها عند ما رجعت نفسها إلى بارئها- و أدنت داعيها و هو مفاد قوله تعالى يَا أَيَّتُهَا النَّفْسُ الْمُطْمَئِنَّةُ ارْجِعِي إِلَىٰ رَبِّكِ رَاضِيَةً مَّرْضِيَّةً فَادْخُلِي فِي عِبَادِي وَ ادْخُلِي جَنَّتِي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٠٠

فصل (٢) في إثبات أن كل متحرك جسما كان أو طبيعة أو نفسا سيؤول إلى فناء بل كل شيء هالك إلا وجهه كما نطق به القرآن و وافقه البرهان

و اعلم أن البارئ جل ذكره فاعل كل شيء و قد مر في مباحث العلل و المعلولات و أحكامها أن الغاية الذاتية لكل شيء يرجع إلى فاعله بوجوه صحيحة قوية لا حاجة إلى إعادتها ها هنا لحصول الغناء عنها بالرجوع إلى ما هناك لمن كان له قلب متوقد.

و بالجملة إنه جل مجده خير محض لا شرف فيه أصلا و وجود صرف لا يشوبه عدم و كل ما يكون خيرا محضا و وجودا بحثا يطلبه و يتقرب إليه كل شيء طبعاً و إرادة أو يطلب ما يطلبه و يتقرب إلى ما يتقرب إليه طبعاً و إرادة. و هذا أمر مركوز في جملة العالم و جزئياته و كلياته و محسوساته و معقولاته و أرضياته و سماوياته و مركباته و مبسوطاته كما قال سبحانه و لِلَّهِ يَسْجُدُ مَنْ فِي السَّمَاوَاتِ وَ الْأَرْضِ طَوْعاً وَ كَرْهاً وَ ظِلَالُهُمْ و قوله وَ إِنْ مِنْ شَيْءٍ إِلَّا يَسْبُحُ بِحَمْدِهِ و من تصفح أجزاء العالم لم يجد موجوداً إلا و له توجه غريزي أو حركة جبلية إلى ما هو أعلى منه طلباً للبقاء الأبد و الشرف الأقوم و تخلصاً عن الوجود الأنقص المشوب بالعدم و الفساد و هكذا.

فما من موجود إلا و له عشق و شوق غريزي إلى ما وراءه و هذا المعنى في بعض الأشياء معلوم بالضرورة و في بعضها مشهود بالحس و في بعضها مكشوف بالبرهان و في الكل متيقن بالاستقراء و التتبع مع الحدس الصحيح فضلاً عن البرهان المشار إليه من أن الوجود خير محض مؤثر لذاته و ما ذكر أيضاً فيما سلف من أن العالي لا يفعل شيئاً لأجل السافل بل لأجل ذاته كالبارئ أو لأجل ما هو أشرف من ذاته كما سواه.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٠١

حتى أن النار لا يحرق شيئا كالحطب مثلاً لأجل أن يحترق المادة و كذا الماء لا يرطب شيئا كالشوب لأجل أن يبطل بل لأجل أن يكمل كل منهما ذاته و يحافظ على جوهره و طبعه.

و كذا النفس لا يدبر البدن لأن ينصلح حال البدن و يعتدل مزاجه و يستقيم نظام أجزائه بل لأن يبلغ إلى كماله أو يصل إلى غايتها و ينال بغيتها و شهوتها فكل موجود سافل له طريق إلى كماله العالي يسلكه طبعاً أو إرادة و كل من تصور في حقه نوع من الكمال فلا محالة يتوجه إليه و يطلبه أو يشاق إلى طلبه طبعياً أو شوقاً نفسانياً.

و هذا الطلب و الشوق المركوزان في جبلة الأشياء لو لم يكن لهما غاية ذاتية - و نهاية ضرورية لازمة لكان ارتكازه في الجبلة و الغريزة عبثاً و باطلاً و هباءً و معطلاً و لا باطل في الوجود و لا تعطيل في الطبيعة.

فقد علم أن لكل سافل قوة إمكان الوصول إلى ما هو أعلى منه.

و هذا الإمكان إما ذاتي فقط كما في المبدعات و إما استعدادي كما في المكونات - ففي الإبداعات إذ قد ثبت الإمكان و وجد المقتضي و رفع المانع و القاصر حصل المقصود و الغاية و المانع و القاصر لا يوجدان في المفارقات لعدم التضاد و التزاحم كما في عالم الحركات فالوصول متحقق أبداً.

و أما في هذا العالم فالقواصر و الشرور و إن كانت موجودة إلا أنها ليست دائمية و لا أكثرية لأنها من الأسباب الاتفاقية لا من الأسباب الذاتية للأشياء و قد برهن في مباحث العلة و المعلول أن العلل الاتفاقية أقلية الوجود لا تدوم و مع قلتها و انقطاعها لا يوجد إلا في غير الفلكيات.

و أما فيها فالطبائع الأثرية على مقتضى حالها من الفوز بمقاماتها اللائقة فلها الوصول الدائم إلى معاشيقها العقلية من جهة نفوسها الكلية و لها أيضاً في كل آن وصول تدريجي إلى مقصودها من جهة نفوسها الجزئية.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٠٢

و اعلم أن الغاية للطبيعة الجزئية أولاً و بالذات طبيعة جزئية أخرى و هكذا إلى ما شاء الله و الغاية في الطبيعة الكلية طبيعة عقلية أخرى فوقها بالعلية و الشرف.

فإذا تقرر هذا فنقول إن لكل طبيعة حسية فلكية أو عنصرية طبيعة أخرى في العالم الإلهي و هي المثل الإلهية و الصور المفارقة و هي صور ما في علم الله و كأنها هي التي سماها أفلاطن و شيعته بالمثل النورية و هي حقائق متأصلة نسبتها إلى هذه الصور الحسية الدائرة نسبة الأصل إلى المثل و الشبح و إنما هي تكون أصول هذه الأشباح الكائنة المتجددة لأنها فاعلها و غايتها و صورتها أيضاً بوجه لأن تلك الأصول الأعْلون هي عقليات بالفعل و هذه لا يخلو عن القوة و الإمكان.

و هذه بحسب وجودها الكوني سالكة نحوها مشتاقة إليها فهي من حيث جزئيتها و تشخصها الزماني الاتصالي تنال منها شيئاً فشيئاً على التوالي حسب توارد الاستعدادات الزمانية فيحصل صورها على موادها حصولاً بعد حصول على التدريج و ذلك لأن لكل صورة مفارقة شئونا و جهات و وجوها و حيثيات لا يحيط بها إلا الله.

و أما بحسب وجودها العقلي فهي واصلية إليها متحدة بها اتحاد ذي الغاية بغايتها - عند بلوغ النهاية و تمام الحركة و أما

تلك العقلیات و المثل النوریات و العلوم الإلهیات فهي أبدا متصلة بفاعلها و غایتها ملاحظة لجمال بارئها مستغرقة في بحر اللاهوتية - مطموسة في نور الأحدية القيومية بحيث لم يرجع إلى ذاتها طرفة عين لأن الإمكان هناك لا يفارق الوجوب و القوة لا یباین الفعلية و النقص لا یخلو عن التمام.

فهي أبدا مستهلكة الذوات في ذات الحبيب الأول لا فرق بينهم و بین حبیبهم كما ورد في الحديث القدسي و لا مجال لهم في الأنانية و الغيرية.

و أما إبليس و جنوده و هم أصحاب الأوهام و الاحتجابات فليسوا منهم و لا من طبقتهم و إلا لما وقع منهم الافتخار و الأنانية و الإباء عن السجود لأن لكل من العالین سجود و ركوع و خضوع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٠٣

وهم وإزالة -

و ليس لأحد أن ينكر وجود العشق الرباني و المحبة الإلهية في هذه الصور المفارقة لما بینا أن محبة العالی مركوزة في جبلة السافل و لا له أن يقول المحبة لا توجب الوصول و إلا لما وجد في العالم محب مهجور و لو سلم الوصول فربما كان المطلوب نيل التشبه بالمعشوق أو القرب منه لا الوصلة و الاتحاد.

لأننا نقول إن كل ميل أو شوق جبلي مركوز في قوة ذات الشيء فمعنى ارتكازه فيها هو أن يمكن لها بحسبه حصول ما يميل و يشاق إلى إذا خلى و طبعه إلا لمانع خارج عن هوية ذات الشيء.

ثم إن التخلف عن مقتضى ذات الشيء لمانع و الحرمان عنه لا يكون إلا في عالم الاتفاقات و الأضداد و ذلك أيضا يوجد في بعض أشخاص النوع المعوقة عما يقصده بحسب فطرتها الأولى من جهة خصوص هوياتها الجزئية على سبيل الشذوذ لا من جهة طبائعها النوعية فإنها أيضا منتهية إلى غاياتها و أما ما ارتفع عن الكون فكل منه على مقتضى ما فطر عليه من غير تخلف عما يهيمه و يطلبه.

و إذا ثبت هذا فقول القائل يجوز أن يكون المطلوب أمرا نسبيا كالتشبه أو القرب من المطلوب مدفوع بأن هذه الأمور إن أريد بها نفس المعاني الإضافية فليس من المطالب الصحيحة إذ لا وجود لها استقلالاً سيما في الذوات العالية و كذا إن أريد بها أمر عرضي لأن العرض أخس رتبة من أن يكون غاية ذاتية لأمر جوهری فإن غاية الشيء و مطلوبه يجب أن يكون أعلى و أشرف منه.

و الجوهر أي جوهر كان أشرف من العرض فلو كان كذلك لزم كون شيء واحد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٠٤

شريفا و خسيسا معا من جهة واحدة كما لا يخفى.

ثم لو تكلف متكلف يجوز أن يكون الغاية المطلوبة كون ذلك الجوهر مجامعا لتلك الصفة العرضية الكمالية.

قلنا ذلك على تقدير صحته لا يضرنا لأن الكلام عائد إليه في أنه مع كونه على تلك الصفة فهو إما على غاية الخير و التمام التي لا أتم و لا أشرف منه أو يكون فوقه كمال أتم خيرية و أشرف وجودا و أعلى رتبة.

فعلى الأول يلزم المطلوب و على الثاني يتحقق له غاية أخرى تقتضي ذلك الشيء بحسب جبلته طلبه و الالتجاء إليه لما

مر من أنه ما من موجود سوى الواجب القيوم جل ذكره إلا وله غاية مطلوبة فوقه والكلام جار أيضا في غاية غايته و هكذا إلى أن يدور أو يتسلسل أو ينتهي إلى غاية قصوى لا غاية فوقها وهو الباري غاية الكل و فاعل الكل جل سبحانه فهو الواحد القهار.

فثبت و تحقق أنه لا قديم سواه وإليه يرجع الأمر كله فسبحان الذي بيده ملكوت كل شيء وإليه ترجعون.

حكمة مشرقية.

كل هوية سواء كانت واجبة أو ممكنة فلا بد لها من لوازم عقلية وفروع - هي معاليه كالشيئية والمعلولية و الموجودة و خصوصا الهوية التي أصل الهويات و منبع كل إنية و وجود و منشأ كل مفهوم و ماهية فإذا الذات الإلهية لها أشعة و أنوار و أضواء و آثار كيف و الوجود كله من شروق نوره و لمعان ظهوره. و تلك الأضواء و الأنوار سماها جمهور الفلاسفة بالعقول الفعالة و المشاءون و هم أصحاب المعلم الأول سموها بالصور العلمية القائمة بذاته تعالى و الأفلاطونيون و شيعتهم بالمثل النورية و الصور الإلهية و جمهور المتكلمين بالصفات القديمة و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٠٥

المعتزلة بالأحوال و الصوفية بالأسماء أو بالأعيان الثابتة و لكل وجهة هو مولياها. و تلك الأشعة كيف تفارق أصلها و منبعها و لو فارقت وجودا لم يكن أشعة و مثال هذا في الشاهد أشعة شمس عالم المحسوس و لله المثل الأعلى في السماوات إلا أن بين الأشعتين فرقا و هو أن أشعة شمس العقل أحياء ناطقة فعالة و أشعة شمس الحس أنوار لغيرها لا لذاتها و لهذا إنها غير أحياء و لا فاعلة. و أيضا تلك الصور الإلهية لها اتصال عقلي لمبدئها و غايتها بخلاف هذه الأشعة - فإن لها نسبة وضعية بالشمس فإين هذا من تلك

فصل (٣) في أن القول بحدوث العالم مجمع عليه بين الأنبياء ع و الحكماء

[لا خلاف بين الأمم في حدوث العالم]

اعلم أن ما ذكرناه و أوضحناه سابقا و لاحقا من حدوث العالم بجميعة من السماوات و ما فيها و الأرضيات و ما معها هو بعينه مذهب أهل الحق من كل قوم من أهل الملل و الشرائع الحققة و جميع السلاك الإلهية الماضية و اللاحقة لأن قاطبة أهل الحق و الموحدين في كل دهر و زمان لهم دين واحد و مسلك واحد في أركان العقيدة و أصول الدين و أحوال المبدأ و المعاد و رجوع الكل إليه سبحانه.

أولا ترى أن أديان الأنبياء كلهم و الأولياء صلوات الله عليهم و رحمته و أتباعه واحد لا خلاف ينقل منهم بينهم في شيء من أصول المعارف و أحوال المبدأ و المعاد. و من لم يكن دينه دين الأنبياء ع فليس من الحكمة في شيء و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٠٦

لا يعد من الحكماء من ليس له قدم راسخ في معرفة الحقائق و الحكمة من أعظم المواهب و المنح الإلهية و أشرف

الذخائر و السعادات للنفس الإنسانية و بها قيام العالم العلوى و ابتهاجات جميع الموجودات.

و من أعظم البلايا و الرزية

الإعراض عنها و الجحود لها كما قال تعالى وَمَنْ أَعْرَضَ عَنْ ذِكْرِي فَإِنَّ لَهُ مَعِيشَةً ضَنْكًا وَ نَحْشُرُهُ يَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ أَعْمَى الآية و قوله كَلَّا إِنَّهُمْ عَنْ رَبِّهِمْ يَوْمَئِذٍ لَمَحْجُوبُونَ و قد ران على قلوبهم ما كانوا يكسبون.

و اعلم أن الظن بأعظم الحكماء و أساطينهم حسب ما وجدنا من كلماتهم و آثارهم و قد اتفقت أفاضل كل عصر و زمان على فضلهم و تقدمهم و شهدت أمثال كل طائفة بزهدهم و صفاء ضمائرهم و انخلاصهم عن الحس و تجردهم عن الدنيا و رجوعهم إلى المأوى و تشبههم بالمبادي و تخلقهم بأخلاق الباري إنهم متفقون على اعتقاد حدوث العالم بجميع جواهره و أعراضه و أفلاكه و أملاكه و بسائطه و مركباته إلا أن هذه المسألة لغاية غموضها لم يكن لغيرهم من الباحثين و الناظرين في كتبهم - تحقيقها و فهمها على وجه يسلم عن التناقض و الانحراف عن القواعد العقلية.

و لعمرى إن إصابة الحق في هذه المسألة و أمثالها مع التزام القواعد الحكيمة و المحافظة على توحيد الباري و تقدسه عن وصمة التغير و التكثر من قصوى مراتب القوة النظرية المجاورة للقوة القدسية.

و نحن نريد أن نذكر في هذا الموضوع جملة من أقوال جماعة من الحكماء الأولين دالة على أنهم قد أصابوا الحق في هذه المسألة شاهدة بأنهم وافقوا أهل السفارة الإلهية في حدوث العالم و دثوره.

و اعلم أن أساطين الحكمة المعتبرة عند طائفة ثمانية

ثلاثة من الملطيين ثالس و انكسيمانس و اغاثاذايمون و من اليونانيين خمسة انباذقلس و فيثاغورث و سقراط - و أفلاطن و أرسطاطاليس قدس الله نفوسهم و أشركنا الله في صالح دعائهم و بركتهم

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٠٧

فلقد أشرقت أنوار الحكمة في العالم بسببهم و انتشرت علوم الربوبية في القلوب لسعيهم.

و كل هؤلاء كانوا حكماء زهادا عبادا متألّهي معرضين عن الدنيا مقبلين إلى الآخرة هؤلاء يسمون بالحكمة المطلقة ثم لم يسم أحد بعد هؤلاء حكيما بل كل واحد منهم ينسب إلى صناعة من الصناعات أو سيرة من السير مثل بقراط الطبيب - و اوميرس الشاعر و أرشميدس المهندس و ذييمقراطيس الطبيعي و يوداسف المنجم.

و لكل من هؤلاء الخمسة كلام كثير من أنواع العلوم.

فنحن نذكر ما وصل إلينا في حدوث العالم الجسماني من كلمات هذه الأساطين

الخمسة اليونانيين و الثلاثة من الملطيين مع ما وجدنا من كلمات غيرهم الذين كانوا بعدهم في الرتبة و ذلك لأن هؤلاء الثمانية أعلنوا بمنزلة الأصول و المبادي و الآباء - و غيرهم كالعيال لهم و ذلك لأنهم كانوا مقتبسين نور الحكمة من مشكاة النبوة و لا خلاف لأحد منهم في أصول المعارف و كلام هؤلاء في الفلسفة يدور على وحدانية الباري و إحاطة علمه بالأشياء كيف هو و كيفية صدور الموجودات و تكوين العالم عنه و أن المبادي الأول ما هي و كم هي و أن المعاد ما هو و كيف هو و بقاء النفس يوم القيمة و إنما نشأ القول بقدوم العالم بعدهم لأجل تحريف الحكمة و العدول عن سيرتهم و قلة التدبر في كلامهم و قصور الفهم عن نبيل مرادهم

فمنهم ثالس الملطي

و هو أول من تفلسف بملطية بعد ما قدم إليها من مصر و هو شيخ كبير نشر حكمته.
قال إن للعالم مبدعا لا يدرك صفته العقول من جهة هويته وإنما يدرك من جهة آثاره و إبداعه و تكوينه الأشياء.
ثم قال إن القول الذي لا مرد له هو أن المبدع كان و لا شيء مبدع فأبدع الذي أبدع و لا صورة له عنده في الذات لأن
قبل الإبداع إنما هو فقط و إذا كان هو فقط فليس يقال حينئذ جهة و جهة حتى يكون هو و الصورة أو حيث و حيث
حتى يكون هو ذو صورة و الوحدة الخالصة ينافي هذين الوجهين و الإبداع تأييس ما ليس بشيء

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٠٨

و إذا كان هو مؤيس الآيسات فالتأيس لا من شيء متقدم فمؤيس الأشياء لا يحتاج أن يكون عنده صورة الآيس بالآيسية.

قال لكنه عنده العنصر الذي فيه صور الموجودات و المعلومات كلها فانبعثت منه كل صورة موجودة في العالم على
المثال في العنصر الأول و هو محصل الصور و منبع الموجودات و ما من موجود في العالم العقلي و العالم الحسي إلا و
في ذات العنصر صورة و مثال عنه انتهى.
أقول كلام هذا الفيلسوف مما يستفاد منه أشياء شريفة.

منها أنه تعالى كان و لا شيء معه و سيكون و لا شيء معه و لا يبقى معه كما في قوله تعالى لِمَنْ الْمُلْكُ الْيَوْمَ لِلَّهِ الْوَاحِدِ الْقَهَّارِ.

و منها أن الأثر الصادر عنه تعالى وجود الأشياء و آيسيتها لا ماهيتها و علم من قوله هو مؤيس الآيسات أن الوجود الممكني مجعول منه جعلاً بسيطاً و قد علمت ابتناء كثير من المقاصد التي منها حدوث الطبائع عليه.
و منها أن العالم العقلي ب كله جوهر واحد نشأ من الواجب بجهة واحدة و مع وحدته فيه صور جميع الأشياء و هو المعبر
عنه في لسان الفلسفة بالعنصر الأول و في لسان الشريعة بالعلم الأعلى إلى غير ذلك من الفوائد التي لو ذكرناها ل طال الكلام.

و من العجب أنه نقل عنه أن أصل الموجودات الماء قال الماء قابل كل صورة- و منه أبدعت الجواهر كلها من السماء و
الأرض و لا يبعد أن يكون المراد به الوجود الانبساطي المعبر عنه في اصطلاحات الصوفية بالنفس الرحماني المناسب
لقوله تعالى وَكَانَ عَرْشُهُ عَلَى الْمَاءِ.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٠٩

و من هؤلاء الأعظم انكساغورس الملطي

رأيه في الوجدانية مثل رأي ثاليس - إلا أن في كلامه رموزاً و تجوزات يتوهم أن فيه تجسيم الإله تعالى الحق عن ذلك
علوا كبيرا مثل ما حكى أنه قال إن الحق الأول ساكن غير متحرك و الساكن في عرفهم عبارة عن الوجوب الذاتي و ربما
يطلق عندهم بمعنى عدم التفات العالي إلى السافل إذا كان مفارقاً محضاً و الحركة عبارة عن الفاعلية أي الإيجاد
التدريجي أو عن الوجود بعد العدم.

و حكى عنه فرفوروس أنه قال أصل الأشياء جسم واحد موضوع للكل لا نهاية له و منه يخرج جميع الأجسام و القوى

الجسمانية.

أقول لعله أراد بالجسم الأول الموجود الأول و عبر عنه بالجسم لأنه فاعله و مقومه و مصوره و لا يبعد أن يكون عنى به الهيولى الأولى المتقومة ذاتها من الجوهر الامتدادي مطلقا و هي المبدأ القابلي للكائنات و فيها القوة الغير المتناهية للانفعال - حسب ما يكتسبها من الفاعل الأول الغير المتناهي في الفعل.

و حكي عنه أن الأشياء كانت ساكنة ثم إن العقل رتبها ترتيبا على أحسن نظام - فوضعها مواضعها من عال و من سافل و من متوسط ثم من متحرك و من ساكن و من مستقيم الحركة و من دائرة و من أفلاك متحركة على الدوران و من عناصر متحركة على الاستقامة و هي كلها بهذا الترتيب مظهرات لما في الجسم الأول من الموجودات و يحكى عنه أن المرتب هو الطبيعة و ربما يقول المرتب هو الباري.

أقول قد علم من الأصول التي أسلفنا ذكرها وجه صحة ما ذكره فتدبر كي تدرك غوره و معنى قوله أن الأشياء كانت ساكنة أنها كانت لها كينونة عقلية قبل هذه الأكوان الطبيعية.

و من هؤلاء انكسيمانس الملطي

المعروف بالحكمة المذكور بالخبر كان يقول إن هذا العالم يدثر و يدخله الفساد و من أجل أنه سفلى تلك العوالم و ثفلها نسبته إليها نسبة القشر إلى اللب و القشر يرمى.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢١٠

قال و إنما ثبات هذا العالم بقدر ما فيه من قليل نور ذلك العالم و إلا لما ثبت طرفه عين و يبقى ثباته إلى أن يصفي جزؤه الممتزج جزؤها المختلط فإذا صفا الجزءان عند ذلك دثرت أجزاء هذا العالم و فسدت و بقيت مظلمة و بقيت الأنفس الدنسة في هذه الظلمة لا نور لها و لا سرور و لا راحة و لا سكون و لا سلوة.

و قال كل مبدع ظهرت صورته في حد الإبداع فقد كانت صورته في علم الأول - فالصور عنده بلا نهاية قال أبداع الواحد بوحدانيته صورة العنصر ثم العقل انبعث عنها ببدعة الباري فرتب العنصر في العقل ألوان الصور على قدر ما فيها من طبقات الأنوار و أصناف الآثار و صارت تلك الطبقات صوراً كثيرة دفعة واحدة كما يحدث الصور في المرآة الصقيلة بلا زمان و لا ترتيب بعض على بعض غير أن الهيولى لا يحتمل القبول دفعة واحدة إلا بترتيب و زمان فحدثت تلك الصور فيها على الترتيب انتهى.

أقول قد علم من كلامه أن مذهبه دثور هذا العالم و فساده و نفاذه و اضمحلاله و زواله و ظهر من كلامه أيضاً أن علومه تعالى قديمة قائمة بذاته من غير لزوم تكثر في صفاته و أن معلوماته حادثة لقيامها بالهيولى التي شأنها القوة و الاستعداد و قبول التغير و التجدد لصور الأجساد صورة بعد صورة.

و من عظماء الحكمة و كبرائها أنباذقلس

و هو من الخمسة المشهورة من رؤساء يونان كان في زمان داود النبي ع و تلقى العلم منه و اختلف إلى لقمان الحكيم - و اقتبس منه الحكمة ثم عاد إلى يونان.

نقل عنه أنه قال إن العالم مركب من الأسطقسات الأربع و إنه ليس وراءها شيء أبسط منها و إن الأشياء كامنة بعضها في بعض و أبطل الكون و الفساد و الاستحالة و النمو.

أقول و لكلا قوليه وجه صحة أشرنا إليه في رسالة إثبات الحدوث و كون الأفلاك عنصرية مما يمكن تصحيحه و لكن العناصر فيها على وجه أعلى و أشرف مما يوجد في السفليات و إلى هذا المذهب مال بعض العرفاء الكاملين. و أما مذهب الكمون فليس معناه ما فهمه الجمهور من أهل النظر أن في النار

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢١١

مثلا صورة مائية بالفعل إلا أنها أخفيت عن الأبصار و استبطنت و تعطلت عن فعلها من التبريد و الترطيب و غيرهما و كذا في الأجسام الأخرى فإن هذا الرجل أجل قدرا و أعظم علما من أن يذهب إليه مثل هذا الرأي بل المراد شيء آخر مرموز يدق إدراكه عن فهم الجماهير من الناس.

و مما قال أنبأذقلس في أمر المعاد أنه يبقى هذا العالم على الوجه الذي عهدناه من النفوس التي تشبثت بالطبائع و الأرواح التي تعلق بالشبابك حتى تستغيث في آخر الأمر إلى النفس الكلية فيتضرع هي إلى العقل و يتضرع العقل إلى الباري - فيسمح الباري على العقل و يسمح العقل على النفس و تسمح النفس على هذا العالم بكل نورها فيستضيء الأنفس الجزئية و تشرق الأرض و العالم بنور ربها حتى تعاین الجزئيات الكليات فتخلص من الشبكة فتتصل بكلياتها و تستقر في عالمها مسرورة مجبورة وَمَنْ لَمْ يَجْعَلِ اللَّهُ لَهُ نُورًا فَمَا لَهُ مِنْ نُّورٍ انتهى ما نقل عنه.

أقول هذا الكلام دال على بطلان هذا العالم و دثوره ب كله إذ قد بين البرهان أن وجود الأجرام لا يمكن بدون النفوس و الأرواح و أن الطبيعة الجرمية متقومة بالنفس كما نص عليه المعلم الأول في مواضع من كتابه المعروف بأثولوجيا حيث يشير إلى أن الأرض ذات حياة و نفس.

فيستفاد من كلامه أن كيفية رجوع الأشياء الكونية إلى بارئها حسب ما ورد في الشرائع الإلهية و حقه العرفاء المليون و الفضلاء المكاشفون و العلماء الراسخون من هذه الحركة الرجوعية التي للمكونات إلى الله تعالى بسبب ما ارتكز في جبلتها من التشوق إلى الخير و التوجه إلى الغاية و ثبوت معاد الخلائق إلى المبدئ الخالق بالقيامة الكبرى الموجبة لفناء الكل حتى الأفلاك و الأملاك و بقاء الواحد القهار.

و من هؤلاء فيثاغورس

و كان في زمان سليمان ع قد أخذ الحكمة من معدن النبوة و هو الحكيم الفاضل ذو الرأي المتين و العقل المنير و الفهم الثاقب كان يدعي أنه شاهد العوالم بحسه و حدسه و بلغ في الرياضة و التصفية إلى أن سمع صفيق الفلك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢١٢

و وصل مقام الملك و قال ما سمعت شيئا قط الذ من حركاتها و لا رأيت شيئا أبهى من صورها و هيئاتها و قوله في الإلهيات و مبادي الموجودات و أنها هي العدد معروف عند القوم.

و نحن قد وجهنا قوله إن المبادي هي العدد على معنى صحيح و قال إن شرف كل موجود بغلبة الوحدة و كل ما هو أبعد عن الوحدة فهو أنقص و أخس و كل ما هو أقرب منه فهو أشرف و أكمل.

و نقل عنه أنه قيل لم قلت بإبطال العالم قال لأنه يبلغ العلة التي من أجلها كان فإذا بلغها سكنت حركته.

أقول هذا كلام وجيز في غاية البلوغ و الإفادة و كأنه مستفاد من معدن الوحي و النبوة فقد دل على منشا حدوث العالم و

علة زواله و دثوره و كذا دل بوجازته على وقوع القيامة الكبرى كما ظهر من كلام أنبا ذقلس و كان فيثاغورس يقول إن ما في هذا العالم يشتمل على مقدار يسير من الحس لكونه معلول الطبيعة و ما فوقه من العوالم أبهى و أشرف و أحسن من أن يصل الوصف إلى عالم النفس و العقل فيقف فلا يمكن للنطق وصف ما فيها من الشرف و البهاء فليكن حرصكم و اجتهدكم بذلك العالم حتى يكون بقاءكم بعيدا عن الفساد و الدثور و تصيرون إلى عالم هو حسن كله و بهاء كله و سرور كله و عز كله و حق كله و يكون سروركم و لذتكم دائمة غير منقطعة.

أقول كلامه صريح في أن هذا العالم قابل للفساد و الزوال غير محتمل للبقاء و الدوام و كل ما هو كذلك فابتدأه من عدم و انتهاؤه إلى عدم.

ثم مما يدل أن فيثاغورس ذهب إلى حدوث العالم أنه كان حرينوس و زينون الشاعر متابعين له على رأيه في المبدع و المبدع و أنهما قالا الباري تعالى أبدع العقل - و النفس دفعة واحدة ثم ابتدع جميع ما تحتها بتوسطهما تدريجا و في بدو ما أبدعهما لا يموتان و لا يجوز عليهما الفناء و الدثور.

أقول معنى كلامهما أن هذا العالم قابل للدثور و الفناء لأنه تدريجي الحصول

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢١٣

متجدد الكون و الحدوث شيئا فشيئا فلا يوجد منه شيء إلا و ينعدم كالحركة حيث لا بقاء لها أصلا و أما العقل و كذا النفس بوجهها المرسل الذي يلي العقل فهما باقيان ببقاء الله لأنهما مطموسان تحت طوارق الجبروت و أما جهة النفس المقيدة التي تلي الطبع فهي أيضا دائرة فانية و من هؤلاء السادات العظام و الآباء الكرام سقراط الحكيم العارف الزاهد من أهل اثنية - كان قد اقتبس الحكمة من فيثاغورس و ارسلاوس و اقتصر من أصنافها على الإلهيات و الخلقيات - و اشتغل بالزهد و رثاظة النفس و تهذيب الأخلاق و أعرض عن ملاذ الدنيا و اعتزل إلى الجبل و أقام في غار به و نهى الرؤساء الذين كانوا في زمانه عن الشرك و عبادة الأوثان فثوروا عليه الغاغة و الجنوا ملكهم إلى قتله فحبسه الملك و سقاه السم و قصته معروفة.

و من جملة اعتقاداته أن علمه تعالى و حكمته و جوده و قدرته بلا نهاية و لا يبلغ العقل أن يصفها و لو وصفها لكانت متناهية فالزم عليك أن يقول إنها بلا نهاية و لا غاية - و قد ترى الموجودات متناهية.

فيقال إنما تناهيها بحسب احتمال القوابل لا بحسب القدرة و الحكمة و الجود - و لما كانت المادة لا تحتل صورا بلا نهاية فتناهد الصور لا من جهة بخل في الواهب - بل لقصور في المادة و عن هذا اقتضت الحكمة الإلهية أنها و إن تناهت ذاتا و صورة و حيزا و مكانا إلا أنها لا تنهاى زمانا في آخره إلا من نحو أولها و إن لم يتصور بقاء الشخص فاقتضت الحكمة بقاء النوع باستبقاء الشخص و ذلك بتجدد أمثاله استحضت الشخص بقاء النوع و يستبقي النوع ببقاء الأشخاص و لا يبلغ القدرة إلى حد النهاية - و لا الحكمة و قفت إلى غاية انتهى كلامه.

أقول إن كلامه دال على حدوث كل شخص جسماني من أشخاص هذا العالم - لأن جميعها مادية متناهية القوة و العلة و هي عدم احتمال المادة الديمومة الشخصية - مشتركة في الفلكيات و العنصريات فجميعها قابل للزوال و الدثور من حيث

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢١٤

هوياتها الشخصية.

و أما بقاؤها بحسب الماهية و النوع فليس ذلك بقاء بالعدد بل بالمعنى و الحد و بالعلم و العقل على أن الماهية غير موجودة عندنا و لا مجعولة بالذات بل هي حكاية تابعة للوجود و ظل له كما مر.

و قد مر أيضا أن القدم و الحدوث إنما يراد بهما صفتان للوجود لأنهما متقابلان لا يجتمعان في شيء واحد و لا تقابل بين كون ماهية واحدة قديمة و حادثة حدا و عددا.

و من هؤلاء الكبراء الخمسة اليونانية أفلاطن الإلهي

المعروف بالتوحيد و الحكمة حكى عنه قوم ممن شاهدوه و تلمذوا له مثل أرسطاطاليس و ثافرطيس و طيماوس أنه قال إن للعالم صناعا مبدعا محدثا أزليا واجبا بذاته عالما بجميع معلوماته على نعت الأسباب الكلية كان في الأزل و لم يكن في الوجود رسم و لا طلل الأمثال عند الباري كما نقلناه.

و يحكى عنه أيضا أنه أدرج الزمان في المبادي و هو الدهر و أثبت لكل موجود شخصا في عالم الإله فسميت تلك الأشخاص بالمثل الإلهية و المبادي الأول و المثل عنده بسائط مبسوطات و الأشخاص مركبات و الإنسان المركب المحسوس جزئي ذلك الإنسان المبسوط المعقول و كذلك جميع الصور المحسوسة المادية و لهذا قال الموجودات في هذا العالم آثار الموجودات في ذلك العالم و لا بد لكل أثر من مؤثر يشابهه نوعا من المشابهة.

أقول و نحن قد أحيينا بعون الله تعالى رسمه في القول بهذه المثل و أحكمنا برهانه و قومنا بنيانه و شيدنا أركانه و سهلنا سبيله و أبطلنا النقوض عليه و التشنيعات التي ذكرها على مذهبه كل من أتى بعده إلى وقتنا هذا تقربا إلى الله و تشوقا إلى دار كرامته و محل أنواره.

قال و إنما كانت هذه الصور موجودة كلية دائمة باقية لأن كل مبدع ظهرت

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢١٥

صورته في حد الإبداع فكانت صورته في علم الأول و الصور عنده بلا نهاية و لو لم يكن الصور عنده أزلية في علمه لم يكن ليبقى و لو لم تكن دائمة بدوامه لكانت تدثر بدثور الهيولى و لو كانت تدثر مع دثور الهيولى لما كانت رجاء و لا خوف و لكن لما صارت [كانت] الصور الحسية على رجاء و خوف استدلل به على بقائها و إنما يبقى إذا كانت صورة عقلية في ذلك العالم ترجو الحقوق بها و تخاف التخلف عنها.

قال و إذا اتفقت العقلاء على أن هاهنا في الوجود حسا و محسوسا و عقلا و معقولا و شاهدنا بالحس جميع المحسوسات و هي محدودة محصورة بالزمان و المكان - فيكون مثل عقلية انتهى.

أقول قد أفادت كلماته الشريفة النورية أصولا حكمية حقة لطيفة.

منها حدوث العالم الحسي بجميع صورته و أعراضه على وجه البرهان إذ قد صرح بأن كل صورة متعلقة بالهيولى فإنها تدثر بدثور الهيولى و ذلك لأن الهيولى شأنها الدثور و العدم و أن الصور شأنها التجدد و الحدوث شيئا بعد شيء و لهذا أدرج الزمان في المبادي كما حكى عنه.

و هذا كما أدرج بعضهم العدم في المبادي بمعنى أن كل ما هو زمني الوجود كالصور الطبيعية فلا بد و أن يكون عدمه

السابق مقوماً له مقتضياً لوجوده اللاحق - فزوال وجود الصور السابقة مبدأً بالذات لوجود الصور اللاحقة و من جعل من القدماء العدم من المبادي بالذات كان مراده ما ذكرنا لأن كل أمر تدريجي الوجود - يكون لنقص وجوده يتقوم وجوده بالعدم و يشوب كونه بالفساد و بقاءه بالزوال.

ولهذا يتصف وجود كل فرد منه أو جزء بعدم سائر الأفراد و الأجزاء يستلزم حدوث كل حد فساد سائر الحدود و الكل منه يغيب عن الكل و يغيب عنه الكل - فالكل عادم لنفسه مسلوب عن نفسه و كذا كل جزء عادم لنفسه مسلوب عنها. و منها أن لكل صورة محسوسة صورة معقولة من نوعها و هي صورة ذاتها و ماهيتها عند الله و هي المسمومة بالمثل الأفلاطونية أعني صور علمه تعالى بالأشياء التي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢١٦

عجزت العقلاء الذين جاءوا من بعده عن إدراك هذه المثل النورية على وجهها و التصديق بوجودها ما خلا المعلم الأول ربما مال إلى صحة القول بها في بعض كتبه - و أنكرها في الأكثر و كأنها يرى في الإنكار مصلحة و قد مر في هذا الكتاب ما فيه غنية للمستبصرين.

و منها الإشارة منه إلى أن هذه الصور الحسيات و الأكوان الدائرات راجعة إلى تلك العقليات صائرة إليها متحدة بها كاتصال الأشعة الشمسية بالشمس و كاتصال حواسنا بعقولنا مع أن إحداها دائرة و الأخرى باقية و كاتصال البدن بالنفس حتى صار وجوده وجودها و فعله فعلها مع أن البدن متحلل بتحليل الحرارة الغريزية - و غيرها و النفس ثابتة و ذلك لاستدلاله بالخوف و الرجاء الثابتين لبعض الصور الحسيات على بقائها من جهة اتصالها بالجواهر العقلية الباقيات عند الله فعلم أن لها نشأتين دائرة حسية و باقية عقلية.

و بالجملة إنه قدس الله روحه أخذ الوسط في البرهان على دئورها و زوالها من جهة إثبات الغاية الذاتية لها كما فعلنا سابقاً و هو أحد المناهج التي سلكتها في إثبات حدوث الأجسام و من أوثق البراهين أخذ الحد الأوسط من غاية الشيء.

و منها أن تلك الصور العقلية هي بعينها صفات الله و علومه التابعة لوجوده مع أن علوه و مجده بذاته لذاته لا لتلك الصور و لا يلزم من ذلك تعدد القدماء و لا استكمالهم تعالى بغير ذاته الأحدية الصمدية لأنها ليست موجودات مستقلة مباينة الوجود عن وجود الحق و لا متميزة الإنية عن الإنية الأولى.

و ذلك لأنك قد علمت أنها مطموسة مقهورة تحت جبروته مستهلكة الذوات تحت كبريائه فانية عن ذاته باقية ببقاء الله.

ولهذا المعنى قال الشيخ اليوناني ليس للمبدع الحق صورة و لا حلية فيه و لا قوة لكنه فوق كل صورة و حلية و قوة لأنه مبدعها و قال و ليس المبدع الأول شيئاً من الأشياء و هو جميع الأشياء لأن الأشياء منه.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢١٧

و لقد صدق الأفاضل الأوائل في قولهم مالك الأشياء هو الأشياء كلها إذ هو علة كونها بأنه أوجدها فقط و علة شوقها إليه و هو خلاف الأشياء كلها و ليس فيه شيء ما أبدعه و لا يشبه شيئاً منه فلذلك صار محبوباً معشوقاً يشتاقه الصور العقلية

العالية والسافلة- فالعاشق يحرص على أن يصير إليه و يكون معه انتهى أقول قد برهنا فيما مضى أن البسيط الذات هو كل الأشياء وأن مصير كل شيء إليه تعالى و نقل عن أفلاطن أيضا أنه كان يحيل وجود حوادث لا أول لها لأنك إذا قلت حادث فقد أثبت الأولية لكل واحد و ما ثبت لكل واحد يجب أن يثبت للكل. و قال أيضا إن صور الأشياء لا بد و أن تكون حادثة و أما هيولياتها و عنصرها فثبت عنصرا قبل وجودها فظن بعض العقلاء أنه حكم بالأزلية و القدم.

أقول أما صحة قوله الأول فليس بناؤها على قياس حكم الكل المجموعي- على حكم كل فرد فرد بل غرضه أن الحدوث لما كان هو المسبوقية بالعدم فإذا كان الكل مسبوقا بالجزء و الجزء مسبوقا بالعدم فكان الكل مسبوقا بالعدم بل له مسبوقية بعدم كل جزء من أجزائه فله مسبوقيات بأعدام كثيرة غير محصورة حسب إعدام الأجزاء. و أما ما اشتهر بين الجمهور من أن تعاقب الأشخاص لا إلى حد يوجب التسلسل في المتعاقبات إلى غير النهاية فهذا من سخيف القول لأن وقوع مثل هذا التسلسل ليس إلا بمجرد الفرض فيستحيل أن يتحقق في الواقع لأن المتحقق في الواقع لا يكون إلا متناهيًا و الترتيب بين شيئين أو بين أشياء متفرع على وجودهما أو وجودها معا.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢١٨

و قد علمت أن المادة لا يحتمل صورتين معا فضلا عن الصور الغير المتناهية- إذ لا اجتماع لها في الوجود بل لا تعدد كما في الاتصالات التدريجية من الصور الفلكية وغيرها و لا قوة الخيال مما يمكن له تصور المقدار الغير المتناهي و لا العدد الغير المتناهي و نسبة البقاء و الاستمرار للأنواع إنما هي من جهة وجودها العقلي و هو صورة علم الله تعالى. و أما قوله الثاني فليس مراده أن العنصر أي الهيولى أمر متحصل مستمر الوجود بالعدد لأن الهيولى كما مر أمر بالقوة و لا تحصل لها في الخارج إلا بالصور المتعاقبة و أن لها وحدة جنسية مستمرة و لها وحدات متجددة متصرمة حسب تجدد الصور و تصرمها و ليس في عالم الطبيعة موجود قديم بالهوية الوجودية لا من الصور و لا من المواد كما علمت مرارا. و يحكى عنه أيضا في سؤاله عن طيماوس ما الشيء الذي لا حدوث له و ما الشيء الحادث و ليس بباقي و ما الشيء الموجود بالفعل و هو أبدا بحال واحد و إنما يعني بالأول وجود الباري جل اسمه و بالثاني وجود الأكوان الزمانية التي لا تثبت على حالة واحدة و بالثالث وجود المبادي العقلية و الصور الإلهية و الأضواء الجبروتية و العلوم القضائية- التي لا تتغير.

و حكى من أسئلته أيضا ما الشيء الكائن و لا وجود له و ما الشيء الموجود و لا كون له يعني بالأول الزمان و الزمانيات المتجددة الأكوان لأنه لم يؤهلها اسم الوجود.

و قد علمت أنها ضعيفة الوجود مشوبة الوجود بالعدم و يعني بالثاني الصور المفارقة- التي هي فوق الزمان و الحركة و الطبيعة و حق لها اسم الوجود لكونها باقية عند الله.

و قد حكى أرسطاطاليس في مقالة الألف الكبرى من كتاب ما بعد الطبيعة أن أفلاطن كان يختلف في حديثه إلى افراطويس فكتب عنده ما روى عنه أن جميع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢١٩

الأشياء المحسوسة فاسدة و أن العلم لا يحيط بها ثم اختلف بعده إلى سقراط و كان مذهبه طلب الحدود من دون النظر في طبائع المحسوسات و غيرها فظن أن نظر سقراط في غير الأشياء المحسوسة لأن الحدود ليست للمحسوسات و لا يتناولها لأنها إنما تقع على أشياء دائمة كلية.

فعند ذلك ما سمى أفلاطون الأشياء الكلية صوراً لأنها واحدة و رأى أن الوجود في المحسوسات لا يكون إلا بمشاركة الصور إذا كانت الصور رسوماً و خيالات لها مقدمة عليها.

أقول قوله إن جميع الأشياء المحسوسة فاسدة شامل للآثريات و العنصريات - فكان مذهبه حدوث الأفلاك و ما تحتها جميعاً و المراد من الأشياء الكلية في قوله - إن لم يكن من سهو الناسخ بدل الجزئية هو المعاني و الماهيات الكلية للمحسوسات و غيرها إذ لا صورة لها من حيث هي و الضمير في لأنها راجع إلى الصورة.

معناه أن أفلاطون لم يعتقد لها وجوداً خاصاً و لا هوية عددية حتى يلزم من استمرار صدق الحدود على المحسوسات قدم شيء من العالم لما مر أن المعاني الكلية لا يتحقق في الخارج إلا بتبعية الأشخاص و ليست لها وحدة عددية مستمرة فيما يتجدد أشخاصها و قوله لا يكون إلا بمشاركة الصور أراد بها الصور العقلية التي تكون للمحسوسات في عالم المفارقات عنى به أن قوام هذه الحسيات بتلك الصور المفارقة لأنها فاعلها و غايتها لا المفهومات الكلية الذهنية التي لا وجود لها بالذات.

حكاية فيها دراية

[كلام الشيخ أبي الحسن العامري]

اعلم أن الشيخ أبا الحسن العامري حكى في كتابه المعروف بالأمد على الأبد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٢٠

و كان يذكر فيه أحوال الفلاسفة الأوائل و أما أفلاطون فقد اختلف في مذهبه في قدم العالم و حدوثه فإنه قال في أسولوطيقوس أي تدبير البدن إن العالم أبدي غير مكنون - دائم البقاء و تعلق بهذا القول ابرقلس و صنف في أزلية العالم كتابه المعروف الذي ناقضه يحيى النحوي.

ثم ذكر في كتابه المعروف بطيماوس أن العالم مكنون و أن الباري قد صرفه - من لا نظام إلى نظام و أن جواهره كلها مركبة من المادة و الصورة و أن كل مركب معرض للانحلال و لو لا أن تلميذه أرسطاطاليس شرح مغزاه من اختلاف القولين لحكم عليه بالحيرة إلا أنه بين أن لفظة المكنون مرتبة تحت الأسماء المشتركة و أن مقصوده من قوله إن العالم أبدي غير مكنون أي لم يسبقه زمان و لم يحدث عن شيء و أن مقصوده من قوله إنه مكنون و قد صرفه الباري من لا نظام إلى نظام أن وجوده متعلق بالصنعة النازمة للمادة بالصورة و ليس و لا واحد من هذين وجوده بذاته - دون الإيجاد لصاحبه فالمبدع لهما إذا قد أوجدهما على التآخيد النظامي فهو إذا بفعله الإبداعي صارف العالم من لا نظام إلى نظام أي من العدم إلى الوجود.

و لقد صرح بذلك في كتاب النواميس فقال إن للعالم بدواً علياً و ليس له بدو زمني أي له فاعل قد اخترعه لا في زمان فإن فاحص فحصى عن سبب اختراعه أجبنه بأنه يريد بذاته لإفاضة وجوده و قادر على إيجاد ما أراده و لمثله قد أطلق القول في كتابه المنسوب إلى فادن بأن جوهر النفس غير مكنون و أنه لا يموت.

و قال في كتابه طيماوس إنه مكون و إنه ميت غير دائم و قد تولى أرسطاطاليس بتبيين مراده من اختلاف اللفظين فقال
عنى بقوله الأول أنه لم يتدرج في حدوثه من القوة إلى الفعل لكنه أحدث دفعة ثم لم يعرض له موت في دار المثوبة و
عنى بقوله الثاني أنه معرض للاستحالة من الجهل إلى العلم و من الرذيلة إلى الفضيلة و أن ذاته ما كان ليفوز بالبقاء
الأبدي لو لا استبقاه الله على الدوام.
و قد صرح بذلك في كتاب طيماوس فقال إن خالق الكل أوحى إلى الجواهر الروحانية بأنكم لستم لا تموتون و لكني
استبقيكم بقوتي الإلهية انتهى كلام

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٢١

العامري

و أقول فيه مواضع مؤاخذات حكمية.

الأول

أن ما حكاه من أرسطاطاليس في التوفيق بين كلامية الأولين غير مرضي فإن ما ذكره في تأويل الأول و إن صح إذا أريد
بالعالم عالم المفارقات المحضة - إلا أن ما نقله عنه في تأويل القول الثاني منه الذي قاله في كتاب طيماوس غير
محتمل - فإن قوله صرفه الباري من لا نظام إلى نظام صريح في التقدم الزمني و لا يجوز حمله على مجرد التعلق
بالفاعل الذي مناطه الإمكان الذاتي دون القوة و الاستعداد كيف و ليست للماهية مرتبة سابقة على الوجود حتى يصح
أن يقال إنها مصروفة من العدم إلى الوجود.
لا سيما و قد علل أفلاطن حدوث العالم بكون جواهره مركبة من المادة و الصورة - و بأن كل مركب معرض للانحلال و
ذلك المعنى أي التعلق بالغير لا اختصاص له بالمركب دون البسيط فقد علم من كلامه أن للجواهر المادية خصوصية في
الحدوث - لأجل تركيبها و ليست تلك الخصوصية في العقلية البسيطة و أن للأجسام ضربا آخر من الكون.
و أيضا قوله كل مركب معرض للانحلال صريح في أن العالم سيخرب و يهلك و يضمحل و لو كان قديما لم يكن قابلا للفساد عائدا إلى الزوال.

الثاني

أن ما حكاه من الفيلسوف في باب تأويل كلام أستاذه في قدم النفس و عدم كونها باقية من أن المراد منه أنها لم تتدرج
في الحدوث و أنها باقية بعد الحدوث في الدار الآخرة و في تأويل حدوثها و موتها أنها معرضة للتغير في الصفات و
أنها باقية باستبقاء الله إياها لا بذاتها فهو بعيد غير معتمد عليه بل المعتمد خلافه أما بعد الذي ذكره في الأول فمن وجهين.
أحدهما أن مذهب هذا الفيلسوف كما نقل عنه تلميذه إسكندر الرومي أن النفوس الساذجة الواقعة في حد العقل
الهيولاني دائرة هالكة غير باقية بعد البدن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٢٢

و قد مال إليه الشيخ الرئيس في بعض رسائله و إن أنكر ذلك في سائر كتبه - زاعما أنها صورة مجردة حدوثا و بقاء و ما

لا مادة له لا يجوز عليه الفساد و الفناء.

و ثانيهما أن الحق كما بين في مقامه أن جوهر النفس من حيث تعلقه بالبدن - و كونه كمالاته و صورة مقومة إياه أمر تدريجي الحدوث كسائر الصور الطبيعية الحسية.

نعم إذا قويت ذاتها و خرجت من قوتها في التجوهر الذي لها إلى الفعل خلصت ذاتها عن احتمال الفساد فهي مادية الحدوث مجردة البقاء و أما بعد الذي ذكره في القول الثاني فهو أيضا من وجهين أحدهما من كونه في غاية البعد عن منطوق اللفظ و صورة البيان و مساق الكلام.

و ثانيهما لمخالفته مذهب هذا الفيلسوف في النفوس الناقصة من أنها هالكة كما مر فالأولى أن يقال في التوفيق بين كلاميه غير ما حكاه عن الفيلسوف و سنذكر ما عندي في التوفيق بينهما.

الثالث

أنا قد بينا بالبرهان أن العالم بجميع جواهره الحسية السماوية و الأرضية و أعراضه حادث حدوثا تدريجيا و أنه متكون فاسد لا يبقى زمانين و بينا أن العالم الربوبي عظيم جدا مشتمل على جميع حقائق ما في العالم و صورها على وجه أتم و أشرف و أنها باقية بقاء الله فضلا عن استبقائه إياها و فرق بين كونها باقية ببقائه تعالى و بين كونها باقية باستبقائه فما عند الله من الصور الإلهية لو ثبت أن لها ماهية غير الآليات و الهويات الوجودية فصحيح أنها من حيث الماهية باقية باستبقائه.

و أما من حيث إنها وجودات محضة متعلقة الهويات و الآليات بجاعلها التام فإنها عشاق إلهيون واصلون إلى حبيبهم و إنها وجوه ناظرة إلى ربها و عيون باصرة وجه ربها مع أنها متفاوتة في الشدة و الضعف و القرب و البعد فليس يتصور لها بقاء غير بقاء الله.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٢٣

و هذا مع ثبوته بالبرهان و وضوحه عند العرفان مما خفي تحقيقه إلا على الراسخين في العلم بكيفية الصنع و الإيجاد فعليك بالتجريد و التصفية كي تلحق بهم و تدرك غورهم.

فإذا تقرر ذلك فالحق أن يقال في التوفيق بين كلامي أفلاطن الإلهي أن يحمل مراده من العالم حيث يقول إن العالم أبدي و أنه غير مكنون على عالم الصور الإلهية لأنها حقائق الموجودات العالمة الثابتة في عالم علمه تعالى و حيث حكم بأنه مكنون و أن الباري صرفه من لا نظام إلى نظام فالمراد منه عالم الصور الحسية لأنها مادية منتظمة الوجود من القوة و الفعل و المادة و الصورة على الوجه الذي أوامنا إليه من أن شخصيات كل من المادة و الصورة حادثة مسبقة بالعدم الزماني.

الرابع

أن المعلوم من كلمات هذا الفيلسوف التي سننقله إن شاء الله أن مذهبه - يوافق مذهب أستاذه في باب حدوث هذا العالم و بقاء العالم الربوبي.

فما حكاه عنه هذا الشيخ يشبه أن يكون قولاً ملفقاً مختلقاً لفقّه بعض عامة الفلاسفة ممن لم يبلغ مقام الراسخين و لم يدرك شأن الكاملين.

الخامس

أن المختار عندنا في التوفيق بين كلاميه في قدم النفس و حدوثها وجهان آخران أحدهما أن يقال إن للنفوس الإنسانية بعد هذه النشأة الدائرة نشأتين أخريتين إحداهما عقلية محضة و هي للمقربين و الثانية مثالية صورية فأراد بموت النفس عند ما حكم بأنها تموت فقدان استعدادها للحياة العقلية و السعادة الأخروية التي للكاملين - و أراد بعدم موتها بقاءها بعد البدن و إن كان بحياة حيوانية حسية غير عقلية.

و ثانيهما أن نفسية النفس كما بينا نفس [نحو] وجودها و هذا النحو من الوجود غير باق للنفوس بالحقيقة لأنها متحولة من هذا الوجود إلى وجود آخر تنقلب إليه فإذا حكم بأن جوهر النفس غير مكنون و لا مائت أراد به جوهرها العقلي و هو غير

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٢٤

واقع تحت الكون لأنه صورة علم الله و حيثما قال إنها مكونة مائتة أراد به جوهرها النفساني و صورتها التي تعلقت بالبدن العنصري.

و قد ثبت أن كل صورة مادية متكونة فاسدة و بالجملة كل نفس بما هي نفس ذائقة الموت ثم إلى الله ترجعون ثم الله ينشئ النشأة الآخرة فكلا قولي أفلاطون صحيح من غير تناقض و تحير.

و مما يدل على قوله بالحدوث أنه ذكر الأستاذ أبو الفضل بن عميد أن الحكماء أوجبوا لجملة السماء النفس و الحياة. فأما أفلاطن فزعم أن الأجرام العالية متنفسة حية بحياة غير سرمدية و لا باقية بذاتها و كان يقول إن الله تعالى حين أمر هذه الأجسام الشريفة بتعظيمه و تمجيدته أخبرها بأنه لم يخلقها خلقا يقتضي البقاء لكنه قرن بعد الخلق بها من مشيته ما يصيرها باقية.

و أما أرسطو فإنه بين أنها غير واقعة تحت الكون و الفساد.

و استدل على ذلك بأن الكون و الفساد يوجدان في المادة القابلة للمتضادات - و لا ضد للأجرام العالية و لا لحركتها فهي إذن غير كائنة و لا فاسدة انتهى كلامه.

أقول لا منافاة بين كلامي هذين الحكيمين على ما وقع التنبيه فيما سبق من الكلام و ما سيلحق و سيرد عليك ما فيه زيادة الانكشاف عند شرحنا لكلمات المعلم الأول الذي سننقلها عن قريب إن شاء الله تعالى.

و من هؤلاء الأسلاف المكرمين الفيلسوف الأعظم أرسطاطاليس

قد ذكرنا سابقا من كلامه ما ناص على أنه لا يمكن أن يكون جرم من الأجرام ثابتا قائما - لأن من طبيعته السيلا و الفساد فقد انكشف من كلامه لأهل البصيرة أن لا شيء من الجواهر الجسمانية بقديم عنده و مما يدل أيضا على أنه غير ذاهل عن الحدوث التدريجي للجواهر الجسمانية - هو ما حكاه عن أستاذه أفلاطن الشريف في كتابه المعروف بأثولوجيا حيث قال

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٢٥

ففرق أي أفلاطن بين العقل و الحس و بين طبيعة الإنبيات الحقية و بين الأشياء المحسوسة و صير الإنبيات الحقية دائمة

لا تزول عن حالها و صير الأشياء الحسية دائرة واقعة تحت الكون و الفساد فلما فرغ من هذا التمييز بدا و قال إن علة الإنيات الحقيقية التي لا أجرام لها و الأشياء الحسية ذوات الأجرام واحدة و هي الإنية الأولى الحق.

ثم قال إن الباري الأول الذي هو علة الإنيات العقلية الدائمة و الإنيات الحسية الدائرة هو الخير المحض و الخير لا يليق لشيء من الأشياء إلا به و كل ما كان في العالم الأعلى و العالم الأسفل خير فليس ذلك من طباعها و لا من طباع الإنيات العقلية لكنها من تلك الطبيعة العالية و كل طبيعة عقلية أو حسية منها بادية فإن الخير إنما ينبعث من الباري في العالمين. ثم قال إن الإنية الأولى الحق هي التي تفيض على العقل الحياة أولا ثم على النفس ثم على الأشياء الطبيعية و هو الباري الذي هو خير محض انتهى كلام هذا الفيلسوف ناقلا عن أستاذه.

و قال في موضع آخر من كتاب أثولوجيا إن الأشياء العقلية يلزم الأشياء الحسية - و الباري لا يلزم الأشياء العقلية و الحسية بل هو ممسك لجميع الأشياء غير أن الأشياء العقلية هي إنيات حقيقية لأنها مبتدعة من العلة الأولى بغير وسط و أما الأشياء الحسية فهي إنيات دائرة لأنها رسوم الإنيات الحقيقية و مثالها و إنما قوامها و دوامها بالكون و التناسل كي تدوم و تبقى تشبها بالأشياء العقلية الثابتة الدائمة.

أقول كلامه نص على فساد هذا العالم و دثوره و أما معنى ما ذكره من لزوم العقليات للحسيات و عدم لزوم الباري للأشياء و كون الثابت له إمساك الكل و الفرق بين اللزوم و الإمساك فهو أن لكل طبيعة نوعية دائرة صورة عقلية ثابتة عند الله هي المقومة لها و ذات عناية بها و هي متعددة الإنيات حسب تعدد الأنواع الطبيعية و الباري أحدي الذات نسبة ذاته إلى الجميع نسبة واحدة قيومية.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٢٦

و إنما تلك العقليات جهات قيوميته و تكثرات فيضه و جوده من غير اختصاص له بواحد دون واحد و لهذا فرق بين نسبته إلى الأشياء و نسبة سائر العلل إلى معاليلها - بأن كلا منها يلزم معلوله بخصوصه لا يتعداه و الباري لا يلزم شيئا من أنواع العقليات و الحسيات بخصوصه بل هو الناظم للكل و الممسك لرباطها عن الانفصام و الحافظ لها عن الفناء على تفاوت مقاماتها في الوجود و البقاء حيث إن العقليات المحضة تبقى ببقاء الذات الأحادية و الحسيات إنما تبقى بتلاحق الأمثال و الأشباه و بقاء التدرج في الحدوث و تشابك العدم بالوجود.

فقله إنما قوامها و دوامها بالكون و التناسل أراد بالكون الوجود التدريجي على نعت الاتصال كما في الفلكيات و بالتناسل التعاقب في الكون على نهج الانفصال كما في العنصريات من الطبائع المنتشرة الشخصيات مثل أنواع الحيوان و النبات.

و قال أيضا في الميمر العاشر من كتاب الربوبية لما ابتدعت الهوية الأولى من الواحد الحق وقفت و ألقت بصرها على الواحد ليراه فصارت حينئذ عقلا فلما صارت الهوية الأولى المبتدعة عقلا صارت يحكي أفاعيلها للواحد الحق لأنها لما ألقت بصرها عليه و رآته على قدر قوتها و صارت عقلا أفاض عليها الواحد الحق قوى كثيرة عظيمة - فلما صار العقل ذا قوة عظيمة أبدع صورة النفس من غير أن يتحرك تشبها بالواحد الحق.

و ذلك أن العقل أبدعه الواحد الحق و هو ساكن فكذلك النفس أبدعها العقل - و هو ساكن أيضا لا يتحرك غير أن الواحد الحق أبدع هوية العقل و أبدع العقل صورة النفس في الهوية التي ابتدعت من الواحد الحق بتوسط هوية العقل.

و أما النفس فلما كانت معلولة من معلول لم يقو على أن يعقل فعلها بغير حركة - وهي ساكنة بل فعليته بحركة و أبدعت صنما ما و إنما يسمى صنما لأنه فعل دائر غير ثابت و لا باق لأنه كان بحركة و الحركة لا تأتي بالشيء الثابت الباقي بل إنما تأتي بالشيء الدائر و إلا كان فعلها أكرم منها إذ كان المفعول ثابتا قائما و الفاعل دائرا بائدا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٢٧

أعني الحركة و هذا قبيح جدا انتهت عبارته.
و لا يخفى ما فيها من التصريح على أن الأجسام الفلكية و غيرها أصنام دائرة بائدة مستحيلة الوجود كائنة فاسدة متبدلة الجواهر و الذوات.
و قال أيضا في صدر هذا الكتاب عند ذكر رءوس المسائل في الطبيعة و إنها صنم لحكم الكل وافق للنفس سفلا في الطبيعة و إنها تفعل و تنفعل و إن الهيولى تنفعل و لا تفعل في الأنفس و إنها غير واقعة تحت الزمان و إنما تقع تحت الزمان آثارها في الأنفس الكلية و إنها كانت تفعل الشيء بعد الشيء و لا محالة إنها تحت الزمان أم ليست تحت الزمان بل الأشياء المشتركة هي تحت الزمان و إن الكلمات الفواعل تفعل الأشياء معا و ليس في الكلمات المنفعلة أن تفعل الانفعال كله معا لكن الشيء بعد الشيء.
و من الشواهد الدالة على أن هذا الفيلسوف الأعظم كان يرى و يعتقد حدوث العالم أني قد وجدت منه كلمات دالة غير ما هو المشهور منه في السنة الجمهور و غير ما نقله منه ثامسطيوس و اعتمد عليه الشيخ الرئيس في هذه المسألة و هو أنه قال الأشياء المحمولة يعني بها الصور الجسمانية فليس كون أحدهما من صاحبه بل يجب أن يكون

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٢٨

بعد صاحبه فيتعاقبان على المادة.
فقد بان أن الصورة تبطل و تذر و إذا دثر معنى وجب أن يكون له بدء لأن الدثور غاية و هو إحدى الحاشيتين ما دل على أن جائيا جاء به فقد صح أن المكون حادث لا من شيء و أن الحامل لها غير ممتنع الذات عن قبولها و حمله إياها و هي ذات بدو و غاية يدل على أن حامله ذو بدو و غاية و أنه حادث لا من شيء.
و يدل على أن محدثه لا بدو له و لا غاية لأن الدثور آخر و الآخر ما كان له أول فلو كانت الجواهر و الصور لم يزالا بغير جائز لأن الاستحالة دثور الصورة التي بها كان وجود الشيء و خروج الشيء من حد إلى حد و من حال إلى حال يوجب دثور الكيفية و تردد المستحيل في الكون و الفساد يدل على دثوره و حدوث أحواله يدل على ابتدائه و ابتداء جزئه يدل على بدو كله و واجب أن قبل بعض ما في العالم للكون و الفساد أن يكون كل العالم قابلا له و كان له بدو يقبل الفساد و آخر يستحيل إلى كون فالبدو و الغاية يدلان على مبدع و ذكر أنه قد سأل بعض الدهرية أرسطاطليس و قال إذا كان المبدع لم يزل و لا شيء غيره ثم أحدث العالم فلم أحدثه فقال لم غير جائزة عليه لأن لم تقتضي علة و العلة محمولة فيما هي علة عليه من معلل فوقه و ليس المبدع بمركب فيحمل ذاته العلل - فلم عنه منفية فإنما فعل ما فعل لأنه جواد فقيل فيجب أن يكون فاعلا لم يزل لأنه جواد لم يزل.
قال معنى لم يزل لا أول له و فعل فاعل يقتضي أولا و اجتماع أن يكون ما لا أول له و ذو أول في القول و الذات [و

[الفاعل] محال متناقض.

قيل له فهل يبطل هذا العالم قال نعم قيل فإذا بطل الجود قال يبطله ليصوغه الصيغة التي لا يحتمل الفساد لأن هذه الصيغة يحتمل الفساد انتهت كلماته الشريفة النورية أقول انظروا معاشر أهل اليقين وأولي البصيرة في الحكمة والدين هل جاء أحد بعده من الحكماء والمتكلمين بمثل هذا الكلام المحكم المتين في باب حدوث

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٢٩

العالم وارتباطه بالمبدع الحق من غير تغير لا في ذاته ولا في إرادته وإضافته.

تفسير وتذكرة

إن في كلامه إشارات لطيفة وتحقيقات شريفة لعلها تخفى على بعض الناظرين - وتفتقر إلى التبيين فنريد أن نشرحها توضيحا للمرام فقوله فليس كون أحدهما من صاحبه إشارة إلى أن الصور السابقة ليست علة للاحقة من حيث شخصيتها لأن علة القوام والوجود لا بد وأن لا ينفك عن وجود ما يتقوم به فكل ما يكون متقدما بالزمان على شيء فلا يكون علة مقومة له.

وقوله وإذا دثر معنى وجب أن يكون له بدو لأن الدثور غاية إثبات لمعنى الحدوث والمسبوقية بالعدم من جهة دثور الشيء وانتهائه إلى الغاية وتنبيه على أن بدو الشيء على نحو غايته فما كان غايته العدم كان بدوه أيضا العدم مثله. ولك أن تقول كيف يكون عدم الشيء غاية له - قلنا الأعدام غايات بالعرض كما أنها مبادي كذلك بمعنى أنه إذا انتهى الشيء إلى غاية ذاتية هي كماله فلا يبقى هويته الناقصة وكذا القياس في عدمه السابق وقوله إن المكون حادث لا من شيء إشارة إلى التمييز بين ما منه الشيء وما به الشيء ولا يمكن أن يكون أحدهما هو الآخر بعينه لأن ما منه الشيء يجب أن يفارقه الشيء وما به الشيء يجب أن يجامعه لأن الأول سبب زماني معد والآخر سبب ذاتي مقوم فكل حادث يجب أن يكون حدوثه بشيء لا من شيء فقط إلا بمعنى التعاقب الزماني. لأن الذي يتوهم أنه منه حدث غير الذي به حدث لأن ذلك قد بطل عند حدوثه بخلاف هذا فكيف يكون الباطل سببا محصلا للشيء فكل حادث يفتقر إلى موجد - لا يكون تحت زمان ولأن كل زماني لا يوجد إلا شيئا فشيئا وكما أنه يوجد شيئا فشيئا - فهو أبدا لا يخلو عن ما بالقوة وما بالقوة لا يكون سببا لإخراج الشيء من القوة إلى الفعل.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٣٠

ولذلك قال ويدل على محدث لا بدو له ولا غاية لكونه خارجا عن أفق الزمان - وقوله وأجب إن قبل بعض ما في العالم للكون والفساد أن يكون كل العالم قابلا له معناه أن الكل مما يتقوم وجوده بوجود جميع أجزائه فإذا كان جزؤه فاسدا كان الكل أولى بالفساد والحدوث بعد العدم وهو ظاهر سيما في الكل الذي كل واحد من أجزائه يكون فاسدا أعني الكل والجزء الزمانيين فإن وجود الكل الزماني بهويته الكمية الاتصالية لا يجامع وجود شيء من أجزائه حتى إذا وجد جميع الأجزاء فقد انقضى وجود الكل بانقضائها فلا اجتماع له مع الأجزاء إلا في الوهم فلا كلية لمجموع الزمانيات في الخارج بل هي فاسدة وداثرة بوجود كل جزء ودثور.

وما قيل إن لمجموع الزمان وجودا في الدهر - فجوابه أن لمجموعها عدما في الدهر لعدم أجزائها لأن كل

جزء كما أنه موجود في وقت بل سائر الأوقات كلها فالكل معدوم في جميع الأوقات كما حققناه سابقا في نحو وجود المتصل المقداري أن كل جزء منه معدوم عن الكل - وقوله معنى لم يزل لا أول له ومعنى فعل يقتضي أولا أراد بفعل ما هو تحت مقولة أن يفعل وهو التأثير التدريجي دون الإبداع و غرضه أن وجود الصور الجسمانية تدريجي الحدوث والفعل التدريجي لا يمكن بقاءه زمانين فضلا عن كونه باقيا لم يزل بل وجوده يلزمه زواله و كونه يستدعي فساده و قوله يبطله ليصوغه الصيغة التي لا يحتمل الفساد إشارة إلى أن لكل صورة جسمانية غاية عقلية ترجع إليها و تصير إياها و تتحد بها.

و قد علم بما ذكره كيفية حدوث العالم عن الباري الصانع و لمية بواره و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٣١

خرابه و علم منه كيفية خراب الأفلاك و طي السماوات كطي السجل للكتب كما قال تعالى كَمَا بَدَأْنَا أَوَّلَ خَلْقٍ نُعِيدُهُ وَعَدًّا عَلَيْنَا إِنَّا كُنَّا فَاعِلِينَ و ذلك لأن الباري عز اسمه - محرك الأفلاك و مدير السماوات و مدبرها فاعل حكيم مختار في فعله و صنعه و كل فاعل مختار فله في فعله غرض و غاية و هي عناية الله السابقة على وجود أفاعيله و صنائعه قبل إظهار فعلها و صنعها و من أجل العناية السابقة يفعل ما يفعله بتوسيط الأسباب و تشويق المحركات و كل محرك فإذا بلغ فعله إلى غرضه و غايته قطع الفعل البتة و أمسك عن العمل بالضرورة.

فإذا كان محرك الأفلاك بإذن الله تعالى و موجد الإنيات الزمانية بإرادته نال غرضه في تحريكها فسيبيله أن يمسك عن تحريكها و إدارتها و كلما أمسك محرك الأفلاك و مشوق الأملاك عن التحريك و التشويق وقفت السماوات عن الدوران و الكواكب عن المسير و خرب العالم و فسد النظام و بطلت الفصول و انعدمت الموالي و الحرث و النسل و انتقلت الأكوان إلى الدار الآخرة.

و ذلك لأن قوام هذا العالم بالحركة التي هي صورة المكونات فإذا بطلت بطل الجميع و إذا نفذت نفذت بنفادها الأكوان و قامت القيامة فقد علم بما ذكره على هذا الشرح بوار العالم و خراب الأفلاك و طي السماوات و الأرضين إن في هذا لبلاغا لقوم عابدين

وهم و تحصيل -

ربما يتوهم متوهم أن الفاعل المتحرك لعله لم يبلغ إلى غرضه و لم ينل بغيته - فيزاج بأنه إذا علم المحرك أنه لا يبلغ غرضه فسيبيله أيضا أن يمسك عن الفعل و أيضا ما لا يمكن الوصول إليه لم يمكن أن يكون غرضا مركوزا في جبلة الفاعل لأجله - و قد فرضناه كذلك.

اللهم إلا أن الفاعل يقصده و يميل إليه مجازفة أو قسرا و شيء منهما لا يكون

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٣٢

دائما و لا في الأفاعيل الطباعية و المفروض أن محرك الأفلاك و مكون الأكوان الزمانية ملك كريم و فاعل حكيم و فعل الحكيم لا يكون بلا غاية تترتب عليه فلو وجود الأفلاك و ما فيها غاية يبتدىء منها علما و ينتهي إليها عينا. و أما ما ذهب إليه أهل الحكمة كما أسلفناه من أن الباري ليس لفعله غرض - فليس بمناقض لما نحن بصدده إذ ذاك في

الفعل المطلق والتأيس من الليس المطلق - و كلامنا في الفعل الزماني و غايته و الغرض الذي يعود إلى ذات الفاعل المباشر القريب.

و بهذا يندفع أيضا ما يتوهم من التناقض في كلام الفيلسوف حيث نفى الغاية و ذكر أن لم غير جائزة عليه ثم أثبت الغاية حيث ذكر أن الفاعل يبطل هذا العالم - ليصوغه صيغة لا يحتمل الفساد.

تسجيل

فقد تبين و تحقق بما نقلناه من كلمات هذا الفيلسوف الأعظم و نصوصه و إشارات - أنه كان مذهبه اعتقاد حدوث العالم و اعتقاد بواره و خراب السماوات و زوالها و أن لله ميراث السماوات و الأرض.

فإذن ما زعمه الجمهور و اشتهر بينهم أنه كان يعتقد قدم العالم فلعل مراده قدم ما سوى عالم الأجسام و الجسمانيات و حينئذ فلا يخلو حاله من أحد أمرين - فإما أن كان يريد من العالم العقلي عالم الإلهية و القدرة و مراتب القوة القيومية - و هي جملة الصور الوجودية العقلية المحضة التي هي بوجه ما غير الذات الأحدية - التي سماها بعض العرفاء غيب الغيوب فيكون القول بقدمها حقا و صدقا إذ لا يلزم منه تعدد القدماء لكونها غير زائدة على مراتب الإلهية و مقامات الربوبية و العلوم الربانية - و عالم القضاء العيني.

و إن أراد بذلك ذواتا قديمة متعددة منفصلة الوجود مستقلة الهويات لا أنها شئون إلهية و علوم قضائية فالقول بقدمها و تسرمد العقول الفعالة باطل لكونها مطموسة تحت سطوع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٣٣

نور الأحدية لكن حسن الظن بهذا الفيلسوف يستدعي أن اعتقاده و مذهبه هو القول الأول كما يشهد به وفور علمه و قوة حدسه و أحكام براهينه في سائر الأصول الحكمية و لأن طرفيه و هما أفلاطون أستاذ و فرفوريوس تلميذه قائلان بذلك القول كما يستفاد من كلمات كل منهما و مذهبه و الله أعلم بالسرائر.

و مما يدل على أن هذا الفيلسوف كان يرى و يعتقد حدوث العالم الجسماني و دثوره - ما قاله في الميمر السابع من كتاب معرفة الربوبية و هو أنه لما قبلت الهيولى الصورة من النفس حدثت الطبيعة ثم صورت الطبيعة و صيرتها قابلة للكون اضطرارا و إنما صارت الطبيعة قابلة للكون لما جعل فيها من القوة النفسانية و العلل العالية ثم وقف فعل العقل عند الطبيعة و مبدأ الكون فالكون آخر العلل العقلية المصورة و أول العلل المكونة و لم يكن يجب أن يقف العلل الفواعل المصورة للجواهر من قبل أن يأتي الطبيعة.

و إنما ذلك كذلك من أجل العلة الأولى التي صيرت الإنيات العقلية عللا فواعل - مصورة للعلل [للصور] العرضية الواقعة تحت الكون و الفساد و أن العالم الحسي إنما هو إشارة إلى العالم العقلي و إلى ما فيه من الجواهر العقلية و ثبات قواها العظيمة و فضائلها الكريمة و خيرها الذي يغلي غليانا و تفور فوراً انتهى كلامه.

أقول قوله صورت الطبيعة و صيرتها قابلة للكون و الفساد اضطرارا معناه جعلتها جعلاً بسيطاً و هي في ذاتها قابلة للكون بحسب هذا الوجود لا أنها لم تكن في ذاتها كذلك - فصيرتها كذلك بحسب عارض غريب عن وجودها ناهيك به قوله اضطرارا يعني صفة الكون و الفساد من ضروريات هوية الصورة الطبيعية من غير تخلل جعل بينها و بين كونها على تلك الصفة.

وقوله إنما صارت الطبيعة قابلة للكون إلى آخره إشارة إلى لمية تجدد الطبيعة واستمرارها و هما متقابلان بوجه لما فيها من شوب قوة و فعلية و دثور و ثبات و ذلك لأن في أسبابها و عللها شبه هاتين الصفتين فالقوة النفسانية مما يلزمها النقص و الشوق و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٣٤

يلزمها الكمال و العقل و الشوق نوع حركة من القوة الشوقية لطلب الكمال تناسب تجدد الطبيعة و دثورها و الكمال العقلي الذي يكون للعلل العالية مما يلزمه الثبات و الدوام - فهو يناسب دوام تجدد الطبيعة و اتصالها بتوارد الأمثال. وقوله ثم وقف فعل العقل عند الطبيعة إلى آخره إشارة إلى ضربى التأثير و الإيجاد و هما الإبداع و التكوين فبين أن سلسلة الإبداع انتهت إلى الطبيعة و أن سلسلة التكوين أخذت منها لما في وجود الطبيعة من حقيقة الثبات و التجدد لما علم مرارا أن التجدد فيها عين الاستمرار لكونه صفة ذاتية لها اضطرارية و لهذا يكون أبدا في التغير و الاستحالة فالتجدد لها ذاتي و لغيرها عرضي بواسطتها فيثبت من ذلك أن الطبيعة آخر الإبداع و أول التكوين و هاتان الحثيتان لا توجبان تركيبا في ذاتها بحسب الخارج لما مر مرارا أن ثباتها عين التجدد و الانقضاء على قياس فعلية القوة في الهيولى و توحيد الكثرة في العدد و غير ذلك من الأمثلة.

ثم إن هذا الفيلسوف عبر عن علل التكوين بالعلل العرضية لما ظهر من قوله سابقا أن حدوث الصورة اللاحقة ليست من الصورة السابقة بل من سبب أعلى نسبته إلى المتجددات الزمانية نسبة واحدة غير زمانية و إنما أطلق اسم العلة على الصورة السابقة بالزمان بمعنى آخر فقد صح الاصطلاح على العلل الأصلية المرتبة بالذات بالسلسلة الطولية و على المعدات المترتبة بالزمان بالعلل العرضية.

وقوله إن العالم الحسي إنما هو إشارة إلى العالم العقلي معناه أن كل صورة حسية في هذا العالم فلها صورة عقلية في عالم الإلهية و في علم الله سبحانه كما هو رأي كثير من الأقدمين مثل أفلاطون و سقراط و غيرهما و سموها بالصور المفارقة و قد أحكمنا بنيانها و أوضحنا طريقها مرارا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٣٥

فصل (٤) في ذكر اعتقادات الفلاسفة الذين هم غير هؤلاء الأصول الأعلون في حدوث العالم و خرابه و بوار السماوات و الأرضين
فمنهم زينون الأكبر بن فارس -

و قد نقلنا في مباحث الحركة قوله الدال صريحا على حدوث العالم و هو قوله إن الموجودات باقية دائرة أما بقاؤها فبتجدد صورها و أما دثورها فبدثور الصورة الأولى عند تجدد الأخرى و ذكر أن الدثور قد لزم الصورة و الهيولى انتهى. و من علم كيفية تعلق كل من الهيولى و الصورة بالأخرى يعلم صحة القول بتجددهما في كل آن و من أقواله أيضا الدال على الحدوث قوله إن المبدع الأول - كان في علمه صورة إبداع كل جوهر و صورة دثور كل جوهر فإن علمه غير متناه و الصور التي فيه من حد الإبداع غير متناهية و كذلك صور الدثور غير متناهية فالعوالم يتجدد في كل حين و دهر ثم ذكر وجه التجدد بما نقلناه منه أولا.

أقول المراد من عدم التناهي في قوله فإن علمه غير متناه و الصور التي في حد الإبداع غير متناهية ليس عدم التناهي بالعدد بالفعل لاستحالته بالبراهين و لهذا الفيلسوف برهان مخصوص على هذا المطلب في رسالة نقله بعض أفاضل المتأخرين في تصانيفه و تلك الرسالة موجودة عندنا.

بل المراد إما عدم التناهي بالقوة كما في المتصلات الجوهرية و العرضية - الواقعة في الكون حيث لا يقف عند حد كالصور الحسية المتجددة و أفرادها المتعاقبة في الوجود شيئاً فشيئاً على نعت الاتصال.

و إما عدم التناهي من جهة الشدة في الوجود العقلي كما للصورة المفارقة - بحسب ما يصدر عنه من الأفراد و الحركات لا إلى حد و على أي تقدير ليس المراد منه ما بحسب ترتب الصور العقلية لأنها متناهية البتة طولاً و عرضاً.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٣٦

و منها قوله إن الشمس و القمر و الكواكب يستمد القوة من جوهر السماء - فإذا تغيرت السماء تغيرت النجوم أيضاً ثم هذه الصور كلها بقاؤها و دثورها في علم الباري سبحانه و العلم يقتضي بقاءها دائماً و كذلك الحكمة و الباري قادر على أن يفني العالم يوماً إن أراد.

أقول مراده من جوهر السماء هو جوهرها العقلي و هو صورة ذاتها في علم الله و وجهها الذي يلي القدس و التغير إنما يلحق السماء بحسب وجهها الذي يلي المادة و هو الطبيعة لأنها فانية و هو باق كما قال تعالى كُلُّ شَيْءٍ هَالِكٌ إِلَّا وَجْهَهُ و مراده من قوله و الباري قادر على أن يفني العالم يوماً إن أراد هو يوم القيمة الذي مقداره خمسين ألف سنة.

و قد أوردنا من الأصول و المبادي الصحيحة ما يستفاد بقوتها تفسير كلامه و تبين مرامه فلا نخوض في بسطه و شرحه حذراً من الإطالة و من الفلاسفة القائلين بحدوث العالم ديمقراطيس و شيعة إلا أن له رموزاً و تجوزات قل من اهتدى إليها.

و لهذا اشتهر منه أشياء بظواهرها يناقض الأصول الحكمية مثل القول بالأجسام الصغيرة و مثل القول بالاتفاق و البخت و كان هذا الفيلسوف إنما أنكر الغاية بمعنى العلة الغائية في فعل واجب الوجود لا غير إذ ما من حكيم إلا و هو معترف بأن ما لا يجب لا يكون بل هو و غيره يسمون الأمور اللاحقة بالماهيات لا لذواتها بل بسبب غيرها أموراً اتفاقية و حينئذ يصح القول بأن وجود هذا العالم اتفاقي.

قال بعض العلماء إن هذا الرجل تصفحنا كلامه القدر الذي وجدناه قد دل على قوة سلوكه و ذوقه و مشاهدات له رفيعة قدسية و أكثر ما نسب إليه افتراء محض - بل القدماء لهم الغاز و رموز و أغراض صحيحة و من أتى بعدهم رد على ظواهر رموزهم إما لغفلة أو تعمداً لما يطلب من الرياسة انتهى.

فمن كلماته المرموزة أنه قال المبدع الأول ليس هو العنصر فقط و لا العقل

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٣٧

فقط بل الأخلاط الأربعة و هي الأسطقسات أوائل الوجودات كلها و منه ابتدعت الأشياء البسيطة دفعة واحدة و أما المركبة فإنها كانت دائمة دائرة إلا أن ديمومتها بالنوع.

ثم العالم بجملته غير دائر لأنه متصل بذلك العالم الأعلى كما أن عناصر هذه الأشياء متصلة بلطف أرواحها الساكنة فيها

و العناصر و إن كانت تدثر في الظاهر - فإن صفوتها من الروح البسيط الذي فيها غير دائر فإن كان كذلك فليست تدثر إلا من جهة الحواس فأما من نحو العقل فإنه ليس تدثر فلا يدثر هذا العالم إذا كان صفوها فيه و صفوها متصل بالعوالم البسيطة انتهى.

أقول كلامه في غاية القوة و المتانة إلا أن فهم كلامه و درك مراده يحتاج إلى قريحة صافية و ذهن ثاقب مع تعمق شديد في العلوم الإلهيات.

و العجب أن الحكماء مع شدة فهمهم و وفور علمهم كيف ذهّلوا عن غور كلامه و بعد مراده حيث اعترضوا على كلامه و بالغوا في التشنيع من جهة قوله إن أول مبدع هو العناصر و بعدها أبدعت البسائط الروحانية و قالوا هو ترق من الأسفل إلى الأعلى - و من الأكر إلى الأصفى و معلوم أن مراده منها غير صورة هذه العناصر الحسية.

و قد حكم صريحا بأنها دائرة فكيف يتناقض في كلامه و لو لا مخافة الإطباب لبينت صحة مراده و مع ذلك فكلامه صريح فيما نحن بصدد هذا العالم و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٣٨

دثور شخصياته الحسنية و هوياتها المادية بقاء صفوها أي صورها عند الله القيوم لأنه أراد بالأشياء البسيطة الصور العقلية الثابتة و بالأشياء المركبة الصور الجسمانية فلكية كانت أو عنصرية لتركبها من المادة و الصورة أو من الوجود و العدم كما علمت من تشابك الوجود و العدم في الممتدات المكانية و الزمانية.

و من الفلاسفة القائلين بحدوث العالم و خرابه فلاسفة فاداميا

و إنهم كانوا يقولون إن كل مركب ينحل فلا يجوز أن يكون من جوهرين متفقين في جميع الجهات و إلا فليس بمركب. فإذا كان هذا هكذا فلا محالة إذا انحل التركيب حل كل جوهر فاتصل بالأصل الذي منه فما كان منها بسيطا روحانيا لحق بعالمه الروحاني و هو باق غير دائر و ما كان منها جاشيا غليظا لحق بعالمه أيضا و كل جاش إذا انحل فإنما يرجع حتى يصل إلى اللطف فإذا لم يبق من الكثافة شيء اتحد باللطيف الأول فيتحد به فيكونان متحدين إلى الأبد.

و إذا اتحدت الأواخر بالأوائل كان الأول هو أول كل مبدع ليس بينه و بين مبدعه جوهر آخر متوسط فلا محالة ذلك المبدع الأول يتعلق بنور مبدعه فيبقى دهر الدهور خالدا مخلدا انتهى.

أقول كلام هؤلاء الفلاسفة في غاية الشرف و النفاسة و هو يشتمل على بيان مقصدين شريفيين هما اللذان أكثرنا ذكرهما و كررنا تنبيههما.

أحدهما دثور العالم الجسماني و دثور صورته و فساد مادته و اضمحلال وجوده - و انحلال تركيبه.

و ثانيهما اتصال ما تروح و تلتطف من الصور الحسية إلى الصور العقلية و رجوع ما صفا و نقي منها إلى العلة الأولى الإلهية فالكل عائد إليه راجع صائر إياه متحد بوجهه الباقي رجوع النقص إلى التمام و مصير الفرع إلى الأصل كما قال تعالى - فَسُبْحَانَ الَّذِي بِيَدِهِ مَلَكُوتُ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ وَإِلَيْهِ تُرْجَعُونَ و قوله الْأَلَى اللَّهِ

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٣٩

تَصِيرُ الْأُمُورُ.

و من الفلاسفة القائلين بحدوث العالم هرقل الحكيم

فإنه كان يقول إن أول الأوائل النور الحق لا يدرك من جهة عقولنا لأنها أبدعت من ذلك النور الأول وهو الله حقاً و كان يقول إن بدو الخلق و أول هذا العالم المحبة و المنازعة و وافق في هذا الرأي أنبا ذقلس حيث قال الأول الذي أبدع أولاً هو المحبة و الغلبة.

أقول دلالة هذا الكلام على الحدوث أن كل محب يحب شيئاً غير ذاته فهو يتحرك حتى ينقلب إلى محبوبه و يرجع إليه و يفنى فيه لأن كل ناقص مشتاق له غاية و كل ذي غاية يتحرك إليها و كل محبوب قاهر على جذب محبة إليه و محو آثاره بالكليّة حتى يصير راجعاً إليه كما قال تعالى وَهُوَ الْقَاهِرُ فَوْقَ عِبَادِهِ.

و هذا لا يوجب الالتفات من العالي إلى السافل لأن العالي لا ينفعل من السافل و لكن يحركه و يجذبه إليه و يمحى آثاره و يجعله صائراً إليه من غير تغيير و مباشرة.

و بالجملة وجود المعلول مطلقاً عين المحبة لكونها ناقصاً مفتقراً إلى ما يكمل به - و يتم به و يخرج من فقره إلى غناه فالعالم بجميع ما فيه و معه يخرج يوماً إلى الله و يرجع إليه و يصير إياه كما أنه بدأ منه.

و من القائلين منهم بحدوث العالم أبيقورس قيل إنه خالف أوائل في الأوائل - قال المبادي اثنان الخلاء و الصورة أما الخلاء فمكان فارغ و أما الصورة فهي فوق المكان و الخلاء و منها أبدعت الموجودات و كل ما كان كون منهما فإنه ينحل إليهما - فمنهما المبدأ و إليهما المعاد و ربما يقول الكل يفسد.

أقول كأنه أراد بالمبادي مبادي القوام المقارنة للمعلول كالمادة و الصورة - لا مبادي الوجود المفارقة له كالفاعل و الغاية فإن المادة و الصورة داخلتان في وجود هذا العالم و ماهيته و الفاعل و الغاية خارجتان عن وجود هذا العالم و أراد من الخلاء الهيولى الأولى لكونها عدمية خالية عن وجود الصورة في ذاتها و لها امتداد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٤٠

مكاني باعتبار امتدادها الجسماني و أراد بالصورة الطبيعة المنوعة للأجرام و هي بحسب وجودها النفسي أو العقلي فوق الهيولى و الأبعاد فوقية بالعلية و الشرف و كل من الهيولى و الصورة مبدأ للوجود أيضاً بمعنى ما منه الشيء لا بمعنى ما به الشيء - لكن الصورة مبدأ فعلية الشيء الحادث و كماله و المادة مبدأ قوته و قبوله و افتقاره.

ثم إن الصورة إذا كملت فهي غاية كماله و المادة إذا ادثرت و طرحت كالقشر المرمي فهي غاية عدمه و مرجع فقره و نقصه و لهذا قال منهما المبدأ و إليهما المعاد - إذ مبدأ كل معلول هو ما ينتهي إليه فخرج من كلامه أن الجسمانيات و سائر الصور الحسية يتجدد وجودها من الصور المفارقة الباقية عند الله ثم تعود إليها و هذه الحسيات دائرة فاسدة بدثور الهيولى و تلك باقية عند الله ببقاء ذاتهم فكل شيء هالك إلا وجهه.

و من حكم الشيخ اليوناني الدالة على حدوث هذا العالم أنه قال

على سبيل الرمز إن أمك رءوم لكنها فقيرة رعاء و إن أباك لحدث لكنه جواد مقدر يعني بالأم الهيولى و بالأب الصورة و بالرءومية انقيادها و بالفقر قوة قبولها و هي أمر عديمي و بالرءونة عدم ثباتها على حالة واحدة و وجود باق و أما حداثة الصورة فهي تجددتها في الوجود في كل آن و أما جودها فهو مبدئيتها للأعراض و الآثار أو موجوديتها فبحسب حقيقتها العقلية التي في علم و هي من جهات إفاضة الله و رحمته على القوابل المستعدة و هذه القوابل إنما تقبل الصور بقدر

معلوم من خصوصيات الأزمنة والأوقات كما قال سبحانه وَإِنْ مِنْ شَيْءٍ إِلَّا عِنْدَنَا خَزَائِنُهُ وَمَا نُنْزِلُهُ إِلَّا بِقَدَرٍ مَعْلُومٍ.

و من كلماته الدالة على حدوث عالم الطبيعة والجسم قوله النفس جوهر شريف كريم تشبه دائرة قد دارت على مركزها غير أنها دائرة لا بعد لها و مركزها العقل - و كذلك العقل دائرة استدارة على مركزها و هو الخير الأول المحض غير أن النفس و العقل و إن كانا دائرتين لكن دائرة العقل لا تتحرك أبدا بل هي ساكنة واقفة شبيهة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٤١

بمركزها و أما دائرة النفس فإنها تتحرك على مركزها و هو العقل حركة الاستكمال و أما دائرة العالم السفلى فإنها دائرة تدور حول النفس و إليها تشتاق و إنما تتحرك بهذه الحركة الذاتية شوقا إلى النفس كشوق النفس إلى العقل و شوق العقل إلى الخير الأول المحض.

و لأن دائرة هذا العالم جرم و الجرم يشترك إلى الشيء الخارج منه و يحرص أن يصير إليه فيعانقه فلذلك الجرم الأقصى الشريف يتحرك حركة مستديرة لأنه يطلب النفس من جميع النواحي لينالها فيستريح إليها و يسكن عندها. هذا كلامه و هو صريح في استحالة الفلك و انقطاع حركته الذاتية و دثور الطبيعة و نفاذه و فناء العالم الجسماني و اضمحلاله و انتقاله إلى الدار الآخرة حسب ما أوضحنا سبيله و من الحكماء المبرزين المشهورين بالفضل و البراعة الإسكندر الأفرودوسي و هو من كبار أصحاب أرسطاطاليس رأيا و علما و كلامه أمتن و مقالته أرقن.

و قد وصفه الشيخ في الشفاء و في كتاب المبدأ و المعاد يفاضل المتقدمين وافق أستاذه في كثير من المسائل. منها أن الباري عالم بالأشياء كلها كلياتها و جزئياتها على نسق واحد و لا يتغير علمه بتغير المعلوم و لا يتكثر و خالفه في بعضها بحسب ظاهر الأمر و نحن قد وجهنا قوله بهلاك بعض النفوس كما ستعلم.

و مما انفرد به أنه قال كل كوكب ذو نفس و طبع و حركة من جهة نفسه و طبعه - و لا يقبل التحريك من غيره أصلا و من كلامه الدال على حدوث ما سوى الفلك المحدد أنه قال لما كان الفلك محيطا بما دونه فكان الزمان جاريا عليه لأن الزمان هو العاد للحركات أي عددها و لما لم يكن يحيط به شيء آخر و إلا لكان الزمان جاريا عليه - لم يجز أن يفسد و يكون فلم يكن قابلا للكون و الفساد و ما لا يقبل الكون و الفساد كان قديما.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٤٢

أقول كلامه ظاهر في أن ما يكون تحت الدهر و الزمان فهو من الكوائن الفواسد و لا شبهة في أن جميع الأجرام الفلكية و العنصرية مما يجري عليه الزمان - لأنها مادية فيها جهة القوة و الاستعداد و ما كان كذلك فالزمان من مشخصاته فيكون متغير الوجود قابلا للكون و الفساد فحينئذ إن ثبت أن المحيط بالجميع جسم طبيعي له قوة الحركة و التغير فهو أيضا لا محالة ذو صورة متجددة كائنة فاسدة فيحتاج إلى محدد آخر يحدد زمان وجوده و مكان كونه و إن لم يكن كذلك فيكون إحاطته بالجميع - ليست إحاطة وضعية مكانية كإحاطة السقف بل كان أمرا نفسانيا يحيط بالسماء إحاطة نفسانية فلم يكن بحسب جوهرها العقلي من جملة عالم الشهادة و الحس بل من عالم الغيب و عالم التدبير و القضاء الإلهي و ما عند الله ببقائه كما قال مَا عِنْدَكُمْ يَنْفَدُ وَمَا عِنْدَ اللَّهِ بَاقٍ.

و من عظماء الحكماء المتألهين الراسخين في العلم و التوحيد فرفور يوس صاحب المشائين

واضع إيساغوجي و هو عندي من أعظم أصحاب المعلم الأول و أهدى القوم إلى عيون علومه و أرشدهم إلى إشاراتِهِ و جميع ما ذهب إليه في علم النفس و علم الرب و كيفية المعاد و رجوع النفس إلى عالم الحق و دار الثواب و الاعتماد عليه في شرح التعليم الأول أكثر من غيره كإسكندر الرومي و ثامسطيوس و إن كان الشيخ أكثر تعويله على هذين دونه لإنكاره عليه في القول باتحاد العاقل بالمعقول و اتحاد النفس بالعقل الفعال.

و قد علمت تحقيق هذا المقام على وجه الكمال و التمام قال المكونات كلها إنما تتكون بتكون الصورة على سبيل التغير و تفسد بخلو الصورة و قال كل ما كان واحدا بسيطا ففعله واحد بسيط و ما كان كثيرا مركبا فأفعاله كثيرة مركبة - و كل موجود ففعله مثل طبيعته ففعل الله بذاته واحد بسيط و ما يفعلها من أفاعيله بمتوسط فمركب.

و قال أيضا كل ما كان موجودا فله فعل مطابق الطبيعة و لما كان الباري

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٤٣

موجودا ففعله الخاص الوجداني هو الاجتلاب إلى شبهه يعني الوجود ففي كلامه دلالة على حدوث الطبيعة الجسمانية تصريحاً و تلميحاً.

أما الأول فحيث قال المكونات إنما تتكون بتكون الصورة على سبيل التغير - و تفسد بخلوها عنها. و أما الثاني فقوله كل موجود ففعله مثل طبيعته و لا شبهة في أن لكل جسم طبيعة هي مبدأ حركته و الحركة أمر دائم التجدد و الحدود فكذلك مبدؤها القريب - فيكون كل جسم طبيعي متجدداً حادثاً زائلاً كائناً فاسداً و أيضاً في قوله ففعله الخاص الوجداني هو الاجتلاب إلى شبهة إشارة إلى تبدل هذا العالم و رجوعه إلى الله سبحانه.

و من الفلاسفة المعبرين المشهورين ابرقلس

المنسوب إلى أفلاطون و قد اشتهر فيما بين القوم منه القول بقدم العالم و نسبته إلى الفلاسفة الأقدمين و منشأ ذلك إيراد ابرقلس في تصنيفه تلك الشبهات التسع التي نقلها و لو لا مخافة الإطناب لذكرتها و بينت وجه التقضي عن كل واحد واحد منها بحيث لم يبق منها لأحد مجال الشك في العالم و كيفية صدور الموجودات منه تعالى على أن لكل منها محملاً صحيحاً و وجهاً وجيهاً يصار إليه.

و لهذا ذكر الشهرستاني في كتاب الملل و النحل أنه قال بعض المتعصبين لابرقلس ممهداً له عذراً في إيراد تلك الشبهات إنه كان يناطق الناس بمنطقتين - أحدهما روحاني بسيط و الآخر جسماني مركب و كان أهل زمانه الذين يناطقونه جسمانيين.

و إنما دعاه إلى ذكر هذه الأقوال مقاومتهم إياه فخرج من طريقة الفكرة و الفلسفة من هذه الجهة لأن من الواجب على الحكماء أن يظهر الحكمة على طرق كثيرة - يتصرف فيها كل ناظر بحسب نظره و يستفيد منها بحسب فكره و استعداده فلا يجدوا على قوله مساعاً و لا يصيبوا عليه مقالاً و مطعناً لأن ابرقلس لما كان يقول بدهر هذا العالم - و أنه باق لا يدرثر وضع كتاباً في هذا المعنى فطالعه من لم يعرف طريقته ففهموا منه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٤٤

جسمانيته دون روحانيته فنقضوه على مذهب الدهرية.

و في هذا الكتاب لما اتصلت العوالم بعضها ببعض و حدثت القوى الطبيعية حدثت فيها قشور و استعلت لبوب فالقشور دائرة و اللبوب دائمة لا يجوز عليها الفساد لأنها بسيطة وحيدة القوى فانقسم العالم عالمين عالم الصورة و اللب و عالم الكدور و القشور فاتصل بعضه ببعض و كان آخر هذا العالم من بدو ذلك العالم فمن وجه لم يكن بينهما فرق - فلم يكن هذا العالم دائرا إذا كان متصلا بما ليس مدثر و من وجه دثرت القشور و زالت الكدور و كيف يكون القشور غير دائرة و لا مضمحلة و ما لم يزل القشور باقية - كانت اللبوب خافية.

و أيضا فإن هذا العالم مركب و العالم الأعلى بسيط و كل بسيط باق دائما غير مضمحل و لا متغير قال الذي يذب عن ابرقلس هذا الذي نقل عنه هو المقبول عن مثله بل الذي أضاف إليه القول الأول لا يخلو من أمرين إما أن لم يقف على مرامه للعلة التي ذكرناه سابقا و إما لأنه كان محسودا عند أهل زمانه لكونه بسيط الفكر واسع النظر سائر القوة و كانوا أولئك أصحاب أوهام و خيالات.

و الدليل على صحة ما ذكره هذا الذاب أن ابرقلس كان يقول في موضع من كتابه إن الأوائل التي منها كونت العوالم باقية لا تدثر و لا تضمحل و هي لازمة للدهر ماسكة إلا أنها من أول واحد لا يوصف بصفة و لا يدرك بنعت و نطق و أن صور الأشياء كلها منه و تحته و هو الغاية و المنتهى التي ليس فوقها جوهر هو أعظم منها إلا الأول الواحد و هو الأحد الذي قوته أخرجت هذه الأوائل و قدرته أبدعت هذه المبادي.

و قال أيضا إن الحق لا يحتاج إلى أن يعرف ذاته لأنه حق حقا و كل حق حقا فهو تحته إذ قد حققه الحق فالحق الذي امتد منه طباع الحياة و البقاء هو الذي أفاد بقاء هذا العالم بدوا و بقاء بعد دثور قشوره و زكا البسيط الباطن من الناس الذي كان فيه قد علق به.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٤٥

و قال أيضا إن هذا العالم قد اضمحلت قشوره و ذهب دنسه و صار بسيطا روحانيا - و بقي ما فيه من الجواهر الصافية النورانية في حد المراتب الروحانية مثل العوالم العلوية و بقي فيه جوهر كله قشر و دنس و خبث هذه كلماته. أقول قد انكشف و تبين من هذه الكلمات التي في غاية الحسن و الإتقان أن مذهب هذا الحكيم الرباني المشهور بين الناس بأنه دهري هو بعينه مذهب أفلاطن - و من تقدمه في حدوث العالم و خرابه و بواره و بقاء العالم الإلهي و الصور الربانية.

و أنه لما رأى و انكشف له اتصال أواخر هذا العالم بأوائل ذلك العالم اتصال المعلوم المفاض بعلة الفيضة و اتصال ذي الغاية بغايته و لحقوق الناس بكماله و تمامه - و ذلك العالم الربوبي باق بقاء الله دائم بديموميته حكم أحيانا بأولية هذا العالم بهذا المعنى كما يقال إن أبداننا باقية ببقاء نفوسنا مع أن البدن سائل زائل في كل آن كما علم.

فقوله بدهر هذا العالم ليس يعني به أن الصور الطبيعية الحسية التي للأفلاك و غيرها أزلية الأشخاص و الأعداد بل عنى به أن صورتها العقلية البسيطة الموجودة في علم الله باقية عنده غير دائرة بدثور هذه الحسيات المركبة و ذلك لأن الدثور يقتضي غاية و معادا غير دائر كما أن الحدوث يقتضي مبدأ و فاعلا غير كائن لا متناهي أن يكون لكل غاية غاية إلى لا نهاية أو أن يكون لكل مبدأ مبدأ لا إلى بداية ففي الطرفين لا بد و أن ينتهي الأشياء المتجددة إلى أمر لا بداية له و لا

نهاية له.

فإذن مرجع قوله إن العالم قديم على الوجه الذي مر تحقيقه إلى أن الصانع له قديم وهو المبدأ الذي منه بدو كل باد و المعاد الذي إليه أوب كل آتب فما ذكره قول حق و صواب بشرط أن يعلم قائله و يذعن بأن الصور العقلية الدائمة التي هي بواطن هذه الصور الدائرة الطبيعية ليست موجودات مستقلة الوجود مبائنة الذوات لوجود باريها و جاعلها الحق الأول ليلزم تعدد القدماء كما يقوله الصفاتية و لا حالة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٤٦

في ذات الأول ليلزم التكثُر في ذاته و لا أنها متحدة به تعالى عن ذلك في مرتبة ذاته - ليلزم الانقلاب له من الوجوب إلى الإمكان أو لها من الإمكان إلى الوجوب و الكل مستحيل.

بل الواجب واجب أبدا سرمدًا و الممكن ممكن دائما و الحق حق في الأزل و الباطل باطل لم يزل و هذا شيء لا يعرفه إلا أهل الأذواق و المواجيد و الراسخون في علم التوحيد على أن البرهان قائم كما أسلفناه على أن كل شوق و طلب غريزي يفضي بصاحبه إلى ما يطلبه و يحبه بالضرورة

فصل (٥) في نبذ من كلام أئمة الكشف و الشهود من أهل هذه الملة البيضاء في تجدد الطبيعة الجرمية الذي هو ملاك الأمر في دثور العالم و زواله

قد ذكرنا فيما سبق كثيرا من الآيات القرآنية الدالة على هذا المطلب الذي هو عمدة أصول الحكمة و الدين و هو مما يستفاد من الأحاديث المروية عن صاحب هذه الشريعة الماثورة عن أهل بيت العصمة و النبوة صلوات الله عليهم أجمعين.

منها كلام أمير المؤمنين ع في نهج البلاغة

: أذكركم الدنيا فإنها دار شخوص و محل تبغيض [تنغيص] ساكنها ظاعن و قاطننها بائن تميد بأهلها ميدان السفينة - يصفقها العواصف في لجج البحار

و منها أيضا قوله ع

: ما أصف من دار أولها عناء و آخرها فناء من ساعاها فائقته - و من استغنى عنها و اتته

هذا الكلام كما قبله في غاية البلاغة في الحكمة لا ينكشف حق معناه إلا على من أحكم القوانين الماضية و أمعن في الرياضات العقلية لطلب العلوم الإلهية.

و أما كلام أهل التصوف و المكاشفين

فقد قال المحقق المكاشف محيي الدين العربي في بعض أبواب الفتوحات المكية قال تعالى وَأَنَّ مِنْ شَيْءٍ إِلَّا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٤٧

عِنْدَنَا خَزَائِنُهُ وَ مَا نُنْزِلُهُ إِلَّا بِقَدَرٍ مَعْلُومٍ أي من اسمه الحكيم فالحكمة سلطان هذا الإنزال الإلهي و هو إخراج هذه الأشياء من هذه الخزائن إلى وجود أعيانها.

ثم قال بعد كلام طويناه فبالنظر إلى أعيانها هي موجودة عن عدم و بالنظر إلى كونها عند الله في هذه الخزائن.

ثم قال وأما قوله مَا عِنْدَكُمْ يَنْفَدُ صحيح في العلم لأن الخطاب منها لعين الجوهر - و الذي عنده أعني عند الجوهر من كل موجود إنما هو ما يوجد الله في محله من الصفات والأعراض والأكوان وهي في الزمان أو الحال الثاني من زمان وجودها أو حال وجودها ينعدم من عندنا وهو قوله مَا عِنْدَكُمْ يَنْفَدُ وَ مَا عِنْدَ اللَّهِ بَاقٍ وهو تجدد للجوهر الأمثال أو الأضداد دائما من هذه الخزائن.

و هذا معنى قول المتكلمين العرض لا يبقى زمانين وهو قول صحيح حر لا شبهة فيه لأنه بعث الممكنات. قال وأما صاحب النظر فما عنده خبر بشيء من هذا لأنه تنبيه نبوي لا نظر فكري - و صاحب النظر مقيد تحت سلطان فكره وليس للفكر فيه مجال.

و قال أيضا في الباب السابع والستين و ثلثمائة يحكى عن عروج وقع بحسب الباطن حين مخاطبته مع إدريس النبي ع بهذه العبارة - قلت له إني رأيت في واقعتي شخصا بالطواف أخبرني أنه من أجدادي و سمي نفسه فسألته عن زمان موته فقال أربعون ألف سنة فسألته عن آدم لما تقرر عندنا من التاريخ لمدته فقال لي عن أي آدم تسأل عن آدم الأقرب قلت بلى فقال صدق إني نبي الله و لا أرى للعالم مدة يقف عليها بجملة إلا أنه بالجملة لم يزل خالقا و لا يزال دنيا و آخرة و الآجال في المخلوق بانتهاء المدد لا في الخلق فالخلق مع الأنفاس بتجدد. فقلت له فما بقي لظهور الساعة فقال اقتربت الساعة للناس حسابهم و هم في غفلة معرضون.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٤٨

فقلت عرفني بشرط من شروط اقترابها فقال وجود آدم من شروطه فقلت فهل كان قبل الدنيا دار غيرها قال دار الوجود واحدة و الدار ما كانت دنيا و لا آخرة إلا بكم - و الآخرة ما تميزت إلا بكم و إنما الأمر في الأجسام أكوان و استحالات و إتيان و ذهاب لم يزل و لا يزال انتهى كلامه الشريف

الفن السادس

من علم الجواهر في المبادي والأسباب للطبيعات التي يتسلمه العالم الطبيعي أخذنا من العالم الإلهي على وجه الحكاية والتسليم وأما البرهان عليه فضمامه على ذمة العالم الرباني أخذنا من الله من جهة ملائكته المقربين الذين هم وسائط أمره في خلقه وفيه فصول

فصل (١) في تعريف الطبيعة

لا شبهة لنا في أن هذه الأجسام التي قبلنا قد يصدر عنها أفعال و انفعال و حركات و استحالات نجد بعضها من جهة أسباب غريبة خارجة مثل حركة الحجر إلى فوق و النار إلى تحت و مثل تسخن الماء و تبرد الهواء و نجد بعضها لا يستند إلى سبب غريب كحركة الحجر إلى تحت و حركة النار إلى فوق و كتبريد الماء و تسخين النار. و قريب من هذا استحالة البذور و النطف نباتا و حيوانا و نصافد أيضا من الحيوانات تصرفا إراديا في أنواع حركاتها و سكناتها من غير متصرف خارج عنها يصرفها هذه التصاريف و قاسر غريب يقسرها على هذه الأفاعيل. فهذا ما ارتسم في أذهاننا في أول النظر من غير أن يجزم أولا أن كلا من الوجهين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٤٩

صادرة بإرادة مريد أو لا بإرادة مريد وكلا منهما لازم طريقة واحدة لا ينحرف عنها أو غير لازم طريقة واحدة بل متفنن الطرق ولا أيضا أن هذه الأجسام التي ليست محركاتها من خارج مشهود لنا هل لها محرك خارج لا نحسه أم لا.

و على الأول هل من شأنه أن يحس حتى يكون محسوس الذات غير محسوس التأثير كمن شاهد انجذاب الحديد إلى جهة و لم ير مغناطيس يجذب الحديد أو عساه - أن يكون مفارق الذات غير محسوس البتة على أنه من الواضح الجلي لكل عاقل - أن الجسم بما هو جسم لا يجوز أن يفعل فعلا خاصا ولا أن يحرك تحريكا فالذي لا بد أن يتسلمه الطبيعي و يبرهن عليه الإلهي أن هذه الأجسام المتحركة هذه الحركات إنما يقع حركاتها و أفعالها عن قوى موجودة فيها هي مبادي آثارها و أفعالها.

فمنها قوة يصدر عنها الفعل و التغيير على نهج واحد من غير إرادة.

و منها قوة يصدر عنها كذلك مع إرادة.

و منها قوة متقننة الفعل و التحريك من غير إرادة.

و منها قوة كذلك مع إرادة و هكذا حال القسمة في جانب السكون بحسب الاحتمال العقلي.

فالأولى يسمى طبيعية بحسب هذا الاصطلاح و لا يخلو عنها جسم عندنا كما للحجر في هبوطه و سكونه في وسط الكل و معنى قولنا لا يخلو عنها جسم أنه ما من جسم إلا و يوجد فيه قوة مباشرة لفعل بالحركة أو السكون على نهج واحد بلا شعور لها في مرتبة وجودها الخاص بلا شرط أن لا يكون معها قوة أخرى فوقها كنفس أو عقل أو تكون و إذا كانت فسواء اتحدت هذه معها ضربا من الاتحاد أو لم يكن.

و الثانية يسمى نفسا فلكيا كما للكوكب في دورانه على نفسه عند محققي الحكماء.

و الثالثة تسمى نفسا نباتية كما للنبات في تغذيته و نشره و توليده.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٥٠

و الرابعة تسمى نفسا حيوانية كما للحيوان في إحساسه و مشيه و شهوته و غضبه.

و ربما قبل اسم الطبيعة على كل قوة يصدر عنها فعل بلا إرادة فتعم النفس النباتية و ربما قيل لمبدأ كل فعل بلا روية فتعم النفس الفلكية و غيرها حتى العنكبوت في نسج شبكتها و النحل في هندسة بيوتها إنه بالطباع لكن التي هي مبدأ للعلم الطبيعي الباحث عن أحوال المتغيرات هي الطبيعة بالمعنى الأول التي لا يخلو عنها جسم و ليس على الطبيعي أن يتكلف إثباتها بل عليه أن يلتمس إثباتها عن صاحب الفلسفة الأولى.

و على الطبيعي أن يعرف تحقيق ماهيتها و لا يتعرض لمن ينكر وجودها إذ فيه كلفة شاقة كما مر ذكرها من قبل من جهة أن لكل متحرك محركا.

فالتطبيعي حكمه في هذه المسألة و أمثالها حكم المحل القابل و الرجل الإلهي حكمه فيها حكم المعطي الفاعل و قد حدت الطبيعة بأنها مبدأ أول لحركة ما هو فيه و سكونه بالذات لا بالعرض و هذا الحد موروث من الإمام الأول لتعليم الفلسفة و شرحه كما وجد في الشفاء أن معنى قولنا مبدأ أول للحركة أي مبدأ فاعلي يصدر عنه التحريك في غيره أعني الجسم المتحرك و قد وقعت الإشارة منا سابقا أن معنى الفاعل في استعمال الطبيعيين و في الأفعال الطبيعية هو الذي يكون تأثيره زمانيا - و على التدرج.

ثم ينبغي أن يعلم أن الطبيعة لا يجب أن يكون في كل شيء مبدأ للحركة - والسكون معا ولا أيضا يجب كونها مبدأ للحركة المكانية فقط بل المراد أنها مبدأ لكل أمر ذاتي يكون للشيء من الحركة إن كانت والسكون إن كان و سواء كانت الحركة في أين أو كم أو كيف أو جوهر أو نحو آخر.

و معنى قوله أول أي مباشر قريب لا واسطة بينه و بين تحريكه فعسى أن يكون النفس مبدأ لبعض حركات الأجسام التي هي فيها و لكن بواسطة الطبيعة حتى أن قوما اعتقدوا أن النفس في ذوات الأنفس تفعل حركة الانتقال بتوسط الطبيعة.

و هذا حق عندنا في الحركات الانتقالية الإرادية التي تكون للحيوانات دون

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٥١

ما تكون كسقوط أبدانها من فوق إلى تحت كما لوحناه إليك سابقا من أن مباشر كل حركة هو الطبيعة سواء استقلت أو استخدمت للنفس.

و أما الشيخ فقد أنكر ذلك و استبعده حيث قال و لا أرى الطبيعة يستحيل محرقة للأعضاء خلاف ما توجه ذاتها طاعة للنفس و لو استحالت الطبيعة كذلك لما حدث الإعياء عند تكليف النفس إياها غير مقتضاها و لا تجاذب مقتضى النفس و مقتضى الطبيعة و قد مر اندفاع ما ذكره.

و حل الإشكال بأن الطبيعة ليست واحدة بالنوع و وحدتها جنسية و التي في العناصر و المعادن غير التي يتوسط بين النفس و تحريكاتها الأينية و الكمية و الكيفية.

ثم العجب منه أنه جوز مثل هذا التوسط و الاستخدام في غير التحريكات المكانية و لم يجوز فيها و إن كان الذي جوزه على طور غير الطور الذي نحن عليه لأن القوى النباتية و الحيوانية عنده أعراض و كفيات فعلية أو انفعالية و عندنا جواهر صورية و قوله هو ما فيه ليفرق بين الطبيعة و الصناعة و القواسر.

و أما قوله بالذات فقد حمل على وجهين أحدهما بالقياس إلى المحرك و الآخر بالقياس إلى المتحرك فمعناه على الوجه الأول أن الطبيعة تحرك لذاتها لا عن تسخير قاسر فيستحيل أن لا يحرك حين خلوها عن مانع حركة غير الحركة التي لأجل قاسر - و معناه على الوجه الآخر أن الطبيعة تحرك لأمر يتحرك عن ذاته لا عن خارج.

و قوله لا بالعرض أيضا يحمل على وجهين أحدهما بالقياس إلى الفاعل و الثاني بالقياس إلى القابل فالأول أن الطبيعة مبدأ لما كان حركته بالحقيقة لا بالعرض و الحركة بالعرض مثل حركة ساكن السفينة بحركة السفينة.

و الثاني أنه إذا حركت الطبيعة صنما من نحاس فهي تحركه بما هو صنم بالعرض - لأن تحريكها بالذات للنحاس لا للصنم و لذلك لا يكون الطبيب طبيا إذا عالج نفسه - و حرك الطب ما هو فيه لأنه فيه لا من حيث هو مريض بل من حيث هو طبيب فلم يكن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٥٢

برؤه عن المرض لأنه طبيب و لكن لأنه متعالج فإنه من حيث هو معالج شيء و من حيث هو متعالج شيء لأنه بالحيثية الأولى صانع للعلاج و بالحيثية الأخرى قابل له مريض.

تبصرة

قد سنح لبعض الواردين بعد السابقين أن يستقصر هذا التحديد و توخى بعد استقصاره أن يزيد عليه زيادة. فقال إن هذا التعريف إنما يدل على هذه الطبيعة لا على جوهر ذاتها بل على نسبتها إلى ما يصدر عنها و يجب أن يزداد في حدها فيقال إن الطبيعة قوة سارية في الأجسام - تفيد التخليق و التشكيل و تحفظهما و هي مبدأ لكذا و كذا. و الذي عليه الشيخ أن هذه الزيادة تكلف مستغنى عنه و أن ما فعله ردي فاسد - غير محتاج إليه و لا إلى بدله. فقال أما الزيادة التي رأى بعض اللاحقين بالأوائل أن يزيدها فقد فعل باطلا فإن القوة التي كالجنس في رسم الطبيعة هي القوة الفاعلية و إذا حدثت حدث بأنها مبدأ الحركة من آخر في آخر بأنه آخر و ليس معنى القوة إلا مبدأ تحريك يكون في الشيء و ليس معنى السريان إلا الكون في الشيء. فإن المحل إذا كان أمرا منقسما كان الذي يحله من حيث ذاته أيضا منقسما ساريا فيه و ليس معنى التخليق و التشكيل إلا داخلا في معنى التحريك و ليس معنى حفظ الخلق و الأشكال إلا داخلا في التسكين فيكون هذا الرجل قد كرر أشياء كثيرة من غير حاجة إليه و هو لا يشعر. و مع ذلك فإن هذا المتدارك لخلل هذا الرسم بزعمه قد حسب أنه إذا قال قوة فقد دل على ذات غير مضافة إلى شيء و ما فعل فإن القوة مفهومها هو مبدأ التحريك و التسكين لا غير فالقوة لا ترسم إلا من جهة النسبة الإضافية هذا تلخيص كلامه.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٥٣

أقول كون الطبيعة مبدأ لأفعالها الذاتية من الحركة و غيرها ليس على سبيل أن يكون من الصفات العارضة لذاتها بعد ذاتها كالمضاحك و الكاتب للإنسان بل وجودها في نفسها و وجودها مبدأ لكذا و كذا شيء واحد بلا تغاير. فالمذكور في تعريفه ليس كما يفهم من كلام الشيخ أنها حد بحسب مفهوم الاسم رسم بحسب الحقيقة و الذات و كذا ينبغي أن يعلم أن كون هذا المبدأ طبيعة و قوة و صورة و إن كان بحسب مفهومات متغايرة لكن قد علمت أن تكثر المفهومات و تغايرها لا يقتضي تغاير نحو الوجود الذي هو مصداق الجميع. فهذه القوة في كل واحد من أنواع الجسم شيء واحد جسماني يترتب عليه بها أفعاله و آثاره الذاتية الجسمانية من الحركات و الاستحالات و غيرها سواء كانت متحصلة القوام بجوهر نفساني أو لا و سيأتي لهذا شرح

فصل (٢) في نسبة الطبيعة إلى ما فوقها من الصورة و النفس و إلى ما تحتها من المادة و الحركة و الأعراض

[نسبة الطبيعة إلى الصورة]

قال الشيخ في الشفاء إن لكل جسم طبيعة و مادة و صورة و أعراضا فطبيعته هو القوة التي يصدر عنها تحركه أو تغييره الذي يكون عن ذاته و كذلك سكونه و ثباته - و صورته هي ماهيته التي بها هو ما هو و مادته هي المعنى الحامل لماهيته و الأعراض هي التي إذا تصورت مادته بصورته و تمت نوعيته لزمّت أو عرضت له من خارج و ربما كانت طبيعة الشيء هي بعينها صورته و ربما لم يكن.

أما في البسائط فإن الطبيعة هي الصورة بعينها فإذا قيست إلى الحركات و الأفعال - سميت طبيعة و إذا قيست إلى تقويمها للنوع سميت صورة فصورة الماء مثلا قوة أقامت هيولى الماء نوعا هو الماء و تلك غير محسوسة و عنها تصدر الآثار

المحسوسة من البرودة و الثقل و هو الميل الذي لا يكون للجسم و هو في حيزه الطبيعي فيكون فعلها في

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٥٤

جوهر الماء إما بالقياس إلى المتأثر عنه فالبرودة وإما بالقياس إلى المؤثر فيه المشكل له فالرطوبة و أما بالقياس إلى مكانه الغريب فالتحريك و بالقياس إلى مكانه المناسب فالتسكين و أما في المركبات فالطبيعة كشيء من الصورة و لا يكون كنه الصورة.

فإن تلك الأجسام لا تصير هي ما هي بالقوة المحركة لها بالذات إلى جهة وحدها- وإن كانت لا بد لها في أن يكون هي ما هي من تلك القوة فكان تلك القوة جزءا من صورتها و كان صورتها تتجمع من عدة معان فيتحد كالإنسانية فإنها تتضمن قوى الطبيعة- و قوى النفس النباتية و الحيوانية و النطق.

و إذا اجتمعت هذه كلها نوعا من الاجتماع أعطيت الماهية الإنسانية و أما كيفية نحو هذا الاجتماع فالأولى أن يبين في الفلسفة الأولى هذا ملخص كلامه و فيه أمور صحيحة على طور حكمتنا المشرقية و أمور متزلزلة كما يظهر على من تأمل و تدبر في مواضع من كلامنا فقولنا صورة الشيء هي ماهيته التي بها هو ما هو و مادته هي المعنى الحامل لماهيته كلام حر صحيح يجب التعويل عليه في جميع المواضع- و هذا الذي ذكره أصل يبتني عليه كثير من مقاصدنا سيما التي في علم المعاد- فكل حقيقة نوعية فهي بصورتها التي مقوم نوعها و محصل جنسها و يتفرع عليه أمور. منها كون النفس الإنسانية في ذاتها مصداقا لجميع المعاني التي توجد في الحيوان و النبات و المعدن على وجه الإطلاق. و منها مسألة اتحاد العاقل بالمعقول.

و منها جواز حركة الاشتداد في الجوهر و أما قوله و ربما كانت طبيعة الشيء- هي بعينها صورته كالبسائط و ربما لم يكن كالمركبات فلا يخلو من اضطراب أما أولا فلأن قوله كالبسائط عنى به العناصر الأربعة كما يعلم من مواضع آخر من كلامه من أن الفلك لا طبيعة له و كذا الكواكب لا طبيعة لها و إنما لها ميل فقط و هو من الكيفيات كالثقل و الخفة.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٥٥

و فيه ما مر من أن الأفلاك و كذا الكواكب لها طبيعة خامسة. و أما ثانيا فقولنا ربما لم يكن إلى آخره أراد به أن المركب الحيواني و النباتي صورته النوعية هي نفسه و هي بالعدد غير طبيعته و كأنه أراد هاهنا بطبيعة الحيوان مثلا صور العناصر التي هي أجزاء مادته. و أنت تعلم أن شيئا منها ليست طبيعة الحيوان بما هو حيوان و لا النبات بما هو نبات و إن أراد به غير تلك الطبائع بل التي هي مبادي حركات النشو أو الإرادة- فالحق أنها عين الصورة الحيوانية و النباتية وجودا و هوية و غيرها معنى و ماهية و قوله فالطبيعة كشيء من الصورة و لا يكون كنه الصورة و كذا قوله و كان تلك القوة جزءا من صورتها يحتمل وجهين أحدهما ما هو المختار عندنا و هو أن معنى الطبيعة المذكورة أحد معان يتضمنها الصورة النوعية التي للمركب فتلك الصورة مع تأدها يتضمن مع تلك القوة من كونها مبدأ قريبا للحركات و الاستحالات الناشئة عما هي فيه بالذات لا بالعرض و إن جاز وجود تلك القوة مفردة في مادة أخرى بالنوع لا بالشخص باعتبار أخذها بشرط لا شيء آخر.

و ثانيهما و هو الذي قصده الشيخ كما يظهر من مواضع أخرى من كلامه و هو أن هذه القوة توجد في مادة المركب من الأسطقسات و معنى الصورة محمول على المركب لأنها تتحد مع الفصل باعتبار أخذ معناها لا بشرط شيء و الفصل محمول على المركب و معنى الحمل هو الاتحاد في الوجود فيكون تلك القوة جزءا من الصورة بهذا الوجه.

و هذا و إن كان وجهها صحيحا إلا أن النظر يعطي أن صورة الشيء التي هي مبدأ فصله الأخير يتضمن وجوده البسيط جميع المعاني الموجودة في القوى التي تحتها بوجه أعلى و أبسط و كذا قوله و كان صورتها يجتمع من عدة معان فيتحد إلى آخره يجري فيه الاحتمالان المذكوران.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٥٦

و كذا الكلام في قوله و أما كيفية نحو هذا الاجتماع فالأولى أن يبين في الفلسفة الأولى فإن الذي يستفاد من كلامه في غير هذا الموضوع في كيفية هذا الاجتماع المناسب لسائر ما قاله هو أن صورة كل نوع هو مركب من عدة قوى كالإنسان مثلا يجب كونها مبدأ لسائر قواه على ترتيب و نظام كأنها يجمع الكل في واحد لكونها مرتبطا بواحد على وجه التناسب و الترتيب و الترتيب يجعل الكثير شبيها بواحد.

و أما الذي ينتهي إليه النظر العميق أن الصورة كالصورة الإنسانية مثلا و هي نفس الناطقة على وحدتها جامعة لجميع قواها الحيوانية و النباتية و المعدنية على وجه مبسوط شريف و كذا الكلام في كل صورة بالقياس إلى ما دونها.

فإن قلت إذا كانت الصورة مبدأ فاعليا لسائر القوى قاهرا عليها فيلزم أن لا تنفعل عنها و لا يستكمل بها.

قلنا هذه الصورة المقومة للمواد و قواها ليست في قوة الوجود كالمبادي العقلية حتى يتبرى عن المواد و قواها كل البراءة فلكل منها جهتان جهة حاجة و استكمال و جهة غناء و تكميل.

و قد مر في مباحث التلازم بين المادة و الصورة كيفية تحقق هاتين الجهتين - فالصورة مقومة للمادة من جهة أصل حقيقتها بإعانة جوهر عقلي يتصل به ضربا من الاتصال و هي مفتقرة إلى المادة في عوارضها الانفعالية و هيئتها المسماة بالمشخصات - و كلامنا في الصورة من جهة أصل حقيقتها لا من جهة تأخرها عن المادة و افتقارها إليها فإنها ليست من تلك الحيثية صورة بل هيئة و لا المادة من تلك الحيثية مادة بل موضوعا و هكذا الحال في كل صورة و مادة حتى النفس و البدن فإن النفس محصلة للبدن و قواه من حيث اتصالها بالمبدأ الفعال على نحو الشركة دون الاستقلال إلا مع تمام الاتصال و حينئذ يستغني عن البدن كل الاستغناء و هي قائمة بالبدن مفتقرة إليه في طلب الكمال من حيث انفصالها عن المبدأ و من جهة قصورها و نقصها هذا.

[نسبة الطبيعة إلى النفس]

و لنرجع إلى ما كنا فيه فنقول قد علمت نسبة الطبيعة إلى الصورة و منه

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٥٧

يستفاد نسبته إلى النفس كما أو مانا إليه أما البسائط كالفلك و ما فيه فإن طبيعتها و نفسها شيء واحد في الوجود و ذلك الواحد ذو شئون و درجات بعضها عقلية و بعضها نفسانية مدركة للجزئيات و بعضها طبيعية سارية في الجسم مباشرة للحركة الدورية التي على نهج واحد من غير إرادة بحسب هذه المرتبة أعني القوة السارية في الجسم و إن كانت الحركة

إرادية بحسب قوة نفسانية يتحد بها هذه القوة الطبيعية ضربا من الاتحاد- وهذه القوة القريبة من فعل الحركة حادثة شيئا فشيئا متجددة حسب تجدد الحركة- كما سبق تحقيقه

و أما نسبتها إلى المادة

فالتقويم بوجه و التخصيص بوجه و التنوع بوجه كما علمت في مباحث الماهية-

و أما نسبته إلى الحركة و السكون

فلاستلزام و الاستتباع من غير تخلل جعل مستأنف بينهما و أما نسبتها إلى الأعراض ففي بعضها الإفادة و التحصيل و في بعضها التهيئة و الإعداد.

و أيضا فمن الأعراض ما يعرض للجسم الطبيعي من خارج

و منها ما يعرض من جوهر الشيء فبعضها تابع للمادة كالسواد للزنجي و انتصاب القامة و حسن الشكل و الخلقة و بعضها تابع للصورة كالذكاء و الفرح و حسن الخلق بالضم و غير ذلك في الناس و قوة الضحك. قال الشيخ في بيانه إن هذه الأمور و إن لم يكن بد من وجودها أن يكون في مادة فإن منبعها من الصورة و مبدئها و ستجد أعراضا تتبع الصورة و ينبعث منها أو يعرض لها بوجه آخر لا يحتاج لها إلى مشاركة المادة و ذلك إذا حقق لك في علم النفس أقول جميع الأعراض تابعة للصورة و هي منبعها و مبدؤها إلا أن الصور متفاوتة قوة و ضعفا و تجردا و تجسما و ليس شأن المادة إلا القبول و الانفعال فلا فرق بين عرض و عرض في ذلك- بل كل عرض نسبتها إلى الصورة بالوجود و الصدور و إلى المادة بالاستعداد و القبول لكن بعض الصور قريبة الذات من أفق المادة الجسمانية كالصور المعدنية و النباتية فكذا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٥٨

الأعراض التابعة لها كالأشكال و الألوان و بعضها بعيدة الذات عنها كالنفوس سيما الإنسانية و الفلكية فكذا الأعراض الناشئة منها.

و لما كانت تلك الصور العالية الشريفة حيثما وجدت وجدت معها في المادة صور و قوى متوسطة بينها و بين المادة المتوسطة السافلة الجسمية فلا جرم يوجد منها في تلك المادة أعراض متفاوتة القرب و البعد منها فلاجل ذلك يقع الاشتباه فيقال لبعضها إنها تابعة للصورة و لبعضها إنها تابعة للمادة و التحقيق ما أشرنا إليه.

و بالجملة فأعلى الصور ما لا مادة له أصلا لا بحسب الذات و لا من جهة أفعالها القريبة كالعقول القادسة فكذاك أعراضها التابعة لأنها المعاني الكلية و الصفات العقلية- كالعلم الكلي و القدرة التي ليس معها شوب تغير و الإرادة التي هي عناية محضة- لا التفات معها إلى السافل و بعدها صور لا تعلق لها بالمادة ذاتا و لها تعلق إضافي من جهة أفعالها المتغيرة الزمانية كالنفوس الفلكية و نحوها و كذلك أعراضها التابعة كالعلوم النفسانية المتغيرة و الإرادات المتجددة.

و بعد هاتين المرتبتين صور قوية التعلق بالمواد شديدة النزول إليها على طبقات متفاوتة في النزول و غايتها في النزول ما تكون سارية في جميع أجزاء المادة- التي فيها على نسبة واحدة من غير تفاوت كالطبائع الأسطقسية و المعدنية فإنها ذات أجزاء مقدارية كأجزاء الجسم و أرفع منها قليلا الصورة النباتية فإنها ببعض أجزاء النبات أربط و أعلق دون البعض فلها شيء من المادة كالأصل لا يبقى الصورة أعني النفس النباتية بدونه فإذا قلع يجف النبات و يفسد كله و لها شيء

كالفروع إذا قطعت لم يفسد صورة الكل ما دام الأصل باقيا و أيضا يتبدل أجزاء النبات بحسب التغذية و التحليل و النفس باقية ضربا من البقاء و أرفع درجة من صورة النبات صورة الحيوان - فإن بعضها يكاد أن يبقى عند فساد البدن بشخصه بقاء شخصيا.

و بالجملة فقد وضح غاية الوضوح أن قوام كل مركب نوعي طبيعي بصورته - أو ما هو كالصورة أقوى و أكد من قوامه بمادته أو ما هو كالمادة حتى يصح أن يقال

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٥٩

طبيعة الشيء هي صورته و ما أشد سخافة رأي طائفة من المتقدمين حيث فضلوا جانب المادة في التقويم على جانب الصورة متمسكين بحجة واهية هي أنه لو كانت الصورة هي الطبيعة في الشيء لكان السرير إذا غصن و صار بحيث يفرع غصنا و ينبت فرع سريرا - و ليس كذلك بل يرجع إلى طبيعة الخشبية.

و هذا القائل كما ذكره الشيخ كأنه رأى أن الطبيعة هي المادة و لا كل مادة بل المحفوظ ذاتها في كل تغير و كأنه لم يفرق بين الصورة الصناعية و الطبيعية - و لا أيضا بين العارض و الصورة و لم يدر أن مقوم الشيء يجب أن لا يكون منه بد عند وجود الشيء لا عند عدمه أيضا بل الصورة للشيء ما يجعل به الشيء هو ما هو بالفعل و مادته هي ما به يكون بالقوة فلا يفيد المادة وجود الشيء بالفعل بل إن أفادت فإنما أفادت قوة وجود الشيء لا غير.

ألا ترى أن الطين و اللبنة إذا وجدت كان للبيت وجود بالقوة و أما كونه بالفعل فمستفاد من صورته حتى لو جاز أن يقوم صورة البيت لا في مادة لاستغنى عن اللبنة و ما يجري مجراها فالحاجة لبعض الصور إلى المادة لنقص وجودها الشخصي - و ضعفها لا لأجل أصل حقيقتها النوعية.

و سيظهر لك في مباحث المعاد ظهورا أتم مما سبق في مباحث المثل الإلهية - أن جميع هذه النوعيات المركبة لها وجود صوري في عالم مقداري مجرد عن هذه المواد و استعداداتها و ذلك العالم كله صورة بلا مادة و الوجود فيه فعل بلا قوة و كمال بلا نقص و قرار بلا حركة و دوام بلا تجدد و الحركة لا توجد في ذلك العالم أصلا لا فيها نصب و لا فيها من لغوب.

و اعلم أن هاهنا ألفاظا مشتقة يستعملها أهل العلم فيقال الطبيعة و الطبيعي و ما له الطبيعة و ما بالطبيعة و ما بالطبع و ما يجري مجرى الطبيعي أما الطبيعة فقد يستعمل على معانٍ متقاربة المأخذ عندنا و أليق ما يذكر منها ثلاثة - فيقال الطبيعة للمبدأ الذي قد عرفتها أعني ما يباشر الحركة و الاستحالات

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٦٠

و مقابلاتها و يقال لما يتقوم به جوهر كل شيء و يقال طبيعة لحقيقة كل شيء و ذاته.

و أما الطبيعي فهو كل منسوب إلى الطبيعة و ذلك إما ما فيه الطبيعة و إما ما عن الطبيعة فالأول هو المتصور بالطبيعة أو الذي للطبيعة كالأجزاء من صورة و أما الثاني فالآثار و الحركات و غيرها من المكان و الزمان و ما يجانسها و أما ما له الطبيعة فهو الذي له في نفسه مثل هذا المبدأ أعني الجسم المتحرك بطباعه و الساكن بطباعه.

و أما بالطبيعة فهو كل ما وجوده بالفعل عن الطبيعة بالوجود الأول كالأشخاص الطبيعية أو بالوجود الثاني كالأنواع

الطبيعية.

و أما بالطبع فهو كل ما يلزم الطبيعة كيف كان على مشاكلة القصد كالأشخاص و الأنواع الجوهرية أو لازما لها كالأعراض اللازمة و الحادثة و أما ما يجري مجرى الطبيعي فمثل الحركات و السكونات التي يوجبها الطبيعة بنفسها لذاتها لا خارجة عن مقتضاها و الخارج عن مقتضاها ربما كان عنها نفسها بسبب قابل فعلها و هو المادة. فإن الرأس المسفط و الإصبع الزائدة ليس جاريا مجرى الطبيعي ولكنه بالطبع و بالطبيعة بمعنى أن سببه الطبيعة و لكن لا لنفسها بل لعارض هو حال المادة بحسب كمية أو كيفية يقبل ذلك

حكمة مشرقية

اعلم أن الطبيعة قد تكون جزئية و قد توجد كلية و الأولى هي الطبيعة الخاصة بشخص شخص و الثانية هي التي توجد مفارقة الهوية عن المواد الجزئية- نسبتها إلى هذه الشخصيات نسبة الفاعل إلى فعله و نسبة الأصل إلى فروعه و الكلي بهذا المعنى غير الماهية الكلية التي لا توجد بالاستقلال في الأعيان بل تابعة في الوجود لوجود الأشياء التي تحمل هي عليها بل إنما هي عينها في الوجود و غيرها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٦١

بحسب التصور عند التحليل و أما الكلي الذي كلامنا فيه فهو صورة عقلية مجرد الوجود و المعنى جميعا عن المواد الجزئية.

و الشيخ قد أنكر وجودها في الأعيان حيث قال لا وجود إلا للقوى المختلفة التي في القوابل و لم تكن النسبة متحدة ثم انقسمت نعم لها نسبة إلى شيء واحد و النسبة إلى الشيء الواحد الذي هو المبدأ لا يرفع الاختلاف الذاتي بين الأشياء و لا يقوم المنسوبات مجردة بأنفسها بل لا وجود للطبيعة بهذا المعنى لا في ذات المبدأ تعالى. فإنه من المحال أن يكون في ذاته شيء غريب عن ذاته و لا في طريق السلوك إلى الأشياء كأنه فائض لكنه بعد لم يصل و لا له وجود في الأشياء متحد بلا اختلاف بل طبيعة كل شيء آخر بالنوع أو بالعدد انتهى.

أقول قد استقصينا الكلام فيما سبق في إثبات أن لكل طبيعة نوعية صورة واحدة عقلية في عالم المفارقات نسبتها إلى هذه الطبائع الجزئية نسبة الكمال إلى النقص و نسبة الأشد إلى الأضعف فلا نعيد ذكره.

و العجب أن الشيخ معترف بأن للطبائع الجزئية غايات و أن الغاية في تعاقب الأشخاص هي بقاء النوع و ذكر أن الكلي ربما كانت كلية بحسب نوع و ربما كانت كلية على الإطلاق و كلاهما لا وجود لهما في الأعيان ذواتا قائمة إلا في التصور لا وجود إلا للجزئي.

أما أحدهما فهو ما نعقله من مبدأ مقتضي التدبير الواجب في استحفاظ النوع- و الثاني ما نعقله من مبدأ مقتضي التدبير الواجب في استحفاظ الكل على نظامه.

فنقول إذا لم يكن للصورة الكلية وجود عقلي مستقل في الأعيان فأي معنى لاستحفاظه في هذا العالم من جهة نسبة الجزئيات إليه و ذكر أيضا في الإلهيات في فصل إثبات الغاية في حل شبهة من أبطل الغاية في أشخاص الكائنات التي لا يتناهى حيث لا ينتهي إلى غاية بهذه العبارة.

و أما أشخاص الكائنات الغير المتناهية فليست هي بغايات ذاتية في الطبيعة و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٦٢

لكن الغاية الذاتية هو أن يوجد مثلاً الجوهر الذي هو الإنسان أو الفرس أو النحلة - وأن يكون هذا الوجود وجوداً دائماً ثابتاً و كان هذا ممتنعاً في الواحد المشار إليه - لأن كل كائن فاسد فاستبقى بالنوع و الغرض الأول هو بقاء الطبيعة الإنسانية مثلاً فهو العلة التمامية لفعل الطبيعة الكلية و هو واحد.

لكن هذا الواحد لا بد في حصوله باقياً من أن يكون أشخاص بعد أشخاص بلا نهاية فيكون لا تناهي الأشخاص غرضاً على المعنى الضروري أقول و من تأمل في كلاميه أحدهما أن لا وجود للطبائع النوعية مستقلة و الآخر أن الغاية و الغرض الأصلي في فعل المبدأ الفاعلي هي الطبيعة النوعية دون الأشخاص إلا على وجه التبعية و على قسم من الضروري المذكور في موضعه لحكم بالاضطراب و الحيرة فإن الغاية بالحقيقة و التي يؤمها القصد و الغرض بالذات يجب أن تكون موجودة في الأعيان وجوداً أقوى من وجود ما لا يؤمها القصد من الفاعل إلا بالعرض و على وجه الاستتباع

فصل (٣) في أن فعل الطبيعة بالذات سواء كانت كلية أو جزئية ليس إلا الخير و الصلاح لا الشر و الفساد

قال الشيخ إن كثيراً مما هو خارج عن مجرى الطبيعة الجزئية ليس بخارج عن مجرى الطبيعة الكلية فإن الموت و إن كان غير مقصود في الطبيعة الجزئية التي في زيد فهو مقصود في الطبيعة الكلية من وجوه - أحدها لتخلص النفس عن البدن للسعادة في السعداء و هي المقصودة و لها خلق البدن و إذا اختلفت فليس بسبب من الطبائع بل لسوء الاختيار و ليكون لقوم آخرين حالهم في استحقاق الوجود حال هذا الشخص وجوداً فإنه إن خلد هؤلاء - لم يسع للآخرين مكان و لا قوة و في قوة المادة فصل للآخرين و هم يستحقون مثل هذا الوجود و ليسوا أولى بالعدم الدائم من هؤلاء بالخلود.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٦٣

فهذه و غيرها مقاصد في الطبيعة الكلية و كذا الإصبع الزائدة هي مقصودة في الطبيعة الكلية التي تقتضي أن تكتسي كل مادة ما تستعد لها من الصور و لا تعطل فإذا فضلت مادة تستحق الصورة الإصبعية لم تحرم و لم تضع انتهى أقول فيه موضع بحث من وجوه - أحدها ما مر من لزوم التدافع في كلامه حيث أثبت هاهنا وجود طبيعة كلية في الأعيان و قد أنكرها بعينه فيما مر.

و ثانيها أن مثل الموت و الفساد و ما يجري مجراها غير منسوب بالذات إلى الطبيعة الكلية كانت أو جزئية فإن منشأ الموت أن الطبائع الشخصية متوجهة إلى كمالاتها بحركاتها الجوهرية التي مرت الإشارة إلى ثبوتها فإذا انتقلت الطبيعة الجزئية من فطرتها الأولى إلى كمال صوري آخر و غاية ذاتية أخرى يطراً الزوال على نشأتها الأولى لطريان نشأتها الأخرى قبل أنها فسدت أو ماتت و ليس الفساد و لا الموت فعل الطبيعة بالذات و على سبيل القصد بل الغرض على سبيل التبعية.

و ثالثها أن الذي ذكره سبباً لفعل الموت من الطبيعة الكلية من إيصال النفس إلى السعادة الأخروية مختص بالنفوس الإنسانية و لا يجري ما ذكره في النفوس الحيوانية - فضلاً عن النباتية مع أن الموت أو الفساد لحقها أيضاً من جهة الطبيعة.

و رابعها أن تلك السعادة على ما قرره في بحث المعاد حسب ما ذهب إليه هو و أكثر أتباع المعلم الأول عقلية صرفة فهي

لا تحصل إلا لجماعة من النفوس الإنسانية - هي أقل عددا من البواقى والذى يفعلها الطبيعة الكلية من الغايات الذاتية لا بد وأن يكون عاما أو أكثرها كما مر في بحث الغاية فلو كان قضاء الموت من الطبيعة لبلوغ النفس إلى تلك السعادة لزم أن يكون جميع الناس أو أكثرهم سعداء ولا يكون الشقي إلا النادر منهم وليس الأمر كذلك عندهم. فالحق أن جميع الطبائع متوجهة لذاتها إلى كمالاتها وغاياتها والتخلف عن البلوغ إما لقسر قاسر أو عروض قاطع أو قصور طبيعة وأن حكمة عروض الموت ليست

الحكمة المتعالية فى الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٦٤

مقصورة على البلوغ إلى السعادة وأن السعادة العقلية غير مطلق الكمال والفعلية - وأن جميع النفوس المفارقة عن هذه الأبدان لها وجود آخر أشد وأكد من هذا الوجود وتأكد الوجود لا ينافي الشقاوة والنكال كما سيأتي بيانه في علم المعاد

فصل (٤) فى موضوع العلم الطبيعى ومبادئه

قد تقرر في علم الميزان وفي فن البرهان منه أن العلوم منها كلية ومنها جزئية - والمراد من العلم الكلي ما يبحث فيه أحوال الموجود بما هو موجود وعوارضه الذاتية التي تلحقه من غير أن يحتاج إلى أن يصير نوعا مقداريا أو عدديا أو نوعا واقعا في التغير كالعلمين الآخرين أعني التعليمي والطبيعي فالطبيعي علم جزئي ولكل علم جزئي موضع خاص جزئي.

فموضوع العلم الطبيعى هو الجسم المحسوس من حيث هو واقع في التغير - والمبحوث عنها فيه هي الأعراض اللاحقة له من هذه الحثية سواء كانت صورا أو أعراضا أو نسبا ويسمى كلها طبيعيات من جهة نسبتها إلى القوة التي تسمى طبيعة كما قد عرفت فبعضها موضوعات لها وبعضها آثار وحركات تصدر عنها ولا شك أن للأمور الطبيعية مباد وأسباب.

وقد ثبت أن العلم بذى السبب لا يحصل إلا من جهة العلم بسببه فلا سبيل إلى تحقيق معرفة هذه الأمور الطبيعية إلا بعد الوقوف على معرفة مبادئها وأسبابها وتلك المبادي لا يخلو إما مباد لكافتها ورمتها فيشترك فيها الجميع أو لبعضها دون بعض.

أما التي تعم جميعها وتشترك فيها الكل وهي المبادي لموضوعها المشترك - ولأحوالها المشتركة فلا يمكن إثباتها إذا احتاجت إلى الإثبات في صناعة الطبيعيين - كما علم في فن البرهان من الميزان بل إثباتها على ذمة صاحب العلم الكلي وليس على الطبيعى إلا قبول وجودها وضعها وتصور ماهيتها إنية وأما المبادي التي لجزئي جزئي منها

الحكمة المتعالية فى الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٦٥

من غير اشتراك الجميع فيها فلا يبعد أن يفيد العلم الطبيعى إثباتها إنية و ماهية معا. ثم إن الأشياء الطبيعية إذا كانت لها مباد عامة مشتركة وأخرى جزئية مختصة - مثل مباد النمو والحس فطريق التعلم والتعليم فيها أن يتبدى في السلوك مما هو أعم - وينتهي إلى ما هو أخص وهذا في مبادي القوام والحد معلوم لكل من له أدنى بصيرة - فإنك إذا أردت أن تعرف ماهية الإنسان بحدده وحقيقته فمعرفتك لجنسه وهو جزؤه المادي أقدم من

معرفتكم لنوعه فثبت أن العالم أعرف عند العقل من الخاص.
و من ارتاضت نفسه بالفلسفة الإلهية يعرف أن مبادي الوجود أيضا كالفاعل و الغاية أقدم تعرفا في ذاتها من معلولاتها و كانا قد أوضحنا هذا فيما قبل.

و بالجملة المنهج الأشرف في التعليم أن يكون السلوك العلمي مطابقا للسلوك الوجودي النازل من الأعلى إلى الأسفل و من الأعم الأشمل إلى الأخص الأقل فمن أراد أن يعرف الأمور الطبيعية فينبغي له أن يأخذ أولا من مبادي الطبيعة المشتركة إلى تلك الطبيعة و أحوالها و منها إلى الطبائع المختصة و أحوالها من جهة مبادئها الغير المشتركة إذ الأمور العامة أعرف عند عقولنا من الأمور الخاصة.

و أما عند الطبيعة فإن كانت جزئية فالشخص الجزئي أعرف عندها من المعنى النوعي - و بعده المعنى الجنسي فإن المقصود في الطبيعة الجزئية ليس أن يوجد حيوانا مطلقا و لا جسما مطلقا بل أن يوجد أولا جسما خاصا ثم حيوانا خاصا ثم إنسانا و هكذا إلى أن ينتهي إلى حقيقة خاصة جامعة لكل كمال في الطبيعة و أما المقصود في الطبيعة الكلية بالمعنى الذي حققناه فهو أولا و بالذات وجود ما هو أعلى و أشرف منها في الحيطه و الجمعية - ثم ما يليه على وجه التبعية و اللزوم و هكذا إلى أن ينتهي في النزول إلى الجسمية و الهيولى.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٦٦

فالمقصود في فعل الطبيعة ليس إلا نحوا من الوجود و الوجود كما علمت متفاوت في القوة و الضعف و الحيطه و القصور و ليس مقصودها كما زعمه بعض ماهية كلية نوعية كانت أو غيرها إذ الماهية غير مجعولة و لا مقصودة بالذات كما سبق و إنما المجعول و الغاية في القصد من أي مبدأ كان هو الوجود لكن الوجودات قد يشترك في معنى نوعي أو جنسي أو غيرها للعقل أن يتصورها و يتوصل من تعرف بعضها إلى تعرف الآخر.

و لأجل ذلك يقال العام أعرف عند العقل من الخاص لأن الذي يتفطن به أولا من صفات الموجودات هو المعنى المشترك بين الكل كالشيئية و الموجودية ثم المعنى الذي دون ذلك في الاشتراك كالجوهرية و العرضية ثم كالجسمية و هكذا إلى أن ينتهي إلى معنى محصل كامل نوعي و لذلك الناس كلهم كالمشتركين في معرفة العمومات و أوائل المفهومات التي لا كمال معتد به فيها و إنما يتميزون بأن بعضهم يعرف الخصوصيات و ينتهي إلى النوعيات ممعنا في التفصيل.

و هذا الإمعان في تحقيق الخصوصيات ينتهي ببعض من هؤلاء إلى أن يشاهدوا بعين عقولهم صورا عقلية وجودية و ذواتا كاملة نورية هي مبادي النوعيات و هذا هو الطرف الأعلى من الكمال و هو النتيجة الكبرى من معرفة المعاني العامة و الخاصة.

و لذا قيل المعرفة بذر المشاهدة و هذه المشاهدة غير الإحساس لأن حصول الإحساس كان متقدما على حصول تلك العمومات و المخصصات و المشاهدة بعد ذلك و ربما وقف بعضهم في المعرفة على الجنسيات العامة كمن عرف الجسمية دون أن يحصل معها المعاني الفصلية كالنامي حتى يعرف معنى النبات أو حصل الجسم النامي و وقف عليه دون معرفة الحساس حتى يعرف معنى الحيوان.

فإذا انتهت المعرفة إلى الطبائع النوعية و أحوالها وقف النظر البحثي و ليس بعده إلا المشاهدة الحضورية للطبائع العقلية و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٦٧

الجزئية فليس يبالي العقل بما يفوته من معرفتها لأن وجودها إنما هو كمال للموضوع الجسماني و ليس كمالا للموضوع العقلي

فصل (٥) في تعدد المبادي التي للطبيين أن يأخذوها على سبيل المصادرة و الوضع اعلم أن الأشياء الطبيعية مباد و أسباب

سنشير إليها أما ماهية الموضوع أعني الجسم الطبيعي من حيث قبوله للتغير فهي كأنها مركبة من معنى الجسم الطبيعي و الحيشية المذكورة و أما الجسم الطبيعي فقد مضى تحقيق ماهيته و أما معنى الحركة و التغير فهو أيضا قد علم و أما المبادي فللجسم الطبيعي من حيث هو جسم طبيعي و هو كالجزم من ماهية الموضوع للعلوم الطبيعية مباد و له من حيث هو كائن الجوهر فاسد- بل متغير في الجملة زيادة في المبادي.

فالمبادي التي يحصل بها الجسمية منها ما هي أجزاء من وجوده و حاصلة في ذاته و هويته و هو اثنان أحدهما المادة كالخشب للسريـر و ثانيهما الصورة كالهئية للسريـر- فالأول استعداد محض يسمى هيولى و موضوعا و مادة و عنصرا و أسطقسا كل اسم بحسب اعتبار معنى آخر و الثاني هو الصورة الجسمية و هي كون الجسم بحيث يصح أن يوجد فيه أبعاد خطية متقاطعة على زوايا قوائم و هي أيضا أضعف الصور وجودا و وحدة يبقى مع آحاد التشكلات و التكممات و كل من هذين كما هو مباد للجسم بما هو جسم كذلك مباد للجسم الذي هو نوع من أنواع ذلك الجسم. لأن سائر الصور التي للطبيعات التي هي مبادي أجناسها و أنواعها لا تنفك عن مقارنة الجسم الطبيعي مطلقا فيكون المادة الأولى التي هي أحد مبادي الجسم التي منزلته من الجسم منزلة الخشب من السريـر نسبتها إلى الأجسام ذوات تلك الصورة هذه النسبة فيكون جوهرها إذا نظر إلى ذاتها غير مضافة إلى شيء من الصور بل خالية عنها لكن من شأنها أن يقبلها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٦٨

مجتمعة أو متعاقبة سواء كان ذلك من شأن طبيعة مطلقة جنسية لها حتى لا يكون لها وحدة إلا وحدة ذهنية غير متحققة الوقوع في الأعيان بصفة الوحدة أو من شأن طبيعة شخصية لها هي بصفة الاشتراك للجميع مجتمعة أو متعاقبة واقعة في الأعيان على اختلاف المذهبين.

و الذي سبقت الإشارة إليه أن وحدتها الخارجية الشخصية باعتبار المعنى الذي هي به مادة في الضعف كالوحدة الجنسية للمعنى الجنسي للأشياء و ذلك لفرط نقصان وجودها في ذاتها خالية عن الصور فيكون في طبيعتها و طبيعة كل مادة لما بعدها من الصور أن يكون لها مناسبة ما إليها بالنقص و التمام و الضعف و الشدة و الغنى و الفقر كأنها رسم فيها و ظل و شبح و خيال و من الصور و يكون الصورة هي التي يكمل الجوهر المادي لوجودها جوهر آخر بالفعل بعد ما كان بالقوة.

فإن ينبغي أن يوضع الطبيعي أن للجسم بما هو جسم مبدئين قريبين

ذاتين - أحدهما هيولى والآخرة صورة إن شئت صورة امتدادية مطلقة وإن شئت صورة كمالية بعدها من صور الأجسام وإن شئت صورة عرضية كما في الأصناف الجسمانية كالأبيض والماشي والضاحك وليوضع أن الهيولى الأولى لا يقوم بنفسها مجردة عن الصور الجسمية - بل كل هيولى بما هي هيولى لا تجرد عن الصورة التي تقومها قائمة بنفسها و يكون الصورة التي تزول عنها لو لا أن زوالها إنما هو مع صورة أخرى موت عنها و يقوم في التقويم مقام الأولى لبطلت الهيولى.

لست أقول إن تقويم اللاحقة من الصورة بعينه هو تقويم السابقة بالعدد بل الهيولى جوهر مبهم الوجود له تحصلات متعددة ينحفظ وحدتها الذاتية بأي تحصل جاء من الصور و ينبغي أن يوضع أيضا للطبيعي آخذا من الفلسفة الأولى و العلم الكلي أن كل صورة أخذت تماما لحقيقة نوع من الأنواع لا يجوز تبديلها إلى صورة أخرى نوعية و النوع هو النوع الأول و لا إلى شخصية أخرى ماثلة الوجود و الشخص هو الشخص الأول بل يفسد.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٦٩

و هذا بخلاف كل جوهر أخذ مادة لنوع أو لشخص فإن المادة إنما اعتبرت في الشيء المتقوم على وجه الإبهام فيجوز تبديلها و النوع بل الشخص باق بحاله ما دامت الصورة باقية بحالها و لأجل هذا لا يجوز الحركة في الجوهر الصوري و يجوز في الجوهر المادي و لأجل ذلك لا يجوز حركة الصورة الجسمانية و لا المقدار الجسماني في الكم لأنه بما هو نوع مقداري لا بد له من بقاء صورة الامتداد المعين فيه و بقاء الموضوع شرط في الحركة و المتبدل لا يجوز أن يكون عين المتبدل فيه.

و يجوز هذه الحركة على ما هو كالصورة المقيمة لهذه الجسمانية التعليمية - كالصورة المقومة لنوع من النبات فإنها ما دامت باقية بالعدد يكون تلك الحقيقة باقية بالعدد و إن تبدلت عليها المقادير الجسمانية بحسب الخصوصيات الامتدادية - فإن جسمانية ما و مقدارا ما يكفي لأن يكون جزءا ماديا لحقيقة معينة من النبات و هكذا قياس نوع من أنواع الحيوان في جواز تبدل القوى النباتية عليه عددا أو نوعا مع بقاءه بالشخص ما دامت صورته الحيوانية المعينة أعني نفسه باقية بالعدد.

فهذا هو الكلام في المبادي الداخلة في قوام الجسم و للأجسام مباد أيضا فاعلية و غائية و الفاعل هو الذي طبع الصور التي للأجسام في مادتها تقوم المادة بالصور وجودا و قوم منهما المركب ماهية تفعل صورته في مادته و ذلك المركب يفعل ما يفعل صورته و ينفع عما ينفع بمادته و الغاية هي التي لأجلها طبعت هذه الصور في المواد و الكلام هاهنا لما كان في المبادي المشتركة فيكون الفاعل المأخوذ هاهنا فاعلا مشتركا و كذا الغاية المعتبرة هاهنا هي الغاية المشتركة. قال الشيخ في الشفاء و المشترك فيه هاهنا يعقل على نوعين أحدهما أن يكون الفاعل على وجه يفعل فعلا أو لا يترتب عليه سائر الأفاعيل كالذي يفيد المادة الأولى الصورة الجسمانية الأولى إن كان شيء كذلك على ما تعلمه في موضعه فيفيد الأصل الأول - ثم بعد ذلك يتم وجود ما بعده و يكون الغاية مشتركا فيها بأنها الغاية التي تؤمها جميع

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٧٠

الأمور الطبيعية إن كانت غاية كذلك على ما تعلمه في موضعه.

فهذا نحو و النحو الآخر أن يكون المشترك فيه مشتركا بنحو العموم - كالفاعل الكلي المقول على كل واحد من الفاعلات الجزئية للأمور الجزئية - و الغاية الكلية هي المقولة على كل واحد من الغايات الجزئية لا الأمور الجزئية. أقول فيه بحث أما أولا فلأن الذي ذكره أولا في تبين الفاعل المشترك مما ليس له وجه صحة فإن الصادر أولا من المبدأ الفاعل في هذا العالم ليس هو الجسمية المشتركة ثم الصور الكمالية النوعية بل الطبائع الخاصة الكمالية أقدم صدورا و فعلا - من الأمور الجنسية.

كيف و قد حقق في مقامه أن الذي يجري مجرى الصور مقوم للذي يجري مجرى المادة و أيضا الصورة الجسمية لو كان لها وجود محصل قبل لحوق الصور النوعية لم يكن الصور صورا بل كانت أعراضا لاستغناء الجسمية عنها في الوجود. و أما ثانيا فلأن الغاية على المعنى الذي يكون بإزاء الفاعل بهذا المعنى يلزم أن يكون أخس الغايات لأنه يلزم أن يكون غاية للجسمية أولا و لغيرها بتوسطها كما أن الفاعل كذلك.

و أما ثالثا فلأنه قد صرح الشيخ في الإلهيات في فصل القوة و الفعل بأن ما بالفعل دائما أقدم مما بالقوة و بين ذلك بوجوه كثيرة و أيضا أبطل في موضع آخر منها في فصل تكون الأسطقسات كون الوجود أولا للجسم و ليس له في نفسه إحدى الصور المقومة غير الصورة الجسمية ثم يكتسب سائر الصور.

و أما رابعا فلأن الذي ينبغي أن يوضع للطبيعي من أحوال المبادي يجب أن لا يكون مبحثا عنه في علمه فعلى هذا الفاعل المشترك و الغاية المشتركة بالنحو الذي ذكره ثانيا لا يجوز أيضا أن يكون من المبادي التي يتسلمه الطبيعيون على وجه المصادرة.

فالحق أن يعرف معنى الفاعل المشترك و الغاية المشتركة على نحو آخر

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٧١

غيرهما و إن كان قريبا من النحو الذي ذكره الشيخ و هو أن يكون الفاعل المشترك - و هو الذي يبتدى منه وجود جميع الأشياء الطبيعية بوسط أو بغير وسط و أن الغاية المشتركة هي التي ينتهي إليها و لأجلها وجود جميع الأشياء الطبيعية بوسط أو بغير وسط و ميل هذا الفاعل سواء كان واحدا بالعدد أو كثيرا بالعدد و سواء كان فاعلا لغير الأمور الطبيعية أيضا أو كان مقصور الفعل على تلك الأمور فهو فاعل مشترك لجميع الأشياء الطبيعية من حيث صدورها عنه بعينه واحدا أو متعددا و كذا القياس في الغاية المشتركة بما هي غاية مشتركة بالمعنى المذكور فالصادر أولا من الفاعل المذكور هو أشرف الطبائع النوعية المتعلقة بالأجسام كالنفوس الحيوانية على تفاوتها في التقدم حسب تفاوتها في الكمال ثم النفوس النامية من أكملها إلى أنقصها.

ثم الطبائع المعدنية ثم الأسطقسات ثم الصور المقدارية ثم المادة المشتركة - و العائد إليه في الانفعالات الإعدادية الزمانية في سلسلة الرجوع الصعودي على العكس - من الترتيب الأول الصدوري النزولي فيبتدى الوجود من الأخس فالأخس كالصور الجسمية و العنصرية إلى الأشرف فالأشرف كالنفوس و ما بعدها و الفرق بين وجودي النظيرين في كل مرتبة مما يحتاج إلى كلام مشبع - لا يناسب هذا الموضع و ظاهر أن الفاعل بهذا المعنى و كذا الغاية بالمعنى المشار إليه - خارج عن عالم الطبائع الماديات و المتغيرات و أما أنه واحد في ذاته أو كثير واجب أو ممكن فمما تبين في موضع آخر ليس على الطبيعي أن يبرهن عليه و لا أيضا وجب عليه أن يضعه و يتسلمه.

و أما أن المبادي المشتركة في الأجسام الطبيعية هي هذه الأربعة فعليه أن يضعه و هو مبرهن عليه في الفلسفة الأولى و أما الجسم من حيث وجوده الخاص المتغير - أو المستكمل أو الكائن الفاسد فإن له زيادة مبدأ فإن كون الشيء متغيرا تغيرا طبيعيا أولا و أن يصير بصدد الاستكمال كمالات ذاتيا أو عرضيا أو كائنا و إن كان المفهوم من كونه متغيرا غير المفهوم من كونه مستكملا و المفهوم من كونه كائنا أو حادثا

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٧٢

غير المفهوم من كليهما جميعا لا بد و أن يكون فيه شيء ثابت هو المتغير و صفة كانت موجودة فعدمت و صفة كانت معدومة فوجدت.

و معلوم أنه لا بد للكائن من حيث هو متغير في ذاته من أن يكون له أمر - قابل لما تغير عنه و لما تغير إليه و صورة حاصلة و عدم سابق لها مع الصورة الزائلة و عدم مقارن معها للزائلة و هذا في التغيرات التي في الصفات الزائدة على جوهرات الأشياء معلوم لأكثر الناظرين.

و أما نحن فبفضل الله و جوده فقد بينا ذلك في جوهرات الطبائع المادية على وجه لم يتيسر لأحد بعد المعلم و من يحذو حذوه من الفلاسفة حيث سلف ذكره من كيفية تجدد الطبيعة و تقوم وجود كل جزء منها بالعدم و عدم كل منها بالوجود.

فعلى هذا يجب أن يكون العدم معدودا من جملة المبادي المقومة للكائنات - فإن العدم شرط في كون الشيء متغيرا و إذا كان التغير في جوهر الشيء و قوامه - كان للعدم شركة في تقويمه مع سائر المقومات فرفع العدم بالكلية عما هو متغير في ذاته يوجب رفع ذاته من غير عكس فالعدم على هذا الوجه مبدأ بمعنى أنه لا بد منه في وجود الشيء. و لو نوقش في إطلاق اللفظ و قيل المبدأ هو الذي لا بد من وجوده في وجود شيء فلا مبالاة لنا في ذلك مع قابله فليستعمل بدل المبدأ المحتاج إليه فالعدم لا بد من أخذه في تحديد المتغير المستكمل و كذا لا بد من أخذ الصورة فيه على أن هذا العدم ليس هو العدم المطلق بل عدم له نحو من الوجود كأنه عدم شيء مع تهيو و استعداد في مادة معينة فإن الإنسان لا يتكون عن كل لا إنسانية بل لا إنسانية في قابل الإنسانية لكن الكون باعتبار الصورة لا العدم و الفساد باعتبار العدم لا الصورة.

و قد يقال إن الشيء كان عن الهیولی و عن العدم و لا يقال عن الصورة فيقال

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٧٣

إن السرير كان عن الخشب أو كان عن اللاسرير.

و اعلم أن في كثير من المواضع يصح أن يقال إنه كان عن الهیولی و عن العدم - و في كثير منها لا يصح و دائما يقال كان عن العدم فإنه لا يقال كان عن الإنسان كاتب و السبب فيه أن بعض المتغيرات فيه استكمال للمادة بصورة كمالية يوجب وجودها فساد الصورة الأولى أو حالة وجودية لها.

فالأول كالنطفة إذا تكون عنها إنسان حيث تزول عنها صورة النطفية.

و الثاني الخشب إذا تكون عنه سرير فإنه و إن لم يزل عنه صورة الخشبية مطلقا - لكنه قد خلا عن صورة ما و تشكل ما

بالنحت و النجر و بعضها ليس فيه استكمال - بصورة يقتضي وجودها زوال شيء من الهيولى كالإنسان إذا صار كاتبا فإن الإنسانية باقية فيه بذاتها و صفاتها الوجودية ففي الضرب الأول من الموضوعات و الهيوليات - يقال فيها عن بمعنى بعد و في الضرب الثاني إذا استعمل لفظة عن أو لفظة من كان على معنى آخر و هو أن الكائن متقوم منهما كما يقال عن الزاج و العفص مداد.

و تفصيل هذا المقام يطلب في الشفاء و الذي لا بد أن يعرفه الرجل العلمي أن جميع التغيرات الطبيعية يلزمها أن ينتقل مادة الشيء من صورة إلى صورة كمالية - فإن الصورة الأولى و إن زالت من حيث وجودها الناقص لكنها لما اشتدت و استكملت - فهي كأنها باقية من حيث السنخ و الذات فيجوز استعمال لفظة من أو عن بحسب كل من المعنيين و بعض التغيرات الغير الطبيعية أيضا يجري هذا المجرى كالإنسان إذا صار كاتبا فصح فيه الاعتباران بخلاف البعض كالسرير إذا تفرق أو الإنسان إذا هرم و الحيوان إذا مات.

فإن الهرم و الموت و أشباههما ليست عندنا من الغايات الذاتية التي توجبها التغيرات الطبيعية بالذات بل هي من الضروريات التابعة للاستكمالات فيجوز عدها من الأمور الغير الطبيعية كالاتفاق و القسر و مما ذكره القدماء في مثل هذا الموضوع - حال شوق الهيولى إلى الصورة و تشبيهها بالأنثى و تشبيه الصورة بالذكر.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٧٤

قال الشيخ و هذا شيء لست أفهمه.

أقول قد مر الكلام منا في مباحث العلل في تصحيح هذا الدعوى و إذا أريد من الهيولى مطلق المادة المستكملة بالصورة حتى يشمل المواد البدنية بقواها الحسية المستكملة بالنفوس بل يشمل العقل الهولاني المستكمل بالعقل بالفعل لم يكن في إثبات التشوق للمادة إلى الصورة و لو باعتبار بعض الأفراد كثير إشكال

فصل (٦) في كيفية كون هذه المبادي المقارنة أعني المادة و الصورة و العدم مشتركة

أما الهيولى

فالمشهور من رأى الفلاسفة أنه لا يوجد هيولى مشتركة لجميع الصور الطبيعية بناء على أن الأجسام - منها ما هي قابلة للكون و الفساد.

و منها ما ليست بقابلة للكون و الفساد بل وجودها بالإبداع فلا يكون لها هيولى مشتركة تارة تقبل صورة الكائنات الفاسدة و تارة تقبل صورة ما لا يفسد في طباعها - و لا له كون هيولاني فإن ذلك مستحيل نعم ربما جاز وجود هيولى مشتركة لمثل الأجسام الكائنة الفاسدة التي يفسد بعضها إلى بعض و يتكون بعضها من بعض لا للجميع هذا ما ذكره الشيخ.

أقول ما الذي ذكروه من الفرق أن بعض الأجسام مبدعة و بعضها كائنة فاسدة.

فهذا فرق من جهة الصورة لا من جهة المادة فجاز في الاحتمال العقلي أن يكون جوهر الموضوع للصورة المبدعة و الصورة الكائنة شيئا واحدا صالحا في ذاته - لقبول كل صورة لكن بعض الصور في نفسها بحيث يكون لها ضد مفسد و بعضها في نفسها مما له ضد فيكون الاختلاف بين القسمين من جهة الصورة لا من جهة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٧٥

المادة.

و الذي يقوي هذا الظن أن الهيولى الأولى في نفسها ليست إلا قوة لقبول الأشياء من غير تخصص لها في ذاتها وإلا لكانت مركبة من قوة و فعلية و مادة و صورة فلا تحصل لها إلا بالصور و لأجل ذلك يكون التركيب بينها و بين الصور اتحادية على أنك قد علمت في مباحث حدوث العالم أن صورة الأفلاك و الكواكب بحسب خصوصياتها و جزئياتها كائنة فاسدة و أما طبائعها الكلية فليست مادية بل عقلية و أما المبدأ الصوري المشترك.

فالشيخ قد جوز ذلك واحدا بالعدد في الصورة الجسمية الامتدادية دون غيرها من الصور الكمالية و قد أشرنا إلى فساده. و العجب أن الشيخ لم يجوز كون الهيولى واحدة مشتركة بواسطة اختلاف الصور مع أن أول ما يتحصل به الهيولى عنده هو الصورة الامتدادية الجسمية كما هو المشهور و نسبة الصورة الكمالية النوعية إلى الجسمية هذه النسبة فكيف لم يصير اختلافها موجبا لاختلاف الجسمية و قد صار موجبا لاختلاف الهيوليات مبطلا لاشتراكها للكل على أن الهيولى ضعيفة الوجود لا يقدح في وحدتها الشخصية كثرة الصور كما مر بيانه بخلاف الجسمية فإنها تتبدل بالاتصالات و الانفصالات و غيرها من الأسباب.

فالحق أن المبدأ الصوري المشترك بين الأمور الطبيعية يمتنع أن يكون هو الصورة الامتدادية لتبدلها في كل كون و فساد و اتصال و انفصال بل لأنسب الصور في أن يكون مبدأ صوريا مشتركا هو ما جعله جماعة من الحكماء المتقدمين حيث

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٧٦

أخذوا العالم كله حيوانا واحدا له نفس واحد هي نفس الكل و صورة الكل و هذا مما لا يبعد عن الصواب سيما عند من يجعل الفلك الأعظم جسما واحدا مشتملا على جميع السماويات له حركة واحدة دائرة حول مركز الكل فإن اختلاف الأبعاد بالنوع إذا روعي فيها ترتيب و نظام بين الأشرف و الأخس و اللطف و الأكنف لا يقدح في الوحدة الشخصية بصورة الجميع كإنسان الذي هو عالم صغير.

ثم قال الشيخ و لو كان للأجسام مبدأ صوري مشترك بهذه الصفة لكان مداوم الاقتران بالهيولى و لا يكون و لا يفسد بل متعلق أيضا بالإبداع.

أقول قد علمت فيما سبق أن كون الشيء دائم الاقتران بالهيولى يناقض كونه إبداعا وجود غير كائن و لا فاسد فإن الهيولى عبارة عن أمر حامل لقوة وجود الشيء و إمكانه الاستعدادي ثم لحدوثه و كونه حتى لو كان الشيء مسلوب القوة و الاستعداد و الحدوث استحالة تعلقه بالهيولى و مثل ذلك الشيء صورة محضة إذ كل ما يتعلق وجوده بالهيولى فلا بد أن يكون للعدم شركة في قوام وجوده فإنه لا يحصل إلا بالحركة و الزمان فلا يكون إبداعا.

و أما الذي قررناه من الصور في أن يكون مبدأ صوريا مشتركا فينبغي أن يكون لذاته جهتان إحداها عقلية حاصلة بالإبداع و الأخرى طبيعية متعلقة بالهيولى و الكون و الفساد و النفس الفلكية من هذا القبيل فإنها من حيث جوهرها العقلي صورة إبداعية من عالم الأمر و من حيث قواها الطبيعية و غيرها متعلقة الوجود بالهيولى سارية فيها كائنة فاسدة.

و أما العدم

فلا يجوز أن يكون من جملة عدم مشترك بالنحو الأول من النحويين المذكورين في الاشتراك لأن هذا العدم عدم شيء

من شأنه أن يكون وهو معنى القوة والاستعداد فلم يبعد أن يبطل عند وجود ذلك وأما المشترك بالمعنى الآخر من النحوين المذكورين للاشتراك فلا شبهة في أن المبادي الثلاثة مشتركة بهذا المعنى - إذ يصدق على كل من الحوادث والكائنات والمتغيرات أن له هوى و

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٧٧

صورة و عدما.

و هذا المفهوم الكلي المشترك يقال إنه لا يكون ولا يفسد على نحو ما يقال للكليات الطبيعية أنها لا تكون ولا تفسد هذا ما قرره الشيخ.

و أقول قد أشرنا سابقا أن الأشياء المتجددة الوجود هي بحيث يكون وجودها يخالط عدمها ويتشابه فيها الوجود والعدم وأن لعدمها حظا من الوجود ولوجودها حظا من العدم إذ وجود كل جزء من أجزائه عدم الجزء الآخر ووجود ذلك الجزء عدمه و كذا كون كل جزء هو فساد الآخر و فساد كون الآخر.

و بالجملة الكل كما أن له وجودا لكل فيما يعتبر من الزمان فكذلك له عدم عن الكل في ذلك الزمان و كذلك حال الاتصال المكاني للجواهر المقداري المسمى بالقار الوجود في نسبة وجود كل جزء مكاني منه إلى عدم الجزء الآخر المكاني و نسبة وجود الكل إلى عدم الكل مقيسين إلى كل المكان.

و قد علمت أن نحو وجود الطبيعة الجسمانية هذا النحو بحسب كلتا الحثيتين - فإذن لو كان لمجموع العالم الجسماني صورة واحدة مشتركة كما جوزها الشيخ - لم يبعد أن يقال إن له عدما واحدا مشتركا بالمعنى الأول أيضا وإن كان ذلك العدم متضمنا لأعدام كثيرة لا تحصى.

ثم قال الشيخ إن لهذا العدم نحو من الكون أيضا بالعرض و من الفساد أيضا بالعرض فكونه هو أن يفسد الصورة عن المادة فيحصل عدم بهذه الصفة و فساد أن يحصل الصورة فلا يكون حينئذ العدم موجودا و لهذا العدم عدم بالعرض كما أن له وجودا بالعرض و عدمه هو الصورة و لكن ليس قوام الصورة و وجودها بالقياس إليه بل ذلك يعرض له باعتبار و قوام هذا العدم و وجوده هو بنفس القياس إلى هذه الصورة.

أقول هذا الذي أفاده من أن للعدم كونا و فسادا بالعرض إنما يجري في حوادث قارة الوجود دفعية الحصول و أنت تعلم أن في الوجود أشياء متدرجة الكون

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٧٨

غير مستقرة الذات كالحركة و الزمان و ما ينطبق عليهما من أفراد مقولات يقع فيها الاستحالات حتى الجواهر الطبيعية عندنا فإذن العدم في مثل هذه الأشياء كالوجود في أن له كونا و فسادا بالذات لأن كل جزء من أجزاء المتصل التدريجي كما يصدق عليه بهويته معنى الوجود كذلك يصدق عليه بهويته معنى عدم الجزء الذي بعده و به فساد الذي قبله و لأن وجود كل جزء كائن بحيث يعتبر في قوامه من حيث هويته فساد الجزء السابق.

و لأجل ذلك يعد العدم من المبادي لا كل عدم بل عدم جزء سابق - كونه على هذا الجزء فكما أن الصورة متجددة الوجود متصل بعضها فللصورة كون متصل و فساد متصل فكذلك الأعدام متصل بعضها ببعض فللعدم أيضا

كون متصل و فساد متصل و فساد العدم هو كون الصورة كما أن كون الصورة هو فساد العدم. فليس لأحد أن يقول إن إطلاق العدم على هوية الأمر التدريجي الحصول - بما هو تدريجي الحصول إطلاق مجازي بالعرض فإن التدرج في الوجود لا يحصل إلا بالتدرج في العدم فيكون لكل من الوجود و العدم له كونا و فسادا بالذات نعم إطلاق الكون و الفساد على الصورة بما هي صورة أولى من إطلاقهما عليها بما هي عدم. ثم لا يخفى عليك أن إطلاق الاسم على أفراد كل من هذه المبادي الثلاثة أعني المادة و الصورة و العدم بحسب معنى مشترك في أفراد كل منها بلا شبهة و مع ذلك ليس يمكن لنا أن نقول إن كلا منها يدل على ما تحته بالتواطؤ الصرف بل يجب أن يكون دلالتها دلالة التشكيك كدلالة الوجود و المبدأ و ذلك لأن تحت كل منها أمورا شتى - يختلف في معنى تلك المبدئية بالتقدم و التأخر و الأشد و الأضعف فلجميع ما يقال إنها هيولى طبيعة مشتركة في أنها أمر هو بالقوة شيء آخر فقد يكون بسيطا و قد يكون مركبا و قد يكون بعيدا و قد يكون قريبا. و كذا الصورة فمنها جوهر و منها هيئة إذ المراد من الصورة في هذا المقام - ما به يخرج الشيء من القوة إلى الفعل سواء كان جوهرًا أو عرضًا و جميع ما يقال

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٧٩

إنه عدم فهو لا وجود صورة بالمعنى المذكور و لا شك في أنه في التقدم و التأخر و الشدة و الضعف مقيس إلى الصورة. ثم لا يخفى أن النظر هاهنا في مبدئية الصورة و الاعتبار التي فيها إنما يتصرف إلى حيثية كونها جزءا و بحسب أنها أحد جزئي الكائن إلا أنها مبدأ فاعلي و إن جاز أن يكون مبدأ فاعليا للجزء الآخر أو لهيئة أو لحركة. ثم إنه قد مرت الإشارة إلى أن الطبيعي لا اشتغال له بالمبدأ الفاعلي و الغائي المشتركين بالنحو الأول و لا بالنحو الآخر أيضا من حيث اشتراكهما و عمومهما و إن كان يبحث عن أفراد كل منهما و أما الفاعل المشترك أو الغاية المشتركة بالنحو الأول - لطائفة من الأمور الطبيعية لا للجميع فللطبيعي بحث عنهما

فصل (٧) في أن أي العلل ينبغي أن يكون أشد مطلبا و اهتماما للطبيين

لا شبهة في أن صورة الشيء أحق بأن يطلب من مادته لأجل تقرير ماهيته لما علمت من أن بها يكون الشيء هو هو بالفعل دون مادته التي هو بها هو بالقوة و كذا لا شبهة في أن كلا من الفاعل و الغاية للشيء أولى بالاهتمام به لتحقيق وجود ذلك الشيء من مادته و أما الترتيب بين هذين المبدئين و الصورة فطلب الصورة يشبه أن يكون أقدم من طلبهما. و لهذا قيل في علم البرهان إن مطلب ما مقدم على مطلب لم لكن طلبهما أشرف منالا و أعلى مرتبة من طلب الصورة فإن الفاعل و الغاية هما تمام وجود المعلول - كما أن الصورة تمام ماهيته و معناه و تمام الشيء هو ذلك الشيء مع أمر زائد هو كماله فبالصورة فقط لا يتم وجود الشيء ما لم يحصل معه فاعله و غايته فالمادة أنقص العلل اهتماما. و أكثر الجمهور تراهم كثير الاهتمام لمراعاة المواد دون الصورة و الطالبين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٨٠

للأجساد دون الأرواح و إن كانت تلك المواد صورا لمواد هي أخس منها وجودا و حكي الشيخ في الشفاء أن بعض الطبيعيين رفض مراعاة أمر الصورة رفضا كليًا و اعتقد أن المادة هي التي يجب أن يحصل و يعرف فإذا حصلت فما بعد

ذلك أعراض و لواحق غير متناهية لا تضبط و يشبه أن يكون هذه المادة التي قصر عليها هؤلاء نظرهم هي المادة المجسمة المنطبعة دون الأولى فكأنهم عن الأولى غافلون يعني لو تفتنوا لعلوموا أن الذي حصلوه و عرفوه على زعمهم و جعلوه مادة فهي بالحقيقة صورة.

قال و ربما احتج بعض هؤلاء ببعض الصنائع و قايس بين الصناعة الطبيعية النفرية- و بين الصناعة المهيئة فقال إن مستنبت الحديد وكده تحصيل الحديد و الغواص وكده تحصيل الدر و ما عليهما من صورتها و الذي يظهر لنا فساد هذا الرأي إفقاده إيانا الوقوف على خصائص الأمور الطبيعية و نوعياتها التي هي صورتها و مناقضة صاحب هذا المذهب نفسه فإنه إن أقنعه الوقوف على الهيولى الغير المصورة- فقد قنع من العلم بمعرفة شيء لا وجود له بل كأنه أمر بالقوة ثم من أي الطريق يسلك إلى إدراكه إذ قد أعرض عن الصور و الأعراض صفحا و هي التي تجر أذهاننا إلى إثباته- فإن لم يقنعه الوقوف على الهيولى الغير المصورة و رام للهيولى صورة كالهوائية و المائية و غير ذلك- فما خرج عن النظر في الصورة ثم ذكر أن مستنبت الحديد ليس الحديد بموضوع صناعته بل هو غايتها و موضوعها الأجسام المعدنية التي يكتب عليها بالحفر و التذويب و فعل ذلك هو صورة صناعته ثم تحصيل الحديد غايته و هو موضوع لصنائع أخرى و بالجملة طلب كل شيء فهو بالحقيقة طلبه بما هو صورة لا بما هو مادة.

ثم قال و قد قام بإزاء هؤلاء طائفة أخرى من الناظرين في علم الطبيعة فاستخفوا بالمادة أصلا و قالوا إنها إنما قصدت في الوجود ليظهر فيها الصور و إن المقصود الأول هو الصورة و إن من أحاط بالصورة علما فقد استغنى عن الالتفات إلى المادة إلا على سبيل شروع فيما لا يعنيه.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٨١

قال و هؤلاء مسرفون في جهة إطراح المادة كما أولئك في جهة إطراح الصورة- فقد يقنعون بأن يجهلوا المناسبات التي بين الصور و المواد إذ ليس كل صورة مساعدة لكل مادة و لا كل مادة ممهدة لكل صورة و إذا كان العلم التام الحقيقي هو الإحاطة بالشيء كما هو و ما يلزمه و كانت ماهية الصورة النوعية مفتقرة إلى مادة معينة فكيف يستكمل علمنا بالصورة- ثم قال و لا مادة أعم اشتراكا فيها و أبعد عن الصورة من المادة الأولى و في علمنا بطبيعتها أو أنها بالقوة كل شيء يكتسب علما بأن الصورة التي في مثل هذه المادة إما واجب زوالها بخلافه أخرى غيرها أو ممكن غير موثوق به بل الطبيعي مفترق في براهينه و محتاج في استتمام صناعته إلى أن يكون محصلا للإحاطة بالصورة و المادة جميعا لكن الصورة مكتسبة علما بما هو هوية الشيء بالفعل أكثر من المادة و المادة مكتسبة العلم بقوة وجوده في أكثر الأحوال و منهما جميعا يستتم العلم بجوهر الشيء أقول ليس إسراف هؤلاء في إطراح المادة مثل إسراف أولئك في إطراح الصورة بل ما ذكروه لا يخلو عن وجه قوة.

و إن الذي ذكره الشيخ من افتقار ماهية الصورة إلى مادة معينة ليس بمسلم فإن ماهية الصورة بحسب مطلق وجودها مقومة لتلك المادة كما أن ماهية الصورة الجسمية مقومة لوجود المادة الأولى و إنما حاجة الصورة إلى مادة مشتركة أو معينة هي بحسب تشخيصات أفرادها و لوازم هوياتها و أما بحسب مطلق وجود ماهيتها بما هو وجود تلك الماهية الصورية فلا حاجة إلى مادة من المواد أصلا.

كيف و قد أقمنا البرهان على أن لكل من هذه الصور الطبيعية نحوا من الحصول مجردا عن المواد و لواحقها فمن أطرَح

المادة في تحصيل العلم بماهية كل من الأنواع الطبيعية من حيث ماهيتها المطلقة المجردة عن الأشخاص الخارجية فلم يبعد عن الصواب كثير بعد وذلك لأن معرفة الأشخاص المعينة بما هي أشخاص غير مطلوب في العلوم الحقيقية - لأن مطالبها يجب أن تكون ثابتة غير متغيرة.

نعم لو بحث عن الأشخاص بما هي أشخاص لطبيعة نوعية على الوجه الكلي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٨٢

كان من المطالب و حينئذ يكون البحث حريا بأن يكون جامعا لطرفي المادة و الصورة معا. ثم نقول إن ما ذكره من أن لا مادة أعم اشتراكا فيها و أبعد عن الصورة من الهيولى الأولى و في علمنا كذا و كذا لا يدل دلالة واضحة على ما هو بصده فإن البحث عن أحوال المادة الأولى و أنها مادة للصور كافة و أنها بالقوة كل شيء و أنها واحدة أو متعددة و أن وحدتها أي نوع من الوحدة أو غير ذلك يكون جميع ذلك في الحقيقة بحثا عن الصورة لا عن المادة بما هي مادة فإن الهيولى أيضا يعتبر فيها معنيان شبيهان بالمادة و الصورة أعني جنسها و فصلها فالجوهرية جنسها و كونها مادة للأشياء فصلها - و كذا كونها بالقوة كل شيء هو فعليتها التي بها تمت نوعيتها البسيطة. فإن البحث عن كون الهيولى قوة محضة في بابها ليس يجب أن يكون بحثا عن شيء من الأنواع التي ركبت منها و من الصورة فكم من نوع جسماني وقع البحث عنه و عن أحواله من غير أن يقع الالتفات إلى جانب مادته الأولى فلو كان معرفة المادة لكل نوع - مما يجب البحث عنها في معرفة ذلك النوع لاستحال لأحد من الناس معرفة شيء من أنواع الأجسام في الكمال إلا لمعرفة الهيولى الأولى و المراجعة إليها و الأمر على خلافه. كيف و كثير من الحكماء السابقين أنكروا أن يكون لها حقيقة و الذي سنح بالبال في هذا المقام أن يقال إن الأنواع المادية بما هي واقعة في عالم التغير و الحركة متقومة بالعدم و الحدوث و الحركة و الكمال فهي لا محالة لا بد أن يكون لها جهة قوة و جهة فعلية فإذن ينبغي للحكيم أن يعرف كل واحد من جانبي نقصه و كماله و جهتي قوته و فعليته و مادته و صورته - لأن صورته صورة شيء تحرك نحوها و استكمل بها

فصل (٨) في معرفة كيفية تركيب الجسم الطبيعي عن مادته و صورته

الحق عندنا

موافقا لما تفتن به بعض المتأخرين من أعلام بلدتنا شيراز حرسها الله و أهلها أن التركيب بينهما اتحادي بيان ذلك يستدعي تمهيد مقدمتين

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٨٣

إحداهما أن الموجودات كما مر متفاوتة في فضيلة الوجود فيكون بعضها في الكمالية بحيث يكون بوحدته عين معاني كثيرة لا يوجد تلك المعاني برمتها في غيره إلا متفرقة و بعضها ليس كذلك لنقصه في الوجود مثال الأول الإنسان إذ قد يوجد فيه جملة ما يوجد متفرقة في الحيوان و النبات و الجماد و ثانيتهما أن التركيب قسمان - أحدهما أن ينضم شيء إلى شيء آخر يكون لكل منهما ذات على حدة و في المركب كثرة بالفعل كتركيب البيت من اللبنة و مثل هذا التركيب لا يكون تركيبه طبيعيا بل إما صناعي كالبيت و إما اعتباري كالحجر الموضوع بجانب الإنسان - و إما طبيعي بالعرض لا

بالبذات كتركيب بعض أجزاء الحيوان مع بعض كما ستعلم.

و الثاني أن يتحول شيء في ذاته إلى أن يصير شيئاً آخر و يكمل به ذاتاً واحدة فيكون هناك أمر واحد و هو عين كل واحد منهما و عين المركب كالجنين إذا صار حكيماً و بالجملة كل مادة طبيعية إذا تصورت بصورة جوهرية و التركيب في هذا القسم لا بأس بأن يسمى تركيباً اتحادياً.

و هذا لا ينافي قول الحكماء إن هذا المركب أجزاءه خارجية و لا يبطل به الفرق بين البسيط و المركب و لا بين التركيب العقلي و الخارجي فإن هذا المركب يجوز لبعض أجزائه أن ينفرد في الوجود أي الذي بإزاء الجنس من الذي بإزاء الفصل بخلاف المركب العقلي فقط.

ألا ترى أن اللونية لا يمكن وجودها مفارقة عن قابضية البصر و مفرقته - بخلاف الحيوانية إذ قد يكون لها وجود مفارق عن الناطقية و كذا الجسم النامي إذ قد يوجد في غير الحيوان مفارقاً عن الحياة و الحس.

و الحجة على هذا الاتحاد كثيرة

إحداها صحة الحمل بين المادة و الصورة

كقولنا الحيوان جسم نام و النبات جسم و الجسم جوهر قابل و مفاد الحمل هو الاتحاد في الوجود إلا أن جهة الحمل و الاتحاد غير جهة الجزئية و التركيب كما علمت في مباحث الماهية.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٨٤

و بالجملة كيفية كون الجزئين في التركيب الطبيعي واحداً في نفس الأمر - هو أن اعتبار هذا التركيب كما أشرنا إليه من حيث إن للعقل أن يحلل هذا الواحد الطبيعي إلى جزئين و اعتبر كلا منهما غير الآخر نظراً إلى أن أحد الجزئين قد يكون موجوداً و لا يكون عين الجزء الآخر ثم يصير عينه لا أن لهما وجودين في هذا المسمى بالمركب كما هو المشهور و عليه الجمهور إذ البرهان يكذبه أو نظراً إلى شيء آخر - و هو أن يكون أمر واحد له معنيان جنسي و فصلي ثم انعدم ذلك الأمر من حيث إنه عين أحدهما و يبقى من حيث إنه عين الآخر فالنظر الأول في التغيرات الاستكمالية الطبيعية و الثاني في التغيرات الاتفاقية و القسرية.

مثال الأول الحبة إذا صار نباتاً و النطفة إذا صارت حيواناً - مثال الثاني الشجر إذا قطع أو قلع و الماء إذا صار هواء فالشجر إذا قطع فالمقطوع منه انعدم من حيث إنه عين النامي و يبقى من حيث إنه عين الجسم و كذا الكلام في الماء إذا صار هواء انعدم من حيث إنه ماء و يبقى من حيث إنه جسم فالأجزاء في هذه المركبات الطبيعية تحليلية عقلية أيضاً كما في البسائط الخارجية لا أنها ذوات متعددة في الخارج.

إذ لو كانت المادة و الصورة ذاتين مختلفتين في الجسم بحسب الخارج لم يجر صدق إحداها على الأخرى بأي اعتبار أخذت كما نقل عن بعض المحققين أن الأجزاء المتغايرة بحسب الوجود الخارجي يمتنع أن يحمل إحداها على الآخر - و يقال هو هو أو يقال المجموع منها هو هذا الواحد أو ذاك الواحد و إن فرض بينهما أي ارتباطاً أمكن يشهد بهذا بديهية العقل لكن المادة تحمل على المركب المذكور - إذا أخذ بوجه كما علم في موضعه.

و صرح به أكثر المحققين كالشيخ الرئيس و من يحذو حذوه فيكون عين المركب و كذا الصورة تحمل عليه و كل منهما يحمل على الأخرى فالكمل واحد لا محالة.

الحجة الثانية

أن الأجزاء العنصرية ليست حاصلة بالفعل في المواليد الثلاثة مثلاً

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٨٥

ليس في الياقوت جزء ناري بالفعل و إلا كانت الصورة الياقوتية حالة فيها لأن حلولها في مجموع الأجزاء حلول السريان كما أطبق عليه جمهور مثبتيه و لو كانت الصورة الياقوتية حالة في الجزء الناري و هو حينئذ نار بالفعل يكون جسم واحد نارا و ياقوتا معا و هو محال و يتحقق ياقوت غير مركب من العناصر الأربعة و هو خلاف ما اتفقوا عليه و كيف يكون الجزء الناري موجودا فيه و لا ينطفي في الزمان الطويل الذي يكون الياقوت موجودا فيه مع صغر حجمه و مجاورته للأجزاء المائية و إن الأجزاء العنصرية ليست حاصلة بالفعل كان أي جزء انفرض فيه و إن كان في غاية الصغر ياقوتا فإذا لم يكن الأجزاء العنصرية حاصلة بالفعل في المواليد الثلاثة لم يكن تركيب المواليد منها و من صورها إلا تركيبا من هذا القبيل.

فإن العناصر تنقلب أخلاطا و الأخلاط تنقلب نطفة و النطفة تنقلب علقة و هكذا إلى أن تنقلب حيوانا و ليس ما هو السابق في هذه الانقلابات باقيا بالفعل فيما هو اللاحق حتى تكون فيه كثرة في نفس الأمر بل كل واحد من الغذاء و أجزاءها أمر واحد - طبيعي لا كثرة في نفس الأمر نعم للعقل أن يقسم كل واحد منها بحسب آثاره و خواصه - إلى أقسام بعضها مادة له باعتبار و جنس باعتبار و بعضها صورة له باعتبار و فصل باعتبار - و يعضد ذلك ما ذكره الشيخ في الحكمة العلائية من أن الهيولى و الصورة واحدة بحسب الذات متعددة بحسب المعنى.

الحجة الثالثة

أن مادة الشيء هي التي بها يكون الشيء بالقوة و صورته هي التي بها تصير بالفعل فلا بد أن يكونا متحدين و يكون الصورة للشيء بعينها ذلك الشيء - و لذلك حكموا بأن الهيولى قوة محضة لكل شيء. قال المحقق الطوسي قدس سره في شرح الإشارات و ظاهر أن الشرف و البراءة عن القوى مرتب في صنفى المراتب على التكافؤ منته من الجانبين إلى الهيولى الأولى و التي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٨٦

وجودها ليس إلا كونها بالقوة فهي نهاية الخسة - و كذا ما ذكره الشارح القديم في شرحها من قوله لأن الهيولى شيء بالقوة متى حصلت فهي الجسم و ما ذكره بهمنيار في إلهيات كتاب التحصيل أن الهيولى شيء ليست في موضوع فهي إذن جوهر و الجوهرية التي لها ليست يجعلها بالفعل شيئا من الأشياء بل يعدها لأن يكون بالفعل شيئا بالصورة. كيف و لو كان تركيب الجسم منهما على أن يكونا ذاتين حاصلتين في نفس الأمر لم يصح تعريف الصورة بأنها ماهية الجسم كما لا يصح تعريف السقف بأنه ماهية البيت لكنهم عرفوا الصورة بأنها ماهية الشيء التي بها هو كما عرفها الشيخ في الشفاء بها حيث قال إن لكل جسم طبيعة و مادة و صورة و أعراضا و صورته هي ماهيته التي بها هو هو و مادته هي المعنى الحامل لماهيته و أما إذا كان تركيب الجسم منهما على أن يكونا ذاتا واحدة صح تعريف صورة الجسم بماهيته لأن هذا الأمر الواحد هو صورته غاية الأمر أن يجوز للعقل أن ينتزع منه أمرا آخرامبهما و قد صار عين هذا الأمر

الواحد الموجود في نفس الأمر.

الحجة الرابعة

أن النفس صورة البدن و البدن مادة له كما ذهب إليه المحققون من الحكماء و صرح به الشيخ و أتباعه. ثم إن النفس تتصف بصفات معينة للبدن و كل ما اتصف بصفة معينة لشيء فهو عين ذلك الشيء فالنفس عين البدن أما الصغرى فهي مما يعلم كل أحد بالوجدان أن الذي يشير إليه منه بأننا هو المتحرك الجالس الأكل الشام الذائق فنقول أنا أجلس و أكل و أشم و أذوق و غير ذلك من غير تجوز و استعارة و هذه كلها بخصوصيتها صفات البدن و قد اتصفت بها النفس و أما الكبرى فلما ثبت في مقامه أن الصفة الواحدة المعينة لا تقوم بموصوفين لأن العرض وجوده في نفسه هو بعينه وجوده لموضوعه و لا يمكن أن يكون وجود واحد في نفسه وجوداً لأمرين مختلفين من غير أن يتحداً بنحو من الوجود - فثبت أن النفس يكون عين البدن فإذا ثبت أنها عين البدن ثبت أن كل صورة عين مادتها إذ لا قائل بالفصل و لأن غير النفس من الصور أولى بأن يكون عين المادة من النفس

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٨٧

بأن تكون عين البدن

أعضالات و تفصيلات -

أحدها أنه قد صرح القوم بأن الصور علة للهيولى

و مع اتحادهما لا يتصور ذلك و جوابه أن العلية المذكورة فيها ليست من حيث إنهما شيء واحد بل إذا صار هذا الواحد كثيراً بتعمل من العقل يحكم بعلية بعض منه لبعض و لا حجر في أن يكون في الوجود شيء واحد يعرض له كثرة عقلية يتحقق بينهما علية و معلولية في اعتبار الكثرة كما في أجزاء حد الماهية كالسواد من جنسه و فصله حيث يحكم العقل بعد التحليل بأن فصله و هو قابض البصر علة لجنسه و هو اللون و كل منهما علة الماهية. هذا باعتبار التجريد و أحدهما محمول على الآخر و على الماهية باعتبار الإطلاق - فكذلك المادة و الصورة و إن كانتا ذاتاً واحدة لكن إذا أخذت إحداهما مقيداً بكونه فقط - لم يصدق حملها على تلك الذات لأن تلك الذات ليست إحداهما فقط بل هي عين هذه و الأخرى معاً فأحد الجزئين مأخوذ بهذا الاعتبار يسمى مادة أو صورة و إذا لم يؤخذ بهذا الاعتبار بل أخذ مطلقاً لصدق حملة على الماهية و على الآخر فيسمى جنساً و فصلاً فإذاً الجنس و المادة معني واحد إذا أخذ مطلقاً كان جنساً و إذا أخذ مقيداً بأنه لا يكون جزؤه [غيره] كان مادة و كذلك حال الفصل و الصورة. فظهر أن الجنس و المادة متحدان ذاتاً مختلفان بالاعتبار و كذلك الفصل و الصورة.

و ثانيها كون المادة و الصورة ذاتاً واحدة

على ما ذكرت إنما يتم في المركب المتشابه الأجزاء كالياقوت إذ هناك أمر واحد بالفعل فجاز أن يكون مادة و صورة باعتبار و جنساً و فصلاً باعتبار و أما المركب الغير المتشابه الأجزاء كالفرس فلا يتصور فيه ذلك إذ هناك أمور متعددة مختلفة الحقيقة كالعظم و اللحم و العصب فكيف يكون هذه الأمور المختلفة عين الصورة الفرسية و هي أمر واحد.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٨٨

أقول ليس يلزم أن يكون كل ما يوجد من الصورة و الكيفيات مع مادة الشيء داخلا في قوام ماهيته و لا في قوام هويته بما هي تلك الهوية بل ربما يكون من اللواحق أو المعدات إذ قد مر أن مادة الشيء يعتبر فيه على وجه الإبهام فالصورة الفرسية هي أمر واحد يصدر عنه هذه الأفاعيل على المادة بنحو من الترتيب و هي بالحقيقة ذات الفرس و هويته التي بها هو هو و هذه الأعضاء من آثارها و لواحقها و ليست هي داخلة في مادته.

و لهذا قد لا يفسد عند زوال الصورة و لو كانت هذه الأمور كلها أجزاء لمادة الفرس بخصوصها لم يبق شيء منها عند موته و فساد صورته و ليس كذلك و ذلك لأن الصورة على أي وجه كانت علة للمادة المخصوصة و إذا بطلت العلة بطل المعلول بخصوصه بل الفرس بالحقيقة أمر واحد طبيعي له معان كثيرة تصدق عليه و هو الجسم و النامي و المغتذي و الحساس و غير ذلك فلا كثرة بالفعل فيما هو فرس بالحقيقة - و ليست جسمية الفرس بالحقيقة هذا المحسوس المركب من هذه الأعضاء المتباينة الوجود.

و قد أشرنا أيضا فيما سبق أن مادة الشيء بمعنى حامل قوته و إمكانه بالعدد غير مادته للصورة بصورته بالفعل فمادة الإنسان مثلا بالمعنى الأول هي النطفة بل الجنين بخلاف مادته بالمعنى الآخر فإنها أمر مبهم في ذاته متعين بالصورة. و هذا الجواب أولى مما ذكره السيد السند من قوله الفرس أمر طبيعي لا كثرة فيه بالفعل و ليس جسم الفرس موجودا واحدا في نفس الأمر بل هو بعض من موجود واحد طبيعي و كذا حكم سائر أجزائه كما أن الياقوت أيضا كذلك غاية الأمر أن الأجزاء التحليلية المفروضة في الياقوت حقيقتها واحدة و الأجزاء التحليلية المفروضة في الفرس حقائق مختلفة ألا ترى أن الأجزاء التحليلية الواقعة في الكرة الواحدة الحقيقية التي هي فلك الثوابت مختلفة الحقائق بعضها جرم الفلك و بعضها كواكب مختلفة الصور - و ذلك لأن القول بأن العظم و اللحم و غيرهما أجزاء تحليلية للفرس مع تخالفها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٨٩

بالماهية و أنها ليست موجودة بالفعل مخالف لبديهية العقل و لما حققه الشيخ و غيره من أن القسمة الفرضية المقدارية إنما يكون إلى أجزاء متحدة الماهية.

و بذلك أبطلوا مذهب ديمقراطيس قال في الهيئات الشفاء الوحدة بالاتصال إما معتبرة مع المقدار فقط و إما أن يكون مع طبيعة أخرى إلى قوله لا ينقسم إلى صور مختلفة و كون الفلك و الكواكب كلها متصلا واحدا ينافي ما حققه الحكماء من أن لكل كوكب حركة أخرى غير حركة فلكه.

و ثالثها أن التركيب الاتحادي الذي ذكرتم غير معقول في الإنسان

لأن نفسه التي هي صورته جوهر مجرد عن المادة كما ذهبت إليه الحكماء و بدنه جسم - و التركيب الاتحادي بينهما مستلزم لتجرد الجسم أو لتجسم المجرد.

أقول إنما يلزم ما ذكر لو كانت النفوس الإنسانية مجردات بالفعل في أول تكونها و صيرورتها صورة نفسانية مدبرة للمادة و ليس كذلك بل النفوس بما هي نفوس جسمانية البتة ثم إذا استكملت و قويت في جوهرها تصير مجردة و هي بما هي صورة مجردة ليست مع البدن و معنى قولهم الإنسان حيوان ناطق أي حيوان من شأنه إدراك المعقولات بالفعل لأن كل واحد من أفرادها له أن يعقل صورة عقلية بالفعل - فكل إنسان هو عاقل و معقول بالقوة فيكون مجردا

بالقوة لا بالفعل والعقل والمعقول أمر واحد كما مر و

لو كان تركيب الإنسان من النفس و البدن كما توهمه الجمهور من مذهب الحكماء لزم منه أمور شنيعة -

منها أنا نفهم ضرورة من ذاتنا المشار إليها بأنا و مرادفاته معنى يصدق عليه

أنه المدرك للأشياء و المتحرك و الجالس في المكان فإن كان هذا المعنى هو البدن - لا يصدق عليه أنه مدرك إذ الجسم بما هو جسم غير مدرك و إن كان هو النفس فلا يصدق عليه أنه الجالس في المكان و إن كان المجموع فلا يصدق على مجموع مجرد و مادي أنهما مدرك و لا جالس كيف و الوحدة مساوقة للوجود بل هي عين الوجود فما لا وحدة له لا وجود له.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٩٠

و منها أن القوم عرفوا الإنسان بالحيوان الناطق و فسروا الناطق بمدرك الكليات

و هذا التعريف لا يصدق على النفس المجردة وحدها و هو ظاهر و لا على البدن وحده لأنه ليس مدركا فضلا عن الكليات و لا على المجموع.

و منها أن التركيب الحقيقي بين المجرد بالفعل و المادي بالفعل

بحيث يكون مجموعهما أمرا واحدا طبيعيا هو نوع من أنواع الجسم غير معقول و لهذا أنكره السيد الشريف في حواشي حكمة العين مستدلا عليه بأن كلا منهما واقع تحت جنس آخر أو النفس تحت الجوهر المجرد و البدن تحت المقارن فلا تركيب بينهما أصلا.

اللهم إلا باعتبار عقلي و لو ساغ ذلك لجاز أن يكون العقل الفعال مع ما يفعله و يدبره أمرا واحدا بالحقيقة و أما الذي تفصى به العلامة الدواني عن هذه الوجوه فغير سديد كما نذكره أما الذي أورده على الأول بقوله لا نسلم أنه يصدق على مفهوم أنا أنه جالس بل ذكر الشيخ و غيره أن المشار إليه بأنا هو النفس المجردة و وصفه بصفات الأجسام من حيث تعلقها بالجسم حيث يتوهم أنها هو و الإطلاقات العرفية لا يقتنص منها الحقائق ألا ترى أن العرف يصف الباري تعالى بصفات الأجسام و يشير إليه حال التوجه إليه إلى السماء مع تنزهه عن الجهات و صفات الأجسام ففيه نوع مكابرة و إن ارتكبه بعض الأكابر حتى صاحب الإشراق في المطارحات.

فإن القول بهذه الإطلاقات كلها على الإنسان مجازية عرفية من النامي و المتحيز و الماشي و الأكل و المشتهي و النائم و غير ذلك مما يصادم الوجدان و البرهان - جميعا أما الوجدان فظاهر فإننا نجد من أنفسنا هذه الصفات و الأفعال الجسمانية و أما البرهان فلأن المشار إليه بأنا إنسان و كل إنسان حيوان و كل حيوان جسم محمول - عليه هذه الصفات بالحقيقة لا بالمجاز و أما إجراء الصفات التشبيهية على الباري جل عزه فله خطب عظيم لا يعلمه إلا الراسخون في علم التوحيد.

و أما ما ذكره عن الوجه الثاني بقوله إن المعرف بالحيوان الناطق هو مجموع النفس و البدن فإن هذا المجموع جسم كما حققه الشيخ في الشفاء أنه جوهر يمكن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٩١

فيه فرض الأبعاد إذ لا يلزم أن يكون لجميع أجزائه دخل في قبول الأبعاد فإن الجسم الطبيعي لا دخل للصورة النوعية التي هي جزؤه في ذلك بل قبوله لها الصورة الجسمية لا غير فكذلك هذا المجموع يمكن فرض الأبعاد فيه وإن لم يكن للنفس التي هي بمنزلة الصورة دخل فيه.

ثم هذا المجموع مدرك للكليات لاشتماله على النفس المجردة التي هي المدركة لها وليس شرط صدق المشتق على الشيء قيام مبدأ الاشتقاق و عن الوجه الثالث بأن لا نسلم أن التركيب الحقيقي بين المجرد والمادي غير معقول إذا كان ذلك المجرد متعلقا به تعلق التدبير والتصريف و كون كل منهما تحت جنس آخر لا يقدح في كلاهما مقدوح مردود. أما الأول فلأن ما ذكره لو كان حقا يلزم أن يصدق على مجموع السماء والأرض - أنه سماء وأرض بأي اعتبار أخذت لأن هذه الاعتبارات التي يكون الشيء بحسب بعضها محمولا و بحسب بعضها جزءا غير محمول إنما يجري و يصح في معان تكون موجودة بوجود واحد لا في الأمور المتباينة الوجود.

ثم ما تشبث من كون قبول الأبعاد للجسمية لا للصورة النوعية مع أنه يصدق على المجموع أنه قابل للأبعاد فهو بعينه مصادرة على المطلوب الأول فإن الكلام هاهنا في اتحاد المادة بالصورة والصورة للشيء هي بعينها مصداق جميع المعاني التي تصدق على مادتها مع ما يزيد عليها من جهة الصورة فالصورة المتنوعة للحيوان هي بعينها قابلة للأبعاد نامية حساسة و الجسمية المنفصلة عنها عند الموت و الفساد غير التي تكون متحدة معها بالشخص كما أو مانا إليه و الذي ذكره من عدم اشتراط صدق المشتق على قيام المبدأ و إن كان له وجه لكن يجب إما القيام وإما الاتحاد و مجرد النسبة إلى المبدأ غير كاف للصدق و الأمثلة التي يستدل بها على ذلك كالحداد و التامر و الشمس و غيرها لا تعويل بها إذ أكثرها إما مجازات و إما أن يوضع فيها ما ليس بمبدأ مبدأ.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٩٢

و أما الثاني فالبرهان حاكم بأن مادة الشيء هي التي تصورت بذلك الشيء - لا التي لا يمكن أن يتصور به و الجسم لا يمكن أن يتصور بجوهر مفارق و إن كان مع أي إضافة فرضت له

تذكرة فيها تبصرة

اعلم أن السيد السند سلك في الجواب عن الإشكال الثالث مسلكا آخر غير ما سلكناه حاصله أن شيئا من النفس و البدن غير موجود بالفعل بمعنى أن هذا الوجود الذي به يتحقق المركب ليس وجودا لواحد منهما بل لأمر آخر قابل للتحليل العقلي إليهما و كذا في كل مركب من مادة و صورة فإنه قال لا نسلم أن التركيب الاتحادي بينهما مستلزم لذلك أي لتجسم المجرد أو تجرد المجسم لما عرفت من أن الصورة و المادة ليسا أمرين مختلفين في الخارج حتى يكون هناك مجرد و مادي بالفعل و لزم من صيرورتهما واحدا - أحد الأمرين المذكورين.

فإن الإنسان قد انقلب النطفة إليه بالوسائط و هو واحد طبيعي ليس له في الخارج جزء أصلا لا مادي و لا مجرد كسائر مراتب الانقلابات المذكورة و العقل يقسمه بحسب آثاره إلى جوهر قابل للأبعاد نام حساس مدرك للكليات و إن كان تلبسه ببعض هذه الآثار كقبول الأبعاد و النمو مستلزما لأن يكون له وضع و مقدار و حيز و تلبسه بإدراك الكليات لا يستلزم تلبسه بشيء من هذه الثلاثة فهو مدرك الكليات من حيث إنه مجرد عن هذه الثلاثة.

و هذا هو المراد بالمجرد عندهم فإن المجرد بمعنى العريان و أرادوا به العاري عن هذه الثلاثة ثم لما جاز أن ينقلب

الحيوان إلى أمر آخر يكون فيه بعض صفات الحيوان دون بعض آخر منها كان مات الفرس مثلاً فإنه يبقى فيه المقدار و الشكل و اللون دون النمو و الإحساس.

فإذا انقلب الإنسان إلى أمر لا يبقى المقدار و الوضع و التحيز و يبقى فيه إدراك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٩٣

الكليات فحينئذ انقلب إلى أمر مجرد يخرج المجرد الذي كان فيه بالقوة إلى الفعل و لا دليل على امتناع ذلك فمنشأ السؤال أخذ ما بالقوة مكان ما بالفعل فإذاً يكون النفس المجردة - التي هي صورة الإنسان جزءاً تحليلياً كما هو شأن سائر الصور لا جزءاً تركيبياً انتهى.

أقول ما ذكره ليس بصحيح فإن معنى اتحاد المادة بالصورة كما أشرنا إليه مراراً - أن موجوداً واحداً هو الصورة وجودها بعينه وجود ما هو المادة يعني أن كلا منهما مطلقاً موجود بهذا الوجود بالفعل و التحليل العقلي بهما إنما هو بحسب أخذ كل منهما - باعتبار التجريد عن الآخر مثلاً الجسم مادة للصورة النباتية و قيل صيرورة الجسم نباتاً - يصدق عليه أنه جوهر قابل للأبعاد فقط و إذا تصور بصورة النبات و انقلب إليها صار من أفراد مفهومات أخرى أيضاً غير الجوهرية و قبول الأبعاد و هي المتغذي و النامي و المولد.

فجميع هذه المعاني موجودة بالفعل لا بالقوة بوجود واحد لكن مطلقاً لا باعتبار تجريد بعضها فالجسم إن أخذ مطلقاً هو جنس صادق على النامي و إن أخذ مقيداً بعدم شيء آخر فيه يكون مادة و هكذا الفرق بين اعتبار الفصل و الصورة في معنى النامي فالحاجة إلى التحليل إنما هي بحسب وصف الجزئية.

و معنى كون هذه المعاني بالقوة إنما هو باعتبار وجوداتها التفصيلية عند الافتراق كما يقال السواد الشديد فيه بالقوة أمثال السواد الضعيف أو في المتصل الواحد الكبير أمثال الصغير بالقوة و لا يمكن لأحد أن يقول ليس هذا الحيوان جسماً بالفعل بل له أن يقول ليس جسماً محضاً بالفعل و كذا لا يمكن له أن يقول ليس هو حساساً بالفعل - بل له أن يقول ليس حساساً محضاً فكذلك الإنسان يوجد فيه بالفعل جميع المعاني الموجودة في ماهية الحيوان المطلق مع زيادة قوة فيها قبول العقل بالفعل لكن لما كان بين المعاني السابقة و إدراك الكليات بالفعل نحو تناقض و المتناقضان لا يوجدان بوجود واحد بالفعل يرد الإشكال المذكور و دفعه بما بيناه من أن المراد بالناطق - هو العاقل المدرك للكليات بالقوة و ليس للإنسان بحسب هذا الوجود الجسماني إدراك

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٩٤

المعقول بالفعل إلا بعد أن ينسلخ عنه هذا الوجود المادي و عن كثير من الغواشي و القشور - حتى ينتهي إلى وجود آخر و ينقلب إلى جوهر مفارق أخيراً و ذلك بأن تصير نفسه عقلاً - و الصورة الحسية له مادة معنوية لصورة عقلية هي عقل و معقول بالفعل

فصل (٩) في حل شكوك تتوهم ورودها على القول بالاتحاد بين الصور و المواد

مما أوردها صاحب حاشية التجريد على معاصره -

و إن كان بين ما ذهب إليه من الاتحاد و بين ما رأيناه بونا بعيداً قال إن التحليل العقلي يجري في البسائط فإن العقل

يحللها إلى جنس و هو اللون و فصل يميزها كالتقايض للبصر بالنسبة إلى السواد و المفرق للبصر بالنسبة إلى البياض فلو كان الحال على ما ذكره لكان لتلك الأعراض مادة و صورة.

مع أن الشيخ قد صرح بأن ليس للأعراض مادة و صورة بل نقول هذا التحليل يجري في المجردات فإنها جواهر مخصوصة لكل منها جنس هو الجوهر و فصل يميزه عن غيره فيلزم أن يكون لها مادة فلا تكون مجردة هذا خلف فعلم أن مرادهم من الهيولى - ليس ما تخيله من الجزء التحليلي الذي هو الجنس و لا بالصورة ما توهمه من الجزء التحليلي المميز في العقل الذي هو الفصل و إلا لكان ما سوى الواجب مطلقا ماديا عندهم فإن التحليل إلى الجنس و الفصل يجري في جميع الممكنات عندهم.

أقول الفرق بين البسيط و بين ما سمي مركبا ليس كما توهمه من أن الوجود في الأول للمعنى الجنسي و المعنى الفصلي واحد و في الثاني متعدد حتى يكون في النوع الواحد الطبيعي كالإنسان مثلا موجودات كثيرة حسب أجناسه و فصوله القريبة و البعيدة و إلا لم يكن زيد مثلا موجودا واحدا بل موجودات كثيرة لها وحدة اعتبارية - كوحدة العسكر إذ يمتنع أن يكون الموجودات المتباعدة الوجود بأي اعتبار أخذ موجودا واحدا لأن موضوع الوحدة العددية يستحيل أن يكون بعينه موضوع الكثرة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٩٥

و لو باعتبارين.

نعم الواحد العددي يجوز أن يكون مركبا من معان كثيرة بحسب المفهوم - واحدة بحسب الذات و الوجود بل الفرق بين ما يسمى بسيطا و ما يسمى مركبا هو الذي أومأنا إليه من أن معنى الذي فيه إزاء الجنس و المادة قد يوجد على حدة من غير معنى الذي إزاء الفصل و الصورة كالبذر للنبات و النطفة للحيوان.

فالصورة إذا وجدت بعد استعداد المادة بطل ذلك الوجود الذي كان للمادة فقط و حصل لمعناها وجود آخر أفضل و أتم من ذلك الوجود حيث يصدق عليه جميع المعاني الصادقة على تلك المادة على وجه أشرف مع معنى آخر هو الفصل القريب - و يترتب على هذه الصورة الفائضة جميع ما كانت مترتبة على مادتها و ليست المادة التي كانت هي قبل فيضان الصورة بشخصها هي المعنى الجنسي الذي يتحد بالصورة.

بل المعنى الجنسي إذا جرده العقل عن المعنى الفصلي كان مادة عقلية اتحدت بالمادة الخارجية ماهية و نوعا و كذا المعنى الفصلي إذا جرده العقل عن المعنى الجنسي - يقال له الصورة العقلية و هي في الوجود غير الصورة الخارجية لأنها في العقل و هذه في الخارج.

و أما قولهم ليس للأعراض مادة و صورة

و لا للمجردات مادة و صورة معناها ليس لها مادة جسمانية خارجية لا أنه ليس لها معنى نسبته إليه عند التحليل نسبة مادة الشيء إليه كيف و هم جعلوا نسبة الماهية إلى الوجود نسبة المادة إلى الصورة.

و قال الشيخ فالواجب بسيط الحقيقة و ما سواه زوج تركيب و ليس إطلاق المادة و الصورة على المركب و البسيط على مجرد الاشتراك اللفظي دون الاتحاد في المفهوم لأن مادة الشيء هي ما لا يتم بحسبها حقيقة ذلك الشيء و صورته هي تمام حقيقتها.

ثم قال إن ما تخيله من نفي بقاء صور العناصر في المركبات يخالف

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٩٦

لما أطبق عليه المعتبرون من الحكماء و ما ذكره من أن حلول الصورة الياقوتية مثلا في جميع الأجزاء حلول السريان و دعوى اتفاقهم على ذلك ممنوع بل الذي يستفاد من كلام الشيخ أن الصورة الياقوتية مثلا سارية في جميع أجزائه المركبة التي هي معروضة للكيفية المزاجية دون أجزائه البسيطة العنصرية - و لا بأس بأن يكون الشيء ساريا في بعض أجزاء الشيء دون بعض أو من بعض الحثيات دون بعض كالخط فإنه سار في السطح من حيث الطول فقط و السطح سار في الجسم التعليمي من حيث الطول و العرض دون العمق.

أقول أولا المتبع هو البرهان دون النقل عن أولئك الأعيان ثم إن بقاء صور العناصر على تقدير ثبوتها غير داخل في قوام الصورة الياقوتية مثلا و لا في قوام مادتها بما هي مادتها إذ المادة أمر مبهم الصور في ذاتها حتى لو فرض تحقق الصورة الياقوتية في مادة أخرى أو لا في مادة لكان ياقوتا على أنا سنبين في مبحث المزاج زيادة تبين أن شيئا من العناصر غير موجودة بصرفته في هذه الأنواع الطبيعية.

و الذي يدل على أن وجودات العناصر على تقدير تحققها في الياقوت لا مدخلية لها في الماهية الياقوتية و كذا وجودات العناصر و الأخلط لا مدخلية لها في الحيوان ما قاله بهمنيار في كتاب التحصيل و هو أنا نرى أجساما مركبة من العناصر و الأخلط - تحس و تحرك بالإرادة تغذو و تنمو و تطلب بدل ما يتحلل فيجب أن يكون أولا لهذه الأجسام خصوصية جسمية ليست لأجزائها فإن ما ليس لها خصوصية جسمية لم يصدر

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٩٧

عنه فعل خاص و النمو و الاغتذاء و طلب ما يتحلل يختص بهذا الجسم فإنه ليس لكل واحد من أخلطه و أجزائه العنصرية نمو و لا تحلل و لا اغتذاء كما ليس لكل واحد من أجزاء العين إبصار بل الإبصار للعين بما هو عين و النمو للبدن بما هو بدن.

فتبين أن للحيوانات و النباتات خصوصية أجسام ليست لكل واحد من أجزائها فوجود الأجزاء فيها إذن بالقوة لأن كل ما يكون وحدته بالفعل فالأجزاء فيه بالقوة انتهى كلامه ثم قال الفاضل الدواني إن ما نقله في معرض الاستدلال من كلام الشيخ في الحكمة العلائية لا يدل على مطلوبه لجواز أن يكون مراده من اتحاد الهول و الصورة بالذات اتحادهما من حيث كونهما جنسا و فصلا لا من حيث كونهما هولي و صورة بل نقول مراده من اتحادهما بالذات أن الوحدة العارضة لهما بالتركيب وحدة حقيقية لا وحدة اعتبارية كوحدة العسكر و العشرة و لذلك ما يتألف منهما ذات واحدة.

و كذلك ما نقل عن الإشارات و شرحه فإن معناه أن الهولي إذا تحصلت بحلول الصورة المائية مثلا صارت ماء بالعرض كما أن الجسم إذا حل فيه السواد صار أسود بالعرض فالأجزاء الذي هاهنا كالاتحاد بين العرضيات و موضوعاتها هو اتحاد عرضي - و لا ينافي ذلك أن يحصل منهما ثالث كما في العرضيات و معروضاتها انتهى أقول أما الذي ذكره أولا أن الاتحاد بين الهولي و الصورة إنما هو من جهة كونهما جنسا و فصلا فهو في الحقيقة اعتراف بالمقصود فإنا لا ندعي أن الهولي - بحسب أي وجود لها تكون متحدة بالصورة بل ندعي أن لها نحو من الوجود بحسبه - يكون عين الصورة و

ذلك الوجود هو بعينه وجود الصورة في الخارج و للصورة وجود آخر في العقل مجردا عن المادة. و أما الذي ذكره ثانيا من أن الوحدة العارضة لهما بالتركيب وحدة حقيقية لا اعتبارية في غاية الرداءة فإن كون الوحدة حقيقية في شيء عبارة عن كون ذلك الشيء بوجوده الذاتي عين أشياء كثيرة فيكون وحدتهما وحدة بالفعل و كثرتهما

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٩٨

بالقوة و هذا هو المطلوب بعينه لنا من كون الصورة لذاتها مصداقا لحمل معنى المادة عليها و أما الذي ذكره ثالثا فهو أيضا باطل سخيف من وجهين أحدهما أنه ينافي ما اعترف به سابقا من أن الوحدة العارضة لهما حقيقية لأنها متى كانت الوحدة بين شيئين حقيقية كان الاتحاد بينهما بالذات لا بالعرض لأن ما بالعرض هو ما بالمجاز عند المحققين كما اعترف به هذا الحبر المدقق و الفرق بين الصورة و العرض في ذلك مما لا يخفى على أهل التحقيق. و كيف يذهب على أهل البصيرة أن يقول إن الاتحاد بين الجسم المطلق و الماء - اتحاد بالعرض و الماء ماء بصورته و يقول الاتحاد بين الجنس و الفصل اتحاد بالعرض كيف و الجنس و الفصل موجودان بوجود واحد فكذلك المادة و الصورة إذا أخذتا مطلقتين و لعل منشأ هذا الوهم لبعضهم أنهم لما سمعوا قول الحكماء بأن الجنس عرض عام لفصله و الفصل خاصة للجنس و لم يفرقوا بين عوارض الماهية و عوارض الوجود فزعموا أن العارضية و المعروضية بينهما في الوجود و ذلك باطل فإن وجود الفصل بعينه وجود الجنس الذي يحصله و إنما الفرق بينهما بحسب الحد و المفهوم بمعنى أن مفهوم أحدهما غير مفهوم الآخر فمفهوم الناطق مثلا خارج عن المفهوم من الحيوان و كذا العكس مع أن وجود الناطق بعينه وجود الحيوان.

ثم قال و أما ما نقل أن الشيخ عرف الصورة بأنها ماهية الشيء حيث وصف صورة الجسم بأن الجسم هو بها هو هو فمراده أن حصول الجسم بالفعل بسبب الصورة - فالباء في قوله هو بها للسببية. و أما الباء في تعريف الماهية بما به الشيء هو هو فالمراد بها نفي السببية إذ الإنسان مثلا لا يصير بسبب ماهيته إنسانا ثم ما توهمه من أنه على تقدير اتحادهما في الوجود يصح تعريف صورة الجسم بماهيته غير مسلم كما لا يجوز تعريف الفصل بماهية الشيء و لو صح ذلك نظرا إلى اتحادهما في الوجود لجاز تعريف الهيولى أيضا بها

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٢٩٩

فإن الاتحاد مشترك بين الهيولى و الصورة عنده.

ثم لو كانت الصورة تمام ماهيته و هو بعينها الفصل عنده كانت الهيولى التي هي الجنس عنده خارجا عن الماهية و هذا مما لا يقول به عاقل و لو كانت الصورة ماهية الشيء لجاز وقوعه [عنها] في جواب السؤال عنه [عنها] بما هو و حينئذ يكون مأخوذا مطلقا ليصدق عليه فكان فصلا فيقع الفصل في جواب ما هو هذا خلف انتهى.

أقول إن الظاهر أن الباء في الموضعين استعملت بمعنى واحد هو معنى السببية - لكن يراد بها نفي سببية الغير فإذا قيل ماهية الشيء هي التي بها هو هو أي ليست هويته بسبب شيء آخر و كذا إذا قيل صورة جسم هي التي بها ذلك الجسم معناه أن الصورة إذا حصلت لا يحتاج ذلك الجسم في حقيقته إلى شيء غيرها ثم عدم تسليمه تعريف صورة الشيء بماهيته مما لا وجه له و لا مستند فيه.

وقوله كما لا يجوز تعريف الفصل بماهية الشيء فيه مغالطة ناشئة من الخلط بين مفهوم الفصل وطبيعته و مفهوم الماهية و مصداقها أو من الخلط بين مطلق التعريف و بين التحديد و إلا فلا حجر لأحد في تعريف فصل الشيء بماهيته بأن يعرف الناطق مثلا بالإنسان فإن مفهوم الإنسان صادق على الناطق مساو له في الصدق و ربما كان أشهر و أعرف من الناطق عند قوم.

نعم لا يمكن تحديد الفصل بالماهية بل لا حد للفصل سيما على ما ذهبنا إليه من كون الصورة التي يحاذي بها الفصل هي بعينها وجود من الوجودات و الماهية خارجة عن الوجود حدا و مفهوما متحدة معه وجودا و من ذهب إلى أن صورة هذا الشيء هي تمام ماهيته و عرفها بما ذكر لم يفعل ذلك لمجرد الاتحاد بينهما في الوجود حتى لزم أن يكون المادة أيضا كذلك و جاز تعريفها بما ذكر.

و أما قوله لو كانت الصورة تمام ماهية الشيء لجاز وقوعها في جواب ما هو إلى آخره ممنوع فإن الإنسان مثلا تمام ماهية الحيوان و غير واقع في جواب السؤال عنه بل ما ذكره مغالطة نشأت من الاشتباه بين الماهية و الوجود.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٠٠

ألا ترى أن وجود كل شيء تمام ماهيته و عينها و لا يمكن وقوع وجود الشيء - في جواب السؤال عنه بما هو و قد علمت أن صورة الشيء هي وجوده بعينه و وجود كل شيء بعينه وجود جميع ذاتياته بالذات و عرضياته بالعرض. و اعلم أن الشيخ نص في بعض رسائله بأن كل شيء بصورته هو ذلك الشيء لا بمادته و بالغ في بيان ذلك حتى قال السرير سرير بهيئته لا بخشبته و السيف سيف بحدته لا بحديده و الحكماء ذكروا في فائدة اقتناء الحكمة و غايتها أنها تصوير نفس الإنسان بها عالما عقليا مضاهيا لهذا العالم الحسي مستدلين بأن العالم عالم بصورته لا بمادته فإذا حصل في النفس صور هذه الموجودات من الأفلاك و العناصر و ما فيها على وجه عقلي كانت النفس عالما عقليا فعلم من هذا الكلام أن صورة كل شيء تمام حقيقته و وجودها وجود ماهيته.

تبصرة

و اعلم أن التعويل و الاعتماد منا في هذا المطلب الذي هو من المهمات العظيمة و غيرها ليس على مجرد النقل من الحكماء بل على البرهان إلا أن أقوالهم إذا وافقت توقع للقلب زيادة اطمينان على أن طبيعة اللفظ مثار الخلط و الاشتباه و هذا المطلب لشدة غموضه لم أعرف أحدا من المشهورين بالحكمة بعد الأوائل كالشيخ و أتباعه كان مدعنا لهذا الأصل على وجه الأحكام و الإتمام لا بتناؤه على عدة قوانين مخالفة للمشهور.

منها كون الوجود في كل شيء موجودا.

و منها كون الوجود الواحد يقبل الاشتداد و التضعف.

و منها أن الجوهر يقبل الحركة و الاشتداد في ذاته.

و منها أن مادة الشيء هي بعينها جهة ضعفه في الوجود و صورته هي شدة وجوده.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٠١

و منها تجويز أن بعض الصور الجسمانية كالنفس مع كونها طبيعة جسمانية - فيها قوة أن تصير مادة للصور المجردة و

متحدة بها بحيث يكون هي هي وقد كانت قبل ذلك هي عين المادة الجسمانية.

و منها تجويز أن يكون أمر بسيط عين ماهيات كثيرة قد وجدت بوجود ذلك البسيط على وجه أعلى و أشرف من وجوداتها الخاصة التفصيلية إلى غير ذلك من المباحث الغامضة فالذي نقلنا من كلمات الشيخ و غيره كبهمنيار و الشارحين للإشارات - مما أجرى الله به الحق على لسانهم فالغرض من نقله كسر سورة إنكار المنكرين - و صولة استبعادهم ذلك و إلا فالذي شاع و ذاع في الكتب كالشفاء و غيره هو أن المركب الطبيعي يوجد فيه جزءان موجودان بالفعل بوصف الكثرة.

قال في الهيات الشفاء و كل بسيط فإنه ماهية ذاته لأنه ليس هناك شيء قابل لماهيته لم يكن ذلك الشيء ماهية المقبول الذي حصل له لأن ذلك المقبول كان يكون صورته و صورته ليس هو الذي هو قابل لماهيته و لو كان هناك شيء يقابل حده و لا المركبات بالصورة وحدها هي ما هي فإن الحد من المركبات ليس هو من الصورة وحدها بل حد الشيء يدل على جميع ما يتقوم به ذاته فيكون هو أيضا يتضمن المادة بوجه.

و بهذا يعرف الفرق بين الماهية في المركبات الصور [بين الماهية و الصورة في المركبات] - و الصورة دائما جزء من الماهية في المركبات و كل بسيط فإن صورته أيضا ذاته لأنه لا تركيب فيها و أما المركبات فلا صورتها ذاتها و لا ماهيتها ذاتها و أما الصورة فظاهر أنها جزء منها - و أما الماهية فهي ما به هي ما هي و إنما هي ما هي بكون الصورة مقارنة للمادة - و هو أزيد من معنى الصورة و المركب ليس هذا المعنى أيضا بل هو مجموع الصورة و المادة فإن هذا هو ما هو المركب و الماهية هي نفس هذا التركيب فالصورة أحد ما يضاف إليه هذا التركيب و الماهية هي نفس هذا التركيب الجامع للمادة و الصورة - و قال في موضع آخر منها الأشياء التي يكون فيها اتحاد على أصناف.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٠٢

أحدها أن يكون كاتحاد المادة و الصورة فيكون المادة شيئا لا وجود له بانفراد ذاته بوجه و إنما يصير بالفعل بالصورة على أن يكون الصورة أمرا خارجا عنه - ليس أحدهما الآخر و يكون المجموع ليس و لا واحدا منهما. و الثاني اتحاد أشياء يكون كل واحد منها في نفسه مستغنيا من الآخر في القوام إلا أنها تتحد فيحصل منها شيء واحد إما بالتركيب و إما بالاستحالة و الامتزاج.

و منها اتحاد أشياء بعضها لا يقوم بالفعل إلا بما انضم إليه و بعضها يقوم بالفعل - فيقوم الذي لا يقوم بالفعل بالذي يقوم بالفعل و يجتمع من ذلك جملة متحدة مثل اتحاد الجسم و البياض و هذه الأقسام كلها لا يكون المتحدات منها بعضها بعضا و لا جملتها أجزاءها و لا يحمل البتة شيء منها على الآخر حمل التواطؤ.

و منها اتحاد شيء بشيء قوة هذا الشيء منهما أن يكون ذلك الشيء لا أن ينضم إليه فإن الذهن قد يعقل معنى يجوز أن يكون ذلك المعنى بعينه أشياء كثيرة إلى آخر ما ذكره في كيفية اتحاد الجنس بفصله.

أقول كلما وجد من عبارات القوم حكموا فيه بالمغايرة بين المادة و الصورة - و بمغايرة الماهية للصورة في المركب يمكن توجيه ذلك الكلام بوجه لا ينافي الاتحاد.

أما في الأول فبان يقال الحكم بالمغايرة بينهما بحسب اعتبار كون المادة مادة و الصورة صورة لا بحسب اعتبار كونهما جنسا و فصلا.

و أما في الثاني فبان المراد من الصورة حيث حكم بأنها غير الماهية هي الصورة - بحسب وجودها الكوني الخارجي و قد علمت أن كل صورة طبيعية في الخارج هي مركبة من القوة و الفعل و الكون و الفساد حيث حكم بأنها عين الماهية أريد بها الصورة بحسب وجودها الاستقلالي العقلي

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٠٣

فصل (١٠) في تتمة القول في الاتحاد بين المادة و الصورة جرحا و تعديلا

قال العلامة الدواني و أنت تعلم أن البرهان قد دل على أن مدرك الكليات - لا يكون إلا مجردا فإذا كانت النفس متحدة مع البدن في الوجود و إنما تصير مجردا بالموت كما تخيله لم ينطبع فيه الصورة الكلية فيلزم أن لا يكون مدرك الكليات إلا بعد الموت.

و أيضا كيف يتصور استحالة المادي إلى المجرد فإذا كانت النفس من مراتب استحالات البدن لا يكون الآثار المترتبة على التجرد حاصلا بالفعل ما لم يتحقق الاستحالة كما أن آثار النطفة لا توجد في الغذاء و آثار العلقة لا توجد في النطفة و آثار البدن لا توجد في العلقة انتهى.

أقول ما دل برهان على أن أفراد البشر في آن تكونهم مدركين للكليات بما هي كليات بحسب وجودها العقلي المشترك بين الكثرة من غير شائبة مقدار و وضع و تحيز بل كما أن الماهية الموجودة في الخارج كلية بالقوة جزئية بالفعل - من شأنها أن تجرد عن المواد و تنتزع عنها الغواشي بتعمل و تجريد و نزع كذلك القوة الإنسانية المدركة لها عاقلة بالقوة إذ من شأنها أن تنتزع عن نفسها المادة و غواشيها - فتصير عند ذلك عاقلة أي مدركة للكليات بالفعل كيف و قد أقمنا البرهان على أن العاقل متحد بالمعقول فالمدرك ما لم يصير وجودها وجود الكلي بالفعل يمتنع أن يدرك كليا بالفعل. و بالجملة مرتبة المدرك و المدرك في كل إدراك مرتبة واحدة فما أسخف قول من زعم أن الهوية الجسمانية القريبة النشأة من نشأة الجماد و النبات كالجنين تكون صورته التي بها هو ما هو عاقلة لذاته و لذات الكليات المجردة بالفعل و قوله فيلزم أن لا تكون مدركة للكليات إلا بعد الموت

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٠٤

أقول الموت إن كان عبارة عن انصراف النفس عن عالم الطبيعة فلا بد منه في كل تعقل و إدراك لمعقول لكن التعقل التام للمعقولات يلزمه الانصراف التام و التعقل الناقص يلزمه الانصراف الناقص و ربما يكون النفس مجردة بجهة مادية بجهة أخرى و وحدة النفس ليست كوحدة النقطة و أشباهها حتى لا يتحد بأشياء كثيرة - بل لها وحدة جامعة لمقامات شتى و إن كان الموت عبارة عن فساد البدن عن قابلية تعلق النفس فليس ذلك شرطا في صيرورة النفس عقلا بالفعل و لا كونها عقلا بالفعل مما ينافي أن يدبر الجسم الطبيعي ببعض قواها التي هي بمنزلة شعاع من نور العقل شبه ما كانت النفس أولا قبل الاستكمال سيما البدن الذي ضعفت قوته و وهنت مادته إذ يكفيه لمعة من نور العقل الفعال ألا ترى أن النفس في حالة النوم مجردة عن البدن و لكن تدبر البدن ببعض قواها و أما إنكارها لاستحالة المادي إلى المجرد فمبناه على نفي الاشتداد للجوهر و قد أثبتناه فيما سبق بيانه.

و أما قوله لو توقف إدراك الكليات على استحالة النفس إلى درجة العقل لم يترتب على النفس قبل ذلك.

فالجواب ما أشرنا إليه من أن المترتب عليها أولاً قوة ذلك الإدراك واستعداده وهذه القوة أعني قوة وجود العقل بمنزلة فصل النفس كما أن قوة وجود الجسم بمنزلة فصل الهيولى إذ النفس أولاً عقل هيولاني ثم يصير عقلاً بالفعل بعد استحالات كثيرة لها في التجوهر النفساني.

ثم قال لا نسلم أن التركيب الحقيقي بين المجرد والمادي غير معقول إذا كان ذلك المجرد متعلقاً به تعلق التدبير و التصرف كما بين النفس والبدن و كون كل منهما تحت جنس آخر لا يقدر فيه. و ليت شعري إذا لم يكن الاختلاف في الحقيقة مانعاً من الاتصال الحقيقي في أجزاء الياقوت بل من الاتحاد في الوجود كما في المادة والصورة فلما ذا يمنع من التركيب الحقيقي.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٠٥

و الأستاذ أي السيد الشريف جوز التركيب الحقيقي بين الجوهر والعرض كالسرير فلما ذا لا يجوز بين جوهر و جوهر و عدم التركيب بين العقل الفعال و بين الأجسام لأنه ليس متعلقاً بها تعلق التدبير و التصرف و لو كان كذلك لكان نفساً لا عقلاً - على أنه لو جاز اتحاد النفس مع البدن فلما لا يجوز بين العقل والجسم فما هو جوابكم فهو جوابه انتهى. أقول قد اعترف هذا التحرير بأنه لا بد في المركب الطبيعي أن يكون له وحدة حقيقة و مجرد تحقق الإضافة بينهما لا يجعلهما ذاتاً واحدة و إلا لكان كل اثنين في هذا العالم واحداً إذ ما من جسمين أو عرضين في هذا العالم إلا و بينهما إضافة وضعية - لا أقل و نسبة التدبير و التصرف نسبة ضعيفة لا يحصل بمجرد وحدة حقيقة بين المتضامين و نسبة الإيجاد و التأثير أكد و أقوى من نسبة التصرف و التحريك و مع ذلك لم يحصل بين العقل الفعال و الجسم وحدة حقيقية فقد علم أن ملاك الأمر في حصول الوحدة الحقيقية لنوع من الأنواع هو أن يكون النسبة بين جزئيه المادي و الصوري بالاتحاد دون غيرها من النسب و عدم كون العقل الفعال نفساً للأجسام ليس لأن ارتباطه بها أضعف من نسبة التحريك و التدبير بل لأن وجوده أرفع و أقدس من أن يتصل به الأجسام بما هي أجسام بخلاف النفس فإنها بما هي نفس متصلة بالبدن.

و العجب أن نسبة الحلول كما بين النوع و العارض له لا يوجب عنده حصول الوحدة الحقيقية بينهما و نسبة التحريك و التدبير يوجب ذلك مع أن تلك النسبة أقوى و أشد فإن قلت إذا لم يكن نسبة التدبير و التصرف كافية في الاتحاد فكيف يحكم بأن النفس متحدة بالبدن و ليس نسبتها إلا نسبة التدبير و التصرف.

قلنا لا نسلم أن لا نسبة بينهما إلا هذه النسبة بل هي من وجه متحدة بالبدن و من وجه متصرفة فيه تصرفاً طبيعياً و من وجه مدبرة فيه تدبيراً اختيارياً كما أن الطبيعة تقوم المادة بوجه و تتحد [بها] بوجه و تفعل بها فعلاً في غيرها بوجه. و قوله كون كل منهما تحت جنس آخر لا يقدر فيه إلى آخره مدفوع لأن الأمور

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٠٦

المتخالفة بالجنس يستحيل أن يحصل منها أمر واحد حقيقي لأن لكل جنس نحواً آخر من الوجود و كذا الأمور المتخالفة بالنوع إذا كانت متحصلة بالفعل و أما الاختلاف المعنوي بين أجزاء ماهية واحدة كاجناسه و فصوله البعيدة و القريبة فليس ذلك اختلافاً جنسياً و لا نوعياً فإن الفرق بين كل جنس و فصله المقسم له من حيث هما جنس و فصل ليس إلا

بالإبهام والتعيين لا بأن يكون الجنس شيئا والفصل شيئا آخر وكذلك نسبة الجنس إلى نوعه ونسبة جنس الجنس إلى فصله ونسبة فصل نوع النوع إلى جنسه.

و أما الجنس والفصل من حيث اعتبار كونهما مادة و صورة فهما بهذا الاعتبار وإن كانتا متخالفتين نوعا إذ قد اعتبر في كل منهما قيد ينافي بحسبه أن يكون عين صاحبه لكن ليس مناط الاتحاد بينهما هو هذه الجهة بل الجهة الأولى. ثم ما نقل عن أستاذة الشريف من تجويز التركيب الحقيقي بين الجوهر والعرض مبرهن الفساد والتمثيل بالسرير إن وقع من جهة الخشب والهيئة المخصصة - فهو باطل كما سبق وإن كان من جهة المقدار التعليمي والشكل المعين فليس بين الجزئين تخالف في الجنس لأن نسبة أحدهما إلى الآخر بعينها النسبة التي يكون بين الجنس والفصل وقوله على أنه لو جاز اتحاد النفس بالبدن فليجز اتحاد العقل بالجسم علمت جوابه ببيان الفرق بين الارتباطين. ثم قال العلامة الدواني ثم من البين أنه على تقدير اتحاد النفس والبدن - يكون الصور العلمية ذا وضع معين ومقدار معين فلا يكون كلية ولا يجديده اختلاف الحيثية.

أقول اختلاف الحيثية وإن صح أنه غير كاف في هذا الباب لكن يكفي فيه اختلاف أطوار النفس بواسطة تحولاتها الذاتية واختلاف نشأتها كنشأة التعلق ونشأة التجرد وكذا اختلاف القوى والدرجات لنفس واحدة و قل لي لعمر حبيبك أ ليست القوة اللمسية والقوة النظرية كلتاهما من قوى نفس واحدة وأين مقام إحداهما من

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٠٧

مقام الأخرى للنفس الإنسانية أطوار متفاوتة مع كونها ذاتا واحدة لها وجود واحد - والنفس بحسب بعضها متصلة بالبدن وبحسب بعضها متصلة بالعقل.

ثم قال إن ما ذكره يقتضي أن لا يكون الهيولى أمرا حاصلًا بالفعل بل يقتضي أن لا يكون شيء من الأنواع حاصلًا بالفعل ضرورة أن كل نوع متحد مع العوارض الصادقة عليه ثم إذا كانت الهيولى متحدة مع الصورة في الوجود الخارجي فلا يكون جزءا خارجيا فلا يتحقق الفرق بين المادة والجنس بما ذكره القوم من أن الجنس محمول دون المادة.

أقول التركيب الاتحادي بين الشئيين لا يقتضي أن لا يكون أحدهما موجودا بل يقتضي أن يكون كلاهما موجودا بوجود واحد لا بوجودين متعددين حين التركيب وإن جاز أن يكون لأحدهما أو لكل منهما وجود آخر منحازا عن صاحبه ولا يلزم من كون المادة متحدة بالصورة محمولة عليها أن يكون اتحادها معها من حيث كونها مادة خارجية أو عقلية بل هي بحسب كونها مادة عقلية جزء عقلي للماهية والجزء غير محمول بل إنما اتحادها وصحة حملها من حيثية أخرى وهي أن تؤخذ مطلقا لا بشرط خروج الجزء الآخر منه.

و أما النوع العارض المحمول عليه فليس بينهما اتحاد بالذات عندنا بل بالعرض - وأما كون هذه الأجزاء خارجية فلما أشرنا سابقا من أن لها نحو آخر من الوجود في الخارج وكذا الفرق بين المادة والجنس بأن المادة بما هي مادة أي بوصف القابلية والاستعداد توجد بوجود مباين لوجود الصورة بخلاف المادة بما هي جنس أي مأخوذ مطلقا فإنها محمولة على الصورة كما مر وتحقيق هذا المقام كما وقع التنبيه عليه مرارا أن لكل من المادة والصورة تجردا وتلاحقا بالأخرى على وجه دون وجه ولنمثل في ذلك بالهيولى الأولى والجسمية.

فنقول الهيولى مع كونها من وجه قوة قابلة وسببا معدا لفيضان الصورة - لكن من وجه آخر تكون تابعة للصورة و

الصورة مقتضية لها و مقتضي الشيء كيف

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٠٨

يكون مفتقرا إلى ذلك الشيء فعلم أن الهيولى السابقة غير الهيولى اللاحقة. ثم لما كانت السابقة و إن كانت قوة قابلة للصورة لكنها لا تقوم أيضا بذاتها بل بالصورة فعلم أن الصورة السابقة المقومة للهيولى غير اللاحقة المفتقرة في الحدوث إليها و هكذا القياس في غيرهما من المواد و الصور و بهذا يندفع كثير من الإشكالات.

منها الإشكال المذكور في بيان الفرق بين جامع أجزاء المني و حافظ تركيبه. و منها الإشكال الذي سبق من أن بدن الحيوان و هو مادته لما كان متقوما بنفسه التي هي صورته كيف تكون باقية بعد زوال نفسه و الحل كما علمت من أن هذا غير ذاك بالعدد.

و منها الإشكال في عدم بقاء صور العناصر في مادة المواليد حيث يظهر تلك الصور بالعمل بالقرع و الإنبيق. و الجواب أن المادة الكائنة فيها هذه الصور بهذا العمل غير المصورة بالصورة الجامعة إلى غير ذلك من الإشكالات و سنرجع في بعض الفصول الآتية إلى تحقيق عدم بقاء العناصر في مبحث المزاج.

و اعلم أن هذين التحريرين قد أفرغا جهدهما و بلغا غاية سعيهما في تبين هذا المقام و بسطا الكلام فيه حتى رمى كل منهما إلى صاحبه أي سهم كان في كنان علمه و مع ذلك لم يصل واحد منهما إلى رتبة التنقيح و مشرب التحقيق حيث ارتكب أحدهما نفي وجود الأجزاء المحسوسة و الأعضاء كالعظم و اللحم و غيرهما في الحيوان - و نفي وجود النفس و البدن في الإنسان بل نفي وجود المادة و الصورة في كل نوع جمساني.

و أما الآخر فحيث أهمل بل أبطل الوحدة الحقيقية في هذه الأنواع الطبيعية - و لم يحصل الفرق بين صيرورة الهيولى ماء و بين صيرورة الجسم أبيض لجعله الاتحاد

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣٠٩

بين المادة و الصورة بالعرض كما بين الموضوع و العرض كل ذلك لعدم تحصيلهما حقيقة الوجود و الموجود بما هو موجود حيث زعم أحدهما أن موجودية الشيء بنفس هذا المعنى المصدر الذي يتكثر بتكثر الماهيات و المعاني الكلية.

فعلى هذا لا معنى للاتحاد بين الشئيين و أما الآخر فحيث زعم أن موجودية كل شيء هو عبارة عن نحو اتحاده بمفهوم الموجود المشتق أي هذا المفهوم الكلي الذهني و لم يحصل أحد منهما أن الوجود هوية عينية تشتد و تضعف و تكمل و تنقص و تصور المادة بصورة عبارة عن اشتدادها و استكمالها و إذا اشتد الوجود أو كمل يصدق عليه بعض ما لم يصدق عليه قبل ذلك فالاتحاد بين الشئيين لا بد منه من جهة وحدة - و جهة تعدد فالوحدة من جهة الوجود و التعدد من جهة المعنى و الماهية و لا حجر و لا ركافة فيه كما زعمه العلامة الدواني حيث قال لا ريب أن التركيب يقتضي الأجزاء و تغايرها و الاتحاد ينافي ذلك و هذا كما اصطلح بعض الصوفية على التعيين الإطلاقي و الهوية اللاهوتية و حكم بأنه ركيك جدا - لأنه يوهم أمرا غير صحيح.

أقول كل الركاقة في هذه المناقشة في التسمية و المضايقة في الاصطلاح بعد تصحيح المعنى

فصل (١١) في تنمة القول في أحوال العلل من حيث كونها مبادي للمتغيرات و الطبيعيات

قد مر فيما سبق أحوال العلل الأربع و أحكامها على وجه لا يختص بالمعلول المتغير و هاهنا نتكلم فيها على وجه يختص بالمتغير و يقتضي سهولة السلوك من جهتها- إلى معرفة المعلولات الطبيعية فنقول إن لكل جسم سببا عنصريا و سببا فاعليا و سببا صوريا و سببا غائيا أما إثبات أن لكل واقع في التغير هذه الأربعة فأمراً لا يتجشمه نظر الطبيعيين و هو

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣١٠

أمر موكول تحقيقه إلى العالم الإلهي.

و أما تحقيق ماهيتها تصورا و الاطلاع على أحوالها و وضعها و تسليمها فأمراً لا محيص عنه لباحث الأمور الطبيعية المتغيرة فليعلم أولاً أن الفاعل في الأمور الطبيعية هو مبدأ الحركة في آخر من حيث هو آخر.

و المراد بالحركة هاهنا كل خروج من القوة إلى الفعل في أي مادة كان- و النفس إذا عالجت نفسها فالمعالج يحرك العليل بما هو طبيب لا بما هو عليل و المستعلاج يقبل العلاج بما هو عليل لا بما هو طبيب و هذا أيضاً إنما يتم على مذهبنا في النفس في كونها ذا مقامات مختلفة لأن موضوع القبول و الفعل مما لا يكفي فيه التغير بالاعتبار إذ ليس هذا التغير كتغير العاقل و المعقول مثلاً.

اعلم أن الفاعل بهذا المعنى إما مهيب أو للحركة أو متم لها فالمهيب هو الذي يصلح المادة بالإحالات و الإنضاجات المعدة لقبول الصورة و المتمم هو الذي يفيد الصورة و هي تمام الحركة.

و الحق أن الأول مباشر للمادة ملاصق و الثاني مفارق و لا شبهة في أن مفيد الصور المقومة للأنواع الطبيعية سيما التي للأنواع الشريفة كالفلك و الإنسان مثلاً- يجب أن يكون مبدأ خارجاً عن عالم الطبيعة و ليس على الطبيعي أن يعلم ذلك أنه ما هو و أنه واحد أو كثير بعد أن يضع أن هاهنا أمراً يعطي الصور و كل من المهيب و المعطي مبدأ للحركة و مخرج للمادة من القوة إلى الفعل و كل منهما عند التحقيق صورة أيضاً لكن غير الصورة التي يترتب وجودها على وجود الحركة و القوة.

أما المهيب فصورة جزئية أحسن وجوداً من التي إليها الحركة و أما المعطي فصورة كلية أشرف من الصورة المعطاة و كلاهما بعد المثير أي المشوق فإن من جملة مبادي الحركة هو الذي يقال له المثير أو المشوق فهو المبدأ البعيد للحركة- بتوسط أمر آخر و ذلك لأنه سبب للصورة النفسانية التي هي مبدأ حركة إرادية فهو مبدأ المبدأ.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣١١

بل نقول ذلك المثير المؤتم به ربما يكون مبدأ لصور نفسانية مستحيلة متجددة- كإرادات متتالية يكون تلك الصور النفسانية المتجددة مبدأ قريباً لحركات بدنية حيوانية يقال لها الحركة الإرادية و الحركة الإرادية يشبه أن تكون هي التي في النفوس لا التي في الأبدان و لو سميت هذه تسخيرية و التي في النفوس الإرادية لم يكن بعيداً.

و بالجملة المثير هو مبدأ المبدأ و هذا هو معنى الفاعل في الطبيعيات و هو أخص من فاعل الوجود مطلقاً سواء كان متغيراً أو لا و أما المبدأ القابلي أعني المادة- فنقول المبادي المادية كلها مشتركة في معنى و هو كونها حاملة لأمور

غريبة عن ذاتها و بهذا خرج نسبة الملزومات إلى لوازمها و لها نسبة إلى المركب و نسبة إلى الهيئة الصورية فالأولى كنسبة الجسم إلى الأبيض أعني المركب من الجسم و البياض و الثانية كنسبة الجسم إلى بياضه و نسبتها إلى المركب نسبة الجزئية و وجود الجزء في ذاته أقدم من وجود الكل و هو مقوم للكل.

و أما نسبتها إلى الهيئة فذكر الشيخ أنها لا تعقل إلا على أقسام ثلاثة إما أن لا يكون أحدهما و لا الآخر متقدما أي سببا و لا متأخرا أي مسببا و إما أن يكون مفتقرة في التقوم بالفعل إلى أمر و هو يكون متقدما عليها في الوجود الذاتي كان وجوده ليس متعلقا بالمادة بل بمباد أخرى و لكنه يلزمه إذا وجد أن يقوم مادته و يحصلها بالفعل - كما أن كثيرا من الأشياء تكون متقومة بشيء و مقومة لشيء آخر لكنه ربما كان ما يقوم لمفارقة لذاته و ربما كان تقويمه بمخالطة من ذاته.

أقول إن الشيخ كاد أن يتكلم في هذا المقام بصريح الحق لو قال إن هذا المبدأ المقوم للمادة يكون تقومه بأسبابه بحسب المفارقة و تقويمه للمادة بحسب المخالطة فلمثل هذا الأمر وجهان وجوديان أحدهما مفارق و الآخر مخالط و هذا الأمر هو الصورة

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣١٢

الجوهرية و قال أيضا و له قسط في تقويم المادة بمقارنة ذاته أو هو كل المقوم القريب و بيان ذلك في الصناعة الأولى. أقول ذلك البيان قد مضى في هذا الكتاب في مباحث التلازم بين الهيولى و الصورة و لا يتم ذلك إلا بأن يذعن أن للصورة الجوهرية وجودا ماديا و وجودا عقليا بأحدهما تقوم المادة تقويما بعيدا بالمشاركة و بالآخر تقومها تقويما قريبا بالاستقلال.

أما القسم الثالث فهو أن يكون المادة أقدم وجودا من ذلك الأمر لأنها متقومة في ذاتها حاصلة بالفعل ثم تقوم به ذلك الأمر و هو المسمى بالعرض و الهيئة بالمعنى المقابل للصورة.

فالقسم الأول أوجب إضافة المعية و القسمان الآخران إضافة تقدم و تأخر قال الشيخ و القسم الأول ليس بظاهر الوجود و كأنه إن كان له مثال فهو النفس و المادة الأولى - إذا اجتمعا في تقويم الإنسان.

أقول الحق في هذا المقام تثنية القسمة و الاكتفاء بالقسمين الأخيرين فإن الكلام في المبادي الذاتية للأمر الطبيعية و لا يمكن التركيب الطبيعي بين أمور لا تعلق لأحدهما بالآخر و أما الذي مثل به من النسبة بين الهيولى الأولى و النفس و إن كانت الهيولى مادة للنفس و إن كانت بوسط و النفس صورة مدبرة لها أو صورة لصورتها فهي متقومة بالنفس و للنفس مرتبة التقويم و التحصيل لها فيكون متقدما عليها في الوجود و وحدة الهيولى وحدة ضعيفة لا تنافي بين تأخراتها من أشياء و تقدماتها على أشياء و إن لم يؤخذ الهيولى بالقياس إليها و لا النفس بما هي نفس متعلقة بها أو بالمركب منها و من هيئة أخرى فلا المادة مادة و لا النفس نفس كل منهما غير مضافة إلى أخرى إضافة تعلقية.

ثم قال و للمادة مع المتكون عنها الذي هي جزؤه من وجود أنواع أخرى اعتبار المناسبة و يصلح أن ينتقل هذه المناسبة إلى الصور مع المتكون فإن المادة قد تكفي وحدها في أن يكون هي الجزء المادي لما هو ذو مادة في صنف من الأشياء و قد لا يكفي ما لم ينضم إليها مادة أخرى و ذلك في صنف آخر منها كالعقاقير للمعجون و الكيموسات للبدن

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣١٣

و ذلك إما بحسب الاجتماع فقط كاشخاص الناس للعسكرية و المنازل للمدينة و إما بحسب الاجتماع و التركيب معا فقط كاللبن و الخشب للبيت و إما بحسب الاجتماع و التركيب و الاستحالة كالأسطوانات للكائنات فإنها لا تكفي نفس اجتماعها و لا نفس تركيبها بالتماس و التلاقي و قبول الشكل لأن يكون منها الكائنات بل بأن يفعل بعضها من بعض و يفعل بعضها عن بعض و يستقر للجملة كيفية متشابهة يسمى مزاجا فحينئذ يستعد للصورة النوعية انتهى.

أقول المادة لصورة واحدة آية صورة كانت لا تكون إلا واحدة و في جميع هذه الأمثلة التي ذكرها ليس و لا يكون لصورة واحدة إلا مادة واحدة أما المجتمعات التي لا استحالة فيها لأجزائها فالمادة فيها بالجملة هو مقدار المجموع مع قابلية ضرب من الوحدة الاتصالية لها كاللبنات و الأخشاب لصورة البيت و شكله و أما المجتمعات التي وقعت فيها استحالة لأجزائها فهي بعد الاستحالة تصير مستعدة للصورة - و هي حينئذ بما هي مادة لشيء واحد واحدة و أما اعتبار اجتماعها قبل الاستحالة بل قبل التماس فهي بذلك الاعتبار أيضا مما يتصور له صورة واحدة لمادة واحدة أما الصورة فهيئة اجتماعها في الوجود و لو مع التباعد و أما مادتها فنفس ذواتها بلا اعتبار تلك الهيئة و في بعض الأنواع لفرط نقص صورتها لا فضيلة للصورة على المادة مثل العدد فإن كل مرتبة من العدد صورتها الوحدانية و هي كمية الوحدات عين مادتها المتكثرة و هي الوحدات.

قال الشيخ فإذا قسمنا المادة إلى ما يحدث عنها فقد يكون المادة مادة لقبول الكون و قد يكون لقبول الاستحالة و قد يكون لقبول الاجتماع و التركيب و قد يكون لقبول التركيب و الاستحالة و أما الصورة فقد يقال للهيئة التي إذا حصلت في المادة - قومتها نوعا و يقال صورة لنفس النوع و يقال صورة للشكل و التخطيط خاصة و يقال صورة لهيئة الاجتماع كصورة العسكر و صورة المقدمات المقترنة و يقال صورة للنظام المستحفظ كالشريعة و يقال صورة لكل هيئة كيف كانت و يقال صورة لحقيقة كل شيء جوهرًا كان أو عرضًا و تفارق النوع فإن هذا قد يقال للجنس الأعلى.

الحكمة المتعالية في الاسفار العقلية الاربعة، ج ٥، ص ٣١٤

و ربما قيل صورة للمعقولات المفارقة للمادة و الصورة المأخوذة إحدى المبادي - هي بالقياس إلى المركب منها و من المادة أنها جزء له توجهه بالفعل في مثله و المادة جزء لا يوجهه بالفعل و أما تقويم الصورة للمادة فعلى نوع آخر و العلة الصورية قد تكون بالقياس إلى الصنف و هي الصورة التي تقوم المادة التي قد قامت دونها نوعا و هي طار عليها كصورة الشكل للسريـر و البياض بالقياس إلى جسم أبيض.

أقول جميع ما جعل المادة مقيسة إليه بنسبة المقبول كالاجتماع و التركيب و غيرهما فهي في الحقيقة صور محصلة للمادة ضربا من التحصيل و مقومة لماهية نوعية مركبة من تلك المادة و وصف الاجتماع مثلا أو وصف التركيب أو وصف الاستحالة فالنوع الحاصل منهما هو ماهية المجتمع مثلا أو ماهية المستحيل و إن لم يكن النوع نوعا جوهريا و لا الصورة صورة جوهرية و كذا جميع ما عدده أنه مما أطلق عليه لفظ الصورة فهي مشتركة في معنى الصورة التي عدت من المبادي للوجود أو للقوام سواء كانت جواهر أو أعراضا و سواء كانت بالقياس إلى النوع أو الصنف.

إذ كل منهما يحصل بمادة ما من المواد نحوا من التحصيل و يقوم للمركب المأخوذ منهما ضربا من التقويم لكن الأشياء مختلفة في أنحاء الوجود و التحصل - قوة و ضعفا و الوحدة كما علمت عين الوجود فما قوي وجوده كانت وحدته

قوية بعيدة عن الكثرة بل عن قوة الكثرة أيضا و ما ضعف وجوده ضعف وحدته حتى تصير وحدة مجامعة للكثرة أو لقوة الكثرة بوجه آخر.

